CONSALVI DVRANTI
PRESBYTERI AD LECTOREM PRAEFATIO.

STATVERAM hoc ipso initio (lector humanissime) commentum tuum meum aperire, quod me adhuc hoc reuelationes corrigendas, & nouis illustrandas impulerat, sed satis illud tibi puto innotescet, si longa verborum ambage prætermissa, quod offero tibi operis præstantiam & vtilitatem vel adumbraucro. Illud enim erat, vt si paucorum teneretur manibus, quod hactenus excidit, non id fieret sine magnorum tatus dispendio, vel si delitesceret in tenebris, non infimæ notæ virorum iudicio explodendum, & si Deo placet, contemnendum videretur, hoc non sine maxima Christianæ Reipublicæ iactura. Emergit ergo iterum maximo totorum omnibus emolumento, quod omnibus delitescens maximam videbatur afferre incommodum, vt quod exponit quicquid ad omnem omnium hominum vtilitatem, omnium gratulatione, ac plausu excipiatur gratius, & illustrius. Neq; vero hoc vnquam, vt vnius, aut alterius viri docti non dicam fatus, sed acre plus equo iudicium illud mihi esset, quod singularis præpotentis Dei benignitas, comprobante vniuersa Ecclesia consensione, ad omnium commodum, & emolumentum elargita est. Viuent igitur diuina hæc diuini prope ingenij monumenta, atq; ita viuent, vt quæ non initium ab humanarum scripturarum tenuitate ceperint, sed quæ ab vberrimo diuinæ sapientiæ fonte deriuerint ortum, interitum nescitura, ad omnem posteritatem transmittantur. Illud tamen inuenerim, non hic tibi verborum delectum, & ornatum quærendum, oratorum hoc proprium, & rethorum, qui animorum arcem inanium verborum lenocinio facilius magis, quam inuadant: diuini Spiritus hic tibi vis, quæ nihil phaleratæ pompam orationis ad speciem, quam ad rem aptiorem faciat, hinc nos in notis illam sermonis simplicitatem, non pari fœlicitate, certe non vlquequaque impari studio, ac diligentia seruare prætermisimus, ne te hoc etiam lateat, ea omnia, quæ ipso initio huius operis nomine Memorialis effigiari conspiciebantur, neq; idcirco reiecimus omnino, sed quoniam singulorum librorum complectebantur argumentum, satis duximus, si ea in suas quasi partes distributa, singulis libris præmitteremus; quod vero facit ad ipsum cõtextum, illũ tibi exhibemus si non emendatissimum, certe emendatiorem, ad mille ferè loca, quæ in vulgatis codicibus depravata habebantur emendauimus, ac restituimus, idque ope duorum M. S. codicum, vnius præsertim emendatissimi, qui in Farnesiana Bibliotheca asseruatur, cui multis ego abhinc annis Illustrissimi Odoardi Farnesij munificentia, ac liberalitate præsum. si quæ autem occurrent loca, quæ nostra, vel lima, vel explicatione indiguerunt, ea numeris quibusdam ad marginem hac nota assignauimus (Var. lect.) quæ etiam ad cuiusque capitis finem reiecimus, vbi eadem habes emendata, & explicata. Sed quoniam vel impressorum incuria, vel eorum vitio, qui nobis hos libros vernacula S. Brigittæ lingua conscriptos in latium transtulerunt factum existimo, vt non pauca, vel obscura, vel pugnantia prima fronte cum Theologorũ placitis irrepserint, nostrum esse duximus corrupta M. S. codicũ ope restituere, & obscura declarare. Illud postremo scias, fuisse nobis in animo præfigere hisce reuelationibus opusculum de diuinis visionibus, & reuelationibus, quod absolutum in opportunius adhuc tempus premimus: in quo illud præter cætera, quæ ad horum librorum sensum hauriendum facere poterant emolumenti, quod in eo omnes quot quot occurrent voces obscuræ, quæ passim in his reuelationibus habentur, ad omnium captum explicantur; sed passi sumus illud adhuc in tenebris consenescere, non ad obliuionẽ, & interitũ, sed quoniam vel morbo difficili ſcili impediti non plura audemus, vel quia ſperamus propediem proditurum, & acutius, & illuſtrius. Placuit etiam quędam hic loca adſcribere, quæ omiſſa, neque enim omnia omnes pati videbantur obſcuritatem explicata igitur offerimus.

1 Lib. 1. cap. 10. col. 1. Ego quæ aſtabam propinquius, &c.

SErmo ſit hoc loco de Chriſto flagellis cęſo, cuius columnæ dicitur Maria cæteris propinquius adſtitiſſe, cogitatione, & mente puto, nō corpore, vt ſomniauit Interpres, neq; putes dum etiā hic legis, quaſi mortuam cecidiſſe Mariam, indignum aliquid perpeſſam, ſed magis fuiſſe doloris gladio tranſuerberatam iuxta Simeonis prophetiam, & tuam ipſius animam pertranſibit gladius, lege quæ attulimus lib. 4. reuelat. cap. 70. nota 3.

IOannem Euangeliſtam fuiſſe Chriſti ſororium colligitur ex S. Ignatio Martire, qui Epiſtola 1. ad S. Ioannem ab Echio relata, ſerm. 1. de S. Anna ſic habet, ipſa enim Salome quam diligit, filia Annæ, at Salome Matrem fuiſſe Ioannis fatentur omnes, ſic Chriſoſt. Hieronymus, & Maldonatus, & alii plures, Mater inquiunt Ioannis eſt filia Annæ, cuius etiam filia fuit Sanctiſſima Virgo, ergo luce clarius, Ioannem fuiſſe ſororium Chriſti, qui ex Matris ſorore eſt natus. Idem confirmat Bernard. de lament. Virg. vbi Ioannem Virginis nepotem vocat, probat hoc D. Thomas quodlib. 4. art. 15. arg. 2. quo loco conſanguineum Chriſti vocat Ioannem. Abulenſis cap. 10. in Matt. q. 54. §. 3. & infra ſæpius, & cap. 22. q. 115. §. ad ſecundum, in eadem ſententia eſt Albertus Magnus in cap. 19. Ioan. Vincentius in ſpeculo Hiſtoriali Cornelius Meſſus in Symbol. Concione 13. par. 2. D. Bonauent. cap. 78. medit. Beda præfat. in Ioann. Hiſtoria Scholaſt. cap. 47. & inter recentiores ſequitur Coſterus medit. 25. de Chriſti paſſ. Arias Montanus in lib. de Monumentis humanæ ſalutis Ode 33. Surius eandem ſententiam tuetur. mitto alios ſexcentos, vt gloſ. ad Galat. cap. 1. D. Antoninum p. p. in Hiſt. Lodulphum, Gerſonem, & ſolum Echium addā, qui loco citato habet repugnare Sanctis Patribus, & Eccleſiæ, ipſiq; ſcripturæ, qui negant Ioannem fuiſſe Chriſti conſobrinum, quod vtinam probaſſet, dubitandi enim locum omnem ademiſſet.

DVbitari hic merito poſſet, ſi ea omnia, quæ ibi narrantur acciderant, Chriſtum Ieſum poſt eorum prolationem verborum, in manus tuas etc. non ſtatim obiiſſe, reclamante auctoritate S. Lucæ qui cap. 23. habet eum poſt hæc verba expiraſſe, ſed primo ſcito interpretem Dominicæ paſſionis Hiſtoriam non continuaſſe, ſed quodam quaſi Epilogo, ea quæ ſupra narrauerat concluſiſſe, ac iis verbis dupplicem innuere voluit affectum, vocis vnum, cum refert Dominum clamaſſe, Pater in manus &c. corporis alterum ob imminentem mortem dum dicit, os eius apertum, linguam conſperſam ſanguine &c. Adde 2. poſt ea verba in manus, aliqualem interceſſiſſe morulam, iuxta ea, quæ ſcribit Ioan. cap. 19. & inclinato capite. capitis videlicet inclinationem. Adde 3. cum Euthumio cap. 67. in Matt. 27. textum grecum habere commendabo ſpiritum meum, rationem ipſe ſubdit, quia videlicet Chriſtus non ſtatim expirauit, nunquid eſt contra ea, quæ habet S. Lucas, dum enim refert hæc dicens expirauit, ſignificat non magnum temporis ſpatium, aliquod tamen interceſſiſſe.

NOn hic ſermo de ea capitis inclinatione, quæ mortem præceſſit Ioan. 19. Sed de ea, quę mortem conſequuta eſt, ſicut enim cętera membra, vt hic etiam conſtat, deorſum tendebant, ſic de capite affirmandum, niſi dicere velis allucinatum interpretem, & vertere debuiſſe, antequā traderet ſpiritum, lib. tamen ſeptimo cap. 15. ad finem, vbi etiam de Chriſti Domini paſſione agitur optime vertit, & inclinato capite tradidit ſpiritum.

MEntitur hic Dęmon cū ait ſibi notas eſſe internas quaslibet cogitationes, eas enim tantummodo aſſequitur, quę externo aliquo ſigno ſibi innoteſcunt, immo coram Deo mentitur, nec mirū, idē auſus cum in B. Iob exarſit, innuens illis verbis, nunquid Iob fruſtra Deū timet &c. B. Iob Dei ſe famulatui mancipaſſe fluxarum opum cupiditate illectus, ita origines lib. 5. in Iob. Gloſſ. Lyranus Didacus ſtella, & alij in cap. citatum Iob.

6 Lib. 1. cap. 39. Lapſus hic interpres, qui putauit fidem, & ſpem in Chriſto fuiſſe, vt habitus ſint Theologici, vt enim ibi in Notis probauimus repugnant hi habitus, vt ſic Chriſto, qui

HAec, quæ hoc loco ſcripta ſunt, non indicant, filium in diuinis a Patre non procedere, ſed quod Chriſtus Deus ſit eſſentialiter, & ſubſtantialiter, ſibiq; humanitatem vniuerit non per modum accidentis.

SIc o lector, non agi hic de Indulgentijs, ſed de his, quæ ad indulgentias conſequendas iniungantur, vt ex textu colligitur, & hæc ſunt ieiunium, eleemoſyna, & alia huiuſmodi, quæ ad obtinendam contritionem proficua ſunt.

IN præſenti loco ſermo ſit de his, qui indigne ad ſacroſanctum Altaris Sacramentum ſuſcipiendum accedunt, & ibi præcipuè Sacerdotes malos Chriſtus redarguit, a quibus dicit receſſiſſe cum deitate, & humanitate, quod intelligendum, non quod malus Sacerdos cum indigne celebrat, & ſumit Sacramentum, deſinat Chriſtus eſſe ſub Sacramentalibus ſpeciebus, & vere non conficiat, ſed quod ab ipſo recedat per gratiam, quatenus indigno effectum Sacramentalem denegat, qui eſt ſpiritualis refectio &c. & dicitur hic deſinere, & recedere cum humanitate, & diuinitate, quia cum neutro Chriſtus ad Sacramentalem effectum indigno conferendum concurrit, vt fusè probauimus lib. 1. cap. 47. nota 5.

INCIPIT.

IOANNES miſe ratione diuina ſacroſanctæ Romanæ Eccleſiæ, tituli Sanctæ Mariæ Tranſtiberim quondam S. Sixti presbyter Cardinalis, omnibus, & ſingulis Chriſtifidem profitentibus. Salutem in Domino, qui omnium eſt vera ſalus, & vita. Rogati deuota cum inſtantia, per venerabiles, & religioſos fratres. Magnum vnionis artium magiſtrum, Sacræ Theologiæ baccalarium, & monaſterij Sanctarum Mariæ Virginis, & Brigittæ de Vuatzſteno Ord. S. Auguſtini Sancti Saluatoris nuncupati dioceſis Lincopenſis in Regno Suetiæ generalem confeſſorem. Et Olauum Petri monaſterij prædicti fratrem conuentualem pro parte monaſterij, & ordinis prædictorum, vt veritati teſtimonium perhiberemus quatenus infraſcriptas expoſitiones, & declarationes ſuper nonnullis articulis de libris reuelationum B. Brigittæ ſumptis, & extractis, quorum aliquos nonnulli tanquam erroneos in Baſilien. concilio improbare nitebantur fuiſſe a nobis ediras atteſtari dignaremur. Quoniam igitur, vt inquit Auguſtinus, vterque reus eſt, & qui veritatẽ occultat, & qui mendacium dicit, quia ille prodeſſe non vult, & iſte nocere deſiderat. Rationabilibus præfatorum patrum votis, annuentes dicimus, & atteſtamur per preſentes, quod antequam ad Cardinalatus dignitatem promoueremur, exiſtẽtes adhuc in Baſilien. concilio. Videlicet Anno Domini Incarnationis 1435. Sacri Palatij Apoſtolici magiſter. Et vnus ex ſacræ Theologiæ profeſſoribus per ipſum concilium deputatus, ad examen præfatorum articulorum, ſcilicet & an in libris reuelationum præfatæ D. Sanctæ Brigittæ, vt per plures emulos affirmabatur aliquid contra ſcripturam ſacram, & ſanctorum doctorũ doctrinam, vel bonos mores contineretur, aliqua ve ex parte offenderet, zelo veritatis, & honoris S. Brigittæ intenſi de omnipotentis Dei confiſi clementia, omnes prædictarum reuelationum libros ſtudioſe, & diligenter perlegimus, & iuxta nobis deſuper datam gratiam, & ſenſus noſtri paruitatem, & temporis breuitatem, expoſitiones & declarationes aliquas ſuper aliquibus præfatis articulis proteſtationibus ſolitis tamen præſuppoſitis, prout infra ſequuntur edidimus premittentes aliqua, quibus diuinæ reuelationes diſcerni poſſunt a dæmonũ deceptionibus. In quorum omnium fidem ſcripturam ſequentem propria manu, & noſtro magno ſigillo duximus roborandã.

VEnerabilibus patribus, & religioſis viris fratribus Ordinis Sancti Saluatoris Geruino Petri, confeſſori generali monaſterij Vuatzſtenen. in regno Suetiæ, & Achoni Ioannis præfati monaſterij fratri conuentuali, frater Ioannes de Turrecremata, ſacræ Theologiæ profeſſor, Sacri Apoſtolici Palatij magiſter, ſalutem, & inſtitutricis veſtræ B. Brigittæ Sanctæ religionis ſequi veſtigia. Elapſis quidem diebus, quibus quorundam articulorum reuelationum S. Brigittæ matris veſtræ, & inſtitutricis veſtri ordinis coram iudice fidei, & deputatis quibuſdam magiſtris, & doctoribus examinabatur materia, placuit charitati veſtræ me multiplicatis precibus exhortari, vt vigilanti cura, & accurato ſtudio inneo dere vellem inter alios reuerendos magiſtros, qui pari ſtudio eidem operi intenti erant ad videndum, ſcilicet & examinandũ, an præfati articuli, ſicut per nonnullos emulos veſtros, vt dicebatis aſſerebamur aliquid contra Sacram ſcripturam, aut ſanctorum rum doctorum doctrinam, aut quod bonos mores offenderet contineret. Et ecce charissimi patres quanquã res ista exigeret, & longum tẽpus, & virum, qui intelligationis acumine perspicacior inueniendi arte peritior, atq; sapientię copia locupletior esset, vestra tamen affectuosa precamina vestris molestijs ex corde cõpatiens, & deuote suscipiens de omnipotentis Dei, qui a sapientibus sapiẽtiæ suæ profunda abscõdere, & parvulis ea reuelare dignatur, assistentia virtutis confisus, & nõ mediocriter de pio patrocinio B. Brigittæ cuius ergo igitur, & prolixius honore hic labor assumitur confortatus animum placuit accommodare studio, & videre iuxta crediti mihi desuper ingenij vires an prætati articuli nobis presentati possent sustineri fide catholica vera & ab ea doctrina sanctorum doctorum minaria; quid autem mihi visum fuerit subsequentibus iuxta mee sensus tenuitatem, & celeriter vt vos ipsi scitis annotaui. Protestor tamen in omnibus hic dictis sicut semper in cunctis actibus, & scriptis meis instar boni catholici, si quod non est intentionis mee aliquid dicere, immo indebito non dicere, aut asserere, aut pertinaciter defendere, quod sit contra sacram scripturam, aut determinationem vniuersalis Ecclesie, aut in nostra doctrinam sanctorum doctorum approbatam, aut etiam piarum aurium esset offensiuum, omnia quæ scripsi submittens correctioni, & iudicio huius sanctæ, & vniuersalis synodi Basilien sis.

DIxerunt Iudith Ozias, & presbyteri, Omnia quæ loquuta es vera sunt, & non est in sermonibus tuis vlla reprehensio; nunc ergo ora pro nobis, quoniam tu mulier sancta es, & timens Deum, Iudith. cap. 8. Ista quippe verba quę secundum sensum literalem dicta legũntur ab Ozia Principe, & presbyteris populi Israel, illi sancte, & famosissime vidue Iudith in commendationem virtutis, & sanctitatis eius, & in testimoniũ veritatis sermonũ, quos diuini numinis gratia illustrata, & inspirata loquuta fuisse creditur, possunt conuenientissime secundum allegoricam intelligentiam adaptari gloriosæ, ac famosissime nobili vidue S. Brigittę de Regno Suetię ex parte Principis ecclesię videlicet Summi Pontificis, & Dominorum Prelatorum, ac aliorum virorum Ecclesiasticorum sciencia, & auctoritate insignium, qui articulos eius examinantes, & omnibus pio studio decursis, & intellectis nihil quod sacrę scripture aduersum, aut bonis moribus sic inuenientes, testimonium dantes veritati dicere intelligantur verba proposita, scilicet. Omnia quę loquuta es vera sunt, & non est in sermonibus tuis vlla reprehensio. Nunc ergo ora pro nobis, quoniam tu mulier sancta es, & timens Deum. In quibus quidem verbis quinq; notatur, per quæ arguitur, & ostenditur verisimiliter, quod reuelationes illorum B. Brigittæ a spiritu diuino emanauerunt, & processerunt, per quæ easquam per signa cognosci, & discerni solitæ sunt reuelationes, quæ a spiritu veritatis inspirantur, & diuino superinfundũtur lumine. A reuelationibus, quæ a spiritu mendacij, & diabolica illusione administrantur, & suggeruntur. Quæ sequendo ordinem partium thematis sunt ista. Primum signum est, quando iudicio magnorum virorum, & expertorum approbatur. Secundum sumitur ex parte effectus, qui ex reuelationum animo eius personæ cui fit relinquitur, quando scilicet in ea deuotionis, & humilitatis præcipue, & gloriæ Dei ex huiusmodi reuelationibus profectus augetur. Tertium est ex parte materiæ, quando in omnibus dictis eius reperitur veritas. Quartum ex parte formæ est conformitas ad Sacram scripturam. Quintum ex parte personæ est approbata sanctitas. Primum horum secundum approbantium gravitas auctoritatis notatur ibi. Dixerunt Ozias, & presbyteri. Secundum scilicet effectus reuelationis qui est profunditas humilitatis ibi. Iudith quæ interpretatur confitens, & glorificans Deum. Tertium scilicet materiæ sinceritas veritatis ibi. Omnia quæ loquuta es vera sunt. Quartum ex parte formæ, scilicet gratitudo conformitatis, ibi.

PROLOGVS CARDINALIS.

Non eſt in ſermonibus tuis vlla reprehenſio. Quintum, quod ex parte circumſtantiæ ipſius perſonæ eſt euidentia ſanctitatis, ibi. Nunc ergo ora pro nobis, quoniam tu vir ſanctus es, & timens Deum. Et quoniam ex iſtis ſumenda ſunt argumenta præcipua & teſtimonia veritatis, quibus libri reuelationum S. Brigittæ ſint diuino ſpiritu inſpirati. De ſingulis iſtis per ſingula capitula dignum iudicaui eſſe protendendu ſermonem. Iuxta ergo quinque ſigna, quibus diſcernuntur reuelationes diuinæ a diaboli cis quinque erunt capitula, ex quibus quinque formabuntur rationes oſtendentes verisimiliter reuelationes contentas in libris Beatæ Brigittæ a diuino ſpiritu veraciter emanaſſe.

PRimum capitulum in quo ponitur primum ſignum, & primum argumentum diſcernendi reuelationes diuinas a diaboli cis deceptionibus inter alia ſigna, quæ doctores Sancti, & ſacræ Theologiæ profeſſores dedere ad cognoſcendum veriſimiliter, quæ reuelationes dicendæ ſint ſpiritus boni, & quæ ab illuſione ſpiritus mali proceſſerunt, ex hoc iuxta ordinem partium thematis primum nomino, videlicet quando graues, & experti ſapientes ſpirituales viri ita iudicant. Sane ſi eorum iudicio approbantur tales, ſignum eſt, quod tales veriſimiliter a Deo inſpiratæ ſint, licet ab inſipientibus, & carnalibus hominibus, qui non niſi carnalia ſapiunt, aliter iudicentur cum dicat Apoſt. 1. Cor. 2. Animalis homo nõ percipit ea, quę ſunt ſpiritus Dei, ſtultitia enim eſt illi, & non poteſt intelligere, quia ſpiritualiter examinantur, ſpiritualis autem iudicat omnia. Gloſa, ideſt, intelligit, & diſcernit. Et Bern. loquens de ſigno iſto ait, Ea cogitatio, quę pudica videtur, nec ad vitia trahit aperte, tunc diuinum à Deo nouerit eſſe ſi pacifica ſit, ſi prælati tui, ac ſpirituũ fratrum tuorum approbetur iudicio. Hac ratione Paulus mittitur ad Ananiam, ſic Cornelius dirigitur per Petrum, ſic Eunuchus inſtruitur per Philippum. Hac inſuper ex cauſa in libro collationum ſanctorum patrum approbationem, & iudicium ſpiritualium virorum edocemur requirere. Vnde Abbas Moyſes ita de hoc loquitur. Nullatenus enim inquit decipi quiſquam poteſt, qui non ſuo iudicio, ſed maiorum viuit exemplo, nec valebit ignorantiæ eius callidus hoſtis illudere, qui vniuerſas cogitationes cordę naſcentes perniciosa verecundia neſcit obtegere, ſed eas maturo examine ſeniorum, vel reprobat, vel admittit, illico namque vt patefacta fuerit cogitatio maligna macreſcit, & antequam iudicium diſcretionis proferatur ſerpens retrorſum vertit a tenebroſo ſubterraneo ſpecu ſtrepitu confeſſionis protractus ad lucem, & eraductus quodammodo, ac dehoneſtatus abſcedit. Tamdiu enim ſuggeſtiones noxię dominantur in nobis, quamdiu celantur in corde. Hæc ille Moyſes, Circa quod ſignum notandum, quod præcipuum veritatis reuelationis hoc eſſe dicitur, quãdo nedum grauiſſimorum patrum intelligentia, & experientia magnorum, ſed etiam ſummi Pontificis iudicio approbantur. dicit enim Hier. & ponitur. 24. q. 1. Hæc eſt fides Papa beatiſſime, quam in Eccleſia catholica didicimus, quamque ſemper tenuimus, in qua ſi minus perite, aut parum apte aliquid poſitum eſt emendari cupimus a te, qui Petri, & ſedem tenes, & fidem, ſi autem hæc noſtra confeſſio Apoſtolatus tui iudicio comprobetur, quicunq; me culpare voluerit, ſe imperitum, aut malevolum, vel etiam non catholicum, ſed hæreticum comprobabit. Ex quo ſigno efficaciſſimum videtur accipi argumẽtum, quod reuelationes Beatæ Brigittæ a Dei ſpiritu ſint inſpiratæ cum magnorum virorum, & etiam Summi Pontificis iudicio approbatæ videantur. Pro quo notandum quod reuelationes iſte duplici tempore inueniuntur examinatæ, viuente ſcilicet ipſa Beata Brigitta, ſecundo poſt mortem eius. In vita quidem, nam cum ipſa leuis non eſſet ad cito credendum reuelationibus, cũ primo huiuſmodi reuelationes inciperet habere, & vidiſſet nubem lucidam, audiſſetq; vocem quaſi hominis dicentem. Mulier audi me ipſa timens illudi ab Angelo ſathanæ, mox confeſſorem adijt quendam deuotiſſimum, & approbatiſſimæ vitæ virum magiſtrum Matthiam de Suetia Sacræ Theologiæ profeſſorem egregium, qui ſuper totam bibliam ſcripſit. Hic in talibus non ignarus ei ieiunia, & orationes indixit, & alia exercitia ſpiritualia, & confeſſione eius audita, eam Sacramento Corporis Chriſti communicauit. Dumq; talibus inſiſtens ſimilem iterum viſionem haberet, ipſa denuo de conſilio dicti magiſtri orationes, & alia bona adauxit. Et tunc tertio ſimiliter vidit nubem, & in nube ſimilitudinem Chriſti filij Dei. Et audiuit vocem. Mulier audi me, Ego ſum Deus tuus, qui tecum loqui volo, noli timere. Ego ſum omnium conditor non deceptor. Non loquor tecum propter te ſolam, ſed propter ſalutem aliorum. Dum autem reuelationes huiuſmodi multiplicarentur, ipſa non cõtenta, reuelationes ipſas multis ſpiritualibus aliis viris in omni ſcientia peritiſſimis, & præcipue iuxta mandatũ Domini. Deuter. 17. precipientis ambigua iudicia referri ad Sacerdotes Prelatis Ecclesiæ maioribus reuelare curauit. vnde D. Archiepiscopo Vspalen. & aliis tribus Episcopis, & Abbati cuidam religiosissimo tunc Romæ existentibus. Et Domino Alphonso olim Episcopo Giennen. humiliter, & reuerenter exposuit. Qui super his matura deliberatione, & tractatu habito, eas non a deceptore spiritu, sed a Spiritu sancto procedere concorditer concluserunt. Idem per multos alios viros eximios harum reuelationum examine accurato prehabito iudicatum est, vt ex multis locis colligitur, in quibus actus, & vita eius describuntur a quibus breuitatis causa supersedere curaui. Demum secundo post mortem datæ sunt huiusmodi reuelationes examini, & tam sapientum virorum, quam Summorum Pontificum iudicio approbate videntur. Pro quo notandum, quod Anno Domini 1377. post obitum B. Brigittæ reuelationes cœlestes eidem diuinitus factæ in pluribus voluminibus conscriptæ, vt sic commodius a pluribus, & conspici, & examinari possent, præsentatæ fuerunt Sanctissimo Patri Domino Gregorio XI. per manus venerabilium personarum D. Catherinæ natę B. Brigittæ, fratris Petri Prioris Aluastri. Et Domini Petri Olaui confessoris præfatæ Dominæ Brigittæ. Qui Summus Pontifex sine dilatione eas assignauit, & commisit examinandas circunspectissimis, & peritissimis viris, & Dominis Cardinalibus, & magistris in Sacra Theologia hic subsequenter insertis, videlicet, Cardinali Montis maioris, Cardinali de Agrisolio, & Cardinali de Luna. Item Domino Martino de Salua Doctori vtriusque iuris, & Archiepiscopo Pampilonen. referendario suo. Item magistro Sacri Palatij Ordinis Fratrum Prædicatorum, magistro in Theologia. Item magistro Ioanni de Hispania, magistro in sacra pagina, qui fecit coram ipso Papa Gregorio in Consistorio Generali præsente Collegio Cardinalitũ, & vniuerso Clero curiæ Romanæ primam propositionem super Canonizatione Beatæ Brigittæ. Item venerabili Patri Domino Alphonso quondam Episcopo Giennensi. Quibus inspectis, & cum omni diligentia sæpius transcursis, attenteq; intellectis cũ nihil in eis reperiri potuit reprobum, aut suspectum, aut orthodoxæ nostræ fidei dissonum, vel aduersum, sed totum quicquid in eis continebatur Domini extitit veritate conspicuum, & sanctitate præclarum, plenum, perlucidum, ac perfectum. Verum, quia processus Canonizationis supradictæ Dominę Brigittæ sub eodem Papa Gregorio inceperat, quam tamẽ ipse morte præuentus non est permissus exequutioni condigne demandare, cum plura sint de iure requisita ad huiusmodi executionẽ plenariam impendendam, quæ non parui temporis tractum expostulant. Ideo totum negocium ipsius Canonizationis quasi exordialiter initiandum, & cõsequenter actum examen prædictarum reuelationum ad Vrbanum VI. successorem immediatum ipsius Gregorij extitit deuolutum. Sub anno Domini 1379. Veruntamen non ex eo, quod initiata, siue attemptata, & acta per Gregorium forent inania, seu irrita, vel minus fidedigna, sed quia natura processus, seu debitę consecutionis canonizationis propter commissarios, quibus ad integrum constare debuit, & decuit primordialiter de gestis, & vita prænominatæ D. Brigittæ rite sic exegit vt fieret. Ideoq; sunt iterato ipsę reuelationes ad manus Vrbani præsentatæ per præfatas venerabiles personas Dominam Catherinam, fratrem Petrum Priorem de Aluastra, fratrem enim Andreę, & magnum Petri primum confessorem Vvatzsten. quas ipse Papa Vrbanus commisit valentissimis viris magnis mundi luminaribus Dominis Cardinalibus suis, & magistris in Theologia subsequenter hic in scriptis, Cardinali Corsiensi, Cardinali de Anglia, Cardinali de Vrsinis fratri Domini Latini Nobilis Romani, Cardinali Ianuensi, & Cardinali de Manu pelle. Item Episcopo Vrbeuetano magistro in Theologia, qui fecit propositionem secundam super canonizatione Dominæ Beatæ Brigittæ presente Papa Vrbano in consistorio publico. Item Domino Ioanni de Lignano excellentissimo, vtriusque iuris doctori. Item Domino Ioanni de Basilea magistro in sacra pagina. Item D. Alphonso quondam Episcopo Giennen. qui fecit Epistolam super librum ad reges. Item magistro Augustino de Roma Ordinis Sancti Augustini magistro in Theologia. Item magistro Matthæo de Cracouia, qui fecit quartam propositionem super canonizatione coram eodem Papa Vrbano. Item Domino Ludouico licenciato in vtroq; iure, & pluribus alijs, qui causa vitandæ prolixitatis hic non inseruntur. Qua quidem commissione vt præmittitur facta, & diligenti examinatione earum per omnem modum, vt est superius expressum per ipsos commissarios attentissime habita demum, vt fieri oportuit ad aures Domini Papæ relatione subsequuta, iterum ab ipso Vrbano sicut a Gregorio prędecessore suo compertæ sunt esse autentice, atque veritate plene, & a Dei spiritu veraciter citer edoctæ. Necnon ad vtilitatem legentium, seu audientium pro saluberrimo fidelium dogmatæ in Sancta Ecclesia Dei in perpetuum cum deuotione, & reuerentia studiosius obseruandæ. Quamobrem plures Principes, & nobiles Romam venientes, & alij suos nuncios mittentes pro libris reuelationũ habendis, quos post quam eos instanter petiuerant in propriis suis sumptibus cum exquisita diligentia scribi fecerunt. Inter quos isti notabiliter erãt infrascripti. Dominus Episcopus Vuormacien. fecit vnum librum scribi Romæ, quẽ depertauit ad Imperatorem Frater Petrus de Aragonia Ordinis Fratrum minorum consanguineus Regis Franciæ secundum, quem detulit in Franciam. Nuncius Reginę Castellæ de Hispania tertium. Nuncius Reginæ Cypri quartum. Nuncius Reginæ Ceciliæ quintum. Nuncius studij Pragen. sextum, frater Petrus de Burgundia Ordinis Minorum Theologus maximus septimum. Nuncius cruciferorum de Prussia octauum. Romani Ianuenses, Vuratislanienses, ac plurimæ aliæ ciuitates, & regnorum nobiles libros istarum sanctarum reuelationum pro se scribi fecerunt Romæ. Hæc in registro circa canonizationem Sanctę Brigittæ gestorum scripta sunt. Cui consonat litera canonizationis eiusdem Sanctę Brigittę per Bonifacium nonum data, vbi sic dicitur. Nos qui pro iniuncto ministerij pastoralis officio sumus sapientibus, & insipientibus debitores per ea, quæ tam de felicis recor. Gregorij XI. & Vrbani VI. Romanorum Pontificum prædecessorum nostrorum quã nostro mandato super his habita sunt de veritate præmissorum per testes idoneos, & alias probationes legitimas certius informati, eisq; veris compertis, &c. Et in eadem litera reuelationes eiusdem Sanctæ allegando approbat. Nam ibi sic habetur. Hæc generosa vidua per gratiam Sancti spiritus promeruit multis eorum cogitationes, & affectiones intimas, & gesta secretissima propalare, & visiones, ac reuelationes varias videre, & audire, ac spiritu prophetico multa predicere, quorum nonnulla effectu completa fuere, prout hæc, & alia in eius reuelationum volumine plenissime describuntur. Bene ergo dicitur, quod Oziæ, idest Dominus Apostolicus, & presbyteri, scilicet Prælati dixerunt Iudith, idest Sanctæ Brigittæ. Omnia quæ loquuta es, vera sunt. Et illud 1. Reg. 17. Verbum quidẽ Domini in ore tuo verum est. Et hoc de primo signo, & argumento primo.

AMplius autem secundum signum, & secundum argumentum quo discerni possunt reuelationes diuinæ a reuelationibus diabolicis sumitur ex parte effectus, quem reuelatio in animo cui fit reuelatio efficit, & operatur, Reuelatio quidem diuina hominem efficit humilem, flexibilem, & disciplinatum, & ideo dicitur Prouerb. 3. Cum simplicibus est sermocinatio Dei. Et Prouerb. 11. vbi sapientia, ibi humilitas. Spiritus vero diabolicus superbum reddit animum tumidum, præsumptuosum, & pertinacem. Qualis enim vnusquisque est talia operatur, vt trahitur ex Bernardo super psalm. Qui habitat. Ex quo signo efficax capitur argumẽtum, quod reuelationes B. Brigittæ factæ fuerant ei a Spiritu sancto ministratæ. Multiplices enim effectus spiritualium virtutum ex huiusmodi diuino iubare cœlestium reuelationum in eius animo consurgebant, vt pote virtus humilitatis profundæ, sapor internæ dulcedinis, & flamma Diuini amoris. Humilitas quidem quoniam huiusmodi reuelationum cœlesti lumine perfusa non extollebatur, non se iactabat, non laudes humanas quęrebat, sed maiori continue profundebatur humilitate sub obedientia regimine, & disciplina patris spiritualis viuebat. Nihilque eorum, quę sibi reuelabantur pertinaciter asserens, siue credens. Omnia examini iudicio, & correctioni patris spiritualis, & aliorum spiritualium patrum, & sapientum prælatorum Ecclesiæ offerens humiliter submittebat, vnde tantæ humilitatis effecta erat, vt tam indignam, & peccatricem se reputaret, quod in oratione tæpe loquendo Christo quasi de eo stupendo admiraba tur, & quodãmodo eum redarguebat, quod eam tam indignam ad videndum visiones diuinas, & audiendum, & scribendum sanctissima eius verba ipse sibi eam elegerat, vt patet in 4. libro, cap. 77. & sexto libro cap. 52. & in secundo libro, cap. 18. cum multis similibus. Vnde libro sexto, cap. 52. ita dicitur in rubrica. Admirante sponsa, & indignam se reputante coram Christo de ista gratia sibi data, videndi, & audiendi in ſpiritu &c. Cęterum ſecundo in huiuſmodi reuelationibus, & viſionibus, non ſolum eius animus diuina irradiabatur illuſtratione, verumetiam ſapore quodam interne dulcedinis afficiebatur, & diuini amoris incendio vehementius inflammabatur, ſicut patet ex multis locis ſuorum librorum, de quo modo dicit Beatus Gregorius. Cum Deus per ſemetipſum animæ loquitur, ſola in nobis vis internæ inſpirationis aperitur, quia virtus eius intima quadam dulciſſima ſubleuatione cognoſcitur. Vnde merito iſta Glorioſa Vidua Brigitta deſignatur per Iudith, quæ cõfitens, & glorificans Deum interpretatur. Hæc enim quanto altiori lumine, & copioſiore diuinæ illuſtratione ſplendore eleuabatur, tanto profundioris humilitatis effecta confitebatur Deum Patrem luminum a quo eſt omne datum optimum, & omne donum perfectum deſcendit, & laudibus glorificabat, & benedicebat continuis.

CAPITVLVM TERTIVM in quo ponitur tertium ſignum, & tertium argumentum, quo diſcernuntur diuinæ reuelationes a diabolicis.

CAeterum tertium ſignum, & tertium argumentum, quo reuelationes ſpiritus ſancti a reuelationibus ſpiritus diabolici diſtinguũtur, eſt puritas, & integritas veritatis eorũ quæ reuelantur. Quando enim reuelationes per totum continent veritatem ſine admixtione alicuius falſitatis, non dubiũ, quin ſint a Spiritu ſancto, qui doctor, & inſpirator eſt veritatis. Quando vero habent falſitatem, aut errores admixtos, non a ſpiritu Dei, ſed diabolico procedere dignoſcuntur. Diabolus enim, qui pater mendacij, & doctor errorum eſt. in illuſionibus ſuis interdum dicit vera vt decipiat & aliquando falſa, ſed ſpiritus ſanctus ſemper vera, & nunquam falſa prędicit, de quo ſigno Beatus Thomas in ſecunda ſecundæ quæſt. 172. art. 5. dicit. In aliquibus ſignis etiam exterioribus prophetia dæmonum diſcerni poteſt a prophetia diuina. Vnde dicit Chriſoſtomus ſuper Matthęum. Prophetant in ſpiritu diaboli quales ſunt diuinatores, ſed ſic diſcernitur, quoniam diabolus interdum falſum dicit, Spiritus ſanctus nunquam. Vnde in Deuter. dicitur. *Si taci*ta cogitatione reſpondere, quomodo poſsũ intelligere verbum, quod non eſt loquutus dominus. hoc habebis ſignum, quod in nomine Domini propheta ille prædixit, & nõ euenerit. Hoc dominus non eſt loquutus. Hæc ille. Ex qua parte manifeſtum accipitur argumentum, quod reuelationes factæ B. Brigittæ ſint a ſpiritu Dei, quoniam iſta Sancta, & Glorioſa Chriſti diſcipula ſemper ſi bene intelligatur vera prædixit, nec in omnibus libris ſuis aliquid falſum, vel mendacium, vel inhoneſtum, vel non catholicũ dixit, ſed ſemper vera dixit, & catholica annunciauit, damnauit hæreticos, & virtutes, & obedientiam Sanctæ Rom. Eccleſiæ per totam ſuam doctrinam docuit, & prædicauit, vt patet inſpicienti ſanis oculis libros ſuos, & ea pietate legenti, qua cęteræ ſcripturæ ſanctæ, ſiue canonicæ, ſiue doctorum legi debent. Quocirca merito dicitur in tertia thematis parte, omnia quæ loquuta es vera ſunt.

CAPITVLVM QVARTVM, ET argumentum in quõ ponitur quartũ ſignum quo diſcernuntur reuelationes diuinæ a diabolicis illuſionibus.

COnſequenter autem occurrit quartum ſignum quo diſcernitur reuelatio ſpiritus Dei a reuelationibus ſpiritus mali eſt conformitas ad ſacram ſcripturam, & ſanctorum doctrinam. Cum enim reuelatio conformis reperitur diuinis ſcripturis, & ſanctorum ſententijs, & exemplis arguitur eſſe reuelatio ſpiritus Dei. Si autem diſſonat, & diſcordat ab eis ſuſpecta merito habenda talis eſt. Vnde Richardus. Suſpecta eſt mihi omnis veritas, quam non confirmat Scripturarum auctoritas. Iob 33. Semel loquitur Deus, & ſecundo idipſum non repetit, quod eſt dicere ſecundum Gregorium. Deus in ſingulorum cordibus priuatis vocibus non reſpondet, ſed tale eloquium conſtruit per quod cunctorum quæſtionibus ſatisfaciat. In ſcripturæ quippe eius eloquio cauſas noſtras ſingulas ſi requirimus inuenimus. Ex iſto ſigno videtur capi efficax argumentum ad oſtendendum reuelationes B. Brigittæ factas his in libris contentas a ſpiritu Dei proceſſiſſe, quoniam ipſe conformes videntur eſſe Sacræ ſcripturæ, & reuelationibus diuinis, ſententijs, & exemplis ſanctorum. Et hoc in tribus. Primo in genere viſionis, ſiue reuelationis. Secundo in modo reuelationis. Tertio in conformitate ſententiarum, & doctorum. Pro quo notandũ, quod Auguſtinus in lib. 12. ſuper Gen. ad literam, & Hieronymus in prologo Apocal. tria principalia genera viſionum deſcribunt.

bitur, & totidem etiam genera reuelationum describi possunt, scilicet corporale, spirituale, & intellectuale. Visio enim corporalis est, quando videlicet corporalibus oculis aliquid videtur, aut ostenditur, vt Moyses vidit Dominum in rubo ardenti, & patres sæpe Angelos visibiliter susceperũt. Hoc genus visionis potest referri quorumlibet sensuum experientia. Vt auditus, gustus, odoratus, & tactus, quia visus pro quolibet sensu poni solet. Exod. 20. Populus videbat voces, & lampades, & sonitum buccinę, quæ non visu, sed auditu percipere potuerunt. Visio autem spiritualis, siue imaginaria dicitur, cum videlicet dormientes, siue vigilantes in spiritu imagines rerum cernimus quib. aliquid aliud significatur, sicut fuerunt visiones Ezechielis, & Danielis, & aliorum Sanctorum in nouo, & veteri testamento, quibus vigilantibus, & in mentis excessum raptis multa per figuras, & imagines rerum ostensa sunt. Similiter etiam multis dormientibus multa hoc genere visionis ostensa leguntur, vt Iacob vidit Dominum innixum scalæ, & Pharao, & Nabuchodonosor iomnia viderunt præsagia futurorum. Tertia autem est visio intellectualis quando videlicet Spiritui sancto reuelante intellectu mentis veritatem mysteriorum sicut est capimus, quomodo vidit Euangelista ea, quæ in libro Apocalipsi referuntur. Non enim figuras tantum in spiritu vidit, sed & earum significata mente intellexit. Secundum hoc triplex genus visionis cœlestes, & diuinas legitur B. Brigitta habuisse reuelationes, sicut multi alij Sancti habuisse leguntur. Secundum enim primum genus visionis, scilicet corporis, legitur ipsa Beata Brigitta aliquibus vicibus vidisse Matrem Christi Gloriosam, & etiam Christum Benedictum eius filium, & etiam Angelos. Matrem quidem Christi vidisse dicitur quando erat puella. Vidit enim altare, & Matrem Dei supra sedentem, quæ vocans eam imposuit ei coronam. Iterum quãdo periclitabatur in partu visa est Mater Dei intrare ad eam, quæ cunctis præsentibus videntibus tangens mẽbra eius liberauit eam, vt dicitur in legenda vitæ eius. Christum etiam vidisse dicitur, vnde semel dicitur vidisse ignem descendere de cœlo super altare, & in manu presbyteri celebrãtis hostiam, & in eam agnum, & faciem hominis in agno, & agnum in facie, & iterum vidit in manu presbyteri in hostia infantẽ viuum, qui signando astantes signo crucis dixit. Benedico vos credentes, non credentibus ero iudex. Vide hæc in 6. lib. ca. 86. Item specialiter cum ageret in extremis, vidit corporaliter Christum eam cõsolantem, vt in eius legenda dicitur. Angelos etiam quandoq; dicitur vidisse corporeis oculis sicut eius historia testatur. Amplius autem iuxta secũdum modum visionis, quæ est spiritualis, siue imaginaria, & specialiter loquendo de ea quæ fit in vigilia pro maiori parte reuelationes ei factæ videtur fuisse, quia ipsa quasi omnes visiones videbat in oratione vigilando, & non dormiendo, vt in multis capitulis libri huius patenter conspicitur, in quibus legitur qualiter rapiebatur sæpissimè in spiritu, & a sensib. alienata videbat visiones, & audiebat locutiones personarum, quæ per species, & imagines corporales in eius spiritu representabantur. Cęterum iuxta tertium genus visionis, quæ est intellectualis reuelationes Beata Brigitta legitur habuisse cum sæpissime legatur, quod cum rapiebatur, illuminabatur, & illustrabatur mens eius, & intelligentia eius ad intelligenda ea, quæ sibi ostendebantur, diuino quodam supernaturali replebatur lumine itelligibilis veritatis. Præterea in modo reuelationum est conformitas istarum reuelationum ad Sacram Scripturam, & exempla sanctorum. Pro quo notandum, quod reuelationes in Sacra Scriptura aliquãdo leguntur factæ per vocem, & verba expressa, vt Petro, & Ioãni, & Iacobo in monte cum Iesu Saluatore nostro existentibus, vbi vox de nube exiẽs dixit. Hic est filius meus dilectus, &c. Matth. 17. Item Petro dictum est. Beatus es Symon Bar iona, quia caro, & sanguis non reuelauit tibi, sed pater meus, qui est in cœlis, Matth. 16. Vel sicut Samueli, sermo Domini factus est in Sylo. 1. Regum 3. Item aliquando fit per somnium, vt Ioseph viro Mariæ dictum est in somnis, vt acciperet puerum, & Mariam, & fugeret in Aegyptum. & post vt rediret. Et magis similiter in somnis dictum est ne rediret ad Herodem Matth. 2. & in alijs pluribus locis simile inuenitur. Item aliquando fiunt per spiritum Angelicum sicut Zach. 4. Angelus qui loquebatur in me dixit ad me &c. & in multis alijs quasi innumeris. Item aliquãdo fiunt reuelationes per spiritum sanctum interius in mente, de quo dicit Propheta in psal. Audiam quid loquatur in me Dominus, de quibus duobus vltimis dicit Gre. in 28. moralium cap. 2. Sciendum inquit, quod duobus modis loquutio diuina dicitur. Aut per semetipsum namq; dominus loquitur. Aut per creaturam Angelicã eius ad nos verba formantur. Sed cum per semetipsum nemo loquitur sola in nobis vis internæ inspirationis aperitur. Cum per semetipsum loquitur de verbo eius sine verbis & syllabis cor edocetur. Et subdit in eodem loco dicens,quod aliquando imaginibus,& ante oculos corporeos ad tempus ex aere assumptis per Angelos nobis loquitur Deus,sicut Abraham,qui nō solum tres viros videre potuit, sed etiam habitaculo terreno susc ipere. Et subdit dicens . Nisi enim Angeli quædam interna nunciantes ad tempus ex aere corpora sumerent, exterioribus profecto nostris obtutibus non apparerent . Talibus autem modis reuelationes istæ videntur factæ huic Glorioſæ Beatæ Brigittæ sicut eas perlegenti patet euidenter.In quibus legitur nunc Christo spōsō suo loquente,nunc Angelo instructa fuisse de multis . Demum tertio dicebatur , quod huiusmodi reuelationes conformes essent sanctis sententijs,& dictis Sacræ scripturæ, dictis,& exemplis Sanctorum,& Doctorum Ecclesiæ . Quantum vero attinet ad hanc partem iudicio meo in prefatis articulis , qui de toto eius libro tanquam magis peregrini a dictis Sacræ scripturæ, & doctorum collecti sunt si bene,& diligenter,ac pio studio sicut Sanctorum dicta solita sunt legi,& pertractari intelligantur , nihil continent, quod intellectum habeat aduersum Sacræ Scripturæ,aut doctrinæ Sanctorum doctorum ab Ecclesia approbatorum . Aut ita alienum ab exemplis Sanctorum sit , quod pias valeat offendere aures sicut Iesu Christo duce magistro veritatis , & huius Glorioſæ, & Sanctæ mulieris sponso per singulos articulos discurrens pro posse conabor ostendere .

CAPITVLVM QVINTVM IN QVO ponitur quintum signum , & quintū argumentum discernendi reuelationes quæ sunt a spiritu Dei a reuelationibus illusorijs spiritus diabolici.

DEmum inter alia signa, quibus discernuntur reuelationes , quæ a spiritu Dei procedunt a reuelationibus,quæ ab illusione diabolica procurantur non paruæ virtutis esse videtur,quod persona cui reuelationes factæ leguntur,approbatæ sanctitatis est in Ecclesia Dei, quæ in canonizatione Sanctorum, sicut nec in doctrina fidei errare non potest,Beata autē Brigitta huiusmodi est. Est enim ita approbatę sanctitatis,vt catalogo Sanctorum ascripta per summos Pontifices vniuersitati fidelium sit mandata coli,& venerari,sicut patet in duabus litteris canonizationis eiusdem,quarum vna est Papæ Bonifacij Noni in sua obedientia reputati & nominati . Et alia est Domini Martini V. quarum tenores de verbo ad verbum iudicaui merito hic esse interserendos , ex quarum serie multiplex testimonium deuotus lector colligere poterit deuotionis , & Sanctitatis huius Glorioſæ Dominæ, & Amantissimæ Christi sponsæ.

in tempus cepit facere, & docere, omnibusque monstrare qualiter sacri Baptismatis fonte renatis de eterna morte via pateret ad vitam, & coadunatis discipulis ne quis fidelis huius transitorie, & fugitiue vitæ molestias, vel tedia, seu temporalis acerbe necis pœnas pro æternæ adeptione vitę perhorreret sese hostiam immaculatam consummato debito cursu in ara crucis morte, orbem obtulit Deo patri, & militantem Ecclesiam fuso precioso sanguine fundauit, consecrauit, & æternaliter stabiliuit. Tandem vero de mundo transiturus ad patrẽ, Principi Apostolorum cœlesti clauigero in suam, suorumq; successorum Summorum Pontificum personas collatis clauibus ligãdi, videlicet, & soluendi tradita potestate supremum pontificium specialem curam sui gregis, & regimen vniuersale commisit. Pollicitus nihilominus Ecclesiam in eternum se non deserturum eandem. Ad cuius vberem vtilitatem diuisiones gratiarum per spiritum sanctum tribuit suis fidelibus. Nam secundum Apostolum. Vnicuiq; datur manifestatio spiritus ad vtilitatem. Alij quidẽ per spiritum datur sermo sapientiæ. Alij sermo scientiæ secundum eundem spiritũ. Alij fides in eodem spiritu. Alij gratia sanitatum in vno spiritu. Alij operatio virtutum. Alij prophetia. Alij discretio spirituum. Alij genera linguarum. Alij interpretatio sermonum. Hæc autem omnia operatur vnus, atq; idem spiritus diuidens singulis prout vult. Quamq; militantem Ecclesiam pater luminum sustulit in eodem spiritu sancto structura admirabili precioſorũ lapidum mira varietate decoram ipso summo angulari lapide Christo Iesu quos elegit ante mundi constitutionem conformes fieri imaginis eiusdem filii sui, vt sit ipse primogenitus in multis fratribus ĩ quo eos gratificauit donans charismata meliora, qui suo exemplo viam ostenderent excellentiorem. Hinc igitur Apostoli Sancti prodiere per vniuersum orbem, genus humanum, quod sub peccati iugo tenebatur ad vitam, & salutem excitantes, & cum firmissima cõstantia prædicantes verbum Dei, vt in omnem terram exiret sonus eorum, & in fines Orbis terræ verba eorum. Splendidi quoq; martyres fidei loricam induti, & inconcussæ stabilitatis baltheo succincti lauerunt stolas suas in sanguine innocentis agni, & imitati candidato exercitu Christum Iesum ad structuram supernæ Hierusalẽ, hoc est triũphantis Ecclesiæ cum Gloriola victoria palmas gestantes in manibus sese vinos lapides addiderunt exemplum venerabile, & eternam, dignamq; memoriam militanti Ecclesiæ relinquentes. Progressi sunt, & docto res lucidissimi, qui pseudo Christianis, falsisque prophetis superstitiosas, & varias opiniones in vera fide catholica adducere, ipsamq; fidem subuertere satagentibus se opponentes talium confutatis erroribus miro eloquio, & solidis, ac rectis sententijs operante sancto spiritu ipsam fidem, & militantem Ecclesiam illustrarunt, quibus eadẽ Ecclesia communita progreditur, quasi aurora consurgens pulchra vt Luna, electa vt Sol, terribilis vt castrorum acies ordinata. Sequuntur & limpidi confessores ornati gẽmis, & virtutibus corruscantes Domino rationem de talentis creditis reposcenti. Cũ se assidua, & vigili sanctarum operationum exercuerũt mercatura, vtpote fideles, & boni serui multiplicatum de suis laboribus fructum afferunt, ac donum reponunt in arcã. Etiam anachorete, & solitudinis, ac heremi sectatores blandientes, & captiosi, sed venenosi mundi vana spectacula fugientes, vt sese curi ad patriam peruenirent latibula petierunt, & antris abditi paruo, & rudi victu scaturientis aquę, & leui potu carnem propriã macerantes, & sathanę stimulos reprimentes paliastro, vel tegmine hirto amicti, vt plurimum nudis pedibus, & squalida humo, aut straminco cubili fessa membra somno refouentes in Sacra contemplatione, & supernæ maiestatis laude vacantes. Demum ex hac lacrymarum valle, & miseriarum aerumno ad Dei præsentiam euocati immarcescibilibus delitijs potiuntur. Adsunt & virgines nitide mundo corpore, & corde sincero mentem sanctam spontaneam, & oleum, secum suis deferentes in vasis venienti spõso obuiam exeunt, eique desponsantur, qui est præ filijs hominum speciosus. Deuote autem, & continentes viduę, & alię sexus vtriusq; personæ pijs, sanctisq; operibus semper intente se ante Dei tribunal cum plenis manipulis representant, & cum sanctis Angelis canunt gloriam in altissimo Deo, & in terra pacem bonæ voluntatis hominibus deprecantur. Hæc omnia profecto ille idem spiritus de quo supra operatur ministerio, multiformiter admirando. Et secundum sanctam promissionem Christus Iesus hanc vineam suam militantem Ecclesiam post eius admirabilem Ascensionem talibus cultoribus, & cultricibus vsq; in diem hodiernum visitauit, fouit, defensauit, firmauit, iunit, & auxit, & per sui gratiam sic in futurũ faciet temporibus successiuis. Nouissimis vero diebus, vt etiam ab Aquilone aliquid boni esset, ille cœlestis agricola candeni vineam suo de more visitans mulierem fortẽ procul, & de vltimis finibus suum secũ precium deferentem ad huiusmodi vineę cultu ram adduxit inesse, Beatam scilicet viduam,

Bri-

Brigittam, quam vulgares Brigidam appellant, tam sacro superius descripto cętui merito sociandam, seu verius sociatam. Cuius propter quod præsentem operam vobis damus, vt originem, vitam mores, & merita, nec non miracula, quæ in premium sanctitatis eius benedictus Deus mundo monstrare dignatus est. Ne de tam celebri muliere ætas præsens remaneat ignara, & seruda posteritas famam ingratam accusare, vel prętendere possit summotenus percurramus de multis pauca admodũ ea quę nõ prętermittenda filętio excerpsimus, vestręq; charitati harum serie volumus intimari. Hæc nempe mulier gloriosa ex patre Birgthero, & matre Sighride coniugibus de nobilissima regia stirpe catholicorum Suetiæ Regum procedentibus, nec minus fide orthodoxa, & animi constantia ac virtutibus quam nobilitate claris duxit originem. Quæ quidem mater, dum eam gestaret in vtero, maris in quodam sinu passa naufragium. Cum multos promiscui sexus in eodẽ naufragio procella absorbuisset sana peruenit in litus. Et nocte sequenti in visione astitit sibi persona admirando vestitu refulgens, & ne viduę tã venerandæ sine pernuncio foret aduentus dixit, saluata es propter bonum, quod habes in vtero. Ideo nutri illud cum charitate Dei, quia tibi a Deo donatum est. Cũque puella Brigitta de genetricis aluo in mundum recenter fuisset educta. Sacerdos Parochialis in Ecclesia propinqua approbatæ vitæ, & ætatis perfectæ, dum nocte orationi vacaret, nubem lucidam, & in medio nubis virginem sedentem vidit librum habentem in manu, sibiq; dicentem. Nata est Birgero quędã filia, cuius vox per mundũ admirabilis audietur. Nata ergo puella vsque ad finẽ triennij quasi elinguis visa est, sed mox contra naturalem decursum non balbuciendo infantium more fari gestictũ quæ audierint, sed cõpleta, & formata verba de auditis per eam loquebatur, & visio procedens vero in annis pueritiam mira deuotione transegit orationibus videlicet, ac ieiuniis, & alias nunquam a bonis operibus otiosa. Tandem licet in statu virginali seruire Domino totis desiderijs affectaret, tamen per parentes compulsa quondã Vlphoni de Vlphasum Principi Nericiæ nobilissimo quippe, & christianissimo iuueni in matrimonium desponsatur. Et cum in simul conuenire deberent quãquam idonei essent ad viriles amplexus maritus, videlicet in decimo octauo, & sponsa in tertiodecimo anno constituti, communi tamen voluntate, Thobiam iunioremque, & Saram Raguelis imitati annum continuum, & vltra a concubitu abstinuerunt, Deum humiliter deprecantes vt si coniungi foret expediens in cõiunctione non peccarent, & Deus illis talẽ prolem concederet, quæ ad seruitium eius esset. Simul postea conuenerunt in timore, ac tremore non libidini, sed posteritati vacantes. Cum interim deuota mulier, nec ieiunia, nec orationes, nec alia pia, & solita opera prætetiret. Et cum semper B. Virgini præcipue deuota foret, ac tempore procedente pœnæ partu periclitaretur, & obstetrices, ac mulieres astantes de vita illius desperarent, visa est quædam imperiosa, sed incognita mulier albis sericeis induta vestibus intrare cubile, & assistere strato, & singula iacentis membra pertractare, mox cũ talis mulier disparuisset eadẽ puerpera sine dolore partu integro exonerata remansit. Et cum etiam dicti iugales adhuc essent iuuenes, & recentes maritus fęlicis vxoris sanctis monitionibus persuasus, cor .n. viri spolijs non indigens confisum in ea reddidit ei bonum, & nõ malum omnibus diebus vitæ suæ, ipsaq; mulier indixerunt sibi sponte inuicem, & perpetuam continentiam seruauerunt. Et nihilominus coniuges deuoti in Dei timore, & amore proximi semper feruentiores limina B. Iacobi Apost. in Cõpostella communi voto peregre visitarunt, & ad propria reuersi cum deliberassent, vt liberius deuotioni vacare possent pro sexus diuersitate diuersa ingredi monasteria dictus princeps in tali deliberatione quieuit in domino. Sancta autem vidua, quæ ab inuentis ætatis principio Deo dicata fuerat ieiunijs, & orationibus indefesse vacaret soluto coniugio, & sui iuris effecta quasi nauis institoris de longe portans panem suum a Spiritu sancto præmonita egredi̇̃s de terra, & cognatione sua ad almam Vrbem ac Hierosolymam, deinde perrexit, & loca singula, in quibus Redemptor noster Iesus Christus annunciatus, natus, educatus, baptizatus, conuersatus, mirabilia operatus, illusus, crucifixus, & sepultus fuit, & ad cœlos ascendit insigni deuotione, & venerabunda conspexit. Ad Vrbem quoq; regressa cum antea siue in sua patria, & partibus circumstantibus, siue in Germania, siue in Gallijs, siue in Hispania, siue Italia, siue in alijs cismarinis, aut vltra marinis partibus sanctorum, ac Sanctarum corpora, seu memorandę reliquiæ quieścerent, pauca admodum absque personali visitatione dictę sanctæ viduæ fuissent prętermissa in eadem vrbe reliquum vitę peregit. Sed post mariti mortem ob reuerentiam Sanctę Trinitatis ad nudam carnem quandam cordam de canopo cum plerisq; nodis detulit stricte ligatã, & similiter circa singulas tybias subtus genua singulas cordas similiter connectatas, Regulae paraphrasticae Virgilii. Ad Reverendissimum Dominum Dominum Ioannem Episcopum Roffensem.

Quoniam Reverendissime Pater, ut ait Horatius, Ars est celare artem, ne quis forte existimet, me in hoc opere, quod tibi dedico, artem aliquam ostentare, quam non habeam, ab initio statim fatebor, me nullam artem in hoc opere sequutum esse, sed tantum quasdam regulas, quibus ipse in hoc genere studendi usus sum, ad eorum utilitatem, qui hoc genere studendi delectantur, literis mandasse. Quas regulas ut ipse ab aliis accepi, ita aliis tradere non dubitavi. Quod si quis eas artem esse dixerit, non repugnabo, modo fateatur, artem esse, quae ad usum vitae communis, et ad ea, quae in ea necessaria sunt, nihil prorsus conferat. Quod si quis hoc genus studendi, quod ego sequutus sum, non probabit, ei ego nihil respondebo, quia non mihi, sed aliis scribo. Quod si quis hoc genus studendi probabit, ei ego respondebo, me non ad eos, qui Virgilium ex animo et memoria recitare possunt, sed ad eos, qui ex libro legere, et ad verbum reddere non possunt, scribere. Quod si quis dixerit, me ad eos, qui ex libro legere, et ad verbum reddere non possunt, scribere, quia ipse ex libro legere, et ad verbum reddere non possit, ei ego respondebo, me ad eos, qui ex libro legere, et ad verbum reddere non possunt, scribere, quia ipse ex libro legere, et ad verbum reddere non possit, quia ipse ex libro legere, et ad verbum reddere non possit, quia ipse ex libro legere, et ad verbum reddere non possit

Pius episcopus servus servorum Dei ad perpetuam rei memoriam. Divinus pastor ecclesiae suae, quam sanguine suo redemit, ut eam ab omni labe et macula mundam et immaculatam faceret, ad hoc ipsum, ut ecclesia ipsa, quae corpus mysticum eius est, ab omnibus errorum tenebris et ignorantiae caligine liberata, in lucem veritatis et cognitionis suae perveniret, sanctos suos, qui in caelestibus regnis cum ipso regnant, in terris habere voluit, qui ecclesiam ipsam, quae militans in terris est, ad caelestia regna aspirare et ad ea pervenire docerent, et ipsi ecclesiae militanti in caelestibus regnis patrocinium praestarent. Et quia ecclesia ipsa, quae sponsa Christi est, ab ipso sponso suo, qui sanctus sanctorum est, sanctitatem habere debet, ideo ipsa ecclesia sanctos suos, qui in caelestibus regnis cum ipso sponso suo

His autem tanquā gener alib. & communib. ſignis, & argumentis approbandū libros S. Brig. nihil aduerſū fidei catholicę, aut Sanctorum doctorū doctrinæ contrarium cōtinere præmiſſis. Iā hoc in particulari oſtendendū venit, cum proteſtationibus ſuprapoſitis per ſingulos articulos, qui de libris eiuſdē extracti tanquā ſuſpecti coram Reuerendiſs. P. & D. Cardinali S. Petri. Iudice fidei in hoc ſacro Generali Concil. Baſilienſi preſentati fuerunt, in quo quidem proceſſu talis ordo tenebitur, quoniam primo ponetur articulus, prout in codicillo præſentato ab emulis, & calumniantib. aduerſus lib. reuelationum S. Brig. continetur. Secundo, vbi reperitur falſæ, aut infideliter extractus, ſicut ſæpe actum eſt corrigetur, & ponetur veraciter articulus, vt in forma ſtat in lib. originali. Tertio declarabitur veritas articuli, aut poſſibilitas eius, quod tāquam impoſſibile calumniantib. viſum eſt, aut ſaltē ſacræ ſcripturæ, aut Sanctorum doctorum approbatæ doctrinæ non contradicere.

Primus articulus, vt iacet in ſexterno nobis præſentato ex capitulo primo primi libri, &c. Articulis omnibus qui ſunt 123. numero, gratia breuitatis cum ſuis declarationibus, & defenſorijs hiccine prætermiſſis. Tandem 123. articuli, & vltimi defenſorium ſic concludit. Et per conſequens de omnibus articulis mihi in codicillo præſentatis, quibus omnibus conſideratis, & conformiter ad dicta Sacræ Scripturæ, & Sanctorum Doctorum, & etiam ſcholæ bonorum Theologorum intellectis, non apparet mihi, quod liber iſte, aut doctrina eius ſit ſuſpecta habenda, nec in qualitate, nec in figura, nec in pondere, vt verbis vtar aduerſarii. Non in qualitate, ſiue in ſpecie cum in ea ſit aurum verum doctrinæ ſanæ. Non in figūra, quia conformis eſt tam Sacræ Scripturæ quam Sanctorum doctorum, ſicut patet ex ſupra poſitis. Tertio nec in pondere grauitatis cum tota referatur ad gloriam Dei, & reformationem populi Chriſtiani. Pondus enim, vt dicit Auguſtinus amor eſt, pondus meū amor meus. Tam grauior enim, & maioris ponderis doctrina aliqua dicitur quā to magis ordinatur ad amorē Dei nutriendum, foouendumq; in cordibus fidelium. Sed calumniator dicit, quod potiſſime in figura iſta doctrina videtur ſuſpecta, quia a modo viſionum, & doctrinæ Sanctorum Patrum aliena videtur, ſicut in vna viſione, vbi dicit, quod vidit Deum in ſpecie Dei. Et in alio loco ſubmittit viſiones ſuas examini, hæc ille. Quanquam locum inuenire in reuelationibus prędictis nō potuerim, vbi verba iſta ponantur, & per conſequens de eis ſicut in multis merito dicere conuenit, tanquam minus fideliter allegatis poſſet ſuperſederi, tamen ad ea plenitudinis huius tractatus gratia duxi etiam reſpondendum. Dico enim, quod tam apud Philoſophos, quam apud Theologos ſpecies rei, dicatur ſimilitudo rei, & cum viſio Dei in via, ſiue reuelationes fiant per aliquas ſimilitudines repreſentatiuas Dei, aut eorū, de quibus fit reuelatio, dicente Aug. 14. de trinitate, cum Deū cognoſcimus fit aliqua ſimilitudo Dei in nobis, non eſt alienum a veritate, quod dicit Beata Brigitta, quod ſcilicet vidit Deum per ſpeciem Dei, ideſt ſimilitudinem aliquam Dei eius intellectui diuinitus impreſſam. Non autem per ſpeciem, quæ dicitur ipſa eſſentia nuda deitatis. Hac quippe ſpecie viſio perficitur beata in qua idem eſt obiectum beatificans, & ſpecies intelligibilis ad quam ſe perduci exorat Eccleſia militans in oratione ſolemnitatis currentis epiphaniæ ita dicens. Deus qui hodierna die Vnigenitum tuum gentibus ſtella duce reuelaſti, cõcede propitius, vt qui iam te ex fide cognouimus, vſq; ad contemplandam ſpeciẽ tuæ celſitudinis perducamur. Et ita patet, quod calumniator in hac non habet causam calumniandi. Ecce patres venerabiles, quid paruitati ingenioli mei nihil temere aſſerendo dicendum occurrit circa ſingulos articulos, ſuper quibus vigilanter intendere, & iuxta mihi creditam a Deo gratiam ſcribere rogaſtis. Feed Additives. Other than the usual vitamins and minerals, there are a number of feed additives that are used in poultry rations. Some of these are used to improve the appearance of the birds, others to improve the flavor of the meat or eggs, and still others to improve the health of the birds. Some of the more common additives are discussed briefly below.

Yellow corn contains a yellow pigment called xanthophyll. This pigment is deposited in the skin and shanks of the birds, giving them a yellow color. Some breeds, such as the Leghorn, have a natural tendency to produce white skin and shanks. Others, such as the Rhode Island Red, have a tendency to produce yellow skin and shanks. The color of the skin and shanks is also affected by the amount of xanthophyll in the ration. Birds fed a ration containing yellow corn will have more yellow skin and shanks than birds fed a ration containing white corn.

Some feed additives are used to improve the flavor of the meat or eggs. For example, some additives are used to reduce the fishy flavor that sometimes occurs in eggs. Other additives are used to improve the flavor of the meat. These additives are usually added to the ration in small amounts.

Some feed additives are used to improve the health of the birds. For example, some additives are used to prevent coccidiosis, a disease that affects the intestinal tract of poultry. Other additives are used to prevent other diseases. These additives are usually added to the ration in small amounts.

Mail Order Poultry. Many poultry raisers buy their chicks by mail order. This is a convenient way to obtain chicks, but it has some disadvantages. The chicks may be damaged in transit, and they may not arrive in good condition. It is important to choose a reputable hatchery and to order chicks that are healthy and vigorous.

When the chicks arrive, they should be unpacked promptly and placed in a warm, dry brooder. They should be given access to feed and water as soon as possible. The first few days are critical for the chicks, and they should be watched closely for signs of illness or injury.

Matter. Matter is anything that has mass and occupies space. It is made up of atoms and molecules. The three common states of matter are solid, liquid, and gas. Matter can change from one state to another by the addition or removal of heat.

In a solid, the atoms or molecules are arranged in a fixed pattern and vibrate about their positions. In a liquid, the atoms or molecules are free to move about, but they are still close together. In a gas, the atoms or molecules are far apart and move rapidly in all directions.

The density of a substance is its mass per unit volume. It is usually expressed in grams per cubic centimeter. The density of water is 1.0 g/cm³. Substances that are denser than water will sink in water, and substances that are less dense will float.

PRimus liber habet admirabile myſterium S. Trinitatis,& Incarnationis,ac Redemptionis humani generis, vnde in principio ſic habetur. Ego ſum creator Cœli, & terræ vnus in deitate cum Patre, & Spiritu ſancto. Sequitur tu autem filia mea quam elegi mihi, & cum qua ſpiritu meo loquor, dilige me toto corde non ſicut filium,& filiam, ſeu parentes, ſed pluſquam aliquid in mundo, quia ego qui creaui te, nulli membro meo peperci ad ſupplicium pro te.

Secundus liber oſtendit non eſſe auſteriorẽ vitã vita militari,ſi in ſua inſtitutione fuerit obſeruata,ſcilicet vt confortetur veritas,& dilatetur fides,nunc autem gloriantur de pulchris veſtib. diuitias ambiunt, & in concupiſcentia malorum exardeſcunt,ideo iuſtiſſime occiduntur.

Tertius liber vitam prælatorum,eorumq; periculum ſi male vixerint continet,immo, & magnam gratiam ſi recte proceſſerint in officijs ſuis cõſequentur,quia nihil ita prouocat iram Dei,& homines ad peccandum ſicut laſciuia prælatorũ. Heli,& Phinees ponuntur hic pro exemplo.

Liber quartus continet triplicem pœnarum locum,quorum primus infernus eſt inferior,vbi nulla eſt redemptio,& locus purgatorium,in quo eſt tactus vermium venenoſorum, & ferocium beſtiarum,verum ſub eo loco pœna quaſi deficientium ceſſante infirmitate, & demum locus deſiderij plenus conceditur meritorum in Eccleſia Catholica poſitorum, eiſque ſuccurritur per amicorum ſuffragia in operibus pijs. Roma autem pro peccatis quomodo flagellatur hoc lib. ca. 57. declaratur, & illi vero,qui Ro: Eccleſiæ ſubijci nolunt, quomodo punientur, libro 7. cap. 19. monſtratur.

Liber quintus plenus eſt quęſtionibus curioſis laborem fingentibus in precepto,prout mos eſt omnium hæreticorum, & rebellantium Deo vnde &.16. interrogationes habet ad quas Iudex Chriſtus manſuetiſſimę reſpondet,quarum ſecunda in tertia interrogatione habet.Cur cibis,& alijs delectabilibus non vtar ad omnem carnis appetitum &c. reſpondetur non. quia ſolum neceſſaria ad corporis ſuſtentationem permittuntur,ne virtutes animæ nimia grauẽtur crapula.Item quęſt. 3. interrog. 3. cur datum eſt liberum arbitrium,niſi vt ſatisfiat voluntati, reſpondetur, quod liberum arbitrium dimittendum eſt diuinæ voluntati,vt homo maius meritum conſequatur. Item quæſt. 5. quartæ interrog. quare alijs obediẽdum eſt,cum voluntas ſit in hominis poteſtate reſpõdetur,quod nihil ita faciliter ducit ad pœnam æternam ſicut voluntas propria ſine ductore, ideo relinquat eam Deo per obedientiam, & habebit cœlum ſine pœna.

Sextus liber habet multa myſteria de prælatis gloriantibus in ſcientijs ſuis, & vanitate mulierum exultantibus in ſuperbo veſtitu ſuo,dialoguſque terribilis inter matrem,& filiam damnatas oſtenditur. Veh inquit filia ò ſcorpio mater mea, veh mihi, quia male decepiſti me, veh mihi, quia quæcunque a te cum gaudio didici hæc modo cum ploratu luo. Ad hoc mater. Veh mihi lacerta filia mea, quod vnquam fui mater tua, quia quoties imitaris peccata mea, quæ te docui toties innouatur pœna mea.

Septimus liber oſtendit Eccleſiã per ingratitudinem nimium receſſiſſe a Deo, quod niſi eſſent preces Beatæ Virginis, & omnium Sanctorum miſericordię ſpes non eſſet. Verum adeo patiẽs longanimis,& miſericors eſt iteratis verborũ ſuorum remedijs,& conſilijs,vt miſericordia omnibus in tempore exhibeatur,& ſi recipere voluerint ſalui erunt,ſin autem ſentient iuſtitiam eius.

Octauus liber exhibet omnibus regibus,& principibus, immo & prælatis integerrimam viuendi formam, duplici enim poteſtate Eccleſiaſtica,videlicet, & laicali (adducto Petro, & Paulo in exemplum) mundum diſpoſuit gubernari. Item de qualitate cõſiliariorum,& familiariũ,repetuntur etiam hoc libro,quę in alijs ſuperioribus ad ſalutem regũ,& regnorum ſunt prolata,vt ex 4. lib.c. 104. Qualiter pax fieri poterit inter regem Franciæ,& Angliæ, & ita de reliquis.

Demum regula diuinitus reuelata,quomodo beatæ viuendum ſit in hoc ordine, vt & ipſi profeſſores, & alij,qui hanc regulam ſequuti fuerint feliciores fiant.

Inſuper ſermones Angelici de excellentia Beatiſſimæ Virginis annectuntur,quæ Romæ Angelo dicante prope venerabile Sacramentum in Eccleſia Sancti Laurentij in Damaſo Beatæ Brigittæ ad latus habitanti reuelati fuerunt.

Inde quatuor Sanctiſſimæ orationes etiam diuinitus de eadem Beatiſſimæ Virginis totali vita annexæ leguntur, & tandem ad finem operis abbreuiata vita ipſius Beatæ Brigittæ, & filiæ eius Sanctæ Catherinæ.

Finaliter annexę ſunt reuelationes plures extrauagantes dictæ,ad omnium ſtatuum correctionem datæ, ex quibus remiſſiones fiunt ad diuerſos libros ſupradictos.

Sit laus Deo.

LIBER PRIMVS.

VISIO PRIMA, DE DOMO, QVAM SIBI IN CIVITATE CHRISTVS AEDIFICARE IVSSERAT.

Beatissimus Dominus Iesus Christus, qui est Sol iustitiae, illuminans omnem hominem venientem in hunc mundum, ostendit se mihi, Brigittae, peccatrici, in visione, dicens: Ego sum, qui sum, et qui loquor tibi, et volo, ut audias verba mea, et ea scribas.

tidie nunc in altari immolatur, vt tanto amplius me homo diligeret, & frequentius beneficia mea recoleret. Sed nunc ex toto oblitus, & neglectus sum,& contemptus, & tanquam Rex a proprio regno expulsus. In cuius loco latro pessimus electus est, & ho-
3 noratus. 3 In homine denique regnum meũ esse volui,& super eum de iure Rex,& Dominus esse deberem, quia feci eum & redemi. Sed nunc fregit,& prophanauit fidem quam mihi promisit in baptismo, violauit & ipreuit leges meas,quas ei propoſui. Diligit voluntatem propriam, & me audire contemnit. 4 Insuper & pessimum latronem dia-
4 bolum super me exaltat, & ei fidem suam dedit. Qui vere latro est, quia animam hominis, quam sanguine meo redemi,ipse mala suggerendo,& falsa pollicitando ad se ra-

Sed licet modo ita despectus sum,tamen ita misericors sum, vt quicunque misericordiam meam petierint, & se humiliauerint,indulgeo eis quod commiserant, & ab iniquo latrone liberabo eos. Qui autem in contemptu meo perstiterint, visitabo super eos iniustitiam meam, ita vt audientes contremi-

Et adhuc sic charitatiue diligo animam tuam, vt antequam ea carerem, adhuc iterum si possibile esset pro ea cruci affigerer. Imitare humilitatem meam, quia ego Rex gloriæ & Angelorum, pannis vilibus indutus fui, ad columnam nudus stabam omnia opprobria, & derisiones audiui auribus meis. Præpone etiam voluntatem meam voluntati tuæ, quia Mater mea Domina tua, a principio vsque ad finem, nunquam aliud volui,nisi quod ego. Si hæc feceris, tunc cor tuum erit in corde meo, & inflammabitur dilectione mea,quemadmodum aridum aliquid facile inflammatur ab igne, sic anima tua implebitur a me, & ego ero iuxta te, ita vt omnia temporalia fient tibi amara, omnis voluptas carnis quasi venenum. Requiesces in brachio Deitatis meæ, vbi nulla voluptas carnis, sed gaudium,& delectatio spiritus. Quia anima delectata, interius & exterius plena est gaudio. Nec aliquid cogitat, vel cupit, nisi gaudium quod habet. Dilige ergo me solum,& omnia habebis, quæ velis, & abundabis. Nunquid non scriptum est, quod oleum viduæ non defecit, vsquequo Dominus dedit pluuiam super terram, iuxta verbum Prophetæ. Ego sum verus Propheta,si verbis meis credideris, & compleueris ea, oleum & gaudium, & exultatio tibi non deficient vsque in sempiternum.

Declaratio.

Iſte doctorus ſponſam Chriſti, fuit quidã ſanctus Vir magiſter in theologia, qui vocabatur magiſter Matthias de Suetia, Canonicus Lincopen. qui Gloſſauit totam Bibliam excellenter. Et iſte fuit tentatus a diabolo ſubtiliſſime, de multis hæreſibus contra fidem Catholicam, quas omnes deuicit, cum Chriſti adiutorio, nec a dæmone potuit ſuperari, vt in legenda vitæ ſanctæ Brigittæ clarius continetur: Et iſte magiſter Matthias compoſuit prologum iſtorum Librorum, qui incipit. Stupor & mirabilia, &c. Fuitque vir ſanctus, & potens ſpiritualiter operæ, & ſermone. Hic quando obijt in Suetia, ſponſa Chriſti, tunc conſiſtens Romæ, orando audiuit in ſpiritu vocem, ſic dicentem. O felix tu magiſter Matthia, pro corona, quæ tibi in cælis fabricata eſt. Vehi igitur iam ad ſapientiam, quæ nunquam finietur. De eodem habetur etiam 1. lib. cap. 52. b. Item 5 lib. interrog. vltima reſpond. Item, 6. lib. 75. 2, & 89.

NOTAE.

1 var. lect. DEFER Matri meæ tanquam Dominæ tuæ.

Hic textus cum M. S. Codice Farneſiano ſupplendus eſt, adiungendo nomen, honorem, & ſic arbitror eſſe legendum, defer Matri meæ tanquam Dominæ tuæ honorem.

1 Cuſtodi humilitatem veram, quæ eſt humilitas vera, niſi talem ſe oſtendere qualis eſt, & laudem Deo pro bonis datis retribuere.

His verbis Chriſtus Dominus admonet B. Brigittam, primo quod humilis ſit, ſecundo vero declarat, in quo vera conſiſtat humilitas, & vt hoc palam fiat ſciendum eſt ex D Gregorio 23. Moral. cap. 7. D. Thomas 22. quæſt. 162. art. 4. & ibidem Cardinalis Caetanus, quod aliqui ſunt, qui ſibi bona, quæ non habent arrogant, ſiue naturæ ſint, vt Intellectus, Memoria, vires, ſiue fortunæ, vt diuitiæ honor, potentia, ſiue ſpiritualia, vt gratia, ſcientia, & ſapientia, alij vero reperiuntur, quibus hæc omnia bona in minori copia ſunt, præferri tamen contendunt, his qui ea abundantius poſſident. Poſtremi ſunt, qui huiuſmodi bona a Deo ſibi eſſe data fatentur, ſed illa ſuis meritis aſcribunt, quoniam propter ſua merita, & a Deo ſibi collata eſſe arbitrantur, & hi omnes, quia tales non ſe oſtendunt, quales ſunt, merito ſuperbi non humiles appellantur.

Mundum autem ſic ſincere diligunt, quod nocte, et die in labore eius non lacessunt.

Omnino arbitror hunc textum corruptum eſſe, nec legendum lacesſunt, vel vt alij Codices habent lacesſunt, cum lacesſere non aliud ſit, quam prouocare, vel irritare, non vero laboribus defatigari, prout hic ex contextu colligitur, vbi Chriſtus Dominus eos reprehendit, qui mundum diligunt, & proprijs operibus mundi perficiendis ſponte labores ſubeunt, ideo Farneſianus Codex habet in labore eius non laſſeſcunt.

4 Vnde occiditur bonus animus eorum ad proficiendo in bono.

Quemadmodum, qui occiſus eſt ad operandum inhabilis fit, & ad agendum penitus inutilis redditur: ſic qui ſeſe peccatis inuoluunt eorum animos ita occidunt, vt deinde ad proficiendum in ſpirituali vita quantum in ſe eſt, fiant inhabiles, & ſicut fulmen cum Enſem attingerit integra, vt plurimum foris relicta vagina ferrum intus peruertit, ſic lethale, flagitium corpus foris viuum relinquit animam autem intus occidit, quando quidem eam Dei gratia priuat, quæ vita eſt animæ, vnde merito ſcribitur Sapientiæ 16. homo per malitiam occidit Animam ſuam, & ideo legimus hic manent in peccato ſuo, vnde occiduntur boni animi a proficiendo in bono.

5 Collocabo te in Brachio meo.

Brachium in ſacris litteris ſignificat auxilium, & fortitudinem, quam Deus amicis ſuis tribuit, vt annotauit D. Hieronymus ſuper Zachar. cap. 11. & hinc eſt, quod hoc loco Chriſtus B. Brigittæ dicit velle ſe eam collocare in brachio ſuo, quia pollicetur ei auxilium, & fortitudinem, vt contra mundi tentationes, & pericula victrix exiſtat, nihilque aliud quam, quæ Dei ſunt quærat.

VERBA DOMINI NOSTRI Ieſu Chriſti ad ſponſam, qualiter non debeat timere de ſibi ab eo reuelatis, nec cogitare, quod maligni ſpiritus ſint. Et de doctrina cognoſcendi bonum, vel malignum ſpiritum.

CAP. IIII.

LEGO ſum Creator tuus, Redemptor. Quare timuiſti de verbis meis? Et cur cogitaſti, de quo ſpiritu eſſent, de bono an de malo? Dic mihi 1 quid inueniſti in verbis meis, quod conſcientia tua non dictabat tibi faciendum? Aut nunquid aliquid præcepi tibi contra rationem? Ad quæ ſponſa reſpondit. Nequaquam, ſed omnia illa ſunt

Ecclesiæ Romanæ, quæ ab Apostolis fundata est, ut ipsi Apostoli, quorum illa Ecclesia est, ita & ipsa Ecclesia, quæ ab ill

Ad Ecclesiam Dei, quæ est Corinthi, vocatam sanctis, cum omnibus qui invocant nomen Domini nostri Jesu Christi in omni loco, ipsorum et nostro.

Gratia vobis et pax a Deo Patre nostro et Domino Jesu Christo.

Gratias ago Deo meo semper pro vobis in gratia Dei quæ data est vobis in Christo Jesu, quod in omnibus divites facti estis in illo, in omni verbo et omni scientia, sicut testimonium Christi confirmatum est in vobis, ita ut nihil vobis desit in ulla gratia, exspectantibus revelationem Domini nostri Jesu Christi, qui et confirmabit vos usque in finem sine crimine in die adventus Domini nostri Jesu Christi. Fidelis Deus per quem vocati estis in societatem Filii ejus Jesu Christi Domini nostri.

Obsecro autem vos, fratres, per nomen Domini nostri Jesu Christi, ut idipsum dicatis omnes, et non sint in vobis schismata, sitis autem perfecti in eodem sensu et in eadem sententia. Significatum est enim mihi de vobis, fratres mei, ab his qui sunt Chloes, quod contentiones inter vos sint. Hoc autem dico, quod unusquisque vestrum dicit: Ego quidem sum Pauli, ego autem Apollo, ego vero Cephæ, ego autem Christi. Divisus est Christus? Numquid Paulus pro vobis crucifixus est? aut in nomine Pauli baptizati estis? Gratias ago Deo quod neminem vestrum baptizaverim nisi Crispum et Gaium, ne quis dicat quod in nomine meo baptizati sitis. Baptizavi autem et Stephanæ domum; cæterum nescio si quem alium baptizaverim. Non enim misit me Christus baptizare, sed evangelizare: non in sapientia verbi, ne evacuetur crux Christi. Verbum enim crucis pereuntibus quidem stultitia est, iis autem qui salvi fiunt, id est nobis, virtus Dei est. Scriptum est enim: Perdam sapientiam sapientium, et prudentiam prudentium reprobabo. Ubi sapiens? ubi scriba? ubi conquisitor hujus sæculi? Nonne stultam fecit Deus sapientiam hujus mundi? Nam quia in Dei sapientia non cognovit mundus per sapientiam Deum, placuit Deo per stultitiam prædicationis salvos facere credentes. Quoniam et Judæi signa petunt, et Græci sapientiam quærunt: nos autem prædicamus Christum crucifixum, Judæis quidem scandalum, gentibus autem stultitiam, ipsis autem vocatis Judæis atque Græcis, Christum Dei virtutem et Dei sapientiam. Quia quod stultum est Dei, sapientius est hominibus: et quod infirmum est Dei, fortius est hominibus.

Videte enim vocationem vestram, fratres, quia non multi sapientes secundum carnem, non multi potentes, non multi nobiles: sed quæ stulta sunt mundi elegit Deus, ut confundat sapientes: et infirma mundi elegit Deus, ut confundat fortia: et ignobilia mundi et contemptibilia elegit Deus, et ea quæ non sunt, ut ea quæ sunt destruat: ut non glorietur omnis caro in conspectu ejus. Ex ipso autem vos estis in Christo Jesu, qui factus est nobis sapientia a Deo, et justitia, et sanctificatio, et redemptio: ut quemadmodum scriptum est: Qui gloriatur, in Domino glorietur.

CAP. II.

Et ego cum venissem ad vos, fratres, veni non in sublimitate sermonis aut sapientiæ annuntians vobis testimonium Christi. Non enim judicavi me scire aliquid inter vos, nisi Jesum Christum, et hunc crucifixum. Et ego in infirmitate et timore et tremore multo fui apud vos: et sermo meus et prædicatio mea non in persuasibilibus humanæ sapientiæ verbis, sed in ostensione spiritus et virtutis: ut fides vestra non sit in sapientia hominum, sed in virtute Dei.

Sapientiam autem loquimur inter perfectos, sapientiam vero non hujus sæculi, neque principum hujus sæculi, qui destruuntur: sed loquimur Dei sapientiam in mysterio, quæ abscondita est, quam prædestinavit Deus ante sæcula in gloriam nostram, quam nemo principum hujus sæculi cognovit. Si enim cognovissent, nunquam Dominum gloriæ crucifixissent. Sed sicut scriptum est: Quod oculus non vidit, nec auris audivit, nec in cor hominis ascendit, quæ præparavit Deus iis qui diligunt illum. Nobis autem revelavit Deus per spiritum suum. Spiritus enim omnia scrutatur, etiam profunda Dei. Quis enim scit hominum quæ sunt hominis, nisi spiritus hominis qui in ipso est? Ita et quæ Dei sunt nemo cognovit, nisi spiritus Dei. Nos autem non spiritum hujus mundi accepimus, sed spiritum qui ex Deo est, ut sciamus quæ a Deo donata sunt nobis. Quæ et loquimur non in doctis humanæ sapientiæ verbis, sed in doctrina spiritus, spiritualibus spiritualia comparantes. Animalis autem homo non percipit ea quæ sunt spiritus Dei: stultitia enim est illi, et non potest intelligere, quia spiritualiter examinatur. Spiritualis autem judicat omnia, et ipse a nemine judicatur. Quis enim cognovit sensum Domini, qui instruat eum? Nos autem sensum Christi habemus.

CAP. III.

Et ego, fratres, non potui vobis loqui quasi spiritualibus, sed quasi carnalibus, tamquam parvulis in Christo lac vobis potum dedi, non escam: nondum enim poteratis, sed nec nunc quidem potestis: adhuc enim carnales estis. Cum enim sit inter vos æmulatio et contentio, nonne carnales estis, et secundum hominem ambulatis? Cum enim quis dicat: Ego quidem sum Pauli; alius autem: Ego vero Apollo; nonne homines estis? Quis ergo Paulus, quis autem Apollo, nisi ministri ejus cui credidistis, et unicuique sicut Dominus dedit? Ego plantavi, Apollo rigavit, sed Deus incrementum dedit. Neque qui plantat est aliquid, neque qui rigat, sed qui incrementum dat Deus. Qui autem plantat et qui rigat unum sunt. Unusquisque autem propriam mercedem accipiet secundum suum laborem. Dei enim sumus adjutores, Dei agricultura estis, Dei ædificatio estis.

Secundum gratiam Dei quæ data est mihi, ut sapiens architectus fundamentum posui: alius autem superædificat. Unusquisque autem videat quomodo superædificet. Fundamentum enim aliud nemo potest ponere præter id quod positum est, quod est Christus Jesus. Si quis autem superædificat super fundamentum hoc aurum, argentum, lapides pretiosos, ligna, fenum, stipulam, unius cujusque opus manifestum erit: dies enim Domini declarabit, quia in igne revelabitur, et uniuscujusque opus quale sit ignis probabit. Si cujus opus manserit quod superædificavit, mercedem accipiet. Si cujus opus arserit, detrimentum patietur: ipse autem salvus erit, sic tamen quasi per ignem.

Nescitis quia templum Dei estis, et spiritus Dei habitat in vobis? Si quis templum Dei violaverit, disperdet illum Deus. Templum enim Dei sanctum est, quod estis vos.

Nemo se seducat. Si quis videtur inter vos sapiens esse in hoc sæculo, stultus fiat, ut sit sapiens. Sapientia enim hujus mundi stultitia est apud Deum. Scriptum est enim: Qui apprehendit sapientes in astutia eorum. Et iterum: Dominus novit cogitationes sapientium, quoniam vanæ sunt.

Nemo ergo glorietur in hominibus. Omnia enim vestra sunt, sive Paulus, sive Apollo, sive Cephas, sive mundus, sive vita, sive mors, sive præsentia, sive futura: omnia enim vestra sunt, vos autem Christi, Christus autem Dei.

Sic nos existimet homo ut ministros Christi, et dispensatores mysteriorum Dei. Hic jam quæritur inter dispensatores ut fidelis quis inveniatur. Mihi autem pro minimo est ut a vobis judicer aut ab humano die: sed neque meipsum judico. Nihil enim mihi conscius sum, sed non in hoc justificatus sum: qui autem judicat me Dominus est. Itaque nolite ante tempus judicare, quoad usque veniat Dominus, qui et illuminabit abscondita tenebrarum, et manifestabit consilia cordium: et tunc laus erit unicuique a Deo.

Hæc autem, fratres, transfiguravi per me et per Apollo propter vos, ut in nobis discatis ne supra quam scriptum est unus adversus alterum inflemini pro alio. Quis enim te discernit? quid autem habes quod non accepisti? si autem accepisti, quid gloriaris quasi non accepisti? Jam saturati estis, jam divites facti estis, sine nobis regnatis: et utinam regnetis, ut et nos vobiscum regnemus. Puto enim quod Deus nos apostolos novissimos ostendit, tamquam morti destinatos: quia spectaculum facti sumus mundo, et angelis, et hominibus. Nos stulti propter Christum, vos autem prudentes in Christo: nos infirmi, vos autem fortes: vos nobiles, nos autem ignobiles. Usque hanc horam et esurimus, et sitimus, et nudi sumus, et colaphizamur, et instabiles sumus, et laboramus operantes manibus nostris: maledicimur, et benedicimus: persecutionem patimur, et sustinemus: blasphemamur, et obsecramus: tamquam purgamenta hujus mundi facti sumus, omnium peripsema usque nunc.

Non ut confundam vos hæc scribo, sed ut filios meos carissimos moneo. Nam si decem millia pædagogorum habeatis in Christo, sed non multos patres: nam in Christo Jesu per evangelium ego vos genui. Rogo ergo vos, imitatores mei estote, sicut et ego Christi. Propter hoc misi vobis Timotheum, qui est filius meus carissimus et fidelis in Domino, qui vos commonebit vias meas quæ sunt in Christo, sicut ubique in omni Ecclesia doceo. Tamquam non venturus sum ad vos, quidam inflati sunt. Veniam autem ad vos cito si Dominus voluerit, et cognoscam non sermonem eorum qui inflati sunt, sed virtutem. Non enim in sermone est regnum Dei, sed in virtute. Quid vultis? in virga veniam ad vos, an in charitate et spiritu mansuetudinis?

CAP. V.

Omnino audita est inter vos fornicatio, et talis fornicatio quæ nec inter gentes, ita ut uxorem patris habeat aliquis. Et vos inflati estis, et non magis luctum habuistis, ut tollatur de medio vestrum qui hoc opus fecit? Ego quidem absens corpore, præsens autem spiritu, jam judicavi ut præsens eum qui sic operatus est in nomine Domini nostri Jesu Christi, congregatis vobis et meo spiritu, cum virtute Domini nostri Jesu Christi, tradere hujusmodi satanæ in interitum carnis, ut spiritus salvus sit in die Domini nostri Jesu Christi.

Non bona gloratio vestra. Nescitis quia modicum fermentum totam massam corrumpit? Expurgate vetus fermentum, ut sitis nova conspersio, sicut estis azymi. Etenim Pascha nostrum immolatus est Christus. Itaque epulemur non in fermento veteri, neque in fermento malitiæ et nequitiæ, sed in azymis sinceritatis et veritatis.

Scripsi vobis in epistola ne commisceamini fornicariis: non utique fornicariis hujus mundi, aut avaris, aut rapacibus, aut idolis servientibus, alioquin debueratis de hoc mundo exisse: nunc autem scripsi vobis non commisceri si is qui frater nominatur inter vos fornicator sit, aut avarus, aut idolis serviens, aut maledicus, aut ebriosus, aut rapax: cum hujusmodi nec cibum sumere. Quid enim mihi de iis qui foris sunt judicare? nonne de iis qui intus sunt vos judicatis? Nam eos qui foris sunt Deus judicabit. Auferte malum ex vobis ipsis.

CAP. VI.

Audet aliquis vestrum negotium habens adversus alterum judicari apud iniquos, et non apud sanctos? An nescitis quia sancti de hoc mundo judicabunt? Et si in vobis judicabitur mundus, indigni estis qui de minimis judicetis? Nescitis quoniam angelos judicabimus, quanto magis sæcularia? Sæcularia quidem judicia si habueritis, contemptibiles qui sunt in Ecclesia illos constituite ad judicandum. Ad reverentiam vestram dico. Sic non est inter vos quisquam sapiens qui possit judicare inter fratrem suum? Sed frater cum fratre judicium contendit, et hoc apud infideles? Jam quidem omnino delictum est in vobis quod judicia habetis inter vos. Quare non magis injuriam accipitis? quare non magis fraudem patimini? Sed vos injuriam facitis et fraudatis, et hoc fratribus.

An nescitis quia iniqui regnum Dei possidebunt? Nolite errare: neque fornicarii, neque idolis servientes, neque adulteri, neque molles, neque masculorum concubitores, neque fures, neque avari, neque ebriosi, neque maledici, neque rapaces regnum Dei possidebunt. Et hæc quidam fuistis: sed abluti estis, sed sanctificati estis, sed justificati estis in nomine Domini nostri Jesu Christi, et in spiritu Dei nostri.

Omnia mihi licent, sed non omnia expedient. Omnia mihi licent, sed non ego cujusquam rebus serviam. Cibus ventri, et venter cibis: Deus autem et hunc et has destruet. Corpus autem non fornicationi, sed Domino, et Dominus corpori. Deus autem et Dominum suscitavit, et nos suscitabit per virtutem suam. Nescitis quia membra vestra templum sunt Spiritus sancti, qui in vobis est, quem habetis a Deo, et non estis vestri? Empti enim estis pretio magno. Glorificate et portate Deum in corpore vestro.

CAP. VII.

De quibus autem scripsistis mihi, bonum est homini mulierem non tangere. Propter fornicationes autem unusquisque suam uxorem habeat, et unaquæque suum virum habeat. Uxori vir debitum reddat: similiter autem et uxor viro. Mulier sui corporis potestatem non habet, sed vir. Similiter autem et vir non habet potestatem sui corporis, sed mulier. Nolite fraudare invicem, nisi forte ex consensu ad tempus, ut vacetis orationi: et iterum revertimini in idipsum, ne tentet vos satanas propter incontinentiam vestram. Hoc autem dico secundum indulgentiam, non secundum imperium. Volo autem omnes homines esse sicut meipsum: sed unusquisque proprium donum habet ex Deo, alius quidem sic, alius autem sic.

Dico autem non nuptis et viduis: bonum est illis si sic permaneant sicut et ego. Quod si non se continent, nubant. Melius est enim nubere quam uri. His autem qui matrimonio conjuncti sunt præcipio non ego, sed Dominus, uxorem a viro non discedere. Quod si discesserit, manere innuptam aut viro suo reconciliari. Et vir uxorem non dimittat.

Cæteris ego dico, non Dominus: si quis frater uxorem habet infidelem, et hæc consentit habitare cum illo, non dimittat illam. Et mulier quæ habet virum infidelem, et hic consentit habitare cum illa, non dimittat virum. Sanctificatus est enim vir infidelis in muliere fideli, et sanctificata est mulier fidelis in viro infideli. Alioquin filii vestri immundi essent, nunc autem sancti sunt. Quod si infidelis discedit, discedat: non enim servituti subjectus est frater aut soror in hujusmodi. In pace autem vocavit nos Deus. Unde enim scis, mulier, si virum tuum salvum facies? aut unde scis, vir, si uxorem tuam salvam facies?

Nisi unicuique sicut divisit Dominus, unumquemque sicut vocavit Deus, ita ambulet. Et sic in omnibus Ecclesiis doceo. Circumcisus aliquis vocatus est, non adducat præputium. In præputio quis vocatus est, non circumcidatur. Circumcisio nihil est, et præputium nihil est, sed observatio mandatorum Dei. Unusquisque in qua vocatione vocatus est, in ea permaneat. Servus vocatus es, non sit tibi curæ: sed et si potes liber fieri, magis utere. Qui enim in Domino vocatus servus est, libertus est Domini. Similiter qui liber vocatus est, servus est Christi. Pretio empti estis, nolite fieri servi hominum. Unusquisque, fratres, in quo vocatus est, in hoc maneat apud Deum.

De virginibus autem præceptum Domini non habeo: consilium autem do tamquam misericordiam consecutus a Domino ut sim fidelis. Existimo ergo hoc bonum esse propter instantem necessitatem, quoniam bonum est homini sic esse. Alligatus es uxori? noli quærere solutionem. Solutus es ab uxore? noli quærere uxorem. Quod si acceperis uxorem, non peccasti. Et si nupserit virgo, non peccavit. Tribulationem tamen carnis habebunt hujusmodi. Ego autem vobis parco. Hoc autem dico, fratres, tempus modicum est. Reliquum est ut et qui habent uxores tamquam non habentes sint, et qui flent tamquam non flentes, et qui gaudent tamquam non gaudentes, et qui emunt tamquam non possidentes, et qui utuntur hoc mundo tamquam non utantur. Præterit enim figura hujus mundi. Sine sollicitudine autem vos esse volo. Qui sine uxore est, sollicitus est quæ Domini sunt, quomodo placeat Deo. Qui autem cum uxore est, sollicitus est quæ sunt mundi, quomodo placeat uxori, et divisus est. Et mulier innupta et virgo cogitat quæ Domini sunt, ut sit sancta corpore et spiritu. Quæ autem nupta est, cogitat quæ sunt mundi, quomodo placeat viro. Hoc autem ad utilitatem vestram dico, non ut laqueum vobis injiciam, sed ad id quod honestum est, et quod facultatem præbeat sine impedimento Domino obsecrandi.

Si quis autem turpem se videri super virginem suam filiam arbitratur, si sit major natu, et sic oportet fieri, quod vult faciat, non peccat: si nubat. Qui autem statuit in corde suo firmus, non habens necessitatem, potestatem autem habens suæ voluntatis, et hoc judicavit in corde suo servare virginem suam, bene faciet. Itaque et qui matrimonio jungit virginem suam, bene facit: et qui non jungit melius faciet.

Mulier alligata est legi quanto tempore vir ejus vivit: quod si dormierit vir ejus, liberata est: cui vult nubat, tantum in Domino. Beatior autem erit si sic permanserit secundum meum consilium. Puto autem quod et ego spiritum Dei habeam.

CAP. VIII.

De his autem quæ immolata sunt idolis, scimus quia omnes scientiam habemus. Scientia inflat, charitas vero ædificat. Si quis autem existimat se scire aliquid, nondum cognovit quemadmodum oporteat eum scire. Si quis autem diligit Deum, hic cognitus est ab illo. De escis ergo quæ idolis immolantur, scimus quia nihil est idolum in mundo, et quia nullus Deus nisi unus. Nam etsi sunt qui dicantur dii sive in cœlo sive in terra, sicut sunt dii multi et domini multi: nobis tamen unus Deus Pater, ex quo omnia, et nos in illum: et unus Dominus Jesus Christus, per quem omnia, et nos per ipsum. Sed non in omnibus est scientia. Quidam autem conscientia usque nunc idoli quasi idolothytum manducant, et conscientia eorum cum sit infirma, polluitur. Escam autem nos non commendat Deo: neque enim si manducemus abundabimus, neque si non manducemus deficiemus. Videte autem ne forte licentia vestra offendiculum fiat infirmis. Si enim quis te qui habes scientiam videat in idolio recumbentem, nonne conscientia ejus qui infirmus est ædificabitur ad manducandum idolothyta? Et peribit infirmus in tua scientia frater, propter quem Christus mortuus est? Sic autem peccantes in fratres, et percutientes conscientiam eorum infirmam, in Christum peccatis. Quapropter si esca scandalizat fratrem meum, non manducabo carnem in æternum, ne fratrem meum scandalizem.

CAP. IX.

Non sum liber? non sum apostolus? nonne Jesum Dominum nostrum vidi? nonne opus meum vos estis in Domino? Si alii non sum apostolus, sed tamen vobis sum: nam signaculum apostolatus mei vos estis in Domino. Mea apud eos qui me interrogant hæc est defensio. Numquid non habemus potestatem manducandi et bibendi? Numquid non habemus potestatem mulieres sorores circumducendi, sicut et cæteri apostoli, et fratres Domini, et Cephas? Aut solus ego et Barnabas non habemus potestatem hoc operandi? Quis militat suis stipendiis unquam? quis plantat vineam, et de fructu ejus non manducat? aut quis pascit gregem, et de lacte gregis non manducat? Numquid secundum hominem hæc dico? an et lex hæc non dicit? Scriptum est enim in lege Moysi: Non alligabis os bovi trituranti. Numquid de bobus cura est Deo? an propter nos utique dicit? Propter nos enim scripta sunt: quoniam debet in spe qui arat arare, et qui triturat in spe fructus percipiendi. Si nos vobis spiritualia seminavimus, magnum est si nos carnalia vestra metamus? Si alii potestatis vestræ participant, quare non magis nos? Sed non usi sumus hac potestate, sed omnia sustinemus, ne quod offendiculum demus evangelio Christi. Nescitis quod qui in templo operantur, quæ de templo sunt edunt? qui altari deserviunt, cum altari participantur? Ita et Dominus ordinavit his qui evangelium annuntiant de evangelio vivere.

Ego autem nullo horum usus sum. Non scribo autem hæc ut ita fiant in me: bonum est enim mihi magis mori quam ut gloriam meam quis evacuet. Nam si evangelizavero, non est mihi gloria: necessitas enim mihi incumbit. Væ enim mihi est si non evangelizavero. Si enim volens hoc ago, mercedem habeo: si autem nolens, dispensatio mihi credita est. Quæ est ergo merces mea? ut evangelizans sine sumptu ponam evangelium, ut non abutar potestate mea in evangelio. Cum enim liber essem ex omnibus, omnium me servum feci, ut plures lucrifacerem. Et factus sum Judæis tamquam Judæus, ut Judæos lucrifacerem: his qui sub lege sunt tamquam sub lege, cum ipse non essem sub lege, ut eos qui sub lege erant lucrifacerem: cum essem sine lege, tamquam sine lege, cum non essem sine lege Dei, sed in lege Christi, ut lucrifacerem eos qui sine lege erant. Factus sum infirmis infirmus, ut infirmos lucrifacerem: omnibus omnia factus sum, ut omnes facerem salvos. Omnia autem facio propter evangelium, ut particeps ejus efficiar.

Nescitis quod qui in stadio currunt, omnes quidem currunt, sed unus accipit bravium? Sic currite ut comprehendatis. Omnis autem qui in agone contendit, omnia abstinet: illi quidem ut corruptibilem coronam accipiant, nos autem incorruptam. Ego igitur sic curro, non quasi in incertum: sic pugno, non quasi aerem verberans: sed castigo corpus meum, et in servitutem redigo: ne forte cum aliis prædicaverim, ipse reprobus efficiar.

CAP. X.

Nolo enim vos ignorare, fratres, quoniam patres nostri omnes sub nube fuerunt, et omnes mare transierunt, et omnes in Moyse baptizati sunt in nube et in mari, et omnes eamdem escam spiritualem manducaverunt, et omnes eumdem potum spiritualem biberunt. Bibebant autem de spirituali consequente eos petra: petra autem erat Christus. Sed non in pluribus eorum beneplacitum est Deo: nam prostrati sunt in deserto. Hæc autem in figura facta sunt nostri, ut non simus concupiscentes malorum sicut et illi concupierunt. Neque idolis servite sicut quidam eorum, sicut scriptum est: Sedit populus manducare et bibere, et surrexerunt ludere. Neque fornicemur sicut quidam eorum fornicati sunt, et ceciderunt una die viginti tria millia. Neque tentemus Christum sicut quidam eorum tentaverunt, et a serpentibus perierunt. Neque murmuraveritis sicut quidam eorum murmuraverunt, et perierunt ab exterminatore. Hæc autem omnia in figura contingebant illis: scripta sunt autem ad correptionem nostram, in quos fines sæculorum devenerunt. Itaque qui se existimat stare videat ne cadat. Tentatio vos non apprehendat nisi humana: fidelis autem Deus qui non patietur vos tentari supra id quod potestis, sed faciet cum tentatione etiam exitum ut possitis sustinere.

Propter quod, carissimi mei, fugite a idolorum cultura. Tamquam prudentibus dico: vos ipsi judicate quod dico. Calix benedictionis cui benedicimus, nonne communicatio sanguinis Christi est? Et panis quem frangimus, nonne participatio corporis Domini est? Quoniam unus panis, unum corpus multi sumus, omnes qui de uno pane participamus. Videte Israel secundum carnem: nonne qui edunt hostias, participes altaris sunt? Quid ergo dico? quod idolothytum sit aliquid? aut quod idolum sit aliquid? Sed quæ immolant gentes, dæmoniis immolant et non Deo. Nolo autem vos socios fieri dæmoniorum. Non potestis calicem Domini bibere, et calicem dæmoniorum: non potestis mensæ Domini participes esse, et mensæ dæmoniorum. Aut æmulamur Dominum? numquid fortiores illo sumus?

Omnia mihi licent, sed non omnia expedient. Omnia mihi licent, sed non omnia ædificant. Nemo quod suum est quærat, sed quod alterius. Omne quod in macello venit manducate, nihil interrogantes propter conscientiam: Domini enim est terra et plenitudo ejus. Si quis vocat vos infidelis, et vultis ire, omne quod vobis apponitur manducate, nihil interrogantes propter conscientiam. Si quis autem dixerit vobis: Hoc immolatitium est, nolite manducare propter illum qui ostendit, et conscientiam: conscientiam autem dico non tuam, sed alterius. Ut quid enim libertas mea judicatur ab aliena conscientia? Si ego gratia participo, quid blasphemor pro eo quod ego gratias ago? Sive ergo manducatis, sive bibitis, sive aliud quid facitis, omnia in gloriam Dei facite. Sine offensione estote et Judæis et gentibus et Ecclesiæ Dei: sicut et ego per omnia omnibus placeo, non quærens quod mihi utile est, sed quod multis, ut salvi fiant.

CAP. XI.

Imitatores mei estote, sicut et ego Christi. Laudo autem vos, fratres, quod per omnia mei memores estis, et sicut tradidi vobis præcepta mea tenetis. Volo autem vos scire quod omnis viri caput Christus est: caput autem mulieris vir: caput autem Christi Deus. Omnis vir orans aut prophetans velato capite, deturpat caput suum. Omnis autem mulier orans aut prophetans non velato capite, deturpat caput suum: unum enim est ac si detonsa sit. Nam si non velatur mulier, tondeatur. Quod si turpe est mulieri tondere aut radi, veletur. Vir quidem non debet velare caput, imago et gloria Dei existens: mulier autem gloria viri est. Non enim est vir de muliere, sed mulier de viro. Et non est creatus vir propter mulierem, sed mulier propter virum. Propter hoc debet mulier potestatem habere super caput propter angelos. Verumtamen neque vir sine muliere, neque mulier sine viro in Domino. Sicut enim mulier de viro, ita et vir per mulierem: omnia autem ex Deo. Inter vos ipsos judicate: decet mulierem non velatam orare Deum? Nec ipsa natura docet vos quod vir quidem si comam nutriat, ignominia est illi: mulier autem si comam nutriat, gloria est illi? quia capillus pro velamine data est illi. Si quis autem videtur contentiosus esse, nos talem consuetudinem non habemus, neque Ecclesia Dei.

Hoc autem præcipiens non laudo quod non in melius sed in deterius congregemini. Primum quidem convenientibus vobis in Ecclesia audio scissuras esse inter vos, et ex parte credo. Nam et hæreses oportet esse, ut et qui probati sunt manifesti fiant in vobis. Convenientibus ergo vobis in unum, jam non est dominicam cœnam manducare. Unusquisque enim suam cœnam præsumit ad manducandum: et alius quidem esurit, alius autem ebrius est. Numquid domos non habetis ad manducandum et bibendum? aut Ecclesiam Dei contemnitis, et confunditis eos qui non habent? Quid dicam vobis? laudem vos? In hoc non laudo.

Ego enim accepi a Domino quod et tradidi vobis, quoniam Dominus Jesus in qua nocte tradebatur accepit panem, et gratias agens fregit, et dixit: Accipite et manducate: hoc est corpus meum quod pro vobis tradetur: hoc facite in meam commemorationem. Similiter et calicem, postquam cœnavit, dicens: Hic calix novum testamentum est in meo sanguine: hoc facite quotiescumque bibetis in meam commemorationem. Quotiescumque enim manducabitis panem hunc et calicem bibetis, mortem Domini annuntiabitis donec veniat. Itaque quicumque manducaverit panem hunc vel biberit calicem Domini indigne, reus erit corporis et sanguinis Domini. Probet autem seipsum homo, et sic de pane illo edat et de calice bibat. Qui enim manducat et bibit indigne, judicium sibi manducat et bibit, non dijudicans corpus Domini. Ideo inter vos multi infirmi et imbecilles, et dormiunt multi. Quod si nosmetipsos dijudicaremus, non utique judicaremur. Dum judicamur autem a Domino corripimur, ut non cum hoc mundo damnemur. Itaque, fratres mei, cum convenitis ad manducandum, invicem exspectate. Si quis esurit, domi manducet, ut non in judicium convenitis. Cætera autem cum venero disponam.

CAP. XII.

De spiritualibus autem, fratres, nolo vos ignorare. Scitis quoniam cum gentes essetis, ad simulacra muta prout ducebamini euntes. Ideo notum vobis facio quod nemo in spiritu Dei loquens dicit anathema Jesu. Et nemo potest dicere Dominus Jesus nisi in Spiritu sancto.

Divisiones autem gratiarum sunt, idem autem Spiritus. Et divisiones ministrationum sunt, idem autem Dominus. Et divisiones operationum sunt, idem vero Deus qui operatur omnia in omnibus. Unicuique autem datur manifestatio spiritus ad utilitatem. Alii quidem per spiritum datur sermo sapientiæ, alii autem sermo scientiæ secundum eumdem spiritum, alteri fides in eodem spiritu, alii gratia sanitatum in uno spiritu, alii operatio virtutum, alii prophetia, alii discretio spirituum, alii genera linguarum, alii interpretatio sermonum. Omnia autem hæc operatur unus atque idem spiritus, dividens singulis prout vult.

Sicut enim corpus unum est et membra habet multa, omnia autem membra corporis cum sint multa, unum tamen corpus sunt: ita et Christus. Etenim in uno spiritu nos omnes in unum corpus baptizati sumus, sive Judæi, sive gentiles, sive servi, sive liberi: et omnes in uno spiritu potati sumus. Nam et corpus non est unum membrum, sed multa. Si dicat pes: Quia non sum manus, non sum de corpore, numquid propterea non est de corpore? Et si dicat auris: Quia non sum oculus, non sum de corpore, numquid propterea non est de corpore? Si totum corpus oculus, ubi auditus? Si totum auditus, ubi odoratus? Nunc autem posuit Deus membra unumquodque eorum in corpore sicut voluit. Quod si essent omnia unum membrum, ubi corpus? Nunc autem multa quidem membra, unum autem corpus. Non potest autem oculus dicere manui: Opera tua non indigeo: aut iterum caput pedibus: Vestri non indigeo. Sed multo magis quæ videntur membra corporis infirmiora esse, necessariora sunt: et quæ putamus ignobiliora membra corporis, his honorem abundantiorem circumdamus: et quæ inhonesta sunt nostra, abundantiorem honestatem habent: honesta autem nostra indigentiam non habent. Sed Deus temperavit corpus, ei cui deerat abundantius tribuens honorem, ut non sit schisma in corpore, sed pro invicem sollicita sint membra. Et sive patitur unum membrum, compatiuntur omnia membra: sive glorificatur unum membrum, congaudent omnia membra. Vos autem estis corpus Christi, et membra de membro. Et quosdam quidem posuit Deus in Ecclesia primum apostolos, secundo prophetas, tertio doctores, deinde virtutes, deinde gratias curationum, opitulationes, gubernationes, genera linguarum, interpretationes sermonum. Numquid omnes apostoli? numquid omnes prophetæ? numquid omnes doctores? numquid omnes virtutes? numquid omnes gratiam habent curationum? numquid omnes linguis loquuntur? numquid omnes interpretantur? Æmulamini autem charismata meliora. Et adhuc excellentiorem vobis viam demonstro.

CAP. XIII.

Si linguis hominum loquar et angelorum, charitatem autem non habeam, factus sum velut æs sonans aut cymbalum tinniens. Et si habuero prophetiam, et noverim mysteria omnia et omnem scientiam, et si habuero omnem fidem ita ut montes transferam, charitatem autem non habuero, nihil sum. Et si distribuero in cibos pauperum omnes facultates meas, et si tradidero corpus meum ita ut ardeam, charitatem autem non habuero, nihil mihi prodest.

Charitas patiens est, benigna est: charitas non æmulatur, non agit perperam, non inflatur, non est ambitiosa, non quærit quæ sua sunt, non irritatur, non cogitat malum, non gaudet super iniquitate, congaudet autem veritati: omnia suffert, omnia credit, omnia sperat, omnia sustinet. Charitas nunquam excidit: sive prophetiæ evacuabuntur, sive linguæ cessabunt, sive scientia destruetur. Ex parte enim scimus, et ex parte prophetamus. Cum autem venerit quod perfectum est, evacuabitur quod ex parte est. Quando eram parvulus, loquebar ut parvulus, sapiebam ut parvulus, cogitabam ut parvulus. Quando factus sum vir, evacuavi quæ erant parvuli. Videmus nunc per speculum in ænigmate, tunc autem facie ad faciem. Nunc cognosco ex parte, tunc autem cognoscam sicut et cognitus sum. Nunc autem manent fides, spes, charitas, tria hæc: major autem horum est charitas.

Sectamini charitatem, æmulamini spiritualia, magis autem ut prophetetis. Qui enim loquitur lingua, non hominibus loquitur sed Deo: nemo enim audit, spiritu autem loquitur mysteria. Qui autem prophetat hominibus loquitur ædificationem et exhortationem et consolationem. Qui loquitur lingua semetipsum ædificat: qui autem prophetat Ecclesiam Dei ædificat. Volo autem omnes vos loqui linguis, magis autem ut prophetetis. Major enim est qui prophetat quam qui loquitur linguis, nisi forte interpretetur ut Ecclesia ædificationem accipiat. Nunc autem, fratres, si ad vos venero linguis loquens, quid vobis prodero, nisi vobis loquar aut in revelatione aut in scientia aut in prophetia aut in doctrina? Tamen quæ sine anima sunt vocem dantia, sive tibia sive citharæ, quomodo scietur quod tibia canitur aut citharizatur? Et enim si incertam vocem det tuba, quis parabit se ad bellum? Sic et vos per linguam nisi manifestum sermonem dederitis, quomodo intelligetur quod dicitur? Eritis enim in aera loquentes. Tot genera sunt forsitan vocum in mundo, et nihil sine voce est. Si ergo nescio virtutem vocis, ero cui loquor barbarus, et qui loquitur mihi barbarus. Sic et vos, quia æmulatores estis spirituum, ad ædificationem Ecclesiæ quærite ut abundetis. Quapropter qui loquitur lingua, oret ut interpretetur. Nam si orem lingua, spiritus meus orat, mens autem mea sine fructu est. Quid ergo est? orabo spiritu, orabo et mente: psallam spiritu, psallam et mente. Alioquin si benedixeris spiritu, qui supplet locum idiotæ, quomodo dicet Amen super benedictionem tuam, quia quid dicas nescit? Nam tu quidem bene gratias agis, sed alter non ædificatur. Gratias ago Deo meo, quod omnium vestrum linguis loquor: sed in Ecclesia volo quinque verba mea loqui sensu meo, ut et alios instruam, quam decem millia verborum lingua.

Fratres, nolite pueri effici sensibus, sed malitia parvuli estote, sensibus autem perfecti. In lege scriptum est: Quoniam in aliis linguis et labiis aliis loquar populo huic, et nec sic exaudient me, dicit Dominus. Itaque linguæ in signum sunt non fidelibus, sed infidelibus: prophetiæ autem non infidelibus, sed fidelibus. Si ergo convenerit universa Ecclesia in unum, et omnes linguis loquantur, introeant autem idiotæ aut infideles, nonne dicent quod insanitis? Si autem omnes prophetent, introeat autem quis infidelis aut idiota, convincitur a cunctis, dijudicatur ab omnibus: occulta cordis ejus manifesta fiunt: et ita cadens in faciem adorabit Deum, pronuntians quod vere Deus in vobis sit.

Quid ergo est, fratres? cum convenitis, unusquisque vestrum psalmum habet, doctrinam habet, linguam habet, revelationem habet, interpretationem habet. Omnia ad ædificationem fiant. Sive quis lingua loquitur, per duos aut ad plurimum tres, et per ordinem, et unus interpretetur. Si autem non fuerit interpres, taceat in Ecclesia, sibi autem loquatur et Deo. Prophetæ autem duo aut tres dicant, et alii dijudicent. Si autem alii revelatum fuerit sedenti, prior taceat. Potestis enim per unum omnes prophetare, ut omnes discant, et omnes consolentur. Et spiritus prophetarum prophetis subjecti sunt. Non enim est dissensionis Deus, sed pacis, sicut in omnibus Ecclesiis sanctorum docui. Mulieres in Ecclesiis taceant non enim permittitur eis loqui, sed subditas esse sicut et lex dicit. Quod si quid volunt discere, domi viros suos interrogent: turpe enim est mulieri loqui in Ecclesia. Numquid a vobis verbum Dei processit? aut in vos solos pervenit? Si quis videtur propheta esse aut spiritualis, agnoscat quæ scribo vobis, quia Dominica sunt mandata. Quod si quis ignorat, ignorabitur. Itaque, fratres mei, æmulamini prophetare, et loqui linguis nolite prohibere. Omnia autem honeste et secundum ordinem fiant.

CAP. XV.

Notum autem vobis facio, fratres, evangelium quod prædicavi vobis, quod et accepistis, in quo et statis, per quod et salvamini, qua ratione prædicaverim vobis, si tenetis, nisi frustra credidistis. Tradidi enim vobis in primis quod et accepi, quoniam Christus mortuus est pro peccatis nostris secundum Scripturas, et quia sepultus est, et quia resurrexit tertia die secundum Scripturas, et quia visus est Cephæ, et post hoc undecim. Deinde visus est plus quam quingentis fratribus simul, ex quibus multi manent usque adhuc, quidam autem dormierunt. Deinde visus est Jacobo, deinde apostolis omnibus. Novissime autem omnium tamquam abortivo visus est et mihi. Ego enim sum minimus apostolorum, qui non sum dignus vocari apostolus, quoniam persecutus sum Ecclesiam Dei. Gratia autem Dei sum id quod sum, et gratia ejus in me vacua non fuit, sed abundantius illis omnibus laboravi: non autem ego, sed gratia Dei mecum. Sive ergo ego, sive illi, sic prædicamus, et sic credidistis.

Si autem Christus prædicatur quod res

CAP. VII.

EGO sum Mariæ, quæ peperi verum Deum, & verum hominem filium Dei. Ego sum Regina Angelorum. Filius meus diligit te toto corde. Ideo dilige tu eum. Tu debes esse ornata honestissimis vestibus. Quæ quomodo & quales debeant esse monstrabo tibi. Sicut enim tu prius habuisti camisiam, inde tunicam, calceos, pallium, & monile in pectore, sic nunc spiritualiter habere debes. Camisia est contritio. Sicut enim camisia propinquior est carni, sic contritio, & confessio prima via est conversionis ad Deum. Qua meas, quæ gaudebas in peccato mundatur, & caro sordida refrænatur. Gaudeiduo, sunt duo affectus. Voluntas scilicet emendandi commissa, & voluntas faciendi bona, & abstinendi a malis. Tunica tua est spes ad Deum; quia sicut tunica habet duas manicas, sic in spe sit iustitia, & misericordia. Vt sic speres de misericordia Dei, quod non negligas iustitiam eius. Et sic cogita iustitiam eius, & iudicium, vt non obliuiscaris misericordiam. Quia nec iustitiam aliquam facit sine misericordia, nec misericordiam sine iustitia. Pallium est fides, sicut enim pallium omnia operit, & omnia in eo concluduntur, sic fide homo omnia potest comprehendere, & attingere. Hoc pallium debes esse respersum signis charitatis sponsi tui. Quomodo scilicet creauit te, quomodo redemit. Quomodo enutriuit te, & induxit te in spiritum suum, & aperuit tibi oculos spirituales. Monile est consideratio passionis eius. Hoc sit iugiter fixum in pectore tuo. Quomodo derisus, & flagellatus, quomodo sanguinolentus, & omnibus neruis confossis viuus stabat in cruce. Quomodo in morte ex passione doloris acutissimi, totum corpus contremuit. Quomodo in manus patris commendabat spiritum. Hoc monile semper sit in pectore tuo. Corona sit in capite tuo, id est, castitas in affectu, vt malles pati verbera, quã inquinari amplius. Inde sis verecunda, & honesta. Nihil cogita, nihil desidera, nisi Deum tuum, Creatorem quem cum habueris, omnia habes. Et sic ornata expectabis sponsum tuum.

CAP. VIII.

EGO sum Regina cæli. Tu sollicita es quomodo laudare me debes, scias pro certo, quod omnis laus filij mei, laus mea est. Et qui inhonorat eum, inhonorat me; quia ego sic fernenter dilexi eum, & ipse me, quod quasi vnũ cor ambo fuimus. Et ipse me, quæ eram vas terrenum, sic honorifice honorauit, vt supra omnes Angelos me exaltaret. Sic ergo laudare debes me. Benedictus sit tu Deus Creator omnium, qui in vterum Mariæ Virginis descendere dignatus es. Benedictus sis tu Deus, qui cum Maria Virgine esse sine grauamine voluisti, & de ea immaculatam carnem, sine peccato sumere dignatus es. Benedictus sis tu Deus, qui ad Virginem cum gaudio animæ eius, & omnium membrorum venisti, & cum gaudio omnium membrorum eius sine peccato de ea processisti. Benedictus sis tu Deus, qui Mariam Virginem Matrem tuam, post Ascensionem tuam crebris consolationibus lætificasti, & per teipsum eam consolando visitasti. 1 Benedictus sis tu Deus, qui corpus, & animam Mariæ Virginis matris tuæ in cælum Assumpsisti, & super omnes Angelos iuxta Deitatem tuam honorifice collocasti. Miserere mei propter preces eius.

sine misericordia ligauerunt. Alligatus autem nihil omnino operimenti habebat, sed sicut natus est sic stabat, & patiebatur erubescentiam nuditatis suæ. Consurrexerunt autem inimici eius, qui fugientibus amicis suis vndique astabant, & flagellabant corpus eius ab omni macula, & peccato mundum. 8 8 Ad primum igitur ictum, ego quę astabam propinquius cecidi quasi mortua, & resumpto spiritu, vidi corpus eius verberatum, & flagellatum vsque ad costas, ita vt costæ 9 eius viderentur. 9 Et quod amarius erat, cum retraherentur flagella, carnes ipsis flagellis sulcabantur. Cunque filius meus totus sanguinolentus, totus sic lacceratus stabat, vt in eo non inueniretur sanitas, nec quid flagellaretur, tunc vnus concitato in se spiritu quæsiuit. Nunquid interficiendus eum sic iniudicatum? & statim secuit vinacula eius. Inde filius meus induit se vestibus suis, tunc locum vbi stabant pedes filij mei totum repletum vidi sanguine, & ex vestigijs filij mei cognoscebam incessum eius. Quo enim procedebat, apparebat terra insuta sanguine, nec ipsi patiebantur, vt se induceret, sed compulerunt & traxerunt eum, vt acceleraret. Cum autem duceretur quasi latro, ipse filius meus exterfit sanguinem ab oculis suis. Cunque iudicatus esset, imposuerunt sibi crucem portandam. Quam cum ad modicum portasset, veniens vnus assumpsit eam sibi portandam. Interim cum filio meo ad locum passionis, alij percusserunt eum in collo, alij in faciem ceciderunt. Et tam fortiter, & valenter percussus est, vt licet ego non viderem percutientem, audiui tamen clare sonitum percussionis. Cumque venissem cum eo ad locum passionis, omnia instrumenta vidi ibi præparata ad mortem suam. Et ipse filius meus veniens ibi, exuit se personaliter vestibus suis, minis stris inter se dicentibus. Hæc vestimenta nostra sunt, nec ea rehabebit, quia damnatus est ad mortem. Stante autem filio mei sicut natus erat nudo corpore, vnus tunc accurrens, apportauit sibi velamen quo ipse exultans intime, velabat verenda sua. Postea rapuerunt eum sæui tortores, & extenderunt in Cruce. Primo dexteram manum eius affigentes stipiti, qui pro clauis perforatus erat. Et manum ipsam ex ea parte perforabant, qua os solidius erat. Inde trahentes cum func aliam manum eius, ad 10 stipitē eam simili modo affixerunt. 10 Deinde dextrum pedem crucifixerunt, & super hunc sinistrum duobus clauis, ita vt omnes nerui, & venæ extenderentur, & rumperen- 11 tur. 11 Quo facto aptauerunt coronam de spinis capiti eius, quæ tam vehementer reuerendum caput filij mei pupugit, vt ex sanguine fluente replerentur oculi eius, obstruerentur aures, & barba tota decurrente sanguine deturparetur. Cunque sic sanguinolentus, & perforatus staret, condolens mihi astanti, & gementi respexit sanguinolentis oculis ad Ioannem fororium meum, 12 & me commendabat ei. 12 In tempore illo var. audiui alios dicentes, quod filius meus lec. latro erat, aliosque quod mendax, alios quod nullius dignior esset morte, quā filius meus, ex quorum auditu dolor meus renouebatur. Sed sicut dictum est, cum primus clauus infigeretur ei, ego ad primum ictum conturbata cecidi quasi mortua, oculis obscuratis, manibus trementibus, pedibus nutantibus, & non respexi præ amaritudine, antequam ex toto attonitus erat. Surgens vero vidi filium meum miserabiliter pendentem, & ego mater eius mœstissima vndique contemnata, præ dolore vix stare potui. Filius autem meus videns me, & amicos suos inconsolabiliter flentes, flebili voce, & alta clamabat ad Patrem suum, dicens. Pater quare me dereliquisti? quasi diceret. Nullus est, qui misereatur mei, nisi tu Pater. Tunc oculi eius apparuerunt semimortui, maxillę eius submersæ, & vultus lugubris, os eius apertum, & lingua sanguinolenta, venter dorso inhærens consumpto humore quasi non haberet viscera. Omne corpus pallidum, & languidū ex fluxu, & egressione sanguinis. Manus & pedes eius rigidissime extenti erant, & iuxta formam crucis cruci attracti, & conformati. Barba & crines ex toto respersi sanguine. Itaque cum filius meus sic lacceratus, & luuidus staret, solum cor recens erat, quia optime, & fortissime naturæ erat. De mea enim carne corpus mundissimum, & optime complexionatum sumpsit. Cutis eius sic tenera & gracilis erat, quod numquam ita leniter flagellabatur, quin statim exiret sanguis. Ipse quoque sanguis eius tam recens erat, vt in cute munda videri posset. Et quia optime naturæ erat, vita cum morte in corpore eius perforato certabat. Nam quandoque dolor de membris, & neruis corporis perforatis ad cor ascendebat, quod recentissimum erat, & incorruptum, & incredibili dolore, & passione vexabat ipsum. Et quandoque dolor a corde in membra lacerata descendebat, & sic mortem prolongabat cū amaritudine. Cunque filius meus his doloribus circumseptus respexit ad amicos suos flentes, qui maluissent illam penam in se cū auxlio eius pertulisse, vel in æternum in inferno ardere, quam eum sic videre cruciari. Dolor ille ex amicorum dolore, omnem amaritudinem, & tribulationem, quam vel in corpore, vel in corde sustinuit excedebat, Rust-resistance and Yield. Rust-resistance and yield are not always correlated. Some varieties are resistant to rust but yield poorly, while others are susceptible to rust but yield well. Rust-resistance is a hereditary character, but yield is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with high yield.

Rust-resistance and Quality. Rust-resistance and quality are also not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have poor quality, while others have good quality. Quality is also a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with good quality.

Rust-resistance and Maturity. Rust-resistance and maturity are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties are late maturing, while others are early maturing. Maturity is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with early maturity.

Rust-resistance and Winter-hardiness. Rust-resistance and winter-hardiness are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties are winter-hardy, while others are not winter-hardy. Winter-hardiness is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with winter-hardiness.

Rust-resistance and Drought-resistance. Rust-resistance and drought-resistance are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties are drought-resistant, while others are not drought-resistant. Drought-resistance is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with drought-resistance.

Rust-resistance and Lodging-resistance. Rust-resistance and lodging-resistance are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties are lodging-resistant, while others are not lodging-resistant. Lodging-resistance is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with lodging-resistance.

Rust-resistance and Shattering-resistance. Rust-resistance and shattering-resistance are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties are shattering-resistant, while others are not shattering-resistant. Shattering-resistance is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with shattering-resistance.

Rust-resistance and Awnedness. Rust-resistance and awnedness are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties are awned, while others are awnless. Awnedness is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with awnedness.

Rust-resistance and Glumaceousness. Rust-resistance and glumaceousness are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties are glumaceous, while others are naked. Glumaceousness is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with glumaceousness.

Rust-resistance and Color of Grain. Rust-resistance and color of grain are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have red grain, while others have white grain. Color of grain is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of grain.

Rust-resistance and Size of Grain. Rust-resistance and size of grain are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have large grain, while others have small grain. Size of grain is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with size of grain.

Rust-resistance and Shape of Grain. Rust-resistance and shape of grain are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have plump grain, while others have slender grain. Shape of grain is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with shape of grain.

Rust-resistance and Number of Spikelets per Spike. Rust-resistance and number of spikelets per spike are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have many spikelets per spike, while others have few spikelets per spike. Number of spikelets per spike is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with number of spikelets per spike.

Rust-resistance and Number of Grains per Spike. Rust-resistance and number of grains per spike are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have many grains per spike, while others have few grains per spike. Number of grains per spike is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with number of grains per spike.

Rust-resistance and Weight of Grain. Rust-resistance and weight of grain are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have heavy grain, while others have light grain. Weight of grain is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with weight of grain.

Rust-resistance and Number of Tillers. Rust-resistance and number of tillers are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have many tillers, while others have few tillers. Number of tillers is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with number of tillers.

Rust-resistance and Height of Plant. Rust-resistance and height of plant are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties are tall, while others are short. Height of plant is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with height of plant.

Rust-resistance and Color of Leaf. Rust-resistance and color of leaf are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have green leaves, while others have yellow leaves. Color of leaf is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of leaf.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Leaf. Rust-resistance and pubescence of leaf are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent leaves, while others have glabrous leaves. Pubescence of leaf is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of leaf.

Rust-resistance and Color of Stem. Rust-resistance and color of stem are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have green stems, while others have yellow stems. Color of stem is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of stem.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Stem. Rust-resistance and pubescence of stem are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent stems, while others have glabrous stems. Pubescence of stem is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of stem.

Rust-resistance and Color of Glume. Rust-resistance and color of glume are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white glumes, while others have red glumes. Color of glume is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of glume.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Glume. Rust-resistance and pubescence of glume are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent glumes, while others have glabrous glumes. Pubescence of glume is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of glume.

Rust-resistance and Color of Awn. Rust-resistance and color of awn are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white awns, while others have red awns. Color of awn is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of awn.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Awn. Rust-resistance and pubescence of awn are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent awns, while others have glabrous awns. Pubescence of awn is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of awn.

Rust-resistance and Color of Rachis. Rust-resistance and color of rachis are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white rachis, while others have red rachis. Color of rachis is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of rachis.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Rachis. Rust-resistance and pubescence of rachis are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent rachis, while others have glabrous rachis. Pubescence of rachis is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of rachis.

Rust-resistance and Color of Node. Rust-resistance and color of node are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white nodes, while others have red nodes. Color of node is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of node.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Node. Rust-resistance and pubescence of node are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent nodes, while others have glabrous nodes. Pubescence of node is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of node.

Rust-resistance and Color of Internode. Rust-resistance and color of internode are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white internodes, while others have red internodes. Color of internode is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of internode.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Internode. Rust-resistance and pubescence of internode are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent internodes, while others have glabrous internodes. Pubescence of internode is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of internode.

Rust-resistance and Color of Sheath. Rust-resistance and color of sheath are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white sheaths, while others have red sheaths. Color of sheath is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of sheath.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Sheath. Rust-resistance and pubescence of sheath are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent sheaths, while others have glabrous sheaths. Pubescence of sheath is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of sheath.

Rust-resistance and Color of Ligule. Rust-resistance and color of ligule are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white ligules, while others have red ligules. Color of ligule is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of ligule.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Ligule. Rust-resistance and pubescence of ligule are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent ligules, while others have glabrous ligules. Pubescence of ligule is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of ligule.

Rust-resistance and Color of Auricle. Rust-resistance and color of auricle are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white auricles, while others have red auricles. Color of auricle is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of auricle.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Auricle. Rust-resistance and pubescence of auricle are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent auricles, while others have glabrous auricles. Pubescence of auricle is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of auricle.

Rust-resistance and Color of Collar. Rust-resistance and color of collar are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white collars, while others have red collars. Color of collar is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of collar.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Collar. Rust-resistance and pubescence of collar are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent collars, while others have glabrous collars. Pubescence of collar is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of collar.

Rust-resistance and Color of Root. Rust-resistance and color of root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white roots, while others have red roots. Color of root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of root.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Root. Rust-resistance and pubescence of root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent roots, while others have glabrous roots. Pubescence of root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of root.

Rust-resistance and Color of Seedling. Rust-resistance and color of seedling are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white seedlings, while others have red seedlings. Color of seedling is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of seedling.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Seedling. Rust-resistance and pubescence of seedling are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent seedlings, while others have glabrous seedlings. Pubescence of seedling is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of seedling.

Rust-resistance and Color of Coleoptile. Rust-resistance and color of coleoptile are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white coleoptiles, while others have red coleoptiles. Color of coleoptile is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of coleoptile.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Coleoptile. Rust-resistance and pubescence of coleoptile are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent coleoptiles, while others have glabrous coleoptiles. Pubescence of coleoptile is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of coleoptile.

Rust-resistance and Color of Mesocotyl. Rust-resistance and color of mesocotyl are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white mesocotyls, while others have red mesocotyls. Color of mesocotyl is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of mesocotyl.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Mesocotyl. Rust-resistance and pubescence of mesocotyl are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent mesocotyls, while others have glabrous mesocotyls. Pubescence of mesocotyl is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of mesocotyl.

Rust-resistance and Color of Seed. Rust-resistance and color of seed are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white seeds, while others have red seeds. Color of seed is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of seed.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Seed. Rust-resistance and pubescence of seed are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent seeds, while others have glabrous seeds. Pubescence of seed is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of seed.

Rust-resistance and Color of Embryo. Rust-resistance and color of embryo are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white embryos, while others have red embryos. Color of embryo is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of embryo.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Embryo. Rust-resistance and pubescence of embryo are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent embryos, while others have glabrous embryos. Pubescence of embryo is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of embryo.

Rust-resistance and Color of Endosperm. Rust-resistance and color of endosperm are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white endosperms, while others have red endosperms. Color of endosperm is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of endosperm.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Endosperm. Rust-resistance and pubescence of endosperm are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent endosperms, while others have glabrous endosperms. Pubescence of endosperm is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of endosperm.

Rust-resistance and Color of Aleurone Layer. Rust-resistance and color of aleurone layer are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white aleurone layers, while others have red aleurone layers. Color of aleurone layer is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of aleurone layer.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Aleurone Layer. Rust-resistance and pubescence of aleurone layer are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent aleurone layers, while others have glabrous aleurone layers. Pubescence of aleurone layer is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of aleurone layer.

Rust-resistance and Color of Pericarp. Rust-resistance and color of pericarp are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white pericarps, while others have red pericarps. Color of pericarp is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of pericarp.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Pericarp. Rust-resistance and pubescence of pericarp are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent pericarps, while others have glabrous pericarps. Pubescence of pericarp is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of pericarp.

Rust-resistance and Color of Testa. Rust-resistance and color of testa are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white testas, while others have red testas. Color of testa is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of testa.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Testa. Rust-resistance and pubescence of testa are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent testas, while others have glabrous testas. Pubescence of testa is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of testa.

Rust-resistance and Color of Hilum. Rust-resistance and color of hilum are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white hilums, while others have red hilums. Color of hilum is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of hilum.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Hilum. Rust-resistance and pubescence of hilum are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent hilums, while others have glabrous hilums. Pubescence of hilum is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of hilum.

Rust-resistance and Color of Germ. Rust-resistance and color of germ are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white germs, while others have red germs. Color of germ is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of germ.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Germ. Rust-resistance and pubescence of germ are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent germs, while others have glabrous germs. Pubescence of germ is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of germ.

Rust-resistance and Color of Scutellum. Rust-resistance and color of scutellum are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white scutellums, while others have red scutellums. Color of scutellum is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of scutellum.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Scutellum. Rust-resistance and pubescence of scutellum are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent scutellums, while others have glabrous scutellums. Pubescence of scutellum is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of scutellum.

Rust-resistance and Color of Epiblast. Rust-resistance and color of epiblast are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white epiblasts, while others have red epiblasts. Color of epiblast is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of epiblast.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Epiblast. Rust-resistance and pubescence of epiblast are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent epiblasts, while others have glabrous epiblasts. Pubescence of epiblast is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of epiblast.

Rust-resistance and Color of Coleorhiza. Rust-resistance and color of coleorhiza are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white coleorhizas, while others have red coleorhizas. Color of coleorhiza is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of coleorhiza.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Coleorhiza. Rust-resistance and pubescence of coleorhiza are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent coleorhizas, while others have glabrous coleorhizas. Pubescence of coleorhiza is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of coleorhiza.

Rust-resistance and Color of Radicle. Rust-resistance and color of radicle are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white radicles, while others have red radicles. Color of radicle is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of radicle.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Radicle. Rust-resistance and pubescence of radicle are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent radicles, while others have glabrous radicles. Pubescence of radicle is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of radicle.

Rust-resistance and Color of Plumule. Rust-resistance and color of plumule are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white plumules, while others have red plumules. Color of plumule is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of plumule.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Plumule. Rust-resistance and pubescence of plumule are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent plumules, while others have glabrous plumules. Pubescence of plumule is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of plumule.

Rust-resistance and Color of Cotyledon. Rust-resistance and color of cotyledon are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white cotyledons, while others have red cotyledons. Color of cotyledon is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of cotyledon.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Cotyledon. Rust-resistance and pubescence of cotyledon are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent cotyledons, while others have glabrous cotyledons. Pubescence of cotyledon is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of cotyledon.

Rust-resistance and Color of Hypocotyl. Rust-resistance and color of hypocotyl are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white hypocotyls, while others have red hypocotyls. Color of hypocotyl is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of hypocotyl.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Hypocotyl. Rust-resistance and pubescence of hypocotyl are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent hypocotyls, while others have glabrous hypocotyls. Pubescence of hypocotyl is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of hypocotyl.

Rust-resistance and Color of Epicotyl. Rust-resistance and color of epicotyl are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white epicotyls, while others have red epicotyls. Color of epicotyl is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of epicotyl.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Epicotyl. Rust-resistance and pubescence of epicotyl are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent epicotyls, while others have glabrous epicotyls. Pubescence of epicotyl is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of epicotyl.

Rust-resistance and Color of Primary Root. Rust-resistance and color of primary root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white primary roots, while others have red primary roots. Color of primary root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of primary root.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Primary Root. Rust-resistance and pubescence of primary root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent primary roots, while others have glabrous primary roots. Pubescence of primary root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of primary root.

Rust-resistance and Color of Secondary Root. Rust-resistance and color of secondary root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white secondary roots, while others have red secondary roots. Color of secondary root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of secondary root.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Secondary Root. Rust-resistance and pubescence of secondary root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent secondary roots, while others have glabrous secondary roots. Pubescence of secondary root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of secondary root.

Rust-resistance and Color of Tertiary Root. Rust-resistance and color of tertiary root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white tertiary roots, while others have red tertiary roots. Color of tertiary root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of tertiary root.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Tertiary Root. Rust-resistance and pubescence of tertiary root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent tertiary roots, while others have glabrous tertiary roots. Pubescence of tertiary root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of tertiary root.

Rust-resistance and Color of Adventitious Root. Rust-resistance and color of adventitious root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white adventitious roots, while others have red adventitious roots. Color of adventitious root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of adventitious root.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Adventitious Root. Rust-resistance and pubescence of adventitious root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent adventitious roots, while others have glabrous adventitious roots. Pubescence of adventitious root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of adventitious root.

Rust-resistance and Color of Lateral Root. Rust-resistance and color of lateral root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white lateral roots, while others have red lateral roots. Color of lateral root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of lateral root.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Lateral Root. Rust-resistance and pubescence of lateral root are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent lateral roots, while others have glabrous lateral roots. Pubescence of lateral root is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of lateral root.

Rust-resistance and Color of Root Hair. Rust-resistance and color of root hair are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white root hairs, while others have red root hairs. Color of root hair is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of root hair.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Root Hair. Rust-resistance and pubescence of root hair are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent root hairs, while others have glabrous root hairs. Pubescence of root hair is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of root hair.

Rust-resistance and Color of Root Cap. Rust-resistance and color of root cap are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white root caps, while others have red root caps. Color of root cap is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of root cap.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Root Cap. Rust-resistance and pubescence of root cap are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent root caps, while others have glabrous root caps. Pubescence of root cap is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of root cap.

Rust-resistance and Color of Root Tip. Rust-resistance and color of root tip are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white root tips, while others have red root tips. Color of root tip is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of root tip.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Root Tip. Rust-resistance and pubescence of root tip are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent root tips, while others have glabrous root tips. Pubescence of root tip is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of root tip.

Rust-resistance and Color of Root Nodule. Rust-resistance and color of root nodule are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white root nodules, while others have red root nodules. Color of root nodule is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of root nodule.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Root Nodule. Rust-resistance and pubescence of root nodule are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent root nodules, while others have glabrous root nodules. Pubescence of root nodule is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of root nodule.

Rust-resistance and Color of Mycorrhiza. Rust-resistance and color of mycorrhiza are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white mycorrhizas, while others have red mycorrhizas. Color of mycorrhiza is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of mycorrhiza.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Mycorrhiza. Rust-resistance and pubescence of mycorrhiza are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent mycorrhizas, while others have glabrous mycorrhizas. Pubescence of mycorrhiza is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of mycorrhiza.

Rust-resistance and Color of Fungus. Rust-resistance and color of fungus are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white fungi, while others have red fungi. Color of fungus is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of fungus.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Fungus. Rust-resistance and pubescence of fungus are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent fungi, while others have glabrous fungi. Pubescence of fungus is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of fungus.

Rust-resistance and Color of Bacteria. Rust-resistance and color of bacteria are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white bacteria, while others have red bacteria. Color of bacteria is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of bacteria.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Bacteria. Rust-resistance and pubescence of bacteria are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent bacteria, while others have glabrous bacteria. Pubescence of bacteria is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of bacteria.

Rust-resistance and Color of Virus. Rust-resistance and color of virus are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white viruses, while others have red viruses. Color of virus is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of virus.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Virus. Rust-resistance and pubescence of virus are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent viruses, while others have glabrous viruses. Pubescence of virus is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of virus.

Rust-resistance and Color of Insect. Rust-resistance and color of insect are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white insects, while others have red insects. Color of insect is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of insect.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Insect. Rust-resistance and pubescence of insect are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent insects, while others have glabrous insects. Pubescence of insect is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of insect.

Rust-resistance and Color of Nematode. Rust-resistance and color of nematode are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white nematodes, while others have red nematodes. Color of nematode is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of nematode.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Nematode. Rust-resistance and pubescence of nematode are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent nematodes, while others have glabrous nematodes. Pubescence of nematode is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of nematode.

Rust-resistance and Color of Mite. Rust-resistance and color of mite are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white mites, while others have red mites. Color of mite is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of mite.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Mite. Rust-resistance and pubescence of mite are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent mites, while others have glabrous mites. Pubescence of mite is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of mite.

Rust-resistance and Color of Snail. Rust-resistance and color of snail are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white snails, while others have red snails. Color of snail is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of snail.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Snail. Rust-resistance and pubescence of snail are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent snails, while others have glabrous snails. Pubescence of snail is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of snail.

Rust-resistance and Color of Slug. Rust-resistance and color of slug are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white slugs, while others have red slugs. Color of slug is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of slug.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Slug. Rust-resistance and pubescence of slug are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent slugs, while others have glabrous slugs. Pubescence of slug is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of slug.

Rust-resistance and Color of Bird. Rust-resistance and color of bird are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white birds, while others have red birds. Color of bird is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of bird.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Bird. Rust-resistance and pubescence of bird are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent birds, while others have glabrous birds. Pubescence of bird is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of bird.

Rust-resistance and Color of Mammal. Rust-resistance and color of mammal are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white mammals, while others have red mammals. Color of mammal is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of mammal.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Mammal. Rust-resistance and pubescence of mammal are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent mammals, while others have glabrous mammals. Pubescence of mammal is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of mammal.

Rust-resistance and Color of Human. Rust-resistance and color of human are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white humans, while others have red humans. Color of human is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with color of human.

Rust-resistance and Pubescence of Human. Rust-resistance and pubescence of human are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have pubescent humans, while others have glabrous humans. Pubescence of human is a hereditary character, but it is influenced by many factors. Therefore, it is difficult to breed varieties that combine rust-resistance with pubescence of human.

Rust-resistance and Color of God. Rust-resistance and color of god are not always correlated. Some rust-resistant varieties have white gods, while VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam qualiter se tradidit spontaneæ suis inimicis crucifixoribus. Et de modo viuendi in continentia omnium membrorum ab illicitis moribus exemplo suę dulcissimę passionis.

CAP. XI.

EILIVS Dei loquebatur ad sponsam dicens. Ego sum Creator cæli, & terræ, & corpus meum verũ est, quod in altari consecratur. Dilige me toto corde, quia ego dilexi te.

1 1 Et ego spontaneæ tradidi me inimicis meis, & remanserunt amici mei, & mater mea, in amarissimo dolore, & fletu. Cunque viderem lanceam, clauos, flagella, & alia passionis genera parata, processi nihilominus lætus ad passionem. Cunque caput meum esset vndique corona cruentatum, & vndique sanguis flueret, & etiam si adhuc inimici tetigissent cor meum, magis hoc pa terer diuidi, & vulnerari, quam te carere vellem. Propterea nimis ingrata es, si me pro tanta charitate non dilexeris. Si enim caput meum punctum est, & inclinatum in Cruce pro te, caput tuum debet inclinari ad humilitatem. Et quia oculi mei erant sanguinolenti, & pleni lacrymis, ideo oculi tui debent abstineri a delectabili visu. Et quia aures meæ implebantur sanguine, & audiebant verba detractionis meæ, ideirco aures tuæ auertãtur a scurrilibus, & ineptis locutionibus. Quia etiam os meum potatum est amarissima potatione, & prohibitum a bona, ideo os tuum obstruatur a malis, & aperiatur ad bona. Et quia manus meæ extensæ sunt cum clauis, propterea opera tua, quæ figurantur in manibus, extendantur ad pauperes, & ad præcepta mea. Pedes tui, id est, affectus tui quibus ad me ire debes, crucifigantur a voluptatibus. Vt sicut in omnibus membris passus sum ego, sic omnia membra tua parata sint ad obsequium meum. Quia maius seruitium exigo a te, quam ab alijs, quia maiorem gratiam feci tibi.

NOTAE.

1 EGo spõtaneæ tradidi me inimicis meis, & remanserunt amici mei.

Ex verbis præsentis notæ deducendum est primo, Christi Domini mortem omnino fuisse liberam, ac voluntariam, ipse namque sponte se tradidit potestati carnificum, vt scribitur hic, & infra cap. 22. Lucas cap. 22. vbi refert Dominum dixisse illis: hæc est hora vestra, & potestas tenebrarum harum, & sensus est nunc, potestis facere in me quidquid libet, non quod potentiores sitis, sed quod venerit hora, qua ego mortem subire volo, secundum Patris decretum, idem constat Isaiæ 53 cum dicit de Christo oblatus est, quia ipse voluit, & Ioannis 10. nemo tollit animam meam a me, sed ego pono eam, nulla ergo fuit in Christo necessitas moriendi, si loquamur de necessitate, quæ voluntati repugnat mors enim Christi libera fuit, & voluntate diuina, & voluntate humana deliberata, vnde egregie Damascenus lib. 3. de fide cap. 20. loquens de hac necessitate, quæ voluntati opponitur asserit, quod nihil coactum in Christo consideratur, sed omnia erant in eo voluntaria, quod probat D. Thomas 3. par. q. 47. art. 1. quoniam Christus poterat supernaturali virtute mortem impedire, & noluit ob humani generis redemptionem, si vero fermo fit de necessitate naturali, quæ ad principia naturalia sequitur, tunc dici potest in Christo huiusmodi extitisse necessitatem moriendi, quia ipse habuit naturam susceptiuam contrarietatis primarum qualitatum, ad quarum alterationem de necessitate mors sequitur, & quamquam Redemptor noster non fuisset violenter occisus, senio tamen secundum naturam defecisset, vt probauimus infra hoc eodem lib. cap. 37. nota 1. quare si de necessitate coactionis verba facimus, quæ naturæ corporali repugnat, dicendum est Christi corpus secundum conditionem propriæ naturæ huiusmodi necessitati fuisse subiectum, sunt ergo verba præsentis notæ intelligenda de necessitate, quæ opponitur voluntati, quæ non fuit in Christo, quippe qui, vt legimus hoc loco sponte se tradidit inimicis suis, quia permisit flagellari, & occidi cum posset impedire, cum autem dicit passionis suæ ministros ex inimicis amicos factos esse, indicat pro eis orasse, illosque efficaci oratione sua iustificasse, & Patri suo reconciliasse.

CAP. I.

Apoc. 1. Reuelatio Iesu Christi, quam dedit illi Deus, ut ostenderet seruis suis quæ oportet fieri citò: & significauit mittens per angelum suum seruo suo Ioanni, Qui testimonium perhibuit verbo Dei, & testimonium Iesu Christi, quæcunque vidit.

Beatus qui legit & audit verba prophetiæ huius, & seruat ea quæ in ea scripta sunt: tempus enim prope est.

Ioannes septem ecclesiis quæ sunt in Asia, gratia vobis & pax ab eo qui est, & qui erat, & qui venturus est, & a septem spiritibus qui in conspectu throni eius sunt,

Et a Iesu Christo, qui est testis fidelis, primogenitus mortuorum, & princeps regum terræ: qui dilexit nos, & lauit nos a peccatis nostris in sanguine suo, Et fecit nos regnum & sacerdotes Deo & Patri suo: ipsi gloria & imperium in sæcula sæculorum. Amen.

Ecce venit cum nubibus, & videbit eum omnis oculus, & qui eum pupugerunt: & plangent se super eum omnes tribus terræ. Etiam. Amen.

Ego sum Alpha & Omega, principium & finis, dicit Dominus Deus, qui est, & qui erat, & qui venturus est omnipotens.

Ego Ioannes frater vester, & socius in tribulatione, & regno, & patientia in Iesu Christo, fui in insula quæ appellatur Patmos propter verbum Dei, & testimonium Iesu Christi.

Fui in spiritu in dominica die, & audiui post me vocem magnam tanquam tubæ, Dicentis: Quod vides, scribe in libro, & mitte septem ecclesiis, quæ sunt in Asia, Ephesum, & Smyrnam, & Pergamum, & Thyatiram, & Sardis, & Philadelphiam, & Laodiciam.

Et conuersus sum ut viderem vocem quæ loquebatur mecum. Et conuersus vidi septem candelabra aurea, Et in medio septem candelabrorum aureorum similem filio hominis, vestitum podere, & præcinctum ad mamillas zona aurea.

Caput autem eius & capilli erant candidi tanquam lana alba, & tanquam nix, & oculi eius tanquam flamma ignis, Et pedes eius similes aurichalco, sicut in camino ardenti, & vox illius tanquam vox aquarum multarum.

Et habebat in dextera sua stellas septem, & de ore eius gladius vtraque parte acutus exibat, & facies eius sicut sol lucet in virtute sua.

Et cum vidissem eum, cecidi ad pedes eius tanquam mortuus. Et posuit dextram suam super me, dicens mihi: Ne timeas, ego sum primus & nouissimus, Et viuens, & mortuus fui, & ecce sum viuens in sæcula sæculorum, & habeo claues mortis & inferni.

Scribe ergo quæ vidisti, & quæ sunt, & quæ oportet fieri post hæc.

Sacramentum septem stellarum quas vidisti in dextera mea, & septem candelabra aurea. Septem stellæ angeli sunt septem ecclesiarum: & candelabra septem, septem ecclesiæ sunt.

CAP. II.

Angelo Ephesi ecclesiæ scribe: Hæc dicit qui tenet septem stellas in dextera sua, qui ambulat in medio septem candelabrorum aureorum:

Scio opera tua, & laborem, & patientiam tuam, & quia non potes sustinere malos, & tentasti eos qui se dicunt apostolos esse, & non sunt, & inuenisti eos mendaces, Et patientiam habes, & sustinuisti propter nomen meum, & non defecisti.

Sed habeo aduersum te, quod charitatem tuam primam reliqueris.

Memor esto itaque vnde excideris, & age pœnitentiam, & prima opera fac. Alioquin venio tibi, & mouebo candelabrum tuum de loco suo, nisi pœnitentiam egeris.

Sed hoc habes, quod odisti facta Nicolaitarum, quæ & ego odi.

Qui habet aurem, audiat quid spiritus dicat ecclesiis. Vincenti dabo edere de ligno vitæ, quod est in paradiso Dei mei.

Et angelo Smyrnæ ecclesiæ scribe: Hæc dicit primus & nouissimus, qui fuit mortuus, & vixit:

Scio tribulationem tuam, & paupertatem tuam, sed dives es: & blasphemaris ab eis qui se dicunt Iudæos esse, & non sunt, sed synagoga Satanæ.

Nihil horum timeas quæ passurus es. Ecce missurus est diabolus quosdam ex vobis in carcerem, vt tentemini: & habebitis tribulationem diebus decem. Esto fidelis vsque ad mortem, & dabo tibi coronam vitæ.

Qui habet aurem, audiat quid spiritus dicat ecclesiis. Qui vicerit non lædetur a morte secunda.

Et angelo Pergami ecclesiæ scribe: Hæc dicit qui habet rhomphæam vtraque parte acutam:

Scio vbi habitas, vbi sedes Satanæ, & tenes nomen meum, & non negasti fidem meam. Et in diebus illis Antipas testis meus fidelis, qui occisus est apud vos, vbi Satanas habitat.

Sed habeo contra te pauca, quia habes illic tenentes doctrinam Balaam, qui docebat Balac mittere scandalum coram filiis Israel, manducare, & fornicari:

Ita habes & tu tenentes doctrinam Nicolaitarum similiter.

Pœnitentiam age: alioquin venio tibi cito, & pugnabo cum illis in gladio oris mei.

Qui habet aurem, audiat quid spiritus dicat ecclesiis. Vincenti dabo manna absconditum, & dabo illi calculum candidum, & in calculo nomen nouum scriptum, quod nemo nouit nisi qui accipit.

Et angelo Thyatiræ ecclesiæ scribe: Hæc dicit filius Dei, qui habet oculos tanquam flammam ignis, & pedes eius similes aurichalco:

Scio opera tua, & fidem, & charitatem, & ministerium, & patientiam tuam, & opera tua, quæ nouissima plura sunt prioribus.

Sed habeo aduersum te pauca, quia permittis mulierem Iezabel, quæ se dicit prophetissam, docere, & seducere seruos meos, fornicari, & manducare de idolothytis.

Et dedi illi tempus vt pœnitentiam ageret, & non vult pœnitere a fornicatione sua.

Ecce mittam eam in lectum, & qui mœchantur cum ea in tribulationem maximam, nisi pœnitentiam egerint ab operibus suis.

Et filios eius interficiam in morte, & scient omnes ecclesiæ quia ego sum scrutans renes & corda, & dabo vnicuique vestrum secundum opera sua.

Vobis autem dico, & cæteris qui Thyatiræ estis, quicunque non habent doctrinam hanc, qui non cognouerunt altitudines Satanæ, sicut dicunt, non mittam in vos aliud pondus.

Tamen quod habetis, tenete donec veniam.

Et qui vicerit, & custodierit vsque in finem opera mea, dabo illi potestatem super gentes,

Et reget eas in virga ferrea, & tanquam vasa figuli confringentur, Sicut & ego accepi a Patre meo: & dabo illi stellam matutinam.

Qui habet aurem, audiat quid spiritus dicat ecclesiis.

Et angelo Sardis ecclesiæ scribe: Hæc dicit qui habet septem spiritus Dei, & septem stellas: Scio opera tua, quia nomen habes quod viuas, & mortuus es.

Esto vigilans, & confirma cætera quæ moritura erant. Non enim inuenio opera tua plena coram Deo meo.

In mente ergo habe qualiter accepisti & audisti, & obserua, & pœnitentiam age. Si ergo non vigilaueris, veniam ad te tanquam fur, & nescies qua hora veniam ad te.

Sed habes pauca nomina in Sardis, quæ non inquinauerunt vestimenta sua, & ambulabunt mecum in albis, quia dignus est.

Qui vicerit, sic vestietur vestimentis albis, & non delebo nomen eius de libro vitæ, & confitebor nomen eius coram Patre meo, & coram angelis eius.

Qui habet aurem, audiat quid spiritus dicat ecclesiis.

Et angelo Philadelphiæ ecclesiæ scribe: Hæc dicit sanctus & verus, qui habet clauem Dauid, qui aperit & nemo claudit, claudit & nemo aperit:

Scio opera tua. Ecce dedi coram te ostium apertum, quod nemo potest claudere illud, quia modicam habes virtutem, & seruasti verbum meum, & non negasti nomen meum.

Ecce dabo de synagoga Satanæ, qui dicunt se Iudæos esse, & non sunt, sed mentiuntur: ecce faciam illos vt veniant & adorent ante pedes tuos, & scient quia ego dilexi te.

Quoniam seruasti verbum patientiæ meæ, & ego seruabo te ab hora tentationis illius, quæ ventura est in vniuersum orbem tentare habitantes in terra.

Ecce venio cito: tene quod habes, vt nemo accipiat coronam tuam.

Qui vicerit, faciam illum columnam in templo Dei mei, & foras ultra non egredietur, & scribam super eum nomen Dei mei, & nomen ciuitatis Dei mei nouæ Ierusalem, quæ descendit de cælo a Deo meo, & nomen meum nouum.

Qui habet aurem, audiat quid spiritus dicat ecclesiis.

Et angelo Laodiciæ ecclesiæ scribe: Hæc dicit Amen, testis fidelis & verus, qui est principium creaturæ Dei:

Scio opera tua, quia neque frigidus es neque feruens. Vtinam frigidus esses aut feruens!

Sed quia tepidus es, & nec frigidus nec feruens, incipiam te euomere ex ore meo.

Quia dicis: Diues sum, & locupletatus sum, & nullius egeo: & nescis quia tu es miser & miserabilis, & pauper, & cæcus, & nudus.

Suadeo tibi emere a me aurum ignitum probatum, vt locuples fias, & vestimentis albis induaris, & non appareat confusio nuditatis tuæ, & collyrio inunge oculos tuos, vt videas.

Ego quos amo, arguo & castigo. Æmulare ergo & pœnitentiam age.

Ecce sto ad ostium & pulso: si quis audierit vocem meam, & aperuerit mihi ianuam, intrabo ad illum, & cœnabo cum illo, & ipse mecum.

Qui vicerit, dabo ei sedere mecum in throno meo, sicut & ego vici, & sedi cum Patre meo in throno eius.

Qui habet aurem, audiat quid spiritus dicat ecclesiis.

CAP. III.

Post hæc vidi, & ecce ostium apertum in cælo, & vox prima quam audiui tanquam tubæ loquentis mecum, dicentis: Ascende huc, & ostendam tibi quæ oportet fieri post hæc.

Statim fui in spiritu, & ecce sedes posita erat in cælo, & supra sedem sedens.

Et qui sedebat similis erat aspectui lapidis iaspidis & sardinis: & iris erat in circuitu sedis similis aspectui smaragdini.

Et in circuitu sedis sedilia viginti quatuor: & super sedilia viginti quatuor seniores sedentes circumamictos vestimentis albis, & in capitibus eorum coronæ aureæ.

Et de throno procedebant fulgura & voces & tonitrua: & septem lampades ardentes ante thronum, quæ sunt septem spiritus Dei.

Et in conspectu throni tanquam mare vitreum simile crystallo: & in medio throni & in circuitu throni quatuor animalia plena oculis ante & retro.

Et animal primum simile leoni, & animal secundum simile vitulo, & animal tertium habens faciem quasi hominis, & animal quartum simile aquilæ volanti.

Et quatuor animalia, singula eorum habebant alas senas, plena oculis intrinsecus: & requiem non habebant die ac nocte dicentia: Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus Dominus Deus omnipotens, qui erat, & qui est, & qui venturus est.

Et cum darent animalia illa gloriam & honorem & benedictionem sedenti super thronum, viuenti in sæcula sæculorum, Procidebant viginti quatuor seniores ante sedentem in throno, & adorabant viuentem in sæcula sæculorum, & mittebant coronas suas ante thronum, dicentes:

Dignus es, Domine Deus noster, accipere gloriam & honorem & virtutem: quia tu creasti omnia, & propter voluntatem tuam erant & creata sunt.

CAP. IV.

Et vidi in dextera sedentis super thronum librum scriptum intus & foris, signatum sigillis septem.

Et vidi angelum fortem prædicantem voce magna: Quis est dignus aperire librum, & soluere signacula eius?

Et nemo poterat neque in cælo neque in terra neque subtus terram aperire librum neque respicere eum.

Et ego flebam multum, quia nemo dignus inuentus est aperire librum neque videre eum.

Et vnus de senioribus dixit mihi: Ne fleueris, ecce vicit leo de tribu Iuda, radix Dauid, aperire librum & soluere septem signacula eius.

Et vidi: & ecce in medio throni & quatuor animalium & in medio seniorum agnum stantem tanquam occisum, habentem cornua septem & oculos septem, qui sunt septem spiritus Dei missi in omnem terram.

Et venit, & accepit librum de dextera sedentis super thronum.

Et cum aperuisset librum, quatuor animalia & viginti quatuor seniores procidebant coram agno, habentes singuli citharas & phialas aureas plenas odoramentorum, quæ sunt orationes sanctorum.

Et cantabant canticum nouum, dicentes: Dignus es, Domine, accipere librum & aperire signacula eius, quoniam occisus es, & redemisti nos Deo in sanguine tuo ex omni tribu & lingua & populo & natione, Et fecisti nos Deo nostro regnum & sacerdotes, & regnabimus super terram.

Et vidi, & audiui vocem angelorum multorum in circuitu throni & animalium & seniorum, & erat numerus eorum millia millium, Dicentium voce magna: Dignus est agnus qui occisus est accipere virtutem & diuinitatem & sapientiam & fortitudinem & honorem & gloriam & benedictionem.

Et omnem creaturam quæ in cælo & super terram & sub terra & quæ in mari sunt, & quæ in eis omnia audiui dicentia: Sedenti in throno & agno benedictio & honor & gloria & imperium in sæcula sæculorum.

Et quatuor animalia dicebant: Amen. Et viginti quatuor seniores procidentes adorauerunt viuentem in sæcula sæculorum.

CAP. V.

Et vidi cum aperuisset agnus vnum de septem signaculis, & audiui vnum de quatuor animalibus dicens tanquam vocem tonitrui: Veni & vide.

Et ecce equus albus, & qui sedebat super illum habebat arcum, & data est illi corona, & exiit vincens vt vinceret.

Et cum aperuisset sigillum secundum, audiui secundum animal dicens: Veni & vide.

Et exiit alius equus rufus, & qui sedebat super illum datum est ei vt sumeret pacem de terra, & vt inuicem interficiant, & datus est ei gladius magnus.

Et cum aperuisset sigillum tertium, audiui tertium animal dicens: Veni & vide. Et ecce equus niger, & qui sedebat super illum habebat stateram in manu sua.

Et audiui quasi vocem in medio quatuor animalium dicentium: Bilibris tritici denario, & tres bilibres hordei denario: & vinum & oleum ne læseris.

Et cum aperuisset sigillum quartum, audiui vocem quarti animalis dicentis: Veni & vide.

Et ecce equus pallidus, & qui sedebat super illum nomen illi mors, & infernus sequebatur eum: & data est illis potestas super quatuor partes terræ, interficere gladio & fame & mortalitate & bestiis terræ.

Et cum aperuisset sigillum quintum, vidi subtus altare animas interfectorum propter verbum Dei, & propter testimonium quod habebant.

Et clamabant voce magna, dicentes: Vsquequo, Domine sancte & verax, non iudicas & vindicas sanguinem nostrum de his qui habitant in terra?

Et datæ sunt illis singulæ stolæ albæ, & dictum est illis vt requiescerent adhuc tempus modicum, donec impleantur conserui eorum & fratres eorum, qui interficiendi sunt sicut & illi.

Et cum aperuisset sigillum sextum, vidi: & ecce terræmotus magnus factus est, & sol factus est niger tanquam saccus cilicinus, & luna tota facta est sicut sanguis,

Et stellæ cæli cecidere super terram, sicut ficus emittit grossos suos cum a vento magno mouetur, Et cælum recessit sicut liber scriptus plicatus, & omnis mons & insulæ de locis suis motæ sunt.

Et reges terræ & principes & tribuni & diuites & fortes & omnis seruus & liber absconderunt se in speluncis & petris montium,

Et dicunt montibus & petris: Cadite super nos & abscondite nos a facie sedentis super thronum & ab ira agni, Quoniam venit dies magna irarum ipsorum, & quis poterit stare?

CAP. VI.

Et post hæc vidi quatuor angelos stantes super quatuor angulos terræ, tenentes quatuor ventos terræ, ne flarent ventus super terram neque super mare neque in vllam arborem.

Et vidi alterum angelum ascendentem ab ortu solis, habentem signum Dei viui: & clamauit voce magna quatuor angelis quibus datum est nocere terræ & mari, Dicens: Nolite nocere terræ & mari neque arboribus, quoadusque signemus seruos Dei nostri in frontibus eorum.

Et audiui numerum signatorum centum quadraginta quatuor millia signati ex omni tribu filiorum Israel.

De tribu Iuda duodecim millia signati. De tribu Ruben duodecim millia signati. De tribu Gad duodecim millia signati.

De tribu Aser duodecim millia signati. De tribu Nephthali duodecim millia signati. De tribu Manasse duodecim millia signati.

De tribu Simeon duodecim millia signati. De tribu Leui duodecim millia signati. De tribu Issachar duodecim millia signati.

De tribu Zabulon duodecim millia signati. De tribu Ioseph duodecim millia signati. De tribu Beniamin duodecim millia signati.

Post hæc vidi turbam magnam, quam dinumerare nemo poterat, ex omnibus gentibus & tribubus & populis & linguis, stantes ante thronum & in conspectu agni, amicti stolis albis & palmæ in manibus eorum, Et clamabant voce magna, dicentes: Salus Deo nostro sedenti super thronum & agno.

Et omnes angeli stabant in circuitu throni & seniorum & quatuor animalium, & procidentes in conspectu throni adorauerunt Deum, Dicentes: Amen. Benedictio & claritas & sapientia & gratiarum actio & honor & virtus & fortitudo Deo nostro in sæcula sæculorum. Amen.

Et respondit vnus de senioribus, & dixit mihi: Hi qui amicti sunt stolis albis, qui sunt & vnde venerunt?

Et dixi illi: Domine mi, tu scis. Et dixit mihi: Hi sunt qui venerunt de tribulatione magna, & lauerunt stolas suas & dealbauerunt eas in sanguine agni.

Propterea sunt ante thronum Dei, & seruiunt ei die ac nocte in templo eius. Et qui sedet in throno habitabit super illos.

Non esurient neque sitient amplius, neque cadet super illos sol neque vllus æstus, Quia agnus qui in medio throni est reget illos, & deducet eos ad vitæ fontes aquarum, & absterget Deus omnem lacrimam ab oculis eorum.

CAP. VII.

Et cum aperuisset sigillum septimum, factum est silentium in cælo quasi media hora.

Et vidi septem angelos stantes in conspectu Dei, & datæ sunt illis septem tubæ.

Et alius angelus venit & stetit ante altare habens turibulum aureum, & data sunt illi incensa multa, vt daret de orationibus sanctorum omnium super altare aureum quod est ante thronum.

Et ascendit fumus incensorum de orationibus sanctorum de manu angeli coram Deo.

Et accepit angelus turibulum, & implevit illud de igne altaris, & misit in terram, & facta sunt tonitrua & voces & fulgura & terræmotus.

Et septem angeli qui habebant septem tubas præparauerunt se vt tubicinarent.

Et primus tubicinauit, & facta est grando & ignis mixta in sanguine, & missa est in terram, & tertia pars terræ combusta est, & tertia pars arborum combusta est, & omne fœnum viride combustum est.

Et secundus tubicinauit, & tanquam mons magnus igne ardens missus est in mare, & facta est tertia pars maris sanguis, Et mortua est tertia pars eorum quæ habebant animas in mari, & tertia pars nauium interiit.

Et tertius tubicinauit, & cecidit de cælo stella magna ardens tanquam face, & cecidit in tertiam partem fluminum & in fontes aquarum, Et nomen stellæ dicitur Absynthium. Et facta est tertia pars aquarum in absynthium, & multi hominum mortui sunt de aquis, quia amaræ factæ sunt.

Et quartus tubicinauit, & percussa est tertia pars solis & tertia pars lunæ & tertia pars stellarum, vt obscuretur tertia pars eorum & non luceat dies tertia parte sui, & nox similiter.

Et vidi, & audiui vnius aquilæ volantis per medium cæli dicentis voce magna: Væ, væ, væ habitantibus in terra de reliquis vocibus tubæ trium angelorum qui futuri sunt tubicinare.

CAP. VIII.

Et quintus angelus tubicinauit, & vidi stellam de cælo cecidisse in terram, & data est ei clauis putei abyssi.

Et aperuit puteum abyssi, & ascendit fumus putei sicut fumus fornacis magnæ, & obscuratus est sol & aer de fumo putei.

Et de fumo putei exierunt locustæ in terram, & datum est illis potestas sicut habent potestatem scorpiones terræ.

Et dictum est illis vt non nocerent fœno terræ neque omni viriditati neque omni arbori, nisi tantum hominibus qui non habent signum Dei in frontibus suis.

Et datum est illis non vt occiderent eos, sed vt cruciarentur mense quinque: & cruciatus eorum erat quasi cruciatus scorpionis cum percutit hominem.

Et in diebus illis quærent homines mortem & non inuenient eam, & desiderabunt mori & fugiet mors ab eis.

Et similitudines locustarum similes equis paratis in prælium, & in capitibus earum quasi coronæ similes auro, & facies earum quasi facies hominum.

Et habebant crines sicut crines mulierum, & dentes eorum sicut leonum erant.

Et habebant loricas sicut loricas ferreas, & vox alarum earum quasi vox quadrigarum equorum multorum currentium in prælium.

Et habent caudas similes scorpionibus & aculeos, & in caudis earum potestatem nocendi hominibus mensibus quinque.

Habent super se regem angelum abyssi, nomen eius Hebraice Abaddon, & in Græca nomen habet Apollyon.

Væ vnum abiit: & ecce adhuc veniunt duo væ post hæc.

Et sextus angelus tubicinauit, & audiui vocem vnam de quatuor cornibus altaris aurei quod est coram Deo, Dicentem sexto angelo qui habebat tubam: Solue quatuor angelos qui alligati sunt ad flumen magnum Euphraten.

Et soluti sunt quatuor angeli qui parati erant ad horam & diem & mensem & annum, vt occiderent tertiam partem hominum.

Et numerus exercitus equitum duo millia millium: & audiui numerum eorum.

Et sic vidi equos in visione & sessores habentes loricas igneas & hyacinthinas & sulphureas: & capita equorum quasi capita leonum, & de ore eorum procedit ignis & fumus & sulphur.

A tribus istis plagis occisa est tertia pars hominum de igne & fumo & sulphure qui procedebant de ore eorum.

Potestas enim equorum in ore eorum est & in caudis eorum: serpentes enim caudas habentes similes capitibus sibi sunt, & in his nocent.

Et reliqui hominum qui non occisi sunt in plagis his, neque pœnitentiam egerunt ab operibus manuum suarum, vt non adorent dæmonia & simulacra aurea & argentea & ærea & lapidea & ligna, quæ neque videre neque audire neque ambulare possunt, Et non pœnitentiam egerunt a homicidiis suis neque a veneficiis suis neque a fornicatione sua neque a furtis suis.

CAP. X.

Et vidi alterum angelum fortem descendentem de cælo amictum nube, & iris in capite eius, & facies eius vt sol, & pedes eius vt columnæ ignis,

Et habentem in manu sua libellum aperturn. Et posuit pedem suum dextrum super mare, sinistrum autem super terram, Et clamauit voce magna sicut rugit leo. Et cum clamasset, locuti sunt septem tonitrua voces suas.

Et cum locuti essent septem tonitrua voces suas, eram scribturus: & audiui vocem de cælo dicentem mihi: Signa quæ locuta sunt septem tonitrua, & hæc ne scribas.

Et angelum quem vidi stantem super mare & super terram leuauit manum suam ad cælum,

Et iurauit per viuentem in sæcula sæculorum, qui creauit cælum & ea quæ in illo sunt, & terram & ea quæ in illa sunt, & mare & ea quæ in eo sunt, quia tempus amplius non erit, Sed in diebus vocis septimi angeli cum cœperit tubicinare, & consummatum fuerit mysterium Dei, sicut euangelizauit seruos suos prophetas.

Et vox quam audiui de cælo iterum loquentem mecum, & dicentem: Vade, & accipe librum apertum de manu angeli stantis super mare & super terram.

Et abii ad angelum dicens illi vt daret mihi librum. Et dicit mihi: Accipe & deuora illum, & faciet amaricari ventrem tuum, sed in ore tuo erit dulcis tanquam mel.

Et accepi librum de manu angeli, & deuoraui illum, & erat in ore meo tanquam mel dulcis: & cum comedissem eum, amaricatus est venter meus.

Et dicit mihi: Oportet te iterum prophetare populis & gentibus & linguis & regibus multis.

CAP. XI.

Et datus est mihi calamus similis virgæ, dicente mihi: Surge & metire templum Dei & altare & adorantes in eo.

Atrium autem quod foris est templi eiice foras & ne mensureris illud, quia datum est gentibus, & ciuitatem sanctam calcabunt mensibus quadraginta duobus.

Et dabo duobus testibus meis, & prophetabunt diebus mille ducentis sexaginta amicti saccis.

Hi sunt duæ olivæ & duo candelabra in conspectu Dei terræ stantes.

Et si quis eos voluerit nocere, ignis egredietur de ore eorum & deuorabit inimicos eorum: & si quis voluerit eos nocere, sic oportet eum occidi.

Hi habent potestatem claudere cælum, vt non pluat imbre prophetiæ eorum: & potestatem habent super aquas conuertere eas in sanguinem & percutere terram omni plaga quotiescumque voluerint.

Et cum finierint testimonium suum, bestia quæ ascendit de abysso faciet aduersum illos bellum, & vincet illos & occidet illos.

Et corpora eorum in plateis ciuitatis magnæ, quæ vocatur spiritualiter Sodoma & Ægyptus, vbi & Dominus eorum crucifixus est.

Et de populis & tribubus & linguis & gentibus videbunt corpora eorum tribus diebus & dimidio, & corpora eorum non dimittent in monumentum.

Et habitantes in terra gaudebunt super eis & lætabuntur, & munera mittent alter ad alterum, quia duo prophetæ isti cruciauerunt habitantes in terra.

Et post tres dies & dimidium spiritus vitæ a Deo intrauit in eos, & steterunt super pedes suos, & timor magnus cecidit super eos qui videbant eos.

Et audierunt vocem magnam de cælo dicentem eis: Ascendite huc. Et ascenderunt in cælum in nube, & viderunt illos inimici eorum.

Et facta est hora terræmotus magnus, & decima pars ciuitatis cecidit, & occisa sunt in terræmotu nomina hominum septem millia, & reliqui in terrorem conuersi sunt, & dederunt gloriam Deo cæli.

Væ vnum abiit: & ecce væ tertium venit cito.

Et septimus angelus tubicinauit, & facta sunt voces magnæ in cælo dicentes: Regnum huius mundi factum est Domini nostri & Christi eius, & regnabit in sæcula sæculorum.

Et vigintiquatuor seniores qui in conspectu Dei sedent in sedibus suis, procidentes in faciem suam adorauerunt Deum, Dicentes: Confitemur tibi, Domine Deus omnipotens, qui es & qui eras & qui venturus es, quia accepisti virtutem tuam magnam & regnasti.

Et gentes iratæ sunt, & venit ira tua & tempus mortuorum iudicari, & reddere mercedem seruis tuis prophetis & sanctis & timentibus nomen tuum pusillis & magnis, & perdere eos qui perdunt terram.

Et apertum est templum Dei in cælo, & visa est arca testamenti eius in templo eius, & facta sunt fulgura & voces & tonitrua & terræmotus & grando magna.

CAP. XII.

Et signum magnum apparuit in cælo: mulier amicta sole, & luna sub pedibus eius, & in capite eius corona stellarum duodecim.

Et in vtero habens, & clamat parturiens & cruciatur vt pariat.

Et alius signum apparuit in cælo: & ecce draco magnus rufus habens capita septem & cornua decem, & in capitibus suis septem diademata, Et cauda eius trahebat tertiam partem stellarum cæli, & misit eas in terram. Et draco stetit ante mulierem quæ erat paritura, vt cum peperisset filium eius deuoraret.

Et peperit filium masculum qui recturus erat omnes gentes in virga ferrea. Et raptus est filius eius ad Deum & ad thronum eius.

Et mulier fugit in desertum vbi habet locum paratum a Deo, vt ibi pascant illam diebus mille ducentis sexaginta.

Et factum est prælium magnum in cælo: Michael & angeli eius prælium faciebant cum dracone, & draco pugnabat & angeli eius, Et non valuerunt neque locus inuentus est eorum amplius in cælo.

Et proiectus est draco ille magnus serpens antiquus, qui vocatur diabolus & Satanas, qui seducit vniuersum orbem, proiectus est in terram, & angeli eius cum illo proiecti sunt.

Et audiui vocem magnam in cælo dicentem: Nunc facta est salus & virtus & regnum Dei nostri & potestas Christi eius, quia proiectus est accusator fratrum nostrorum, qui accusabat illos coram Deo nostro die ac nocte.

Et ipsi vicerunt eum propter sanguinem agni & propter verbum testimonii sui, & non dilexerunt animas suas vsque ad mortem.

Propterea lætamini cæli & qui habitatis in eis. Væ habitantibus terram & mare, quia descendit diabolus ad vos habens iram magnam, sciens quod modicum tempus habet.

Et postquam vidit draco quia proiectus est in terram, persecutus est mulierem quæ peperit masculum.

Et datæ sunt mulieri duæ alæ aquilæ magnæ, vt volet in desertum in locum suum, vbi alitur tempus & tempora & dimidium temporis a facie serpentis.

Et misit serpens post mulierem de ore suo aquam tanquam flumen, vt eam faceret trahi a flumine.

Et adiuuit terra mulierem, & aperuit terra os suum & absorbuit flumen quod misit draco de ore suo.

Et iratus est draco in mulierem, & abiit facere prælium cum reliquis de semine eius, qui custodiunt mandata Dei & habent testimonium Iesu Christi.

Et stetit super arenam maris.

CAP. XIII.

Et vidi de mari bestiam ascendentem habentem capita septem & cornua decem, & in cornibus eius decem diademata, & in capitibus eius nomina blasphemiæ.

Et bestia quam vidi erat similis pardo, & pedes eius sicut ursi, & os eius sicut os leonis. Et dedit illi draco virtutem suam & thronum suum & potestatem magnam.

Et vnum de capitibus eius quasi occisum in mortem, & plaga mortis eius curata est. Et admirata est vniuersa terra post bestiam, Et adorauerunt draconem qui dedit potestatem bestiæ, & adorauerunt bestiam dicentes: Quis similis bestiæ & quis poterit pugnare cum ea?

Et data est ei bocca loquens grandia & blasphemias, & data est ei potestas mensibus quadraginta duobus.

Et aperuit os suum in blasphemias ad Deum, blasphemare nomen eius & tabernaculum eius & eos qui in cælo habitant.

Et datum est illi bellum facere cum sanctis & vincere illos, & data est illi potestas in omnem tribum & populum & linguam & gentem, Et adorabunt eum omnes qui habitant in terra, quorum non sunt scripta nomina in libro vitæ agni qui occisus est ab origine mundi.

Si quis habet aurem, audiat.

Si quis in captiuitatem duxerit, in captiuitatem vadet: si quis in gladio occiderit, oportet eum in gladio occidi. Hic est patientia & fides sanctorum.

Et vidi alteram bestiam ascendentem de terra, & habebat cornua duo similia agni, & loquebatur sicut draco, Et potestatem prioris bestiæ omnem faciebat in conspectu eius, & fecit terram & habitantes in ea adorare bestiam primam cuius curata est plaga mortis eius.

Et fecit signa magna, vt & ignem faciat descendere de cælo in terram coram hominibus, Et seducit habitantes terram per signa quæ data sunt illi facere in conspectu bestiæ, dicens habitantibus terram vt faciant imaginem bestiæ quæ habet plagam gladii & vixit.

Et datum est illi dare spiritum imagini bestiæ, & loquatur imago bestiæ & faciat quotquot non adorauerint imaginem bestiæ occidi.

Et faciet omnes pusillos & magnos & divites & pauperes & liberos & seruos habere characterem in dextera manu sua aut in frontibus suis, Et ne quis possit emere aut vendere nisi qui habet characterem & nomen bestiæ aut numerum nominis eius.

Hic sapientia est. Qui habet intellectum, computet numerum bestiæ. Numerus enim hominis est, & numerus eius sexcenti sexaginta sex.

CAP. XIV.

Et vidi & ecce agnus stabat super montem Sion, & cum illo centum quadraginta quatuor millia habentes nomen eius & nomen patris eius scriptum in frontibus suis.

Et audiui vocem de cælo tanquam vocem aquarum multarum & tanquam vocem tonitrui magni: & vox quam audiui sicut citharœdorum citharizantium in citharis suis.

Et cantabant quasi canticum nouum ante sedem & coram quatuor animalibus & seniores: & nemo poterat dicere canticum nisi centum quadraginta quatuor millia qui empti sunt de terra.

Hi sunt qui cum mulieribus non sunt coinquinati: virgines enim sunt. Hi sequuntur agnum quocunque ierit. Hi empti sunt ex hominibus primitiæ Deo & agno, Et in ore eorum non est inuentum mendacium: sine macula enim sunt ante thronum Dei.

Et vidi alterum angelum volantem per medium cæli, habentem euangelium æternum vt euangelizet sedentibus super terram & super omnem gentem & tribum & linguam & populum, Dicens magna voce: Timete Deum & date illi honorem, quia venit hora iudicii eius: & adorate eum qui fecit cælum & terram & mare & fontes aquarum.

Et alius angelus secutus est dicens: Cecidit, cecidit Babylon ciuitas illa magna, quia a vino iræ fornicationis suæ potauit omnes gentes.

Et tertius angelus secutus est illos dicens magna voce: Si quis adorauerit bestiam & imaginem eius & receperit characterem in fronte sua aut in manu sua, Et ipse bibet de vino iræ Dei, quod mistum est merum in calice iræ ipsius, & cruciabitur igne & sulphure coram angelis sanctis & ante conspectum agni.

Et fumus tormentorum eorum ascendit in sæcula sæculorum, nec habent requiem die ac nocte qui adorauerunt bestiam & imaginem eius & si quis acceperit characterem nominis eius.

Hic patientia sanctorum est, qui custodiunt mandata Dei & fidem Iesu.

Et audiui vocem de cælo dicentem mihi: Scribe: Beati mortui qui in Domino moriuntur. Amodo iam dicit spiritus vt requiescant a laboribus suis: opera enim illorum sequuntur illos.

Et vidi & ecce nubes candida, & super nubem sedentem similem filio hominis habentem in capite suo coronam auream & in manu sua falcem acutam.

Et alius angelus exiit de templo clamans voce magna ad sedentem super nubem: Mitte falcem tuam & mete, quia venit hora tibi metere, quoniam aruit messis terræ.

Et misit qui sedebat super nubem falcem suam in terram, & messa est terra.

Et alius angelus exiit de templo quod est in cælo, habens & ipse falcem acutam.

Et alius angelus exiit de altari, qui habebat potestatem super ignem, & clamauit voce magna ad eum qui habebat falcem acutam dicens: Mitte falcem tuam acutam & vindemia botros de vinea terræ, quia maturæ sunt vuæ eius.

Et misit angelus falcem suam in terram & vindemiauit vineam terræ, & misit in lacum magnum iræ Dei.

Et calcatus est lacus extra ciuitatem, & exiit sanguis de lacu vsque ad frenos equorum per stadia mille sexcenta.

CAP. XV.

Et vidi signum aliud in cælo magnum & mirabile, angelos septem habentes plagas septem nouissimas, quia in ipsis consummata est ira Dei.

Et vidi tanquam mare vitreum mixtum igni, & eos qui victoriam adepti fuerant de bestia & de imagine illius & de numero nominis eius stantes supra mare vitreum, habentes citharas Dei, Et cantantes canticum Moysi serui Dei & canticum agni, dicentes: Magna & mirabilia opera tua, Domine Deus omnipotens: iustæ & veræ viæ tuæ rex sæculorum.

Quis non timebit, Domine, & magnificabit nomen tuum? quoniam solus pius es, quoniam omnes gentes venient & adorabunt in conspectu tuo, quoniam iudicia tua manifestata sunt.

Et post hæc vidi & ecce apertum est templum tabernaculi testimonii in cælo, Et exierunt septem angeli habentes septem plagas de templo, vestiti lapide mundo & candido & præcincti ad pectora zonis aureis.

Et vnum de quatuor animalibus dedit septem angelis septem phialas aureas plenas iræ Dei viuentis in sæcula sæculorum.

Et impletum est templum fumo de maiestate Dei & de virtute eius, & nemo poterat introire templum donec consummarentur septem plagæ septem angelorum.

CAP. XVI.

Et audiui vocem magnam de templo dicentem septem angelis: Ite & effundite septem phialas iræ Dei in terram.

Et abierunt primus & effudit phialam suam in terram, & factum est vulnus malum & pessimum in homines qui habebant characterem bestiæ & qui adorabant imaginem eius.

Et secundus effudit phialam suam in mare, & facta est sanguis tanquam mortui, & omnis anima viuens mortua est in mari.

Et tertius effudit phialam suam in flumina & fontes aquarum, & facta est sanguis.

Et audiui angelum aquarum dicentem: Iustus es, Domine, qui es & qui eras & sanctus, quia hæc iudicasti, Quia sanguinem sanctorum & prophetarum effuderunt, & sanguinem eis dedisti bibere: digni enim sunt.

Et audiui alterum de altari dicentem: Etiam, Domine Deus omnipotens, vera & iusta iudicia tua.

Et quartus effudit phialam suam in solem, & datum est illi æstuare homines igne, Et æstuauerunt homines æstu magno, & blasphemauerunt nomen Dei habentis potestatem super plagas istas, nec pœnitentiam egerunt vt darent illi gloriam.

Et quintus effudit phialam suam in sedem bestiæ, & factum est regnum eius tenebrosum, & commanducabant linguas suas præ dolore, Et blasphemauerunt Deum cæli præ doloribus suis & præ vulneribus suis, & non pœnitentiam egerunt ab operibus suis.

Et sextus effudit phialam suam in flumen magnum Euphraten, & exsiccata est aqua eius vt parentur viæ regibus qui ab ortu locauit, vt non debuit inter dignos. Peccauit in spiritum meum, qui est communio, & communicatio iustorum, quando iniustum sepeliuit cum iustis. Peccauit in me, filium, quia ego dixi. Qui me spernit, sperpetur. Iste vero honorauit illum, & exaltauit, quem Ecclesia mea, & Vicarius meus spreuit. Qui Prior auditis verbis istis compunctus, quarto die mortuus est.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam de modo, & respectu quem debeat in oratione tenere. Et de tribus generibus hominum, in hoc mundo Deo seruientium, CAP. XIV.

EGO sum Deus tuus, qui in cruce crucifixus verus Deus, & verus homo in vna persona, sum quotidie in manibus sacerdotis. Cum mihi aliquam orationem facis, conclude semper sic orationem tuam, vt scilicet velis fieri semper voluntatem meam, non tuam. Quia cum pro damnatis exoras, non exaudio te. Quandoque etiam contra salutem tuam optas fieri, & ideo necesse est tibi voluntatem tuam mihi committere, quia omnia scio, qui prouideo tibi nihil nisi vtile. Multi quippe orant non recta intentione, & ideo non mœrentur exaudiri. Triplanque sunt genera hominum seruientium mihi in hoc mundo. Primi sunt, qui mecredunt esse Deum, & largitorem omnium, & super omnia potentem. Hi seruiunt mihi hac intentione, vt scilicet temporalia, & honorem obtineant, sed cœlestia sunt eis pro nihilo, & gaudenter ea amittunt, vt obtineant præsentia. His iuxta voluntatem eorum prosperitas sæculi in omnibus accedit. Et sic amissis æternis, in temporali commoditate remunero eos quicquid boni fecerũt pro me vsque ad vltimum quadrantem, & vsque ad nouissimum punctum. Secundi sunt, qui credũt me Deum omnipotentem, & districtum iudicem, & isti seruiunt mihi ex timore pœnæ, non autem ex amore cœlestis gloriæ. Nisi enim timerent, non mihi seruirent. Tertij sunt, qui credunt me omnium Creatorem, & verum Deum, qui credunt me iustum, & misericordem. Et seruiunt mihi non ex timore alicuius pœnæ, sed ex diuina dilectione, & charitate. Et mallent quippe omnem pœnam si sufficerent magis sufferre, quam me semel ad iram prouocare. Isti vere mœrentur audiri in prece sua, quia voluntas eorum est secundum voluntatem meam. Primus enim nunquam exibit de supplicio, nec videbit faciem meam. Secundus autem tam magnum supplicium non habebit, nec tamen faciem meam videbit, nisi correxerit illum timorem pœnitentia.

1 var. lect.

NOTAE.

AD finem præsentis Capitis magis arridet M. S. Farnesiani Codicis lectio, vbi enim in vulgatis habetur, nisi correxerit illum timorem pœnitentia, M. S. Codex legit, nisi se correxerit ab eo timore per pœnitentiam. Quis nam autem sit ille timor, quem in præsenti Capite Christus Dominus improbat declarauimus ex Magistro sententiarum aliisque doctoribus lib. 4. Reuel. cap. 3. nota 1.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam, conditiones magni Regis Christo appropriantia. Et de duobus gazophilaciis, per quæ amor Dei, & amor mundi designantur. Et de doctrina proficiendi in hac vita.

CAP. XV.

EGO sum sicut vnus Rex magnus, & potens. Ad Regem enim pertinent quatuor. Primo debet esse dives. Secundo mitis. Tertio sapiens. Quarto charitatiuus. Ego vere sum Rex Angelorum, & omnium hominum. Ego etiã habeo illas quatuor proprietates quas dixi. Primo nanque sum ditissimus, quia omnibus do necessaria, nec minus habeo postdatum. Secundo sum mitissimus, quia omnibus petentibus paratus sum dare. Tertio itaque sum sapientissimus, quia scio, quod vnicuique debetur, & expedit. Quarto etiã sum charitatiuus, quia paratior sum dare, quam aliquis petere. 1 Ego habeo quasi duo gazophilacia. In primo enim gazophilacio sunt reposita ponderosa, & grauia quasi plumbum, & cella ista vbi ista sunt, est circumsepta acutis aculeis pungentibus. Sed qui hæc primo incipit vertere, & reuoluere, & deinde portare didicerit, leuia videntur sibi postea quasi pluma. Et sic leuissima fiunt, quæ antea ponderosa videbantur. Et suauia quę prius pungere credebantur. In secundo gazophilacio videtur esse intellectu potentiam meam, poteſtis tamen attrectare manibus veſtris opera, quæ ego feci, & ſancti mei. Quia ſic aperta ſunt, quod nullus dubitare poteſt eſſe opera Dei. Quis ſuſcitauit mortuos, & illuminauit cæcos niſi Deus? Quis expulit dæmones, niſi Deus. Quid autem docui, niſi vtilia ad ſalutem animæ, & corporis, & læuia ad portandum. Sed primus homo ait, id eſt, aliqui dicunt audiamus, & probemus, ſi vera ſunt. Hi ad tempus ſtant in ſeruitio meo, non cauſa dilectionis, ſed experientiæ, & imitationis aliorum. Nec relinquẽdo voluntatem propriam, ſed ſuam faciendo cum mea voluntate. Hi periculoſe poſiti ſunt, quia duobus Dominis ſeruire volunt, licet neutri bene ſeruire poſſint. Cum autem vocati fuerint, quem Dominum magis dilexerunt ab eo remunerabuntur. Secundus homo dicit, id eſt aliqui. Falſum eſt quicquid loquitur, & falſa eſt ſcriptura. Ego ſum Deus, & Creator omnium, & ſine me nihil eſt factum. Ego condidi nouam legem, & veterem, & de ore meo proceſſit, nec in ea eſt aliqua falſitas, quia ego ſum veritas. Ergo qui me falſum dixiſſe dicunt, & ſcripturam ſacram falſam dicunt, ipſi nunquam videbunt faciem meam, quia conſcientia eorum dicit eis me eſſe Deum, quia omnia fiunt ſecundum voluntatem meam, & diſpoſitionem meam. Cælum illuminat eos, nec ipſi ſe illuminare poſſunt. Terra fructum gignit. Aer fœcundat terram. Omnia animalia habent certam diſpoſitionem. 4 Dæmones confitentur me. Iuſti homines patiuntur incredibilia, propter amorem meum. Hęc omnia vident nec tamen vident me. Ipſi etiam poſſunt videre me in iuſtitia mea. Si conſiderarent quomodo terra abſorbuit impios, Ignis combuſſit iniquos. Sic etiam poſſunt me videre in miſericordia mea. Quando aqua de petra fluxit iuſtis. Et aqua maris cedebat eis. Quando ignis non lædebat eos. Quando cælum quaſi terra nutriebat eos. Et ideo quia iſta vident, & adhuc dicunt me mentiri, nunquam videbunt faciem meam. Tertius homo dicit, id eſt aliqui. Bene ſcimus eum eſſe verum Deum, ſed non curamus. Iſti in æternum cruciabuntur, quia contemnunt me Deum, & Dominum ſuum. Nunquid non eſt magnus contemptus, quod vtuntur bonis meis, & tamen ipſi contemnunt ſeruire mihi. Si enim haberent ipſi ex induſtria propria, & non totum ex me, leuis eſſet contemptus. Qui autem onus meum vertere incipiunt, idem voluntarie, & ex feruenti deſiderio, conãtur ad faciendum illud modicum, quod ipſi poſſunt, ijs ego dabo gratiam. Qui autem leuant pondera mea, id eſt, pro amore meo de die in diem proficiunt, cum eis laboro, & fortitudo illorum ero, & inflammabo eos, vt amplius velint. Qui autem ſedent in ſede, quæ pungere videtur quietiſſima tamen eſt, ij ſunt in laboribus, & patientia nocte, & die, nec attediantur, ſed eo magis ardent, & modicum eis videtur eſſe, id quod agunt. Hi ſunt amici mei chariſſimi, & ij valde pauci ſunt. Quia pocula ſecundi Gazophilacij magis alios delectant.

NOTAE.

1 EGo habeo quaſi duo Gazophilacia. In præſenti Capite amores duo deſcribuntur amor Dei, & amor mundi, qui per duo Gazophilacia, quorum hic mentio fit deſignantur, & notandum ex D. Hieron. ſuper Ezechielem cap. 40. & Beda in Lucam cap. 21. Gazophilacium eſſe locũ, quo ſeruari diuitiæ conſueuerunt, duo autem in templo fuiſſe obſeruauit Beda, vbi ſupra alterum Gazophilacium locus erat in quem pecunia, alterum in quem res aliæ maioris molis a Populo conijciebantur, primum Arca quædã erat, de qua 4 Reg. 12. aliud Aula quædam, aut locus aliquis eiuſmodi amplas multarum rerum capax, hic ergo Chriſtus ſe quoque duo habere Gazophilacia aſſerit, & per primum Amorem diuinum, per ſecundum verũ mundanum deſignat, in primo dicit reperiri propriæ voluntatis, ac mundanarum rerum contemptũ aliaque plura, quæ ab his, qui amore diuino incenſi ſunt, quæri ſolent, in ſecundo vero aſſerunt eſſe mundi delectationes, ac delitias, bona etiam temporalia, quæ qui diligunt, mundum ſectantur. Verum de duobus his amoribus plura habet D. Aug. lib. 14. de Ciuit. cap. 28. & in enarratione Pſal. 64. vbi monet ex his duobus amoribus duas manaſſe ciuitates, alterum Hieruſalem, alteram Babylonem.

2 Et licet iſta via in principio ſit aliquantulum grauis, tamen in proceſſu temporis multum delectat in tantum, quod quæ prius videbantur ad ferendum impoſſibilia, fiunt poſtea leuiſſima.

Is eſt præcipuus diuini amoris effectus, vt nimis, vigilias, cæteraque corporis incommoda in ſpirituali vita ſeſe exercenti in principio videantur amara, ac onerioſa, poſtmodum profecto in ea dulcia ſint, & leuia, teſtis enim eſt amaritudines, & labores, inquit Augustinus lib. 13. Confeſſionum, quia ſoror amoris dulcedo eſt, & qui amat non laborat ſolũ labor, non amantibus grauis eſt, & ipſe amor eſt, qui nomẽ difficultatis erubeſcit.

3 Nam ante aduentum meum in carne non erat niſi vna via, qua omnes boni, & mali ibant ad Infernum.

Ex his verbis nullatenus colligendum eſt, quod omnes communiter, qui ante Chriſti Domini Incarnationem obiernat ad infernum damnatorum deſcenderint, cum Abraham, Iſaac, Iacob, cæteriquę veteris Teſtamenti Patres ſanctitate conſpicui ad limbum ierint, a quo per Chriſti deſcenſum fuere liberati, qui locus Infernus dicitur, vel ob priuationem cæleſtis gloriæ, & pœnam damni, quam in damnatorum inferno exiſtentes luunt, vt animadvertit D. Thomas 3. par. q. 52. art. 2. ad quartum, vel quia locus eſt in inferioribus partibus terræ, quia infra nos eſt; ideo dicebatur Infernus, vt ex D. Iſidoro colligi poteſt lib. 14. Ethimolog. cap. 9. & D. Auguſt in Pſalm. 85. ad eum verſum Eripuiſti animam meam de inferno inferiori, quem locum optaſſe Iob, cum dixit cap. 20. quis mihi tribuat, vt in Inferno protegas me, iuxta D. Hieron. Eccleſ. 3. Indicat Greg. lib. 12. Moral. cap. 6 & lib. 24. cap. 16. & 17. vbi explicat illum locum, ſi ſuſtinuero Infernus domus mea eſt. & probari poteſt ex Hymno, quem in Aſcenſione Domini vniuerſa canit Eccleſia.

Inferni clauſtra penetrans
Tuos captiuos redimens.

Annotarunt hoc idem Iuſtinus Martyr in Dialoga cum Tryphone, Chryſoſt. hom. de Lazaro & Diuite, vbi ſinum Abrahæ vocat Paradiſum in inferno exiſtentem, & Hom. 4. in Marcum, antequam, inquit, aperiret Chriſtus ianuam Regni omnes animæ iuſtorum detinebantur in inferno, ſic etiam Baſilius in Pſalm. 48. ibi ſicut oues in inferno poſiti ſunt, Cyrillus Alexandrinus lib. 1. de fide ad Reginas cap. Quod Chriſtus Deus ſit, affirmat in morte Chriſti infernum Sanctorum animas emittere compulſum eſſe, ſed hæc de re egimus infra lib. 4. cap. 94. nota 1.

Dæmones confitentur me.

Non vera fidei confeſſione, vt fides habitus eſt infuſus, qui Chriſtianis in ſacramento Baptiſmi diuinitus traditur, ſed hoc eſt intelligendum de fide non iuſtificante, quæ eſt ab operibus, & charitate ſeiuncta. Dæmones enim ex ſignorum magnitudine, ac Miraculorum multitudine compelluntur Deum confiteri, ac etiam credere Eccleſiæ doctrinam a Deo manaſſe, vt probat D. Thomas 2. 2. q. 5. art. 2. & ſecundum hunc ſenſum interpretanda ſunt verba Iacobi Apoſtoli cap. 2. ſuæ Epiſtolæ, Dæmones credunt, & contremiſcunt, ſic illa interpretantur Dionyſius Charthuſianus, & Lyranus, & ad hunc ſenſum reuocandum eſt, quod dicit Diuus Auguſtinus lib. 15. de Trinitate cap. 18. & vacil. dat Ioannem, nimirum pertinaces fidem eſſe fidem Dæmonum.

QVALITER VIDEBATVR ſponſę, quod quidam Sanctorum loquebatur ad Deum, de quadam muliere a dęmonio terribiliter conculcata, quę poſtea precibus Virginis glorioſę fuit liberata.

CAP. XVI.

VIDEBATVR ſponſæ, quod quidam Sanctorum loquebatur ad Deum dicens. Cur anima iſtius mulieris, quam ſanguine tuo redemiſti, ſic conculcatur a diabolo? Reſpondit ſtatim dæmon dicens. Quia de iure mea eſt. Et tunc dixit Dominus. Quali iure tua eſt? Cui reſpondit dæmon. Duæ inquit viæ ſunt, vna ducit ad cæleſtia, alia ad infernum. Cumque ipſa inſpiceret ambas vias, conſcientia ſua, & ratio dicebat ſibi, quod viam meam magis eligeret. Et quia liberam habuit voluntatem diuertendi, ad quam viam magis vellet, videbatur ſibi vtile magis diuertere voluntatem ſuam ad peccati perpetrationem, & tunc incepit ambulare per viam meam. Poſtea decepi eam tribus vitijs, ſcilicet gula, cupiditate pecuniæ, & luxuria. Ideo ego ſedeo nunc in ventre eius, & in natura eius. Et teneo eam quinque manibus. Cum vna manu teneo oculos eius, ne videat ſpiritualia. Cum ſecunda manu mea teneo manus eius, ne faciat opera bona. Cum tertia manu teneo pedes eius, ne vadat ad bona. Et cum quarta teneo intellectum, ne peccare erubeſcat. Cum quinta etiam teneo cor eius, ne redeat per contritionem. Tunc beata Virgo Maria dixit ad filium. Fili compelle eũ dicere veritatem de ea re, quam ab eo quæro et volo. Et filius ait. Tu es mater mea. Tu Regina cæli. Tu mater miſericordiæ. Tu conſolatio eorum, qui ſunt in purgatorio. Tu lætitia eorum, qui peregrinantur in mundo. Tu es Domina Angelorũ. Tu cum Deo excellentiſſima. Tu es etiam princeps ſuper diabolũ. Præcipe ergo matre iſti dæmoni ea, quæ tu vis, & ipſe dicet tibi. Tunc beata Virgo quæſiuit ab illo diabolo. Die diabole, qualem intentionem habuit mulier hæc antequam intrauit Eccleſiam? Cui diabolus reſpondit. Ipſa habuit voluntatem abſtinendi a peccato. Et Virgo Maria dixit ei. Cum voluntas, quam prius habuit ducebat ad infernum, dic ad quid tendit voluntas iſta quam quam modo habet,ſcilicet abſtinendi a peccato. Cui diabolus reſpondit inuitus. Ipſa voluntas abſtinendi ducit ipſam ad cælum. Et tunc Virgo Maria ait. Quia ex iuſtitia accepiſti, vt propter voluntatem priorem duceres eam a via ſanctæ Eccleſiæ, nunc iuſtitia eſt, vt per voluntatem iſtam reducatur ad Eccleſiam. Nunc etiam quæro diabole vlterius a te. Dic qualem voluntatem habet modo in hoc puncto, in quo nunc eſt conſcientia ſua. Diabolus autem reſpondit. Ipſa habet contritionem in mente pro his quæ fecit,& magnum fletum,& proponit vlterius nunquam talia committere,ſed vult emendare quantú poteſt. Tunc Virgo quæſiuit a diabolo. Dicas mihi. Poſſunt ne hæc tria peccata, ſcilicet, Luxuria, Gula, & Cupiditas,cum iſtis tribus bonis, ſcilicet contritione, fletu, & propoſito emendationis ſimul eſſe in vno corde. Cui diabolus reſpondit,non. Et beata Virgo, tunc ait. Dicas mihi ergo,quæ iſtorum debuerunt a corde ſuo fugere,& recedere, an iſtæ tres virtutes, an forte illa tria vitia,ex quo tu dicis,quod ibidem in eodem loco ſimul habitare non poſſunt. Diabolus autem ait. Dico quod peccata. Et tunc Virgo reſpondit. Ideo igitur clauſa eſt ei via ad infernum, & via ad cæleſtia ſibi aperta eſt. Tunc vlterius quæſiuit beata Virgo a diabolo. Dic mihi,ſi prædo iacet ante fores ſponſæ, volens violare eam, quid faciet tunc ſponſus. Reſpondit diabolus. Si bonus, & magnanimus eſt ille ſponſus,debet eam defendere,& vitam ſuam opponere pro vita eius. Tunc Virgo ait. Tu es prædo peſſimus,anima autem eſt ſponſa ſponſi filij mei,quia eam proprio ſanguine redemit. Hanc igitur tu corrupiſti, & violenter rapuiſti. Propterea quia filius meus eſt ſponſus animæ,& eſt Dominus ſuper te, ideo competit tibi fugere coram eo.

Declaratio.

Hæc mulier fuit meretrix, quæ redire voluit ad ſæculum, quia diabolus moleſtabat eam die,ac nocte in tantum,quod viſibiliter oculos eius deprimebat, & eam multis videntibus extraxit de lecto. Tunc præſentibus multis fidedignis, dicta S. Brigitta aperte dixit. Recede diabole,quia ſatis inquietaſti iſtam creaturam Dei. Et dicto verbo,ipſa mulier per dimidiam horam depreſſit oculos in terram,& eleuans ſe dixit. Vere vidi diabolum in viliſſima forma ingredientem per feneſtram. Et audiui vocem dicentem mihi. Vere mulier liberata es. Et poſt illam horam eadem mulier ab omni impatientia liberata fuit, nec ſordidas cogitationes patiebatur vlterius,& bono fine quieuit.

CAP. XVII.

EGO ſum Ieſus Chriſtus, qui loquor tecum, qui in ventre Virginis verus Deus, & verus homo fui, non minor cum Patre omnia regens, licet eſſem cú Virgine. Ille talis inimicus meus peſſimus, ſimilis eſt tribus. Primo aquilæ volanti in aere,ſub qua aliæ aues volant. Secundo ſimilis eſt aucupi,cantanti in fiſtula linita bitumine tenaci, cuius voce aues delectate cum ad fiſtulam aduolant, bitumine illo retinentur. Tertio ſimilis eſt pugili,qui primus eſt in omni certamine. Ipſe nanque ſimilis eſt aquilæ, quia per ſuperbiã ſuam,qua nullos pateretur,ſi poſſet ſe eſſe ſuperiores, lacerat omnes quos poteſt vnguibus malitiæ. Ideo abſcindam ei alas potentiæ ſuæ,& ſuperbiæ. Auferam de terra maliziam eius. Ipſum autem tradam ollæ inextinguibili,vbi ſine fine cruciabitur,niſi emendauerit ſe. Similis eſt aucupi, quia ſcilicet per dulcedinem verborum, & promiſſionum omnes ſibi attrahit, ſed quicunque ad eum venerint, ſic infiguntur in perditione, vt nunquam poſſint inde fugere. Ideo aues inferni configent oculos eius, ne vnquam videat gloriam meam, ſed ſempiternas inferni tenebras. Præsident aures illius, ne audiat verba oris mei. A planta pedis vſque ad verticem capitis, facient ei pro dulcedine amaritudine,vt tot pœnas ſuſtineat,quot homines adduxit ad perditionem. Similis eſt etiam pugili, qui primus in omni malitia nulli cedere vult, & omnes deprimere proponit. Ideo ſicut pugil primus erit in omni pœna,ſemper innouabitur pœna eius, & non deficiet ve. Tamen quam diu anima eſt cum corpore,miſericordia mea parata eſt ei.

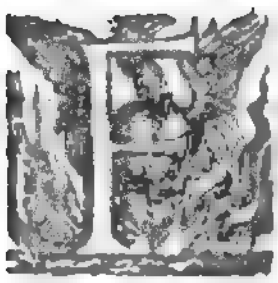
Declaratio.

Hic fuit miles potentiſſimus,qui multum odiuit clerum verba ignominioſa imponés eis, de quo facta eſt reuelatio præcedens,& ſubſequens. Filius Dei loquitur. O miles mundi quære a ſapientibus,quid contigit ſuperbo Aman, qui deſpexit populum meum, Nonne mors ignominioſa, & confuſio. Sic iſte deridet me,& amicos meos. Ideo ſicut Iſrael non planxit mortem Aman, ſic nec amici mei, plangent ſuper mortem eius,ſed amariſſima morte morietur,niſi ſe emendauerit. Hæc ita euenerunt.

De hoc linteo tractauimus infra lib. 2. Reuelat. cap. 21. nota 3. vbi historia depositionis Christi de Cruce narratur, ibique plura tradidimus, quæ ad intelligentiam facere possunt eorum, quæ circa finem præsentis Capitis scribuntur, hic tamen vnum tantummodo annotare volui, cum legimus Beatiss. Virginem sui filij de Cruce depositi oculos, & os clausisse, hoc apud antiquos fuisse in more positum, vt cum primum morieus exhalauerat animam, eius oculi occludentur, quod patet ex auctore antiquissimo Cipriano Orat. de Christi sepultura, nunquid ait digitis tuis oculos Iesu, vt mortuorum de more solent claudi, fauet etiam Dionisius Alexandrinus Epistolæ, quæ exarata est, apud Eusebium lib. 7. hist. cap. 17. ibi oculos occludere, & ora obturare, & ex profanis auctoribus Plinius meminit lib. 11. cap. 37. plura habet hoc de re Alexander ab Alexandro lib. 3. genialium dierum cap. 7.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam qualiter se tradidit spontaneæ suis inimicis crucifixoribus. Et de modo viuendi in continentia omnium membrorum ab illicitis moribus exemplo suę dulcissimę passionis.

CAP. XI.



ILIVS Dei loquebatur ad sponsam dicens. Ego sum Creator cæli, & terræ, & corpus meum verũ est, quod in altari consecratur. Dilige me toto corde, quia ego dilexi te.

1 1 Et ego spontaneæ tradidi me inimicis meis, & remanserunt amici mei, & mater mea, in amarissimo dolore, & fletu. Cunque viderem lanceam, clauos, flagella, & alia passionis genera parata, processi nihilominus lætus ad passionem. Cunque caput meum esset vndique corona cruentatum, & vndique sanguis flueret, & etiam si adhuc inimici tetigissent cor meum, magis hoc paterer diuidi, & vulnerari, quam te carere vellem. Propterea nimis ingrata es, si me pro tanta charitate non dilexeris. Si enim caput meum punctum est, & inclinatum in Cruce pro te, caput tuum debet inclinari ad humilitatem. Et quia oculi mei erant sanguinolenti, & pleni lacrymis, ideo oculi tui debent abstineri a delectabili visu. Et quia aures meæ implebantur sanguine, & audiebant verba detractionis meæ, iddirco aures tuæ auertãtur a scurrilibus, & ineptis locutionibus. Quia etiam os meum potatum est amarissima potatione, & prohibitum a bona, ideo os tuum obstruatur a malis, & aperiatur ad bona. Et quia manus meæ extensæ sunt cum clauis, propterea opera tua, quæ figurantur in manibus, extendantur ad pauperes, & ad præcepta mea. Pedes tui, id est, affectus tui quibus ad me ire debes, crucifigantur a voluptatibus. Vt sicut in omnibus membris passus sum ego, sic omnia membra tua parata sint ad obsequium meum. Quia maius seruitium exigo a te, quam ab alijs, quia maiorem gratiam feci tibi.

NOTAE.

1 EGo spõtaneæ tradidi me inimicis meis, & remanserunt amici mei.

Ex verbis præsentis notæ deducendum est primo, Christi Domini mortem omnino fuisse liberam, ac voluntariam, ipse namque sponte se tradidit potestati carnificum, vt scribitur hic, & indicat D. Lucas cap. 22. vbi refert Dominum dixisse illis: hæc est hora vestra, & potestas tenebrarum harum, & sensus est nunc, potestis facere in me quidquid libet, non quod potentiores sitis, sed quod venerit hora, qua ego mortem subire volo, secundum Patris decretum, idem constat Isaiæ 53. cum dicit de Christo oblatus est, quia ipse voluit, & Ioannis 10. nemo tollit animam meam a me, sed ego pono eam, nulla ergo fuit in Christo necessitas moriendi, si loquamur de necessitate, quæ voluntati repugnat mors enim Christi libera fuit, & voluntate diuina, & voluntate humana deliberata, vnde egregie Damascenus lib. 3. de fide cap. 20. loquens de hac necessitate, quæ voluntati opponitur asserit, quod nihil coactum in Christo consideratur, sed omnia erant in eo voluntaria, quod probat D. Thomas 3. par. q. 47. art. 1. quoniam Christus poterat supernaturali virtute mortem impedire, & noluit ob humani generis redemptionem; si vero sermo sit de necessitate naturali, quæ ad principia naturalia sequitur, tunc dici potest in Christo huiusmodi extitisse necessitatem moriendi, quia ipse habuit naturam susceptiuam contrarietatis primarum qualitatum, ad quarum alterationem de necessitate mors sequitur, & quamquam Redemptori nostro non fuisset violenter occisus, senio tamen secundum naturam defecisset, vt probauimus infra hoc eodem lib. cap. 37. nota 1. quare si de necessitate coactionis verba facimus, quæ naturæ corporali repugnat, dicendum est Christi corpus secundum conditionem propriæ naturæ huiusmodi necessitati fuisse subiectum, sunt ergo verba præsentis notæ intelligenda de necessitate, quæ opponitur voluntati, quæ non fuit in Christo, quippe qui, vt legimus hoc loco sponte se tradidit inimicis suis, quia permisit flagellari, & occidi cum posset impedire, cum autem dicit passionis suæ ministros ex inimicis amicos factos esse, indicat pro eis orasse, illosque efficaci oratione sua iustificasse, & Patri suo reconciliasse.

RELATIONE QUÆSTIONIS EXTRAORDINARIÆ, ET PRIMO DE CAUSIS, QUIBUS ILLA INTRODUCTA FUIT.

CAP. XX.

QUÆSTIO extraordinaria, quæ & Tormentalis dicitur, ab Imperatore Augusto introducta fuit, ut ex Ulpiano in l. 1. §. 1. ff. de quæst. constat. Ratio autem, quare introducta fuerit, est, quia ordinaria quæstio, quæ per testes fit, non semper veritatem patefacit, cum testes aut falsum dicant, aut veritatem reticeant. Ideo ad quæstionem extraordinariam, quæ per tormenta fit, ventum est, ut ex Ulpiano in l. 1. §. 1. ff. de quæst. constat. VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam de modo, & respectu quem debeat in oratione tenere. Et de tribus generibus hominum, in hoc mundo Deo seruientium,

CAP. XIV.

EGO sum Deus tuus, qui in cruce crucifixus verus Deus, & verus homo in vna persona, sum quotidie in manibus sacerdotis. Cum mihi aliquam orationem facis, concludo semper sic orationem tuam, vt scilicet velis fieri semper voluntatem meam, non tuam. Quia cum pro damnatis exoras, non exaudio te. Quandoque etiam contra salutem tuam optas fieri, & ideo necesse est tibi voluntatem tuam mihi committere, quia omnia scio, qui prouideo tibi nihil nisi vtile. Multi quippe orant non recta intentione, & ideo non merentur exaudiri. Tria nanque sunt genera hominum seruientium mihi in hoc mundo. Primi sunt, qui me credunt esse Deum, & largitorem omnium, & super omnia potentem. Hi seruiunt mihi hac intentione, vt scilicet temporalia, & honorem obtineant, sed cælestia sunt eis pro nihilo, & gaudenter ea amittunt, vt obtineant præsentia. His iuxta voluntatem eorum prosperitas sæculi in omnibus accedit. Et sic amissis æternis, in temporali commoditate remunero eos quicquid boni fecerũt pro me vsque ad vltimum quadrantem, & vsque ad nouissimum punctum. Secundi sunt, qui credũt me Deum omnipotentem, & districtum iudicem, & isti seruiunt mihi ex timore pœnæ, non autem ex amore cælestis gloriæ. Nisi enim timerent, non mihi seruirent. Tertij sunt, qui credunt me omnium Creatorem, & verum Deum, qui credunt me iustum, & misericordem. Et seruiunt mihi non ex timore alicuius pœnæ, sed ex diuina dilectione, & charitate. Et mallent quippe omnem pœnam si sufficerent magis sufferre, quam me semel ad iram prouocare. Isti vere mærentur audiri in prece sua, quia voluntas eorum est secundum voluntatem meam. Primus enim nunquam exibit de supplicio, nec videbit faciem meam. Secundus autem tam magnum supplicium non habebit, nec

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam, conditiones magni Regis Christo appropriantia. Et de duobus gazophilaciis, per quæ amor Dei, & amor mundi designantur. Et de doctrina proficiendi in hac vita.

CAP. XV.

EGO sum sicut vnus Rex magnus, & potens, Ad Regem enim pertinent quatuor. Primo debet esse dives. Secundo mitis. Tertio sapiens. Quarto charitatiuus. Ego vere sum Rex Angelorum, & omnium hominum. Ego etiã habeo illas quatuor proprietates quas dixi. Primo nanque sum ditissimus, quia omnibus do necessaria, nec minus habeo post datum. Secundo sum mitissimus, quia omnibus petentibus paratus sum dare. Tertio itaque sum sapientissimus, quia scio, quod vnicuique debetur, & expedit. Quarto etiã sum charitatiuus, quia paratior sum dare, 1 quam aliquis petere. 1 Ego habeo quasi duo gazophilacia. In primo enim gazophilacio sunt reposita ponderosa, & grauia quasi plumbum, & cella ista vbi ista sunt, est circumsepta acutis aculeis pungentibus. Sed qui hæc primo incipit vertere, & reuoluere, & deinde portare didicerit, leuia videntur sibi postea quasi pluma. Et sic leuissima fiunt, quæ antea ponderosa videbantur. Et suauia quę prius pungere credebantur. In secundo gazophilacio videtur esse of the cylinder 1 and the piston 2 is provided with a plurality of annular grooves 3 and 4 respectively, which are filled with packing rings 5 and 6 respectively, of any suitable material, such as asbestos, rubber, leather, or the like. The packing rings 5 and 6 are held in the grooves 3 and 4 respectively by means of split rings 7 and 8 respectively, which are pressed into the grooves 3 and 4 respectively by means of springs 9 and 10 respectively, which are arranged in the grooves 3 and 4 respectively behind the split rings 7 and 8 respectively. The springs 9 and 10 are preferably of the coil type, and are arranged in the grooves 3 and 4 respectively in such a manner that they exert a uniform pressure on the split rings 7 and 8 respectively, thereby pressing the packing rings 5 and 6 respectively into the grooves 3 and 4 respectively with a uniform pressure.

The piston 2 is provided with a piston rod 11, which is connected to the piston 2 by means of a nut 12, which is screwed on the end of the piston rod 11. The piston rod 11 is provided with a shoulder 13, which is adapted to abut against the end of the piston 2, thereby preventing the piston 2 from moving beyond the end of the piston rod 11. The piston rod 11 is provided with a groove 14, which is adapted to receive a split ring 15, which is pressed into the groove 14 by means of a spring 16, which is arranged in the groove 14 behind the split ring 15. The spring 16 is preferably of the coil type, and is arranged in the groove 14 in such a manner that it exerts a uniform pressure on the split ring 15, thereby pressing the split ring 15 into the groove 14 with a uniform pressure.

Inferni claustra penetrans
Tuos captivos redimens.

Annotarunt hoc idem Iustinus Martyr in Dialoga cum Tryphone, Chrysost. hom. de Lazaro & Diuite, vbi sinum Abrahæ vocat Paradisum in inferno existentem, & Hom. 4. in Marcum, antequam, inquit, aperiret Christus Ianuam Regni omnes animæ iustorum detinebantur in inferno, sic etiam Basilius in Psalm. 48. ibi sicut oues in inferno positi sunt. Cyrillus Alexandrinus lib. 1. de fide ad Reginas cap. Quod Christus Deus sit, affirmat in morte Christi infernum Sanctorum animas emittere compulsum esse, sed hæc de re egimus infra lib. 6. cap. 94. nota 1.

Dæmons confitentur me.

Non vera fidei confessione, vt fides habitus est infusus, qui Christianis in sacramento Baptismi diuinitus traditur, sed hoc est intelligendum de fide non iustificante, quæ est ab operibus, & charitate seiuncta. Dæmones enim ex signorum magnitudine, ac Miraculorum multitudine compelluntur Deum confiteri, ac etiam credere Ecclesiæ doctrinam a Deo manasse, vt probat D. Thomas 2. 2. q. 5. art. 2. & secundum hunc sensum interpretanda sunt verba Iacobi Apostoli cap. 2. suæ Epistolæ, Dæmones credunt, & contremiscunt, sic illa interpretantur Dionysius Charthusianus, & Lyranus. & ad hunc sensum reuocandum est, quod dixit Diuus Augustinus lib. 13. de Trinitate cap. 18. & vacil. cois Ioannem, nimirum peccatorum fidem esse fidem Dæmonum.

QVALITER VIDEBATVR sponsæ, quod quidam Sanctorum loquebatur ad Deum, de quadam muliere a dæmonio terribiliter conculcata, quæ postea precibus Virginis gloriosæ fuit liberata.

CAP. XVI.

VIDEBATVR sponsæ, quod quidam Sanctorum loquebatur ad Deum dicens. Cur anima istius mulieris, quam sanguine tuo redemisti, sic conculcatur a diabolo? Respondit statim dæmon dicens. Quia de iure mea est. Et tunc dixit Dominus. Quali iure tua est? Cui respondit dæmon. Duæ inquit viæ sunt, vna ducit ad cœlestia, alia ad infernum. Cumque ipsa inspiceret ambas vias, conscientia sua, & ratio dicebat sibi, quod viam meam magis eligeret. Et quia liberam habuit voluntatem ad quam viam magis vellet, videbatur sibi vtile magis diuertere voluntatem suam ad peccati perpetrationem, & tunc incepit ambulare per viam meam. Postea decepi eam tribus vitijs, scilicet gula, cupiditate pecuniæ, & luxuria. Ideo ego sedeo nunc in ventre eius, & in natura eius. Et teneo eam quinque manibus. Cum vna manu teneo oculos eius, ne videat spiritualia? Cum secunda manu mea teneo manus eius, ne faciat opera bona. Cum tertia manu teneo pedes eius, ne vadat ad bona. Et cum quarta teneo intellectum, ne peccare erubescat. Cum quinta etiam teneo cor eius, ne videat per contritionem. Tunc beata Virgo Maria dixit ad filium. Fili compelle eũ dicere veritatem de ea re, quam ab eo quærere volo. Et filius ait. Tu es mater mea. Tu Regina cœli. Tu mater misericordiæ. Tu consolatio eorum, qui sunt in purgatorio. Tu lætitia eorum, qui peregrinantur in mundo. Tu es Domina Angelorũ. Tu cum Deo excellentissima. Tu es etiam princeps super diabolũ. Præcipe ergo matri isti dæmoni ea, quæ tu vis, & ipse dicet tibi. Tunc beata Virgo quæsiuit ab illo diabolo. Die diabole, qualem intentionem habuit mulier hæc antequam intrauit Ecclesiam? Cui diabolus respondit. Ipsa habuit voluntatem abstinendi a peccato. Et Virgo Maria dixit ei. Cum voluntas, quam prius habuit ducebat ad infernum, dic ad quid tendit voluntas ista

quam modo habet,ſcilicet abſtinendi a peccato. Cui diabolus reſpondit inuitus. Ipſa voluntas abſtinendi ducit ipſam ad cælum. Et tunc Virgo Maria ait. Quia ex iuſtitia accepiſti, vt propter voluntatem priorem duceres eam a via ſanctæ Eccleſiæ, nunc iuſtitia eſt, vt per voluntatem iſtam reducatur ad Eccleſiam. Nunc etiam quæro diabole viterius a te. Dic qualem voluntatem habet modo in hoc puncto, in quo nunc eſt conſcientia ſua. Diabolus autem reſpondit. Ipſa habet contritionem in mente pro his quæ fecit,& magnum fletum,& proponit viterius nunquam talia committere,ſed vult emendare quantũ poteſt. Tunc Virgo quæſiuit a diabolo. Dicas mihi. Poſſunt ne hæc tria peccata,ſcilicet, Luxuria, Gula, & Cupiditas,cum iſtis tribus bonis, ſcilicet contritione, fletu, & propoſito emendationis ſimul eſſe in vno corde. Cui diabolus reſpondit,non. Et beata Virgo, tunc ait. Dicas mihi ergo,quæ iſtorum debuerunt a corde ſuo fugere,& recedere, an iſtæ tres virtutes, an forte illa tria vitia,ex quo tu dicis,quod ibidem in eodem loco ſimul habitare non poſſunt. Diabolus autem ait. Dico quod peccata. Et tunc Virgo reſpondit. Ideo igitur clauſa eſt ei via ad infernum, & via ad cæleſtia ſibi aperta eſt. Tunc viterius quæſiuit beata Virgo a diabolo. Dic mihi,ſi prædo iacet ante fores ſponſæ, volens violare eam, quid faciet tunc ſponſus. Reſpondit diabolus. Si bonus, & magnanimus eſt ille ſponſus,debet eam defendere,& vitam ſuam opponere pro vita eius. Tunc Virgo ait. Tu es prædo peſſimus,anima autem eſt ſponſa, ſponſi filij mei,quia eam proprio ſanguine redemit. Hanc igitur tu corrupiſti, & violenter rapuiſti. Propterea quia filius meus eſt ſponſus animæ, & eſt Dominus ſuper te, ideo competit tibi fugere coram eo.

Declaratio.

Hæc mulier fuit meretrix, quæ redire voluit ad ſæculum, quia diabolus moleſtabat eam die,ac nocte in tantum,quod viſibiliter oculos eius deprimebat, & eam multis videntibus extraxit de lecto. Tunc præſentibus multis fidedignis, dicta S. Brigitta aperte dixit. Recede diabole,quia ſatis inquietaſti iſtam creaturam Dei. Et dicto verbo,ipſa mulier per dimidiam horam depreſſit oculos in terram,& eleuans ſe dixit. Vere vidi diabolum in viliſſima forma ingredientem per feneſtram. Et audiui vocem dicentem mihi. Vere mulier liberata es. Ex poſt illam horam eadem mulier ab omni impatientia liberata fuit, nec ſordidas cogitationes patiebatur viterius,& bono fine quieuit.

CAP. XVII.

EGO ſum Ieſus Chriſtus, qui loquor tecum, qui in ventre Virginis verus Deus, & verus homo fui, non minor cum Patre omnia regens, licet eſſem cũ Virgine. Ille talis inimicus meus peſſimus, ſimilis eſt tribus. Primo aquilæ volanti in aere,ſub qua aliæ aues volant. Secundo ſimilis eſt aucupi,cantanti in fiſtula linita bitumine tenaci, cuius voce aues delectate cum ad fiſtulam aduolant, bitumine illo retinentur. Tertio ſimilis eſt pugili,qui primus eſt in omni certamine. Ipſe nanque ſimilis eſt aquilæ, quia per ſuperbiã ſuam,qua nullos pateretur,ſi poſſet ſe eſſe ſuperiores, lacerat omnes quos poteſt vnguibus malitiæ. Ideo abſcindam ei alas potentiæ ſuæ,& ſuperbiæ. Auferam de terra malitiam eius. Ipſum autem tradam ollæ inextinguibili,vbi ſine fine cruciabitur,niſi emendauerit ſe. Similis eſt aucupi, quia ſcilicet per dulcedinem verborum, & promiſſionum omnes ſibi attrahit, ſed quicunque ad eum venerint, ſic infiguntur in perditione, vt nunquam poſſint inde fugere. Ideo aues inferni configent oculos eius, ne vnquam videat gloriam meam, ſed ſempiternas inferni tenebras. Præcident aures illius, ne audiat verba oris mei. A planta pedis vſque ad verticem capitis, facient ei pro dulcedine amaritudine,vt tot pœnas ſuſtineat,quot homines adduxit ad perditionem. Similis eſt etiam pugili, qui primus in omni malitia nulli cedere vult, & omnes deprimere proponit. Ideo ſicut pugil primus erit in omni pœna,ſemper innouabitur pœna eius, & non deficiet ve. Tamen quam diu anima eſt cum corpore,miſericordia mea parata eſt ei.

Declaratio.

Hic fuit miles potentiſſimus,qui multum odiuit clerum verba ignominioſa imponẽs eis, de quo facta eſt reuelatio præcedens,& ſubſequens. Filius Dei loquitur. O miles mundi quære a ſapientibus,quid contigit ſuperbo Aman, qui deſpexit populum meum, Nonne mors ignominioſa, & confuſio. Sic iſte deridet me,& amicos meos. Ideo ſicut Iſrael non planxit mortem Aman, ſic nec amici mei, plangent ſuper mortem eius,ſed amariſſima morte morietur,niſi ſe emendauerit. Hæc ita euenerunt.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam qualiter in domo Dei debet eſſe humilitas, & quomodo per talem domum religio deſignatur; & etiam quod ædificia, & eleemolynæ debent fieri de bene acquiſitis, & de modo reſtitutionis.

CAP. XVIII.

1 IN domo mea debet eſſe omnis humilitas, quæ omnino nunc contempta eſt. Ibi debet eſſe murus fortis inter viros, & mulieres, quia licet omnes poſſem defendere, & omnes ſine muro tenere, propter cautelas tamen, & aſtutias diaboli, volo quod vous murus diuidat vtraſque habitationes, qui ſit fortis & non multum altus, ſed moderatus. Feneſtræ ſint ſimpliciſſimæ, & lucidæ. Tectum moderate altum, ita vt nihil ibi appareat, niſi quod humilitatem redoleat. Quia illi qui mihi nunc domos ædificant, ipſi ſunt ſimiles magiſtris ædificantibus, ad quos cũ dominus ædificij ingreditur, recipiunt eum per crines, & trahunt eum ſub pedibus, lutũ ponunt in ſublimi, & aurum ſub pedibus. Sic faciunt ipſi mihi. Aedificant enim lutũ, ideſt temporalia iſta caſura ponunt quaſi ad cælum. Animas autem, quæ ſunt pretioſiores auro minime curant. Si ego ingredi volo ad eos per prædicatores meos, aut per cogitationes bonas, ipſi arripiunt me per crines, & conculcant me ſub pedibus, ideſt blaſphemiam mihi inferunt, & opera mea, & verba mea, contemptibilia reputant quaſi lutum. Se autem multo exiſtimant ſapientiores. 2 Si enim mihi ædificare vellent, & ad honorem meum, animas primo ædificarent. Quicunque autem domum meam ædificat, ſummo ſtudio apponat curam, vt nõ veniat ibi ad ædificium vnus denarius, qui non ſit bene, & iuſte acquiſitus. Multi quippe ſunt, qui ſe male acquiſita bona habere ſciunt, & tamen de hoc non dolent, nec voluntatem habent reſtituendi, & ſatisfaciendi ipſis defraudatis, & ſpoliatis, quamuis poſſent reſtituere, & ſatisfacere ſi vellent. Sed tamen quia cogitant ſecum in æternum non poſſe poſſidere ea, dant partem Eccleſijs ex illis bonis iniuſte acquiſitis, quaſi per hanc donationem placatum me habeant. Alia autem bona bene acquiſita reſeruant poſteris ſuis. Hoc certe non placet mihi. Quicunque enim mihi in donis ſuis placere vellet, deberet primo habere affectionẽ emendandi ſe, deinde facere illa bona opera quæ poſſet. Debet etiam lugere, & plangere mala quæ fecit, deinde reſtituere ſi poteſt. Et ſi non poteſt debet habere voluntatem reſtituendi defraudata. Poſtea cauere debet ne vlterius talia committat. 3 Si autem non ſupereſſet cui redderet illa male acquiſita, tunc poſſet mihi dare, qui omnibus poſſum ſua refundere. 4 Quod ſi reddere non ſufficit, tunc ſi cum propoſito emendandi, & contrito corde humiliauerit ſe mihi, ego dines ſum reddere, & poſſum reſtituere omnibus defraudatis partes ſuas, vel in præſenti ſeculo, vel in futuro. Ego volo tibi indicare quid ſignificat domus, quam ædificari volo. Ipſa enim domus eſt religio, cuius fundamentum ſum ego ipſe, qui omnia condidi, & per quem omnia facta ſunt, & ſubſiſtunt. In qua domo ſunt quatuor parietes. Primus eſt iuſtitia mea, qua aduerſantes domui huic iudicabo. Secundus paries eſt ſapientia mea, qua inhabitantes cognitione mea, & intelligentia illuminabo. Tertius eſt potentia mea, qua eos confortabo contra machinamenta diaboli. Quartus etiam paries eſt miſericordia mea, quæ omnes ſuſcipit petentes eã. In hoc pariete eſt porta gratiæ, per quam omnes petentes ſuſcipiantur. Tectum domus eſt charitas, qua diligentium me peccata operio, ne pro illis peccatis iudicentur. Feneſtra tecti per quam intrat ſol, eſt conſideratio gratiæ meæ, per quam intrat calor deitatis meæ ad inhabitantes. Quod autem murus debet eſſe fortis, & grandis, ſignificat quod nullus valet infirmare verba mea, nec ea deſtruere. Quia autem debet eſſe moderate altus, ſignificat quod ſapientia mea ex parte intelligi, & comprehendi poteſt, ſed nunquam plenarie. Feneſtræ ſimplices, & lucidæ, ſignificant quod verba mea licet ſimplicia ſunt, tamen per ea lux cognitionis diuinæ intrabit in mundum. Tectum moderate altum ſignificat quod uerba mea non in ſenſu incomprehenſibili, ſed comprehenſibili, & intelligibili ſenſu manifeſtabuntur.

NOTAE.

1 IN domo mea debet eſſe omnis humilitas.

Inter cæteras virtutes quibus Religioſus, ornatus eſſe debet, quæve in Religione penitus neceſſarie ſunt, principem ſibi locum vendicat humilitas ſine qua in anima Religioſi, nec aliquod eſſe poteſt poteſt veſtigium virtutum, neque quod peius eſt vitia de corde queunt radicitus extirpari, ſicut enim oriente Sole fugantur tenebræ, ita cum cœperit eſſe in Religioſo perfecta humilitas tolluntur vitia, & quemadmodum annotauit Climacus de diſcret. grad. 26. ferarum venenatarum ſenſibilium interemptor eſt Ceruus, ita intellectualium beſtiarum interfectrix humilitas eſt. Caterum admonere hoc loco lectorem cenſui, cum legimus in Religione neceſſariam eſſe omnem humilitatẽ: Chriſtum Dominum indicare voluiſſe per particulam (omnem) Religioſum perfectum hac virtute indigere, ſecundum omnes ſuos gradus, quos eſſe duodecim conſtat ex Regula S. Benedicti cap 7. ſed D. Anſelmus ſeptem tantummodo gradus huic virtuti tribuit lib. de ſimilit. à cap. 10. vſque ad 18. quorum primus eſt contemptibilem cognoſcere ſe eſſe, Secundus de hoc dolere, Tertius hoc confiteri, Quartus hoc perſuadere, vt ſcilicet ſic velit credi, Quintus vt patienter ſuſtineat, hoc dici, Sextus vt patiatur contemptibiliter ſe tractari, Septimus vt hoc amet. Gloſſ. vero Matth. cap. 3. ad ea verba (ſic enim decet nos implere omnem menſuram) omnes hos gradus ad tres reuocat, quorum primus eſt ſubdere ſe maiori, & non præferre ſe æquali: ſecundus eſt ſubdere ſe æquali, nec præferre ſe minori; tertius gradus eſt ſubeſſe minori.

8 Ad honorem meum Animas primo ædificarent, Farneſianus Codex M. S. legit, Ad honorem meum, animarum ſalutem primo quærerent.

9 Si autem non ſupereſſet cui redderet illa male aquiſita, tunc poſſet mihi dare.

Bona aliena, quæ reſtitutioni obnoxia ſunt, quorum Dominus ignoratur pauperibus reſtituenda ſunt, vt ſcribitur hic, præmiſſa tamen diligenti inquiſitione, vt probat D. Thomas 22. q. 62. art. 5. ad 3. VERBA CREATORIS AD Sponſam, de magnificentia ſuarum potentię, ſapientię, & virtutis, & qualiter contra eum magis peccant, qui nunc dicuntur ſapientes.

CAP. XIX.

EGO ſum Creator cæli, & terræ. Ego habeo tria mecum. Ego ſum potentiſſimus, ego ſapientiſſimus, ego etiam virtuoſiſſimus. Ego nanque ſum ita potens, quod Angeli in cælo honorant me. Dæmones in inferno non audent inſpicere me. Omnia elementa ſtant ad nutum meum. 1 Sum etiam ita ſapiens, quod nullus valet inueſtigare ſapientiam meam. Ita ſciens, quod omnia quæ iam fuerunt, & ea quæ futura ſunt ego ſcio. 2 Sum quoque ita rationabilis, quod nec minimum quidem ſiue vermis, ſiue aliquid aliud animal quãtumlibet deforme ſit, eſt ſine cauſa factum. Sum etiam ita virtuoſus, quod a me tanquam a fonte bono, omne bonum emanat. Et ſicut a vitæ bona, omnis dulcedo procedit. Ideo nullus poteſt eſſe ſine me potens; ſine me ſapiens, ſine me virtuoſus. Et ideo nimis potentes ſæculi contra me peccant, quibus dedi fortitudinem, & potentiam, vt me honorarent, ſed ipſi ſibi attribuunt honorem quaſi quod illum a ſeipſis habeant. Non conſiderant miſeri imbecillitatem ſuam. Si enim darem eis minimam infirmitatem, ſtatim deficerent, & omnia vileſcerent eis. Sed quomodo tunc ſubſiſterent ad fortitudinem meam, 3 & ad penas æternas? 3 Sed magis peccant var. contra me, qui nunc dicuntur ſapientes, lect. Ego enim dedi eis ſenſum, & intellectum, & ſapientiam, vt me diligerent, ſed ipſi nihil niſi ad ſuam vtilitatem temporalem intelligunt. Oculos habent in occipite, videntes ſunt ad ſua dilectabilia, ſed cæci ſunt ad gratias agendas mihi, qui dedi eis omnia, quia ſiue boni, ſiue mali, nullus poſſet ſine me ſentire, & intelligere, licet permitto malis voluntatẽ ſuam flectere, ad quod voluerint. Nullus etiam poteſt eſſe virtuoſus ſine me. Ideo ego poſſum, nunc hoc prouerbium dicere, quod a vulgo communiter dicitur. Qui patiens eſt, ab omnibus contemnitur. Sic ego propter patientiam meam, nimis videor ab hominibus fatuus eſſe, & ideo ab omnibus contemnor. Sed ve eis cum ego oſtendero eis iudicium meum poſt talem patientiam. Ipſi nanque erunt quaſi lutum ante me, quod cadit in ima, & non subsistit antequam venerit in profundum inferni.

NOTAE.

1 SVm etiam ita sapiens, quod nullus valet inuestigare sapientiam meam: ita sciens, quod omnia quę iam fuerunt, & ea quæ futura sunt ego scio.

Hic animaduertat Theologus. quod non colligitur ex his, in Deo esse sapientiam & scientiam, tanquam distincti habitus, prout in nobis distinxit Aristl lib. 6. Ethic. cap. 4. & 8. & D Thom. 1. 2. q. 57 art. 2. & ratio huius est, quia sapientia cum altior virtus sit, quam scientia, quippe quæ iudicat de rebus secundum altissimas causas, & prima principia; scientia vero secundum causas inferiores, & conclusiones, quæ ex primis principijs eliciuntur. Dei autem cognitio, quia se extendit ad principia, & conclusiones, & ad superiores, & inferiores causas, cum omnia vnico intuitu, & quæ fuerunt, & quæ futura sunt, vt scribitur hic, comprehendat; ideo in eius sapientia inuenitur ratio scientiæ, non tanquam habitus distincti, sed tanquam vnus & idem, a quo eminenter vtriusque functiones emanent, & in hoc sensu in præsenti capite sapientia, & scientia Deo tribuitur.

2 Sum quoque ita rationalis, quod nec minimum quidem, siue vermis, siue aliud animal est sine causa factum.

Omnia à Deo Opt. Max. facta fuisse secundum prudentiæ regulas, ac leges: Innuitur hic, sicut etiã Sap. 11. legimus, cuncta ab eodem in numero, pondere, & mensura esse disposita: non vero intelligas cum dicitur, quod Deus sit rationalis, quod in agendo discurrat, aut quod discursu egeat: quandoquidẽ, vt superiori nota probauimus, ipse vnico intuitu omnia videt etiam futura, vt Rom. 4. dicit Apostolus, vocat ea, quæ non sunt tanquam ea, quæ sint: dicitur tamen hic, Deus rationalis, quatenus secundum rectam rationem, & optimos fines cuncta creauit, & moderatur.

3 Sed magis peccant contra me, qui nunc dicuntur sapientes.

var. lect. M. S. Farnesianus addit (Et scientes, quam simplices) atque ita hunc locum esse restituendũ sentio, Magis peccant contra me qui nunc dicuntur sapientes, & scientes, quam simplices: de quibus hoc loco quæritur quis eorum magis peccat.

COLLOCVTIO GRATA Virginis matris, & filii ad inuicem. Et Virginis matris, & filii ad sponsam. Et qualiter sponsa debet se præparare ad nuptias.

CAP. XX.

MATER Dei videbatur dicere ad filium. Tu es Rex gloriæ fili mi. Tu es Dominus super omnes Dominos. Tu creasti cælum, & terram, & omnia quæ in eis sunt. Fiat ergo omne desiderium tuum, fiat omnis voluntas tua. Respondit filius. Prouerbium antiquum est, quod illud quod inuenis discit in iuuentute, hoc retinet in senectute. Sic tu mater a iuuentute didicisti sequi voluntatem meam, & relinquere omnem voluntatem tuam pro me. Ideo bene dixisti, fiat voluntas tua.

1 Tu enim es quasi aurum pretiosum, quod extenditur, & percutitur super durum incudem, quia tu omnibus tribulationibus percutiebaris, & in passione mea præ cęteris patiebaris. Quia quando cor meum in cruce præ vehementia doloris rumpebatur, cor tuum ex hoc quasi ferro acutissimo vulnerabatur, & libenter scindi permittiles, si fuisset voluntas mea. Veruntamen etiam si potuisses restitisse passioni meæ, & optasse vitam meam, tu tamen noluisti nisi iuxta voluntatem meam. Ideo bene dicis fiat voluntas tua. Deinde loquebatur Maria ad sponsam. Sponsa filij mei dilige filium meũ, quia ipse diligit te, 2 honora sanctos eius, qui astant ei. Ipsi enim sunt quasi stellæ innumerabiles quorum lux, & splendor nulli temporali luci comparari potest. Quia sicut lux mundi differt a tenebris, sic & multo magis lux sanctorum differt a luce huius mundi. Vere dico tibi, quod si sancti viderentur in claritate sicut sunt, nullus humanus oculus hoc ferre posset, sed corporali lumine priuaretur. Inde loquebatur filius Virginis ad sponsam suam dicens. Sponsa mea tu debes habere quatuor. 3 Primo debes esse parata ad nuptias deitatis meæ, in quibus nulla est libido carnalis, sed spiritualis delectatio suauissima, qualem decet Deum habere cum anima casta, ita vt non amor filiorum tuorum, non etiam bonorum, vel parentum retrahat te ab amore meo. Ne contingat tibi sicut illis Virginibus fatuis, quæ imparate erant quando Dominus voluit vocare eas ad nuptias, & ideo excludebantur. Secundo debes esse credula verbis meis.

VERBA SPONSI AD SPONSAM in figura optima, de quodam mago, per quem diabolus mirabiliter deſignatur, & exponitur.

CAP. XXI.

SPONSVS Ieſus loquebatur ad ſponſam in figura ponens quoddam exemplum ranæ, dicens: Quidam magus habebat optimum aurum ſplendidũ, ad quem veniens vnus ſimplex, & mitis homo, voluit emere aurum illud. Cui ait magus: Non habebis hoc aurum, niſi melius aurum, & maioris quantitatis dederis mihi. Ad quem ille: Ego, inquit, in tantum deſidero iſtud aurum tuum habere, quod antequam caream dabo tibi ſicut vis. Et dato illi mago auro meliori, & maioris quantitatis, recepit ab eo aurum ſplendidum, & poſuit in ſcrinio, cogitans facere ſibi inde anulum ſuper digitum ſuum. Modico autem interiecto tempore, venit Magus ad hominem illum ſimplicem dicẽs: Au-

Aurum hoc quod emisti,& posuisti in scrinio tuo,non est aurum,vt putas, sed vilissima rana,quæ nutrita est in pectore meo, & alita cibo meo. Et vt hæc probes esse vera, aperi scrinium, & videbis quod rana insiliet in pectus meum, de quo nutrita est. Cumque ille aperire vellet, & experiri,apparuit rana in scrinio,cuius operculum pẽdebat supee quatuor cardines, quasi citius casuros. Tunc aperto ostio scrinij, rana visso mago insiluit in pectus eius. Quod videntes serui,& amici illius hominis simplicis, dixerunt ad eum: Domine, inquiunt,aurum illud optimum iacet in rana,& si velles faciliter posses obtinere aurum. Et ille, quomodo,inquit,quomodo hoc possem? Qui dixerunt: Si quis reciperet acutissimam, & feruentem lanceam, & eam infigeret dorso ranæ,ex ea parte dorsi, vbi concauum aliquid esset, tunc citius posset obtinere aurum.Si autem concauum in eo inueniri nõ posset,tunc deberet lancea nimis valenter, & toto conamine infigi in eam,& sic habere posses quod emisti.Quis est iste magus nisi diabolus, qui suadet hominibus delectationes,& honores mundi,quæ non sunt nisi rana.Nam falsa promittit esse vera,& vera facit videri falsa. Ipse enim possidet aurum illud pretiosum, idest animam, quam pretiosiorem omnibus stellis,& planetis per potentiam Deitatis meæ feci, quam immortalem,& stabilem, & delectabiliorem mihi cęteris creaui,& præparaui ei mecum æternã requiem, & habitationem.Hanc ego de potestate diaboli meliori auro,& maioris pretij emi,quando pro ea dedi carnem meam immunem ab omni peccato, & substinui tã amaram passionem, quod nullum meum membrum esset sine vulnere. Redempta autem anima posui eam in corpore tanquã in scrinio, donec eam in dignitate deitatis meæ collocarem. Nunc autem anima hominis sic redempta facta est velut turpissima, & vilissima rana, saltans per superbiam, & commorans in cœno per luxuriam, & abstulit mihi aurum,idest omnem iustitiam meã. Et ideo diabolus bene potest dicere mihi: Aurum quod emisti non est aurum, sed rana nutrita in pectore delectationis meæ. Sepata ergo corpus ab anima,& videbis, quod statim volitabit ad pectus meæ delectationis,vbi nutrita est. Cui ego respondeo: Quia rana horrida est visu,horribilis voce,& venenosa in tactu, nec aliquid mihi boni,uel delectationis confert, sed tibi in cuius pectore nutrita est.tua propterea sit, quia tua de iure est.Ideo aperto ostio,idest separata anima a corpore statim volabit ad te,tecum sine fine mansura. Talis est enim anima illius,de quo tibi loquor. Nam ipsa est uelut rana pessima, plena omni immunditia,& voluptate, nutrita in pectore diaboli. Ad cuius scrinium. idest corpus nũc per appropinquationem mortis appropinquo, quod pendet in quatuor cardinibus caduris.Quia corpus eius ex quatuor subsistit scilicet fortitudine, pulchritudine, & sapientia,& usu, quæ omnia iam nunc incipiunt sibi deficere.Cumque anima eius separabitur a corpore, statim volabit ad diabolum, de cuius lacte nutrita est, quia oblita est dilectionis meę qua supplicium eius quod meruerat pro ea suscepi. Nam mihi non rependit dilectionem pro dilectione mea, sed & insuper 2 aufert mihi iustitiam meam, quia mihi magis deberet seruire, qui redemi eã quam alteri. Sed ipsa magis delectatur in diabolo.Vox orationis eius est mihi sicut vox ranæ,visus eius in conspectu meo abominabilis. Auditus eius nunquam audiet gaudium meum, nec tactus eius venenatus sentiet deitatem meam. Veruntamen quia misericors sum,& anima eius,licet immunda sit,si adhuc attrectaret aliquis,& considerare t,si aliqua contritio esset in ea,& voluntas bona, & infigeret menti eius lanceam acutissimam,& feruentem, idest timorem districti iudicij mei,adhuc inueniret gratiã meam, si vellet consentire. Quod si nulla esset in eo contritio,nec charitas,si quis tamen pungeret eum mordaci correptione, & reprehensione dura,adhuc esset in eo spes, quia quandiu anima cum corpore viuit,misericordia mea omnibus aperta est. Vide ergo quia pro charitate mortuus sum,& mihi nullus rependit charitatem,sed aufert mihi iustitiam meam,quia iustum esset vt homines eo melius viuerent, quo maiori labore redempti sunt. Sed nunc eo deterius viuere volunt,quo eos amarius redemi,eo fiducialius peccare volunt,quo magis eius peccatum abhominabile ostendi. 3 Ideo vide, & considera,quia non sine causa iracor,quia gratiam meam conuertunt sibi in iram. Redemi enim eos a peccato,& ipsi se magis implicant peccato. Tu ergo sponsa mea redde mihi quæ teneris, idest animam tuã mundam mihi conserua, quia pro te mortuus sum, hac de causa, vt eam mihi mundam seruares.

NOTAE.

1 REdempta autem anima posui eam in corpore tanquam in scrinio, donec eam in dignitate deitatis meæ collocarem, nunc autem anima hominis, sic redempta, facta est velut turpissima,ac vilissima Rana.

Præsentis notæ verborum sensus est. Creaui Animam

Animam hominis, eamque in corpore posui, vt illam ad visionem Deitatis meæ eleuarem, sed per primorum Parentum culpam sub dæmonis potestate, ac seruitute redacta est, a qua ego eam sanguine meo redemi, sed nihilominus ad eandem seruitutem rediit, & iterum peccatis deturpata est, & veluti Rana effecta, quæ vt tradit Gregor. Nissen. de vita Mosis animal palustre est specie deforme, cui turpissimus est aspectus, cuius saltus repens, cuius è corpore intolerabilis fœtor emittitur, sic homo sceleribus, vitijsq. irretitus turpissimus, ac fœdissimus euadit, & passionum Cœno refertus Ranarũ more in terram habitat, eamq. solam aspicit, nec vnquam cælum intuetur, de quo Dauid Psal. 16. statuerunt oculos suos declinare in terram.

2 Aufert mihi iustitiam meam, quia mihi deberet magis seruire quam alteri.

Iustitia reddit, cuique quod suum est, vnde Christianus, cum obsequium debitum, ac obedientiam Deo præstat iustus dici potest, quatenus illi tribuit, quod suum est, diceretur autem auferre nisi daret, quod illi deberetur, & notandum, quod hoc loco iustitia non sumitur, qua Deus iustus est, sed qua per gratiam nos iustificat, in quo sensu de iustitia verba facit D. August. Epist. 120. & de spiritu, & litera cap. 11. cum ergo nos gratiam Dei, qua iustificamur, per mortale peccatum respuimus, eumque animam nostram Christi sanguine redemptam a Deo subtrahimus, tunc profecto Deum quantum in nobis est iustitia priuamus, quod declaratur aperte, circa finem præsentis capitis ibi, sed aufert mihi iustitiam meam, quia iustum esset, vt homines eo melius viuerent, quo maiori labore redempti sunt, de qua iustitia Paulus Rom. 10. loquitur cum dicit ignorantes iustitiam Dei, & suam quærentes statuere iustitiæ Dei, non sunt subiecti.

3 Ideo vide, quod non sine causa irascor.

Irasci hoc loco dicitur Deus non aliquo animi motu, & turbatione, quæ ei aduenire minime potest, sed peccanti creaturæ, ac impijs hominibus; cum iustam infert vltionem, & secundum eorum demerita pœnas reddit, quæ veluti effectus ab ira manare solent, vt tradunt D. Hieron. in Psal 89. & super Isaiam cap. 57. & 64. & Ierem. 7. Orig. in lib. Iudicum Hom. 2. & super Matt. Hom. 20. Hilarius in Psal. 2. Eucherius de spiritualibus formulis cap. 1. n. 20. tribuimus quoque metaphorice Deo iram, quatenus in eo ratio est, iustæ vindictæ, per quam in sacris litteris significantur minæ, ac flagella, quibus peccatores territi vitia relinquunt, sic annotarunt Clemens Papa lib. 10. recognitionũ Basil. in Psal. 29. D. Hieronym. super Zachariam cap. 8. D. Augustinus Psalm. 82.

INTERROGATIO DVLCIS-sima matris ad sponsam, & responsio humilis sponsę ad matrem. Et replicatio vtilis matris ad sponsam, & de profectu bonorum inter malos.

CAP. XXII.

MATER loquebatur ad sponsam filij dicens. Tu es sponsa filij mei. Dicas quid habes in animo, & quid petis? Cui sponsa respondit. Tu Domina bene nosti, quia scis omnia. Et tunc beata Virgo ait. Licet ego omnia sciam, tamen te loquente audientibus astantibus cognoscam. Et sponsa dixit. Duo inquit timeo Domina. Primo pro peccatis, quæ non ploro, nec emendo, vt vellem. Secundo contristor, ex eo quod inimici filij tui sunt multi. Tunc Virgo Maria respondit. Contra primum do tibi tria remedia. Primo cogita, quod omnia quæ spiritum habent sicut ranæ, & cætera animalia quandoque habent incommoda, nec tamen in æternum viuit spiritus eorum, sed cum corpore moritur. Tua autem anima, & omnis hominis viuit in æternum. Secundo cogita misericordiam Dei, quia nullus homo sic peccator est, si cum emendationis proposito, & contritione rogauerit, quod non dimittatur ei peccatum. Tertio cogita quanta gloria est animæ, quæ cum Deo, & in Deo sine fine viuit. Contra secundum scilicet, quod inimici Dei sunt multi, do etiam tibi tria remedia. Primo considera quod Deus tuus, & Creator tuus, & eorum, est iudex super eos, & nunquam amplius ipsi iudicabunt eum, licet patienter supportet ad tempus malitiam eorum. Secundo, quod filij damnationis sunt, & quam graue, & intolerabile erit eis semper ardere. Ipsi sunt serui pessimi, qui carebunt hæreditate, filij autem recipient hæreditatem. Sed dices forte, ergo non est eis prædicandum? vtique. Considera quod inter malos frequẽter sunt boni. Et filij adoptiui quandoque recedũt a bono, sicut ille filius prodigus, qui abijt in aliam regionẽm longinquam, & vixit male. Sed ipsi quandoque per prædicationem compuncti reuertuntur ad patrem, & erunt eo acceptiores quo prius peccatores. Ideo eis magis prædicandum est, quia licet prædicator fere omnes videt malos, consideret tamen secum forte sunt aliqui inter eos filij futuri Domini mei; prædicabo ergo eis, hic prædicator optimam habebit mercedem.

eodem. Tertio considera, quod mali viuere permittuntur ad bonorum probationem, vt ex eorum moribus exasperati, patientiæ fructu remunerentur, sicut etiam per exemplum intelligere poteris. Rosa enim suauiter redolet, pulchra est visu, lenis tactu, & tamen non crescit nisi inter spinas, quæ sunt aspere tactu, deformes visu, nihil boni redolentes. Sic etiam boni, & iusti homines, licet lenes sint patientia, pulchri moribus, suaues bono exemplo, non tamen possunt proficere, vel probari, nisi inter malos. Quandoque etiam spina defendit rosam, ne carpatur ante maturitatem, sic mali occasio sunt bonis, ne excedant in peccatis, quandoque per eorum malitiam refrenantur, ne immoderata lætitia, vel alio peccato dissoluantur. Nunquam etiam vinum seruatur bene in bonitate sua, nisi in fece, nec boni, & iusti in virtutibus stare, & proficere possunt, nisi probentur tribulationibus, & iniquorum persecutionibus. Ideo tu libenter supporta inimicos filij mei, & cogita, quod ipse iudex eorum est, & quod ipse si sic esset iustitia, vt deberent destrui omnes, bene posset in momento delere eos. Ergo tolera tu, quandiu ipse tolerat eos.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam de homine facto, qui inimicus Dei est nuncupatus, & quam maxime de hipocrita, & eius ad plenum proprietates ponentia.

CAP. XXIII.

ILLE talis videtur hominibus quasi homo bene ornatus, fortis, & decorus, & in pugna Domini sui strenuus, sed amota galea a capite eius est abominabilis ad videndum, & inutilis ad operandū. Apparet enim cerebrum eius nudum. Aures habet in fronte, oculos in occipite. Nasus eius abscisus est. Genæ eius ex toto cōtractæ quasi hominis mortui. Maxilla eius ex dextra parte cum faucibus, & dimidietate labij tota deciderat. Ita quod nihil ex dextra parte remanet nisi guttur solum, quod nudum apparet. Pectus eius plenum est vermibus scaturientibus. Brachia eius quasi duo serpentes. Cor impletum est pessimo scorpione. Dorsum eius velut combustus carbo. Intestina eius sunt fœtentia, & corrupta quasi caro abundans sanie. Pedes eius mortui, & inutiles ad incedendum. Quid autem ista significant, dicam tibi. Ille talis videtur hominibus exterius bonis moribus, & sapientia ornatus, & in honore meo strenuus esse, sed nequaquam est ita. Si enim amoueretur galea a capite eius, ideſt ostenderetur hominibus qualis ipse est, esset præ omnibus vilissimus. Cerebrum quippe eius est nudum, quia insipientia, & leuitas morum eius, satis euidentissimis signis ostendit eum bonis hominibus, indignum esse tali honore. Si enim saperet ei sapientia mea, intelligeret se tanto austeriori conuersatione debere præ alijs vestiri, quo maiori honore præ cæteris sublimatur. Aures habet in fronte, quia pro humilitate, quam deberet habere in dignitate, & cæteris lucere, non vult nisi audire laudem, & honorem suum, & pro eo assumit sibi superbiam, vnde velit ab omnibus vocari magnus, & bonus. Oculos habet in occipite, quia cogitatio eius tota est ad præsentia, & non ad æterna. Tota quomodo placeat hominibus, & quod vanitas carnis requirit, & non quo modo placeat mihi, & profit animabus. Nasus eius abscisus est, quia discretio ablata est ab eo, qua discernat inter peccatum, & virtutem, inter honorem temporalem, & æternum, inter diuitias sæculi, & æternas, inter delectationes istas modicas, & æternas. Genæ eius contractæ sunt, ideſt verecundia omnis quam deberet habere ad me, & pulchritudo virtutum, qua mihi placeret omnino quasi mortua est ad me. Quia pro hominum verecundia erubescit peccare, pro me autem nihil. Altera pars maxillæ, & labij deciderat, ita quod nihil remanet nisi guttur. Quia imitatio operum meorum, & prædicatio verborum meorum cum oratione feruenti, in eo iam cecidit, ita quod nihil remaneat in eo, nisi guttur gulæ suæ. Imitatio autem prauorum, & reuolutio sæcularium negotiorum, totaliter sana, & pulchra sibi videntur. Pectus eius plenum est vermibus, quia in pectore, vbi deberet esse recordatio passionis meæ, & memoria operum meorum, & præceptorum, ibi est sollicitudo temporalium, & cupiditas mundi, quæ quasi vermes eius conscientiam mordent, ne cogitet spiritualia. In corde eius vbi ego morari vellem, & charitas mea sedere deberet, sedet pessimus scorpio, qui pungit cauda, & blanditur facie, quia de ore eius satis blanda procedit loquela, & rationabilis, sed cor eius plenum est iniustitia, & fallacia, quia non curaret, quod Ecclesia, cui præest destrueretur, si voluntatem suam posset perficere. Brachia eius sunt sicut serpentes, quia per malitiam suā extendit se ad simplices vocando eos cum simplicitate ad se, & occasione accepta miserabiliter supplantat. Inde quasi serpens retorquet se quasi in circulum, quia occultas malitias suam, & iniquitatem, vt nix aliqui eius astutiam possint deprehendere. Iste est quasi vilissimus serpens in conspectu meo, quia, sicut serpens omnibus animalibus est odiosior, sic iste mihi omnibus deformior, quia iusticiam meam annihilat, & reputat me quasi hominem, qui nolit vindicare. Dorsum eius est velut carbo, quod tamen deberet esse sicut ebur, quia opera eius deberent esse fortia prae aliis, & mundiora, vt infirmos portaret per patientiam, & per vitae bonae exemplum. Sed nunc est quasi carbo, quia infirmus est ad patiendum vnum verbum pro honore meo, nisi causa voluntatis propriae. Verumtamen sibi fortis videtur ad mundum. Ideo cum fortè putat cadet, quia, sic deformis, & mortuus est in conspectu meo, & sanctorum meorum, sicut carbo. Interiora eius sunt fœtentia, quia cogitatio eius, & affectio fœtent in conspectu meo velut caro mortua, cuius fœtorem nullus ferre potest sic enim nullus sanctorum ferre potest, sed omnes nauseant ab eo vultum suum, & petunt super eum iudicium. Pedes eius sunt mortui. Duo namque pedes sunt duæ affectiones eius ad me, scilicet voluntas emendandi commissa, & voluntas faciendi bona. Sed hi pedes omnino in eo mortui sunt, quia omnis medulla charitatis in eo consumpta est, & nihil in manet nisi ossa indurationis. Et sic stat coram me. Verumtamen quandiu anima est cum corpore, misericordiam meam inuenire potest.

Declaratio.

Apparuit sanctus Laurentius dicens. Ego cum essem in mundo habui tria, continentiam ad meipsum, misericordiam ad proximum, charitatem ad Deum. Ideo feruenter praedicaui verbum Dei, sapienter distribui bona Ecclesiæ, & tolerabam gaudenter verbera, ignem, & mortem. Hic autem Episcopus tolerat, & dissimulat incontinentiam cleri, expedit largiter bona Ecclesiæ in diuites, charitatem habet ad se, & suos. Ideo notum ei facio, quod nubes leuissima iam ascenderat in cælum, quam faces tenebrosæ obumbrant, ne videatur a pluribus. Hæc vero nubes est oratio matris Dei pro Ecclesia, quam faces cupiditatis, & indeuotionis, & defectus iustitiæ sic obumbrant, quod lenitas misericordiæ matris Dei, corda miserorum ingredi non valeat. Propterea conuertat se citius Episcopus ad diuinam charitatem, & corrigendo seipsum, & subditos suos, exemplo, & verbis suis ammonendo, & ad meliora prouocanda. Alioquin sentiet manum iudicantis, & Ecclesiam igne, & gladio patebitur, rapina, & tribulatione affligetur in tantum, quod non in longa tempora erit, qui consoletur eam.

VERBA DEI PATRIS coram cœli exercitu, & responsio filij, & matris ad patrem, adgratiam pro filia, idest pro Ecclesia impetrandam.

CAP. XXIIII.

PATER loquebatur audiente toto exercitu cœlesti dicens. Coram vobis conqueror, quod filiam meam tradidi vni viro, qui nimis affligit eam, & pedes eius crispo ligneo stringit ita quod omnis medulla exit de pedibus eius. Cui respondit filius: Ipse tu pater, quam ego sanguine meo redemi, & sponsam mihi; sed nunc violenter rapuit. Deinde loquebatur mater dicens. Tu es Deus meus, & Dominus meus, & membra filij mei benedicti fuerunt in corpore meo, qui verus filius tuus, & verus filius meus es. Ego enim tibi nihil negaui in terra, nihil negabo in cœlo. Filia tua propter preces meas. Deinde loquebatur Angelus dicens. Tu es Dominus Deus noster, & in te omne bonum habemus, nec aliquo indigemus nisi te, Quando sponsa tua de te processit, omnes nos congratulabamur. Nunc autem merito contristari possumus, quia tradita est in manus pessimi, qui eam omni vilitate, & opprobrio confundit. Misere igitur di propter tuam magnam misericordiam, quia miseria eius magna est nimis, & non est, qui eos consoletur, & liberet eam, nisi tu Domine Deus omnipotens. Tunc respondit Pater ad filium dicens. Fili querimonia tua, querimonia mea est, verbum tuum verbum meum, opera tua opera mea sunt. Tu in me, & ego in te inseparabiliter, fiat voluntas tua. Deinde ad matrem filij ait. Quia tu mihi nihil negasti in terra, ideo ego tibi nihil negabo in cœlo voluntas tua complebitur. Ad Angelos autem dixit. Vos estis amici mei, & flamma charitatis vestræ ardet in corde meo. Faciam misericordiam filiæ meæ propter preces vestras.

VER-

CAP. XXV.

EGO ſum Creator cæli, & terræ. 1 Mirabaris tu ſponſa mea quare ſic patiens ſum in malos. Hoc eſt quia miſericors ſum. Nam tripliciter patitur eos iuſtitia mea, & tripliciter parcit eis miſericordia mea. Primo eos iuſtitia mea patitur, vt tempus eorum compleatur ex toto. Sicut enim Rex iuſtus habens incarceratos aliquos, ſi ab eo quæritur, cur non occiduntur? Reſpondet quia dondum venit placitum generale, vbi ad maiorem cautelam audientium audiri poſſunt. Sic ego ſupporto malos donec veniat tempus eorum, vt innoteſcat etiam alijs malitia eorum. Nunquid non longe ante prædixi de reprobatione Saulis, antequam innotuit hominibus. Quem vt alijs malitia eius oſtenderetur diu ſupportaui. Secundo, quia mali aliqua bona opera fecerunt, pro quibus vſque ad vltimum punctum remunerari debent, vt non ſit aliquid minimum bonum, quod pro me fecerunt, pro quo non remunerentur, vt hic recipiant mercedem ſuam. Tertio vt honor Dei, & eius patientia manifeſtetur. Ideo ſupportaui Pilatum, Herodem, & Iudam, cum tamen damnati eſſent. Ideo ſi quis quærit quare illum, & illum ſupporto, conſideret Iudam, & Pilatum. Tripliciter etiam pareit malis hominibus miſericordia mea. Primo propter nimiam charitatẽ, longa enim eſt pœna æterna. Ideo propter maximam charitatem, ſupporto eos vſque ad vltimũ punctum, vt pœna ex longa temporis protractatione, tardius eis inchoetur. Secundo, vt conſumatur natura eorum in vitijs. Per peccatum enim natura conſumitur, ne mortem temporalem amariorem ſentirent, ſi natura eorum eſſet recentior. Recens enim natura mortem prolixiorem, & amariorem facit. Tertio ad profectum bonorum, & conuerſionem aliquorum malorum. Cum enim boni homines, & iuſti per malos tribulantur, vel proficit ipſis bonis, & iuſtis ad refrenationem peccati, vel ad maius meritũ acquirendum. Similiter & mali, viuunt malis ad bonum quandoque. Nam mali cum aliquorum malorum caſum, & nequitiam conſiderant cogitant ſecum dicentes. Quid prodeſt nobis ſequi eos? Et cum ſic patiens eſt Dominus, melius eſt conuerti. Et ſic quandoque redeunt ad me auerſi, quia horrent talia facere ſicut illi mali faciunt dicente eis conſcientia eorum talia non facienda. Vnde dicitur, quod aliquis pertuſus a ſcorpione ſi perungitur oleo, in quo mortuus eſt alius ſcorpio ſanatur. Sic quandoque malus videns alterius caſum compungitur, & conſiderata alterius vanitate, & iniquitate, ſanatur.

detur Paulum affirmare ibi Angelos fuisse eum hominibus pacificatos, quippe qui ad invicem propter peccata desidebant, quæ Christi passione sublata sunt, unde pax inter illos sequuta est; propterea dicendum videtur, si verbum, redimere, proprie sumatur, Angelos minime fuisse redemptos; est enim redimere iterum, ac denuo emere. Angeli autem boni cum nunquam peccaverint, dici non possunt redempti: ex sententia tamen D. Dionysii 8. de divinis nominibus, & Gregorij de Valentia Societatis Iesu Theologi, in commentariis super S. Thomã tom. 1. disp 4. q. 13. puncto 2. in fine, redempti eo sensu esse dicuntur, quatenus ille qui potuit, & non peccavit, & ad peccandum factus est impotens, redemptus ab eo dici potest, quod esse poterat; ut egregie docuit D. Bernard. serm. 22. sup. Cant. paulo post initium, At Angelis inquit, quomodo redemptio fuerit non video; nec enim auctoritas scripta rarum usquam assentire videtur, eos aliquando aut peccato exutisse captivos, aut morti obnoxios, unde necessariam haberent redemptionẽ, exceptis dumtaxat illis, qui superbiæ lapsu irremediabili corruentes redimi deinceps non merentur; si itaq; Angeli nunquã redempti sunt, alij utique non egerunt, alij non promerentes; illi quidem quia nec lapsi sunt; hi autem quia irrevocabiles sunt; quo pacto tu dicis Dominum Iesum Christum eis fuisse redemptionem, audi breviter, qui erexit hominem lapsum dedit stanti Angelo ne laberetur, sic illum de captivitate eruẽs sicut hunc a captivitate defendens; & hac ratione fuit æque virtq; redemptio, solvens illum & servãs istum; liquet ergo sanctis Angelis Dominũ Christũ fuisse redemptionem; hæc Bernardus. Cum autem hoc loco scribitur, ex quo est maximum nostrum gaudium, intelligendum, vel de reparatione sediũ, ut diximus, vel quia per incarnationem meruit Christus sibi gloriam capitis, etiam ratione Angelorum, in quos habuit influxũ doctrina illuminationis, & gaudiorum accidentalium. ut ex D. Dionysio cap. 7. de cælesti hierarchia colligitur.

Mulierem hoc loco Christus dominus templum vocat, sicut enim Deus creaverat hominem tanquam templum in quo ipse per gratiam inhabitaret, est namque anima iusti, templum Spiritus sancti, ut 1. Cor. 3. scribit Paulus, & annotarunt Hilarius in psal. 64. & 137. Arnob. in psal. 78. Aug. epist. 17. ita quoque legimus hic aliud fecisse templum viro ex costa sua, creans nimirum mulierem, in qua ipse vir per dilectionem, ac unionem, veluti in quodam templo inhabitaret; sed merito quispiã hic quærere posset quomodo ex una costa Adæ integrum, ac perfectum corpus Euæ fuerit constituũ, quandoquidem ipsa in perfecta corporis statura, & ætate generata est; cui dubitationi responderi potest primo cum D. Thoma 1. p. q. 92. art. 3. id factũ esse, quod costa illa in tantum materiæ molẽ invenerit, quãta sat esset ad formandũ corpus mulieris, quæ materia, vel ex alio quovis corpore sumpta, concreta sit in corpus mulieris, vel quod de nihilo creata sit, ut indicavit D. Thom. Hanc autem materiam dupliciter concurrere possumus concurrere: potuisse ad formationem corporis Euæ, vel immediate, ut scilicet ex ipsa, & ex costa fabricaretur corpus; vel mediate, ut primo ipsa materia conversa fuerit in costam Adæ, & in tantam molem redacta, quæ ad perficiendum muliebre corpus sufficeret. Veteres Magistri sent. in 2. d 18. & ibi Durandus, & Gabriel existimarunt costam illam Adam, non per rarefactionem, vel materiæ externæ additionem, sed per sui ipsius multiplicationem divinitus factam in tantum extrevisse, ut ad corporis Euæ productionem satis fuerit; probant autem, quia si illa materia fuisset extrinsecus assumpta, corpus illius dicretum potius factum ex illa materia quam ex costa quandoquidem illa materia aucta longe utique maior fuisset, quam ipsamet costa viri; sed hoc non obstat, quia denominatio ex illa materia desumenda est, quæ prima, & principaliter assumpta est a Deo ad formationem corporis Euæ; quæ fuit costa viri, ut Genes. 2. patet Cætera vero materies, ut quid adventitium, & accessorium adhibita est, quæ de re videndus est D. Thom. ubi sup. qui hanc Magistri opinionem egregie confutavit: an autem illa costa fuerit superflua, an vero necessaria ipsimet Adamo D. Thom. quæst citata ad 2. arg. affirmat fuisse supernaturaliter si consideretur Adam, ut singularis quædam persona, ut autem erat principium speciei, & totius generis humani primus homo, ex quo formanda erat Eua, asserit necessariam extitisse illam costam, non quidem simpliciter, sed secundum divinum decretum, quo ex ea costa formare mulieris corpus statuerat; quare autem ex costa potius quã ex alio membro fuerit Eua formata, vide D. Thom. loco citato.

1 Sed nunc ô tu sponsa mea propter quam hæc fiunt potes quærere, quomodo de eis filij nascerentur si non peccassent.

Poterat B. Brigitta merito dubitare de generatione filiorum per coitum in statu innocentiæ, quod futura non fuisset eum de eadem re plures etiam doctores gravissimi dubitaverint, ut Greg. Nyssen. de creatione hominis cap. 28 qui affirmavit, primos parentes nisi peccassent non habituros fuisse filios per coitum, sed per modum quendam multiplicationis perfectissimum, quo Angeli multiplicati sunt: eidem sententiæ subscripsit Damasc. lib. 4. cap. 25. & videtur favere Chrisost. Hom. 18. in Genesim, & Procopius in Genesim cap. 4. exponens illa verba Adam cognovit uxorem suam, Eusebius in Psalm 50. fuit aliquando in hanc opinionem D. August. lib. 11. in Genesim cap. 19. quam tamen revocat lib. 1. retract. cap. 10. 13. & 19. Cæterum quoniam supradicta opinio sacræ scripturæ, ac traditioni contraria esse videtur, ideo nobis dicendum est, quod si primi parentes non peccassent fuissent homines multiplicati, per carnalem generationem; ut patet evidenter ex ipsamet Mosis narratione Genesis 1. & 2. ubi dicit in creatione hominis Deus ab initio masculum, & fœminam creasse, & quorsum nonnisi ad generandam prolem, cuius causa instituta est discretio sexus in marem, & fœminam, nihil autem est frustra in operibus Dei. Secundo idem probatur ex illo, erunt duo in carne vna, id enim per carnalem copulam completur: tertio hoc palam fit cum Moses dixit, mulierem fuisse factam in adiutorium viri, sed hoc non ad aliud nisi ad generationem, vt egregie animaduertit D. Thom. 1. par. q. 92. art. 2. Potissima autem ratio, per quam citati doctores contrarium sententiam secuti sunt ea est, quod in illo actu reperiri consueuit turpitudo quædam, & deformitas, & immoderatus libidinis sensus, quæ a statu innocentiæ penitus alienas esse debebant. Verum tunc temporis nec fuisset turpitudo aliqua, nec ardor immoderatus libidinis in eo actu, vt scribit D. Thomas vbi supra, & D. Augustin. lib. 14. de ciuit. cap. 26. absit inquit, vt suspicemur, non potuisse prolem fieri sine libidinis morbo, sed eo voluntatis nutu mouerentur illa membra, quo cætera, & sine ardore, & illecebroso stimulo, & ideirco in præsenti capite scribitur, quod tunc in illo statu, per commistionem sexus fuisset propagata proles ex mutua charitate, diuina dilectione absque aliqua turpi voluptate.

4 Deinde infante concepto absque peccato & voluptuosa delectatione ego ex deitate mea immitterem animam, neque absque dolore portaret puerum, & pareret.

Ex hæ verbis non est colligendum hominum animas iamiude ab initio mundi fuisse cum Angelis in Cælo creatas, & postea cum corpora creantur in dies in ipsamet corpora mitti, vt existimauit Origenes, cuius opinionem retulimus, & reiecimus hoc eodem lib. cap. 9. vbi probauimus Deum Opt. Max. nouas quotidie creare animas, easque nouis corporibus infundere, infundendo creare, & creando infundere; cum ergo legimus hic quod infante concepto Deus a Diuinitate sua misit animas, intellige Deum intra corpusculum iam organizatum creare animas, in quod mittere eas dicitur a Diuinitate quatenus per suam diuinam potentiã facit, vt in cunctas corporis partes diffundatur, sicque diffusa omnes informet, id autem quod sequitur nimirum quod absque dolore in eo statu mulieres peperissent explicat D. Augustinus lib. 14. de Ciuit. cap. 26. vbi modum tradit, quo id fieri potuisset, cum fœtus inquit in vtero, iam partui fuisset maturus, tunc fore vt materna viscera sponte in tantum laxarentur, vt commodum sine matris dolore transitũ fœtui præberet, sic ad pariendũ non doloris gemitus, sed maturitatis impulsus fœmineas viscera relaxaret, vt ad concipiendum non libidinis apetitus, sed voluntarius vsus naturam coniugis vtriusque coniungeret, verum quanta sit mulierum parientium pœna, qua ob primorum parentum peccatum illis inflicta est, vt Genesis 3. patet Indicat Dominus Ioan. cap. 16. ibi mulier cum parit, tristitiam habet, & late tradunt Arist. lib. 7. de Hist. Animal. cap. 9. & Plinius lib. 7. naturalis hist. cap. 9.

5 Qui natus infans statim perfectus esset sicut Adam.

Existimandum est pueros in statu innocentiæ non fuisse habituros eam status perfectionem qualis Adamo, in cuius creatione collata fuit, is enim creatus est, & in ætate perfecta, vt indicat D. Augustinus lib. 6. de Genesi ad literam cap. 13. & colliga hoc ex eodem Augustino Magister sent. in 2. d. 17. & aliqui arbitrati sunt in ea ætate fuisse creatum Adamum, qua Christus Dominus e mortuis resurrexit, hoc est inter trigesimum, & quadragesimum annum. Et sicut in ætate perfecta, ita quoque in perfecta corporis magnitudine factus est. Verum non sic contigisset in statu innocentiæ pueris, tunc enim habuissent quidem virtutem motiuam membrorum sufficientẽ non ad quoslibet actus, sed ad actus pueritiæ competẽtes, vt ad sugendum vbera, & alia huiusmodi sicut probat D. Thomas 1. par. q. 97. art. 1. neque etiã habuissent perfectum rationis vsum ad omnia, sed ad opera tantummodo pueritiæ idoneum, vt idem auctor probat q. 101. art. 2. cum ergo hoc loco legimus habituros fuisse infantes talem perfectionem, qualem habuit Adam, intellige de perfectione competente ætati puerili, quæ pro eo tempore diceretur perfecta, quia fuisset ei tunc sufficiens, sicut & illa Adæ fuit perfecta, quippe quæ erat competens, & qualitati personæ, & ætati in qua creatus fuerat, est ergo sermo de æqualitate proportionis in ordine ad ætatem, in qua quisque creatus est, quam Deus, prout quisque paulatim crescit sufficientem confert, & sic vnaquæque dicitur perfecta iuxta conuenientiam ætatis, quæ interpretatio sumitur ex illa particula (sicut) quæ est nota similitudinis, non æqualitatis, & sensus est, quod sicut Adam habuit perfectionem competentem ætati, in qua creatus est, ita pueri in statu innocentiæ habuissent perfectionem ætati puerili conuenientem, in qua nati fuissent.

6 Et desiderabat maiorem honorem quam ego dederam ei.

Hunc honorem, quem Adamum concupiuisse legimus hic, fuisse scientiæ diuinæ æqualitatem colligi potest ex illis verbis Geneseos tertio. Eritis sicut Dij scientes bonum, & malum, & ibi etiam: Ecce Adam quasi vnus ex nobis factus est sciens bonum, & malum, verum quomodo Adam qui sapientissimus erat persuadere sibi potuerit, posse se ad æqualitatem diuinæ scientiæ peruenire declarat D. Thomas in 2. sent. d. 25. & Caetan. in comment. 2. 2. q. 163. art. 4. qui affirmant eam æqualitatem desiderasse, non apetitu absoluto, sed conditionali, ea scilicet intentione, quod eam æqualitatem voluisset si fieri posset, sunt etiam qui dicunt eum non proprie apetisse æqualitatem scientiæ Dei, sed similitudinem quandam illius scientiæ, quæ illi non erat impossibilis, & hoc deducit Lyranus ex illa particula (sicut Dij) non enim dicitur absolute eritis Dij, sed sicut Dij, idem annotauit Hieron. ab Oleastro ibidem.

Tunicis nimirum pelliceis, vt Geneseos tertio scribitur bitur, quæ vel factæ fuerunt ex corticibus arborum, vt refert Theodoretus q. 39. in Geneſim aliquos ſenſiſſe, vel fuêre confectæ ex animalium mortuorum pellibus, quod tamen Theodoretus id fieri minime potuiſſe exiſtimauit, quia inquit oportuiſſet aliquam ſpeciem animantium tunc rurſus interiere: bina enim tantummodo in vnaquaque ſpecie mã ſculicet marem, & vnam fœminam in exordio mundi a Deo fuiſſe creata cenſuit, quod an verum ſit in præſentia non facit ad rem noſtram diſcutere probabiliſſimum tamen eſſe credo, multa in exordio mũdi ſecundum vnamquamque ſpeciem vtriuſque ſexus animalia fuiſſe creata, quod & rationi magis eſt conſonum, neque ſacræ Scripturæ contrarium, ſed quidquid ſit de hac re Vgo de Sancto Victore opinatur illas tunicas fuiſſe confectas ex elementis miniſterio Angelorum, vel Deum docuiſſe primos parentes rationem conficiendi ſibi veſtes ex pellibus animalium, ſed ego probabilius eſſe arbitror vere illas tunicas factas fuiſſe ex mortuorum animalium pellibus, vt conſtat ex ſacro Textu, vbi legimus. Fecit quoq; Dominus Deus Adæ, & vxori eius tunicas pelliceas, ſequuntur hanc ſententiã Eucherius in Geneſim lib. 1. cap. 30. Hieronym. ab Oleaſtro in Geneſim loco citato Pererius in Geneſim lib. 6. in explicat. cap. 3. ver. 21. Lyranus in Geneſim cap. 3. vbi exponens illa verba. Fecit quoque Dominus Deus, &c. ſecit inquit, de pellibus animalium mortuorum indumentum in ſignum ſuæ mortalitatis, & quia indigebant tegumẽtũ contra intemperiem aeris loci, ad quem erant eiciendi.

Ex his verbis conſtat falſam eſſe hæreſim Collyridianam, quæ affirmat Mariam humanæ naturæ fuiſſe expertem, cuius hæreſis meminit Epiphanius hæreſi 78. & 79. & patet huius opinionis falſitas, quia ſcribitur hic Mariam carnem aſſumpſiſſe ex patre, & matre, quorum mentio fit paſſim in his reuelationum libris, vt lib. 1. cap. 9. lib. 6. cap. 104. ſermo. Angelico cap. 16. meminerunt parentum Virginis Nicephorus. lib. 1. cap. 7. lib. 2. cap. 3. plura habent de his Epiphan. orationibus de laudibus Virginis Tom. 7. Damaſc. lib. 3. cap. 15. & orationib. de B. Virg. Gregorius Niſſenus oratione prima de S. Chriſti Natiuit. Andreas Hieroſolymit. orat. de dormit. Deiparæ, & hic error reuincitur ex eo, quoniam ſingulare fuit priuilegium Chriſti, quod ex fœmina ſine opera viri conceptus ſit.

9 Quicunque ergo ex diuina charitate, diui
var. noque timore propter ſuſcipiendam prolem lect. coniunguntur.

M. S. Farneſianus legit, Quicunque ergo ex diuina charitate diuinoque amore coniunguntur.

10 Cum vero coniuges veniunt ad lectum, tunc ſtatim diſcedit ab eis ſpiritus meus, & appropinquat ſpiritus impurus, quia non conueniunt niſi cauſa luxuriæ.

Si coniuges in matrimonio aliud non quærant quam carnis voluptatem, & ei vitium finem ponant, ſine dubio ab eis Spiritus Dei recedit, quamuis quidem voluntatem ſuam, quam ad creaturam cupiuerunt diuinæ præponunt voluntati, & e contra ſi nubant, vel ad propagandam prolem, vel ad euitandas viri tentationes ſedandas, tunc cum eis manet ſpiritus Dei, expedit namque inquit D. Greg. 23. moral. vt qui tentationum procellas cum difficultate tollerant coniugii portum petãt, melius eſt enim nubere, quam vri; ſine culpa enim ad coniugium veniunt: ſi tamen nec dum meliora denouerint.

VERBA MATRIS AD ſponſam qualiter in chorea ſunt tria, & quomodo per choream iſte mundus deſignatur, & de tribulatione matris in Chriſti morte.

CAP. XXVII.

MATER Dei loquebatur ad ſponſam dicens. Filia mea volo te ſcire, quod vbi eſt chorea ibi sũt tria, ſcilicet inanis lætitia, vox perſuſa, & labor ſuperuacuus. Cum autem aliquis dolens, vel triſtis in domo chorea inaudierit, tunc animus eius exiliens in illa chorea lætitia videns amicum ſuum venientem triſtem, & mœſtum, ſtatim dimiſſa lætitia ſegregat ſe a chorea, & condolet amico dolenti. Chorea iſta eſt mundus iſte, qui ſemper volutur ſollicitudine, qui hominibus ſtultis videtur eſſe lætitia. In quo mundo ſunt tria. Inanis lætitia, verba ſcurrilia, labor inutilis, quia omnia, per quæ homo laborat relinquit poſt ſe. Qui autẽ eſt in hac mundi chorea, conſideret laborem, & dolorem meum, & condoleat mihi, quæ eram ab omni lætitia mundi ſegregata, & ſegreget ſe a mundo. In morte namque filij mei eram ſicut mulier habens cor affixum quinque lanceis. Prima enim lancea, erat nuditas verecunda, & vituperoſa, quia videbam filium meum chariſſimum, & potentiſſimum eſſe re ad columnam nudum, & nihil operimenti habentem. Secunda erat accuſatio eius. Nam accuſabãt eum dicentes eum proditorem, & mendacem, & etiam inſidiatorem, quem ego ſciebam iuſtum eſſe, & veracem, nullumque offendiſſe, vel voluiſſe offendere. Tertia lancea mihi erat ſpinea corona eius que ſic immaniter pupugit caput eius ſanctiſſimum, vt ſanguis defluoret in ore eius, & in barbam, & in aures eius. Quarta erat vox lamentabilis in cruce, qua clamauit ad patrem, dicens. O Pater quare me dereliqui ſti? Ac ſi vellet dicere, Pater non eſt qui miſereatur mei, niſi tu. Quinta lancea, quæ cor

meum pertranſibat, erat mors eius duriſſima. De quotenim venis ſanguis eius exiuit pretioſus, quaſi tot lanceis cor meum perforatum eſt. Perforatæ ſunt nempe venæ manuum eius, & pedum, & dolor neruorum perforatorum acceſſit inconſolabiliter ad cor eius, & de corde iterum ad neruos, & quia cor eius erat recentiſſimum, & optimum, quia compaginatum de optima natura, propterea certabant inter ſe vita, & mors, & ſic amarius protrahebatur vita inter dolores. appropinquante autem morte cum præ intolerabili dolore rumperetur cor, tunc ſtatim contremuerunt omnia membra eius, & caput, quod ad dorſum eius reclinabatur eleuauit ſe modicum. Oculi ſemiclauſi aperiebantur quaſi ad medietatem. Os eius ſimiliter aperiebatur, & videbatur lingua eius ſanguinolenta. Digiti & brachia, quæ erant quodammodo contracta extendebantur. Tradito autem ſpiritu caput inclinabatur ad pectus. Manus de loco vulnerum modicum ſubmiſerunt ſe. Pedes ſuſtentabant maius pondus. Tunc aruerunt manus meæ. Oculi obtenebrati ſunt, & facies palluit quaſi mortui hominis. Aures nihil audierunt. Os nihil potuit loqui. Pedes etiã mei nutauerunt, & corpus meum cecidit ad terram. Surgens autem de terra cum viderem filium meum leproſo deſpectiorem, poſui voluntatem meam totã ad ipſum, ſciens, quod ſecundum voluntatem eius omnia facta fuiſſent, & non potuiſſent fieri, niſi ipſo permittente, & regratiabar ei pro omnibus. Lætitiaque quædam mixta erat mæſtitiæ, quia videbam eum, qui nunquam peccauit ex tanta charitate voluiſſe talia pati pro peccatoribus. Ergo quicunque eſt in mundo, conſideret qualis eram in morte filij mei, & ſemper habeat præ oculis.

NOTAE.

Omnia quæ ad ſuperioris Capitis intelligentiam facere poſſunt explicata ſunt a nobis ſuprahoc eodem lib. cap. 10. & lib. 4. cap. 70.

VERBA DOMINI AD Sponſam indicantia qualiter quidam ante eius tribunal venerat iudicandus, & de terribili & horribiliſſima ſententia illata a Deo, & ab omnibus ſanctis contra eum.

CAP. XXVIII.

VIDEBAT ſponſa Deum quaſi iratum, qui dicebat. Ego ſum ſine principio, & ſine fine. Nulla immutatio eſt apud me, nec anni, & dies. Sed omne tempus huius mundi eſt apud me, quaſi eſſet vna hora, vel momentum Omnis qui videt me, omne quod eſt in me videt quaſi ad punctum, & intelligit. Sed quia tu ſponſa mea corporalis es, ideo non ſic potes percipere, & cognoſcere ſicut ſpiritus, ideo iudicabo propter te, quod actum eſt. Ego ſedi quaſi in iudicio, quia omne iudicium datum eſt mihi, & venit quidam iudicandus ante tribunal. Cui vox patris ſonuit, dicens ei. Væ tibi, quia vnquam natus fuiſti, non quia pœnituit Deum feciſſe eum, ſed ſicut aliquis dolere ſolet pro alio compatiendo ei. Deinde reſpondit vox filij. Ego fudi ſanguinem meum pro te, & ſuſcepi amariſſimam pœnam pro te, ab hac enim tu omnino alienatus es, nec aliquid habet tecum. Vox ſpiritus ait. Quæſiui omnes angulos cordis eius, ſi forte inuenirem aliquam mollitiem in corde eius, & charitatem, ſed frigidiſſimus eſt quaſi gelu, duriſſimus eſt ſicut lapis, nec eſt aliquid mihi cũ eo. Hæ tres voces non ideo audite ſunt, quaſi ſint tres Dij, ſed propter te ſponſa mea factæ ſunt, quia tu non poteras hoc myſterium aliter intelligere. Deinde tres voces prædictæ, ſcilicet Patris, & Filij, & Spiritus ſancti, conuerſæ ſunt ſtatim in vnam vocem tantum, quæ vox ſic intonuit dicēs: Nullatenus debetur tibi regnum cæli. Mater miſericordiæ ſiluit, nec aperuit miſericordiam ſuam, quia iſte iudicandus indignus erat ea, & omnes ſancti vna voce clamabant dicentes. Hæc eſt diuina iuſtitia, vt perpetuo exul ſit a regno, & gaudio tuo æterno. Et tunc omnes illi, qui erant in purgatorio dixerunt. Nulla pœna eſt tam amara nobiſcum, quæ ſufficiat ad puniendã peccata tua. Maiora enim tormenta teneris portare, ideo a nobis ſequeſtraberis. Tunc autem & ipſe iudicandus, clamabat voce horrenda dicens. Væ væ ſeminibus, quæ conuenerunt in ventre matris meæ, de quibus formatus sum ego. Secundo etiam clamabat: Maledicta, inquit, sit hora, in qua anima mea cum corpore coniuncta fuit, & maledictus sit, qui dedit corpus, & animã. Tertio clamabat: Maledicta sit illa hora, in qua viuus de ventre matris processi. Tunc venerunt tres contra eum horribiles voces de inferno dicentes: Veni ad nos maledicta anima quasi es fluens ad perpetuam mortem, & vitam interminabilem. Secundo clamabant: Veni maledicta anima vacua ad nostram malitiam. Nullus enim erit ex nobis, qui te malitia sua, & pœna non impleat. Tertio clamabant: Veni maledicta anima ponderosa quasi lapis, qui semper mergitur, & nunquam attingit fundum, in quo quiescat. Sic tu in profundum profundius nobis descendes, vt non possis subsistere antequam veneris in ima abyssi. Et tunc ait Dominus: Ego sicut homo habens plures vxores, & videns casum vnius auertit se ab illa, & conuertit se ad alias, quæ stant, & gratulatur cum eis. Sic ego auerti faciem meam ab illo, & misericordiam, & verto me ad famulos, & seruos meos, & gaudeo cum illis. Propterea cum tu audisti casum illius, & miseriam; ideo serui mihi co sincerius, quo maiorem misericordiam tecum feci. Fuge mundum, & concupiscentiam eius. Nunquid ego passionem tam amaram assumpsi propter gloriam mundi, vel quia celerius, & leuius non potui consumare eam. Poteram vtique, sed sic exigebat iustitia, vt sicut homo in membris omnibus deliquerat, sic in omnibus satisfaciendum erat. Propter quod deitas homini compatiens, tanta charitate exarsit ad vnam Virginem, vt de illa humanitatem susciperet. In qua humanitate subsistineret Deus omnem pœnã quam homo teneretur habere, ideo si ex charitate pœnam tuam suscepi in me, sta sicut famuli mei stant in vera humilitate, vt nihil erubescas, nihil timeas nisi me. Custodi os tuum, vt si esset voluntas mea, tu nunquam velles loqui. Non contristeris de temporalibus, quia caduca sunt, & ego ditare quos voluero, & de pauperare possum. Ideo sponsa mea pone spem tuam totaliter in me.

Declaratio.

Hic homo fuit nobilis, & canonicus, & subdiaconus, qui obtenta falsa dispensatione, desponsauit Virginem diuitem. Sed præuentus morte subita non obtinuit, quod concupiuit.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD Filiam de duobus dominabus quarum vna nominabatur Superbia, & altera Humilitas, per quam Virgo dulcissima designatur, & de occursu Virginis ad suos directos suæ mortis tempore.

CAP. XXIX.

MAter Dei loquebatur ad quandam filiã dicens. O dulcissime Domine. Vae est ei, quæ non habet nomen speciale, quia indigna est nomine. Alia est humilitas, quæ vocatur Maria, super primam est dominus ipse diabolus, qui sibi dominatur. Hanc dominã dicebat miles suus. O domina tua quid facere possum pro te? paratus sum a mane vsque vesperi concubitu tuo. Homo ego sum fortis viribus, magnanimus corde, nimis est meo, & paratus sum ire in mortem pro te. Cui illa respondit. Serue meus magna est charitas tua ad me. Ego sedeo in subiri mi sede, nec habeo nisi sedem vnam, & inter nos sunt tres portæ. Prima porta est sic arta, vt quicquid homo habuerit in corpore, si ingreditur per eam omnia dirumpuntur & abstrahuntur. Secunda est sic acuta, quod pungit vsque ad neruos. Tertia porta est sic ardens, quod nulla est acquisita ardoris, sed qui ingreditur per eam, statim liquescet in cinerem. Ego autem sedeo sublimiter, & qui sedere vult mecum, cum non habeam nisi vnam sedem, cadet ad pedes meos. Cui ille respondit. Ego dabo vitam meam pro te, quia pro minimo est mihi casus tuus. 2 Domina ista est superbia, ad quam qui peruenire voluerit, ingredietur quasi per tres portas. Per primam portam ingreditur, qui totum dat ad laudem hominum, & pro superbia. Et si nihil habet, tamen totam voluntatem suam, quomodo superbire & laudari possit. Secundam portam ingreditur ille, qui quicquid laborat, & quicquid facit, & totum tempus, & cogitationes, & omnes vires suas dat ad hoc, vt superbiam perficiat. Et si etiam posset carnem suam ad lacerandum tradere causa honoris, & diuitiarum libenter faceret. Tertiam portam ingreditur qui nunquam requiescit, & nunquam silet, & totus quasi ignis ardet, quomodo perueniat ad aliquem honorem, vel mundi superbiam. Sed cum obtinuerit quod cupit, non potest diu in eodem statu permanere, manere; sed cadit miserabiliter, nihilominus tamen superbia regnabit in mundo. Ego autem ait Maria, quæ humillima sum, sedeo in sede spaciosa, & supra me non est Sol nec Luna, nec stellæ, nec etiam nubes, sed mira, & inestimabilis claritatis serenitas, procedens a pulchritudine præclara maiestatis diuinæ; infra me etiam non est terra vel lapides, sed requies incomparabilis in virtute Dei. Iuxta me non est murus, seu paries, sed Angelorum, & sanctarum animarum gloriosus exercitus. 3 Et quamuis sic sublimiter sedeo, tamen audio amicos meos in terra existentes, mihi quotidie gemitus fundentes, & lacrymas. Videolabores eorum, & efficaciam eorum maiorem, quam illorum, qui pugnant pro sua domina superbia. Ideo visitabo eos, & collocabo eos mecum in sede mea, quæ spaciosa est, & omnes bene potest capere. Sed nondum ad me venire, nec sedere adhuc mecum poterunt, quia duo muri adhuc sunt inter nos, per quos fiducialiter deducam eos, vt ad sedem meam veniant. Primus murus est mundus, qui est arctus, propterea Iesui mei in mundo consolabuntur per me. Secundus murus est mors, ideo ego charissima domina eorum, & mater, obuiabo eis, & occurram eis in morte, vt etiam in ipsa morte consolationem, & refrigerium habeant, & collocabo eos mecum in sede cælestis gaudij, vt in brachio dilectionis perpetuæ, & æternæ gloriæ, cum exultatione immensa æternaliter requiescant.

NOTAE.

1 DVæ sunt Dominæ, vna est, quæ non habet nomen speciale.

Superbia vitium, de qua in præsenti capite agitur, non habet nomen speciale, quoniam si consideretur, vt importat actualem quemdam Dei contemptum, quatenus eius mandatis peccator non vult subdi, nec obtemperare, tunc sicut non est speciale vitium, ita quoque non habet speciale nomen, vt scribuntur hic; si vero superbia consideretur, vt connotat inordinatum excellentiæ propriæ appetitum est speciale vitium propter proprium speciem, quam habet ratione proprij obiecti, in quo sensu superbia speciale peccatum est, quia habet speciale obiectum, vt annotant D. Thomas p. 2 q. 84. art. 2. & 2. 2. q. 162 art. 2.

2 Domina ista est superbia, ad quam qui peruenire voluerit, ingredietur quasi per tres portas.

Hic loco tres tantummodo superbiæ gradus assignantur sub similitudine trium portarum, sed de speciebus eiusdem agit D. Gregorius Magnus 23. moral. cap. 7. qui quatuor species illius esse docet: prima est æstimare bona à se ipso habere; secunda credere ea sibi data esse, sed ob sua merita; tertia iactare se habere quæ non habet; quarta, contemnere alios mandata, aut velle, vt sibi subditi sint, licet non præcipiant. cæterum D. Bernardus in tractatu de duodecim gradibus humilitatis ex eis medium, superbiæ gradus duodecim ponit, qui sunt curiositas, mentis inanitas, inepta lætitia, iactantia, singularitas, arrogantia præsumptio, defensio peccatorum, simulata confessio, rebellio libertatis peccandi, consuetudo, quæ de re videndus est D. Anselmus lib. de similitudinibus cap. 24. D. Tho. 2. 2. q. 162. art. 4.

3 Et quamuis sic sublimiter sedeo, tamen audio amicos meos in terra existentes.

Beatissima Virgo sicut, & quilibet alius Beatus petitiones fidelium, qui diriguntur ad ipsos in verba cognoscunt: hoc enim licet ad eorum beatificum statum intrinsece minime spectet, tamen vt egregie docuit D. Gregorius 12. moral. cap. 13. non longe a principio ad eorum excellentiam quandam pertinet piorum orationes, quæ fiunt ad ipsos cognoscere per speciales Dei reuelationes, quod etiam tradidit D. Thom. 2. 2. q. 83. art. 4. ad secundum, & ibidem Cardinalis Caietanus: cum autem legimus hic Beatissimam Virginem audire amicos suos, non est intelligendum hoc de voce aliqua corporali, prout Deus cuiuspiam in debita distantia possit voces corporeis auribus audimus sed cum Maria eorum petitiones Deo manifestante cognoscit, audire, dicitur quatenus exaudit impetrando a Deo quidquid amici eius petunt, aut etiam audit, quia eas videt in verbo, sicut enim arsatus litteras aliquando videre pro audire sumitur, vt animadvertit gloss. Exodi 20. explicans ea verba: Populus autem videbat voces, idest audiebat, ita hic affirmare possumus vice versa Beatiss. Virg. suos Amicos audire, quia eorum petitiones in verbo videt.

VERBA DOMINI MAXIMAE charitatis ad sponsam, de multiplicatione falsorum Christianorum ad Christi crucifixionem, & quomodo si possibile esset, adhuc paratus iterum ad mortem pro peccatoribus suscipiendam.

CAP. XXX.

EGO sum Deus, qui omnia creaui ad vtilitatem hominis, vt illa omnia seruirent homini, & ædificarēt eum. Sed homo omnibus, quæ creaui ei ad vtilitatē suam, abutitur in suum damnum. Insuper & de Deo minus curat, & eum minus diligit quam creaturam. Iudæi fecerunt mihi tria genera pœnarum in passione mea. Primo lignum, quo affixus sum, flagellatus, & coronatus. Secundo ferrum, quo affixerunt manus meas, & pedes. Tertio potum fellis, quo potauerunt me. Deinde blasphemabant me fatuum esse, propter morte, quam libenter sustinebam, & vocabant me mendacem propter doctrinam meam. Tales nunc in mundo multiplicati sunt, & pauci faciunt mihi consolationem.

1 Nam affigunt me ligno per voluntatem peccandi, flagellant me per impatientiam, quia vnum verbum pro me nullus ferre potest. Et coronant me spina superbiæ suæ, qua altiores me esse volunt. Pungunt manus meas, & pedes ferro indurationis, quia gloriantur de peccato, & indurant se ne timeant me. Pro felle offerunt mihi tribulationem. Pro passione ad quam lætus inuitor dicunt me mendacem, & fatuum. Ego enim potens sum submergere eos, & totum mundum propter peccata si vellem. 2 Et tunc si submergerem eos, illi qui remanerent seruirent mihi ex timore, sed hoc non esset iustitia, quia ex charitate deberet mihi homo seruire. 3 Si autem personaliter venirem inter eos visibilis, oculi eorum non sustinerent videre me, nec aures audire me. Quomodo enim homo mortalis posset videre immortalem? Adhuc quippe ex charitate libenter iterum morerer pro homine si esset possibile. Tunc apparuit beata Virgo Maria, cui dixit filius. Quid vis mater mea electa mea? Et illa ait. Miserere creaturæ tuæ fili mi propter charitatem tuam. Et ille respondit. Adhuc semel misericordiam faciam propter te. Deinde loquebatur Dominus ad sponsam dicens, Ego sum Deus, & Dominus Angelorum. Ego sum Dominus super mortem, & vitam. Ego idem habitare volo in corde tuo. Ecce quantam charitatem habeo ad te. Cæli, & terra, & omnia, quæ in eis sunt, non possunt capere me, & tamen in corde tuo, quod non est nisi modicum frustum carnis, habitare volo. Quem ergo tunc poteris timere, quibusue indigere, cum tu habeas intra te potentissimum Deum, in quo est omne bonum? Ergo in corde quod est habitaculum meum debent esse tria, lectus, in quo requiescamus, sedes in qua sedeamus, lumen quo illuminemur. In corde igitur tuo sit lectus quiescendi, seu quietudinis, vt quiescas a prauis cogitationibus, & desideriis mundi, & semper considera gaudium æternum. Sedes debet esse voluntas manendi mecum, etiam si quandoque contingat excedere. Contra naturã enim est semper stare. Ille nanque semper stat, qui semper habet voluntatem essendi cum mundo, & nunquam sedere mecum.

4 Lux seu lumen debet esse fides, qua credas me omnia posse, & omnipotentem esse super omnia.

NOTAE.

1 NAm affigunt me ligno per voluntatem peccandi.

Christiani homines, qui in Baptismo nomen dederunt, ac innocentiam baptismalem seruare, mundi pompas deserere, Dei præceptis obtemperare pollicini sunt, si hæc postea contemnunt, & fere promissis non stant, quantum in illis est iterum ligno crucis Saluatorem nostrum affigere dicuntur, quoniam suis peccatis ei ansam præbent, si fieri posset, iterum crucifigi, vt Paulus Apostolus ad Hebræos 6. indicauit illis verbis, Rursus crucifigentes apud semetipsos Filium Dei, quod egregie declarauit D. Ambrosius super epistolam Pauli ad Titum, capite 2. quod inquit, fecerunt Iudæi persequendo hoc faciunt hodie mali Christiani male viuendo, Christum enim lapidant, & occidunt, idem annotauit Beda in cap. 10. Isaiæ, & Dionysius Carthusianus in locum citatum ad Hebræos 6. Rodulphus de vita Christi 2. par. cap. 81. & nos latius explicauimus hic 4. Reuelat. cap. 95. nota 2. & lib. 6. cap. 28. notis.

2 Et tunc si submergerem eos, illi qui remanerent seruirent mihi ex timore.

De timore fusè egimus lib. 4. Reuelat. cap. 81. nota 1. & timorem diuisimus in mundanum, seruilem, initialem, & filialem. hoc dicendum seruo Dei de seruili, ancillam de mundano, plura de his vide loco citato.

3 Si autem personaliter venirem inter eos visibilis, oculi eorum non sustinerent videre me.

Horum verborum sensus est, si in tota latitudine maiestatis meæ venirem ad eos, sicque me illis videndum exhiberem, certe non possent homines videre me, non enim corporalibus oculis quispiam in præsenti vita diuinam essentiam potest intueri, vt ipsemet Deus aliquando testatus est Exod. 33. Non videbit me homo, & viuet. & Paulus ad Thimoth. sexto, Lucem habitat inaccessibilem, quod etiam affirmarunt Gloss. ord. in locum citatum Exodi, Eusebius Pont. in sua prima decretali exponens verba illa Pauli, Lucem habitat inaccessibilem. D. Hieronymus lib. 3. contra Pelag. circa finem, & super cap. 6. Isaiæ D. Chrisost. Hom. 14. in Ioann. D. Thomas 1. p. q. 12. art. 11. & ibidem Cardinalis Caietanus, & hanc esse communem Theologorum opinionem affirmat Ferrariensis 3. contra gentes cap. 47. an autem de potentia absoluta fieri possit, vt quispiam in hac vita Deum corporalibus oculis videat, & an Moses, & Paulus, cum ad tertium cœlum raptus est viderint, egimus lib. 3. Reuelat. interrog. 8. quæst. 2.

4 Lux seu lumen debet esse fides.

Fidem Christus Dominus lumen appellat, sicut eum enim nocte lumen incedentibus vias ostendit, ne aut in foueas cadant, aut in hostes incurrant, sic in huius sæculi nocte splendor fidei omnes vitæ nostræ gressus præeunte veritatis lumine monstrat, ne vel in peccatorum foueas, vel in Dæmonum iacula incidamus; & ideo lucem quam prima die factam a Deo esse legimus Geneſis 1. metaphorica fidem vocat D. Auguſt. lib. 1. de Geneſi contra Manichæos cap. 25. & frequenter etiam in ſacris litteris per lucernam fides ipſa deſignatur, vt Luca vndecimo annotauit Ambroſ. vbi lucernam ſub modio poſitam dicit eſſe fidem intra legem conditam idem habet ſuper Pſalm. 118 & ſer. 14. D. Greger. 29. Moral. cap. quinto, Arnobius in Pſalm. 104. Euſebius Emiſſenus hom. 2. de Symbolo.

QVALITER SPONSA videbat dulciſſimam Virginem Mariam, corona, & alijs ornamentis ineſtimabiliter decoratam, & quomodo ſponſæ ſanctus Ioannes Baptiſta, quid per coronam, &c. deſignatur declarat.

CAP. XXXI.

VIDEBAT ſponſa Reginam cæli Matrem Dei. Habentem pretioſam coronam ineſtimabilem in capite ſuo, & capillos extenſos ſuper ſpatulas admirabilis pulchritudinis. Tunicam auream ſplendore indicibili coruſcantem. Et mantellum blauum de laſuro, ſeu ſereni cæli coloris. Cunque de tam ſpecioſa viſione vehementer admiraretur ſponſa, & in tali admiratione tota ſtaret quodam interno ſtupore ſuſpenſa. Illico apparuit ei beatus Ioannes Baptiſta, qui ait illi. Audi diligenter quid hoc notat. Corona igitur notat, quod Regina, & Domina eſt, & Mater Regis Angelorum. Capilli protenſi, quod Virgo eſt puriſſima, & immaculata. Mantellum cæli coloris, quod omnia temporalia erant ei quaſi mortua. Tunica aurea notat, quod diuina charitate ardens, & feruida fuit, interius, & exterius. In corona autem eius poſuit filius eius ſeptem lilia, & inter hæc lilia poſuit ſeptem lapides. Primum igitur lilium eſt humilitas eius. Secundum timor. Tertium obedientia. Quartum patientia. Quintum ſtabilitas. Sextum mititas, quia mitis eſt dare omnibus petentibus. Septimum eſt miſericordia in neceſſitatibus. In quacunque enim neceſſitate fuerit homo, ſi hanc toto corde inuocauerit ſaluabitur. Inter hæc fulgentia lilija poſuit filius eius ſeptem lapides pretioſiſſimos. Primus lapis eſt virtuoſitas ſingularis, quia non eſt aliqua virtus in aliquo ſpiritu ſiue in corpore aliquo, quam ipſa hanc eandem virtutem non habeat excellentius. Secundus lapis eſt perfectiſſima munditia, quia iſta Regina ſic iuſtè pura fuit, quod vna macula peccati inueniri nunquã potuit in ea, a principio ingreſſus eius in mundum vſque ad vltimam diem mortis ipſius. Nec omnes diaboli tantam impuritatem reperire poterant in ea, vbi cuſpis actus poni poſſet: ipſa verè erat puriſſima. Nam non decuit Regem gloriæ iacere niſi in vaſe puriſſimo, & mundiſſimo, & electiſſimo, præ omnibus Angelis, & hominibus. Tertius lapis fuit pulchritudo eius, quia Deus de pulchritudine eiuſdem Matris ſuæ iugiter laudatur a Sanctis ſuis, & gaudium Sanctorum Angelorum, & omnium Sanctarum animarum, impletur ex pulchritudine eius. Quartus lapis pretioſus coronæ, eſt ſapientia eiuſdem Virginis Matris, quia ipſa alias decorata impleta eſt omni diuina ſapientia cum Deo, & ex ea omnis impletur, & perficitur ſapientia. Quintus lapis eſt fortitudo, quia ipſa ſic fortis eſt cum Deo, quod omnia quæcunque creata, & facta ſunt, poteſt deprimere. Sextus etiam lapis eſt claritas eius, qua ſic clara eſt, quod Angeli, qui habent oculos clariores luce, illuminantur ex ea, & dæmones non audent reſpicere in claritatem eius. Septimus lapis eſt plenitudo omnis delectationis, & etiam ſpiritualis dulcedinis, quæ in ea ſic plena eſt, quod non eſt aliquid gaudium, quod non augetur ex ea, nulla delectatio, quæ non plenior ſit, & perficiatur ex ea, & ex eius viſione beata, quia ipſa impleta eſt gratia, & vltra omnes Sanctos. Ipſa enim eſt puritatis vas in quo iacuit panis Angelorum, & in quo eſt omnis dulcedo, & pulchritudo. Hos ſeptem lapides poſuit filius eius inter hæc ſeptem lilia, quæ erant in corona eius. Ipſam ergo ô ſponſa filij eius honora, & laudа toto corde tuo, quia vere ipſa eſt omni laude, & honore digna.

QVALITER SPONSA à monitione Dei pręuenta elegit sibi paupertatem, & renuit diuitias, & carnalitatem, et de veritate in sibi reuelatis, et de tribus notabilibus à Christo sibi ostendi.

CAP. XXXII.

TV debes esse sicut homo, qui relinquit, & sicut qui congregat. 1 Debes animi relinquere diuitias, & congregare virtutes. Relinquere caduca, & congregare æterna. Relinquere visibilia, & congregare inuisibilia. Dabo enim tibi pro delectatione carnis animæ exultationem. Pro iucunditate mundi, iucunditatem cœli. Pro honore mundi honorem Angelorum. Pro visione parentum, visionem Dei. Pro possessione bonorum, meipsum datorem, & Creatorem omnium. Die mihi tria, quæ quæro à te. Primo si vis esse diues in hoc sæculo, vel pauper? Et illa respondit. Domine volo magis esse pauper, quia diuitiæ nihil boni faciunt mihi, nisi quandam sollicitudinem, & retrahunt me à seruitio tuo. Die mihi secundo. Nunquid inuenisti in verbis meis, quæ audisti de ore meo, aliquid reprehensibile secundum cor tuum, vel falsum? Et illa, non certe, quia omnia sunt secundum rationem. Tertio die mihi verum tibi placet delectatio carnis, quam prius habuisti, an delectatio spiritus, quam nunc habes. Et illa respondit. Pudor est in corde meo, cogitare de illa carnis delectatione priori, & est nunc mihi quasi venenum, & eo amarior nunc, quo prius dilexi eam feruentius. Mallem enim mori, quam vnquam in illam redire, & nulla est comparatio illius delectationis spiritualis ad illam. Ergo inquit, Christus probas in temetipsa omnia esse vera, quæ tibi dixeram. Quid ergo times, vel cur sollicitaris, quia protraho ea, quæ facienda tibi dixi? Considera Prophetas, considera Apostolos, & Sanctos doctores, nunquid inuenerunt aliquid in me nisi veritatem? Ideo non curauerunt de mundo, nec eius concupiscentiam. Aut cur Prophetæ tam longe vaticinati sunt de futuris, nisi quia voluit Deus, quod verba primo innotescerent, deinde venirent opera, & vt ad fidem erudirentur imperiti? Omnia nempe mysteria Incarnationis meæ antea innotuerunt Prophetis, etiam stella, quę præcedebat magos, 2 qui credentes verbis Prophetæ, meruerunt videre, quod crediderunt, & visa stella citius certificati sunt. Sic nunc verba mea prius debent annunciari, & postea cum venerint opera, euidentius credentur eis. Tria ostendi tibi. Primo vnius conscientiam, cuius peccatum cum manifestarem, signis euidentissimis probaui. Sed quare? nunquid non possem eum interficere personaliter? Aut non possum eum demergere in puncto si vellem? vtique possem. Sed propter eruditionem aliorum, & euidentiam verborum meorum, vt videndam quæ iustus sum, & patiens, quam infelix ille est, cui dominabitur diabolus, ideo suffero eum adhuc. Nam ex voluntate quam habet esse in peccato, & ex delectatione illius, sic aucta est in eum potestas diabolj, quod nec lectio verborum, nec austeritas minarum, nec timor gehennæ potest eum reuocare. Et bene dignæ, quia cum semper habuerit voluntatem peccandi, etiam si non perficeret opus, 3 merito traderetur in æternũ diabolo. 4 Quia minimum peccatum qui- cunque in eo delectatur, nec emendat, satis est ei ad perditionem. Duos alios ostendi tibi, quorum alterius corpus vexabat diabolus, sed non erat in anima. Alterius conscientiam fallacia sua obumbrabat, nec tamen in eius anima erat, nec potestatem habuit super illam. Sed forte potes quærere, nunquid nonidem sunt conscientia, & anima? Nunquid non tunc est in anima cum est in conscientia? Nequaquam. Sed sicut corpus habet duos oculos quibus videt, & licet alteris auferatur visus, corpus tamen nihilominus sanum esse potest. Sic in anima est. Nam licet intellectus, & conscientia, quandoque perturbantur quantum ad pœnam, non tamen semper ledetur anima quantum ad culpam. Et ideo prævalet diabolus in conscientia vnius, & non in animo. Tertium ostendam tibi, in cuius anima, & corpore totaliter dominatur diabolus, qui nisi potentia mea, & gratia specialj coactus, nunquam ab eo expelletur, nec ab eo exibit. Ab aliquibus quippe hominibus exit diabolus libenter, & cito, & ab aliquibus omnino inuitus, & coactus. Nam in aliquos intrat diabolus, vel propter delicta parentum, vel propter aliquod occultum iudicium Dei, vtputa in pueros, & insipientes. In aliquos propter infidelitatem, vel aliud aliquod peccatum, ab his libenter exit dæmon, si ejicitur ab his sciunt coniurationes, vel artem talem ejiciendi dæmones si ipsi faciunt talem ejectionem propter vanã gloriam, vel propter aliquod lucrum temporale, quia diabolus habet potestatem ingrediendi in eum, qui ejecit, & in illũ iterum à quo ejectus est, quia in neutro diuinæ charicharitas fuit. Ab illis autem quorum animam, & corpus totaliter possidet, nunquã exit nisi per meam potentiam. Sicut enim acetum si vino dulcissimo misceatur, totam vini dulcedinem inficit, & nunquam ab eo separatur, sic nec diabolus ab alicuius anima exit, quam possidet, nisi per potentiam meam. Quid est autem hoc vinum nisi anima, quæ mihi dulcissima fuit super omnem creaturam, quæ mihi sic cara fuit, vt nervos meos incidi, & carnes meas lacerari vsque ad costas fecerim pro ea, & antequam carerem ea, etiam mortem recepi pro ea. Hoc vinum conseruabatur in fece, quia ipsam animam posui in corpore, in quo tanquam in vase clauso custodiebatur ad meã voluntatem. Sed huic dulci vino, mixtũ est pessimum acetum, idest diabolus, cuius malitia est mihi acrior, & abominabilior omni aceto. Hoc acetum per meam potentiam ab homine isto, cuius nomen tibi dico separabitur, vt in isto ostendam tibi misericordiam meam, & sapientiam. In priori vero iudicium, & iustitiam.

Declaratio.

Primus fuit nobilis, & cantor superbus, qui sine licentia Papæ Hierosolymam profectus, arreptus est a diabolo. De isto dæmoniaco habetur etiam tertio libro cap. 31. & in quarto libro cap. 15. Secundus dæmoniacus eiusdem capituli fuit monachus Ordinis Cistertiensis, quem diabolus tantum vexabat, quod vix à quatuor teneri potuit, cuius lingua extracta videbatur quasi bouis, cuius vincula manuum inuisibiliter confringebantur. Iste per dominam Brigittam post mensem, & duos dies saluatus est. Tertius dæmoniacus fuit exactor Osgociæ, qui cum moneretur ad pœnitentiam, dixit monenti: Nunquid habitator domus sedere poterit vbi sibi placuerit? Diabolus tenet cor, & linguam meam, quomodo possum pœnitere? Qui etiam maledicens Sanctis Dei, ipsa nocte sine sacramentis, & confessione mortuus est.

NOTAE.

1 DEbes animi relinquere diuitias, & congregare virtutes.

var. lect. Omnino arbitror hic esse legendum, Debes corporis relinquere diuitias, sic habet M. S. Codex Farnesianus, & hæc lectio probari potest, ex ipsomet textu, hic enim Christus Dominus admonet B. Birgitam, vt corporis relictis diuitijs veras animi virtutes sibi studeat comparare, sunt enim animi diuitiæ Paupertas, Humilitas, Castitas, Obedientia, ac bonorum operum copia, vt tradunt Origenes in Leuit. Hom. 3. & in Psalm. 36 Hom. 3. Arnobius in Psal. 36. Basilius in Psal. 48.

2 Qui credentes verbis Propheræ meruerunt videre, quod crediderunt, & visa stella citius certificati sunt.

Duo ad præsentis notæ verborum explicationem breuiter a nobis inuestiganda sunt. Primum quidem, quibus Prophetarum verbis crediderint Magi; vt inde postea meruerint videre, quæ crediderunt. Secundo, quomodo visa stella ipsi certiores, vt legimus hic, de Christi natiuitate fieri potuerint: & quantum spectat ad primum communis est opinio omnium fere veterum Patrum, Magos credidisse prædictioni illi Balaam, & eam fuisse traditionem secutos, de qua Numerorũ 24 scribitur, Orietur stella ex Iacob: cum ergo hanc Magi vidissent stellam extra ordinem mundi, eam esse intellexerunt, quam Balaam futurum indicem Regis Iudæorum Prophetauerat, Magos enim, aut posteros fuisse Balaam, aut ex eius posteris, qui vicini fuerint, & eam prophetiam accepisse tradunt Origen. Hom. 13. 15. & 18. in Numeros, Chrysost. Hom. 1. in varios Euangelistas, D. Ambros. lib. 2. in Lucam cap. 2. Basilius Hom. de humana Christi Genesi. D. Hieron. in Matth. cap. 2. & Isaiæ 47. Epiphanius in Epitome, Cyprianus serm. de Stella, & Magis. Petrus Chrysolog. serm. 156 Non curiositate, inquit, Chaldæa, non arte Magica, sed Diuina prophetia, Isidorus lib. de passione Domini cap. 13. Greg. Nyssenus Orat. de sancta Christi Natiuit. Cæterum sunt, qui putent hoc fuisse Magis reuelatum ab Angelis, stellam nimirum indicare voluisse Saluatoris Natiuitatem, sic Augustin. serm. 7. de Epiphania, qui est trigesimus quintus in ordine, sed author operis imperfecti in Matth. & est Hom. 2. in Matth. inter opera D. Chrysost. super illud Vidimus stellã eius, narrat traditionem quandam, vt ipse ait in regione Orientis, quo die natus est Christus, apparuisse stellam, in qua forma recentis nati pueri videbatur, & super illum signum crucis, ex qua stella vox exiuit dicens Magis, ite in Iudæam; verum hoc parum habet probabilitatis. Ideò Eugubinus lib. 1. de perenni filosophia cap. 3. & 22. affirmat Magos hoc accepisse a Sibilla Chaldæa, quæ fuit filia Berosi, quæ multa prophetauit de Christo, & ortu eius. Puto tamen probabilius Magos, vt diximus, hoc voluisse ex præditione Balaam, fuit enim hæc communis opinio Patrum, vt probauimus supra.

Superest modo videamus, quomodo Magi facti fuerint certiores de Christi Natiuitate ex visione huius stellæ: fuit quorundam sententia potuisse a Magis per Astrologiæ scientiam, & stellarum cursum agnosci Christi natiuitatem, ita docuit Petrus Aliacensis q. 30. in Genesim, & fusius hoc pertractat Sixtus Senensis lib. 6. suæ Biblioibecæ annot. 10. verum hæc sententia falsissima est, & eo magis absurda, qua siderum conditorem, ac moderatorem motibus siderum subiectum facit, sed quoniam hunc errorem confutauimus, ac reiecimus lib 4. Reuelat. cap.40. nota 3. & lib.6.cap. 45 nota 5. ideo dicendum est, Magos simul cum externo signo internam habuisse illustrationem, & intrinsecus diuinum obtinuisse lumen, sic Leo Pontifex serm 1. de Epiphania, Dedit, inquit, aspicientibus intellectum, qui præstitit signum; & serm.3. Magnitudinem significationis intelligunt agente hoc sine dubio in eorum cordibus inspiratione diuina, vt eos tantæ visionis mysterium non lateret, & quod oculis ostendebatur ingeniis non esset obscurum, idem habet Petrus Chrisolog. serm. supra citato, Fulgentius serm: de Epiphan. D. Augustinus serm.7. Chrysost. hom.6.in Matth.

3 Paulo ante medium præsentis capitis, vbi im-var. impressis habetur, Merito traderetur in æter-lect. num diabolo.

M. S. Farnesianus legit, Merito traderetur in ignem æternum cum diabolo.

4 Quia minimum peccatum, quicunque in eo delectatur, nec emendat, satis est ei ad perditionem.

Eadem prorsus verba habentur infra hoc eodem lib.cap.37. quæ sane non sunt accipienda, vt indicent veniale peccatum absolute consideratum dignum esse æterna pœna, quod est omnino falsum, sed dicendum huiusmodi peccatum ad perditionem ducere, quando in illo, vel finis vltimus ponitur, vel etiam ratione contemptus, vt egregie probant Siluest. in sum. verb. Peccatum q. 3. Cardinalis Caetanus in sum. verb. Ornatus, vel etiam si fuit ad finem, qui sit mortale peccatum, vt tradit Diuus Thomas 2.2.q.169.art.2.

VERBA ADMONITIONIS Domini ad Sponsam, de vera, & falsa sapientia, & qualiter boni Angeli bonis sapientibus, & diaboli malis sapientibus assistunt.

CAP. XXXIII.

AMICI mei aliqui sunt quasi scholares mei, qui habent tria. Primo conscientiam intelligentem supra naturã cerebri. Secundo sapientiã sine homine, quia personaliter doceo eos intus. Tertio pleni sunt dulcedine, & diuina dilectione, qua vincent diabolum. Sed e contrario nũc addiscunt homines. Primo volunt esse scientes propter iactantiam, vt dicantur boni clerici. Secundo volunt esse scientes, vt habeant & obtineant diuitias. Tertio volunt esse scientes, vt obtineant honores, & dignitates. Propterea cum adeunt scholas suas & ingrediuntur, ego exeo ab eis, quia ipsi addiscunt propter superbiam, & ego eos docui humilitatem. Ipsi ingrediuntur propter cupiditatem, & ego non habui vbi caput meum reclinarem. Ipsi ingrediuntur, vt habeant dignitates, inuidentes aliis se esse superiores, & ego iudicabar a Pilato, & ab Herode deridebar. Ideo ego exeo ab eis, quia non addiscunt doctrinam meam. Sed tamen quia mitis sum, & bonus, do vnicuique quod petit. Qui enim petit a me panem, ipse habebit; Qui autem stramen, dabitur ei. Amici autem mei ipsi petunt panem, qui sapientiam diuinam, in qua est charitas mea, quærunt, & addiscunt. Sed alij petunt stramen, idest mundialem sapientiam. Quia sicut in stramine nulla est vtilitas, sed & cibus animalium irrationabilium est, sic in mundi sapientia, quam ipsi quærunt nulla est vtilitas, nulla animæ refectio, nisi tantum, nomen modicum, & labor vacuus. Quia cum homo moritur, omnis sapientia eius adnihilatur, & a quibus laudabatur non potest videri. Vnde ego sum quasi magnus dominus, multos habens seruos, qui dispensat ex parte domini, quæ omnibus necessaria sunt. Sic angeli boni, & mali stant ad imperium meum. Qui autem sapientiam meam, idest seruire mihi addiscunt, his administrant boni Angeli, reficientes eos consolatione, & delectabili labore. Sapientibus autem mundi assistunt angeli mali, qui eis quod volunt inspirant, & informant eos iuxta voluntatem eorum, & inspirant cogitationes cum labore magno. Verumtamen si ad me respicerent, ego sufficerem eis dare panem absque labore, & mũdum ad satietatem, de quo nunquam satiantur, quia dulce vertunt sibi in amarum. Tu autem sponsa mea debes esse quasi caseus, & corpus tuum quasi formella, in qua caseus donec figuram formellæ habueris formabitur. Sic anima tua, quæ est mihi dulcis, & delectabilis sicut caseus, tandiu probari, & purgari debet in corpore, donec corpus, & anima in vnum concordent, & vnam formam continentiæ ambo tenuerint, vt caro obediat spiritui, & spiritus carnem regat ad omnem virtutem.

DOCTRINA CHRISTI ad sponsam de modo viuendi, & quaſiter diabolus Chriſto fateretur ſponſam ipſum Chriſtum ſuper omnia diligere, & de quæſtione facta per diabolum Chriſto, cur tantum ipſam diligeret, & de charitate per diabolum patefacta, quam Chriſtus habet ad ſponſam.

CAP. XXXIV.

EGO ſum Creator cæli, & terræ, qui in vtero Virginis verus Deus, & verus homo fui, qui mortuus fui, & reſurrexi, & aſcendi in cælum. Tu noua ſponſa mea veniſti in ignotum locum. Oportet ergo te habere quatuor. Primo ſcire loquelam loci. Secundo habere veſtes debitas. Tertio ſcire diſponere dies, & tempora, iuxta conſtitutionem loci. Quarto nouis cibis aſſueſcere. Sic tu quia de mundi inſtabilitate veniſti ad ſtabilitatem, ideo oportet te etiam habere loquelam nouam, ideſt abſtinentiam ab inſtitutis verbis, & quandoque etiam a licitis propter grauitatem ſilentij, & taciturnitatis. Veſtes tuæ debent eſſe humilitas interior, & exterior, vt nec extollas te quaſi aliis ſanctiorem interius, nec erubeſcas coram hominibus exterius exhibere te humilem. Tertio moderatio temporis tui eſt, vt ſicut ad corporis neceſſitatem habuiſti plura tempora, ſic nunc vnum tempus habeas ad animam, vt ſcilicet, quod contra me nunquam velis peccare. Quarto nouus cibus eſt abſtinentia a gula, & delicatioribus cum omni diſcretione, prout natura ferre poſſit. Quicquid enim abſtinentiæ ſit vltra poſſibilitatem naturæ, mihi non placet, quia rationabilia requiro, & vt voluptas edomeſur. Tunc in eodem momento apparuit diabolus. Cui dixit Dominus, 1 Tu fuiſti creatus a me, & vidiſti omnem iuſtitiam in me. Reſponde mihi, ſi iſta noua ſponſa eſt legitime mea, & cum approbata iuſtitia? Permitto enim te videre cor eius, & intelligere, vt ſcias quid reſpondeas mihi. Nunquid ipſa diligit aliquid ſicut me, aut velit aliquid cambij recipere pro me? Cui dæmon reſpondit. Nihil diligit ſicut te, & antequam te careret, omne ſupplicium magis pateretur, ſi dares ei virtutem patientiæ. Ego vi deo quaſi quoddam ardens vinculum deſcendere de te in eam, quod ſic alligat cor eius, vt nihil aliud cogitet, vel diligat niſi te. Tunc Dominus ait ad diabolum. Dic mihi quomodo ſedet in corde tuo, aut quomodo placet tibi iſta tanta dilectio mea, quam habeo ad eam? Et diabolus ait, 2 Ego inquit habeo duos oculos, vnũ corporalem, licet non ſim corporalis, quo tẽporalia cerno ita clare, quod nihil eſt ſic occultũ, nihil ſic tenebroſum, quod occultare ſe poſſit a me. Secundus oculus eſt ſpiritualis, cum quo nulla eſt pœna tam modica, quam non video, & intelligo ad quod peccatum pertineat. Et nullum etiam peccatum tam leue, & modicum, quod pœnitentia non purgatum ſit, quod non video. Sed licet nulla membra paſſibiliora ſint oculis, libentiſſime tamen paterer, vt duæ ardentes faces penetrarent oculos meos ſine intermiſſione, ad hoc vt ipſa oculis ſpiritualibus non viderent. Ego etiam habeo duas aures, vnam corporalem, qua nullus loquitur ſic ſecrete, quod non audio, & ſcio. Secunda eſt ſpiritualis, qua nullus cogitat, vel affectat ad aliquod peccatum tam occulte, quod non audiam, niſi pœnitentia deletũ ſit. Vna eſt pœna inferni, ebulliens quaſi torrens emanans ardore vehementiſſimo, hanc libenter paterer influere, & ſine ceſſatione effluere in aures meas, ad hoc vt nihil audiret ipſa ſpiritualibus auribus. Ego etiam habeo ſpirituale cor, quod libenter paterer in fruſta ſine ceſſatione incidi, & ſemper renouari ad ſupplicium, ad hoc vt eius cor frigeſceret in amore tuo. Nunc autem quia tu iuſtus es, quæro a te vnum verbum, vt reſpondeas mihi. Dic mihi quare tu in tantum diligis eam. Aut quare non elegiſti tibi vnam ſanctiorem, ditiorem, & pulchriorem? Cui reſpondit Dominus, quia ſic exigebat iuſtitia. Tu quippe fuiſti creatus a me, & vidiſti omnem iuſtitiam in me. Dic mihi iſta audiente, qua fuit iuſtitia, vt ſic male caderes? Aut qualis fuit cogitatio tua tunc, cum cecidiſti? Reſpondit diabo-

4 gloriam meam. 4 Ideo ſuperbiens propoſui non tantum tibi eſſe par, ſed etiam ſuper te. Secundo vidi te eſſe potentiorem omnibus, ideo cupiebam adhuc te eſſe potentior. 2

var. lect. libenter cruciarer ſuper omni pœna amariſſima ad hoc, vt tu morereris, & in tali cogitatione cecidi. Et ideo infernus eſt factus. Reſpondit Dominus. Tu quæſiſti a me quare iſtam ſic dilexerim, certe quia omnem malitiam tuam commuto in bonũ. Tu enim quia ſuperbus factus es, & noluiſti me Creatorem tuum habere tibi parem. Ego ideo humilians me in omnibus, peccatores colligo, & me eis comparo; dando eis de gloria mea. Secundo, quia tu tam prauam cupiditatem habuisti, vt velles esse potentior me. Ideo ego peccatores potentes facio super te, & potentes mecum. Tertio, quia tu inuidisti mihi. Ego sic charitatiuus sum, vt me pro peccatoribus offerrem. Deinde ait Dominus. Nunc diabole illuminatum est tenebrosum cor tuum. Dic ista audiente, qualem charitatem ego habeo ad illam. Et diabolus: Si possibile esset, inquit, libentissime paterer vnam pœnam talem in quolibet membro tuo specialiter qualem semel in cruce in omnibus membris passus es; antequam ea careres. Tunc respondit Dominus: Si ergo sic misericors sum, vt nulli petenti veniam denegem; Pete & tu misericordiam humiliter a me, & dabo tibi. Cui respondit diabolus: Nequaquam hoc faciam. Nam quando cecidi ad quodlibet peccatum, siue cogitatum lect. pœnam suam habebit. Igitur antequam curuatem genu meum coram te, magis vellem omnes pœnas deglutire in me, quandiu os aperiri, & claudi posset ad pœnam, ita vt semper renouatus essem ad pœnam. Tunc ait dominus ad sponsam suam: Ecce quam induratus est princeps mundi, & qua potens contra me ex occulta iustitia mea. Ego quippe possem delere eum ex potentia mea in vno puncto, sed non facio ei maiorem iniuriam, quam Angelo bono in cælo. Cum autem tempus eius venerit, quod nūc appropinquat, iudicabo eum cum sequacibus suis. Ideo sponsa mea procede semper in bonis operibus. Dilige me toto corde, nihil timeas nisi me. Ego enim sum dominus super diabolum, & super omnia quæcunque sunt.

NOTAE.

1 TV fuisti creatus a me, & vidisti omnē iustitiam in me, respondē mihi, si ista noua sponsa est legitime mea, & cum approbata iustitia.

Noverat dæmon, quod Deus iustus esset, & ex iustitia præmia iustis, pœnas vero impijs reddit, & ideo scribitur hic, quod viderit in Deo Iustitiam, & quamuis inter Deum, & creaturas non possit esse proprie commutatiua iustitia, quandoquidem ad perfectam iustitiæ rationem æqualitas quædam exigitur, quæ inter Deum, & creaturas nulla esse potest; immo infinita est inter eas distantia:

potest tamen inueniri aliquis modus iustitiæ, quatenus homo suppositum ordinatum, & gratia Dei, faciens quod in se est, & per merita Christi diligens, & diuina mandata obseruans iustificatur ab ipso, & vitam æternam meretur, & dicitur homo mereri quatenus per suam operationem diuina adiutus gratia consequitur, id quod illi Deus pollicitus est nimirum gloriam æternam. & hoc pacto dicitur Deus factus debitor. Primo sibi ipsi, Secundo diligentibus Deum: fidelissimus est (inquit ad Philotheum 2. ad Thimot. 2.) seipsum negare non potest. quod explicans Petrus Chrysolog. serm. 25. ad finem: Nonne, inquit, homo hominis exiguæ cartulæ obligatione confringitur Deus tot, & tantis voluminibus cauet & debitor non tenetur. sed dicis esse quod debeat, quo exigente restituet? seipso, quia non potest ille mentiri, idem ipse est & exequutor, & debitor; sed clarius hoc indicat D. Augustinus in psalm. 83. exponens illum locum 2. ad Timot. 4. Reposita est mihi corona iustitiæ, quam reddet. Te quid, ait, reddet, quod tibi debet? vide ubi debet quid illi dedisti; debitorem ipse se fecit non accipiendo, sed promittendo; idem habet Cyprianus sermon. de opere, & elemosyna, D. Chrysostom. hom. 3. in Matthæum, & concil. Trident. sess. 6. cap. 16. atque in hunc sensum accipienda sunt hæc duo, quæ in præsenti nota, legimus Deum non scisse vidisse iustitiam Dei, & B. Brigittam esse legitime sponsam eius cum approbata iustitia.

2 Ego, inquit, habeo duos oculos, vnum corporalem, alterum intellectualem, quo video corporalia, video ita clare, quod nihil est sic occultum, nihil sic tenebrosum, quod occultare se possit a me.

Quoniam Dæmon perfectam habet rerum naturalium scientiam ex Deo ab instanti suæ creationis inditam, neque per peccatum amissam, cum integra naturalia post lapsum in ipso remanserint, ut sic D. Dionysio de diuinis nominibus c. 4. ideo hoc loco scribitur, quod nihil est sic occultum, nihil sic tenebrosum quod occultare se possit ab illo. Cognitio autem, quod ex peculiari diuina reuelatione per dei, quæ Dei secreta propalantur, quam D. Thom. 1. parte q. 64. art. 1. pure speculatiuam vocat, non fuit totaliter sublata ab eo, sed tantummodo diminuta, quandoquidem ex diuino beneplacito pauca quædam de secretis Dei aliquando Dæmonibus reuelantur, vel per bonos Angelos, vel per temporales effectus, secundum quod Deus iudicat expedire; sic enim tradit D. Augustl. lib. 9. de ciuit. Dei cap. 21. & 22. & de hac cognitione in præsenti nota ferme non fit, & multo minus agitur hic de affectiua cognitione, quæ appellatur talis, quoniam est productiua diuinæ dilectionis, & hæc penitus in Dæmonibus est sublata: ista namque cognitio fundamentum est amoris Dei super omnia dilecti, qui amor in ipsis nullatenus reperitur, quod etiam annotauit Diuus Thomas vbi supra, & nos lib. 4. Reuel. cap. 63. nota 1.

Ego

3 Ego vidi in te tria, ego vidi gloriam tuam, & honorem ſuper omnia, & cogitabam gloriam meam; ideo ſuperbiens propoſui non tantum tibi eſſe par, ſed etiam ſuper te.

In præſenti nota ſermo ſit de lapſu dæmonum, eorumque peccata recenſentur: occaſionem autem peccandi legimus hoc loco eos ſumpſiſſe ex eo quod viderint gloriam Dei. quod non eſt intelligendum de naturali cognitione, vel de beatifica viſione, quæ per lumen gloriæ ſanctis in patria eſſentiam divinam inſpiciunt, quoniam dæmones, nec unquam ſic fuerunt Beati, nec viderunt gloriam Dei, ſunt ergo verba præſentis notæ interpretanda de viſione divina, quam diabolus aſſecutus eſt per reflexionem conſiderando ſuæ naturæ pulchritudinem, ac nobilitatem, qua manuducebatur ad cognitionem Dei, prout eſt auctor ac moderator omnium creaturarum, quod etiam explicauimus infra hoc eodem libro cap. 48. nota 3. cum ergo dæmon excellentiam propriam intenſius ſpecularetur ſuperbiens arbitratus eſt, Beatitudinem ſibi non ex gratia, ſed ex nobilitate ſuæ naturæ, & a Deo etiam independenter ſibi competere; & ita primum peccatum ſuperbia fuit, vt tradunt D. Baſil. de quæſtionibus ſacræ Scripturæ quæſt. 10. D. Gregor. lib. 34 Moral. cap. 14 & lib. 4. Epiſt. 38. D. Gregor. Thaumat. ſerm. 2. in Annunciat. D. Auguſtinus lib. 12. de Ciuit. Dei cap. 6. & lib. 14. cap 13. D. Ambroſ. in Pſalm. 36 in illa verba vidi impium ſuperexaltatum, & Pſalm. 118. lib. 20 increpaſti ſuperbos Greg. Nazian. Orat. 1. in Paſchate, Chryſoſt. Hom de Adam & Eua, Hieron. ſuper Iſaiam cap. 14. D. Anſelmus de caſu diaboli cap. 4. D. Thomas 1. par. q. 63. art. 2. & 3. & patet etiam ex illo Iob 41. qui dæmonem vocat Regem ſuper omnes filios ſuperbiæ, ſed quia inuidia eſt paſſio propria ſuperbiæ quippeque dolor eſt de bono alterius, per quod propria excellentia impeditur. Ideo inuidiæ quoque peccatum commiſit, & eſt communis opinio ſanctorum Patrum, ſic habent D. Greg. lib. 5. Moral. cap. 51. D. Baſil. Hom. de inuidia D. Auguſtinus Epiſt. 48. & de lib. Arbitrio cap. 25. D. Bernard. ſerm. 17. in Cant. & patet Sapientiæ 2. Inuidia diaboli mors introiuit in orbem terrarum. vide plura hac de re lib. 2. Reuelat. cap. 12. nota prima, & lib. 4. cap. 106. nota 1.

4 Ideo ſuperbiens propoſui non tantum tibi eſſe par, ſed etiam ſuper te.

Ex his verbis non eſt colligendum Dæmonem optaſſe Dei æqualitatem per æquiparantiam, quia naturali cognitione ſcire poterat hoc fieri non poſſe, vt ſic Deo æqualis eſſet, ſic docet D. Thomas 1. par. quæſt. 63. art. 3. tum quia ſic optaſſet ſui deſtructionem, quod eſt contra naturale deſiderium inditum vnicuique de conſeruando ſuum eſſe, vt probat D. Anſelmus ſuperiori nota citatus, dicendum ergo eſt eum deſideraſſe non æqualitatem propriæ Dei, ſed ſimilitudinem quandam, quatenus ſcilicet Beatitudinem voluit obtinere per ſuam virtutem, quod eſt proprium Dei: aut vt admonuit D. Greg. 34. Moral. cap. 16. & 34. quia voluit eſſe ſui iuris, nec pendere vbique quod ſpectat tantum ad obedientiam Dei, aut etiam vt alij affirmarunt æqualitatem dicitur optaſſe dicitur æqualitatem quia optauit nulli ſubeſſe, ſic Alexand. Alenſis 2. par. q. 109. art. 2. membro 2. & 3. quam ſententiam ſecuti ſunt, Lyranus, & Burgenſis Iſaiæ 14. ad illa verba in Cælum aſcendam.

5 Vidi quæ futura erant, & quia gloria tua, & honor eſt ſine principio, & ſine fine inuidebam tibi.

Animaduertendum eſt hoc loco non agi de futuris, quæ ex libera Dei voluntate pendent, aut de illorum cognitione in ſe ipſis, & in ſuis cauſis, aut de certa contingentium futurorum cognitione virtute naturali, quoniam omnino certum eſt, nec Angelos, nec dæmones poſſe ita ſic cognoſcere, ſed hoc ſolius Dei eſſe proprium, quod probari poteſt ſententiis ſacrarum litterarum, & ſanctorum Patrum teſtimonijs, vt Iſaiæ 41. 48. & 58. & Dan. 2. & Sapientiæ 8. de diuina Sapientia ſcribitur, ſcit præterita, & de futuris æſtimat, idem docet D. Chryſoſt. Hom. 18. in cap. 8. Ioan. vbi dicit certa futurorum prædictio immortalis Dei ſolius opus eſt, idem ſentit Origenes lib. 8. Periarchon cap. 2. D. Auguſtinus lib. quinto de ciuit. cap. 9. Cyrillus & Theodoretus explicantes illud Iſaiæ 41. Annunciate, quæ ventura ſunt, & ſcimus, quod Dij eſtis, ſi vero agamus de futuris, quæ a neceſſariis cauſis proueniunt, fatendum eſt, Angelos, & dæmones, prout hic innuitur illa poſſe cognoſcere, ſicut etiam monet D. Thomas 1. par. q. 57. art. 3. aut etiam arbitror verba præſentis notæ poſſe intelligi de myſterio Incarnationis, quod quidem Angelis a principio ſuæ creationis cognoſcendum ſalem in generali antequam fieret, quantum ad eius ſubſtantiam, licet non quoad particulares circumſtantias, quod vt aliqui ex Theologis affirmarunt, præbuit anſam Dæmoni, vt peccatum inuidiæ committeret, & vnionem hypoſtaticam appeteret; & ideo legimus hoc loco ſine fine inuidebam tibi, nam cum a Chriſto Domino per paſſionem ſuam ſibi gloria corporis cumulanda eſſet, cumque humanam naturam ſuper Angelos, Eleuandam ſorte præuidiſſet inuidiæ illi var. lect. Rectius M. S. Farneſianus habet ad hoc vt tu viuereris non morereris, & ita legendum eſſe cenſeo, nouerat enim Dæmon Deum eſſe immortalem, nec poſſe mori putauit quidem tamen poſſe, quatenus voluit ſubtrahere ſe ab eo præſidium Deitatem, & ex ſua natura nobilitate, & ex ſe ipſo non dependenter a Deo.

7 Dete, & tu miſericordiam humiliter a me, & dabo tibi, cui reſpondit diabolus nequaquam hoc faciam.

Orige-

Origenes lib. 1. Periarchon, cap. 6. exiſtimauit contra id quod ſcribitur hic, & contra ſcripturæ ſacræ veritatem, & Patrum communem ſententiam, Dæmones poſſe panitere, quanquam Picus Mirandulanus in apolog. pro Origene edita conatus ſit eum ab huiuſmodi errore vindicare, ſed q̃ aequid ſit mihi dicendum eſt, primo ſecundum fidem Catholicã certum eſſe Dæmones, nullatenus poſſe panitere, nec a Deo miſericordiam petere, vt hoc loco legimus, quod arbitror eſſe verum, non ſolum de poſſibili, ſed etiam de facto, & hoc probari poteſt primo ex ſacris litteris Apocalypſis 20. Cruciabuntur die ac nocte in ſecula ſeculorum. & Marci 9. Ignis inferni appellatur inextinguibilis: & Matth. 25. æternus. Et definita eſt hæc veritas in Concilio Florentino ſub Eugenio, vbi hic error aſcribitur Origeni: Cæterum ſi quiſpiam huius obſtinationis cauſam quærat, reſponderi poteſt breuiter primo cum D. Thoma 1. p. q. 64. art. 2. Dæmonis obſtinationem prouenire non ex grauitate culpæ, ſed ex libero arbitrio naturæ, ex qua fit, vt eorum voluntas immobiliter adhæreat ſuo, ad quem ſemel ſe illaqueauerunt: nihil boni confirmati ſunt in bono, & mali in malo, ſed Sanctus in 2. ſententiarum, quæſtiuncula obſtinationem cenſuit ex peccato ex auxilio diuino, cui opponitur fauor [illegible] diuinæ quæſt. 2. Alij vero affirmant id prouenire ex quodam malo habitu in voluntate Dæmonis producto, qui neceſſario ſemper inclinat ad malum, ex eius id contingere exigente diuina iuſtitia, per quem ſtatim nunquam concurrere cum voluntate Dæmonis, vt illum affectum prauum deponat; ſunt etiam qui cenſent id prouenire ex eo, quod Dæmonis voluntas quando peccauit, ſe tota immerſerit obiecto, cui ſe libere applicauit, probabiliorem ita puto opinor eſſe ſententiam Thomiſtarum, qui bonæ Dæmonum obſtinationem referunt ad naturam ſtatus in termino, & ad inflexibilitatem liberi arbitrij, ſic docet D. Thomas loco citato, & quæſt. 16. de malo, art. 3. Capreolus in 2. diſt. 7. quæſt. ultima. Idem in 4. diſtinct. 50. Abulenſis 3. p. quæſt. 1. memb. 2. & ex Neotericis egregie hanc opinionem examinat Dominicus Bannes in commen. ſuper 1. p. S. Tho. q. 64. art. 2.

8 Statutum eſt pœna, vt vnuſquiſque de

Manuſcripti Codicis lectio placet magis: ſic enim legit: Statuta eſt pœna, vt vnuſquiſque de ſpiritibus qui ceciderunt pœnam ſuam habeat, non habebit. Credendum namque eſt Dæmonem poſt peccatum immediate accepiſſe a Deo damnationis ſuæ ſententiam, nec inter lapſum, & pœnas aliquid interceſſiſſe temporis, quoniam cum peccauit confeſtim eius eſt ſtatim extra ſtatum viæ, ac proinde extra ſalutis, & pœnitentiæ terminum, & per conſequens arbitror ei fuiſſe pœnam iniunctam, quod colligi poteſt ex Apocalypſis c. 12. vbi ſcribitur, VERBA VIRGINIS AD Sponſam, proprium dolorem in Chriſti paſſione explicantis, & qualiter per Adam, & Euam mundus fuerit venditus, et per Chriſtum, et eius matrem Virginem fuerit redemptus.

CAP. XXXV.

MARIA loquebatur. Conſidera filia paſſionem filij mei, cuius membra fuerunt mihi quaſi membra mea, & quaſi cor meum. Nam ipſe ſicut alij filij in viſceribus matris ſolent eſſe, ſic fuit in me. Sed ipſe conceptus eſt ex feruenti charitate diuinæ dilectionis, alijs autem ex concupiſcentia carnis. Vnde hoc dicit Ioannes conſobrinus eius: Verbum caro factum eſt. Nam per charitatem ipſe verus, & erat in me. Verbum autem & charitas ipſum fecerunt in me. Ipſe quippe erat mihi quaſi cor meum. Propterea cum nasceretur ex me, ſenſi ego quod quaſi dimidium cor meum nasceretur, & exiret ex me. Et cum ipſe pateretur, ſenſi quod quaſi cor meum pungebatur. Sicut enim illud quod dimidium eſt extra, & dimidium intra, & ſi illud pungitur quod eſt extra, æque ſentit dolorem, quod intus eſt. Sic ego cum flagellaretur, & pungeretur filius meus, quaſi cor meum flagellabatur, & pungebatur. Ego etiam ſic propinquior eſt in paſſione, nec ſeparabar ab eo. Ego habam vicinius cruci eius, & ſicut hoc grauius pungit quod vicinus eſt cordi, ſic dolor eius grauior erat præ cæteris mihi. Cumque reſpexiſſet ad me de cruce, & ego ad eum, tunc de oculis meis quaſi de vitis lachrymæ exibant. Et cum ipſe me cerneret dolore confectam, in cruce amarica- 9 batur de dolore meo, quod omnis dolor vinorum ſuorum erat quaſi ſopitus ibi præ dolore meo, quem in me videbat. Propterea audacter dico, quia dolor eius erat dolor meus, quia cor eius erat cor meum. Sicut enim Adam, & Eua vendiderant mundum pro vno pomo, 1, ſic filius meus, & ego re-demimus mundum quaſi cum vno corde. 2 Ideo filia mea cogita qualis ego eram in morte filij mei, & non erit tibi graue relin-quere mundum.

NO-

NOTAE.

Sic filius meus, & ego redemimus mundum quasi vno corde.

Ex verbis præsentis nota nullatenus est colligendum Mariam Virginem propria munda redemisse, ac de rigore iustitiæ satisfecisse, sicut de Christo dicimus, quod vere nos redemerit, & pro nobis diuinæ iustitiæ rigorosè satisfecerit pura nanque creatura, & si Deo grata sit nullo modo sic poterat satisfacere, vt probant scholastici in 3. sent. dist. 20. & in specie D. Bonauentura ibidem q. 3. art. 1. Alex. Alens 3. par. q. 1. memb. 6. art. 1. & 2. & ex S. Patribus D. Anselm lib. 1. cur Deus homo a cap. 10. vsque ad 12. & lib. 2. a cap. 12. vsque ad 20. D. Ambros. super cap. 9. Epistolæ ad Hebræos D. Leo serm. 2. de Natali, Basil. in Psal. 48. ad illa verba frater non redimit, Nazianzen. serm. de Pascha, Cyrillus Alex. de Incarnat. Vnigeniti cap. 11. Cyrillus Hierosolymit. Catechesi 14. Hieron. lib. 3. contra Valentinum cap. 20. & 21. Postremo D. Thomas 3. par. q. 1. art. 2. ad secundum, dixit, quod cum tota humana natura esset per peccatum corrupta, nec bonum alicuius personæ, nec etiam plurium posset per aequiparentiam totius naturæ detrimentum compensare, cum etiam peccatum ex parte Dei offensi infinitatem quandam importaret oportuit ad condignam satisfactionem, vt actus satisfacientis haberet infinitam efficaciam, quod non potuit in pura creatura reperiri, dicendum ergo est Mariam Virg. dici posse fuisse cooperatam mysterio redemptionis cum Christo quatenus ipsa cum peperit, qui mundum redemit, aut etiam quia, cum hoc passione sua Christus effecerit, Maria vero, quæ & materna dilectionis affectu, & summæ charitatis vinculo cum Redemptore ita coniuncta erat, vt filij dolores suos esse existimauerit, vt scribitur hic paulo ante verbapræsentis notæ, illi propterea audaciter, dicit quia dolor eius, erat dolor meus, & quia cor eius, erat cor meum; ideo mirum non est, si ipsamet hoc loco dicat, cum suo filio mundum redimisse, & in hunc sensum Lasspergius Hom. 48. de passione, Mariam cooperatricem Redemptionis appellauit, voluit inquit, Christi Matrem adesse sibi in doloribus, vt ex his, quæ oculis foris cerneret intus animo vulneraretur, vt sic Christi passionis redemptionis quoque nostræ particeps fieret, & cooperatrix. Verum D. Greg. Thaumaturgus serm. 2. in Annunciat. paulo post medium Mariam non solum redemptionis cooperatricem appellat, sed & principium ipsius reparationis, tu in quit, principium reparationis effecta es, tu fiducia, in paradisum introitum nobis dedisti, & antiquum dolorem, lætumque fugasti.

CAP. XXXVI.

ANGELO Oranti pro sponsa Domini sui. Respondit Dominus. Tu es quasi miles Domini, qui nunquam deposuit galeã iuam propter tædium, & qui præ timore nunquam diuertit oculos a prælio. Tu es stabilis quasi mons, ardens quasi flamma. Tu es sic mundus, vt nulla sit in te macula. Tu petis misericordiam sponsæ meæ, licet omnia scias, & videas in me, tamen ista audiente, dic qualem misericordiam petis ei. Triplex enim est misericordia. Vna qua corpus punitur, & parcitur animæ, sicut famulus meus Iob, cuius caro data est omnibus doloribus, & anima seruata est. Secunda misericordia est, qua parcitur animæ, & corpori a pœna, sicut Rex ille, qui in omnibus voluptatibus fuit, & nullum dolorem, nec ad corpus, nec ad animam in mundo dum viueret habuit. Tertia etiam misericordia est, qua punitur corpus, & anima, vt & tribulationem habeat in carne, & dolorem in corde, sicut Petrus, & Paulus, & alij Sancti. Nam tres sunt status hominum in mundo. Vnus, eorum qui cadunt in peccata, & iterum surguint, hos permitto quandoque tribulari ad corpus, vt salui fiant. Secundus est, eorum qui in æternum libenter viuerent, vt in æternum peccarent, qui totam voluntatem ad mundum habent, & si quandoque aliqua faciunt pro me, hac intentione faciunt, vt temporalia eis succrescant, & proficiant, his nõ datur pœna corporis, nec dolor magnus cordis, sed in potestate propria, & voluntate sua dimittitur, quia pro minimo bono, quod fecerant pro me, recipient hic mercedem suam, vt in æternum crucientur, quia cum voluntas est æterna ad peccatum, pœna erit eis æterna. Tertius status est eorũ, qui plus timent peccare contra me, & offendere voluntatem meam, quam de aliqua pœna. Magisque in æternum cruciarentur pœna intolerabili, quam me prouocarent scienter ad iram. His datur tribulatio corporis, & cordis, vt Petro, & Paulo, & alijs sanctis, vt quicquid in hoc mundo deliquerint, in mundo emendent. Vel ad maiorem gloriã & alio-

Origenes lib. 1. Periarchon, cap. 6. existimauit contra id quod scribitur hic, & contra scripturæ sacræ veritatem, & Patrum communem sententiam. Dæmones posse pœnitere, quanquam Picus Mirandulanus in apolog. pro Origene edita conatus sit eum ab huiusmodi errore vindicare, sed quæquid sit mihi dicendum est, primo secundum fidem Catholicã certum esse Dæmones nullatenus posse pœnitere, nec a Deo misericordiam petere, vt hoc loco legimus, quod asseror esse verum, non solum de possibili, sed etiam de facto, & hoc probari potest. primo ex sacris literis Apocalypsis 20. Cruciabuntur die ac nocte in secula seculorum. & Marci 9. Ignis inferni appellatur inextinguibilis: & Matth. 25. æternus; Et definita est hæc veritas in Concilio Lateranensi in cap. firmiter, de sum. Trin. & fid. cathol. & in 6 synodo, actione vndecima: & in epistola Sophronij, vbi hic error asscribitur Origeni: Cæterum si quispiam huius obstinationis causam quærat, responderi potest breuiter primo cum D. Thoma 1. p. q. 64. art. 2. Dæmonis obstinationem prouenire non ex grauitate culpæ, sed ex libero naturæ, vt quæ sit, vt eorum voluntati immobiliter adhæreat sui, ad quem semel se [illegible] boni confirmati sunt in bono, & mali in malo, sed Scotus in 2. sententiarum, q. 7. hanc obstinationem censuit [illegible] diuini, cui opinioni fauet eadem diuina quæst. 2. Alij vero asserunt id prouenire ex quodam malo habitu in voluntate Dæmonis producto, quo necessario semper inclinat ad malum aut etiam id contingere exigente diuina iustitia, per quam statuit nunquam concurrere cum voluntate Dæmonis, vt illum affectum prauum deponat; sunt etiam qui censent id prouenire ex eo, quod Dæmonis voluntas quando peccauit, se tota immerserit obiecto, cui se libere applicauit, probabiliorem tamen opinor esse sententiam Thomistarum, qui bonã Dæmonum obstinationem referunt ad naturam stantis in termino, & ad inflexibilitatem liberi arbitrij, sic docet D. Thomas loco citato, & quæst. 16. de malo, art. 3. Capreolus in 2. dist. 7. quæst. 2. Paludan in 4. distin. 50. Alensis 3. p. quæst. 1. membr. 2. & ex Neotericis egregie hanc opinionem examinat Dominicus Bannes in comment. super 1. p. S. Tho. q. 64. art. 2.

1 Statutum est pœna, vt vnusquisque de var. spiritibus, qui ceciderunt, pœnam suam lect. habebit.

Manuscripti Codicis lectio placet magis: sic enim legit: Statuta est pœna, vt vnusquisque de spiritibus qui ceciderunt pœnam suam habeat, non habebit: credendum namque est Dæmonem post peccatum immediate accepisse a Deo damnationis suæ sententiam, nec inter lapsum, & pœnas aliquid interfuisse temporis, quoniam cum peccauit confestim est statim extra statum viæ, ac proinde extra salutis, & pœnitentiæ terminum, & per consequens arbitror ei fuisse pœnam inuinciam, quod colligi potest ex Apocalypsis c. 12. vbi scribitur, quod continuo post peccatum in quo steterunt Dæmones Michael prævalens non est amplius inuentus in toto loco Dei eius, & angelorum eius.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD Sponsam, proprium dolorem in Christi passione explicantis, & qualiter per Adam, & Euam mundus fuerit venditus, & per Christum, & eius matrem Virginem fuerit redemptus.

CAP. XXXV.

MARIA loquebatur. Considera filia passionem filij mei, cuius membra fuerunt mihi quasi membra mea, & quasi cor meum. Nam ipse sicut alij filij in visceribus matris solent esse, sic fuit in me. Sed ipse conceptus est feruenti charitate diuinæ dilectionis, alij autem ex concupiscentia carnis. Vnde bene de eo Ioannes consobrinus eius: Verbum caro factum est. Nam per charitatem ipse verbum, & erat in me. Verbum autem & charitas ipsum fecerunt in me, ipse quippe erat mihi quasi cor meum. Propterea cum nasceretur ex me, sensi ego quod quasi dimidium cor meum nasceretur, & exiret ex me. Et cum ipse pareretur, sensi quod quasi cor meum pariebatur. Sicut enim illud quod dimidium est extra, & dimidium intra, & si illud pungitur quod est extra, æque sentis dolorem, quod intus est. Sic ego cum flagellaretur, & pungeretur filius meus, quasi cor meum flagellabatur, & pungebatur. Ego etiam fui propinquior ei in passione, nec separabar ab eo. Ego stabam vicinius cruci eius, & sicut hoc grauius pungit quod vicinus est cordi, sic dolor eius grauior erat præ cæteris mihi. Cumque respexisset ad me de cruce, & ego ad eum, tunc de oculis meis quasi de vitis lachrymæ exibant. Et cum ipse me cerneret dolore confectam, in eadem momenta 4 batur de dolore meo, quod omnis dolor virorum suorum erat quasi sopitus sibi præ dolore meo, quem in me videbat. Propterea audacter dico, quia dolor eius erat dolor meus, quia cor eius erat cor meum. Sicut enim Adam, & Eua vendiderunt mundum pro vno pomo, 1, sic filius meus, & ego redemimus mundum quasi cum vno corde. Ideo filia mea cogita qualis ego eram in morte filij mei, & non erit tibi graue relinquere mundum.

RESPONSIO DOMINI

Angelo oranti pro ſponſa, quod corporis, & animæ tribulatio concedatur, & quod magis perfectis maiores tribulationes tribuantur.

CAP. XXXVI.

ANGELO Oranti pro ſponſa Domini ait. Reſpondit Dominus. Tu es quaſi miles Domini, qui nunquam depoſuit galeã ſuam propter tædium, & qui præ timore nunquam diuertit oculos a prælio. Tu es ſtabilis quaſi mons, ardens quaſi flamma. Tu es ſic mundus, vt nulla ſit in te macula. Tu petis miſericordiam ſponſæ meæ, licet omnia ſcias, & videas in me, tamen iſta audiente, dic qualem miſericordiam petis ei. Triplex enim eſt miſericordia. Vna qua corpus punitur, & parcitur animæ, ſicut famulus meus Iob, cuius caro data eſt omnibus doloribus, & anima ſeruata eſt. Secunda miſericordia eſt, qua parcitur animæ, & corpori a pœna, ſicut Rex ille, qui in omnibus voluptatibus fuit, & nullum dolorem, nec ad corpus, nec ad animam in mundo dum viueret habuit. Tertia etiam miſericordia eſt, qua punitur corpus, & anima, vt & tribulationem habeat in carne, & dolorem in corde, ſicut Petrus, & Paulus, & alij Sancti. Nam tres ſunt ſtatus hominum in mundo. Vnus, eorum qui cadunt in peccata, & iterum ſurguht, hos permitto, quandoque tribulari ad corpus, vt ſalui fiant. Secundus eſt, eorum qui in æternum libenter viuerent, vt in æternum peccarent, qui totam voluntatem ad mundum habent, & ſi quandoque aliqua faciunt pro me, hac intentione faciunt, vt temporalia eis ſuccreſcant, & proficiant, his nõ datur pœna corporis, nec dolor magnus cordis, ſed in poteſtate propria, & voluntate ſua dimittũtur, quia pro minimo bono, quod fecerant pro me, recipient hic mercedem ſuam, vt in æternum crucientur, quia cum voluntas eſt æterna ad peccatum, pœna erit eis æterna. Tertius ſtatus eſt eorũ, qui plus timent peccare contra me, & offendere voluntatem meam, quam de aliqua pœna. Magiſque in æternum cruciarentur pœna intolerabili, quam me prouocarent ſcienter ad iram. His datur tribulatio corporis, & cordis, vt Petro, & Paulo, & alijs ſanctis, vt quicquid in hoc mundo deliquerint, in mundo emendent. Vel ad maiorem gloriã & alio& aliorum exemplum purgantur ad tempus. Hanc triplicem misericordiam feci in regno isto cum tribus quorum nomina nota sunt tibi. Nunc ergo Angele serue meus qualem misericordiam petis sponsæ meæ. Et ille inquit. Animæ, & corporis, vt quicquid hic deliquerit in mundo emendet, & nullum peccatum eius veniat in iudicium tuum. Respondit Dominus. Fiat secundum voluntatem tuam. Deinde loquebatur ad sponsam. Tu mea es, ideo sicut mihi placet faciam tecum, nihil dilige sicut me. Munda te igitur a peccato omni hora cum consilio eorum quibus te commiseram. Nullum peccatum cela, nullum dimitte indiscussum, nullum peccatum, puta leue, nullum negligendum. Nam omnia quæcunque neglexeris, ego reducam ad memoriam, & iudicabo. Nam nullum peccatum tuum veniet in iudicium meum, quod in vita tua pœnitentia erit punitum. De quibus autem pœnitentia facta non est, vel in purgatorio purgabuntur, vel alio occulto iudicio meo, nisi satisfactione hic emendentur.

VERBA MATRIS AD Sponsam excellentiam sui filij ponentia, & qualiter Christus acrius nunc ab inimicis malis Christianis crucifigitur, quam a Iudæis crucifixus fuerat, & per consequens, quod tales acrius, & amarius punientur.

CAP. XXXVII.

MATER loquebatur. Filius meus tria bona habuit. 1 Primo quia nullus sic delicatum corpus habuit sicut ipse, eo quod erat de duabus naturis optimis, scilicet deitate, & humanitate, & ita mundum, quod sicut in oculo clarissimo non inuenitur macula, sic nec in ipsius corpore aliqua deformitas reperiri potuit. Secundum bonum erat, quod nunquam peccauit. Nam alij filij portant quandoque peccata parentum suorum, & propria, iste enim nunquam peccauit, & tamen omnium peccata portauit. Tertium erat quod aliqui moriuntur propter Deum, & maiorem remunerationem. 2 Ipse autem moriebatur sic propter inimicos suos sicut propter me, & amicos eius. Sed quando inimici eius crucifixerunt eum, quatuor ei fecerunt. Primo coronauerunt eum spinis. Secundo manus, & pedes perforauerunt. Tertio propinauerunt ei fel. Quarto pupugerunt latus eius. Sed nunc conqueror, quia filius meus ab inimicis suis, qui nunc sunt in mundo, amarius crucifigitur, quam tunc Iudei crucifixerunt eum. Nam licet deitas impassibilis sit, nec mori possit, tamen cum proprijs vitijs crucifigunt eum. Sicut enim aliquis homo imagini alicuius inimici sui contumeliam, & iesionem faceret, licet imago non sentiret illata, tamen propter voluntatem malam lædendi læsor quasi pro opere argueretur, & dijudicaretur. Sic eorum vitia quibus spiritualiter crucifigunt filium meum, abhominabiliora, & grauiora sunt ei, quam illorum, qui crucifixerunt eum in corpore. Sed forte tu potes quærere quomodo crucifigunt eum? vtique. Primo ponunt eum in cruce, quam sibi præparauerat, quando de præceptis Creatoris sui, & Domini non curant; & dehonestant eum, quando ipse monet eos per seruos suos seruire sibi, & ipsi hoc contemnentes faciunt, quæ sibi placent. Deinde crucifigunt dexteram manum, quando tenent iustitiã pro iniustitia, dicentes. Peccatum non est sic graue, & odiosum Deo sicut dicitur, nec Deus in æternum affligit quenquam, sed propter timorem minatus est. Quare enim redimeret hominem, si vellet eum perire. 3 Non attendentes, quod minimum peccatum, si homo delectatur in eo, satis est ei ad supplicium æternum. Et quia non minimum peccatum dimittit Deus impunitum, sicut nec minimum bonum sine remuneratione. Ideo sempiternum erit eis supplicium, quia & sempiternam habent voluntatem peccandi, quam filius meus, qui videt cor, reputat pro opere. Quia sicut habent voluntatem, sic etiam opera complerent, si permitteret filius meus. Deinde crucifigunt sinistram manum eius, quando virtutem vertunt in vitium, volentes vsque in finem peccare, dicentes. Si dixerimus in fine semel, miserere mei Deus, tanta est misericordia Dei, quod habebimus veniam, hoc non est virtus, velle peccare, & non emendare. Velle præmium habere sine labore, nisi esset contritio in corde, quod libenter vellet emendare si posset præ infirmitate, vel aliquo alio impedimento. Postea crucifigunt pedes eius, quando delectantur in faciendo peccatum, & non semel cogitant amaram passionem filii mei, nec regratiantur ei semel de intimo corde, dicentes. O quam amara erat passio tua Deus, laus tibi sit pro morte tua, hoc numquam procedit de ore eorum. 5 Coronant eum deinde corona derisionis, quando dicunt seruitores eius, & vanitatem reputant seruire ei. Dant ei enim fel bibere, quando gaudent, & exultant in peccato. Nec ascen-dic semel in corde eorum, quam graue, & quam multiplex sit. Pungunt latus eius quãdo voluntatem habent perseuerandi in peccato. Vere dico tibi, & hoc amicis meis dicere poteris, quod tales sunt ante filium meum iniustiores iudicantibus eum, immitiores crucifixoribus eius, impudentiores venditoribus eius, & maior pœna debetur istis, quam illis. Pilatus sciuit bene filium meum non peccasse, nec dignum aliqua morte: tamen quia timuit amittionem temporalis potestatis, & seditionem Iudæorum, iudicauit quasi inuitus filium meum ad mortẽ. Quid autem haberent isti timere si ei seruirent? aut quid de honore suo, & dignitate amitterent si ipsum honorarent? Ideo grauius isti iudicabuntur, & deteriores sunt Pilato in conspectu filij mei, quia Pilatus iudicauit eum propter petitionem, & voluntatẽ aliorum, cum timore quodam. Isti autem iudicant eum propter voluntatem propriam absque timore, quãdo inhonorant eum per peccatum, a quo si vellent possent abstinere. Sed nec a peccato abstinent, nec pro peccato facto verecundantur, quia non attendũt, quod indigni sunt beneficijs eius, cui non seruiunt. Deteriores sunt Iuda, quia Iudas tradito domino sciuit ipsum bene esse Deũ, & graviter se contra eum peccasse, 6 sed desperauit suspendens seipsum, & properauit dies suos ad infernum, credens se indignum viuere. Isti autem bene sciunt peccatum suũ & tamen perseuerant in eo, nullam pro eo in corde compunctionem habentes. Sed volunt cum violentia, & potentia quadam sumere regnum cælorum, quando hoc non operibus, sed propter spem vanam habere cogitant, quod nulli dabitur, nisi operanti, & patienti aliquid pro Deo. Deteriores sunt etiam crucifixoribus eius, quia cũ illi viderunt opera filij mei bona, scilicet quia resuscitauit mortuos, leprosos mũdauit, cogitabãt apud se: Hic facit inaudita, & mirabilia inusitata, nã prosternit quos vult vno verbo, scit cogitationes nostras, facit quæcunque vult. Si processum suum habebit, omnes subijciemur potestati eius, & subditi eius erimus. Ideo ne subijcerentur ei 7 crucifixerunt eum propter inuidiam. 7 Si enim sciuissent, quod fuisset Rex gloriæ, nunquam crucifixissent eum. Isti autem vident opera eius quotidie, & magna mirabilia, vtuntur beneficiis eius, & audiunt quomodo ei seruire debent, & ad eum venire. Sed cogitant apud se, si omnia temporalia sunt relinquenda. Si voluntas eius, & non nostra facienda est, graue est hoc, & intolerabile. Ideo contemnentes voluntatem eius, ne sit super voluntatem eorum, crucifigunt filium meũ per indurationem, addentes contra conscietiam suam peccatum super peccatum. Isti autem peiores sunt crucifixoribus, quia Iudæi fecerunt propter inuidiam, & quia nesciebant eum esse Deum. Isti autem sciunt eum esse Deum, & ex malitia sua, & præsumptione causa propriæ cupiditatis, crucifigunt eum amarius spiritualiter, quam illi carnaliter, quia isti redempti sunt. Illi nondum redempti erant. Ergo sponsa obedi filio meo, & time eum, quia ipse sicut est misericors, sic etiam est iustus.

NOTAE.

1 PRimo, quia nullus sic delicatum corpus habuit sicut ipse, eo quod erat de duabus naturis optimis, scilicet Deitate, & humanitate.

Nulli dubium esse potest Christum Dominum optimam corporis complexionem, ac temperamentum accepisse, tum ratione principii efficientis, à quo illud corpus formatum erat nimirum à Spiritu sancto, tum ratione humanæ naturæ, quia fuerat productum ex purissimis sanguinibus B. Virginis. Postremo etiam ratione diuinæ naturæ, cui erat vnitum, quæ ipsi innumerabiles easque singulares perfectiones conferebat, cum autem hoc loco legimus huiusmodi corpus fuisse de duabus naturis intelligendum naturam diuinam non conturisse ad corporis compositionem, vt pars eius, Deus enim nec corpus est, nec pars corporis, neque corpus habet, sed spiritus est, vt Ioan. 4. scribitur, sed dicitur corpus Christi constare de duabus naturis, quoniam in Christo diuina, & humana natura vnitæ erant hipostaticè, qualis autem fuerit complexio Christi pendet ex dispositione physica, existimarunt aliqui fuisse ad pondus, sed quidquid sit dicendum videtur, si omnes partes corporis eius aggregate sumantur fuisse in eo qualitates, ita temperatas, & ad pondus assumptas, vt vna aliam non excederet, vel minimum. quod & idcirco grauissimi quidam doctores affirmarunt Christum ab initio fœco non fuisse capacem agritudinis, sic D. Thom. 3. par. q. 14. art. 4. & plures etiam ex scholasticis in 3. dist. 15. & 16. Cajetanus 2. Tomo opusc. opus. 23. Glossa, Lyranus, & alij Matth. 8. ex quo fit consequens eum non fuisse propriæ illius complexionis ex his, quæ a Philosophis, & Medicis describuntur, sed delegisse ex omnibus optimam, & ex complexione colerica habuisse vim, & acrimoniã, ex flegmatica maturitatem, & grauitatem, ex melancholia acumen, & iudicium, ex sanguinea pulchritudinem, & venustatem, hinc Dauid Psalm. 44. scriptum reliquit de Christo speciosus forma præ filijs hominum, ex quibus verbis deducitur Saluatorem nostrum corpore fuisse miræ pulchritudinis, sic D. Augustinus, & Cassiodorus ibidem admonuerunt D. Chrysost. hom. 18. in Matth. D. Bernar. ser. 1. de omnibus sanctis quamquam Theodoretus,

Remi-

Remigius, & Arnobius illa verba Psalmi intellexerint de pulchritudine gratiæ, & Cyrillus lib. 5. super cap. 53 Isaiæ, & Basilius in psal. 44. de pulchritudine diuinitatis, ex dictis constat, quod Christus non fuisset immortalis, etiam si extrinsecus non illata esset mors, quoniam vera vita Christi erat eiusdem rationis cum nostra, & calor agebat in humidum, & consumebat: peruenisset tamen ad extremam senectutem, & per resolutionem obiisset, licet Rupertus Abbas Abacuc 3. affirmet, vitam Redemptoris nostri non futuram fuisse nisi septuaginta annorum, vel circiter, quod mihi non videtur probabile, tum quia hoc gratis dicit, nec probat, tum quia plures homines fuerunt, qui eam ætatem superauerunt.

3 Ipse autem moriebatur sic propter inimicos suos. sicut propter me, & amicos eius.

Dubitare quispiam probabiliter posset, quomodo verum sit quod hoc loco legimus Christum Dominum pro Beatissima Virgine, ceterisque amicis eius mortuum esse; cum enim Maria nullum vnquam commiserit, nec originale, nec actuale peccatum, non videtur Christi morte indiguisse, qua Deo reconciliaretur, cum quo nullam prorsus inimicitiam contraxerat, de aliis autem nec minima relinquitur dubitatio, quippe qui, vt ait Apostolus Rom. 5. cum inimici essemus reconciliati sumus Deo per mortem filii eius. verum antequam propositam dubitationem soluamus, explicandum breuiter est, quid sibi velit quod scribitur hic Christum obiisse pro inimicis, et amicis, & quidem arbitror hoc dictum esse vt passionis Christi sufficientia, & efficacia insinuaretur ipsa enim Saluatoris mors sufficientissima pro omnibus est tam pro inimicis, quam amicis: efficacissima uero est pro his, qui eius sibi fructus applicant, nec ponunt obicem, vnde in canone Missæ legimus (Hic est calix sanguinis mei, noui, & æterni testamenti, qui pro vobis, & pro multis effundetur) dicitur pro vobis efficaciter, & pro multis sufficienter: sed quoniam hæc manifesta sunt, superest vt gradum faciamus ad explicandum, quomodo verum sit, quod Redemptor noster etiam pro Virgine mortuus sit, & qua ratione ipsa redempta fuerit, cum illa nunquam dæmonis seruituti extiterit obnoxia, neque commiserit aliquod peccatum, nec originale, nec actuale, vt a nobis probatum est lib. 3. Reuelat. cap. 8. nota 1. & hinc est, quod aliquibus visum est quod Maria necessitatem aliquam non habuerit, vt filii sui passione redimeretur, verum huic obiectioni facile satisfaciemus, si dupplicem redimendi modum distinguamus, vnum erigendo lapsum, alterum ne iam lapsus præueniendo cadat ex his duobus. Posterior modus sicut nobilior est, & efficacior, ita nobiliori creaturæ nimirum Mariæ competebat, & conueniens erat, vt Christus excellentiori, ac efficatiori modo matrem suam redimeret, cum vterque modus ad illius dignitatem, ac gloriam spectaret, nec ei erat impossibile vtrumque redemptionis modum adhibere, quod quidem nullus vnquam sanæ mentis negare poterit quandoquidem merita Christi sufficiant, non solum ad tollendas ab aliquo culpas tam actuales, sed etiam ad præueniendum, ne quis in eas labatur, cum in periculo cadendi positus est, & tali pacto optimæ Mariam Virginem fuisse redemptam, & redemptionis operæ indiguisse dicimus, quod patere potest ex D. Augustino in Exposit. Psalmi 85. ad eum versiculum eruisti animam meam ex inferno inferiori, vbi dicit cum Medicus imminentem alicui de proximo ægritudinem videt, si medicinæ remedijs præuenit, ne in periculo constitutus in eum morbum incidat, certe potest ei dicere Medico me ab ægritudine non in qua iam eram, sed in qua futurus eram liberasti, sic etiam nescio quis habens molestam causam iniendus erat in carcerem, venit alius defendit eum, gratias agens dicit eruisti animam meam de carcere, vel suspendendus erat debitor, solutum est pro eo, liberatus dicitur de suspendio.

3 Non attendentes, quod minimum peccatum, si homo delectatur in eo satis est ei ad æternum supplicium.

Iam notauimus supra hoc eodem libro cap. 32. nota 4. quod minimo peccato nimirum venali nil latenus æterna pœna debetur nisi poneretur in eo, vel vltimus finis, vel intercederet contemptus, vel ratione alicuius circumstantiæ, quæ esset mortale peccatum.

4 Hoc nunquam procedit de ore eorum.

var. lect. M. S Farnesianus legit, Hoc nunquam procedit, vel raro de ore eorum.

5 Coronant eum corona derisionis, quando derident seruitores eius.

var. lect. Farnesianus Codex M. S. legit, Quando deridem sermones eius, quod ita legendum esse patet ex sequentibus ibi, & vanitatem putant seruire ei, quod ex eo procedit, quia spernunt verba eius.

6 Sed desperauerit suspendens se ipsum, & properauit dies suos ad infernum.

Ex verbis præsentis notæ aperte deducitur Iudam proditorem suspendio è vita discessisse, quidquid dicant Euthimius, Oecumenius, & Theophilactus. Euthimius enim in caput 27. Matth. ea verba edisserens, & abiens laqueo se suspendit affirmat Iudam a quibusdam, qui eum agnouerant, ex arbore fuisse depositum antequam laqueo præfocaretur. Demum post aliquod temporis spatium præcipitio deiectum effusis intestinis obiisse, probat hanc sententiam ex Luca Actorum 1. qui scribit Iudam possedisse Agrum de mercede iniquitatis. si enim statim periisset non possedisset, eandem opinionem secutus est Thophilactus ibidem, qui dicit: inclinatam fuisse Arborem, cui se suspenderat, nec tunc interijsse, sed aliquantulum superuixisse, & post modum Hydropico morbo animam egisse cum Medius crepuisset, sanct Euthimio, & Theophilacto Oecumenius, qui in Comment. in acta Apostolorum cap. 1. ex antiquissimo Auctore Papia refert Iudam dam rapto laqueo non ſolum ſuperuixiſſe: verum poſt illud tempus corpore adeo fuiſſe inflatum, vt nec poſſet progredi, caputq; eius, ac oculorum palpebras ſic intumuiſſe, vt lumen omnino non videret: ſanies etiam, ac vermes ex toto corpore confluentes, tandem poſt plurimas penas, ac tormenta cum in ſuo prædio mortuus eſſet, ibique ſepultus, prædium illud præ fœtore permanſiſſe deſertum: ſed reicit hanc opinionem concors Patrum conſenſus Leo ſerm. 3. de paſſione. COLLOCVTIO GRATA Dei Patris, & Filij adinuicem, & qualiter Pater tradidit filio nouam ſponſam, & filius eam in ſuam gratanter recepit, & quomodo ſponſus informat ſponſam de patientia, & ſimplicitate per exemplum.

CAP. XXXVIII.

1 PATER loquebatur ad filium. Ego veni cum charitate ad Virginem, & ſumpſi verum corpus tuum ex ea. Ideo tu in me, & ego in te. Sicut ignis, & calor nunquam ſeparantur, ſic deitatem ab humanitate impoſſibile erit ſeparari. Reſpondit filius. Omnis gloria, & honor ſit tibi Pater, fiat voluntas tua in me, & mei in te. Reſpondit iterum Pater. Ecce fili, hanc nouam ſponſam aſſigno tibi quaſi ouem ad regendum, & nutriendum, de qua tanquam poſſeſſor ouis, habebis caſeum ad reficiendum, & lac ad bibendum, & lanam ad veſtiendum. Tu autem ſponſa debes obedire ei. Ad te enim pertinent tria. Oportet te eſſe patientem, obedientem, & libentem. Tunc ait filius ad patrem. Tua voluntas cum poteſtate, poteſtas cum humilitate, humilitas cum ſapientia, ſapientia cum miſericordia, fiat voluntas tua, quæ eſt, & erit ſine principio, & ſine fine in me. Ego aſſumo eam mihi in meam charitatem, in tuam potentiam, & Spiritus ſancti regimen, qui non tres Dij, ſed vnus Deus. Tunc ait filius ad ſponſam ſuam. Audiſti quomodo pater aſſignauit te mihi quaſi ouem. Oportet ergo te eſſe ſimplicem, & patientem quaſi ouem, & fructuoſam ad nutriendum, & veſtiendum. Tres enim in mundo ſunt. Primus eſt totus nudus. Secundus eſt ſitiens. Tertius eſt eſuriés. Primus ſignificat fidem Eccleſiæ meæ, quæ nuda eſt, quia omnes erubeſcunt loqui fidem & mandata mea, & ſi ſunt, qui loquuntur, contemnuntur, & mendacij arguuntur. Ideo verba mea, quę de ore meo procedunt, veſtire debent hanc fidem quaſi lana. Sicut enim lana creſcit in corpore ouis ex calore, ſic de calore deitatis meæ, & humanitatis verba mea procedunt in cor tuum, quæ veſtiat fidem meam ſanctam, teſtimonio veritatis, & ſapientiæ, & probabunt eam eſſe veram, quæ nunc inanis reputatur, vt qui vſque ad hæc tepidi fuerant veſtire fidem operibus charitatis, audita charitate verborum meorum conuertantur, & reaccendantur ad loquendum fiducialiter, & agendum fortiter. Secundus ſignificat amicos meos, qui deſiderant more ſitientis perfici honorem meum, & turbantur ex inhonoratione mea. Hi ex dulcedine verborum meorum audita inebriabuntur charitate mea maiori, & alij cum eis nunc mortui accendentur ad amorem meum, audito qualem gratiam facio cum peccatoribus. Tertius ſignificat illos, qui cogitant ſic in corde ſuo. Si ſciremus inquiunt voluntatem Dei, & quomodo viuere poſſemus, & ſi bene inſtrueremur de via bona, libenter faceremus, quæ poſſemus. Hi ſunt quaſi eſurientes ſcire viam meam, & nullus ſatiat eos, quia nemo perfecte oſtendit eis, quæ agenda ſunt, & ſi oſtenditur, nullus ſecundum ea viuit. Et ideo videntur eis verba quaſi mortua, quia nemo ſecundum ea viuit. Propterea ego ipſe oſtendam eis quæ facient, & ſatiabo eos dul-cedine mea. Nam tempora ista, quæ videntur & nunc ferè ab omnibus appetuntur, satiare non possunt hominem, sed excitant magis, ac magis desiderium acquirendi. Verba autem mea, & charitas iactabunt homines, & replebunt eos consolatione abundanti. Ergo tu sponsa mea, quæ es ouis mea, patientiam, & obedientiam cura seruare. Tu enim mea ex omni iustitia facta es. Et ideo oportet te sequi voluntatem meam. Qui autem sequi vult voluntatem alterius, debet habere tria. Primo, cum eo vnum consensum. Secundo, similia opera. Tertio, recedere ab inimicis eius. Qui autem sunt inimici mei, nisi superbia, & omnia peccata. Ab his ergo debes recedere si cupis sequi voluntatem meam.

NOTAE.

1 PAter loquebatur ad filium, ego veni ex charitate ad Virginem, & sumpsi verum corpus tuum ex ea, ideo tu in me, & ego in te.

Hoc loco omnino animaduertendum est, quod quando Pater dicit venisse ad Virginem, & ex ea corpus assumpsisse, non esse intelligendum quod ipsemet fuerit incarnatus, & vt Doctores Scholastici affirmant, terminauerit, & sustentauerit humanam naturam, quandoquidem hoc sui proprium sibi qui ex Virgine carnem assumpsit, & ad hoc dicitur a Patre missus in mundum. ad Galat. 4. At vbi venit plenitudo temporis, misit Deus filium suum factum ex muliere, factum sub lege. Cum ergo legimus hic patrem venisse ad Virginem, & ex ea corpus assumpsisse, intelligendum ab ipso, cum verbo, & Spiritu sancto, tanquam ab efficiente principio hoc sacrosanctum incarnationis mysterium manasse, & ab his tribus personis Christi corpus fuisse formatum: sunt enim actiones ad extra communes toti Trinitati, vt egregie explicat D. Augustin lib. de Eccles. dogmat. non longe ab initio, exemplo cytharæ. O Iudæa, inquit, respice Cytharam, in qua tria adsunt, ars, manus, & chorda, vnus tamen sonus auditur, ars dictat, manus tangit, chorda resonat; nec manus sonum reddunt, sed cum chorda pariter operantur; sic nec Pater, nec Spiritus sanctus carnem susceperunt, tamen cum filio pariter operantur, sola chorda exinde sonum, carnem solus Christus accepit: Sed hac de re videndus est D. Tho. 3 p. q. 3. art. 4. & ibi Thomistæ, vbi probant tantummodo filium fuisse incarnatum: & Magister cum Schola in 3. d. 1. An autem de possibili potuerint omnes tres personæ eandem assumere naturã affirmarunt D. Thom. 3. p. q. 3. art. 8. Henric. quodlibet. 7. Marsil. in 3. q. 2. art 3. Ochm q. 1. art. 3. QVALITER IN CHRISTO tempore suæ mortis, fides, spes, & charitas fuerunt perfectibiliter, & in miseris nobis sunt defectibiliter.

CAP. XXXIX.

1 EGO habui tria in morte mea. Primo fidem, quando flectebam genua mea, & orabam, sciens, quod posset me pater eripere de passione. 2 Secundo spem, quando tam constanter expectabam, & dicebam: Non sicut ego volo. Tertio charitatem, quando dicebam: Fiat voluntas tua. 3 Ego etiam habui angustias corporis ex timore naturali passionis, quando sudor sanguinis exiuit de corpore; ideo ne amici mei trepidarent se relictos, cũ instat eis tribulatio, ego ostendi eis in me, quod caro infirma semper refugit molestias. Sed potes quærere, quomodo sudor sanguinis exiuit de corpore meo? Vtiq. sicut sanguis infirmi in omnibus venis secatur, & consumitur; sic ex dolore naturali mortis sanguis meus coadunabatur. Pater denique ostendere volens viam, per quam aperiretur cælum, & homo exclusus ingrederetur, tradidit me ex charitate in passionem, vt corpus meum contumeliata passione glorificaretur in gloria. 4 Non enim sine passione humanitas mea in gloriam venire posset ex iustitia, licet potuerim ex potentia deitatis meæ fecisse. Quomodo ergo illi merentur intrare gloriam meam, qui modicam habent fidem, spem vanam, & charitatem nullam? Si denique haberent fidem gaudij æterni, & supplicij horribilis, nihil concupiscerent nisi me. Si crederent quod ego omnia video, & scio, & in omnia potens sum, & de omnibus iudicium requiro, vilescerent eis mundus, & timerent magis coram me peccare propter timorem mei, quam pro hominibus. Si haberent spem firmam, tunc tota mens, & cogitatio eorum esset ad me. Si haberent charitatem diuinam, cogitarent saltem in animo quid feci pro eis, quantus mihi labor in prædicatione, quantus dolor in passione, quanta mihi charitas in morte, scilicet, quia prius volui mori, quam eos relinquere. 5 Sed fides eorum est infirma, & quasi pendet in eis, citius minans casum, quia credunt absente tentationis impulsu, diffidunt autem accedente aliquo contrario. Spes eorum est vana, quia sperant peccatum sine iustiiuſtitia, & veritate iudicij dimitti. Regnum cælorum confidunt obtinere gratis, miſericordiam abſque temperamento iuſtitiæ obtinere cupiunt. Charitas eorum ad me tota eſt frigida, quia nunquam accenduntur ad quærendum me, niſi tribulatione cogantur. Quomodo cum talibus poſſum calefieri, qui nec fidem habent rectam, nec ſpem firmam, nec charitatem ad me feruentem? Ideo cum clamauerint ad me, & dixerint, miſerere mei Deus, nõn merentur audiri, nec intrare in gloriam meam, quia nolunt ſequi Dominum ſuum ad paſſionem, ideo nec ſequentur eum ad gloriam. Nullus enim miles placere potest Domino ſuo, & in gratiam eius poſt lapſum recipi, niſi prius aliquam humilitatem ei fecerit pro contemptu ſuo.

NOTAE.

1 EGo habui tria in morte mea, Primo fidem quando flectebam genua mea.

In Chriſto non fuiſſe fidem, prout habitus eſt infuſus, & theologica virtus patet euidenter, quoniam cum ipſe comprehenſor; ac Beatus extiterit omnia illi præſentia erant, cunque fides obſcuritatem quandam involuat, ſitque de rebus non apparentibus, vt Hebræorum 11. Paulus definit fides eſt ſubſtantia rerum argumentum non apparentium, optime infertur repugnaſſe ſtatui beatifico Chriſti fidem habere, quæ communis eſt ſententia ſcholaſticorum in 3. d. 26. & probat D. Auguſtinus in genere de omnibus Beatis lib. 14. de Trinit. cap. 2. illud autem quod Iſaiæ 11. legimus, & fides erit cinctorium renum eius intelligendum de fidelitate, & veracitate, iuxta illud Matth. 22. Magiſter ſcimus, quod verax es; & viam Dei in veritate doces, ſic interpretantur hunc locum Iſaiæ, Cyrillus, & Hieronymus, & in hunc quoque ſenſum explicanda ſunt verba præſentis notæ, aut etiam poſſumus dicere; quod hoc loco ſermo non eſt de habitu fidei infuſo in ordine ad primarium obiectum, quod eſt res diuina non viſa, vt annotauit Caetanus ſuper 3. par. S. Thomæ quæſt. 7. art. 3. ſed de ſcientia Chriſti, qua certo ſciebat poſſe a Patre liberari de manibus Iudæorum, ſi vellet, & ideo ipſum dicentem legimus hic flectebam genua mea, & orabam, ſciens quod poſſet me Pater eripere de paſſione mea.

2 Secundo ſpem habui, quando conſtanter expectabam, & dicebam, non ſicut ego volo.

Quemadmodum fides eſt de rebus non viſis, ita & ſpes eorum eſt, quæ aliquis expectat, nec dum habet, vnde Rom. 8. ſcripſit Apoſtolus, quod videt, quis quid ſperat; ideo eadem ratione dicendũ eſt nobis, quod ſicut in Chriſto non fuit fides, vt ſuperiori nota probauimus, ita nec ſpes quandoquidẽ a principio ſuæ conceptionis cum plenam diuinarũ rerum habueris fruitionem, ideo nec ſpem habuit, quis nulla in eo ratio erat, vt id ſperaret, quod plene poſſidebat, habuit tamen ſpem reſpectu aliquorũ, quæ nondum erat adeptus nimirum immortalitatẽ, & gloriam corporis, & cæterorum, quæ ex paſſione eius pendebant, vt tradidit D. Thomas 3. p. q. 7. art. 4. & propterea ſubditur hic ſpem habui, quando expectabam &c.

3 Ego etiam habui angſtias corporis ex timore naturali paſſionis.

Ex his liquido conſtat Chriſti Domini humanitatem ſuapte natura fuiſſe doleris, ac miſeriæ capacem, vt famis, ſitis, mœroris, timoris, cæteraſq. etiã corporis ægritudines illi fuiſſe connaturales, vt Mat. 4. ieiunauit quadraginta diebus, & noctibus poſtea exuit Io. 4. da mihi bibere Matt. 26. & Mar. 14. cæpit tædere, & pauere, qua in re lapſi ſunt quidã hæretici, qui affirmarunt dolorum ſenſibilium Chriſtum fuiſſe expertem, quorum meminit Damaſ. in lib. de centum hæreſibus cap. 84. & Niceph. lib. 2. hiſt. cap. 29. & damnatus eſt huiuſmodi error in Conc. Epheſ. & Calceden. & a Cyrillo lib. de Incar. c. 27. ſunt etiam caute legendi Clemens Alex li. 6. ſtromat. Hilar. lib. 10. de Trinit. & in Pſalm. 68. Hieron. Matth. 4. & videtur quoque accedere Aug. relatus a Magiſtro in 4 ſent. d 15. quem tamen excuſans ait Aug. in Pſ. 3. ſignificaſſe, Chriſtũ vere non timuiſſe ſecundum paſſionẽ, in Pſal. vero 39. oſtendiſſe, quod vere timuerit ſecundum propaſſionem, cæterum dicendum nobis eſt citatos Patres vere non negaſſe in Chriſto doloré, aut timorem, ſed affirmaſſe propria in eo illos non extitiſſe, quia potentes a diuinitate impediri, vel in eo non fuiſſe dolores, & timorẽ debitum, quatenus debitus ex peccato fuit; quod nunquam commiſit, aut etiam, quia dolor, & triſtitia, ſic erant in Chriſto, vt non potuerint rationem impedire.

4 Non enim ſine paſſione humanitas mea in gloriam venire poſſet ex iuſtitia, licet potuiſſem ex potentia deitatis meæ.

Hoc loco Redemptoris noſtri neceſſitas paſſionis oſtenditur, quæ ex triplici capite penſanda eſt. Primo ex parte noſtra, quoniam per eam a dæmonis poteſtate liberati ſumus. Secundo etiã ex parte ipſius met Dei ex cuius mandato cum plurima ad paſſionẽ ſpectantia per Prophetas in veteri lege fuiſſent prædicta, ac figurata debebant in noua lege compleri, quod egregie admonuit doctor Angelicus 3. par. q. 46. art. 1. Poſtremo reſpectu etiam ipſiusmet Chriſti neceſſaria videbatur, quoniam ſua morte, quam plurima ſibi meruit, vt gloriam corporis, & ſui nominis exaltationem, ſicut ad Philip. 2. ſcribitur humiliauit ſemetipſum factus obediens vſque ad mortẽ, mortem autem crucis. propter quod & Deus exaltauit illum. & ad Hebr. 2. videmus autem Ieſum per paſſionem gloria, & corona coronatum, vbi hoc idem tradunt Theophilact. Oecumenius, Ambroſ. Beda, Anſelmus, qui explicant duo citata loca ad Philippenſes 2. & ad Hebr. 2. hoc etiam docuit D. Baſilius lib. 4. contra Eunomium, Cyrillus lib. 3. Theſauri cap. 3. Chryſoſtom. Hom. 7. ad Philippen.

Poſita erat mea diuina

D. Aug. lib. 3. contra Maximinum c. 2. & lib. 2. cap. 5. addit Dionyſius Carthuſianus ad Philippen. 2. fuiſſe Chriſtum etiam exaltatum quantum ad naturam diuinam, quæ hominibus eſt manifeſtata per miracula a Chriſto facta, poſſumus, & nos adiungere fuiſſe quoque neceſſariam paſſionem, quoniam Saluator noſter meruit per eam excellentiæ poteſtatem externa teſtimonia, quæ declarabant dignitatem eius, regnum ſpeciale in Eccleſia, cuius eſt caput iudiciariam poteſtatem, vt Iob 36 ſcribitur, cauſa tua, quæ quaſi impij iudicata eſt, cauſam, iudicium que recipies, & hoc eſt, quod legimus hic Chriſtum non potuiſſe venire in gloria ex iuſtitia, abſque paſſione ſua.

VERBA QVALITER CREATOR proponit ſponſæ tres benignas quæſtiones: Primam de mariti ſeruitute, & dominio vxoris. Secundam de viri labore, & vxoris conſumptione. Tertiam de contemptu domini, & de ſerui honore.

CAP. XL.

EGO ſum Creator tuus, & dominus. Dic mihi, tria quæ quæro a te. Quomodo ſtat illa domus, vbi vxor veſtitur ſicut domina, & maritus eius quaſi ſeruus? Nunquid decet ſic. Tunc reſpondit illa intus in conſcientia ſua. Non domine decet ſic. Et dominus. Ego ſum dominus omnium, & Rex Angelorum. Ego veſtiui ſeruum meum, ideſt humanitatem meam, non niſi ad vtilitatem, & neceſsitatem. Nihil enim quæſiui in mundo, niſi ſolummodo tenuem victum, & veſtitum. Tu autem, quæ es ſponſa mea, tu vis eſſe ſicut domina habere diuitias, & honores, & honorifice incedere. Ad quid enim valent omnia iſta? Certe omnia vana ſunt, & omnia relinquentur. Homo quippe non creatus fuit ad tantam ſuperfluitatem, ſed ad neceſſitatem naturæ. Hanc autem ſuperfluitatem inuenit ſuperbia, quæ nunc habetur, & diligitur pro lege. Secundo dic mihi: Nunquid decens eſt vt vir laboret de mane vſque ad veſperam, & vxor in vna hora conſumat omnia, quæ congregata ſunt? Tunc illa reſpondit: Non decet ſic, ſed iuxta voluntatem viri viuere, & facere tenetur vxor. Et dominus; Ego feci ſicut vir, qui a mane, vſque ad veſperam laborat: Ego enim a iuuentute mea, vſque ad paſſionem meam laboraui, oſtendens viam eundi ad cælum prædicando, & opere complendo prædicata, hunc omnem laborem meum vxor, ideſt anima, quæ deberet eſſe mea, quaſi vxor tuae conſumit, quando luxuriose viuit, vt nihil ei profit, quæ ego feci, nec inuenio in ea aliquid virtutis, in quo poſſum cum ea delectari. Tertio dic mihi; In quacunque domo dominus contemnitur, & ſeruus honoratur. Nunquid non indecens eſt, & abominabile? Et illa: Vere ſic eſt. Et dominus; Ego ſum Dominus omnium. Domus mea mundus eſt, & homo ſeruus meus de iure eſſe deberet. Sed ego dominus nunc in mundo contemnor, & homo honoratur. & ideo tu quam elegi, cura facere voluntatem meam, quia omnia, quæ in mundo ſunt, non ſunt niſi quædam ſpuma maris, & quædam viſio vana.

VERBA CREATORIS præſentibus cęleſti exercitu, & ſponſa, qualiter conquæritur de quinque viris, ſcilicet de Papa cum ſuo clero, & de malis laicis, & de Iudæis, & de Paganis, & de auxilio miſſo amicis ſuis, per quos omnes homines intelliguntur, & de crudeliſſima ſententia contra inimicos illata.

CAP. XLI.

EGO ſum creator omnium. Ego ante luciferum a Patre genitus, & inſeparabiliter in patre, & pater in me, & vnus ſpiritus in ambobus. Ideo vnus Deus Pater & Filius & Spiritus ſanctus, non tres Dij. Ego ſum, qui Abrahæ promiſi hæreditatem æternam, & per Moyſen eduxi populum meum de Ægypto. Ego idem ſum, qui in Prophetis loquebar. Pater miſit me in viſceribus Virginis, non ſeparans ſe a me, ſed manens inſeparabiliter mecum, vt homo a Deo recedens, ad Deum per charitatem meam rediret. Nunc autem præſente exercitu meo, qui omnia videtis in me, & ſcitis in me, tamen propter cognitionem, & inſtructionem iſtius adſtantis ſponſæ, quę ſpiritualia non poteſt percipere, niſi per corporalia. Conquæror coram vobis ſuper iſtos quinque viros hic adſtantes, quia multiiuſpiciter offendunt me. Sicut enim olim per nomen Iſrael in lege intelligebam totum populum Iſraeliticum, ſic nunc per quinque viros iſtos intelligo omnes homines in mundo. Primus eſt rector Eccleſiæ, & eius clerici. Secundus eſt mali laici. Tertius Iudæi. Quartus Pagani. Quintus amici mei? Sed de te ò Iudæe, excipio omnes Iudæos, qui occulte ſunt Chriſtiani, & ſeruiunt mihi ſincera charitate, & recta fide, & opere perfecto in occulto. De te autem Pagane excipio omnes, qui libenter incederent per viam mandatorum meorum, ſi ſcirent quomodo, & ſi inſtruerentur, qui & opere faciunt quantum ſciunt, & poſſunt, hi nullatenus vobiſcum iudicabuntur. Nunc ergo conqueror ſuper te caput Eccleſiæ meæ, qui ſedes in ſede mea, quam Petro, & ſucceſſoribus eius tradidi ad ſedendum in ea, triplici dignitate, & auctoritate. Primo, vt poteſtatem haberent ligandi animas, & ſoluendi a peccato. Secundo, vt aperirent cælum pœnitentibus. Tertio, vt clauderent cælum maledictis, & contemnentibus. Sed tu qui deberes ſoluere animas, & ad me præſentare, tu vere es animarum interfector. Ego enim inſtitui Petrum Paſtorem, & ſeruatorem ouium mearum? Tu autem es diſperſor, & lacerator earum. Tu autem peior es Lucifero. Ipſe enim habebat ad me inuidiam, & nullum concepiuit occidere niſi me, vt pro me dominaretur. Tu autem tanto deterior es, quod non ſolum occidis me remouendo me a te per mala opera tua, ſed & animas occidis per malum exemplum tuum. Ego redemi animas ſanguine meo, & commiſi eas tibi tanquam amico fideli. Tu autem tradis eas iterato inimico, a quo redemi eas. Tu es iniuſtior Pilato, qui nullum iudicabat ad mortem niſi me. Tu autem non ſolum iudicas me quaſi nullius dominatorem, & nullius boni dignum, immo & animas innocentes condemnas, & nocentes dimittis. Tu es immitior Iuda, qui me ſolum vendidit, tu autem non ſolum me vendis, ſed & animas electorum meorum pro turpi lucro tuo, & vano nomine. Tu es abhominabilior Iudæis. Ipſi crucifixerunt corpus meum ſolum, tu autem crucifigis, & punis animas electorum meorum, quibus malitia tua, & tranſgreſſio amarior eſt omni gladio. Et ideo quia tu ſimilis es Lucifero, iniuſtior Pilato, immitior Iuda, abhominabilior Iudæis. Ideo merito conqueror ſuper te. Ad ſecundum autem, ideſt ad laicos ait Dominus. Pro vtilitate tua omnia creaui. Tu conſenſiſti in me, & ego in te. Dediſti mihi fidem tuam, & promiſiſti mihi cum iuramento tuo, te mihi ſeruiturum. Nunc autem diſceſſiſti a me, quaſi homo ignorans Deum ſuum. Verba mea habes pro mendacio, opera mea pro vanitate, voluntatem meam, & mandata mea dicis nimis grauia. Tu factus es violator fidei promiſſæ. Tu fregiſti iuramentum tuum, & dereliquiſti nomen meum. Tu diſſociaſti te a numero ſanctorum meorum, & veniſti ad numerum dæmonum, & eorum es factus ſocius. Tibi videtur neminem laude, & honore dignum, niſi teipſum. Omnia quæ mea ſunt, & quæ mihi facere teneris, ſunt tibi difficilia, quæ autem tibi ipſi placent, facilia. Ideo merito conqueror ſuper te, quia fregiſti fidem tuam, quam mihi in baptiſmo, & deinceps dediſti. Inſuper, & pro charitate mea, quam verbo, & opere tibi monſtraui, arguis me mendacem. Pro paſſione mea dicis me fatuum. Ad tertium autem, ideſt ad Iudæos ait. Ego vobiſcum incœpi charitatem meam, elegi vos in populum meum, eduxi vos de ſeruitute, dedi vobis legem meam, & introduxi vos in terram, quam promiſi patribus veſtris, miſi vobis Prophetas in conſolationem. Deinde ex vobis elegi Virginem mihi, ex qua ſuſcepi humanitatem. Nunc autem conquæror ſuper vos, quia adhuc non vultis credere, dicentes. Nondum venit Chriſtus, ſed adhuc venturus eſt. Ad quartum vero, ideſt ad gentilem ait Dominus. Ego creaui te, & redemi ſicut Chriſtianum, & omnia bona feci propter te, tu autem es quaſi homo amens, quia neſcis quid facis, quaſi homo cæcus, quia neſcis quo vadis. Colis enim creaturam pro Creatore, falſum pro vero, & curuas genu tuum ante inferiorem tuum. Ideo conquæror ſuper te. Ad quintum autem ait. Procede amice vicinius; & ſtatim ait ad cæleſtem exercitum. Amici dilecti, ego habeo vnum amicum per quem intelligo plures. Ipſe eſt quaſi homo incluſus inter malos, & captiuatus duriter. Si loquitur vera ipſi lapidant os eius. Si facit bona, lanceam mittunt in pectus eius. Ecce amici mei, & omnes Sancti, quamdiu patiar iſtos, & quamdiu ſufferam talem contemptum. Reſpondit ſanctus Ioannes Baptiſta. Tu es quaſi ſpeculum mundiſſimum. In te enim quaſi in ſpeculo videmus omnia ſine verbo, & ſcimus. Tu es dulcedo incomparabilis, in qua omne bonum ſapit nobis. Tu es quaſi gladius acutiſſimus, qui iudicas in æquitate. Tunc reſpondit ei Dominus. Vere amice mi tu dicis verum, in me enim electi mei vident omne bonum

3 & omnem iuſtitiam, 3 & etiam ſpiritus ma
ligni, licet non in luce, ſed in conſcientia ſua. Sicut enim homo poſitus in carcere, qui prius didicerat litteras, qui licet in tenebris ſit, nihilominus ſcit ea, quæ didi-cit quamuis non videat. Sic dæmones quãuis non videant iuſtitiam meam in luce claritatis meæ, tamen ſciunt, & vident in con ſcientia ſua. Ego etiam ſum quaſi gladius, qui diuidit duo, ſic ego vnicuique do ſicut meretur. Deinde ſubiungens Dominus ait ad beatum Petrum. Tu es fundator fidei, & Eccleſiæ meæ. Dic audiente exercitu meo iuſtitiam de his quinque viris. Reſpon dit Petrus. Laus, & honor ſit tibi Domine pro charitate tua, quam facis cum terra tua. Benedictus ſis tu ab omni exercitu tuo, quia facis nos videre, & ſcire in te om nia, quæ facta ſunt, & futura ſunt, in te enim omnia videmus, & ſcimus. Hæc eſt autem vera iuſtitia, vt primus, qui ſedet in ſede tua, & opera habet Luciferi, amittat cum contemptu ſedem, in qua præſumpſit ſedere, & particeps ſit pœnæ Luciferi. De ſecundo eſt iuſtitia, vt qui receſſit a fide tua deſcendat ad infernum, capite inferius, & pedibus ſurſum, quia contempſit te, qui de-beres eſſe caput ſuum, & ſeipſum dilexit.
De tertio eſt iuſtitia, vt non videat faciem tuam, ſed & puniatur iuxta malitiam, & cupiditatem ſuam, quia perfidi non meren tur videre viſionem tuam. De quarto eſt iuſtitia, vt ſicut homo amens recludatur, & in locis tenebroſis deputetur. De quinto eſt iuſtitia, vt ei mittatur auxilium. Quibus auditis reſpondit Dominus. Iuro per Deum Patrem, cuius vocem Ioannes Bapti ſta in Iordane audiuit. Iuro per corpus, quod Ioannes in Iordane baptizauit, vidit, & attrectauit. Iuro per ſpiritum, qui in co-lumbæ ſpecie in Iordane apparuit, quod fa ciam iuſtitiam ſuper iſtos quinque. Tunc de inde addens Dominus, dixit ad primum ho minẽ de ſupradictis quinque. Gladius meæ ſeueritatis in corpus tuum intrabit, qui a ſuperiori capitis ingredietur, & ſic profunde, & valenter infigetur, vt nunquam extra hatur. Sedes tua demergetur quaſi lapis põderoſus, qui non ſubſiſtat antequam venerit in nouiſſimũ profundi. Digiti, ideſt aſſeſſores ardebunt igne ſulphureo, & inextin-guibili. Brachia tua, ideſt vicarij, qui ad ani marum profectum extendi deberent, ſed extenduntur ad vtilitatem mundi, & honorẽ, iudicabuntur pœna, quam dicit Dauid. Fiãt filij eius orphani, & vxor eius vidua, & alié ni recipient ſubſtantiam eius. Quæ eſt vxor eius niſi anima? quæ relinquetur a gloria

2 In me enim electi mei vident omne bonum, & omnem iustitiam.

Ad veram horum verborum intelligentiam, animadvertendum est nullum intellectum creatum videntem Deum per essentiam, in ea videre omnem iustitiam. & omne bonum, quod manat, vel manare potest ab ipso, & multo minus omnia, vel quæ ipse facit, & facere potest, vt probat D. Thom. lib. 3. contra gentes cap. 56 & in 4. sent d 49. q. 2. & 1. p. q. 12 art. 8. quem sequuntur D. Bonaventura, Marsilius, & alij plures grauissimi viri in 4. dist. 49. Cuius rei ratio esse potest, quandoquidem nullus creatus intellectus potest Deum comprehendere, tum quia cum ex sacris litteris constet, nec Angelos in verbo videre omnia mysteria gratiæ, quanto magis verum hoc erit de cæteris beatis inferioris ordinis; scribitur enim Isaiæ 63. Quis est iste qui venit de Edom tinctis vestibus? & psalm. 23. Quis est iste Rex gloriæ? ex quibus testimonijs sancti Patres colligunt Angelos interrogasse de quibusdam mysterijs spectantibus ad Christum dominum, & humani generis reparationem, quæ ipsi ignorabant; sic D. Ambr. lib de Instit. Virg cap. 5. D. Dionysius cap. 7 cælestis Hierarch D. Hieron. super Isaiam loc. cit: Cum ergo hoc verissimum sit, dicendum est cum legimus hic, quod sancti vident omne bonum in Deo, quod illud quilibet Beatus in verbo videat, quod ad eum perfecte Beatum constituendum sufficit, quodque eius rationabile, & iustum desiderium saties, & hoc est diuina essentia, quæ est omne bonum, in qua tanquam in speculo relucent omnia bona, cuius visio pro vnius cuiusque dignitate ac merito communicatur: vnusquisque, tamen ad illius visionem est perfecte Beatus, vt egregie explicauit D. Greg. Nazianz. in orat. de pauperibus amandis: Vt, inquit, sunt variæ viuendi rationes, ita multæ sunt apud Deum sedes pro sua cuique dignitate distributæ, & clarius idem docuit D. Prosper lib. 1. de vita contemplatiua cap. 4 his verbis: Sicut corporalis saturitas omnes saturos æqualiter habet quamuis singuli cælum non æqualiter, sed pro possibilitate perceperint; ita omnes Sancti si fuerint aliqua gradnum diuersitate distincti, vna beatitudine perfecti sunt & vna perfectione Beati: qua de re legendi sunt Diuus Gregorius libro 4. Moralium c. 3. & Lyran. & alij explicantes illa verba Ioan. 14. In domo Patris mei mansiones multæ sunt.

3 Et etiam spiritus maligni, licet non in luce, sed in conscientia sua.

Hoc loco de naturali cognitione dæmonum sermo sit, quam per peccatum non amiserunt, vt tradit D. Dionysius ca. 4. de diuinis nominibus, & per hanc sicut homines per sua naturalia ex creaturis ad Dei cognitionem perueniunt; ita quoque dæmones possunt ad eandem sic peruenire, & hoc duplici via, vel per species intelligibiles, quas habet omnium effectuum creatorum, vt patet ex Paulo Ro. 1 Inuisibilia Dei per ea quæ facta sunt intellecta conspiciuntur &c. aut etiam per essentiam propriam concurrentem ad hanc cognitionem, non solum per modum effectus representantis suam causam, sed etiam per modum similitudinis, sic probat Ferrariensis lib. 2 contra gentes cap. 98. Capreolus in 2. d. 1. q. 2. ad primum argumentum Scoti. Caietanus super primam partem S. Thomæ q. 56. art. 1. Verum dæmones non sic dicuntur Dei essentiam videre, quoniam nulla similitudo creata potest inueniri sufficiens ad eam perfectam representandam, vt auctor est D. Thomas 1. p q. 12. art. 2. & hoc est, quod legimus hoc loco dæmones videre Deum in conscientia sua, nimirum in natura sua, in qua impressa existit similitudo Dei, non vero in luce, quia non est similis visioni Beatorum, quæ illis per lumen gloriæ communicatur: Vnde recte Diuus Thomas 1. p q. 56. art. 3. comparat hanc dæmonum visionem ei quæ fit per speculum, in quo rei tantummodo similitudo conspicitur non ipsamet res.

VERBA EXHORTATIONIS Virginis ad Sponsam, qualiter filium suum debeat diligere super omnia, & qualiter in Virgine gloriosa omnes virtutes, & gratiæ includuntur.

CAP. XLII.

MAter loquebatur. Ego habui tria, quibus placui filio meo: Humilitatem, vt nulla creatura, nec Angelis, nec homo esset me humilior. Secundo habui obedientiam, quia studui obedire filio meo in omnibus. Tertio habui præcipuam charitatem. Ideo tripliciter honorata sum a filio meo. Nam primo facta sum Angelis, & hominibus honora-norabilior, ita vt nulla sit virtus in Deo, quæ non fulgeat in me, licet ipse sit fons, & omnium Creator. Ego autem sum creatura eius, cui gratiam suam concessit præ cæteris. Secundo pro obedientia tantam potestatem obtinui, quod nullus tam immundus peccator est, si ad me cum emendationis proposito conuertitur, & cum corde contrito, quod non habebit veniam.

3 Tertio pro charitate sic appropinquat Deus mihi, quod qui videt Deum, videt me, & qui videt me, deitatem, & humanitatem videre potest in me quasi in speculo, & me in Deo. Quicunque enim videt Deũ videt in eo tres personas. Et quicunque videt me, videt quasi tres personas. Nam deitas concluſit me in se cum anima, & corpore, & impleuit me omni virtute, vt non sit virtus in Deo, quæ non splendeat in me quamuis ipse Deus est Pater, & dator omnium virtutum. Sicut enim duo corpora insimul coniuncta, quicquid vnum receperit hoc recipit aliud. Sic fecit mihi Deus. Nam non est dulcedo, quæ non est in me. Quemadmodum aliquis habens nucleum, & partem alteri communicat. Anima, & corpus meum puriora sunt sole, & mundiora speculo. 3 Vnde sicut in speculo viderentur tres personæ si astarent, sic in puritate mea videri potest, Pater & Filius, & Spiritus sanctus. Ego enim habui filium in vtero meo cum deitate. Nunc ipse videtur in me cum deitate, & humanitate quasi in speculo, quia glorificata sum. Ergo sponsa filij mei, stude sequi humilitatem meam, & nihil diligas nisi filium meum.

ipsius Christi, tunc secundum diuinitatem, & humanitatem realiter existentis in ea, & hæc interpretatio aperte colligi potest ex contextu paulo ante medium huius capitis ibi, Qui videt me deitatem, & humanitatem videre potest, & circa finem ex illis verbis, sicut in speculo viderentur tres personæ, si astarent, sic in puritate mea videri potest Pater Filius, & Spiritus sanctus, ego enim habui filium meum in vtero meo cum deitate.

2 Tertio pro charitate, sic appropinquat Deus mihi, quod qui videt Deum videt me, & qui videt mẽ deitatem, & humanitatem videre potest.

4 Ad horum verborum intelligentiam sciendum est, quod præter cæteros modos, quibus Deus est in creaturis, quos hoc eodem cap. nota 3. attulimus, quidam alius inuenitur, qui tantummodo rationalibus competit creaturis, quo Deus esse dicitur in illis sicut cognitum in cognoscente, & amatum in amante, & quia cognoscendo, & amando rationalis creatura operatione sua attingit ad ipsum Deum, ideo secundum hunc specialem modum Deus non solum esse dicitur in creatura, sed & habitare in ea, sicut in templo, vnde Apostolus hac de causa nos templum Dei appellat 1. Cor. 3. nescitis, quia templum Dei estis, & Spiritus Dei habitat in vobis, & infrà eadem Epist. templum enim Dei sanctum est, quod estis vos, his positis, quis non videat cum Maria diuinæ scientiæ, & charitatis dono cæteros antecesserit peculiari quadam ratione in ea singulariter habitasse Deum, vt hoc loco merito dicat, quod Deus, sic ei per charitatem vicinus erat, quod qui Deum videt, eam videt, & è contra, qui Mariam videt, Deum videt, verissimum namque est, quod 1. Io. 4. legitur, qui manet in charitate in Deo manet, & Deus in eo, aut etiam dicendum est, quod cum in Deo omnium creaturarum Ideæ, ac similitudines existant singulari quodam modo, sicut inter puras creaturas Mariæ erat nobilissima, sic excellentiori quodam modo in essentia diuina fulgere, & in Patria Beati essentiam diuinam videndo, Mariam videre, cuius visione summopere lætantur, & gaudent, ideo hic dicit, qui Deum videt, me videt, cui vero sequitur, qui videt me, videt deitatem hoc apertissimum est, quandoquidem cum Deus ad imaginem suam, ac similitudinem creasset hominẽ, certè hoc etiam singulariter concessisse Virgini credendũ est, per quod ipsamet Deitas, secundum hanc imaginem in Maria videri poterat, quod etiam alia via patere potest, si enim verum est, quod quidam grauissimi viri affirmarunt, in iustificatione non solum dari Dona charitatis, & gratiæ, sed ipsammet personam Spiritus sancti secundum substantiam, cui sententiæ fauere videtur D. Thomas 1. par. q. 93. art. 3. & insinuat D. Leo serm. de Pentecost. his verbis Spiritus sanctus, datur non solum secundum virtutem, & operationem, sed etiam secundum præsentiam maiestatis, & D. August. tract. 74. in Ioan. & lib. 15. de Trinit. cap. 26. quomodo inquit Deus, non est, qui dat Deum, idem indicat Ambros. lib. 1. de

NOTAE.

1 ITa vt nulla sit virtus in Deo, quæ non fulgeat in me.

Hoc loco Beatissima Virgo asserit cunctas virtutes, quæ in Deo sunt in ea fulgere, quod esse intelligendum arbitror, non de quacunque virtute, ac perfectione absolute, sed de perfectione communicabili puræ creaturæ, qua in re, & Angelos, & homines, cæteraſque creaturas præstitit, vt scribitur circa medium præsentis capitis ibi, cui Deus gratiã suam præ cæteris concessit, & ideo ab Angelo his verbis merito salutata est (Aue gratia plena) quod exponens D. Hieron. serm. de Assumpt. bene plena est, quia cæteris per partes præstatur gratia Mariæ vero simul se tota infudit gratiæ plenitudo: aut etiã dicendum est verba præsentis notæ intelligi de Virgine pro tempore, quo Christum gestabat in vtero, tunc enim sicut in eo Christum habebat, in quo erat plenitudo diuinitatis corporaliter, vt dixit Apostolus ad Coloss. 2. sic in Maria splendere poterant virtutes omnes per quandam refulgentiam, quæ erant

1. de Spiritu ſancto cap. 4. ſequitur hanc ſent. Magiſter, & plures ex ſcholaſticis in 1. ſent. d. 14. & patet ex illo Rom. 5. charitas Dei diffuſa eſt in cordibus noſtris per Spiritum ſanctum, qui datus eſt nobis, & Paulus diſtinguit inter ipſum donum charitatis, & perſonam Spiritus ſancti, quæ datur nobis: quæ ſententia, ſi vera eſt, vt veriſſimam eſſe cenſeo, etiam verum erit, quod hoc loco legimus quod qui Mariam videt, poteſt & ipſammet deitatem videre in ea per effectus ſaltem, qui manabant à Virgine virtute deitatis latentis in ea, aut etiam hæc vera ſunt de Virgine habente in vtero Chriſtum, in quo erant diuinitas, & humanitas hypoſtatice vnita.

8 Vnde ſicut in ſpeculo viderentur tres perſonæ ſi aſſarent, ſic in puritate mea videri poteſt Pater Filius & Spiritus ſanctus.

Hic textus anſam præbet, vt quæramus an in Chriſti Domini humanitate, & in vtero Beatiſſ. Virg. peculiari aliqua ratione fuerit tota Trinitas, & quidem primo certum eſt, ibi tres perſonas adfuiſſe ſecundum communem modum, quo dicere ſolemus Deum eſſe vbique, per eſſentiam, præſentiam, & potentiam. Secundo etiam dicendum eſt Trinitatem fuiſſe in Chriſti humanitate, ac etiam in vtero Virginis per identitatem, ac circunſeſſionem, quod probari poteſt ex illo ad Coloſſenſes 2. vbi Paulus Apoſtolus affirmat in Chriſto habitaſſe plenitudinem diuinitatis corporaliter; tertio quoque poſſumus aſſerere vtrobique fuiſſe Trinitatem iuxta triplicem modum allatum a D. Thoma 1. par. quæſt. 42. art. 3. & 4. vbi docet vnam perſonam eſſe in alia ratione eſſentiæ, relationis, & originis. Poſtremo etiam dici poteſt ratione immanentiæ, ſecundum quem modum Ioan. 10. 12. & 14. legimus vnam perſonam diuinam eſſe in alia, idem annotarunt plures ex ſanctis Patribus D. Dionyſius 2. de diuinis nominibus, D Baſil. Hom. 24. Cyrillus lib. 3. Theſauri cap. 1. Hilarius lib. 3. & 7. de Trinit. Magiſter ſent. in 1. d. 19. D. Auguſtinus de fide ad Petrum cap. 1. atque in hunc ſenſum interpretanda ſunt verba præſentis notæ, cum dicitur, quod in Maria videri poterat Pater Filius & Spiritus ſanctus, qua de re etiam egimus lib. 2. Reuelat. cap. 13. nota 1. ſi quis autem quærat an ratione Incarnationis dicendæ ſint omnes tres extitiſſe in vtero Virginis, reſpondendum eſt, quod ſi ſumatur incarnatio, prout dicit præciſe rationem terminandi, ac ſuſtentandi naturam humanam, tunc in vtero Virginis, ſecundum tantummodo fuiſſe perſonam, verbum enim ſolus carnem aſſumpſit, & humanam naturam ſuſtentauit, ac terminauit, ſecus vero dicendum eſt ſi ſumatur Incarnatio, vt dicit actum aſſumentis, qui actus procedens ex diuina virtute communis eſt tribus perſonis, & tres perſonæ fecerunt, vt humana natura vniretur ſecundæ perſonæ diuinæ, quod etiã explicauimus ſupra hoc eodem lib. cap. 38. nota 1.

VERBA FILII AD Sponſam, qualiter ex modico bono homo aſcendit ad perfectum bonum & ex modico malo deſcendit ad ſummum ſupplicium.

CAP. XLIII.

FILIVS Dei loquebatur. Ex modico bono oritur quandoque magna merces. Dactilus mirifici odoris eſt, & in fructu eius lapis, Si ponitur in pingui terra pingueſcit, & fructificat, & creſcit in magnam arborem. Si autem ponitur in arida terra areſcit. Arida eſt nimis terra illa a bono, quæ delectatur in peccato. In qua ſi ſemen virtutum ſeritur nõ pingueſcit. Pinguis autem eſt terra mentis illius, qui cognoſcit peccatum, & gemit ſe peccaſſe. In qua ſi ponitur lapis dactili, ideſt ſeritur ſeueritas iudicij mei, & potentiæ meæ, rádicatur tribus in mente radicibus. Primo cogitat ſe nihil poſſe facere ſine auxilio meo; ideo aperit os ſuam ad rogandum me. Secundo incipit etiam modicam dare eleemoſynam pro nomine meo. 1 Tertiò exoccupat ſe a negocijs
1 var. lect. ſuis ad ſeruiendum mihi: 2 Deinde incipit
2 var. lect. abſtinere in ieiunio, & in abdicatione voluntatis proprie, & hoc eſt corpus arboris. Poſtea creſcunt charitatis rami, quando trahit omnes quos poteſt ad bonum. Deinde creſcit fructus; quando etiam alios docet inquantum ſcit, & tota deuotione intendit, quomodo honorem meum poſſit ampliare. Talis fructus mihi ſumme placet. Sic igitur ex modico aſcendit ad perfectum. Quando primo radicatur per modicam deuotionem, creſcit corpus per abſtinentiam. Multiplicantur rami per charitatem. Pingueſcit fructus per prædicationem. Simili modo per modicum malum deſcendit homo ad ſummam maledictionem, & ſummum ſupplicium. Nunquid ſcis quid eſt onus grauiſſimum de his, quæ creſcunt? Certe hoc eſt infans, qui venit ad partum, & non poteſt naſci, ſed intra viſcera matris moritur, & ex hoc etiam mater rumpitur, & moritur, quam pater cum filio defert ad ſepulchrum & cum putredine ſepelit. Sic diabolus facit animę. Anima quippe vitioſa eſt quaſi 1 vxor diaboli, cuius in omnibus ſequitur voluntatem, quæ nunc concipit ex diabolo, quando peccatum placet ei, & gaudet in eo. Sicut enim mater ex modico ſemine, quod non est nisi putredo concipit, & fructificat, sic & anima cum delectatur in peccato, facit magnum fructum diabolo. Inde formantur membra, & robur corporis, quando peccatum super peccatum additur, & quotidie augmentatur. Augmentatis itaque peccatis, mater intumescit, volens parere, sed non valet. Quia consumpta natura in peccato, tædio habetur vita, & libenter vellet plus peccare, sed non potest, nec permittitur a Domino. Tunc adest timor, quod non potest voluntatem suam perficere, abest fortitudo, & lætitia. Undique est dolor, & sollicitudo. Tunc rumpitur venter, quando desperat se posse facere bona. Tunc quoque moritur, quando blasphemat iudicium Dei, & reprehendit, & sic ducitur a diabolo patre ad sepulchrum inferni, vbi cum putredine peccati, & filio delectationis praue, sepelitur sine fine. Ecce quomodo ex modico augetur peccatum, & crescit ad damnationem.

NOTAE.

VERBA CREATORIS ad sponsam, qualiter nunc despicitur, & vituperatur ab hominibus, non attendentibus quid fecerit ex charitate monendo in prophetis, & etiam patiendo pro ipsis, nec curantibus de eius ira, quam contra obstipatos exercuit crudeliter corrigendo.

CAP. XLIV.

EGO sum Creator omnium, & Dominus. Ego feci mundum, & mundus spreuit me. Ego audio de mundo vocem quasi apis maioris, qui in terra congregat mel. Nam sicut apis maior cum volat, statim ad terram se iterum deprimit, & nimis raucam vocem emittit, sic in mundo nunc audio vocem illam raucam dicentem. Non curo quid sequitur post hæc. Omnes quippe iam clamant, non curo. Vere homo non attendit, nec curat quid feci ex charitate, monendo in Prophetis, prædicando per me ipsum, patiendo pro ipsis. Non curat quid feci in ira mea, corripiendo malos, & inobedientes. Vident se mortales, & incertos de morte, & non curant. Audiunt, & vident iustitiam meam, quam æternaliter propter peccata in Pharaone, & Sodomitis, quam feci in Regibus, & alijs Principibus, quam permitto quotidie fieri in gladio, & alijs tribulationibus, & hæc sunt eis quasi cæca omnia. Ideo sicut apes maiores volant ad quodcunque volunt. Volant quippe quandoque quasi saltando, quia superbia sua se eleuant, sed deprimunt se citius, quando ad luxuriam, & gulam suam reuertuntur. Congregant etiam dulcedinem, sed sibi ipsis & in terra, quia homo laborat, & congregat ad vtilitatem corporis non animæ, & ad honorem terrenum non æternum. Vertunt sibi temporale in pœnam illud, quod ad nihilum est vtile in supplicium sempiternum. Ideo propter preces matris meæ, mittam apibus istis a quibus exempti sunt amici mei, qui non sunt in mundo, nisi corpore, vocem meam claram, quæ prædicabit misericordiam, quam si audierint, saluabuntur.

RESPONSIO MATRIS Angelorum, Prophetarum, Apostolorum, & dæmoniorum ad Deum, præsente sponsa, testificando eius magnificentiam in creatione, & incarnatione, & redemptione, & qualiter nunc homines omnibus istis contradicunt, & de seuero eorum iudicio.

CAP. XLV.

MATER Dei loquebatur. Vesti te sponsa filij mei, & sta stabilis, quia appropiquat tibi filius meus. Caro eius fuit præsa quasi in torculari. Sicut enim in omnibus membris homo deliquit, sic ipse filius meus in omnibus satisfecit. Crines filij mei erant extensi, nerui distenti, iunctura extracte de compagibus, ossa laniata, manus, & pedes confixi, mea turbabatur, cor dolore afficiebatur. Intestina ad dorsum contrahebantur, quia in omnibus membris peccauit homo. Deinde loquebatur filius astante cælesti exercitu, & ait.

dixit. Licet omnia scitis in me, tamen propter istam spōsam meam, quæ adstat loquor. Quæro à vobis, Angeli dicite mihi, quid est hoc, quod fuit sine principio, & sine fine? Et quid est hoc, quod omnia creauit, & a nullo creatum est? Dicite, & perhibete testimonium. Respōderunt Angeli quasi una voce dicentes. Domine tu es ille. Perhibemus enim tibi testimonium de tribus. Primo, quod tu es Creator noster, & omnium, quæ sunt in cælo, & in terra. Secundo, quod tu es sine principio, & eris sine fine, dominatio tua, & potestas tua in æternum. Sine te enim nihil factum est, & sine 2 te nihil fieri potest. 2 Tertio testificamur, quod omnem iustitiam, & omnia, quæ facta sunt, & futura sunt videmus in te, & omnia sunt in tua præsentia sine principio, & sine fine. Deinde dixit ad Prophetas, & Patriarchas. Quæro a vobis. Quis adduxit vos de seruitute in libertatem? Quis diuisit coram vobis aquam? Quis dedit vobis legem? Quis dedit vobis Prophetia spiritum loquendi? Respōderunt ei. Tu Domine. Tu eduxisti nos de seruitute. Tu dedisti legem. Tu suscitasti spiritum nostrum ad loquendum. Deinde ait ad Matrem. Dic testimonium veritatis, quod scis de me? Respondit illa. Antequam Angelus missus a te veniret ad me, fui sola cum corpore, & anima. Dicto autem verbo Angeli, corpus tuum fuit in me cum deitate, & humanitate, & sensi in meo corpore corpus tuum. Ego portaui te sine dolore, peperi sine angustia. Ego inuolui te pannis, paui te lacte meo, ego fui tecum a natiuitate vsque ad mortem. Deinde ad Apostolos ait dicens. Dicite quis est ille quem vidistis, audistis, & sensistis? Respōderunt illi. Nos audiuimus verba tua, & scripsimus ea, nos audiuimus magnalia tua cum dedisti nouam legem. Cum verbo præcepisti dæmonibus, & exierunt. Cum verbo suscitasti mortuos, & sanasti infirmos. Nos vidimus te in humano corpore. Nos vidimus magnalia tua in diuina gloria in humanitate. Nos vidimus te traditum inimicis, & pendere in ligno. Nos vidimus in te passionem amarissimam, & in sepulchro positum. Nos sensimus te 3 cum resurrexisti. 3 Attrectauimus crines var. tuos, & faciem tuam. Attrectauimus loca lect. vulnerum tuorum, & membra tua. Tu cognouisti nobiscum, & dabas eloquia tua. Tu vere es filius Dei, & filius Virginis. Sensimus etiam cum ascendisti ad dexteram patris cum humanitate, vbi es sine fine. Deinde dixit Deus ad spiritus immundos, licet in conscientia vestra cœcus veritatem, præcipio tamen vobis dicere, quis iniquit peccatorem vestram? Respōderūt ei. Sicut fures nisi duro ligno figantur pedes eorū, non dicūt veritatē, sic nec nos nisi coacti diuina, & terribili potentia tua, non diceremus veritatem. 4 Tu es, qui ad infernum cum fortitudine tua descendisti. Tu minuisti potestatem nostram in mundo. 5 Tu ius tuum de inferno suscepisti. Tunc ait Dominus. Ecce omnes, qui habent spiritum, & non vestiuntur corpore, perhibent mihi testimonium veritatis, qui autem habent spiritum, & corpus, scilicet homines contradicunt mihi. Quidam autem sciunt, sed non curant. Alij nesciunt, ideo non curant, sed dicunt omnia esse falsa. Iterum ait ad Angelos. Ipsi dicunt testimonium vestrum esse falsum, quod non sum creator, nec omnia sciuntur in me. Ideo diligunt magis creaturam quam me. Ad Prophetas autem ait. Vobis contradicunt, dicentes legem esse vanitatem. Fortitudine vestra vos estis liberatos, & solertia. Spiritum fuisse falsum, & vos propria voluntate locutos esse. Ad Matrem autem ait. Aliqui dicunt te non esse Virginem. Alij me non sumpsisse corpus de te. Alij sciunt, sed non curant. Ad Apostolos autem ait. Vobis contradicunt, quia dicunt vos esse mendaces, legem nouam ad nihil vtilem, & sine ratione. Alij sunt, qui credunt esse verum, sed non curāt. Nunc igitur quæro à vobis, Quis erit iudex istorum. Respōderunt ei omnes. Tu Deus qui es sine principio, & sine fine. Tu Iesu Christe, qui es cum Patre, tibi datum est iudicium a patre, tu es iudex istorum. Respondit Dominus. Ego qui conquærebar super eos, nunc sum iudex eorum, sed licet omnia possim, & nouerim, tamen vos date iudicium vestrū super eos. Respōderunt ei. Sicut totus mundus in principio mundi aquis diluuij periit, sic nunc dignus est mundus igne perire, quia abundat nunc magis iniquitas, & iniustitia, quam tunc. Respondit Dominus. Quia sum iustus, & misericors, nec iudicium facio sine misericordia, nec misericordiam sine iustitia. Ideo adhuc semel propter preces Matris meæ, & sanctorum meorum mittam mundo misericordiam meam. Si autem noluerint audire, tanto seuerior sequetur iustitia.

NOTAE.

1 MEns turbabatur, cor dolore afficiebatur.

Redemptor noster Christus, vt suscepta carnis veritatem probaret, quosdam corporis defectus assumpsit, vt famem, sitim, & si qua sunt huiusmodi, vsque etiam mortem assumpsisse enim ostenderet, deret, eiusdem quoque passiones, & affectiones susceperit, vt tristitiam, timorem, dolorem, eas tamen, quæ imperfectionem aliquam importabant sicut ignorantia, & alia huiusmodi nullatenus decebat enim habere, quandoquidem ipse Deus erat, & homo perfectissimus, & ad perfectionis sobolem aperiendam, & legis Euangelicæ doctrina populos imbuendos venerat, cum autem scribitur hic, quod eius mens turbabatur, & cor dolore afficiebatur, non est intelligendum de timore, vel tristitia, quibus ratio a Dei contemplatione, ac rectitudine mouebatur, nam potentiæ eius sic perfectæ rationi subeuant, vt nec tantillum quidem a recto dictamine flectere possent, dicendum ergo nobis est, quod cum hoc loco legimus, mentem eius turbatam esse, intelligendum quantum ad humanæ rationis affectum, vel inferiorem portionem, qua & mortem timebat, & mori fugiebat secundùm illud Lucæ 22. & Matt. 26. Pater si possibile est transeat a me calix iste, affectu tamen rationis superioris conformabatur diuinæ voluntati, & pati, & mori volebat, ideo dicebat non mea, sed tua voluntas fiat, & in eodem sensu interpretanda sunt ea verba Psalmi sexti: Anima mea turbata est, si de Christo intelliguntur, ibi enim anima sumitur pro parte sensitiua, cui passiones insunt, sed hac de re vide plura hoc eodem libro cap. 39. nota 3.

Explicauimus supra hoc eodem lib. cap. 42. nota secunda, quæ nam Beati in Patria in verbo videant, nunc autem quia scribitur hic, quod omnia Deo præsentia sunt expediret, vt traderemus modum, quo id intelligendum sit, sed quoniam hoc Sobolaslicorum Doctorum negotium est, sat erit in præsentia nosse, creaturas omnes Deo esse præsentes, vel secundum modum essendi, quem habent in essentia diuina, in qua sunt eminenter, & virtualiter, aut etiam secundum realem existentiam, & illud esse, quod habent extra suas causas, si productæ sunt, vel habituræ si producentur, sicq. cognoscit a Deo, quantum ad eorum realem existentiam, quia sic coexistunt æternitati, sic docet Diuus Thomas 1. par. quæst. 14. art. 13. & hoc colligitur ex D. Augustino super illud Psalm. 49. pulchritudo agri mecum est, & serm. 11. de verbis Apostoli, & lib. 11. de ciuitate cap. 21. & fatere videntur Boetius 3. de Trinitate prosa vltima, & Magister in primo distinct. 35. sequuntur hanc sententiam D. Thomas, Ferariensis primo, contra gentes cap. 67. Capreolus in primo distinct. 38. quæst. vnica art. 2. Cardinalis Caietanus super sanctum Thomam loco citato, cæterum vt hæc manifestiora fiant sciendum est res creatas dupliciter considerari posse, primo modo secundum esse virtuale suæ causæ, secundum quod dicuntur in sua causa præexistere, a qua pendent tanquam a suo principio productiuo, & conservatiuo, secundum quem sensum D. Dionysius de diuinis nominibus cap. quinto, affirmat Deum omnia existentia omnia præhabere, & D. Anselmus in Monolog. cap. 36. dicit, quod res verius sunt in Deo, quam in se ipsis, cuius dicti ratio esse potest, quia potentiæ productiua, & conservatiua in diuinis non distinguitur ab essentia eius: esse autem diuinum verius est, & perfectius, quam esse creatum, & ideo creaturæ verius sunt in Deo, quam in propria natura, si vere ille considerentur formaliter, & secundum esse suum proprium sui generis, sic esse in Deo dicuntur, quia in eius scientia sunt, & potentia, scit enim Deus eas, & producit, & productæ potest destruere, vere dicuntur esse propriè in essentia sic, quia creatura secundum genus suum considerata, eius est idem, quod diuinæ essentiæ, quod declarat D. Augustinus lib. septimo confessionum cap. 11. creaturæ inquit sunt, & non sunt, sunt quia a Deo sunt, non sunt, quia quod ipse est, non sunt, id enim vere est, quod incommutabiliter manet.

3 Attrectauimus crines tuos.

4 Tu es qui ad infernum cum fortitudine tua descendisti.

Si de Christi Domini descensu ad inferos tractemus, dicendum est, Animam eius ad infernum damnatorum non descendisse nisi per aliquem effectum, in quantum ibi existentes de eorum delictis, ac infidelitate redarguit, & conuincuit, sic enim docet D. Damascen. lib. 3. de fide cap. 29. quod inquit, sicut his, qui in terra sunt Euangelizauit, ita & his, qui in inferno non quidem, vt inde illos ad fidem conuerteret, sed vt eorum infidelitatem confunderet, idem docuit D. Thomas, & Caietanus 3. par. quæst. 52. art. 2. per essentiam vero secundum animam Saluator noster descendit ad locum inferni, in quo isti detinebantur, sic tradunt D. Thomas loco citato, & in tertio sentent. dist. 22. & ibidem D. Bonauent. Ricardus, Gabriel, Palud. & Marsilius quæst 13. rationem autem reddit D. Thomas, vbi supra cum dicit, vt eos secundum animam visitaret, quos secundum diuinitatem per gratiam visitabat. Cæterum non defuerunt, qui opinati sunt, etiam Christum secundum animam descendisse ad infernum damnatorum, sic Cardinalis Bellarminus lib. 4. de anima Christi cap. 16. probabilior tamen sententia est, non descendisse ibi, nisi secundum effectum, vt egregie annotauit Franciscus Suarez in tertiam partem D. Thomæ q. 52. disp. 43. sect. 4. vbi respondens Arg. Card. Bellarmini asserit hanc opinionem communiter ab omnibus esse receptam, & probatur ex eo, quod Christus nullam occasionem habebat descendendi, sic ad infernum damnatorum, descendit enim ad infernum, tum vt Patres liberaret, qui morabantur in limbo, tum propter se, supposito diuinæ prouidentiæ ordine, vt animam nunquam Christi a corpore separatæ alicubi esse funfuerit, & nullus erat aptior locus limbo, in quo mitteretur, qui deputatus fuerat pro ſanctis animabus vſque ad conſummatam hominum redemptionem, & Chriſti Reſurrectionem, debuit ergo illa anima ibi collocari, donec iterum coniungeretur corpori.

3 Tu ius tuum de inferno ſuſcepiſti.

Verum ſi hoc loco de liberatione Patrum ex limbo vbi detinebantur captiui propter originale peccatum, per quod eis ad cælestem gloriam aditus non patebat; ibique deſcendens Dominus cum paſſione ſua pro illis de rigore iuſtitiæ ſatisfeciſſet, hos liberauit, ſecumque ad cælum traxit, quod quia ſibi de iure ex rigoroſa ſatisfactione competebat, ideo in præſenti capite ius ſuum de inferno ſuſcepiſſe dicitur, immo momordiſſe etiam infernum Oſeæ 13. Mors tua morſus tuus ero inferne, & Paulus ad Coloſſenſes 2. affirmat Chriſtum expoliaſſe Principatus, & poteſtates infernales extrahendo iuſtos ex inferno, eoſque ad ſuam gloriam ſecum deducendo. Quod egregie explicauit Diuus Chryſoſtomus ſermone 3. de Chriſti Domini Aſcenſione nuper a Gerardo Voſſio in lucem edito, notiſque illuſtrato, qui ſermo habetur inter opera D. Gregorij Thaumaturgi in Miſtellaneis, ſic enim habet non longe ab initio. CAP. XLVI.

MARIA loquebatur ad filium ſuum dicens. Benedictus ſis tu, qui es ſine principio, & ſine fine. Tu habuiſti corpus honeſtiſſimum, & decentiſſimum. Tu fuiſti vir ſtrenuiſſimus, & virtuoſiſſimus. 1 Tu fuiſti digniſſima creatura. Reſpondit filius. Verba tua, quæ procedunt de ore tuo ſunt mihi ſuauia, & delectant intima cordis tanquam potus ſuauiſſimus. Tu es mihi præ omni creatura ſuauiſſima. Sicut enim in ſpeculo diuus ſe facies conſiderantur, ſed nulla magis placet, quam propria. Sic ego licet ſanctos meos diligam, te tamen præcipua dilectione diligo, quia de carne tua generatus ſum. Tu es quaſi mitra electa, cuius odor aſcendit ad deitatem, & deduxit eam in corpus tuum. Hic idem odor traxit corpus tuum, & animam in deitatem, vbi nunc es cum corpore, & anima. Benedicta ſis tu, quia ex pulchritudine tua gaudent Angeli. Ex virtute tua omnes, qui inuocant te ſincero cor de liberantur. 2 In luce tua omnes dæmones contremiſcunt, nec audent ad tuum fulgorem ſubſiſtere, quia ſemper volunt eſſe in tenebris. Tu dediſti mihi triplicem laudem, quia dixiſti me habere honeſtiſſimum corpus. Secundo virum ſtrenuiſſimum. Tertio dixiſti me eſſe digniſſimum creaturarum. Sed his tribus contradicunt illi ſolummodo, qui habent corpus, & animam. Dicunt enim me habere corpus inhoneſtum, virum eſſe abiectiſſimum, creaturam viliſſimam. Quid enim eſt inhoneſtius, quam alios prouocare ad peccatum? Sic dicunt corpus meum trahere ad peccatum. Dicunt quippe peccatum non eſſe ſic deforme, vt dicitur, nec tantum diſpliicere Deo. Non enim inquiunt eſſe aliquid niſi Deus vellet, nec aliquid eſt ſine ipſo creatum. Quare ergo non debemus vti his, quæ facta ſunt ad vtilitatem noſtram? Fragilitas naturæ hoc exigit, & ſic omnes ante nos vixerunt, & viuunt. Sic nunc loquuntur mihi homines. Humanitatem autem meam, in qua verus Deus inter homines apparui, quia diſuaſi peccatum, & offendi quam grane eſt. Dicunt inhoneſtatem quaſi ſuaſerim inutilitatem, & inhoneſtatem. Nihil quippe dicunt honeſtum, niſi peccatum, & quod placet voluntati eorum. Dicunt etiam me eſſe virũ turpiſſimum. Quid enim eſt illo turpius, qui cum loquitur veritatem, os eius contunditur, lapidibus in facie ceditur, inſuper & audit opprobrium dicentium, ſi eſſet virilis vindicaret ſe. Sic faciunt mihi. Ego loquor eis per doctores, & ſanctam ſcripturam, ſed dicunt, quod loquor mendacium. Contundunt os meum lapidibus, & pugno, quando faciunt adulterium, homicidium, & mendacium, & dicunt. Si eſſet virilis, ſi eſſet Deus potentiſſimus, vindicaret tranſgreſſionem talem. Ego autem ſuffero per patientiam meam, & audio quotidie eos dicentes. Quia pœna non eſt æterna, nec amara, ſicut dicitur, & iudicant verba mea mendacium eſſe. Tertio iudicant me viliſſimam creaturam. Quid enim abiectius in domo eſt, quã canis, & murilegus, pro quibus qui commutare vellet libenter reciperent equum. Sed homo habet me deteriorem cane, ad hoc enim vt careret cane, nollet me recipere, & antequam careret pelle, potius me abijceret, & abiuraret. Quæ autem res tam modica menti alludens, non ferventius, quam ego cogitatur, & concupiſcitur? Si enim me plus quam aliam creaturam æſtimarent, plus me diligerent, quam alia. Ipſi nihil habent tam modicum, quod non diligant præter me. De omnibus dolent præter de me. Dolent damna propria, & amicorum. Dolent læſionem vnius verbi. Dolent quod offendunt alios homines ſe excellentiores, ſed non dolent, quod offendunt me omniũ Creatorem. Quis homo eſt tam abiectus, quia ſi peteret non audiretur, ſi daret, non retribueretur ei aliquid? Ego autem ſum abiectiſſimus, & viliſſimus in conſpectu eorum, quia me nullius boni reputant dignum, qui omnia bona dedi eis. Ergo Mater mea, quia tu plus de ſapientia mea guſtaſti, & nunquam de ore tuo niſi veritas proceſſit, ſic de ore meo nunquam niſi veritas procedit. Ego excuſabo me in conſpectu omniũ Sanctorum coram primo, qui dixit me corpus habere indecentiſſimum, & probabo me habere veraciter corpus honeſtiſſimum ſiue deformitate, & peccato, & ipſe veniet in opprobrium ſempiternum, quod omnes videbunt. Ille autem qui dicebat mea verba mendacium, & neſcire, vtrum Deus ſim an non. Probabo me eſſe veraciter Deum, & ipſe quaſi lutum defluet in infernum. Tertius autem, qui iudicauit me viliſſimum, ego iudicabo eum ad æternam damnationem, vt nunquam videat gloriam meam, & gaudium meum. Deinde ait ad ſponſam. Sta firmiter in ſeruitio meo, tu veniſti quaſi in quendam murum, in quo clauſa non poteris fugere, nec fodere fundamentum. Suffer ergo voluntarie modicam tribulationem, & ſenties æternam requiem in brachio meo. Tu noſti voluntatem Patris. Tu audis verba filij, & ſentis ſpiritum meum. Tu habes conſolationem, & delectationem in allocutione Matris meæ, & Sanctorum meorum. Ergo ſta firmiter alioquin ſenties iuſtitiam meam, per quam cogeris facere, quæ nunc de te moneo benevole.

Beatiſſima Virgo verba faciens cum Chriſto, eumque ſummis laudibus extollens digniſſimã creaturam, hoc loco illum appellat, quæ loquendi formula, quamquam ex ſanctis Patribus plures vſi ſunt ratione humanæ naturæ, vt Leo Pont ſerm. 3. de Natali, Paſſione, & Pentecoſt. CAP. XLVII.

EGO sum Deus ille, qui olim dicebatur Deus Abraham, & Deus Isaac, & Deus Iacob. Ego sum Deus, qui dedi legē Moysi. Hæc erat quasi vestis. Sicut enim Mater, quæ habet infantem in ventre, præparat vestes puero, sic Deus præparauit legem, quæ non erat nisi vestis, & vmbra, & signa futurorum faciendorum. Ego autem vestiui me, & indui me istis vestibus legis. Deinde sicut crescente puero mutatur habitus antiquus & assumitur nouus, sic ego completa, & deposita veste antiquæ legis, assumpsi nouam vestem, id est nouam legem, & dedi omnibus, qui voluerunt habere vestes mecum. Vestis autem ista non est stricta, vel difficilis, sed vbique moderata. Non enim præcepi nimis ieiunare, vel laborare, vel se occidere, vel aliquid vltra possibilitatem facere, sed proficua est ad animam, & corpus moderandum, & castigandum apta. Corpus enim cum nimium peccato adhæret, 1 ipsum peccatum corpus consumit. In lege ergo noua duo inueniuntur. Primo, discreta temperantia, & rectus vsus omnium rerum animæ, & corporis. Secundo facilitas seruandi legem, quia qui non potest stare in vno, potest in alio. Ibi inuenitur, quod qui non potest esse Virgo, licite potest esse in coniugio. Qui cadit, potest resurgere. Sed ista lex nunc reprobatur, & contemnitur a mundo. Dicunt enim legem ipsam strictam esse grauem, & deformem. Strictam dicunt eam, quia lex præcipit contentari de necessariis, & fugere superflua, ipsi autem volunt habere omnia extra rationem quasi iumenta super vires corporis, ideo stricta est eis? Dicunt eam secundo esse grauem, quia lex dicit voluptatem cum ratione habere, & temporibus constitutis. Sed ipsi volunt suam voluptatē perficere plusquam expedit, & plusquā constitutum est. Tertio dicūt eam esse deformē quia lex iubet diligere humilitatem, & Deo omne bonum ascribere. Ipsi autem volunt de bonis a Deo datis superbire, & se extollere, ideo est eis deformis. Ecce sic contempta est vestis mea. Ego omnia prius compleui, & incepi noua, quia antiqua nimis erant difficilia, vt durarent vsquequo venirem ad iudicium. 2 Sed viliter proiecerunt vestem qua tegitur anima, id est fidem rectam. Insuper & peccatum peccato addūt, quia me volunt etiam prodere. Nunquid Dauid dicit in Psalmo. Qui edebant panem meum, cogitauit aduersum me proditionē? In illis verbis volo te duo notare. Primo quod dicit, quia cogitat, sed cogitauit, quasi iam præteritum est. Secundo quod notat ibi non nisi vnum hominem, qui prodidit. Ego autem dico, quod ipsi sunt proditores mei, qui sunt in præsenti, non qui fuerant, vel futuri sunt, sed qui iam viuunt. Ego etiam dico, quod non solum vnus homo, sed quia multi sunt. Sed tu forte potes quærere a me. Nonne duo sunt panes, vnus inuisibilis, & spiritualis, quo viuunt Angeli, & Sancti. Secundus de terra, quo vescuntur homines? Sed Angeli, & Sancti nihil aliud volunt, nisi iuxta tuam voluntatem, & homines nihil aliud possunt, nisi sicut tibi placuerit. Quomodo ergo possunt te prodere? Respondeo tibi audiente cælesti exercitu meo, qui omnia sciunt, & vident in me, sed propter te, vt scias. Vere duplex est panis, vnus Angelorum, qui comedunt panem meū in regno meo, vt satientur inestabili gloria mea. Ipsi enim non produnt me, quia nihil aliud volunt, nisi sicut ego. Sed illi me produnt, qui comedunt panem meum in altari. Ego vere sum ille panis. In pane illo videntur tria. Figura, sapor, & rotunditas. Ego vero sum panis. Ego nanque sicut panis habeo in me tria, saporem, figuram, & rotunditatem. Saporem, quia sicut sine pane omnis cibus est quasi insipidus, & quasi nullius confortationis, sic sine me omne quodcunque est, est insipidum, & omne infirmum, & vanum. Ego habeo etiam figuram panis, quia de terra sum. Ego enim sum de Matre Virgine, Mater de Adam, Adam de terra. Habeo etiam rotunditatem, vbi non inuenitur finis, nec principiū, quia ego sum sine principio, & sine fine. Nullus potest considerare, vel inuenire finem, vel principium in sapientia mea, potētia, vel charitate. Ego sum intra omnia, super omnia, & extra omnia, etiam si aliquis volaret quasi sagitta sine cessatione in perpetuum, nunquam inueniret finem vel profundum, in potentia, & virtute mea. Propter ista ergo tria scilicet saporem, figuram, & rotunditatem, ego sum panis ille, qui in altari panis videtur, & sentitur, sed in corpus meum, quod crucifixum est conuertitur. 3 Sicut enim aliquid aridum, & dire arsurum, si igni apponeretur, cito consumitur, & nihil remanet de figura lignorum, sed totum est ignis, sic dictis verbis illis, scilicet. Hoc est corpus meum, quod prius fuit panis fit statim corpus meum, nec incenditur sicut ligna igne, sed deitate mea. Ideo qui comedunt panem meum, produnt me. Quæ autem poterit esse abominabilior interfectio, quam illa, vbi aliquis interficit seipsum? Aut quæ deterior proditio, quam vbi duo indissolubili vinculo iuncti, alius alium prodit, vtputa coniuges? Quid autem facit consors cum prodere voluerit consortem? Vere dicit ei sub simulatione. Eamus ad locum illum, vt impleam tecum voluntatem meã. Illa autem in vera simplicitate, parata ad omnem voluntatem consortis, vadit cum eo. Sed cum opportunum tempus, & locum inuenerit, producit contra eam tria instrumenta proditionis. Aut enim habet aliquid ita ponderosum, quod vno ictu interficit eam. Aut ita acutum, quod statim intrat in viscera. Aut aliquid quo suffocatur statim & intercluditur spiritus vitalis. Cum autem mortua fuerit coniux, cogitat proditor apud se. Nunc male feci, si apertum, & publicum erit facinus meum, condemnabor ad mortem, ideo vadit, & ponit corpus illud consortis mortuę in occulto loco, ne detegatur peccatum suum. Sic faciunt mihi, nunc sacerdotes, qui proditores mei sunt. Ipsi enim, & ego vno vinculo ligamur, quando sumunt panem, & proferendo verba faciunt inde corpus meum verum, quod de Virgine sumpsi, 4 hoc non possent oēs Angeli facere, quia sacerdotibus solis illam dignitatem dedi, & ad summos ordines ipsos elegi. Sed ipsi faciunt mihi sicut proditores. Nam ostendunt mihi faciem lætam, & blandam, & ducunt me in occultum locum, vt prodant. Sacerdotes ipsi tunc ostendunt faciem lætam, cum videntur esse boni, & simplices, ducunt me in conclaui cũ procedunt ad altare. Tunc ego paratus sum quasi sponsa, vel sponsus, facere omnem voluntatem eorum, sed ipsi produnt me. Primo adhibent mihi ponderosum, quando diuinũ officium, quod dicunt mihi, est eis oneroſum, & graue. Magis enim loquuntur centum verba pro mundo, quam pro honore meo vnum. Magis darent centum marchas auri pro mundo, quam vnum denarium pro me. Magis centies laborarẽt pro propria vtilitate, & mundi, quam semel pro honore meo. Hoc onere deprimant me, quasi mortuum sua a cordibus eorum. Secundo pungunt me quasi acuto ferro, quod intrat in viscera, quando sacerdos accedit ad altare, cognoscit se peccasse, & pœnitet, habens firmam voluntatem peccandi iterum peracto officio, cogitando secum. Bene pœniteo de peccato, sed non relinquam illam, a me cum qua peccaui, ita quod non amplius faciam, isti quasi ferro acutissimo me pungunt. Tertio quasi suffocatur spiritus, cum cogitant secum sic. Bonum & delectabile est esse cum mundo, bonum est luxuriari, & non possum continere. Faciam voluntatem meam in iuuentute, ea autem senectute pœnitebor volo, & me emendare. Ex ista pessima cogitatione suffocatur spiritus. Sed quæritur quomodo? vtique cor eorum sic frigidatur, & tepescit a me, & ab omni bono, vt nunquam calefieri poterit, nec resurgere ad charitatem meam. Sicut enim ex glacie, etiam si adhibeatur ignis non surgit flamma, sed liquescit, sic isti etiam si dedero eis gratiam meam, & audierint verba admonitionis, non tamen exurgunt ad viam vitæ, sed arent, & deficiunt ab omni bono. Sic ergo produnt me ex eo, scilicet quod ostendunt se simplices, & non sunt, & quia grauantur, vel turbantur ex honore meo, quo deberent delectari, ex eo, quod habent voluntatem peccandi, & promittunt se vsque in finẽ peccaturos. Tertio etiam quasi abscondunt me, & ponunt me in loco occulto, quando cogitant apud se. Scio me peccasse, si abstinẽo a sacrificio condemnor, & diudicor ab omnibus. Et accedunt ad altare impudenter, & ponunt me ante se, & tractant me Deum verum, & hominem, cum quibus sum quasi in occulto loco, quia nullus scit, nec considerat, quam praui, & deformes sunt ante quos quasi in occulto iaceo Deus, quia etiam si pessimus homo fuerit sacerdos, & dixerit verba illa, scilicet hoc est corpus meum, ipse consecrat verum corpus meum, & iacco ante eum verus Deus, & homo. 5 Sed cum ipse applicuerit me ad os suum, tunc ego desum per gratiam, & deitate, & humanitate mea ab ipso, forma autem panis, & sapor remanet sibi, non quod non vere citer ibi sim cum malis sicut cũ bonis, propter sacramẽti institutionẽ, sed quia similem effectum non habent boni, & mali. Ecce tales sacerdotes non sunt mei sacerdotes, sed veri proditores. Ipsi enim & me vendunt quasi Iudas, & produnt. Ego conspicio Paganos, & Iudæos, sed nullos video eis deteriores, quia ipsi sacerdotes sunt in eodem peccato, quo cecidit Lucifer. Nunc etiã dicotibi iudicium eorum, & cui sunt similes.

Horum

Horum iudicium eſt maledictio. Sicut maledixit Dauid eis, qui non obedierunt Deo, qui cum eſſet iuſtus Propheta, & Rex, non maledixit ex ira, vel mala voluntate, ſeu ex impatientia, ſed ex iuſtitia Dei. Sic ego qui melior ſum Dauid, maledico eis, qui ſunt ſacerdotes, non ex ira, vel voluntate mala, ſed ex iuſtitia. Maledictum ergo ſit omne, quod de terra vilitatem ſuam receperint, quia non laudant Deum, & Creatorem ſuũ, qui dedit eis hæc. Maledictus ſit cibus, & potus eorum, qui intrat in os eorum, qui pauit corpus in cibum vermium, & animam ad infernum. Maledictum ſit corpus eorũ, quod reſurget in infernum ſine fine arſurũ. Maledicti ſunt anni eorum, quibus vixerunt inutiliter. Maledicta ſit hora, quæ incipit eis in inferno, & nunquàm finietur. Maledicti ſint oculi eorum quibus viderunt lumen cæli. Maledicti ſint aures eorum quibus audierunt verba mea, & non curabant. Maledictus ſit guſtus eorum, quo guſtauerunt dona mea. Maledictus ſit tactus eorum, quo tractauerunt me. Maledictus ſit odoratus eorum, quo odorauerunt delectabilia, & me neglexerunt delectabilorem ſuper omnia. Sed quæritur. Quomodo maledicuntur? vtique. Maledictus erit viſus eorum, quia non videbunt viſionem Dei in me, ſed tenebras, & pœnas inferni. Maledicti ſunt auditus eorum, quia non audient verba mea, ſed clamorem inferni, & horrorem. Maledictus eſt guſtus eorum, quia non guſtabunt de bonis meis æternis gaudium, ſed amaritudinẽ æternam. Maledictus eſt tactus eorum, quia non tractabunt me, ſed ignem perpetuum. Maledictus eſt odoratus eorum, quia non odorabunt odorem illum ſuauiſſimum in regno meo, excedentem omnia aromata, ſed fœtorem in inferno habebunt amariorem felle, & peiorem ſulphure. Maledicti ſunt à cælo, & terra, & ab omnibus creaturis inſenſatis, quia ipſa obediunt Deo, & laudant, & iſti ſpreuerunt. Propterea iuſtè in veritate mea, quia ſum veritas, quod ſi ſic moriuntur, & in tali diſpoſitione, qua nunc conſtituti ſunt, nunquam charitas mea, nec virtus concludet eos in ſe, ſed ſine fine damnabuntur.

NOTAE.

3 IPſum peccatum corpus conſumit.

Quemadmodum ſi magno flauerint impetu venti, & arbores, aliquando radicitus euelluntur, & plana commouentur, ſemina agitantur, herbæ quoque in diuerſas partes impelluntur, ita proſus accidit homini ſi peccati vento flante ſuccumbat, commouetur, ac conturbatur, per omnes animæ, corporiſque partes, tunc enim virtutes extirpantur, intellectus denſa quadam caligine effunditur, voluntas ad bonum inhabilis redditur, ad malum proclivis, memoria in his, quæ Dei ſunt labitur, & cuncta corporis membra in ſordido terrenarum rerum cœno morantur, corpus quoque per peccatum, quoad naturales facultates infirmatur, ſicque ſenſim ſi homo diu remoretur, in eo conſumitur.

2 var. lect. Sed viliter proiecerunt veſtem, qua tegitur anima, ideſt fidem rectam.

M. S. Farneſianus habet, Sed viliter proiecerunt veſtem, quæ tegit Animam, & hæc fides eſt recta, quæ merita in præſenti nota veſti comparatur, quæ qui non eſt indutus in tenebras exteriores mittitur, ſicut legimus Lucæ 14. & Matth. 22. per veſtem vero fidem deſignari admonuerunt Gloſſ. interlinearis Matth. 22. D. Greg. hom. 38. explicans illa verba Matthæi loc. cit. Amice quomodo huc intraſti non habens veſtem nuptialem Origen. in Matth. hom. 20. D. Hieron. in Iſaiam c. 42. & 52. & in Pſal. 44. edifferens illa verba aſtitit Regina a dextris tuis in veſtitu deaurato. Beda, Exodi 21. D. Ambroſ. in Lucam cap. 14. & 22. & primo de pœnitentia cap. 6.

3 Sicut enim aliquid aridum, & cito arſurum ſi igni aponeretur cito conſumitur, & nihil remanet de figura lignorum, ſed totum eſt ignis, ſic dictis verbis illis, ſcilicet Hoc eſt corpus meum, quod prius fuit panis fit ſtatim corpus meum.

Hoc loco in quo de Euchariſtiæ ſacramento agitur tria a nobis breuiter notanda ſunt. Primo quidem exemplum allatum conuerſionis ligni in ignem noneſſe per omnia ſimile conuerſioni illi, quo ſubſtantia panis tranſit in corpus Chriſti, & vinum in ſanguinem, quandoquidem illa non eſt totalis conuerſio cum lignorum materia ſuperſit, hæc vero tranſubſtantiatio dicitur, quia eſt totius ſubſtantiæ in aliam ſubſtantiam conuerſio, vt patet ex Conc. Rom. ſub Greg. 7. ex Conc. Lateranenſ. ſub Innocentio 3 & cap. firmiter de ſumma Trinitate, & fide Catbol. & Conc. Conſtantienſi Seſſ. 8. & Conc. Florentino, & Tridentino Seſſ. 13. cap. 4. verba vero quæ ſequuntur ſcilicet nihil remanet de figura lignorum indicant, quod ſicut omnis lignorum figura poſt conuerſionem penitus deperditur, ita quoque prolatis verbis nihil de ſubſtantia panis ſub his ſpeciebus reperitur, & ex hac parte adductum exemplum quadrat. Secundo animaduertendum eſt nobis, quod cum legimus hic, quod prius fuit panis, ſtatim corpus Chriſti, verbum fieri non eſſe ſumendum ſecundum proprietatem ſermonis, quia in rigore formaliter hæc propoſito non eſt vera, ſubſtantia panis fit corpus Chriſti, ſumitur ergo pro actu conuerſionis, & tranſubſtantiationis, quia vere ſubſtantia panis conuertitur, & tranſubſtantiatur in corpus Chriſti, atque ſic explicandi ſunt plures ex ſanctis ctis Patribus, qui hac loquendi formula vſi ſunt, vt Ambr. 4. de ſacram. c. 4. Euſeb. Emiſenus Hom. 5. de Paſchate D. Aug. de conſecr. d. 2. Can. non omnis, Cyrillus Hieroſolymitanus chatechesi 5. & Iacobus in ſua liturgia. Poſtremo admonere lectorem cenſui huiuſmodi converſionem, & tranſubſtantiationem non fieri per motum localem, ſed motu inſtantaneo, quia ſtatim hiis dictis illis verbis ſtatim fit corpus meum, & in eodem inſtanti, quo deſinit panis incipit eſſe corpus Chriſti ſub illis ſpeciebus, neque enim aliqua ſucceſſionis ratio excogitari poteſt, cum præſertim principium efficiens ſit infinitæ potentiæ, quod ſicut poteſt elevare creaturam ad effectum, quem viribus propriis non valet producere, ita poteſt elevare eam ad modum operandi independenter a motu a tempore, & ſucceſſione, quod annotauit D. Thom. 3. p. q. 75. ar. 7.

Hoc non poſſent omnes Angeli facere, quia ſolis ſacerdotibus illam dignitatem dedi.

Quemadmodum Deus poteſtatem ſuam non alligauit ſacramentis, vt ſine ipſis ſacramentalem conferre effectum non poſſet, ita quoque ſuam virtutem non ſic Eccleſiæ miniſtris, ac ſacerdotibus alligauit, vt etiam ſanctis Angelis ſacramentorum miniſterium committere minime poſſet, quod ſatis aperte ipſemet Chriſtus Dominus teſtatur lib. 4. Reuelat. cap. 138. paulo ante medium enumerat ergo ſacerdotes præ omnibus Angelis, & ſuſtin. & dedi eis ſolis poteſtatem, vt corpus meum tractarent. ſi enim voluiſſem potuiſſem bene elegiſſe Angelum aliquem ad tale officium, cum autem legimus hoc loco, quod Angeli, nec poſſint hoc facere, intelligendum eſt ſecundum ordinariam poteſtatem, per quam ſolis ſacerdotibus ſacramenti Euchariſtiæ adminiſtratio commiſſa eſt a Deo, quippe qui cum ſacrorum ordinum ſuſceptione, & ſacerdotalis characteris impreſſione diuinitus acceperunt poteſtatem corpus dominicum conſecrandi, quod ſanctis Angelis non eſt conceſſum. Vide infra lib. 4. Reuelat. cap. 58. nota 1. vbi plura hac de re annotauimus, & latius hoc probant D. Thomas 3. p. q. 64. art. 7. Alexander Alenſis 4. p. q. 16. membro 4. Gabriel d. 6. q. 1. Scotus d. 1. q. 3. ar. 7.

Sed cum ipſe applicuerit me ad os ſuum, tunc ego deſum per gratiam cum deitate, & humanitate mea.

Hæc verba non indicant Deum deſinere eſſe ſub ſpeciebus ſacramentalibus quotieſcunq. aliquis indigne ſumendo, aut quilibet alius indigne hoc ſacroſanctum ſuſcipit ſacramentum, ſed intelligendum eſt, quod Chriſtus ibi deſit eſſe per gratiam, quatenus indigne illius effectum denegat, qui eſt ſpiritualis refectio, & robur, & alia quæ digne ſumentibus concedi ſolent, & dicitur deſinere eſſe cum Deitate, & humanitate, quia cum neutro eorum Chriſtus concurrit ad effectum ſacramentalem conferendum, atque ſic eſſe hæc verba interpretanda patet inferius ſcribitur, non quod non veraciter ibi ſit cum malis ſicut cum bonis propter ſacramenti inſtitutionem, ſed quia ſimilem non habent effectum boni, & mali, quod egregie explicat D. Auguſt. lib. 5. de Baptiſmo, ſicut Iudas, inquit, cui buccellam tradidit Dominus non malum accipiendo, ſed male accipiendo locum in ſe diabolo præbuit, ſic ſi indigne quiſque ſumpſerit Dominicum ſacramentum non efficit, vt quia ipſe malus eſt, malus ſit, aut quia non ad ſalutem accepit nihil acceperit: corpus enim Domini, & ſanguis nihilominus erat illis quibus dicebat Apoſtolus, qui enim manducat indigne iudicium ſibi manducat, & bibit, idem tradidit D. Th. 3. p. q. 80. ar. 3.

QVALITER CAELI EXERcitus, & ſponſa præſentibus deitas loquitur humanitati contra Chriſtianos, ſicut Deus Moyſi contra populum Iſrael, & qualiter maledicti ſacerdotes diligunt mundum, & deſpiciunt Chriſtum, & de eorum maledictione, & damnatione.

CAP. XLVIII.

VIDEBATVR magnus exercitus in cælo, ad quem dixit Deus. Ecce audientibus amicis meis, qui omnia ſcitis, & intelligitis, & videtis in me, loquor propter ſponſam meam quæ hic aſtat. Ecce quemadmodum aliquis ad ſeipſum, ſic deitas mea loquitur ad humanitatem meam. Moyſes fuit cum Domino in monte quadraginta diebus, & noctibus, quem cum populus abeſſe tamdiu vidiſſet, receperunt auxum, & proiecerunt in ignem, & inde conflatus eſt vitulus, quem vocauerunt Deum ſuum. Tunc dixit Deus ad Moyſen. Populus peccauit, ego deleboeum ſicut aliquid ſcriptum abraditur de libro. Reſpondit Moyſes: Non Domine mi. Recordare quod eduxiſti eos de mari rubro, & feciſti eis mirabilia. Si ergo deleueris eos, vbi tunc eſt promiſſio tua. Ne quæſo facias hoc. Quia tunc dicent inimici tui. Malus eſt Deus Iſrael, qui eduxit populum de mari, & interfecit eos in deſerto. Et placatus eſt Deus verbis iſtis. Ego ſum Moyſes ille in figura. Deitas mea loquitur ad humanitatem, quaſi ad Moyſen dicens. Vide quid populus tuus fecit, quomodo contempſerit me, omnes Chriſtiani interficiendo, & delendo fidem eorum. Reſpondet humanitas mea. Non Domine. Recordare quia eduxiſti populum per mare in ſanguisanguine meo, 2 quando a planta pedis vs-var. que ad verticem laceratus sum. Ego promi lect. si eis vitam æternam, miserere eis propter passionem meam. His auditis placata est dei tas ex verbis istis, & ait. Fiat voluntas tua, quia omne iudicium tibi datum est. Ecce amici mei qualis charitas? Sed nunc corã vobis amicis meis spiritualibus, scilicet An gelis, & Sanctis, & coram amicis meis cor-poralibus, qui sunt in mundo, qui tamen non sunt in mundo, nisi corpore, conquror quod populus meus collegit ligna, & incendit ignem, & proiecit in eum aurum, & inde sur rexit eis vitulus, quem adorant, vt Deum.

Ipse stat quasi vitulus super quatuor pedes, habens caput cum gutture, & cauda. Moyse autem tardante in monte, dixit populus: Nescimus quid acciderit ei. Et displicuit eis quod eduxerit eos de captiuitate, dicentes, quæramus alium Deum, qui nos præcedat. Sic nunc faciunt mihi isti maledicti 3 sacerdotes, dicunt enim. 3 Cur magis nos
var. austeriorem vitam agemus quam alij? aut lect. quæ merces nostra? Melius est nobis esse in pace nostra, & voluntate. Diligamus ergo mundum, de quo certi sumus, de promissione enim eius incerti sumus. Deinde colli gunt ligna, idest omnes sensus suos applicãt ad amorem mundi, incendunt ignem, cum voluntatem perfectam habent ad mundum.
Ardent autem, cum voluptas feruet in men te, & prodit in actum. Postea proijciunt aurum, id est omnem charitatem, & honorem, quem mihi deberent facere, faciunt pro mundi honore. Tunc surgit vitulus, id est completus amor mundi, qui habet qua-tuor pedes, scilicet accidiam, impatientiã, 4 gaudium superfluum, & auaritiam. 4 Ipsi
var. enim sacerdotes, qui deberent esse mei, acci lect. diosi sunt ad honorem meum, impatientes ad ferendum, nimij in gaudia, & nunquam contentantur de obtentis. Iste vitulus habet etiam caput, & guttur, idest voluntatem omnem ad gulam, vt nunquam satiari pos-sit, etiam si influeret totum mare. Cauda vero huius vituli est malitia eorum, quia nullum permitterent possidere sua si pos-sent. Vulnerant enim & subuertunt omnes qui seruiunt mihi exemplo suo prauo, & contemptu. Talis amoris vitulus est in cor-dibus eorum, ad talem gaudent, & delectantur: De me sicut illi de Moyse cogitant, diu inquiunt defuit. Verba sua videntur vana, & opera onerosa. Habeamus voluntatem nostram, potestas nostra, & voluntas sit Deus noster. Nec etiam his contentantur, nec ex toto me obliuiscuntur, sed habent me pro idolo. Gentiles colebant ligna, & 5 lapides, & homines mortuos. 5 Inter quos colebatur vnus idolum nomine Belzebub, cuius sacerdotes offerebant ei thus, & face bant ei genuflexiones, & clamores laudis.
Totum etiam quod de sacrificio eorum erat inutile, cecidit in terram, & aues, & muscæ comederunt illud. Omnia autem quæ vti-lia erant, sacerdotes reseruabant sibi. Ipsi quoque clauserunt portam super idolum suum, & personaliter seruabant clauem, ne quis alius ingrederetur. Sic sacerdotes mi hi faciunt isto tempore. Ipsi offerunt mihi thus, id est loquuntur, & prædicant verba pulchra ad laudem propriam, & ad habendũ aliquid temporale, non ex charitate mea.
Ideo sicut odor thuris non capitur, sentítur, & videtur sic verba eorum non veniunt ad effectum animarum, vt radicari, vel tene ri possint corde, sed audiuntur solummodo verba, & quasi ad tempus delectare videntur. Offerunt preces, sed nullo modo mihi placabiles. Sicut illi qui clamant ore lau-dem, & silent corde. Stant quasi iuxta me ore clamantes, sed corde circumagantes mundum. Si enim deberent loqui homini alicuius dignitatis, cor haberent cum locu tione, ne deuiarent in loquendo, ne forte in aliquibus notarentur. Apud me autem orant sacerdotes, quasi homines, qui sunt in extasi, qui aliud loquuntur ore, & aliud habent in corde, de quorum verbis auditor nullam potest habere certitudinem. Flectunt genua mihi, id est humiliratem, & obedien-tiam mihi promittũt. Sed vere humiles sunt quasi Lucifer, obedientes sunt desideriis suis non mihi, claudunt etiam super me, & perso naliter habent clauem, tunc aperiunt super me, & laudant quando dicunt. Fiat volun-tas tua sicut in cælo, & in terra, Sed claudũt super me cum voluntas eorum perficitur; mea autem quasi clausi hominis, & nullius potentis, nec audiri, nec videri potest. Seruant personaliter clauem cum etiam alios, qui voluntatem meam facere volunt, retrahunt exemplo suo. Et si possent libenter e-tiam prohiberent, ne voluntas mea egrede-retur, & perficeretur, nisi iuxta voluntatem eorum. Deinde in sacrificio custodiunt om nia, quæ sunt eis necessaria, & vtilia, & omnem honorem, & debitum sunum exigunt; sed de corpore hominum, quod cadit in ter ram per mortem, pro quo potissimum sacrificium offerre teneretur quasi inutile iudi-cant tradentes muscis, id est vermibus. De debito autem eius aut de salute animæ, minimum curant, nec attendunt: Sed quid dictum est Moysi? Interfice eos qui hoc idolũ fecerunt vbi si aliqui sunt interfecti, nõ tamen omnes. Sic nunc venient verba mea quæ occident eos. Alios ad corpus, & animã per æternam damnationem. Alios ad vitam, vt conuertantur, & viuant. Alios ad celerem

celerem mortem, quia ipſi ſacerdotes ſunt mihi omnino odioſi. Et cui eos ſimilabo, ipſi vero ſunt ſimiles fructui ſpinæ, qui exterius eſt pulcher, & rubicundus; interius vero plenus immunditia, & aculeis. Sic ipſi accedunt ad me quaſi homines rubicundi charitate, & mundi videntur hominibus, ſed intus pleni ſunt omni ſpurcitia. Hic fructus ſi ponatur in terram, inde iterum aliæ ſpinæ ſuccreſcunt. Sic ipſi in corde, quaſi in terra occultant peccata ſua, & malitias, & ſic radicantur in malo, quod etiam non erubeſcunt prodire foras, & gloriari de peccato ſuo. Vnde alij non ſolum ſumunt occaſionem peccandi, ſed etiam grauiter vulnerantur ad animam, cogitantes ſecum ſic; Si ſacerdotes hoc faciunt, multo magis eſt nobis licitum. Ipſi quippe non ſolum fructui, ſed etiam ſpinæ ſimiles ſunt, quia dedignantur tangi correctionibus, & admonitionibus, & nullos reputant ſeipſis ſapientiores, ſed omnia poſſe facere quæ volunt. Ideo iuro in deitate mea, & humanitate, Angelis omnibus audientibus, quod frangam oſtium, quod clauſerunt ſuper voluntatem meam, & ipſa complebitur, & eorum voluntas annihilabitur, & claudetur ſine fine in pœna.

6 6 Propterea ſicut antiquitus dictum eſt; Incipiam iudicium meum in clero, & ab altari meo.

NOTAE.

1 SI ergo deleueris eos, vbi tunc eſt promiſſio tua; ne quæſo facias hoc, quia tunc dicent inimici tui: Malus eſt Deus Iſrael, qui eduxit populum de mari, & interfecit eos.

Eandem prorſus ſententiam legimus Exodi 32. vbi annotare debemus ad horum intelligentiam Moyſen cum Deo exibuiſſe ſe perfectiſſimum oratorem. cum enim Deus decreuiſſet populum, quem de Aegyptiorum poteſtate liberauerat, maximis punire ſupplicijs: quippe qui conflatilem vitulū adorauerat, eique hoſtias immolauerat, opponens ſe Moſes duabus rationibus perſuadere conatus eſt, ne decretum populo inferret ſupplicium: Omnes, inquit Moſes, te bonum, ac veracem credunt, ſi ergo deleueris eos, quos liberaſti, aut te patribus promiſſa non reddere arbitrabuntur, aut etiam impotentem, vel mendacem eſtimabunt, & hoc eſt quod legimus hic, ſi deleuerit eos, vbi tunc eſt promiſsio tua, & dicent inimici tui, malus eſt Deus Iſrael.

4 Ipſi enim ſacerdotes, qui deberent eſſe

lect. tientes ad ferendum nimis in gaudio, & nunquam contentantur de obtentis.

Aliter legit M.S. & huius locum corruptum ſic reſtituit: Ipſi enim ſacerdotes, qui deberent eſſe mei accidioſi ſunt, ad ſerendum onus meum, impatienter, in gaudio mundi deducunt dies ſuos, & nunquam de terrenis diuitijs contentantur.

5 Inter quos colebatur vnum idolum nomine Belzebub.

Belzebub Muſcarum principem appellabant Hebræi ob earum multitudinem, quæ reperiebantur in templo ob immolati ſanguinis ſordes, quas conſueuerunt ſequi muſcæ: In hoc ſimulacro Damaniorum principem habitare affirmabant, quia in eo principium fuit idolatriæ: tum etiam quia cultus eius apud gentes latius patebat, & generabat erat: tum quia nullum idolum eo fortius, ac efficacius inueniri putabant, & in virtute eius exiſtimarunt Phariſæi Chriſtum Dominum feciſſe miracula, cum dicebant, Luca 11. In Belzebub eiicit dæmonia.

6 Propterea ſicut antiquitus dictum eſt, incipiam iudicium in clero, & ab Altari meo.

Clericos in vniuerſali iudicio fore prius iudicandos, etiam Ezechiel Propheta cap. 9. affirmauit his verbis; A ſanctuario meo incipiam; & 1. Pet. 4. Tempus eſt, vt iudicium incipiat a domo Dei, & tradit Diuus Auguſtinus pſalm. 54. & 93. & hoc eſt quod ſcribitur hoc loco (ſicuti antiquitus dictum eſt.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam, qualiter ipſe Chriſtus ſimilatur Moyſi in figura educenti populum de Aegypto, & qualiter maledicti ſacerdotes, quos loco Prophetarum in maiores amicos elegit, nunc clamant diſcede a nobis.

CAP. XLIX.

IESVS Dei loquebatur. Ego ſimilaui me priuſ Moyſi in figura, qui cum educeret populum, ſtabat aqua quaſi murus a dextris, & ſiniſtris. Ego certè ſum ille Moyſes in figura, qui eduxi populum Chriſtianum, ideſt aperui eis cælum, & oſtendi eis viam. Sed nunc elegi mihi alios amicos, Prophetis ſpeciaſ liores, filiores, & secretiores, videlicet sacerdotes, qui non solum verba mea audiunt, & vident cum meipsum vident, immo etiam tractant me manibus suis, quod nullus Prophetarũ, vel Angelorum facere poterat. Illi sacerdotes quos loco Prophetarum in amicos elegi clamant ad me non cum tali desiderio, & charitate quali Prophetæ, sed clamant duabus contrarijs vocibus. Non enim clamant sicut Prophetæ, Veni Domine, quia dulcis, sed clamant, discede a nobis, quia verba tua sunt amara, & opera tua grauia, & scandalum nobis faciunt. Ecce maledicti sacerdotes quid dicunt. Ego sto ante eos quasi ouis mitissima, de qua sumũt lanam ad vestiendum, & lac ad reficiendũ, & adhuc pro tanta dilectione abhominantur me. Ego sto ante eos quasi hospes, qui dicit. Amice da mihi necessaria vitæ, quia indigeo, & recipe mercedem optimam à Deo. Sed ipsi pro ouis simplicitate repellunt me quasi lupum insidiantem ouibus patrisfamilias. Pro hospitalitate confundunt me, quasi proditorem indignum hospitio, & colligere me renuunt. Sed quid facturus est hospes repulsus? nunquid debet producere arma contra domesticum repellentem se? Nequaquam, hoc enim non est iustitia, quia possessor sui potest dare, & negare sua cui voluerit. Quid ergo hospes facturus est? Vtique tenetur dicere repellenti se. Amice, quia tu non vis colligere me, vadam ad alium, qui faciet misericordiam mecum. Qui veniens ad alium, audit ab illo. Bene veniisti Domine mi, omnia mea tua sunt. Tu sis nunc Dominus, ego autem volo esse seruus, & hospes, in tali hospitio, vbi ego talem vocem audio, placet mihi habitare. Ego quippe sum quasi hospes repulsus ab hominibus, sed licet vbique possum ingredi per potentiam, tamen diante iustitia non ingrediot, nisi ad eos, qui bona voluntate me tanquàm verum Dominum, non quasi hospitem suscipiunt. Et qui voluntatem suam in manos meas relinquut.

VERBA MATRIS, ET FILII benedictionis, & laudis ad inuicem, & de gratia à Filio Matri concessa pro in Purgatorio existentibus, & in hoc mundo manentibus.

CAP. L.

MATER Dei loquebatur ad filium, dicens: Benedictum sit nomen tuum fili mi sine fine cum Deitate tua, quæ est sine principio, & sine fine. In Deitate tua sunt tria mirabilia, scilicet potentia, sapientia, & virtus. Potentia tua est quasi ignis ardentissimus, ante cuius faciem omne quodcumque est firmum & forte, tanquam stramen desiccatum in igne reputat. Sapientia tua est quasi mare, quod præ magnitudine haurire non potest, quod etiam cum excrescit & effluit, valles & montes operit, sic sapientia tua comprehendi, & inuestigari non potest. Quàm sapienter creasti hominem, & constituisti eum super omnem creaturã tuam. Quam sapienter disposuisti aeris naturam, bestias in terra, pisces in mari, & vnicuique dedisti tempus suum, & ordinem. Quam mirabiliter das omnibus vitam, & aufers. Quam sapienter insipientibus das sapientiam, & aufers a superbis. Virtus tua est quasi lumen solis, quod lucet in cælis & terram tua luce replet. Sic virtus tua supra, & infra satiat, & omnia replet. Ideo sis tu benedictus fili mi, qui es Deus meus, & Dominus meus. Respondit filius. Charissima Mater mea, verba tua dulcia sunt mihi, quia de anima tua procedunt. Tu es quasi aurora procedens cum serenitate. Tu radiasti super omnes cælos lux tua, & serenitas tua excellit omnes Angelos. Tu attraxisti ad te serenitate tua solem verum, ideſt deitatem meam. In eam, quod sol deitatis meæ veniens in te, fixit se in te, & ex cuius calore balefacta es super omnes charitate mea. Ex cuius splendore illuminata es plus omnibus sapientia mea. Tenebræ terræ fugatæ sunt, & omnes cæli illustrati sunt per te. In veritate mea dico, quod pulchra tua, quæ mihi super omnes Angelos placuit, traxit deitatem meam in te, vt ex calore spiritus inflammareris, quo verum Deum, & hominem in vtero tuo concepisti, quo homo illuminatus est, & Angeli lætificati sunt. Ideo benedicta sis tu a benedicto filio tuo. Propterea, & nulla vrit pœnitentia tua tua ad me, quæ non exaudiatur, & per te omnes, qui petunt misericordiam, cum voluntate emendandi, gratiam habebunt. 2 Quia sicut calor procedit a sole, sic 3 per te omnis misericordia dabitur. 3 Tu enim es quasi fons largifluus, de quo misericordia miseris fluit. Respondit Mater iterum filio. Omnis virtus, & gloria sit tibi fili mi. Tu es Deus meus, & misericordia, a te est omne bonum quod habeo. Tu es quasi semen, quod non est seminatum, & tamen creuit, & dedit ex se fructum centesimum, & millesimum. De te enim procedit omnis misericordia, quę quia innumerabilis, & indicibilis est, bene significari potest in centenario numero, in quo notatur perfectio, quia a te est omnis profectus, & perfectio. Respondit Matri filius. Vere Mater bene similasti me semini, quod non seminabatur, & tamen creuit, quia cum deitate veni in te, & humanitas mea non ex commistione seminabatur, & tamen creuit in te, ex qua omnibus profluxit misericordia, ideo bene dixisti. Nunc ergo quia per dulcissima verba oris tui trahis misericordiam a me, pete quodcunque vis, & dabitur tibi. Respondit Mater: Fili mi, quia misericordiam ego a te consequta sum, ideo misericordiam, & auxilium peto miseris. Quatuor quippe sunt loca. Primus est cælum, in quo Angeli, & Sanctorum animæ nullo indigent, nisi te, quem habent, in te enim habent omne bonum. Secundus locus est infernus, & habitantes in eo impleti sunt malitia, & exclusi ab omni misericordia. Ideo nihil ad eos potest amplius intrare de bono. Tertius locus est Purgatorium, ipsi enim indigent triplici misericordia, quia tripliciter affliguntur. Turbantur quippe auditu, quia nihil aliud audiunt nisi dolores, pœnæ, & miseriæ. Affliguntur visu, quia nihil vident nisi miseriam suam. Affliguntur tactu, quia sentiunt calorem ignis intolerabilis, & grauis pœnæ. Da eis domine mi, & fili misericordiam tuam propter preces meas. Respondit filius; Libenter propter te dabo eis triplicem misericordiam. Primo, auditus eorum alleniabitur, visus mitigabitur, pœna remissior, & mitior erit, insuper quicunque ab ista hora sunt in summa pœna purgatorij, venient ad mediã: & qui sunt in media, venient in leuissimam pœnam: qui autem in leuissima pœna sunt, transibunt ad requiem. Respondit Mater: Laus, & honor sit tibi domine mi. Et statim Mater subiunxit ad filium. Quartus locus est mundus, & habitatores eius indigent tribus. Primo, contritione pro peccatis. Secundo, satisfactione. Tertio, fortitudine ad faciendum bona. Respondit filius: Omnis quicunque inuocauerit nomen eum, & spem habeat in te cum proposito emendandi commissa, ista tria dabuntur ei, insuper & regnum cæleste. Iucunda enim est mihi dulcedo in verbis tuis, vt non possim negare quæ petis, quia nihil aliud vis, nisi quod ego. Tu denique es quasi flamma ipcens, & ardens, qua luminaria extincta accenduntur, & incensa conualescunt, sic ex charitate tua, quæ abscondit in cor meum, & attraxit me ad te, reuiuiscunt, qui in peccatis sunt mortui, & tepidi, quasi fumus nigra in charitate mea conualescunt.

NOTAE.

1 TV es quasi aurora procedens cum serenitate, tu radiasti super omnes cælos, lux tua, & serenitas tua excellit omnes Angelos.

Hoc loco Christus Dominus de B. Virg. Matris suæ laudibus agit, eamq. ob maximam gratiarum copiam, ac ingentem puritatem comparat Aurorę; quemadmodum enim illa finis est noctis, & initium lucis, sic B. Virgo finem imposuit nocti, & lucem intulit mundo, quandoquidem peperit eum, quem ipse ipsit Ioan. Lucem esse mundi, cuius virtute peccatorum sublatis tenebris, gratia, ac Euangelij lumen hominibus contulit: Aurorę quoque similis est Maria, quæ solem præcedens, verum solem intexit mundum; de qua Cant. 6. scribitur. Aurora consurgens, quod etiam annotauit Rupertus Abbas, atque huius Aurorę lumen tantum esse affirmat D. Bernardus in ser. de Natiu. eiusdem, piso subito cuncta tenebrescerent; Tolle, inquit, hoc corpus solare, vbi dies? tolle Mariam hanc maris stellam, quid nisi caligo inuoluens, & vmbra mortis, ac densissima tenebræ relinquuntur.

2 Quia sicut calor procedit a sole, sic per te omnis misericordia dabitur.

Quemadmodum a sole, per reflexionem calor emanat, sic à Beatiss. Virgine quando se, & conuertit ad filium suum, verum solem, omnis charitatis ardor in nos infunditur, ac soluto nostrarum actionum gelu, verum diuinæ amoris ardorem, & calorem immittit.

3 Tu es quasi fons largifluus, de quo misericordia miseris fluit.

Optime hoc loco Virgo Maria fonti similem se fecit Christus: ea enim fons est ille signatus, cuius Cant. 4. mentio fit, & hoc ob summam eius integritatem, vt annotauit D. Greg. & Ruper. Abbas ibi, & D. Hieron. Isaiæ 35. Est etiam fons Maria quandoquidem ex ea omnis bonorum copia fluit, omnis diuinorum beneficiorum vbertas emanat, omnis peccatorum nostrorum remissio obtinetur, & qui ex hoc fonte vel vnam biberit guttam, in eo omnis huius seculi sitis penitus exinguetur.

VERBA BENEDICTIONIS Matris ad filium audiente ſponſa, & qualiter filius glorioſus figurat pulcherrime ſuam dulciſſimam Matrem per florem natum in valle.

CAP. LI.

MATER Dei loquebatur ad filium, dicens: Benedictum ſit nomen tuum fili mi Ieſu Chriſte. Honor ſit humanitati tuæ ſuper omnia, quæ creata ſunt. Gloria ſit deitati tuæ ſuper omnia bona, quæ eſt cum humanitate tua vnus Deus. Reſpondit filius. Mater mea tu es ſimilis flori, qui creuit in vna valle, circa quam vallem erant quinque alti montes, & creuit flos ipſe de tribus radicibus, cum recto haſtili, quod nullos habebat nodos. Hic flos habebat quinque folia plena omni ſuauitate. Vallis autem excreuit cum flore ſuo ſuper iſtos quinque montes, & folia floris dilatauerunt ſe ſuper omnem altitudinem cæli, & ſuper omnes choros Angelorum. Tu dilecta Mater mea, tu es Vallis illa propter humilitatem tuam, quam præ alijs habuiſti. Hæc exceſſit quinque montes. Primus mons erat Moyſes, propter poteſtatē. Ipſe enim habuit poteſtatem in lege ſuper populum meum, ac ſi fuiſſet concluſus in pugno ſuo. Tu autem concluſiſti omnium legum Dominum in vtero tuo, ideo tu altior illo monte. 1 Secundus mons erat Helias, qui ſic ſanctus fuit, quod cum anima, & corpore fuit aſſumptus in ſanctum locum. Tu autem chariſſima Mater mea anima tua aſſumpta fuit ſuper omnes choros Angelorum ad thronum Dei, & cum ea eſt mundiſſimum corpus tuum, ideo tu altior Helia. Tertius mons erat fortitudo Sampſonis, quã habuit ſuper omnes homines, tamen vicit eum diabolus fallacia ſua. Tu autem viciſti diabolum fortitudine tua. Ideo tu fortior Sampſone. Quartus mons erat Dauid, qui fuit vir ſecundum cor meum, & voluntatem meam, & tamen cecidit in peccatum. Tu autem Mater mea ſequebaris omnem voluntatem meam, nunquam peccaſti. Quintus mons erat Salomon, qui fuit plenus ſapientia, tamen fuit infatuatus. Tu vero Mater mea plena fuiſti omni ſapientia, & nunquam fuiſti inſipiens, nec decepta. Ideo altior Salomone. Flos autem prodijt de tribus radicibus, quia tu à iuuentute tua habuiſti tria, ſcilicet, obedientiam, charitatē, & diuinam intelligentiam. De his enim tribus radicibus, creuit haſtile rectiſſimum ſine omni nodo, id eſt voluntas tua, quæ nunquam flectebatur niſi ad velle meum. Flos etiam iſte habuit quinque folia, quæ excreuerunt ſuper omnes choros Angelorum. Vere tu Mater mea flos iſtorum quinque foliorum es. Primum folium eſt, honeſtas tua, in tantum quod Angeli mei, qui ſunt honeſti ante me, conſiderantes honeſtatem tuam, viderunt eam ſupra ſe eſſe, & eminentiorem illorum ſanctitate, & honeſtate. Ideo tu altior es Angelis. Secundum folium eſt miſericordia tua, quæ tanta fuit, quod cum videres omnium animarum miſeriam compatiebaris eis, & paſſa es maximam pœnam in morte mea. Angeli ſunt pleni miſericordia, tamen nunquam patiuntur dolorem, ſed tu pijſſima Mater miſerta es miſeris, quando ſentiebas omnem dolorem de morte mea, & propter miſericordiam voluiſti magis pati dolorem, quam exempta eſſe ab eo. Ideo miſericordia tua exceſſit omnium Angelorum miſericordiam. Tertium folium eſt, mititas tua. Angeli quippe mites ſunt, & cupiunt omnibus bonum, ſed tu Mater mea chariſſima, ante mortem tuam habuiſti in anima tua, & corpore voluntatem quaſi Angelus, & feciſti omnibus bonum. Et nulli adhuc negas, qui rationabiliter petit ſuam vtilitatem. Et ideo mititas tua excellentior eſt Angelis. Quartum folium eſt pulchritudo tua. Angeli enim conſiderant alter alterius pulchritudinem, & pulchritudinem omnium animarum, & omnium corporum admirantur, ſed animæ tuæ pulchritudinem vident eſſe ſuper omnia, quæ creata ſunt, & corporis tui honeſtatem excellere omnes homines, qui creati ſunt. Et ſic omnes Angelos, & omnia, quæ creata ſunt, exceſſit pulchritudo tua. Quintum folium erat diuina delectatio tua, quia nihil delectabat te niſi Deus, ſicut nec delectat Angelos aliud niſi Deus, & quilibet eorum ſentit, & ſentiebat delectationem in ſe. Cum autem viderunt delectationem tuam in te ad Deum, videbatur eis in conſcientia ſua, quod delectatio eorum arderet in eis, quaſi lumen in diuina charitate. Videntes autem delectationem tuam eſſe tanquam ardentiſſimam rogum, ardentem feruentiſſimo igne, & ſic alium, quod flamma eius appropinquabat deitati meæ. Et ideo Mater dulciſſima bene ardebat delectatio tua diuina ſuper omnes choros Angelorum. Hic flos quia habuit hæc quinque folia, honeſtatem ſcilicet, miſericordiam, mititatem, & pulchritudinem, & ſummam delectationem. Erat plenus omni dulcedine. Quicunque autem voluerit gu-

ſtare ſuauitatem debet appropinquare ſuauitati, & recipere eam in ſe, ſic & feciſti tu bona Mater. Tu enim fuiſti ſic dulcis Patri meo, quod ipſe recipit te totam in ſpiritum ſuum, & dulcedo tua ſuper omnes placuit ei. Flos etiam portat ſemen ex calore, & virtute ſolis, ex quo creſcit fructus. Sed benedictus ille ſol, ſcilicet deitas mea, quæ ſuſcepit humanitatem de Virgineis tuis viſceribus. Nam ſicut ſemen vbicumque ſeminatur, tales flores germinat, quale 2 ſemen fuerit. 2 Sic membra mea conformia fuerunt membris tuis in forma, & facie, tamen ego fui Vir, tu Virgo fœmina. Hæc vallis exaltata eſt ſuper omnes montes cum flore ſuo, quando corpus tuum exaltatum eſt ſuper omnes choros Angelorum cũ ſanctiſſima anima tua.

VERBA

VERBA MATRIS BENEDIctionis, & rogationis ad filium, vt verba sua dilatentur per mundum, & radicentur in cordibus amicorum suorum, & qualiter ipsa Virgo per florem in horto natum mirabiliter designatur, & de verbis Christi per sponsam transmissis ad Papam, & alios Prælatos Ecclesiæ.

CAP. LII.

BEATA Virgo loquebatur ad filium dicens. Benedictus sis tu fili mi, & Deus meus, & Dominus Angelorum, & Rex gloriæ. Rogo te, vt verba tua, quæ locutus es radicẽtur in cordibus amicorum tuorum, & ita firmiter mentibus inhæreant, sicut bitumen quo arca Noe linita est, quam nec procellæ, nec venti dissoluere potuerunt. Dilatentur etiam per mundum sicut rami, & flores suauissimi, quorum odor late spargitur. Fructificent insuper, & dulcescãt sicut dactilus, cuius suauitas animã delectat. Respõdit filius. Benedicta sis tu charissima Mater mea. Gabriel Angelus meus dixit tibi. Benedicta, inquit, sis tu Maria præ mulieribus. Et ego perhibeo tibi testimonium, quod tu benedicta, & sanctissima es, super omnes Angelorum choros. 1 Tu es quasi flos in horto, quẽ licet diuersi odoriferi flores circumstent, tamen ipse omnes excellit in odore, in pulchritudine, & virtute. Flores isti sunt omnes electi ab Adam vsque ad finem mundi, qui in horto mundi plantati diuersis virtutibus nituerunt, & floruerunt. Sed inter omnes, qui fuerunt, & qui post futuri sunt, tu excellentior fuisti in odore bonæ vitæ, & humilitatis. In pulchritudine gratissimæ virginitatis, in virtute abstinentiæ. Testimonium enim perhibeo tibi, quod tu in passione mea plus fuisti, quam Martyr. In abstinentia tua plus quam aliquis confessorum. In misericordia, & bona voluntate plus quam Angelus. Ideo propter te verba mea radicabo quasi bitumen fortissimum in cordibus amicorum meorum. Dilatabuntur quasi flores odoriferi, & fructificabunt quasi dactilus suauissimus, & dulcissimus. Deinde loquebatur Dominus ad sponsam. 2 Dic amico meo patri tuo, cuius cor est secundum cor meum, quod hæc verba conscripta exponat diligenter, & ipse Archiepiscopo, & postea alij Episcopo assignabit. Quibus diligenter informatis postea transmittat ad tertium Episcopum. Dic etiam ei ex parte mea, ego sum Creator tuus, & Redemptor animarum. Ego sum Deus, quem præ cæteris diligis, & amas. Considera & vide, quod animæ quas redemi 3 sanguine meo, 3 sunt sicut illorum animæ, var. qui ignorant Deum, & sunt captiuæ a diabo- lect. lo tã horribiliter, quod in omnibus mẽbris punit eas quasi in prælo arcto. Propterea si vulnera mea sapiunt tibi in animo, si flagellationem meam, & dolorem alicuius reputationis habes, ostende operibus tuis quantum me diligis. Et verba mea, quæ proprio ore locutus sum, in publicum venire facias, & ad caput Ecclesiæ personaliter defer. Dabo enim tibi spiritum meum, quod vbicunque duorum fuerit dissensio, in nomine meo ex virtute tibi data confederare potiis, si crediderint. Insuper & ad maiorem euidentiam verborum meorum, eorum testimonia tecum ad Pontificem deferes, quibus verba 4 mea sapiunt, & delectant. 4 Verba enim mea sunt quasi adeps, qui quanto maior calor intus fuerit tanto citius liquescit. Vbi autem calor non fuerit, reijcitur, & non peruenit ad interiora. Sic verba mea sunt, quia quanto homo plus charitate mea feruens mandit ea, & terit, tanto plus impinguatur ex dulcedine cælestis gaudij, & interim amoris, & tanto plus inardescit ad amorem meũ. Quibus autem non placent verba mea quasi aruinam habent in ore, qua degustata statim eijciunt ab ore, & conculcant. Sic verba mea ab aliquibus despiciuntur, quia dulcedo spiritualium non sapit eis. Princeps autem terræ, quem in membrum meum elegi, & vere meum feci, viriliter adiuuabit te, & necessaria pro via de bonis bene acquisitis ministrabit.

NOTAE.

1 TV es quasi flos in horto, quem licet diuersi odoriferi flores circumstent tamen ipse omnes excellit in odore, in pulchritudine, & virtute.

Tribus florum generibus similem fuisse Beatam Virginem legimus, In præsenti namque cap. floribus hortorum, Cant. 2. Floribus campi, Ego flos campi, in superiori vero cap. liljs conuallium comparatur, & hoc non nisi propter innumerabiles, easque insignes eius virtutes, ac perfectiones quas sub florum similitudinibus sacræ litteræ, sanctique Patres exprimunt, est autem Maria similis floribus productis in hortis, qui sicut non omnibus patẽt, nec cuique eos colligendi aditus datur, sed soli Dño, & quibus ipſe permiſerit, conceditur, vt & colorum varietate, ac odoris flagrantia delectentur, ita Deus Opt. Max. florem hunc tanta ſuæ gratiæ copia decorauit, vt nec hoſtium pateret incurſibus, nec eorum inſidias, aut arma timeret, vt mirum non ſit, ſi eam nunquá quoquomodo offenderint, ſed ipſe ſolus Deus, & quibus conceſſerit mira hac varietate, & odore delectantur; & ideo Cant. 4. Hortus conclusus appellatur, eſt etiam flos campi Maria, qui vt ait D. Bernard. Hom. de aduentu, ſicut non humano floret adminiculo non ſeminatus ab aliquo non deſoſſus ſarculo, non impinguatus ſimo, ſic Virginis floruit Aluus, ſic inuiolata integra, & caſta Mariæ viſcera tanquam paſcua æterni nitoris floruerunt, cuius pulchritudinem non vidit corruptionem. Poſtremo lilium vocatur conuallium, quia duobus montium Maria inclusa latebris Chriſti, ſcilicet diuinitate, ac humanitate ſolis non ſuis concupiſcentiæ ardoribus expoſita, ſed ab huius ſæculi ſegregata periculis, vt Angelicam vitam traduxit in terris, ſic ſuper Angelicos choros euecta eſt ad cælos.

2 Dic amico meo patri tuo, cuius cor eſt ſecundum cor meum.

Hic fuit Magiſter Maubias Beatæ Brigittæ Confeſſor, qui vitæ ſanctitate, ac doctrina erat conſpicuus quique has reuelationes conſcripſit; prout ipſamet Beata Brigitta ei dictabat, de quo pluribus in locis in his Reuelationum libris mentio fit.

3 Sicut illorum Animæ, qui ignorant Deũ; & ſunt captiue a Diabolo.

var. lect. Corrige cum Manuſcripto captiuate a Diabolo.

4 Verba mea ſunt quaſi adeps.

Optime hoc loco verba Dei adipi comparantur, qui ſicut prouenit ex abundantia nutrimenti, & inde pinguefcunt corpora, ita ex verbis Dei nutritur anima, virtutibus pinguefcit, & in charitate proficit, vnde egregie annotauit D. Ambroſ. lib. 2. de Cain, & Abel, quod in ſacris litteris per adipem ſignificatur charitas, ſine qua anima eſt arida erga Deum, & proximum, & ideo Geneſ. 4. legimus, quod Abel obtulit adipem cum primogenitis, ideſt charitatem cum operibus, & Dauid Pſal. 62. optabat animam ſuam repleri adipe ſicut adipe, & pinguedine repleatur anima mea, per adipem vero charitatem hoc loco deſignari patet ibi, ſic verba mea ſunt quaſi adeps, quia quanto homo plus charitate mea feruens mandit, & teritur tanto plus impinguatur.

VERBA MATRIS, ET FILII benedictionis, & laudis adinuicem, & qualiter Virgo figuratur per Arcam, vbi erant virga, manna, & tabulæ legis, in qua figura multa mirabilia continentur.

CAP. LIII.

MARIA loquebatur ad filium. Benedictus ſis tu fili mi Deus meus, & Dominus Angelorum. Tu es ille cuius vocem Prophetæ audierunt, cuius corpus Apoſtoli viderunt, quem Iudæi, & inimici tui ſenſerunt. Tu es cum deitate, & humanitate, & Spiritu ſancto vnus Deus. Nam ſpiritum audierunt Prophetæ. Deitatis gloriam viderunt Apoſtoli, humanitatem tuam crucifixerunt Iudæi. Ideo ſis tu benedictus ſine principio, & ſine fine. Reſpondit filius. Benedicta ſis tu, quia Virgo es, & Mater. Tu es arca illa quæ erat in lege, in qua erant tria, ſcilicet virga manna, & tabulæ. Cum virga facta ſunt tria. Primo mutata eſt in ſerpentem, qui erat ſine veneno. Secundo per eam mare diuiſum eſt. Tertio de petra educta eſt aqua. Ego ſum virgà illa in figura, qui in vtero tuo iacui, & humanitatem de te accepi. Ego primo ſicut ſerpens Moyſi ſic terribilis ſum inimicis meis. Ipſi quippe fugiunt à me quaſi ab aſpectu ſerpentis. Pauent me, & abhominantur quaſi ſerpentem, cum ego tamen ſine veneno malitiæ, plenus omni miſericordia ſim. Ego patior me teneri ab eis ſi voluerint. Ego reuertar ad eos ſi me quæſierint. Curro ad eos quaſi Mater ad filium perditum, & inuentum, ſi me inuocauerint. Exhibeo eis miſericordiam, & dimitto peccata eorum, ſi clamauerint. Hoc facio eis, & adhuc abhominantur me quaſi ſerpentẽ. Secundo per virgam iſtam diuiſum eſt mare, quando via ad cælum, quæ clauſa erat per peccatum, per ſanguinem, & dolorem meum aperiebatur. Tunc certe rumpebatur mare, & inuium factum eſt via, quando dolor omnium membrorum meorum acceſſit ad cor, & cor præ violentia doloris ruptum eſt. Poſtea traducto populo per mare, non duxit eos Moyſes ſtatim in terram promiſſionis, ſed in deſertum, vt ibi probarentur, & inſtruerentur. Sic & nunc accepta fide, & mandato meo, non ſtatim introducitur populus in cælum, ſed neceſſe eſt, vt in deſerto, id eſt, in mundo probentur homines quomo-quomodo diligant Deum. Sed per tria prouocauit populus Deum in deserto. Primo, quia fecerunt sibi idolum, & adorauerunt ipsum. Secundo, quia concupierunt carnes quas habuerunt in Aegypto. Tertio per superbiam, quando sine voluntate Dei ascendere voluerunt, & pugnare cum inimicis. Sic nunc etiam peccat homo contra me in hoc mundo. Primo colit idolum, quia plus amat mundum, & quæ in eo sunt, quam me, qui eorum Creator sum. Sed mundus quippe est Deus eorum non ego. Ego enim dixi in Euangelio meo. Vbi est thesaurus hominis, ibi est cor eius, sic thesaurus hominis est mundus, quia ad hunc habet cor suum, non ad me. Ideo sicut illi in deserto corruerunt gladio in corpore, sic isti cadent in gladio æternæ damnationis ad animam, in qua sine fine viuent. Secundo peccauerunt per concupiscentiam carnium. Ego enim dedi homini omnia necessaria ad honestatem, & moderantiam, sed ipse omnia vult habere immoderate, & indiscrete. Ipse enim si sufficeret natura, sine cessatione vellet commisceri, sine refrænatione bibere, sine modo cõcupiscere. Quandiu enim posset peccare nunquam cessaret a peccato. Ideo continget eis sicut illis in deserto, quod morientur subitanea morte. Quid enim est vita istius temporis nisi quidam punctus ad æternitatem? Propterea quasi subitanea morte morientur in corpore, propter breuitatem huius vitæ, & viuent in pœna ad animam sine fine. Tertio peccabant in deserto per superbiã, quia sine voluntate Dei volebant ascendere in pugnam. Sic homines per superbiam suam volunt ascendere in cælum, & non confidunt in me, sed in se, facientes voluntatem suam, & meam relinquentes. Propterea sicut illi ab hostibus, sic isti interficientur a dæmonibus in anima, & cruciatus eorum erit sempiternus. Sic ergo odiunt me quasi serpentem, colunt pro me idolum, affectant concupiscentiam suam plus quam me, diligunt superbiã suam pro humilitate mea. Veruntamen adhuc sic misericors sum, quod si conuersi fuerint ad me cum contrito corde, ego conuerto me ad eos sicut pater pius, & suscipio eos. Tertio per virgam istam petra dedit aquã. Petra hæc, est cor durum hominis, hoc enim si percutitur timore, & amore meo, statim effluunt lacryme contritionis, & pœnitentiæ. Nullus sic indignus, nullus sic malus, si vertit se ad me, si passionem meam intime 1 considerat, 1 si potentiam meam attendit, si bonitatem meam qualiter terra fructificat, & arbores perpendit, quod non fluunt ora eius lacrymis, & omnia membra eius ad deuotionem excitantur. Secundo in arca Moysi iacuit manna. Sic in te Mater mea, & Virgo iacuit panis Angelorum, & sanctarum animarum, & iustorum in terra, quibus nil placet nisi dulcedo mea, quibus mundus omnis mortuus est, qui libenter si esset voluntatis meæ essent sine corporali cibo. Tertio in arca illa erant tabulæ legis, sic in te iacuit Dominus omnium legum. Ideo benedicta sis tu præ omnibus, quæ sunt in cælo, & in terra creata. Postea loquebatur ad sponsam dicens. Dic amicis meis tria. Ego cum corporaliter conuersabar in mundo, sic temperaui verba mea, quod boni fiebant ex ipsis fortiores, & feruentiores. Mali vero fiebãt meliores, vt patuit in Magdalena, Matthæo & alijs multis. Sic etiam temperaui verba mea, vt inimici mei non possent infirmare ea. Propterea laborent illi feruenter, quibus verba mea mittuntur, vt boni ex verbis meis fiant ardentiores in bono. Mali resipiscant a malo, & ab inimicis meis caueant ne verba mea impediantur. 2 Ego quippe non maiorem iniuriam facio diabolo, quam Angelis in cælo. Si enim vellem bene possem loqui verba mea, vt totus mundus audiret. Ego sufficerem etiam aperire infernum, vt omnes viderent pœnas eius, sed hoc non esset iustitia, quia tunc homo seruiret mihi ex timore, sed ex charitate deberet mihi homo seruire. Nam nullus, nisi qui charitatem habet, intrabit in regnum cælorum. Tunc denique iniuriam facerem diabolo, si iuri eius mancipatum reciperem ab eo sine bonis operibus. Angelo in cælo etiam facerem iniuriam, si ei qui mundus est, & charitate feruentissimus, spiritus homicis immundi coequaretur. Ideo nullus intrabit cælum, nisi qui quasi aurum in igne purgatorio probatus est, aut bonis operibus, sic diuina probatione in mundo exercitatus est, quod non sit in eo macula, quæ debeat purgari. Si ignoras quibus mitti debeant verba mea, ego dicam tibi. Ille dignus est habere verba mea, qui promereri vult operibus, vt veniat ad regnum cælorum. Vel qui operibus bonis præcedentibus promeruerat, illis aperientur verba mea, & ad illos ingredientur. Nam illi quibus sapiunt verba mea, & qui nomen suum humiliter sperant scriptum in libro vitæ, hi tenent verba mea. Quibus autem non sapiunt, considerant quidem verba, & statim proijciunt, & euomunt.

NOTAE.

VERBA ANGELI AD SPONſam de ſpiritu cogitationum ſuarum, an bonus, vel malus ſit, & qualiter duo ſunt ſpiritus, ſcilicet vnus increatus, & alius creatus, & de eorum qualitatibus.

CAP. LIV.

ANGELVS loquebatur ad ſponſam dicens. Duo ſpiritus ſunt vnus increatus, alter creatus. Increatus habet tria. Primo eſt calidus. Secundo dulcis. Tertio mũdus. Primo calefacit, non de aliquibus rebus creatis, ſed à ſeipſo, quia ipſe cum Patre, & filio eſt omnium Creator, & omnipotens. Calefacit autem, quando anima tota ardet ad amorem Dei. Secundo eſt dulcis, quando animæ nihil placet, nihil dulceſcit niſi Deus, & recordatio operum eius. Tertio eſt mundus, vt nullum peccatum in eo inueniri poſſit, nihil deforme, nihil corruptibile, & mutabile. Calefacit autem non ſicut ignis materialis, nec ſicut ſol viſibilis aliquid liquefaciens, ſed calor eius internus animæ amor eſt, & deſiderium replens, & abſorbens animam in Deum. Dulceſcit etiam animæ non ſicut vinum deſiderabile, aut voluptas, vel aliquid aliud mundanum, ſed dulcedo illa ſpiritus incomparabilis eſt omnibus dulcoribus temporalibus, & inexcogitabilis non ſapientibus illam. Tertio eſt ſpiritus ille ſic mundus, quemadmodum radij ſolis, in quibus nulla macula inueniri poſſit. Secundus ſpiritus, qui eſt creatus ſimiliter habet tria. Eſt enim ardens, eſt amarus, eſt & immundus. Primo eſt ardens, & conſumens quaſi ignis, quia animam quam poſſidet, totam incendit luxuriæ igne, & prauæ cupiditatis, vt anima præter eius expletionem, nihil aliud cogitare, nil deſiderare poſſit, in tantum quod quandoque per illam amittitur vita temporalis, & omnis honor, & conſolatio. Secundo eſt amarus quaſi fel, quia animam ſic ſua delectatione inflammat, quod gaudia futura videntur ei eſſe ſtulta, & bona æterna fatuitas. Omnia quoque quæ de Deo ſunt, & quæ tenetur ei facere, amareſcunt ei, & abominabilia ſunt ei quaſi vomitus, & quaſi fel. Tertio eſt immundus, quia animam ſic vilẽ facit, & pronam ad peccatum, vt de nullo peccato erubeſcat, & à nullo peccato deſiſteret, ſi non plus hominum timeret verecundiam quam Dei. Ideo eſt ſpiritus ille ardẽs quaſi ignis, quia ipſe ardet ad iniquitatem, & alios ſecum accendit. Ideo vero amarus, quia omne bonum eſt amarum ei, & alios ſecum amareſcere vult. Ideo autem eſt immundus, quia ipſe delectatur in immunditia, & alios ſecum ſimiles quærit habere. Sed nunc quærere potes, & dicere mihi. Nunquid non tu es etiam ſpiritus creatus ſicut ille, quare ergo tu non es talis? Reſpondeo tibi. Vere ego creatus ſum ab eodem Deo, quo & ipſe, quia non eſt niſi vnus Deus, Pater, & filius, & Spiritus ſanctus, & hi non tres dij, ſed vnus Deus. Et ambo bene creati ſumus, & ad bonum, quia Deus nihil niſi bonũ creauit. Sed ego ſum quaſi ſtella, quia in bonitate, & charitate Dei, in qua creatus ſum, ſteti. Ipſe autem eſt quaſi carbo, quia à charitate Dei diſceſſit. Ergo ſicut ſtella non eſt ſine claritate, & ſplendore, nec carbo ſine nigredine, ſic Angelus bonus, qui eſt quaſi ſtella, non eſt ſine ſplendore, id eſt, Spiritu ſancto. Omne enim quod habet, hoc habet a Deo Patre, ſcilicet, & Filio, & Spiritu ſancto, huius amore incaleſcit, huius ſplendore niteſcit, & ei iugiter inhæret, & ad voluntatem eius ſe conformat, nec vnquam vult aliud niſi quod Deus, ideo ardet, ideo & mundus eſt. Diabolus autẽ eſt quaſi carbo deformis, & omnium creaturarum deformior, quia ſicut pulchrior erat cæteris, ſic deformior aliis deberet fieri, quia Creatori ſuo ſe oppoſuit. Sicut Angelus Dei ſplendet luce Dei, & ardet charitate eius inceſſanter, ſic dæmon malitia ſua ſemper inardeſcit, & anguſtiatur. Cuius malitia inſatiabilis eſt, ſic & bonitas ſpiritus Dei, & gratia Dei inenarrabilis. Nã nullus eſt in mundo ſic radicatus cum diabolo, cuius cor non quandoq. viſitet, & cõmoueat ſpiritus bonus, ſic etiã nullus eſt ſic bonus, quem diabolus non apponit libenter tangere tentatione. Multi quippe boni, & iuſti tentantur ex permiſſione Dei a diabolo, hoc non eſt pro malo eorum, ſed ad maiorem eorum gloriam. Dei quippe filius, vnus in deitate cum Patre, & Spiritu ſancto, in aſſumpta humanitate tentatus eſt, quanto magis electi eius ad maiorem eorũ remunerationem. Multi etiã boni quandoq. cadunt in peccata, & obumbratur conſcientia eorum fallacia diaboli, ſed virtute Spiritus ſancti robuſtius ſurgũt, & fortius ſtant.

Verun-

Verumtamen nullus est, qui in conscientia sua non intelligat vtrum suggestio diaboli ducat ad deformitatem peccati, an ad bonum, si diligenter cogitare, & examinare voluerit. 1 Ideo tu sponsa Domini mei non habes dubitare de spiritu cogitationum tuarum, vtrum bonus sit, an malus. Conscientia enim tua dicit tibi, quæ omittenda 2 sunt, & quæ eligenda. 2 Quid autem faciet var. ille, cum quo plenus est diabolus? Non enim lect. in eum ingredi potest bonus spiritus, quia plenus est malo. Tria sunt ei facienda, scilicet, quod habeat puram, & integram peccatorum confessionem, quæ licet in contrito corde non statim poterit esse, propter obduratum cor, tamen prodest tantum, quod propter hanc dat diabolus quasi quandam cessationem, & saltum bono spiritui. Secundo habeat humilitatem, scilicet, quod proponat emendare peccata, quæ commisit, & facere bona, quæ poterit, & tunc incipit egredi diabolus. Tertio, vt obtineat iterum spiritum bonum humili prece supplicare debet Deo, & conteri de peccatis factis cum charitate vera, quia charitas ad Deum interficit diabolum. Ipse denique mallet centies mori, quam quod homo exhiberet minimũ bonum charitatis Deo suo, sic inuidus, & malicioſus est. Postea loquebatur beata Virgo ad sponsam dicens. Sponsa noua filij mei, indue te vestibus tuis, impone tibi monile tuum, idest, passionem filij mei. Cui illa respondit: Impone tu Domina mea. Et illa. Ego vtique faciam. Ego volo tibi dicere, quomodo filius meus dispositus erat, & quare à patribus sic feruenter desiderabatur, ipse stabat quasi homo in medio interlitio duarum vrbium, & vox de patria vrbe clamauit ad eum dicens. Tu homo, qui stas in media via inter vrbes, tu es homo sapiẽs, scis enim cauere ab imminentibus periculis. Tu quoque fortis es ad patiendum mala incumbentia, tu es etiam magnanimus, quia nihil times. Nos enim desiderauimus te, & expectamus te. Aperi ergo portam nostram, inimici enim obsident eam ne aperiatur. Vox de secunda vrbe audiebatur dicens. Tu homo humanissime, & fortissime, audi quæri moniam nostram, & gemitum. Nos sedemus in tenebris, & patimur famem, & sitim intolerabilem. Considera ergo miseriam nostrã, & penuriam miserabilem. Sumus enim percussi quasi fœnum excissum falcastro. Aruimus ab omni bono, & defecit omne robur nostrum. Veni ad nos, & salua nos, quia te solum expectauimus, te liberatorem nostrũ sperauimus. Veni, & dissolue penuriam nostram, conuerte planctum nostrum in gaudium, tu esto auxilium nostrum, & salus. Veni ò dignissimum, & benedictũ corpus, quod de Virgine pura processit. Has duas voces audiuit filius meus de duabus vrbibus, scilicet de cælo, & inferno, 3 ideo misertus aperuit per amarissimam passionem suam, & effusionem sanguinis sui, portam inferni, & eripuit amicos suos. Aperuit & cælum lætificans Angelos, introduxit in eum ereptos de inferno. Hæc filia mea cogita, & habeto semper præ oculis.

De signis secernentibus diuinas Reuelationes a dæmonum illusionibus pluribus in locis egimus, præcipuum autem signum illud esse annotauimus hoc eodem lib. c. 4. nota 1. quod in his libris nihil inuenitur, quod non sit, & rationi, & conscientiæ conforme, ideo hoc loco Maria B. Per infernum hoc loco, vt etiam infra ad finem præsentis capitis intellige limbum Patrum ad quẽ Christus Dominus descendens, eos qui captiui ibidẽ detinebantur liberauit, secumque ad cælum duxit iuxta illud Dauidis Psal. 67. Ascendens Christus in altum captiuam duxit captiuitatem, qua de re latè egimus supra hoc eodem lib. cap. 15. nota 3. & cap. 45. nota 4. & 5.

QVALITER CHRISTVS similatur potenti Domino ædificanti magnam ciuitatem, & optimum palatium, per quæ mundus, & Ecclesia designantur, & qualiter iudices, & defensores, & laboratores in Ecclesia Dei, conuersi sunt in arcum prauum.

CAP. LV.

EGO sum similis potenti Domino, qui ædificans ciuitatẽ, imposuit sibi nomen ex suo nomine. Deinde construxit in ciuitate palatium, in qua mansiunculę diuersę pro necessarijs capiendis erant. Constructo vero palatiò, & rebus ſuis ordinatis, populum ſuum diſpoſuit in tres partes dicens. Vię meæ ſunt ad remotas partes, ſtate, & laborate vtiliter pro honore meo. Conſtitui enim vobis neceſſaria veſtra, & victualia, habetis & iudices, qui vos iudicent, habetis defenſores, qui vos ab inimicis defendant. Conſtitui & laboratores, qui vos paſcant, & de labore ſuo mihi decimam partem perſoluent, & vtilitati meæ, & honori reſeruabunt. Interfecto autem aliquo tempore nomen ciuitatis oblitum eſt, tunc dixerunt iudices. Dominus noſter ad remotas partes profectus eſt, iudicemus rectum iudicium, & faciamus iuſtitiam, vt redeunte Domino noſtro non arguamini, ſed reportemus honorem, & benedictionem. Tunc dixerunt defenſores. Dominus noſter confidit in nos, & reliquit nobis cuſtodiam domus ſuæ, abſtineamus ergo à ſuperfluitate eſbi, & potus, ne ad pugnam ſimus ineptí. Abſtineamus & ab inordinato ſomno, ne incauti decipiamur. Simus & bene armati, & continue vigilantes, ne venientibus hoſtibus imparati inueniamur. In nobis enim honor Domini noſtri maximè pendet, & ſalus populi eius. Tunc & laboratores dixerunt magna eſt gloria Domini noſtri, & remuneratio eius glorioſa, laboremus ergo fortiter, & demus ei non ſolum decimam partem laboris noſtri, ſed & quicquid vltra victum noſtrum ſuperfuerit offeramus ei, tanto enim glorioſior erit mercès, quo maiorem charitatem noſtram viderit. Poſt hęc procedente iterum aliquo tempore, obliuioni datus eſt Dominus ciuitatis, & palatij. Tunc dixerunt iudices ad ſeipſos, longa eſt mora Domini noſtri, neſcimus vtrũ reuertetur an non, iudicemus ergo ſecundũ voluntatem noſtram, & quod nobis placuerit faciamus. Deinde dixerunt defenſores. Fatui ſumus, quia laboramus, & neſcimus propter quam mercedem. Confidentes nos potius inimicis noſtris, dormiamus, & bibamus cum eis, non enim curandum eſt nobis, cuius fuerint inimici. Poſtea dixerunt laboratores. Quare ſeruamus aurum noſtrum alteri, & quis reportet illud poſt nos ignoramus? Melius eſt ergo, vt vtamur eo noſipſi, diſponendo ad voluntatem, noſtram. Demus enim iudicibus decimam partem, & placatis eis, facere poſſumus, quod volumus. Ego vere ſum ſimilis illi potenti Domino, qui ædificauit mihi ciuitatem, id eſt mundum, in quo conſtitui palatium, id eſt Eccleſiam. Nomen mundi fuit diuina ſapientia, quia à principio mundus hoc nomen habuit, quod erat factus in diuina ſapientia. Hoc nomen venerabatur ab omnibus, & laudabatur Deus à creatura ſua in ſapientia ſua, & mirabiliter prædicabatur, nunc autem inhonoratum eſt nomen ciuitatis, & immutatum, & acceſſit nouum nomen, id eſt, humana ſapientia. Iudices enim qui priùs iudicabant in iuſtitia, & in timore Domini, nunc conuerſi ſunt ad ſuperbiam, & homines ſimplices ſupplantant. Appetunt eſſe eloquentes, vt habeant laudes hominum, loquuntur placentia, vt obtineant fauores. Verba leniter ferunt, vt boni, & mites vocentur, recipiunt munera, & peruertunt iudicium. Sapientes ſunt pro temporali vtilitate ſua, & voluntate propria, ſed muti pro laude mea. Simplices conculcant ſub pedibus, & obmutescere faciunt. Cupiditatem ſuam dilatant ad omnes, & de recto faciunt falſum. Hæc ſapientia nunc diligitur, mea autem data eſt oblioni. Defenſores vero Eccleſiæ, qui ciuiles, & milites ſunt, vident inimicos meos, & impugnatores Eccleſiæ meæ, & diſſimulant, audiunt verba improperij eorum, & non curant. Intelligunt, & ſentiunt opera impugnatorum mandatorum meorum, & tamen patienter ferunt. Aſpiciunt eos quotidie illicite perpetrare omnia mortalia peccata, & non compunguntur, ſed dormiunt, & obducuntur cum eis, & alligant ſe iuramento ad ſocietatem eorum. Laborantes vero, qui ſunt communitas tota, reſpuunt mandata mea. Retinent dona mea, & decimas meas. Offerunt dona iudicibus ſuis, & eis reuerentiam exhibent, vt eos benęuolos, & placabiles inueniant. Vere laudatur dicere poſſum, quod gladius timoris mei, & Eccleſiæ meæ, in mundo abiectus eſt, & pro eo aſſumptus eſt ſaccus pecuniæ.

VERBA QVALITER DOMInus capitulum ſuperius immediate dictum declarat, & de ſententia contrariales illata, & qualiter Deus ad tempus propter bonos ſubſtinet malos.

CAP. LVI.

DIXIT tibi prius. Quia gladius Eccleſię meæ abiectus eſt, & pro eo aſſumptus eſt ſaccus pecuniæ, qui ex vna parte apertus eſt, & ex alia ſic profundus, quod quicquid ingreditur nunquam capit fundum, nec vnquam impletur. Hic ſaccus eſt cupiditas, quæ omnem modum, & menſuram excedit, & in tantum modum, quod contempto Domino nil deſidedesideratur nisi pecunia, & propria voluntas. Attamen ego sum sicut Dominus, qui & Pater, & iudex est. Cui cuncti ad iudicium dicunt circumstantes. Domine procede citius, & fac iudicium. Quibus respondit Dominus. Expectate modicum vsque cras, quia forte filius meus adhuc interim emendabit se. Veniente autem eo altero die, dicunt ei populi. Procede Domine, & fac iudicium. Vsquequo protrahis iudicium, & non iudicas nocentes? Respondit Dominus. Adhuc modicum expectate, si filius meus emendet se. Et tunc si non resipiscet, faciam quod iustum est. Sic ego patienter suffero hominem vsque ad nouissimum punctum, quia Pater, & iudex sum. Veruntamen quia iustitia mea incommutabilis est, & quamuis diu protrahitur, tamen aut puniam si non emendauerint se peccatores, aut misericordiam faciam in conuersos. Dixi etiam tibi prius, quod populum diuisi in tres partes, scilicet in iudices, in defensores, & laboratores. Quos enim significant isti iudices, nisi clericos, qui diuinam sapientiam verterunt in prauam, & vanam. Sicut illi clerici solent facere, qui recipiunt multa verba, & componunt in pauca, & illa pauca verba sonant idem quod illa multa. Sic clerici huius temporis, receperunt decem mandata mea, & composuerunt in vnum verbum. Quid est hoc vnum verbum? Porrige manum, & da pecuniam. Haec est sapientia eorum, loqui pulchre, & agere male. Simulare se meum, & agere nequiter contra me. Ipsi denique pro muneribus, peccantes libenter patiuntur in peccatis. Simplices exemplo suo prauo praecipitant. Insuper euntes per viam meam odiunt. Secundo defensores Ecclesiae, idest, curiales sunt infideles, qui fregerunt promissionem suam, & iuramentum, & peccantes contra fidem Ecclesiae meae, & constitutionem, libenter tolerant. Tertio laboratores, id est, communitas, sunt sicut tauri indomiti, qui habent tria. Effodiunt enim terram pedibus. Secundo implent se ad saticitatem. Tertio cõplent voluptatem suam iuxta desiderium suum. Sic communitas, nunc totis affectionibus inhiat temporalibus. Implet se immoderata gula, & vanitate mundi. Complet absque ratione carnis suae delectationem. Sed licet inimici mei sint multi, tamen inter eos multos habeo amicos, quamuis occultos. a Sicut dicebatur ad Heliam, qui nullum putabat superesse amicum meum, nisi se solum. Habeo inquit septem milia virorum, qui non flectebant genua sua ante Baal. Sic ego licet multi sint inimici, habeo tamen occultos amicos inter eos, qui quotidie plorant, quod inimici mei praeualuerunt, & quod nomen meum despicitur. Propterea propter preces eorum, sicut Rex charitatiuus, & bonus sciens opera ciuitatis mala, patienter tolerat inhabitantes, & mittit litteras amicis suis, faciens eos cautos de periculo suo. Sic ego verba mea mitto amicis meis, quae non sic obscura sunt, vt Apocalypsis, quam Ioanni ostendi sub obscuritate, vt à spiritu meo in suo tempore, cum mihi placeret explanarentur. Nec ita occulta sunt, vt non annuncientur, sicut Paulus videbat de mysterijs meis, quae non licebat loqui. Sed sic aperta sunt, vt omnes tã parui, quam magni intelligant. Tam leuia, vt omnes, qui velint possunt capere. Ergo amici mei, verba mea venire faciant ad inimicos meos, si forte conuertantur, & innotescat eis periculum, & iudicium eorum, vt compungantur de factis suis. Alioquin iudicium erit ciuitatis, & sicut interrumpitur murus, vbi non relinquitur lapis super lapidem, nec in fundamento duo lapides sibi mutuo adhaerebunt, sic ciuitati, id est, mundo fiet. Iudices vero ardebunt igne ardentissimo. Nullus autem ignis est ardentior, quam qui nutritur aliqua pinguedine. Isti iudices pingues fuerunt, quia plus occasionem habuerunt complendi voluntatem suam. Plus alijs excedebant honore, & abundantia temporalium. Plus alijs abundabãt malitia, & iniquitate, ideo in sartagine feruentissima ardebunt. Defensores vero suspendentur in altissimo patibulo. Patibulũ enim constat ex duobus lignis erectis, & tertio posito ex transuerso, vt superliminare. Hoc patibulum cum duobus lignis est poena eorum saeuissima, quae constat quasi ex duobus lignis. Primum est, quod non sperabant premium meum aeternum, nec pro eo operibus laborabant. Secundum lignum est, quod diffidebant de potentia, & bonitate mea, quod non omnia possem, nec vellem dare eis ad sufficientiam. Lignum autem ex transuerso est conscientia eorum praua ex eo videlicet, quod intelligebant bene, & faciebant mala, nec verecundabantur facere contra conscientiam suam. Funiculus autem patibuli est ignis aeternus, qui non extinguitur aqua, nec rescinditur forficibus, nec limetur, nec rumpetur vetustate. In hoc patibulo vbi poena est saeuissima, & ignis inextinguibilis, pendebunt, & habebunt cõfusionem sicut proditores sentient miserias quia fuerant infideles. Audient opprobria, quia displicuerunt eis verba mea. Erit vt in ore eorum, quia laus, & honor proprius dulcis fuit eis. In hoc patibulo, lacerabũt eos corui viui, id est, daemones, qui numquam satiantur, sed nec lacerati consumentur, sine fine viuent cruciati, & sine fine viuent

uent cruciatores. Ibi erit væ, quod nunquam finietur, miseria, quæ nunquam mitigabitur. Væ eis quia vnquam nati fuerunt. Væ eis quia vita eorum prolongata fuerat. Tertio iustitia laboratorum est qualis taurorum. Tauri habent carnem, & pellem nimis duram, ideo iudicium eorum est ferrum acutissimum. Hoc ferrum acutissimum est mors inferni, quæ cruciabit eos, qui me contempserunt, & propriam voluntatem, pro mandato meo dilexerunt. Littera igitur, id est, verba mea scripta est, laborent amici mei, vt ad inimicos meos sapienter, & discrete veniant, si forte audire velint, & resipiscere. Si autem aliqui auditis verbis meis dixerunt, expectemus adhuc modicū, tempus nondum veniet, nondum est tempus 3 eius. 3 Ego iuro in deitate mea, quæ Adam expulit de paradiso, Pharaoni decem plagas immisit, quod venio eis citius, quam credunt. Ego iuro in humanitate mea, quam de Virgine assumpsi sine peccato pro salute hominum, in qua tribulationem habui in corde, pœnam sum passus in carne, & mortem pro vita hominum, in qua resurrexi, & ascendi, & sedeo ad dexteram Patris verus Deus, & homo in vna persona, quod complebo verba mea. Ego iuro in spiritu meo, qui super Apostolos in die Pentecostes est missus, & inflammauit eos, vt omnium gentium linguis loquerentur, quod nisi cum emendatione ad me quasi serui, & fragiles redierint vindicabor in eos in ira mea. Tunc vę erit eis in corpore, & anima. Væ quia viui in mundum venerunt, & in mundo vixerunt. Væ quia modica fuit eorum voluptas, & adhuc illa vana, & cruciatus eorum erit perpetuus. Tunc sentient quod nunc credere contemnunt, quod verba mea fuerunt charitatis. Tunc intelligent, quod quasi pater monui eos, & me noluerunt audire. Ecce si verbis noluerint credere benuole, credent operibus cum venerint.

NOTAE.

1 var. lect. HAec est sapientia eorum loqui pulchre, & agere male, simulare se meū, & agere contra me.

Sic in vulgatis habetur, sed Codex Farnesianus M. S. sic habet, Hæc est sapientia eorum loqui pulchre, & agere male, simulant enim seruire mihi, & agunt contra me.

2 Sicut dicebatur ad Heliam, qui nullum putabat superesse amicum, nisi se solum, habeo, inquit, septem millia virorum, qui non flectabant genua sua ante Baal.

Eādem penitus sententiam legimus 3. Reg. cap. 19. & Rom. 11. Ad horum intelligentiam sciendum est primo, Baal esse nomen Idoli, quod D. Hieron. in Genesim. cap. 9. & super Sophon. cap. 1. interpretatur, aut dominans, vel subyciens, aut possidens, de qua in pluribus scripturæ locis mentio fit, vt num. 22. Hyeremiæ 2. Oseæ 2. Sophon. 1. sed Theodoretus in Hyeremiā cap. 22. affirmat Baal esse nomen Idolarum generale, & Dionys. Carthusianus in Epistolam ad Rom. loco citato esse Deum Achab, Iezabel, sed quidquid sit de nominis etimologia dicendum est Christū Dominū hoc loco insinuare voluisse B. Brigitæ, quod quamuis multi ex clericis ei terga verterint, & legē suā, ac præcepta deseruerint non tamen deesse sibi alios, qui amici eius sint, quique pro delictis suis, ac etiam inimicis preces ad Deum quotidie fundant, sicut enim dictum est Heliæ Prophetæ, qui existimabat in se solo saluas esse religionis, ac pietatis reliquias, quod adhuc sibi supererant septem millia virorum, qui non curuauerunt genua ante Baal, sic Christus Dominus hic B. Brigittæ dicit quod licet multos inimicos habeat, plures tamen sibi esse inter eos occultos, qui quotidie pro suis, eiusque peccatis plorant.

3 Ego iuro in Deitate mea, quæ Adam expulit de Paradiso, Pharaoni decē plagas immisit, quod venio eis citius, quam credunt.

Hic de vltimo Christi D. aduentu ad vniuersale iudicium sermo fit, quod aperte colligi potest ex his verbis, quæ aliquanto post hoc eodem cap. leguntur, vbi scribitur, tunc væ erit eis in corpore, & anima, cruciabuntur enim post latam sententiam in corpore, & anima: cum autem legimus iuste venio citius, quam credent, innuitur extremum vniuersale iudicium, quam citissime esse peragendum, quod etiam ex sanctis Patribus docent D. CAP. LVII.

FILIVS loquebatur ad ſponſam. Sic faciunt mihi Chriſtiani nũc ſicut iudei fecerunt mihi. Ipſi eiecerũt me de templo, & habebant perfectam voluntatem interficiendi me, ſed quia nõ dum venerat hora mea, exiui de manibus eorum. Sic chriſtiani faciunt mihi nunc. Ipſi eiiciunt me de templo ſuo, ideſt, de anima eorum, quæ templum meum eſſe deberet, & libenter occiderent me ſi poſſent. Ego ſum in ore eorum, quaſi caro putrida, & fœtens, & videor eis quaſi homo loquens mendacium, & nihil curant de me. Ipſi vertunt ad me dorſum, & ego ad eos vertã occiput, quia in ore eorũ nihil eſt niſi cupiditas. In carne luxuria quaſi iumenti. In auditu eorũ placet ſola ſuperbia. In viſu delectabilia mundi. Paſſio vero mea, & charitas eſt eis abhominabilis, & vita mea grauis. Propterea ego faciam ſicut animal illud facit, q̃ multa latibula habet, quod cũ perſecutum a venatoribus fuerit in vno latibulo, fugit in aliud. Sic ego faciam, quia chriſtiani perſequuntur me malis operibus ſuis, & eiiciũt me de latibulo cordis ſui. Ideo ingredi volo ad paganos, in quorũ ore nunc ſum amarus, & inſipidus, & ero in ore eorum dulcis ſuper mel. Attamen adhuc ita miſericors ſum, quod quicunque petierint veniã, & dixerint. Domine ego cognoſco me graniter peccaſſe, & libenter volo me emendare per gratiam tuã miſerere mei propter amarã paſſionem tuã, ego gaudẽter ſuſcipio eum. Qui aũt perſtiterint in malo ſuo, veniã eis quaſi gygas, qui habet tria, ſcilicet terribilitatem, fortitudinem, & aſperitatem. Sic veniam chriſtianis terribilis, vt non minimum digitum audeant mouere contra me. veniam, & ſic fortis, quod quaſi culex erunt ante me. CAP. LVIII.

MATER loquebatur ad ſponſam. 1. Conſidera ſponſa noua paſſionẽ filii mei, cuius paſſio omnium ſanctorum paſſionẽ in amaritudine ſuperauit. Sicut enim mater, ſi filium ſuum viuum incidi videret amariſſime turbaretur, ſic ego in paſſione filij mei, viſa amaritudine eius turbabar. Deinde loquebatur ad filium. Benedictus ſis tu fili mi, quia ſanctus es ſicut cantatur. Sanctus, Sanctus, Sãctus Dominus Deus ſabaoth. Benedictus ſis tu, quia dulcis es, dulcior, & dulciſſimus. Tu ſanctus eras ante incarnationẽ, ſanctus in vtero, ſanctus poſt incarnationẽ. Tu etiam dulcis fuiſti ante mundi creationem, dulcior Angelis, dulciſſimus mihi in incarnatione. Reſpondit filius. Benedicta ſis tu Mater præ omnibus Angelis. Sicut enim mater, vt nunc dixiſti fui dulciſſimus, ſic malis sũ amarus, amarior, amariſſimus. Amarus ſum illis, qui dicunt me creaſſe multã ſine cauſa, qui blaſphemant me hominẽ creaſſe ad mortem, non ad vitã. O miſera, & inſenſata cogitatio. Nunquid ego iuſtiſſimus, & virtuoſiſſimus Angelos creaui ſine ratione. Nunquid ego tanta bonitate ditaſſem hominẽ, ſi creaſsẽ cũ ad dãnationẽ? Nequaquã. Ego quippe omnia bene feci, & ex charitate oẽ bonum dedi homini.

Ipſe aũt oĩa bona vertit ſibi in malũ. Non ego aliquod malum fecerim, ſed quia ipſe homo cũ aliter quã ſecundũ diuinam conſtitutionẽ mouet voluntatẽ ſuã, hoc eſt ad malũ.
2 2. His aũt ſum amarior, qui dicunt me liberũ arbitriũ dediſſe ad peccandũ, & nõ faciendũ bonũ. Qui dicunt me iniuſtũ eſſe, a eo q̃ alios iuſtifico. Qui imputant mihi, quod mali ſunt, quia ſubtraho eis gratiã meã. His vero ſum amariſſimus, qui dicunt legẽ, & mãdata mea difficillima, & neminem poſſe implere ea, qui dicunt paſſionẽ meã eis nihil valere, ideo, & pro nihilo reputant eã. Propterea iuro in vita mea, ſicut olim iurabã Prophetis, quod excuſabo me corã Angelis, & omnibus Sanctis meis, & p̃babunt hi, quibus amarus ſum, me oĩa rationabiliter, & bene creaſſe, & ad vtilitatem, & eruditionem hominis, nec minimũ vermẽ ſine cauſa ſubſiſtere. Hi vero, qui me amariorẽ habent, probabunt me, liberũ arbitrium pro bono hominibus ſapiẽter dediſſe. Scient, & me eſſe iuſtum, qui bono homini do æternum regnum. Malo vero æternum ſupplicium. Non.n. deceret diabolum, qui á me benefactus eſt, & ex malitia ſua lapſus, vt cum bono ſocietatem haberet. Probabunt etiã mali homines non eſſe propter meam culpam, quod ipſi mali ſunt, ſed propter ſuam culpã p̃priam. Ego.n. ſi poſſibile eſſet libenter pro vno quoq; homine talẽ pœnam exciperẽ, qualem ſemel in cruce pro oĩbus recepi ad hoc, vt ad p̃miſſam hæreditatem redirent. Sed homo voluntatem ſuam ſemper habet mihi cõtrariam. Cui ideo dedi libertatem, vt ſeruiret mihi ſi vellet, & haberet ẽternũ premiũ, ſi autẽ nollet, haberet ſupplicium cum diabolo, propter cuius malitiã & eius ſequacium infernus iuſte factus eſt. Ego.n. q̃a charitatiuus ſum, nolo, vt hõ ſeruiat mihi ex timore, vel coactus quaſi aĩal irrationale, ſed ex diuina charitate. Quia nullus videre põt faciẽ meã, qui inuitus ſeruit mihi, ex timore pœnæ. Illi vero, quibus amariſſimus ſum, intelligent in conſcientia ſua legem meam fuiſſe leuiſſimam, & iugum meum ſuauiſſimum, & dolebunt inconſolabiliter, quod ſpreuerunt legem meam, & quod dilexerunt magis mundum, cuius iugum grauius eſt, & difficilius multo, quam meum. Tunc reſpondit mater. Benedictus ſis tu fili mi, Deus meus, & Dominus meus. Rogo te, vt quia tu mihi fuiſti dulciſſimus alii participes fiant dulcedinis meæ. Cui reſpondit filius. Benedicta ſis tu chariſſima mater, verba tua ſunt dulcia, & charitate plena. Ideo quicunque de dulcedine tua in os ſuum receperit, & perfecte tenuerit proficiet ei. Qui autem receperit, & & reiecerit tanto amrius ſupplicium habebit. Tunc reſpondit Virgo. Benedictus ſis tu fili mi pro omni dilectione tua.

VERBA CHRISTI PRAEsente ſponſa, ſcilicet qualiter Chriſtus per ruſticum, boni ſacerdotes per bonum paſtorem, mali ſacerdotes per malum paſtorem, & boni Chriſtiani per vxorem deſignantur, & figurantur. In qua figura multa vtilia continentur.

CAP. LIX.

EGO ſum qui nunquam dixi falſum. Ego reputor in mũdo quaſi ruſticus, cuius nomen videtur contemptibile. Verba mea reputantur fatua, & domus mea reputatur tugurium vile. Iſte ruſticus habuit vxorem, quæ nihil voluit niſi iuxta voluntatem eius, quæ poſſidebat omnia cum viro, & habuit eum pro domino ſuo obediens ei in omnibus quaſi domino ſuo. Iſte ruſticus habuit etiam multas ones; ad quarum cuſtodiam conduxit ſibi paſtorem pro quinque aureis, & vt miniſtraret ei neceſſaria vitæ ſuæ. Iſte paſtor, quia bonus erat, auro vtebatur ad vtilitatem ſuam victualibus ad neceſſitatem vitæ. Poſt iſtum paſtorem tranſeunte tempore aliquo venit alius deterior, qui cum auro emit ſibi vxorem, ad quam detulit cibaria ſua, continue requieſcens cum illa, non curans de ouibus, quæ miſerabiliter a beſtijs crudelibus diſpergebantur. Tunc ruſticus videns diſperſionem ouium ſuarum clamabat dicẽs:

1 Paſtor meus eſt mihi infidelis 1. Oues meæ
var. diſperſæ ſunt, & a beſtijs ferociſſimis aliquæ lect. deuoratæ penitus cum corpore, & vellere. Aliquæ mortuæ ſunt, ſed corpora incommeſta. Tunc dixit ruſticus viro ſuo vxor. Domine mi, corpora quæ deuorata ſunt certum eſt, quod non rehabebimus, ergo corpora illa, quæ remanent intacta quamuis ſine ſpiritu ſunt deferamus domum, & vtamur eis. Si enim ex toto caruerimus intolerabile erit nobis. Reſpondit ei maritus. Quid ergo faciemus, quia animalia venenata erant dentibus, caro ouium ſimiliter infecta eſt veneno mortifero, pelles corruptæ, lana conglobata in vnum. Reſpondit vxor, ſi omnia maculata ſunt, & omnia auferuntur vnde tunc viuemus. Reſpondit maritus. Ego video in tribus locis viuentes oues. Quædam ſunt ſimiles mortuis ouibus, quæ præ timore non audẽt

2 reſpirare. Secundæ iacent in luto profundo, var. nec ſufficiunt eleuare ſe 2. Tertiæ ſtant in lect. latebris, nec audent procedere. Ergo vxor mea veni, & erigamus oues, quæ conantur ſurgere, & ſine auxilio non ſufficiunt, & vtamur eis. Ecce ego dominus ſum ille ruſticus quia ab hominibus reputor quaſi anſius nutritus in cubili ſuo, iuxta modum, & mores ſuos. Nomen meum eſt ſanctæ Eccleſiæ diſpoſitio. Hæc reputatur contemptibilis, quia ſacramẽta Eccleſiæ, ſcilicet baptiſmus, chriſma, vnctio, pœnitentia, & coniugium recipiuntur quaſi pro deriſione, & dantur alijs pro cupiditate. Verba mea iudicantur fatua, quia verba, quæ proprio ore loquebar cum ſimilitudinibus, vertuntur de ſpirituali intelligentia ad corporis alleuiationem. Domus mea videtur contemptibilis, quia terrena diliguntur pro cæleſtibus. Per paſtorem iſtum primum, quem habui, intelligo amicos meos ſacerdotes, quos olim in ſancta Eccleſia habui, quia per vnius vocabulũ intelligo plures. His commiſi oues meas, ideſt corpus meum digniſſimum ſanctificandum, & animas electorum meorum gubernandas, & defendendas. Quibus etiam dedi quinque bona præcioſiora omni auro, ſcilicet conſcientiam, intelligentem ſuper omnia irrationabilia, vt diſcernerent inter bonum, & malum, inter verum, & falſum. Secundo dedi eis ſpiritualium rerum, intelligentiam, & ſapientiam, quæ nunc oblita eſt, & diligitur pro ea humana ſapientia. Tertio dedi eis caſtitatem. Quarto temperantiam omnium rerum, & abſtinentiam ad corporis moderationem. Quinto ſtabilitatem in bonis moribus, verbis, & operibus. Poſt iſtum primum paſtorẽ, ideſt amicos meos, qui antiquitus erant in Eccleſia mea, ſubintrauerunt nunc aliqui paſtores, qui pro auro emerunt ſibi vxorem, ideſt pro caſtitate, & illis quinque bonis aſſumpſerunt ſibi femineum corpus, ideſt incontinentiam, per quam ſpiritus meus diſceſſit ab eis. Quando enim voluntatem habent completam peccandi, & ſatiandi coningem ſuam, ideſt voluptatem ſuam ad libitum ſuum, tunc ſpiritus meus abeſt ab eis, quia non curant de ouium dãno ſi poſſint voluptatem ſuam perficere. Oues autem, quæ ex toto ſunt deuoratæ, illi ſunt, quorum animæ in inferno ſunt, & corpora condita in ſepulchris, expectantia reſurrectionem damnationis æternæ. Oues vero, quarum carnes remanent, & ſpiritus ablatus eſt, ſunt illi, qui nec diligunt, nec timent me, nec aliqua deuotione, & cura afficiuntur circa me. Ab illis enim longe eſt ſpiritus meus, quia caro eorum ex venenatis beſtiarum dentibus venenata eſt, ideſt anima eorum, & cogitationes, quæ deſignantur in carne ouium, & inteſtinis ſic amara ſunt mihi, & abominabilia, ad delectandum in eis, quemadmodum caro venenata. Pellis eorum, ideſt, corpus eorum aridum est ab omni bono; & ab omni charitate, & nulli vsui aptum in regno meo, sed tradetur igni perpetuo in inferno post iudicium. Lana eorum, idest opera eorum ex toto inutilia sunt, vt nihil inueniatur in eis, pro quibus charitatem meam, & gratiam, digni sint habere. Quid ergo nunc o vxor mea, idest boni Christiani, quos in vxore intelligo faciemus. Ego video in tribus locis viuentes oues, quædam sunt similes mortuis ouibus, quæ præ timore non audent respirare. Hi sunt gentiles, qui libenter vellent habere fidem rectam si scirent quomodo, sed ipsi non audent respirare, idest non audent præ timore dimittere fidem, quam habent, nec audent recipere rectam. Secundo oues sunt, quæ stant in latebris, nec audent procedere. Hi sunt Iudæi, qui stat quasi sub velamine, qui libenter procederent si scirent procerto modo natũ. Occultant autẽ se quasi sub velamento, quia in figuris, & signis, quæ me in lege significabant, & in me veraciter completa sunt sperant salutem, & ex illa vana spe timent ad fidem rectam procedere. Tertiæ oues, quæ in luto stant, sunt Christiani in mortalibus peccatis constituti. Ipsi enim propter timorem supplicij libenter surgerent, sed non possunt propter peccata grania, & quia nullam habent charitatem. Ergo vxor, idest Christiani boni iuuate me. Nam sicut vxor, & vir vna caro, & vnum membrum esse tenentur, sic Christianus membrum meum est, & ego suum, quia ego in eo, & ipse in me. Ideo o vxor, idest boni Christiani currite mecum ad oues, quæ adhuc habent spiritum, & erigamus eas, & refoueamus. Compatimini mihi, quia multum care emi oues, recipe mecum, & ego tecum. Tu in deorsum, & ego in caput, gaudenter duco eas inter manus meas. Ego portaui eas omnes semel in dorso meo, & quando erat totum sauciatum, & stipiti affixum, O amici mei sic tenere diligo oues istas, quod si possibile esset, adhuc mori propter quamlibet ouem speciali morte, qualem in cruce semel pro omnibus passum sum, magis eas redimerem, quam eis carerem 3. Ergo clamo ad amicos meos toto corde, quod non parcant labori pro me, non bonis, & si mihi de verbis improperij non parcebatur dum eram in mundo, non parcant ipsi veritatem loqui de me. Ego non erubui illam contemptibilem mortem pro eis. Ego sicut natus fui stabam nudus ante oculos inimicorum meorum. Ego fui percussus cum pugno in dentes. Ego tractus in crinibus cum digitis eorum. Ego flagellatus flagellis eorum. Ego affixus ligno cum instrumentis eorum, & pendebam cum furibus, & latronibus in cruce. Propterea amici mei non parcatis laborare pro me, qui talia sustinui ex charitate propter vos. Laborate viriliter, & este quibus indigentibus auxilio. Ego iuro in humanitate mea, quę est in patre, & pater in me, & per Deitatem, quę est in spiritu meo, & spiritus in ea, & idẽ spiritus in me, & ego in eo, & hi tres vnus Deus in tribus personis, quod quicunque laborauerint, & porauerint opes meas mecum, occurram eis in media via ad succurrendum, & dabo eis stipendium pretiosissimum, idest meipsum in gaudium sempiternum.

NOTAE.

1 var. lect. OVes meæ dispersæ sunt, & a bestijs ferocissimis aliquę deuorant penitus cum corpore, & vellere.

Sic legunt omnes impressi codices, sed Farnesianus M. S. habet, & a bestijs ferocissimis deuorata penitus cum corpore pelle, & vellere. & hic nota quod vellus dicitur lana ex ouę densiori, & significatur in sacris litteris bona opera, quæ quidem cum ab existente in mortali peccato fiunt mortua dicuntur, & a bestijs deuorata: hoc est a dæmonibus, qui homines ad peccatum instigantibus, inhabiles reddunt ad meritorie operandum. ideo Genes. 30. scribitur fuisse oues diuersi velleris separatas, per quod mistice diuersorum operum multiplicitas designatur, quod etiam indicauit glossa ordinaria eadem.

2 var. lect. Et paulo post vbi exemplaria impressa legunt tertiæ sunt in latebris, nec audent procedere.

M. S. Farnesianus habet, nec audent se præsentare.

3 var. lect. Ego clamo ad amicos meos toto corde quod non parcant labori pro me non bonis.

Hic locus corrigendus est si cum M. S. ego clamo ad amicos meos toto corde, quod non parcant labori pro me, & pro meis bonis omnibus amicis.

VERBA FILII AD SPONSAM de tribus generibus Christianorum figuratis per Iudæos in Aegypto existentes, & qualiter ista ad sponsam reuelata sunt transferenda, & testificanda, & prædicanda per Dei amicos personis ignorantibus.

CAP. LX.

ILIVS Dei loquebatur ad sponsam dicens. Ego sum Deus Israel, & ille, qui cum Moyse loquebatur. Moyses cum ad populum meum mitteretur, petijt signum aliquod dicens non non credit mihi aliter populus. Si ergo erat populus Domini, ad quem Moyses mittebatur quare diffidebat? Sed scire debes, quod in illo populo tria genera hominum erant. Quidam credebant Deo, & Moysi, Secundi erant, qui credebant Deo, & diffidebant de Moyse, reputantes, ne forte ex ad inuentione propria, & præsumptione talia loqui, vel facere præsumeret. Tertij erant, qui nec Deo, nec Moysi credebant. Sic nunc trja genera hominum sunt inter Christianos, qui in Hebræis signantur. Aliqui sunt, qui bene credunt Deo, & verbis meis. Alij sunt, qui credunt Deo, sed diffidunt de verbis meis, quia nesciunt discernere inter spiritum bonum, & spiritum malum. Tertij sunt, qui nec credunt mihi, nec tibi, cum qua verba mea locutus sum. Sed sicut dixi, licet Hebræorum quidam diffidebant de Moyse, tamen omnes cum eo Mare rubrum transierunt in hæremum, vbi qui diffidebant colebant idola, & prouocauerunt Deum ad iram, ideo, & consumpti sunt misera morte, sed hoc non fecerunt nisi illi soli, qui malam fidem habuerunt. Propterea quia humanus animus tardus est ad credendum. Ideo amicus transferret verba mea ad eos, qui credunt ei. Ipsi postmodum diffundent ad alios, qui nesciunt discernere inter bonum spiritum, & ma-8 lum. 1 Si autem audientes petierint signũ, ostendant eis virgam, sicut Moyses fecit, id est, verba mea explanent eis. Sicut enim virga Moysi recta erat, & terribilis propter mutationem in serpentem. Sic verba mea recta sunt, & nulla in eis inuenitur falsitas. Terribilia sunt, quia iudicium rectum sonant. Præponant, & testificentur, quod ad verbum, & sonum vnius oris cessit, & recessit diabolus à Dei creatura, 2 qui nisi po-

2 testate mea refrenaretur, etiam mouere posset montes. Qualis tunc eius potentia cum permissione Dei, qui ad vnius vocis sonitum fugebatur. Propterea sicut illi Hebræi, qui nec crediderunt Deo, nec Moysi, processerunt de Aegypto in terram promis-
5 sionis quasi coartando se cum aliis. 3 Sic nunc multi Christiani quasi inuiti procedunt cum electis meis, quia non confidunt de potentia mea, quod saluare eos possim. Nullatenus credunt verbis meis, falsam spẽ
4 habent ad virtutem meam. 4 Attamen verba mea sine voluntate eorum complebuntur, & quasi arctabunt se 3 ad perfectionem, 3 vsquevar. quo veniant ad locum, lect. qui mihi placuerit.

NOTAE.

1 SI autem audientes petierint signũ ostẽdant eis virgam sicut Moyses fecit, ideſt, verba mea explanentur eis.

Verba Dei Virgæ Moſis comparantur, quia ſicut illa in terram proiecta in ſerpentem mutabatur, ſic verbum Dei, quod ſemen eſſe ſcribitur Lucæ 8 in corde fidelium proiectum eorum conuerſionem operatur, ſecundum illud Pſalm. 18. Lex Domini conuertens animas. Secundo, quia ſicut ſerpens ex virga Moſis Verbum caro factum deſignabat, & iterum ſerpens per conuerſionem in virgam redies reſurrexiſſe Chriſtum notabat, vt tradunt Tertullianus aduerſus Iudæos Greg. Niſſenus de vita Moſis D. Auguſt. ſuper Pſal. 73. & lib. 12. contra Fauſtum Manichæum cap. 28 D Chryſoſt. in Ioan. Hom. 26. D. Ambroſ. 3. de Spiritu ſancto c. 9. explicans ea verba redemiſti virgam hæreditatis tuæ, ita & qui verbum Dei libenter audiunt, illudque eorum cordibus imprimunt, & eos Chriſtum Dominum in eorum animis concepiſſe, & cum eo quoque reſurrexiſſe notatur.

2 Qui niſi a poteſtate mea refrænaretur etiam mouere poſſet montes.

Agitur hoc loco de poteſtate dæmonis, quam tantam eſſe Iob 41. cap. ſcribit, vt non ſit ſuper terram poteſtas, quæ comparetur ei, & idcirco Dauid Pſal. 71. eum abſolute potentem vocat, quia liberauit inquit pauperem a potente, quod etiam ibi annotauit Theodoretus, & late explicat D. Greg. lib. 33 Moral c. 17. & alij plures, hanc vero poteſtatem exercere in hominem minime poteſt, niſi permittente iuſto iudicio Dei, & ideo legimus hic, niſi poteſtate mea refrænaretur, quod egregiæ annotauit D. Auguſt. lib. 7. de ciuit. Dei c. 35. non enim inquit poſſunt, quod non ſinuntur efficere, ſinuntur autem alto Dei ſummi, iuſtoque iudicio pro meritis eorum, quos ab eis affligunt, idem habet lib. 10. c. 21. vbi affirmat hanc dæmonibus à Deo permiſſã poteſtatem, non ſolum non eſſe perniciosam, ſed Eccleſiæ proficuam, vt Martyrũ numerus impleatur, quos ciuitas Dei tanto clariores ciues habet quanto fortius aduerſus impietatem poteſtatum, etiam vſq; ad ſanguinem certant.

3 Sic nunc multi Chriſtiani quaſi inuiti procedunt cum electis meis.

Chriſtus Dominus hic de his Chriſtianis verba facit, qui videntur obſeruare legem Dei, eiuſque monitis obtemperare, non quia verbis eius credunt & in diuina potentia confidunt, ſed propter aliquod eorum temporale commodum, cum electis Dei procedunt, ſimul præcepta obſeruando, & dicuntur hoc loco quaſi inuiti id facere, quia non ſponte. & eo fine, vt Deo inſeruiant illud præſtant, ſed vt ſuis priuatis commodis conſulant.

4 Attamen verba mea ſine voluntate eorum complebuntur, & quaſi arctabunt ſe ad perfectionem.

Ex his verbis colligi minime poteſt, Deum Opt. Max. libero noſtro vim inferre Arbitrio, noſque abſque voluntatis noſtræ concurſu iuſtificare, & ad perfectionem trahere: legimus enim hic, quod quaſi ad perfectionem arctabunt ſe, vbi particula (quaſi) indicat nos nõ cõpelli, nec ad diuinas recipiendas vocationes cogi, ſed quod tanta eſt gratiæ & verbi Dei efficacia, vt diuinis inſpirationibus libere conſentientes, & de facto non reſiſtentes ſhi tus perfectionem ſectabimur. quæ vero antecedunt nimirum verba mea ſine voluntate eorum complebuntur, explicanda ſunt ſic, quod ſicut quæ futura ſunt ab æterno à Deo ordinata ſunt indeprehenſe ab hominum voluntate, ita quoque quæ per Prophetas prædicta ſunt in ſacris literis, perficientur in tempore, quando Deo placuerit, ac expedire iudicabit.

5 Ad finem præſentis Capitis, vbi hactenus impreſſa exemplaria legunt, vſquequo ve-var. lect. niant ad locum, qui mihi placuerit.

M. S. Farneſianus addit, & genitem, quæ mihi placuerit, hoc eſt ad electorum pernenient numerum, & cum his connumerabuntur.

INFORMATIO FILII AD SPONSAM CONTRA diabolum, & reſponſio filij ad ſponſam, qualiter non ſubtrahit malos antequam veniant in peccatum. Et qualiter baptizatus morientibus infra annos diſcretionis datur Regnum Cælorum.

CAPVT PRIMVM.

FILIVS loquebatur ad ſponſam, dicens. Quando diabolus tentat te dic ei iſta tria. Verba Dei non poſſunt eſſe niſi vera. Secundo, Deo nihil eſt impoſſibile. Tertio, quod etiam tu diabole non poteris mihi dare talem feruorem charitatis, qualē dat mihi Deus. Item ait Dominus ad ſponſam dicens. Ego video hominem tripliciter. Primo corpus extra, qualiter diſpoſitum eſt. Secundo conſcientiā intus, ad quid tendit, & qualiter. Tertio cor eius quid deſiderat. Sicut enim anus, quæ videns piſcem in mari, conſiderat profunditatem, attendit, & procellas. 2 Sic ego vias omnium ſcio, & conſidero, & quid vnicuique debetur attendo, quia perſpicationis vſus, & conſiderationis ſum ad ſciendum, quæ ſunt circa hominem, quam ipſe ſit ad cognoſcendum ſe. 2 Ergo quia omnia ſic video, & ſcio, potes quærere à me, quare non ſubtraho malos, antequam venerint in profundū peccati. Ad quod ego perſonaliter, qui quærebam. Reſpondeo tibi. Ego ſum Creator omniū, & omnia ſunt in præſcientia mea, & quæ facta, & quæ futura ſunt omnia ſcio, & video. Sed licet omnia poſſū, & ſcio, ex iuſtitia tamen non facio magis contra naturalem diſpoſitionē corporis, quā contra diſpoſitionē animæ. Omnis quippe homo ſecundum naturalē diſpoſitionem corporis, quæ eſt in præſcientia mea, & erat ab æuo ſubſiſtit. Quod autē vnus longioris vitæ erit, alter breuioris, hoc eſt ſecundū fortitudinē, & infirmitatē naturæ, & ſecundū quod 3 corporalis diſpoſitio habet ſe. 3 Quod autē vnus cæcus, alter claudus efficitur, vel aliquid huiuſmodi, hoc nō eſt propter præſcientiam meam, cū omnia ita præſcio, quod nullus fiet ex ea deterior, vel aliquibus obſit præſcientia mea. Nec fit ex elementorū curſu, & ſtatione, ſed ex occulta iuſtitia, in diſpoſitione, & conſeruatione naturæ. Peccatum enim & indiſpoſitio naturę, multipliciter de fornicatorem adducunt membrorū. Nec ideo fit quia volo, ſed quia ex iuſtitia permitto fieri, quãuis enim omnia poſſim, iuſtitiæ tamen non reſiſto. Ergo quod aliquis minus, vel plus viuit, hoc eſt ſecundũ naturę infirmæ, vel fortis diſpoſitionem, quæ in præſciẽtia mea eſt, contra quam venire nullus poteſt. Similiter per ſimilitudinem intelligere potes. Dato quod eſſent duę viæ, & ad eas vna ſola via duceret. In illis autem vijs eſſent innumerabiles foſſæ, vna contra aliam, & ſuper aliam. Finis vero vnius illarũ duarum viarũ directe tendebat in infimũ, & finis alterius tendebat ſurſũ. In cõpitis vero viarũ ſic erat ſcriptum, quicunq. vadit per iſtam viã, incipit eã cum delectatione, & voluptate carnis, & terminat eã in magna miſeria, & confuſione. Qui aũt vadit per iſtam aliam viam, incipit cum modico, & tolerabili labore, & terminatur cum maximo gaudio & conſolatione. Ille vero qui incedebat primo per illam vnam viã, cęcus ex toto erat, ſed cum veniſſet ad compita viarum aperiebantur oculi eius, & videbat ſcripturam illã in qua cõtinebatur finis illarum duarum viarum. Quam quidem ſcripturam cum ille attenderet, & ſecum deliberaret, apparuerunt ſtatim duo viri iuxta eum, ad quorum cuſtodiam pertinebant illæ duæ viæ. Qui conſiderantes viatorem in compitis, loquẽtes inter ſe dixerunt: Cõſideremus diligenter per quã viam magis incedere voluerit, & eius cuius via magis elegerit proprius erit. Viator aũt conſiderans ſecum fines viarum, & merita, prudenti vſus conſilio eligebat magis viam cuius principium erat modici doloris, & finis gaudium, quã illã, quæ in gaudio incipiebat, & terminabatur in dolore. Tolerabilius enim credebat, & ſanius fore modico fatigari labore in principio, & in fine quieſcere ſecure. Nunquid ſcis tu quid iſta ſignificent? Ego certe dicam tibi. Duæ iſtæ viæ ſunt bonum, & malum, quod ante hominẽ eſt, quod magis eligere velit in poteſtate ſua, & libero arbitrio ſuo conſtitutum eſt, cum venerit ad annos diſcretionis. Ad has duas vias .ſ. electionis boni, & mali, vna via ducit .ſ. ætas adoleſcentiæ, ducens ad annos diſcretionis. Qui hanc viam primum ambulat quaſi cœcus eſt, quia ab adoleſcentia vſquequo homo venerit ad annos diſcretionis, quaſi cœcus eſt, neſciens diſcernere inter bonum, & malũ, inter peccatum, & virtutem, inter mãdata, & prohibita. Ergo homo ambulans in vna ſola via .ſ. in ætate puerili, ſimilis cœco eſt. Cum autẽ venerit ad cõpita viarum, id eſt ad annos diſcretionis, tunc aperiuntur ei oculi intelligentiæ. Nam tunc ſcit conſiderare quid ſit melius, modicum habere dolorem, & æternum gaudium; quam modicum gaudium, & æternum dolorẽ. Et tunc quamcunq. viã elegerit, non deerunt illi, qui greſſus euis diligenter numerabunt. In iſtis autẽ vijs multæ ſunt foſſæ, vna contra aliam, & vna ante aliam, quia in ætate iuuentutis, & in ætate ſenectutis, vnus moritur citius, alter tardius, vnus in iuuentute, alter in ſenectute. Ergo finis huius vitæ bene in foſſis ſignificari poteſt, quem habebunt oẽs, vnus ſic, alius vero ſic, prout naturalis diſpoſitio exigit, & prout in præſcientia mea eſt. Si .n. aliquem contra naturalem diſpoſitionẽ corporis ſubtraherem, ſtatim contra me occaſionem haberet diabolus. Et ideo, ne diabolus in minimo inueniat in me aliquid contra iuſtitiam, non magis facio contra naturalem diſpoſitionem corporis, quã animę. Attamen conſidera bonitatem, & miſericordiã meam. Ego .n. ſicut dicit magiſter, facio illis virtutem, qui non habent virtutem. Ego ex multa charitate omnibus illis, qui baptizati ſunt, & infra annos diſcretionis moriuntur do regnum cælorum, ſicut ſcribitur. Complacuit patri meo talibus dare regnum cælorum. Adhuc etiam ex pietate mea facio cum infantibus paganorum miſericordiam. Nam quicunque eorum infra annos diſcretionis moriuntur, quia ad cognitionem faciei meæ venire non poſſunt, veniẽt in locum quendam tibi non licitum ſcire, 4 vbi ſine cruciatu morabuntur. Qui autem ab vna via progreſſi veniunt ad illas duas, ideſt ad annos diſcretionis boni, & mali, tũc in eorum poteſtate eſt eligere quod magis eis placuerit, & ſecundum quod tunc ſtatuunt voluntatem ſuam, talis eorum ſequitur remuneratio, 5 quia tunc ſciebant legere ſcripturam ſcriptam in compitis viarum, var. lect. .ſ. quod melius eſſet modicum habere dolorem in principio, & in procinctu gaudium, quam in principio gaudium, & in fine dolorem. Veruntamen contingit quandoq. quod ante naturalem diſpoſitionem corporis, aliqui ſubtrahuntur, vt puta per homicidium, ebrietatem, & aliquid huiuſmodi, quia diaboli malitia tanta eſt, quod nimis longam peccator ille haberet pœnam, ſi diutius perſeueraret in mundo. Et ideo exigente iuſtitia, & peccatis, aliqui ante naturalem diſpoſitionem corporis ſubtrahuntur; quæ quidẽ ſubtractio in præſcientia mea ab æuo fuit, contra quam aliquem venire impoſſibile eſt. Sic etiam quandoq. boni, ante naturalem diſpoſitionem corporis ſubtrahuntur, quia ex nimia charitate, quam ad eos habeo, & ipſi ex feruore dilectionis, & ex labore refrenationis corporis, quam habent ad me, ſicut in præſcientia mea ab æuo fuerat, exigente iuſtitia, quandoq. ſubtrahuntur. Ergo non magis facio contra naturalem diſpoſitionem corporis, quam animæ.

CAPVT PRIMVM.

1 var. lect.
I.C ego vias omnium scio.

Farnesianus Codex M. 6. habet, Vias hominum scio. Scrutator enim Deus est cordium, & discretor cogitationum, ac intentionum, vt dicit Apostolus ad Hebr. 4. & Hieremi. 17. & 1. Reg. 16. & 1. Paralip. 28. & ideo legimus hic, Quod ipse attendit, quod vnicuique debetur.

2 Ergo quia omnia sic video, & scio potes a me quærere, cur non subtraho malos antequam venerint in profundum peccati.

Hoc loco difficilis admodum proponitur dubitatio, quare Deus eos peccatores de medio non tollat, quos præscius in profundum peccatorum fore demergendos, hoc enim videtur spectare ad misericordiam eius, ne ipsi fiant quotidie grauioris pœnæ rei, sibique iram Dei thesaurizent, cui breuiter respondetur hic, quod licet posset Deus eos destruere, hoc tamen non facit, ne suæ resistat iustitiæ, quod innuitur infra hoc eodem cap. cum legimus, quod licet omnia possim, & sciam ex iustitia tamen non facio, ad cuius rei intellectum nota, quod sicut Deus conferens hominibus naturalem corporis dispositionem permittit homines regulariter longioris, vel brevioris esse vitæ, prout perfectioris, ac denarialis complexionis existunt, vtque talis dispositio exigit, nisi forte occulto eius indicio aliter fiat, ita quoque posita naturali animæ dispositione, quæ in libertate consistit Arbitrij, cum hominem libertati creauerit, illumque in manu consilij sui reliquerit, vt Ecclesiastici 15. scribitur, statim eum quando potest de medio tollit, quia spectat ad iustitiam eius, vt quem libere condidit, eum etiam libere viuere sinat, inita naturalem animæ corporisque dispositionem, vnumquodque enim Deus gubernat secundum rerum naturas, omnia namque suauiter disponit, Sapientiæ 8. scribitur, vnde liberum hominem non cogit, nec detinet, quominus libere agat. 2. quia vt auctor est D. Dyonis. 4. cap. de diuinis nominibus, ipsa rerum natura hoc habet, vtque deficere possint quandoque deficiant, & ideo aliquanto post initium huius cap. legitur, quod nec idcirco sit, quia volo, sed quia ex iustitia permitto fieri, quamuis enim omnia possim a iustitia tamen non recedo, sed huius quoque rei sententias possem afferre causas, aliquas tamen potiores indicabo.

Mali primo permittuntur a Deo ad bonorum probationem, & meritum sic enim habetur lib. 1. cap. 2. sicut enim Rosa, qua suauiter redolet, crescit inter spinas, & vinum optime seruatur in fece sic boni inter malos, neque enim valde laudabile est inquit D. Greg. 1. Moral. cap. 1. bonum esse cum bonis, sed bonum esse cum malis, & D. August. lib. 16. cap. 21. contra faustum ad aliquem vsum faustorum ordinatur omnis excitas impiorum a summo Deo, qui pro sui regiminis æquitate bene vtitur etiam malis, & de Genesi ad literam lib. 11. cap. 6. cur non crearet quos præscichat bonis profuturos, & ex sent. decerptis ex eodem sent. 49. Tom. 3. melior est hoc tempore causa iustorum, qui quanto serius impetuntur tanto gloriosius coronantur, quomodo autem mali prosint bonis fuse tradit Lodulphus de vita Christi 1. par. cap. 63. & idem August. lib. 83. quæst. q. 27. Tomo 4.

Secundo sustinentur mali, vt tempus eorum compleatur a iustitia Dei decretum, vt quæ aliis eorum malitia, ac etiam diuina innotescat iustitia.

Tertio, vt diuina misericordia, & patientia propaletur, per quam ad conuersionem impij expectantur, & præsertim si bi aliorum casus, ac requisitum considerauerint forte resipiscent veluti, cum quis a scorpione percussus, sr oleo ungitur, in quo sue-rit scorpio infusus sanatur.

Quarto, quia fortasse bona fecerunt, pro quibus remunerari debent vsque ad vltimum punctum.

Quinto, vt diuina charitas ostendatur, quoniam cum æterna pœna semper sit duratura, eam non subito infert, vt ex temporis prætractione tardius inuehatur.

Sexto, ne impijs mors temporalis sit amarissima, per peccatum enim natura consumitur, vnde impijs mors esset amarior, si eorum natura esset recentior, & hæc causa desumitur ex lib. 1. Reuelationum, cap. 25.

Septimo, quæ habetur lib. 2. cap. 19. tolerantur mali ad auxilium bonorum, ne illis infideles noceant, sed timeant magis quo fuerint numero plures, vtique sic boni, & mali se ad inuicem adiuuent ad infideles comprimendos.

Octauo, vt boni Deo semper gratias agant, quo ex diuina gratia facti sunt ex electorum numero, & ex comparatione malorum plus nitantur ad bonum.

Nono permittuntur mali ad vniuersi perfectionem, & pulchritudinem, nisi enim quædam corrumperentur, alia non generarentur, & nisi esset illorum persequutio, non palam fieret bonorum patientia: & ratio est D. Thom. 1. p. q. 48. art. 2. & D. Augustin. in Enchirid. cap. 11. & de ciuit cap. 18 & cap. 23. vbi affert exemplum imaginis, quæ ex colore nigro, suo loco posito pulchrior apparet; hæc de re vide etiam lib. 3 Reuelat interrog. 6. q 2.

Quod autem vnus cœcus, alter claudus efficitur, vel aliquid huiusmodi, hoc non est propter præscientiam meam, cum omnia ita præscio, quod nullus ex ea fiat deterior.

Ex verbis præsentis nota satis aperte colligitur præscientiam, ac prouidentiam Dei rebus præuisis necessitatem minime imponere; neque enim quod Deus ab æterno præuidit, aut præscinit omnia futura, sequitur necessario ita fieri, aut sic futura, quod verum esse arbitror non solum de actionibus liberis, sed etiam de effectu naturali contingente, & propterea scribitur hic, omnia ita præscio quod nullus fiat ex eis deterior, ac aliquibus, obsit præscientia mea, & hoc fuit olim definitum in Concil. Constant. sess. 8. quæ de re fuse egit D. Augustin. lib. 5. de ciuitate c. 9. & 10. vbi confutat opinionem stoicorum, qui negarunt prouidentiam, ac præscientiam Dei, vt liberum homini tribuerent arbitrium, videndus est etiam Gratian. 23. q. 4. cap. Nabucodonosor, vbi multa congeris testimonia contra hunc errorem, sed ad maiorem, huius rei intelligentiam, duo notanda sunt. Primo nullum effectum dici posse formaliter contingentem, si consideretur in ordine ad prouidentiam, & præscientiam Dei, secus vero in ordine ad particulares causas defectiuas, & ratio est, quia effectus in ordine ad Deum est infallibiliter euenies, nec impedibilis, ergo nec contingens: in ordine vero ad causas secundas, quia defectiue sunt, & impedibiles, ideo contingentes dicuntur. Notandum secundo effectus contingentes comparatos ad præscientiam, ac prouidentiam Dei dici necessarios secundum quid, & ex suppositione, quæ necessitas dicitur conditionalis, & consequentiæ non consequentis, quæ non tollit libertatem, & patet, quia hæ consequentiæ sunt bonæ, Deus præuidit hoc futurum ergo erit, Deus præscinit futurum peccatum, ergo erit illud peccatum, & quia antecedens non potest dari verum, & consequens falsum, ideo illæ Concil sunt necessariæ ex suppositione, hoc est suppositio quod antecedentia sint vera, necesse est verificari, quæ necessaria consequentia deducuntur ex ea, plura de hac dubitatione, vide apud Durandum in 1. sent. d. 38 q. 3.

Dubitari minime potest, pueros, qui sine baptismo ante rationis vsum obierunt, & si pœnæ sensus non crucientur, pœna tamen damni affectus esse, quæ maxima est vt habetur in c. firmissime. & c. Nulla præter, cum Gloss. de consecr. d. 4 & probat D. Th. 3. p. q. 1. art. 5. ad 2. Hoc ergo quod dicitur hic, sine cruciatu morabuntur, vel intelligendum de pœna sensus, vel etiam damni, quæ in diuinæ visionis priuatione consistit, de qua quia illos non dolere plures Doctores affirmant, ideo hoc loco sine cruciatu esse dicuntur, quare autem non doleant multæ rationes afferri solent, sunt qui dicunt, quia non propria voluntate, sed alterius culpa in illam pœnam inciderunt, per quam damnati sunt, alij vero eos non dolere animati sunt, quia sapiens non dolet regulariter de eius amissione, ad quod nec ius obtinuit, nec facultatem aliquam, aut proportionem habuit, negs enim Rustici filius tristatur, quod ad imperium vsque ne possit peruenire, cum nullum ad id, nec ius, nec proportionem habeat, cum ergo Pueri non baptizati nullam ad videndum Deum habuerint proportionem, nec facultatem, nec ex principijs naturalibus, neque ex baptismi sacramento, vt sic ex meritis Christi ad eam visionem eleuarentur, inde consequens sit, nec eos ea de re dolere. Postremo quidam non improbabiliter asseruerunt, id prouenire ex defectu cognitionis, quam non habuerunt illius visionis. Dolor enim & gaudium cognitum eum supponunt illum, de quo quispiam, vel tristatur, vel gaudet, & licet Pueri non baptizati naturalem cognitionem visionis diuinæ habuissent, non tamen fuisset satis, exigitur enim cognitio fidei, quæ in baptismo infunditur, nec obstat huic, quod quispiam posset obijcere, quod etiam sic nec baptizati possent gaudere diuina visione, ad quam electi sunt, nam cum ipsi fidem receperint in baptismo, & ad Dei visionem veniunt, non potest eis tantum bonum latere, quo summopere gaudent, sed hac de re legendus est D. Tho. in 2. d. 32. q. 2. & in q. disputata de malo, & Henricus Gand. quodlib. 6. q. 21. Durand. in 2. d. 33. q. 3.

CAP. II.

VIDEBATVR DEVS iratus, & ait . Opus manuum mearum hoc me plus contemnit , quod in maiorem honorem conſtitui . Iſta anima cui omnẽ curam adhibui charitatis meæ , tria mihi fecit . Auertebat oculos ſuos a me,& vertebat ad inimicum . Voluntatem ſuam firmauit ad mundum . Fiduciã ſibi poſuit , quod libere poſſet contra me peccare . Propterea quia non curauit reſpicere me, ego feci ei iuſtitiam meam ſubitã. Quia vero firmauit velle ſuum contra me,& fiduciam ſibi poſuit falſam , ego abſtuli ei deſiderium ſuum . Tunc quidam diabolus exclamauit dicens Iudex , hæc anima mea eſt . Reſpondit Iudex . Quid cauſæ habes contra eam . Reſpondit ille . Propoſitio quærimoniæ tuæ , mea eſt accuſatio , quod ſcilicet contempſit te Creatorem ſuum , propter quod facta eſt ancilla mea.Et quia ſubito ſublata eſt, quomodo ſubito poterat te placare . Nam & cum in mundo vixiſſet ſano corpore, non tibi ſeruiuit ſincero corde, quia dilexit ſeruentius creaturam, non patienter tulit ægritudinem,& quia non cõſiderauit opera ſua, vt debuit . In fine vero non arſit charitatis igne , & quia ſubito abſtuliſti eam,ideo mea eſt . Reſpondit iudex. Non damnaret ſubitus finis niſi diſcordaret opera.Nec voluntas ſine diligenti deliberatione,perpetuo damnatur. Tunc Mater Dei veniens ait. Fili ſeruus negligens,qui habet amicum familiariſſimum Domino,nunquid ille familiariſſimus non aſtabit ei ? Aut non debet propter eum ſi petierit ſaluari ? Reſpondit iudex . Omnis iuſtitia debet eſſe cũ miſericordia,& ſapientia . Miſericordia ad remittendum rigiditatem, ſapientia, vt tamen ſeruetur equitas.Sed ſi talis fuerit trãſgreſſio , quæ non eſt digna remitti, propter familiaritatem tamen ſalua iuſtitia poterit mitigari.Tunc ait Mater.Benedicte fili mi , hæc anima continue habuit me in memoria, & exhibuit mihi reuerentiam, & pro me ſolennitatem ſuam officiebatur facere, quamuis frigidus erat ad te . Ideo miſerere ei . Reſpondit iterum filius . Scis Mater benedicta,& vides omnia in me . Hæc anima quãuis te in memoria habuerit plus tamen propter bonum temporale faciebat , quam propter ſpirituale. Nam corpus meum mundiſſimum non ſic tractabat vt debuit . Os nanque fœtidum prohibuit meæ charitatis dile

Qui enim colligere vellet hoſpitem bonum, & Dominum,præparare debet non ſolum hoſpitium,ſed & omnia vtenſilia . Sic non ille, qui & ſi mundauit domum non tamen ſcopauit eam reuerenter , & diligenter, nec pauimentum ſtrauit virtutum floribus . Nec vtenſilia membrorum ſuorum impleuit abſtinentijs. Ideo quid ei faciendum ſit ſatis vides,& quid promeruerit. Quamuis enim incomprehenſibilis ſim, & inuiolabilis,& vbique ſum per deitatem meam , tamen certe cum homine mundo eſt mihi delectatio,licet & cum bono ingredior, & cum damnato . .
2 2 Nam boni ſuſcipiunt corpus meum hoc, quod crucifixum eſt , & aſcendit in cælum , quod præfigurabatur in manna, & in farina v.duæ.Similiter & mali,ſed boni ad confortationem maiorem : mali vero ad maiorem iudicij iuſtitiam , quia non timent indigni accedere ad tantam dignitatem. Reſpondit
3 diabolus . 3 Si acceſſit ad te indigne & iudicium ſuum ex hoc augumentabatur , cur permiſiſti enim accedere ad te, & contingere te tam dignum . Reſpondit iudex . Non quæris ex charitate,quã non habes,ſed quia ex virtute mea compelleris . propter iſtam ſponſam meam,quę hęc audit.Sicut enim in humanitate mea,& boni, & mali tetigerunt me,ad oſtendendum veram humanitatem,& patientiæ humilitatem, ſic & boni , & mali comedunt me in altari . Boni ad maiorem perfectionem, mali autem ne credant ſe eſſe damnatos,& ex eo quod poſſunt hoc corpore meo ſumpto,ſi volunt perſonaliter mutare voluntatem,& conuerti.Et quam charitatem maiorem poſſum ego oſtendere , quam quod mundiſſimus ingredior etiam ad immundiſſimum vas ? quamuis ſicut ſol materialis à nullo poſſum inquinari . Hanc enim charitatem tu,& amici tui contemnitis,quia vos contra charitatem obfirmaſtis . Tunc ait iterum Mater. O bone fili, quotieſcunq. acceſſit ad te,tamen timebat te,licet non vt debuit.Pœnituit etiam offendiſſe te,licet nõ perfecte , hoc fili mi proficiat ſibi propter me . Reſpondit iterum filius . Ego ſum ſi-cut dixit Propheta, ſol verus, ſed tamen longe melior ſole materiali. Sol materialis non penetrat montes, nec mẽtes, ſed ego poſſum vtrunque. Si ergo mons obſiſtit ſoli materiali, vt non tangat terræ propinquitatem, quod mihi obſiſtit niſi peccatum, ne hæc anima afficeretur charitate mea? Quod & ſi pars aliqua montis remoueretur, neceſſe tamen eſt, vt quod vicinius eſt à calore euacuetur. Ego autem ſi intrauero in partem vnam mentis mundæ, quæ mihi erit conſolatio, ſi ex parte alia ſentiatur fœtor? Ideo depelli debet, quod ſordidum eſt, & tunc poſt pulchritudinem ſubſequitur dulcedo. Reſpondit Mater. Fiat voluntas tua cum omni miſericordia.

Declaratio.

Hic ſacerdos fuit ſæpe ammonitus de incontinentia ſua, & nolens reſipiſcere. Cum quadam die exiſſet in pratum ad eligendum equum ſuum, venerunt fulgurà, & tonitrua quibus combuſtus eſt, & mortuus omni corpore illæſo præter verenda, quæ ex tòto cõbuſta apparuerunt. Tunc dixit ſpiritus Dei Filia, talia mærentur illi in anima, ſicut iſte in corpore, qui talibus miſeriis, & delectationibus implicantur.

NOTAE.

1 var. lect. PAulo poſt initium, vbi impreſſi Codices legunt. Amor mundi, & diſſolutio abſcondit ei meam paſſionem.

Hoc loco addendum videtur cum M. S. (Et diſſolutio carnis abſcondit ei meam paſſionem) & ita legendum eſſe patet ex declaratione præſentis cap. quæ in fine ponitur, vbi habetur, quod hic ſermo ſit, de quodam ſacerdote, qui vitio carnis deditus, & ſæpiſſimæ admonitus, nunquam reſipuit, ideo poſtea fulmine correptus, huius vitij debitam pœnam exoluit.

Inter cæteras Euchariſtiæ ſacramenti figuras, quæ in ſacris litteris continentur hæ duæ potiſſimæ ſunt, Manna ſcilicet, cuius mentio fit Exodi 16. Deut. 8. Pſalm. 77. Ioan. 6. & ſubcinericius panis, qui Chriſtum Dominum ſub ſacramentalibus ſpeciebus latentem ſignificabat, de quo lib. 3 Reg. cap. 17. & de Manna quidem affirmarunt Origines in Matth Ho. 35. D Auguſtinus in Pſal. 77. & in Ioan. tract. 11. Cyrillus lib. 3. in Ioan. 34. D Ambroſius lib. 1. Epiſtola 61. D Thomas 3. par. q. 80. art. 10. ad ſecundum. Et ſane ſi Mannæ aliquas requiramus conditiones, reperiemus huius ſacramenti extitiſſe figuram, legimus enim Exodi 16. quod erat albi coloris, & corpus Chriſti ob ſummam puritatem, ac virginitatem, & de puriſſima conceptum Virgine album erat. Secundo Manna ad ſolis calorem liqueſcebat, & ad ignem indurabatur, ita & hoc ſacramentum in eorum cordibus, qui illud magno dilectionis, ac pietatis feruore recipiũt liqueſit. ac dulceſcit, his vero, qui cupiditatis, ac concupiſcentiæ carnalis igne vruntur, induratur, vt non dulcedinẽ, gauſi. ſaporem, ſed perpetuam inde hauriant damnationem. Tertio præceperat Dominus, vt ſeptem diebus colligeretur, die autem ſabbati non reperiretur: ſic quoque toto vitæ noſtræ tempore ſingulari Dei beneficio hoc nobis ſacramentum ſubminiſtrabitur, ſecundum illud Matth. 27. ego vobiſcum ſum vſque ad conſummationem ſæculi, ſabbato autem in quo vita æterna figuratur non inuenietur quoniam in ea videbimus eum ſicuti eſt, 1 Ioan. 3. quarto eius erat Manna conditio, quod ſat erat ei, qui minus, ſicut illi, qui plus colligebat ex ea, tranſmutaretur, quod ſicut totus Chriſtus eſt in tota hoſtia, ita totus eſt in qualibet parte minima hoſtiæ, & totum ſummit, qui integrũ hoſtiam, vt etiam qui aliquam partem hoſtiæ, Quinto quod de Manna populus non comedit, donec ſubmerſis Ægyptijs tranſiſſet Mare rubrum, ſic & nos nequaquam ad hoc ſacramentum debemus accedere, niſi ſublatis vitijs Mare rubrum tranſiuerimus, cuius amaritudo contritionem, aqua lacrymarum effuſionem Rubedo corporis indicat mortificationem.

3 Si acceſſit ad te indignè, & iudicium ſuũ ex hoc augmentabitur, cur permiſiſti eum accedere ad te.

Quemadmodum Chriſtus Dominus in vltima cœna proditori Iudæ corpus ſuum tradidit, ne eum iam tunc peccatorem occultum abſque accuſatore, ac ſufficiente probatione propalaret, ac ab aliorum communione ſeiungeret, quod affirmant D. Aug. tract. 62. in Ioan. D Chryſoſt Hom. 46. in eundem non longe a fine D Dyonſ. Eccleſ. Hierarchiæ c. 3. D Thom. 3. p. q. 81. art. 2. licet D. Hilar Can. 30. in Matth & Lodulphus de vita Chriſti 2. p. c. 55. videantur negare, ita quoque nunc permittit Deus, vt impijs corpus ſuum tradatur, ne ſe eſſe damnatos credant, & inde deſperandi de miſericordia Dei anſam ſumant, & hoc eſt, quod legimus hic paulo poſt huius notæ verba (Mali autem ne credant ſe eſſe damnatos, & cætera) & ſicut ad oſtendendum veram aſſumpſiſſe carnem, ac etiam humiliatis eam ſe permiſſit, vt ſuum boni, & mali corpus paſſibile contrectarent, ita quoque non dedignatur ad ſuam miſericordiam propalandam, ſuum corpus impaſſibile, nunc ſub illis ſpeciebus à malis contrectari, tum maxime, quia ex hoc mundiſſimæ carnis contactu innumerabilia bona emanant. Poſtremo hac in re charitatem ſuam, & patientiam oſtendit eximiam, dum immaculatum corpus ſuum peccatoribus tam genuum præbet cum præſertim ex hoc ne in minima

quidem contaminetur, ac polluatur, ſcieus, inquit D. Chriſoſt. Hom. 14. oper. imperf. quia ſi contaminatus fuerit in nobis, ipſe quidem in ſua natura incontaminabilis manet.

VERBA MATRIS DEI admirationis ad ſponſam, & qualiter in hoc mundo ſunt quinque domus, quarum habitatores ſunt quinq; ſtatus hominum, ſcilicet infideles Chriſtiani, Iudæi indurati, pagani per ſe, Iudæi ſimul & pagani, & amici Dei, & nota in iſto capitulo multa vtilia.

CAP. III.

MARIA loquebatur. Magna res eſt, quod Dominus omnium, & Rex gloriæ contemptus eſt. 1 Ipſe quaſi peregrinus fuit in terra vadens de loco in locum, & quaſi viator pulſans oſtia multorum, vt ſuſcipi mereretur. Mundus enim quaſi quidam fundus erat, in quo quaſi quinque domus erant. Ad primã autem domum cum filius meus in habitu peregrini veniſſet, Pulſans ad portam ait. Amice aperi mihi, & introduc me in requiem, & cohabitationem tuam, ne forte ferę noceant mihi, ne imber, nec pluuiæ veniant ſuper me. Da mihi de veſtibus tuis quibus frigidus caleſiam, nudus cooperiar. Da mihi de cibo tuo, quo eſuriens reficiar. De potu tuo, quo ſitiens refocillari merear, & recipe mercedem à Deo tuo. Tunc reſpondit, qui erat intus. Tu nimis es impatiens, ideo non potes concordare, & cohabitare nobiſcum. Tu nimis longus es, propterea non ſufficimus veſtire te. Tu nimis cupidus es, & guloſus, ideo non ſufficimus ſatiare te, quia cupiditas tua nullum habet fundum. Reſpondit iterum Chriſtus peregrinus, qui erat extra. Amice induc me hilariter, & voluntarie, quia in modico ego concludor loco. Da mihi de veſtibus tuis, quia non eſt tam paruum veſtimentum in domo tua, quin non ad calefaciendum me ſufficiat. Da mihi de cibo tuo, quia etiam mica ſatiare me poteſt, & ſtilla aquæ dabit mihi refrigerium, & fortitudinem. Reſpondit iterum, qui erat intus. Nos bene cognoſcimus te, tu es humilis in verbis, & importunus ad rogandum. Tu videris modeſtus ad contentandum, ſed tamen inſatiabilis es ad implendum. Frigidiſſimus, & difficiliſſimus ad cooperiendum, vade quia non colligam te. Tunc venit ad ſecundam domum 2 & ait. 2 Amice aperi, & vide me. Ego enim dabo tibi quibus indigueris. Ego defendam te ab inimicis tuis. Reſpondit qui erat intus. Oculi mei debiles ſunt, noceret eis, ſi videro te. Ego abundo in omnibus, & non indigeo tuis. Ego potens, & fortis ſum quis mihi nocere poteſt? Tunc veniens ad tertiam domum. Ait. Amice leua aures tuas, & audi me, extende manus tuas, & contrecta me. Aperi os tuum, & guſta me. Reſpondit habitator domus. Clama altius, quia bene audiam te. 3 Si lænis fueris attraham te. Si dulcis fueris recipiam te. Tunc iuit ad quartam domum, cuius porta quaſi ad dimidium aperta erat, & ait. Amice ſi conſiderares tempus tuum inutiliter expenſum colligeres me. Si intelligeres, & audires, quæ ego feci pro te compateretis mihi. Si attenderes quantum offendiſti me, ingemiſceres, & peteres veniam. Reſpondit ille. Nos ſumus quaſi mortui in expectatione, & deſiderio tui, compatere ergo miſeriæ noſtræ, & libentiſſime damus nos tibi. Reſpice miſeriam noſtram, & conſidera corporis noſtri auguſtiam, & ad omnia quæ vis parati erimus. Tunc venit ad quintam domum, quæ ex toto aperta erat, & ait. Amice hic libenter ingredi volo, ſed ſcito, quod requiem quæro molliorem, quam plumæ præſtare ſolent. Calorem feruentiorem, quam qui fieri ex lana ſolet. Recentiorem cibum, quam caro recens animalis præſtare poterit. Reſponderunt, qui erant intus. Mallei iacent ad pedes noſtros, his libentiſſime confringemus pedes, & crura noſtra, & medullam de hoc fluentem dabimus tibi in requiem. Viſcera noſtra, & interiora omnia libenter tibi aperiemus etiam ingredere in hæc. Sicut enim medulla noſtra nihil eſt mollius tibi ad requieſcendũ, ſic viſceribus noſtris nihil eſt tibi melius ad calorem. Cor noſtrum recentius eſt inter animalia, hoc libenter ſcindimus in cibum tuum, tantummodo ingredere, dulcis enim es ad guſtandum, & deſiderabilis ad fruendum. Quinque domorum inhabitatores, hi ſunt quinque ſtatus hominum in mundo. Primi ſunt infideles Chriſtiani, qui iudicia filij mei dicunt iniuſta. Promiſſa eius falſa, & mandata eius intollerabilia. Iſti ſunt, qui ad prędicatores filij mei dicũt cogitatione, dicunt intellectu, dicunt blaſphemia. 4 Omnipotens, & non ſi vere eſſet longiſſimus eſt, poteſt attingi. Latiſſimus & altiſſimus eſt, & non pôt veſtiri. Inſatiabilis eſt, & non poteſt reſici.

refici. Impatientissimus est, & non potest cohabitari. Longissimum eum dicunt, quia pusilli sunt opere, & charitate, & non conantur ad eius bonitatem assurgere. Latissimum eum dicunt, quia cupiditas eorum nescit modum. Causantur semper defectu, suspicantur malum antequam venerit. Insatiabilem quoque arguunt, quia cælum, & terra non ei sufficiunt, quin & ab homine dona potiora exigit omnia dare pro anima, secundum præceptum sapientissimum reputans pro corpore pauciora grave damnum. Impatientissimum quoque eum dicunt, quia odit vitia, & immittit contraria voluntati eorum. Nihil reputantes pulchrum, & vtile nisi quæ suggerit eis voluptas corporalis. Nunc autem filius meus vere est omnipotens in cælo, & in terra Creator omnium, & à nullo creatus, ante omnia manens, & post eum nullus futurus. Ipse quippe est longissimus, altissimus, & latissimus inter omnia & extra, & super omnia. Quamuis autem sic potens est, tamen ex charitate ministerio hominis vestri desiderat, qui vestimento non indiget, quia vestit omnia vestitus ipse æternaliter, & immortaliter honore perpetuo, & gloria. Refici charitate hominis desiderat, qui panis est Angelorum, & hominum, omnia reficiens, & ipse nullorum indigens. Pacem petiit ab homine, qui pacis reformator est, & conditor. Ergo quicunque ipsum colligere voluerit hilari mente satiare eum poterit etiam micis panis si voluntas fuerit bona. Vestire eum sufficit filo, si charitas est ardens. Potare eum poterit stilla, si affectus fuerit rectus. Recipere eum valet in cor, & loqui cum eo, si deuotio fuerit feruens, & stabilis. Spiritus enim est Deus, ideo & in spiritualia voluit commutari carnalia, & in æternalia, ea quæ sunt exterra. Illud quoque sibiipsi fieri, & exhiberi reputat, quod exhibetur suis membris. Nec opus & facultatem solam attendit, sed feruentem voluntatem, & qua opus factum fuerit intentione. Verum, isti quo plus filius meus ad eos occultis inspirationibus clamat, quo plus in prædicatoribus suis eos admonuerit, eo plus mentem suam contra eum obfirmant, nec audiunt, nec ei ostium per voluntatem aperiunt, nec operibus charitatis eum introducunt. Ideo cum tempus eorum venerit, falsitas cui innituntur annihilabitur, veritas exaltabitur, & gloria Dei erit manifestata. Secundi sunt Iudæi indurati. Hi sibiipsis in omnibus videntur esse rationabiles, sapientiam suam habent pro legali iustitia. Opera sua prædicant, & teneor exteris honoratiora. Isti si facta filii mei audierint reputant contemptibilia. Si verba eius, & mandata audienti dedignantur, immo & peccatores, & maculosos se existimant, si considerant, & audiunt, quæ pertinent ad filium meum, infeliciores quoque & miserabiliores, si eius imitarentur opera. Quamdiu autem mundus eis assistit, reputant se felicissimos. Quamdiu sani sunt viribus, credunt se fortissimos. Ideo spes eorum cadet in nihilum, & gloria eorum in confusionem. Tertii sunt pagani, horum quidam deridendo clamant quotidie, quis est ille Christus. Si dulcis est indando præsentia libenter recipiemus eum. Si mitis in condonando peccata, libentius honorabimus eum. Sed isti clauserunt oculos intelligentiæ suæ, ne intelligant iustitiã, & misericordiam Dei. Obturant aures suas, vt non audiant, quid filius meus fecit pro eis & pro omnibus. Contrahunt os suum, & non inquirunt quid futurum erit eis, & quid expedit. Complicant manus suas, & laborare remuunt, ad perquirendum viam quomodo fugiant mendacium, & inueniant veritatem. Propterea, quia nolunt intelligere, & cauere cum possunt, & tempus habent, cadent cum habitatione sua, & in tempestate inuoluentur. Quarti sunt illi Iudæi, & pagani, qui libenter essent Christiani si scirent quomodo, & quid filio meo esset placitum, & si haberent adiutorem. Hi audiunt quotidie a circumiacentibus, & intelligunt ex clamore interno amoris, & signis quanta fecit filius meus, & passus est pro omnibus. Ideo in conscientia sua clamant ad filium meum dicentes. O Domine audiuimus, quod promisisti te nobis daturũ, ideo expectamus te, veni & comple promissum tuum. Intelligimus enim, & videmus de ijs, qui dij coluntur, quod in eis est nulla deitatis virtus, nulla animarum charitas, nulla castitatis prædicanda magnitudo. Sed inuenimus in eis corporum amicitiam, honoris præsentis mundi dilectionem. Intelligimus quoque de lege tua, & audimus opera tua magnalia in omni misericordia, & iustitia. Audimus de Prophetarum eorum dictis, quod te quem Prophetauerunt expectabant. Ergo pijssime Domine veni, libenter enim nosmetipsos dabimus tibi, quia intelligimus, quod in te est animarum charitas, omnium rerum discretus visus, perfecta puritas, & vita sempiterna. Ergo veni citius, quia mortui sumus præ expectatione tui, & illumina nos. Sic igitur isti clamant ad filium meum. Et ideo quasi ad dimidietatem apertum est ostium eorum, quia completam habent voluntatem ad bonum, sed nondum peruenerunt ad effectum. Isti sunt, qui mærentur habere gratiam filij mei & consolationem. In quinta domo sunt amici mei, & filij mei, quorum mentis ostium ad plenum apertum est filio meo. Isti filium meum vocantem libenter audiunt. Pulsanti non solum aperiunt, sed & venienti hilariter occurrunt. Isti frangunt malleis diuinorum præceptorum quicquid in eis est distortum. Et præparant filio meo requiem non in plumis auium, sed in concordia virtutum, & in refrænatione malarum affectionum, quæ est medulla omnium virtutum. Isti etiam filio meo exhibent calorem, non qui fit de lana, sed in charitate tam feruenti, quod non solum tribuunt sua filio meo, sed & seipsos. Insuper & refectionem ei præparant recentiorem omni carne, quæ est in corde perfectissimo, quo nihil desiderant, nihil diligunt nisi Deum suum. In istorum corde habitator cæli Dominus est, & ex istorum charitate Deus omnia reficiens suauiter reficitur. Isti semper oculos habent ad ostia, ne intret inimicus aures ad Dominum, manus ad pugnandum contra inimicum. Hos tu filia in quantum potes imitare, quia fundamentum eorum in petra est firmissima. Aliæ vero domus fundamentum habent in luto, & ideo veniente vento concutientur.

Max. quotidie hominum cordibus assistit, id quod Redemptor noster Christus, quamdiu nobiscum vixit in mundo sexcentis innumerisque modis egregie perfecit, ipse enim per præditationis officium, miracolorum patrationem, bonorum operum ostensionem, vitæ suæ exemplum nos ad bene, rectequè viuendum hortatus est, & nostrorum cordium hostia pulsauit, & quotidie Deus Opt. Max. per gratiam prænenientem pulsat, sic enim Apocalyps. 3. scribitur, ego sto ad hostium, & pulso, quia hostio cordis, scilicet libero arbitrio, seu voluntati assistit, & pulsat, vt egregie notant Lyranus Gloss. ordinaria, & Carthusianus in Apocal loco citato, Rursus pulsasse dicitur Christus hortando per Apostolos, & prædicatores, ac etiam per internas motiones, hominum mentes ad supernaturalia eleuando, & postremo per beneficiorum collationem, & tribulationum immissionem, excitando, & ideo sic nostrorum cordium portas quotidie pulsans dicit soror mea aperi mihi, hoc est, consensum tuum vocationibus meis præbe, qua de re legendi sunt Rupertus Abbas, Agatius, Theodoretus, & Gloss. Cant. c. 5.

VERBA MATRIS DEI AD filium pro sponsa, & qualiter Christus per Salomonem figuratur, & de crudeli sententia contra falsos Christianos.

CAP. IIII.

MATER Dei loquebatur ad filium dicens. Eccè fili sponsa tua plorat, quia pauci sunt amici tui, & inimici multi. Respondit filius. 1 Scriptum est, quod filij regni ejcientur, & filij non regni accipient hæreditatem. 2 Sic etiam scribitur, quod quædam regina de vltimis finibus, venit videre diuitias Salomonis, & audire sapientiam eius. Quæ cum vidit, vix præ admiratione habuit spiritum. Qui autem erant in regno eius, non attendebant sapientiam eius, nec admirabantur diuitias. 3 Ego fui ille Salomon in figura, sed longe ditior, & sapientior Salomone, quia a me est omnis sapientia, & si quis sapiens est. Diuitiæ meæ sunt vita æterna, & gloria indicibilis. Has ego promiti Christianis, & præbui tanquam filijs. Vt si me imitarentur, & verbis meis obedirent sine fine eos possiderem. Sed isti sapientiam meã non attendunt. opera despiciunt, promissionem meam, & diuitias meas habent pro nihilo. Quid ergo faciam eis? vtique, Quia filij nolunt habere hæreditatem, extranei, ideſt pagani recipient. Ipsi enim sicut regina extranea, per quam intelligo infideles animas, venient, & 4 admirabuntur diuitias gloriæ meæ, & charitatis, in tantum, quod a spiritu infidelitatis suæ cadent, & spiritu meo replebuntur. Quid autem faciam filijs regni? Faciam eis sicut sapiens figulus, qui materiam quam prius de luto fecit, cum non perspexit eam honestam, & aptam, deprimit eam ad terram, & comminuit. Sic ego Christianis faciam, qui cum mei esse deberent, quia eos ad imaginem meam formaui, & per sanguinem meum redemi, sed deformati sunt contemptibiliter, propterea sicut terra conculcabuntur, & in internum deprimentur.

NOTAE.

1 SCriptum est, quod filij regni eijcientur, & filij non regni accipient hæreditatem.

De Iudæorum reprobatione, & electione, & gentium vocatione in pluribus sacræ Scripturæ libris fermo fit; qua de re legendi sunt D. Hilarius in ps. 59. explicans ea verba psal. Deus repulisti nos D. Hieron. Isaiæ 2. & 13. & Michææ 4. D. August. epist. 50. de coercendis hæreticis tom. 2. & contra Donatistas epist. 162 Gentes vocat Christi hæreditatem, etiam illud psalm. 2. Postula a me, & dabo tibi hæreditatem: idem habet epist. 166. & alij plures sacrarum literarum interpretes in 1. cap. Oseæ, & Hierem. 34. prædicitur, quod regnum Christi transferendum erat ad gentes: scribitur enim ibi, ad dexteram, & lęuam penetrabis, & semen tuum gentes hæreditabit, & hoc est quod legimus hic, Filij regni ejcientur, & filij non regni accipient hæreditatem.

2 Sic etiam scribitur, quod quædam Regina de vltimis finibus venit videre diuitias Salomonis, & audire sapientiam eius.

Quæ fuerit hæc Regina habetur 3. Reg. cap. 10. vbi sic de ea scribitur, Sed & Regina Saba audita fama Salomonis, in nomine Domini venit tentare eum: huius etiam mentio fit Ezech. 38 Matth. 12, & Luc. 11 qua de re legendus est Theodoret in lib. 3. Reg. q. 12. Nomen autem Saba, conuersio in bonum interpretatur, a quo Sabei dicti sunt, & significat mistice animam ad Deum conuersam, vt optime annotauit D. Hieron. super Isaiam c. 60. & ad Agustam, & quia hoc loco conqueritur Dominus de Christianis, qui eum contemnunt, eiusque præcepta obseruare nolunt, ideo minatur quod nisi resipuerint vocaturum se alias gentes, quæ conuertentur ad eum, ac recipient eum, & subdit circa finem capitis, quia filij nolunt hæreditatem, extranei recipient me. Ipsi enim sicut Regina extranea, per quam intelligo infideles animas, venient, & admirabuntur diuitias gloriæ meæ. Vnde autem hæc Regina venerit, hoc loco non explicatur, sed ex Arabia venisse compertum est quandoquidem ipsa erat Arabiæ regina, quæ Felix dicebatur, & Austri Regina, Matth. 12. & Lucæ 11. appellatur: est enim Regio Meridionalis, ob solis vicinitatẽ caloris feruidissima, & aromatis, auroq; optimo refertissima & ideo lib. 3. Reg. legimus fuisse Hierusalem ingressa multo cum comitatu & diuitus, cunctis aromata & aurum infinitum nimis, & gemmas pretiosas portantibus: quid autem Salomoni hæc Regina in specie tulerit, tradit Iosephus lib. 8. antiquitatum, cap. 6.

3 Ego sum ille Salomon in figura.

Salomonem Christi seruatoris nostri gessisse figuram manifestum est, tum ob maximam eius sapientiam, potentiam, diuitiarum copias, tum etiam ex ipsiusmet nominis ethimologia: interpretatur enim pacificus, & Christus est, qui sublatis peccatis, nos cum patre reconciliauit pacificans, vt ait Apostolus Paulus ad Colos. 1. per sanguinem crucis eius, sine quæ in cælis, sine quæ in terris, quod fuse explicat D. Aug. in enarrat. psal. 71. & lib. 17. de ciuit. cap. 8. Vt autem legimus lib. 3. Reg cap. 3. Salomonem iudicasse inter duas meretrices, colligendum est etiam eum fuisse tunc typum Christi inter Synagogam & Ecclesiam iudicantis, sed vt felicissime regnauit, dicere possumus quod etiam fuerit figura Christi resurgentis & post resurrectionem in æternum regnantis, quæ de re legendi sunt D. Aug. in psal. 126. D. Hieron. de iudicio Salomonis, Origen. in Iosue hom. 3. & alij plures.

4 Admirabuntur diuitias gloriæ meæ, & charitatis, in tantum, quod a spiritu infidelitatis suæ cadent, & spiritu meo replebuntur.

Sic omnia legunt impressa exemplaria, sed Farnesianus M. S. codex habet, Admirabuntur diuitias gloriæ meæ, & charitas in tantum eos accendet, quod a spiritu infidelitatis suæ cadent, & spiritu meo replebuntur.

VERBA

VERBA DEI PRAESENTE ſponſa, de ſui magnificentia, & in figura mirabili qualiter Chriſtus per Dauid, & Iudæi, & mali Chriſtiani, & pagani per tres filios Dauid deſignantur, & qualiter Eccleſia ſubſiſtit in ſeptem ſacramentis.

CAP. V.

EGO ſum Deus, non lapideus, vel ligneus, nec ab aliquo creatus, ſed omnium Creator, manens ſine principio, & ſine fine. Ego ſum, qui veni in virginem, & fui cum virgine, non tamen amittens deitatem. Sed ego, qui eram per humanitatem in Virgine manente deitate, ego idem cum Patre, & Spiritu ſancto regnabam in cælo, & in terra per deitatem. Ego etiam ſpiritu meo inflammabam virginem, non quod ſpiritus meus, qui inflãmabat ſepararetur a me, ſed idem qui inflammabat idem erat in Patre, & in me filio, & in eo Pater, & Filius, & hi tres Deus non tres dij. Ego ſum ſimilis Dauid Regi, qui habuit tres filios. Vnus eorum vocabatur Abſalom, qui quærebat vitam patris. Secundus, eorum quærebat regnum patris ſui, ſcilicet Adonias. Tertius obtinuit regnum, ſcilicet Salomon. Primus notat Iudæos, hi ſunt, qui vitam meam, & mortem meam quærebant, & deſpiciebant conſilium meum. Propterea nunc cognita retributione eorum, poſſum dicere, ſicut dixit Dauid de filio ſuo mortuo. Fili mi Abſalom, ideſt, ô filij Iudæi, vbi eſt, nunc deſiderium veſtrum, & expectatio? O filij mei, vbi eſt nunc finis veſter? Compatiebar vobis ex eo, cum me deſideraſtis venturum, quem tot ſignis audiſtis veniſſe. Cum deſideraſtis fugitiua, quæ omnia iam fugerunt. Sed nunc magis compatior, ſicut Dauid reiterans verbum primum, quia video finem veſtrum in miſeria mortis. Ideo adhuc ex maxima charitate dico, ſicut Dauid dixit. Fili mi, quis det mihi, vt moriar pro te? Dauid enim bene ſciuit, ſe non poſſe morte ſua filium reuocare mortuum, ſed vt oſtenderet affectum charitatis paternæ, & voluntatis bonæ promptiſſimum, ſi poſſibile fuiſſet, libenter licet ſciret impoſſibile eſſe, mortem ſuſcepiſſet pro filio. Sic ego nunc dico. O filij Iudæi, qui licet habuiſtis malam volũtatem ad me, & inquantum potuiſtis feciſtis contra me, ſi poſſibile eſſet, & patri ſic placeret, libenter adhuc ſemel morerer pro vobis, quia compatior miſeriæ veſtræ, quam vobis exigente iuſtitia, voſipſi feciſtis. Dixi enim vobis facienda verbo, & oſtendi exemplo. Præteriſti vos quaſi gallina alis charitatis fouendo, ſed omnia ſpreuiſtis. Ideo omnia, quæ deſideraſtis fugerunt. Finis veſter eſt in miſeria, & labor omnis euacuatus. 3 In ſecundo filio Dauid notantur mali Chriſtiani, qui contra patrem ſuum in ſenectute deliquit. Cogitauit enim ſecum ſic. Pater meus ſenex eſt, & deficit viribus. Si locutus ei aliqua ſiniſtra fuero, non reſpondet. Si fecero aliqua contraria non vindicabit. Si attemtauero contra eum aliqua, patienter ſuffert. Propterea faciam, quæ volo. Hic cum quibuſdam ſeruis Dauid patris ſui aſcendebat in locum, vbi pauce erant arbores, vt regnaret. Sed apparente ſapientia, & voluntate patris, immutatum eſt conſilium eius, & ipſi qui cum ipſo erant dehoneſtati ſunt. Sic faciunt nunc mihi Chriſtiani. Ipſi cogitant apud ſe ſic. Signa Dei, & iudicia non aperta ſunt, nunc vt prius, nos poſſumus loqui, quæ volumus, quia miſericors eſt, & non attendit. Faciamus quæ nobis placent, quia facilius indulget. Ipſi diffidunt de potentia mea, quaſi nunc infirmior ſim ad faciendum quæ volo, quam prius. Ipſi charitatem meam minorem arbitrantur, quaſi noluerim iam eis, vt patribus eorum miſereri. Ipſi & iudicium meum reputant ludibrium, & iuſtitiam meam vanitatem. Propterea, & aſcendunt in locum cum quibuſdam ſeruis Dauid, vt regnent fiducialiter. Quis eſt iſte locus, vbi pauce arbores ſtare ſolent, niſi ſancta Eccleſia, quæ ex ſeptem ſacramentis, quaſi ex paucis arboribus ſubſiſtit? In hanc Eccleſiam intrant, ſed cum aliquibus ſeruis Dauid, ideſt, cum paucis operibus bonis, vt fiducialiter obtineant regnum Dei. Quia ipſi faciunt modica opera bona, ex quibus confidunt, quod in quocunque peccato fuerint, & qualecunque peccatum fecerint, nihilominus regnum cæleſte quaſi hæreditario iure habere poſſint. Sed ſicut filius Dauid, qui contra voluntatem Dauid regnum obtinere voluit, repulſus eſt cum dedecore, quia ambiuit iniuſte, & iniuſtus erat, & dabatur ſapientiori, & meliori. Sic ipſi a regno meo expellentur, & dabitur eis, qui voluntatem Dauid faciunt, quia nullus niſi qui charitatem habuerit, regnum meum obtinere poterit. Nec nili mundus ſecundum cor meum se dirigens, mihi mundissimo po

4 terit appropinquare. 4 Tertius filius Dauid erat Salomon. hic significat paganos. Cũ audiuit Bersabee, quod alter quã Salomon, cui Dauid promisit post se regnaturũ a quibusdam electus esset, intrauit ad Dauid, & ait: Dñe mi, tu iurasti mihi quod Salomon post te regnaret. Nunc autem alter electus est, si sic contingit, & si sic habebit processum, tũc ego quasi adultera iudicor ad ignẽ, & filius meus erit illegitimus. Quibus auditis Dauid erexit se, & dixit; Iuro per Deum, quod Salomon in sede mea sedebit, & post me regnabit. Et præcepit seruis suis, vt Salomonẽ exaltarent in sede regni sui, & prædicarent regem, quem Dauid elegisset. Qui præceptum domini sui complentes, cum potestate magna exaltauerunt Salomonem, & omnes alij qui fratri suo consenserunt fugati sunt, & in seruitutem redacti. Quæ est ista Bersabee, quæ se pro adultera ab alio Rex eligitur reputabit 5 nisi fides paganorum. 5 Nullum namque peius adulterium est, quam fornicari a Deo & a fide recta, & alium Deum credere quam creatorem omnium. Sed tanquam Bersabee quidam gentilium, cum humili corde, & contrito veniunt ad Deum dicentes. Dñe nos in futurum esse Christianos promisisti, perfice ergo promissum tuum. Si alius rex, ideſt alia fides amplius quam tua supernos surrexit. Si tu separaueris te a nobis incedemus miseri, & quasi adultera, quæ pro legitimo suscepit adulterum, moriemur. Es tu licet in æternum viuas, tu tamen morieris a nobis, & nos a te, cum tu per gratiam tuam elongas te a cordibus nostris, & nos per diffidentiam nostram opponimus nos tibi. Propterea comple promissum tuũ, & conforta infirmitatẽ nostrã, & illumina tenebras nostras. Nã si distuleris, ideſt, si te a nobis elongaueris, perhibimus. Quibus auditis ego quasi alter Dauid volo nunc erigere me per gratiã meam, & misericordiam. Iuro igitur per deitatem meam, quæ est cum humanitate mea, & per humanitatem, quæ est in spiritu meo & per spiritum meum, qui est in deitate, & humanitate mea, & hi tres non tres dij, sed vnus Deus, quod complebo promissionem meam. Mittam enim amicos meos, qui Salomonem filium meum, ideſt, paganos, introducant in locum, ideſt in ecclesiã, quæ ex septem sacramentis quasi ex septem arboribus subsistit. s. baptismo, pœnitentia, confirmatione chrismatis, sacramento altaris, & sacerdotio, coniugio, & vnctione; & requiescẽt in sede mea, ideſt fide recta sanctæ Ecclesiæ, Christiani autem mali sicut eorum serui. Illi gaudebunt de hæreditate perpetua, & dulcedine, quam eis præparabo. Isti autem in miseria ingemiscent, quæ incipies eis in præsenti, & in perpetuum durabit. Ergo amici mei, quia iam tempus est vigilandi, non dormiendum, non arrhenuus, non pereces gloriosa sequitur laborem eorum.

NOTAE.

1 EGo sum similis Dauid Regi, qui habuit tres filios.

Quot filios habuerit Dauid, eiusq. res gestæ, latissime lib. 1. & 2. Reg. & 1. Paralip. habentur, hoc autem loco Christus Dominus Dauid comparatur Primo ob nominis etimologiam, interpretatur enim dilectus, & de Christo scribitur Matth. 17. & Marci 9. & Luc. 9. Hic est filius meus dilectus, in quo mihi bene complacui; vt autem Dauid filius Isai Bethlehemitæ, Christi quoque secundum carnem qui in Bethlehem prius est, scribitur Matth. 2. & Luc. 2. & vnctus in Regem, cuius ipsemet Dauid meminit psal. 44. Vnxit te Deus, Deus tuus oleo lætitiæ, sic D. Augustinus narrat psal. 26. Christum se ipsum interpretatur. Et psal. 33. 18. & 58. Hieronymus super Isaiam cap. 11. Dicet. [illegible]

2 Primus vocat Iudæos, hi sunt qui vitam eius, & mortem magis quærebant.

Dauid res habuisse filios legitimos, qui missis rebus hominum sibi insidiati sunt. Per primum enim, qui fuit Absalon Iudæi per secundum, qui Adonias, mali Christiani, per tertium, qui Salomon pagani notantur: Et vt a primo d. Absalon incipiamus exordium quo Iudæos, desiderare, qui se Christum Dominum iniuste cæruerunt ipse recto interpretatur Patris pax, me patri pacem habuisse ipsum, quam ipse non pater mihi habuit, protestatus Christus patrem habuisse cum Iudæis, qui ipsi reconcilio cum illo pacem noluerunt habere, ipsi eum voluerunt Dauid q. d. Arrhenuus in psal. 2. Rupertus Abbas super 2. Reg. cap. 15. Id enim quod ejusmodi post legitur, amentia filium, quasi mentis compos pro te, vtendi libertatem Christi thesaurum, quæ reliquimus, fungique præsentia hinc sibi fieri passi sumus. Sed habet sicut enim Dauid vt paterni charitatis affectum filio, insinuaret illa verba proferebat, quis mihi, quis det mihi, mori pro te, quæ habentur lib. 2. Reg. cap. 18. sic Christus hoc modo suum erga suos gregem experimenti docturus, dicit, O filij Iudæi, quoties habui vos colligere, sicut gallina congregat pullos suos sub alas, & noluistis, & Paulus placeret, libenter vobis, immo mori pro vobis.

3 In secundo vero Dauid notantur mali Christiani.

In superiori vita diximus, secundum filium Dauid Adoniam fuisse, qui cum dominatum, dominandi vel dominari interpretatur, optime libertinos designat, quos Christianos designari, quia nimio vento inflati, ab ipsa professione, quibus ipse bonis operibus expetere debuerant, aliena nec debita ordine, hoc ipse quærunt modis, quod etiam animadvertit Ezechiel super 3. lib. Reg. cap. 1. dicit sum viuenviuente patre Adonias sibi regnum iniuste vsurpare voluit, sic impij Christiani regnum celorum iniuste capere posse existimant, quamuis innumerabilibus vitijs refertam vitam ducant, & hoc est, quod infra scribitur ipsi faciunt modica opera, ex quibus confidunt, quod in quocunque peccato fuerint, & qualecunque peccatum fecerint nihilominus Regnum celeste quasi hereditario iure habere possint.

Hec omnia adamussim habentur lib. 3. Reg. c. 1. Interim loco notandum est, quod vbi in impressis Codicibus legimus, & ego quasi adultera iudicor. Ad. S. Farnesianus habet, Iudicabor quæ lectio arridet magis, quandoquidem Bersabea persuadere conabatur Regi, vt filium suum Salomonem exaltaret ad Regnum, iuxta factam promissionem, illudque sibi iure hereditario competere affirmabat, probans ex eo, quod alius, & ipsa iudicaretur adultera, & filius eius Salomon illegitimus existimaretur, quod sane diligenter sacrarum litterarum interpreti animaduertendum est, ad intelligentiam textus supra citati lib. 3. Reg. c. 1. vbi nec adulterij, nec alterius vitij mentio fit, sed tantummodo scribitur in genere, quod peccatores, & Mater, & Filius reputarentur, nisi filius eius Salomon subleuatus ad Regnum, crimus ego, & filius meus Salomon peccatores, sic legitur ibi, quem locum Lyranus ad literam, sic explicat, quia inquit Adonias inspirat nobis crimina ad priuandum nos vita.

5 Nullum maius adulterium, quam fornicari a Deo, & a fide recta, & alium Deum credere, quam Creatorem omnium.

Quemadmodum committitur Adulterium cum altera coniugum à fide in matrimonio præstita fornicando recedit, & propter hoc grauissimæ pœnæ reus fit, quia graue scelus committit, ita quoque adulteratur is, qui fidem in baptismate datam infringit, & ab æterne pœne debitor secundum diuinæ iustitiæ leges constituitur, vnde animum à fide, & veritate recedentem, & a lege, & præceptis Dei discedentem, & alteri viro scilicet diabolo adherentem adulteram vocant Orig. super Matth. c. 16. & D. Hieron. super Oseam c. 1. edisserens illa verba sume tibi vxorem fornicationum, & fac filios fornicationum.

VERBA FILII PRAESENTE

sponsa, de quodam rege existente in campo cum amicis ad dextram, & inimicis ad sinistram, & qualiter per talem regem Christus habens Christianos ad dextram, & paganos ad sinistram designatur, & qualiter reie-ctis Christianis suos mittit prædicatores ad paganos.

CAP. VI.

FILIVS loquebatur. Ego sum quasi Rex, qui stabat in campo, ad cuius dexteram stabant amici, & ad sinistram inimici. Quibus stantibus vox vna cuiusdã clamantis venit ad dexteram, vbi omnes bene armati stabant, galeas habebant ligatas, & facies conuersas ad Dominum. Clamabat autem vox sic, vertite vos ad me, & credite mihi, ego habeo aurum dare vobis. Qui audientes verterunt se ad eum, quibus versis dixit vox secundo. Si volueritis videre aurum soluite galeas vestras & si possidere desideratis, ego iterum ligabo galeas vestras ad voluntatem meam. Quibus fauentibus ei, ligauit galeas eorum ex trãsuerso, ita quod anteriora foramina, per quæ videre debebant erant in occipite, & posteriora galeæ obumbrabant oculos, ne viderent, & sic ille clamans cæcos duxit eos post se. Quibus gestis, nunciauerunt amici, quidã regis domino suo, quod homines sui ab inimicis suis essent supplantati. Qui ait ad amicos suos. Exite inter illos, & clamate sic. Soluite galeas vestras, & videte, quia decepti estis. Conuertimini ad me, & ego recipiam vos in pace. Qui noluerunt audire, sed habuerunt pro derisu. Quod serui audientes nunciauerũt hoc domino suo, qui ait. Ergo quia ipsi contempserunt me cito procedite ad sinistram, & dicite eis, qui ad sinistram stant hæc tria. Via quæ ducit vos ad vitam parata est vobis, porta aperta est, & Dominus personaliter cum pace vult occurrere vobis. Ergo credite firmiter viam esse paratam, sperate stabiliter portam esse apertam, & verba eius esse vera. Occurite cum charitate Domino, & ipse cum charitate, & pace suscipiet vos, & ducet in perpetuam pacem. Qui audientes verba nunciorum crediderunt, & susceptí sunt in pace. Ego sum ille Rex, qui Christianos habui ad dexteram, qui eis æternum bonum præparaui.

Quorum galeæ, tunc ligatæ, & facies ad me verſæ erant, quando voluntatem perfectam habuerunt facere voluntatem meam. Obedire mandatis meis. & deſiderium totum erat ad cælum. Tandem vox diaboli, ideſt, ſuperbia ſonuit in mundo, quæ oſtendit mundi diuitias, & carnalem voluptatem, ad quam tunc ſe verterunt, cum affectum, & conſenſum ſuperbiæ dederunt. Pro qua, & tunc galeas depoſuerunt, cum affectum operæ compleuerunt, & temporalia ſpiritualibus præpoſuerunt: Depoſitis ergo galeis diuinæ voluntatis, & armis virtutum, tantum nunc ſuperbia prævaluit in eis, & tan-
1 tum eos ſibi obligauit, 1 quod libenter vſque in finem volunt peccare, & libenter in æternum vellent viuere, vt in æternum poſſent peccare. Quæ etiam ſic obumbrauit eos quod foramina galearum, per quæ videre deberent, ſtant in occipite, & in fronte tenebræ ſunt. Quæ enim ſunt foramina galearum, niſi conſideratio futurorum, & prouida circunſpectio præſentium. Per primum foramen deberent conſiderare premia æterna, quam delectabilia ſunt, & futura ſupplicia, quam horribilia ſunt, ac Dei iudicia, quam terribilia. Per ſecundum foramen deberent conſiderare, quæ eſſent præcepta a Deo, & quæ prohibita, quantum excederent a mandatis Dei, & quomodo emendarent. Sed hæc foramina ſtent in occipite, vbi nihil videtur, quia conſideratio cæleſtium tradita eſt obliuioni. Amor Dei refriguit, amor autem mundi tam ſuauiter conſideratur, & amplectitur, quod eos ducit tanquam rotam bene vnctam ad quodcunque velit. Veruntamen amici mei videntes dehoneſtatem meam, animarum caſum, & diaboli dominium, quotidie pro eis ad me precibus ſuis clamant, quorum preces penetrauerunt cælum, & intrauerunt aures meas, & flexus precibus eorum, miſi eis quotidie prædicatores meos, oſtendi ſigna, & multiplicaui eis gratiam meam, Sed omnia ſpernentes peccata peccatis addiderũt. Propterea dicam nunc ſeruis meis, & in veritate complebo. Procedite ſerui mei ad
2 var. lect. ſiniſtram, ideſt, ad paganos, qui tanquam ad ſiniſtram in contemptu vſque huc fuerunt. Procedite inquam & dicite ſic. Dominus cæli, & Creator omnium facit vobis dici. Via cæli aperta eſt vobis, habete voluntatem intrandi cum firmâ fide. Porta cæli ſtat vobis aperta ſperate firmiter, & intrabitis in eam. Rex cæli, & Dominus Angelorum vult perſonaliter occurrere vobis, & dare pacem, & perpetuam benedictionem. Occurrite ei, & ſuſcipite eum eum fide eius quam vobis oſtendit, qua via cæli præparatur, ſuſcipite eum cum ſpe qua ſperatis, cum ipſe habet iam velle dare vobis cælum. Diligite eum toto corde, & opere complete, & ingredimini portas Dei, a quibus Chriſtiani, qui eas ingredi nolut, & ſe indignos per opera ſua faciũt repelluntur. In veritate mea dico vobis, quod complebo verba mea, & non dimittam. Suſcipiam vos in filios, & ero vobis in patrem, quem Chriſtiani contemptibiliter contempſerũt. Vos ergo amici mei, qui eſtis in mundo, procedite ſecuri, & clamate annunciate eis voluntatem meam, & iuuate, vt poſſint complere. Ego ero in corde, & in ore veſtro. Ego ero dux veſter in vita, & conſeruator in morte. Non relinquam vos, procedite audaćter, quia ex labore creſcit gloria. Omnia enim poſſem in vno puncto, & verbo, ſed volo, vt ex certamine creſcat vobis merces, & ex virilitate veſtra creſcat honor meus. Nec mi remini quod loquor. Nam ſi ſapientiſſimus in mundo poſſet conſiderare, quot animæ deſcendunt quotidie in infernum plures eſſent, quam arena maris dinumerata, & lapilli riparum. 2 Hæc enim eſt iuſtitia, quia ſe a Deo, & Domino ſuo ſeparauerunt. Propterea vt minuatur numerus diaboli, ſciatur periculum, & impleatur exercitus meus loquor, ſi forte audierint, & reſipiſcant.

NOTAE.

1 QVod libenter vſque ad finem volunt peccare, & libenter in æternum vellent viuere, vt in æternum poſſent peccare.

Eandem prorſus ſententiam habet D. Bernardus in Epi. 25 2. ita vt inquit, ſi nunquã morerentur, nunquam velle peccare deſinerent, imo ſemper viuere vellent, vt in æternum poſſent peccare, idem habet D. Gregor. 4. Dialog. cap. 4. voluiſſent ſine fine viuere, vt ſine fine potuiſſent in iniquitatibus permanere.

2 Hæc enim eſt iuſtitia, quia ſe a Deo, & Domino ſuo ſeparauerunt.

Sic legunt omnia hactenus impreſſa exemplaria, ſed locus mancus eſt, & cum M. S. Farenſiano Codice, ita corrigendus. Hæc enim eſt iuſtitia, vt ſi a Deo, & Domino ſuo ſe ſeparauerint cum diabolo coniungantur.

VERBA

VERBA IESV CHRISTI ad ſponſam qualiter eius deitas coronæ comparatur, & quomodo ſtatus clericorum, & laicorum per Petrum, & Paulum deſignatur, & de modis contra inimicos tenendis, & de conditionibus prænes milites ſæculares habendis.

CAP. VII.

ILIVS loquebatur ad ſponſam dicens. Ego ſum Rex coronæ. Numquid ſcis tu quare dixerim Rex coronæ. Certe deitas mea ſine principio erat, & ſine fine erit, & eſt, hæc deitas mea coronæ aſſimilatur, quia ſine initio, & ſine fine eſt. Sicut autem in regno corona ſeruatur Regi futuro, ſic deitas mea ſeruabatur hamanitati meæ, quia ipſa coronaretur. Ego autem habui duos famulos, vnus erat clericus alter laicus. Primus erat Petrus clerici officium habens. Paulus autem quaſi 1 laicus. Petrus fuit alligatus coniugio, 1 qui var. lect. videns coniugium cum officio clerici non poſſe conuenire, & rectitudinem mentis ſuæ in continentia periclitari perpendens, ſeparauit ſe quantum ad commixtionem à coniugio quamuis licito, & perfecta mente adhæſit mihi. 2 Paulus autem caſtitatem ſeruauit, & ſe immaculatum à thoro cuſtodiuit. Ecce qualem charitatem cum iſtis duobus feci. Primo ideſt, Petro dedi claues cæli, vt quæcunque ligaret, & ſolueret in terra, ligata, & ſoluta eſſent in cælo. 3 Secundo ideſt Paulo dedi, vt ſimilis Petro fieret in gloria, & honore. Sicut enim in terra pares fuerunt, & coniuncti, ſic nunc in cælo in gloria perpetua coniuncti ſunt, & glorificati. Sed licet iſtos duos expreſſe nominauerim, tamen cum eis, & in eis alios amicos meos intelligo. Sicut enim olim in lege ad ſolum Iſrael quaſi ad vnum hominem loquebar, cum tamen totum Iſraeliticum populum in illo nomine notabam. Sic nunc in iſtis duobus plures intelligo, quos gloria mea, & charitate repleui. Procedente autem aliquo tempore, cœperunt mala multiplicari, & caro infirmari, & prócliuior ſolito ad malum eſſe. Propterea vtrique ſtatui clericorum, ſcilicet, & laicórum, quos in Petro, & paulo intelligo, miſericorditer conſulens, permiſi clericos bona Eccleſiæ ad vtilitatem corporis moderate habere, vt eo feruentiores, & frequẽtiores eſſent in ſeruitio meo. Permiſi, & laicis coniugium iuxta ritum Eccleſiæ. Inter clericos erat quidam bonus homo, qui cogitabat apud ſe. Caro trahit me ad prauam voluptatem, mundus ad nocinũ viſum, diabolus ponit mihi multipliciter peccati inſidias. Ideo ne ſupplanter a carne, & a voluptate, ponam modum in omnibus actibus meis, moderabo me in refectione, & quiete. Seruabo tempus debitum in 4 labore, & oratione, 4 refrænabo carnem meã var. lect. ieiunijs. Secundo, ne mundus trahat me ab amore Dei, omnia quæ mundi ſunt, quia caduca ſunt, relinquere volo, paupertatem, Chriſtum ſequi tutius eſt. Tertio, ne diabolus decipiat me, qui ſemper falſa oſtendit pro vero, ſubijciam me regimini, & obedientiæ alterius. Omnem voluntatem pro-5 priam abijciam, 5 & paratum me exhibeo
var. lect. ad omnia quæcunque mihi ab alio fuerint imperata. 6 Hic eſt, qui primum inſtituit 6 Monaſterium, & laudabiliter in eo perſeverans alijs vitam ſuam imitãdam dereliquit, & ſtatus laicorum bene erat ad tempus diſpoſitus. Quidam eorum excolebant terram, & labori agrorum viriliter inſtabant. Alij velificabant nauibus, & mercimonia alijs regionibus deferebant, vt vnius regionis fortilitas, alterius ſubleuaret inopiam. Quidam inſtabant operi manuum, & diuerſarũ artium. Inter iſtos quidam erant defenſores Eccleſiæ meæ, qui nunc dicuntur curiales, qui aſſumpſerunt ſibi arma ad vltionem Eccleſiæ ſanctæ, ad expugnationem inimicorum eius. In iſtis curialibus apparuit quidam bonus homo, & amicus meus, qui cogitabat apud ſe. Non excolo terram, vt agricultor. Non defodo in fluctibus maris, vt mercator. Non inſiſto labori manuum, vt operator egregius. Quid ergo faciam, aut quibus operibus placabo Deum meum? Sed nec virilis ſum in labore Eccleſiæ. Corpus meum debile eſt, & molle ad patiendum vulnera. Manus remiſſa ad feriendum inimicos. Mens faſtidioſa ad cogitandum cælеſtia. Quid ergo faciendum eſt modo? Certe ſcio quid faciam. Surgam, & obligabo me cum iuramento ſtabili, ſub temporali principe, quod defenſurus ſim viribus meis, & ſanguine meo fidem ſanctæ Eccleſiæ. Veniens autem ille amicus meus ad Principem ait. Domine, ego ſum de defenſoribus Eccleſiæ. Corpus meum nimis molle eſt ad patiendum vulnera. Manus remiſſa ad feriendum. Mens inſtabilis ad cogitandum bona, & laborandum. Voluntas mihi placet propria, requies non ſinit me fortiter pro domo Dei ſtare. Ideo conſtringo me cum iuramẽ-

to publico, ſub obedientia ſanctæ Eccleſiæ, & tua ò princeps, quod eam defenſurus ſim omnibus diebus vitæ meę. Vt ſi forte tepida mens, & voluntas fuerit ad certandum, propter iuramentum teneo, & compelli poſſum ad laborandum. Cui reſpondit princeps. Vadam tecum ad domum Domini, & ero teſtis iuramenti tui, & promiſſionis tuæ. Venientes autem ambo ad altare meum amicus meus flexo genu ante altare meum dixit. Ego nimis infirmus ſum in carne mea ad patiendum vulnera. Voluntas propria nimis eſt mihi cara. Manus tepida ad percutiendum. Ideo in præſenti promitto obedientiam Deo, & tibi, qui caput es, cum iuramento meo firmiter aſtringens me, ſanctam Eccleſiam contra inimicos eius defenſurum. Amicos Dei confortaturum. Viduis orphanis, & fidelibus Dei benefacturum. Contra Eccleſiam Dei, & fidem eius, nunquam aliquid contrarium acturum. Inſuper obligo me correctioni tuæ, ſi errare me contingat, ad hoc, vt obligatus ad obedientiam, tanto magis cauere poſſim peccata, & voluntatem propriam, & tanto fortiùs, & facilius inſiſtere voluntati Dei, & tuæ. Sciamque tanto mihi eſſe damnabilius cæteris, & contemptibilius ſi violata obedientia mandatis tuis contraire præſumpſero. Facta autem iſta profeſſione ad altare meum. Princeps ſapienter conſiderans, diſpoſuit ſibi habitum ab aliis ſæcularibus diſtinctum, in ſignum abdicationis voluntatis propriæ, & vt ſciret ſe ſuperiorem habere, & debere ei obtemperare. Dedit etiam princeps in manu eius gladium dicens. Hoc gladio inimicos Dei comminues, & interficies. Dedit & in brachio eius clypeum dicens. Hoc clypeo defende te contra inimicorum iacula, & patienter tolera illata, vt prius crepet clypeus quam fugias. Iſte amicus meus hæc omnia audiente clerico meo, qui præſens erat firmiter ſeruaturum ſe promiſit, qui clericus facta promiſſione, dedit ei corpus meum in robur, & fortitudinem, vt amicus meus per corpus meum mihi vnitus, nunquam a me ſepararetur. Talis fuit amicus meus Georgius, & plures alij, tales & deberent eſſe milites, qui nomen deberent habere propter dignitatem, habitum propter operationem, & defenſionem fidei ſanctæ. Audi nunc quid inimici mei faciunt contra ea, quæ amici mei prius fecerunt. Denique amici mei ingrediebantur monaſteria, ex diſcreto timore, & diuina charitate. Sed hi, qui nunc ſunt in monaſterijs, vadunt in mundum pro ſuperbia, & cupiditate, habentes propriam voluntatem facientes corporis ſui deſiderium. Horum qui in tali voluntate moriuntur iuſtitia eſt, quod non ſentiant, nec obtineant cæleſte gaudium, ſed pœnam in inferno ſine fine. Scitò etiam quòd claustrales, qui coguntur contra velle proprium ex diuina charitate fieri prælati, non ſunt in eorum numero computandi. Milites quoque qui mea portabant arma fuerunt parati dare vitam pro iuſtitia, & effundere ſanguinem propter fidem ſanctam, indigentes promouendo ad iuſtitiam, maloſque deprimere, & humiliare. Sed nunc audi quomodo auerſi ſunt. Placet quippe nunc eis magis mori in bello, pro ſuperbia, cupiditate, & inuidia, iuxtà diabolicas ſuggeſtiones, quam ſecundum mandata mea viuere, ad obtinendum gaudium ſempiternum. Ergo omnibus, qui in tali voluntate moriuntur, dabitur ſtipendium ex iudicio iuſtitiæ, ſcilicet animabus eorum in æterna diaboli coniunctione. Hi vero, qui mihi ſeruiunt, tenentur habere ſtipendium cum cæleſti exercitu ſine fine. Hæc verba ego Ieſus Chriſtus locutus ſum, verus Deus & homo, vnus cum Patre, & Spiritu ſancto ſemper Deus.

CAP. VIII.

EGO ſum verus Dominus. Nullus enim dominus eſt me excellentior, nec ante me fuit, nec poſt me erit, ſed omne dominium eſt a me, & per me, Ideo ego verus ſum dominus, nec aliquis vere eſt dominus dicendus, niſi ego ſolus, quia a me eſt omnis poteſtas. Dixi tibi prius quod duos habui famulos, quorum alter vitam laudabilem viriliter aſſumpſit, & virilius conſummauit, quem innumerabiles poſtea in eadem vita, & militia ſequebantur. Nunc dicam tibi, quis de profeſſione militiæ inſtitutæ ab amico meo primo receſſit. Nomen eius non dico tibi, quia non cognoſcis eum ex nomine, ſed intentionem eius, & affectum tibi oſtendam qualis erat. Quidam volens fieri miles ve nit ad templum meum, qui ingrediens audiuit vocem; Si tu vis fieri miles, oportet te habere iſta tria. Primo debes credere panẽ qui videtur in altari eſſe Deum verum, & hominem, cæli, & terræ creatorem. Secundo debes habere maiorem abſtinentiam a voluntate tua poſt aſſumptam militiam, quam antea conſueuiſti. Tertio non debes curare de honore mundi, & dabo tibi delectationẽ diuinam, & honorem ſempiternum. Quibus auditis, & ipſe ſecum hæc tria deliberante, audiuit in mente ſua vocem aliam peſſimã, tribus primis tria contraria ſonantem. Si inquit, volueris mihi ſeruire, dabo tibi alia tria. Dabo tibi poſſidere quæ vides, audire quæ delectant, obtinere quæ appetis. Quibus audiens iſta, cogitauit apud ſe. Ille dominus primus iubet me credere quæ non video, promittit quæ neſcio. Iubet abſtinere a delectationibus quas deſidero, & video. Iubet ſperare incerta. Alter autem promittit mihi mundi honorem quem video. Delectationem quam appeto. Auditum delectabilium, & viſum non prohibet. Certe melius eſt mihi ſequi eum, & habere quæ video, vel his de quibus certus ſum, quam ſperare incerta. Iſte homo ſic cogitans, cœpit primo de vera militia retrocedere. Ipſe abnegauit profeſſionem veram, & promiſſionem irritauit. Clypeum patientiæ proiecit ante pedes meos. Gladium defenſionis fidei reiecit de manibus ſuis, & ſic exiuit de templo meo. Cui dixit vox illa peſſima, Si ſicut dixi volueris eſſe meus, tunc debes procedere cũ omni ſuperbia in campum, & in plateas, vt ſicut ille dominus præcepit ſuis habere humilitatem in omnibus, ſic nullum ſit genus oſtentationis, & ſuperbiæ, quod te fugiat. Et ſicut ille intrauit cum obedientia, & omni ſe ſubdidit obedientiæ, ſic nullum tu patere te eſſe ſuperiorem, nulli curues per humilitatem ceruicem tuam. Gladium aſſume in manibus ad hoc vt effundas ſanguinem proximi tui, & fratris tui propter acquiſitionem poſſeſſionis eius. Clypeum pone in brachio ad hoc vt libenter des vitam tuam pro acquiſitione honoris. Pro fide, quã ille habet. Tu dilige templum corporis tui, vt a nulla voluptate, quæ te delectat abſtineas. In talibus ergo homine illo firmante voluntatem ſuam, & intentionem. Princeps ſuus impoſuit collo eius manum ſuam in loco ad hoc conſtituto. Locus enim qualiſcunq; nõ obeſt alicui, ſi voluntas fuerit bona, nec prodeſt ſi intentio fuerit prana. Dictis autem verbis confirmationis militiæ ſuæ, receſſit ille, militiam ſuam exercens ad omnem mundi ſuperbiam, paruipendens miſer, quod ad maiora, quam prius, & auſteriorem vitam fuerat obligatus. Hunc militem infinitæ

militię sequebantur, & sequuntur in superbia, & profundius propter militię professionem descendunt in abyssum. Sed potes quærere, quod multi volunt exaltari in mundo, & vocari magni, sed tamen non prævalent. Nunquid isti propter voluntatem malam æque punientur, sicut ij, qui omnem processum iuxta desiderium habebunt? Ad hoc ego respondeo tibi. Quicunque completam habet voluntatem, & facit quantum potest, vt exaltari possit in mundo, & in mundi honore, & nomine vano vocari, nec tamen propter occultum iudicium meum permittitur effectus voluntati; pro certo dico tibi, quod secundum voluntatem illam malam ita punietur, sicut ille qui complevit opere, nisi pœnitentia voluntas corrigatur. Ecce de duobus satis notis pluribus, dico tibi exemplum. Quorum vnus iuxta voluntatem suã prosperabatur, & fere omnia quæ concupiuit obtinuit. Alter eandem voluntatem habuit, sed non obtinuit posse. Primus obtinuit honorem mundi, dilexit templum corporis sui in omni voluptate, dominabatur vt voluit, ad omnia quæ misit manum proficiebat. Alter eorum voluntate consimilis, minorem habuit honorem, qui gaudentes centies fudisset sanguinem proximi sui, vt cupiditatem suam perficere potuisset. Qui & fecit quod potuit, & voluntatem suam iuxta desiderium suum adimpleuit. Isti duo pares sunt in supplicio horrendo, qui licet non vno tempore, & vna hora fuerunt mortui ambo, tamen sic loquor de anima vnius, sicut de duabus, quia ambarum vna est damnatio, vna & vox ambarum erat in separatione corporis, animæque egressu. Egressa ergo anima de corpore, ipsa loquebatur ad corpus sic: Dic mihi vbi est nunc visio oculorum delectabilis, quam mihi promisisti, vbi voluptas, quam mihi ostendisti? vbi verba delectabilia quibus me vti præcepisti? Adfuit mox dęmon, & respondit. Visio promissa non est nisi puluis, verba non sunt nisi aër. Voluptas non est nisi lutum, & putredo, hæc ad nihilum tibi valent. Tunc clamabat anima: Heu heu quam miserabiliter decepta sum. Ego video tria. Video enim illum, qui in similitudine panis promittebatur, ipse est Rex Regum, & Dominus dominantium. Ego video quod promisit, & hoc est indicibile, & inexcogitabile. Audio iam abstinentiam, quam suasit fuisse vtilissimam. Deinde altius clamabat cum tribus væ. Væ, inquit, quia nata sum. Væ quia tam longa fuit vita mea super terram. Væ, quia vidua sum in morte perpetua, quæ nunquam potest terminari. Ecce quantam miseriam miseri habebunt pro contemptu Dei sui, & pro transitoria felicitate. Ideo sponsa mea regratiare mihi, quia vocaui te de tanta miseria. Obedi spiritui meo, & electis.

VERBA CHRISTI AD SPONSAM capituli immediate præcedens declaratione inferentia, & de occursu diaboli ad supradictum militem, & de eius horribili condemnatione per iustitiam.

CAP. IX.

IMNE tempus huius vitæ non est nisi quasi vna hora apud me. Ideo quod dico tibi nunc, hoc fuit semper in præscientia mea. Dixi prius, quod vnus erat qui incepit veram militiam. Alter qui misere discessit ab ea. Ille vero qui discessit a vera militia, proiecit clypeum ante pedes meos. Gladium ad latus meum, quando scilicet fregit promissionem, & professionem sanctam. 1 Quid autem notat clypeus quem proiecit, nisi fidem rectam, quam contra inimicos fidei, & animæ suæ se defenderet? 2 Quid vero sunt pedes mei, quibus ad hominem vado, nisi diuina delectatio, qua hominem mihi attraho, & patientia mea qua eum suffero patienter? Hunc autem clypeum proiecit, quando ingrediens templum meum cogitabat apud se. Hunc Dominum sequi volo, qui consuluit mihi nullam abstinentiam, qui mihi dat, quæ desidero, qui permittit me audire, quæ delectant aures. 3 Sic ergo proiecit clypeum fidei meæ, quando magis sequi voluit voluntatem propriam, quam me quando plus dilexit creaturam, quam Creatorem. Si enim habuisset rectam fidem, si credidisset me omnipotentem, si iuste iudicantem, & datorem æternæ gloriæ, nihil nisi me desideraret, nihil nisi me timuisset. Sed fidem meã abiecit, & hoc ante pedes meos, quando spreta fide mea, & pro nihilo reputata, nec gaudium meum quærebat, nec patientiam meam attendebat. Deinde proiecit gladium ad latus meum. Quid notat gladius nisi timorem Dei, quem verus miles Dei debet habere continue in manibus, ideſt, in operationibus suis. Quid vero significat latus meum, nisi custodiam, & protectionem meam, sub qua filios meos, sicut mater pullos suos foueo, & defendo, ne diabolus noceat eis, ne pericula intolerabilia adueniant eis. Sed ille abiecit gladium timoris mei, quando non curauit cogitare potenpotentiam meam, nec attendebat charitatē meam, & patientiam. Proiecit autem ad latus meum, quasi dicat, non timeo, nec curo de defensione tua, ex industria enim mea est, & nobilitate quod habeo. Fregit etiam promissionem mihi factam. Quæ est promissio vera, quam homo tenetur vouere Deo, vtique opus charitatis, vt quicquid fecerit homo, hoc ex charitate Dei faciat. Sed hanc irritauit quando charitatem Dei retorsit ad amorem proprium, omnem voluptatem suam præposuit delectationi futuræ & æternæ. Ecce sic separabatur a me, & exiuit de templo humilitatis meæ. Omnia quippe Christianorum corpora. In quibus regnat humilitas, templum meum sunt. In quibus autem est superbia, non templum meum sunt, sed diaboli, qui eos iuxta voluntatem suam regit ad mundi appetitum. Egressus autem de templo humilitatis meæ & reiecto clypeo fidei sanctæ, & gladio timoris mei, ascendit in campum cum omni superbia, exercuit se in omni voluptate, & appetitu voluntatis propriæ, contempto timore meo proficiens in peccato suo, & voluptate. Dum autem venisset ad extremum finem vitæ suæ, & anima exiret de corpore dæmones occurrerunt ei cum impetu. Contra quam tres voces de inferno sonuerunt. Prima dixit: Nunquid non est iste qui recessit de humilitate, & sequebatur nos in omni superbia? Et adhuc duobus pedibus altius in superbiam supra nos ascendere posset vt excederet nos, & primatum haberet in superbia, libenter fecisset. Cui anima respondit. Vere ego sum. Cui respondit iustitia. Hæc est retributio tuæ superbiæ, vt de vno dæmone cadas ad alium, vsquequo venias ad nouissimum inferni. Et sicut nullus dæmonum erat, qui non sciebat certam pœnā suam, & supplicium, pro omni cogitatu inutili, & operæ infligendum, sic nullius supplicium effugies, quin omnis malitiæ, & nequitiæ particeps sis. Secunda vox clamabat dicens. Nunquid non est iste, qui de militia Dei professa se separauit, & adhæsit militiæ nostræ. Respondit anima. Vere ego

4 sum. 4 Et dixit iustitia, hæc est fons premij tui, vt omnis quicunque malitiam tuam sequitur, malitia sua, & pœna, dolorem tuū, & pœnā abundantabit, & in aduentu suo ad te, quasi lethali vulnere percutiet te. Sicut enim ille, qui haberet vulnus sæuum, si ei vulnus super vulnus, vsquequo corpus vulneribus plenum esse inferretur, intollerabiliter affligeretur, & clamaret væ super væ. Sic miseria super miseriā veniet tibi. Dolor tuus super omnem dolorem renouabitur. Pœna tua nunquam deficiet, & vę tuum nunquā

NOTAE.

1 QVid autem notat clypeus, qui proiecit a me nisi fidem rectam, qua contra inimicos fidei, & animæ suæ se defenderet.

Fidem optimum esse contra inimicos nostros clypeum traditur hic, a quibus cum premamur, vt ad

Paulus Loricam appellat: huius autem armaturæ esse potest, quoniam cum quotidie nobis pugnandum sit contra visibiles, & inuisibiles hostes, prout legimus hic, & clypeo, & lorica indigemus, quod etiam indicauit Augustinus, qui explicans eiusdem locum ad Thessalonicenses: fides, inquit, est scutum, sub quo tuta est iustitia. Sicut sub nomine armorum virorum, quod proponitur ante omnia arma, quod prius impugnat diabolum, vnde prima petit campum dubia sub fronte duelli pugnatura fides, idem habet in Psalm. 34. ad eum versiculum apprehende arma, & scutum, quod etiam admonuerunt Primasius, Sedulius, & Dionisius Carthusianus, eundem locum explicantes.*

3 Quid vero sunt pedes mei, quibus ad hominem vado, nisi diuina delectatio, qua hominem mihi traho.

Ad horum verborum intelligentiam sciendum est, quod pedes sunt, quibus ad gradiendum vtimur, & in sacris litteris prout, & hic aliquando dicuntur ipsi gressus hominis, sic Prouerb. 1. pedes illorum ad malum currunt, gressus autem Dei, quo vadit ad hominem, eumque trahit ad se, iustice diuina est delectatio, vt scribitur hic, vel vt habet alia lectio, diuina dilectio, qua hominem sic vnice diligit, vt omnes suos gressus ad hominum salutem Christus dirigat, vt etiam pro his carnem sumpserit, & acerbam mortem subierit, hinc est, quod per pedes Agni quorum mentio fit Exodi 12. & Isaiæ sexto, sancti Patres Christi Domini humanitatem, & quid

3 Sic ergo proiecit clypeum fidei meæ, quando magis loqui voluit voluntatem propriam, quam me, quia plus dilexit creaturam, quam Creatorem.

Ex verbis præſentis nota nullo modo eſt colligendum, Chriſtianos homines, per quodlibet peccatum mortale donum fidei perdere, ſed quod iuſto Dei iudicio frequenter accidit, quod dum peccatum in dies peccato addunt, Deumque quotidie magis ſibi offendunt, iuſte permitti, vt huiuſmodi homines fidem aliquando perdant, quod etiam probat Concil Triden. ſeſſ. 6. CAP. X.

1 SCRIBITVR in lege Moyſi. Quod Moyſes cuſtodiens pecora in deſerto, cum videret rubũ, qui inflammabatur, & nõ ardebat, timuit, & velabat faciem ſuam. Cui dixit vox de rubo. Affli ctio populi mei aſcendit in aures meas, & miſereor eis, quia duriſſimo ſeruitio opprimuntur. Ego ſum illa vox de rubo ſonans, qui nunc loquor tecum. Miſeria populi mei aſcendit in aures meas. Quis erat populus meus niſi Iſrael? Per hunc intelligo milites in mundo, qui profeſſi ſunt militiam meam, qui deberent eſſe mei, ſed nimis a diabolo affliguntur. Quid autem fecit Pharao populo meo Iſrael in Aegypto? Certe tria mala. Primo, quod in ſtructura murorum ſuorum, non miniſtrabantur laboratoribus palex, quibus ſtabilirent lapides, ſed perſonaliter congregabant ſibi per regionem, vbi poſſent. Secundo, quod adiutores pro labore ſuo non reportabant grates, quamuis impoſitum numerum lapidum impleuiſſent. Tertio, quod affligebantur vehementer a præpoſitis, ſi in conſueto numero defeciſſent. Iſte populus meus duas vrbes in maxima afflictione ædificauerunt Pharaoni. Quis eſt iſte Pharao niſi diabolus, qui affligit populum meum, ideſt milites, qui tenentur eſſe populus meus. In veritate dico, quod milites ſtabiles in diſpoſitione, & con-constitutione ab amico meo primo incepta inter chariores fuissent mihi. Sicut enim Abraham accipiens primo mandatum circumcisionis, & obediens mihi, factus est meus amicus charissimus. Nec non quotquot sequebantur fidem Abrahæ, & operationem eius, facti sunt participes dilectionis, & gloriæ eius. Sic milites inter alios ordines mihi præcipue placuerunt, quia voluerunt, quod habebant charius, scilicet sanguinem suum pro me fundere, per quod votum mihi summe placuerunt, sicut Abrahã in circumcisione. Et purgabantur quotidie in obseruatione professionis, & assumptione sanctæ charitatis. Nunc autem milites isti miserabili seruitute diaboli opprimuntur, ita quod vulnerat eos diabolus læthali vulnere; insuper & detrudit illos in supplicium, & dolorem. Episcopi etiam Ecclesiæ ædificant ei, sicut filij Israel duas vrbes. Prima vrbs est labor corporis, & superuacua solicitudo acquirendi mundialia. Secunda est inquietudo, & turbatio mentis, quia ab appetitu mundi nunquam sinuntur quescere. Exterius est labor, & intus inquietudo, & anxietas spiritualia faciens onerosa. Sed sicut Pharao non ministrabat populo meo necessaria ad conficiendos lateres, nec areas dabat plenas frumento, non vinũ & alia vtilia; sed cum dolore & tribulatione spiritus, populus sibi personaliter acquirebat. Sic nunc facit eos diabolus, quamuis ipsi laborant, & totis medullis cordis inhiãt mundo, non tamen possunt perficere quod cupiunt, nec possunt satiare sitim cupiditatis suæ. Ideo vruntur dolore interius, & exterius labore. Ob quod compatior afflictioni eorum, quod milites mei, & populus meus diabolo ædificant mansiones, & laborant indesinenter, & quod non possunt complere quod cupiunt, & quod angustiantur in superuacuis, & pro ipsa angustia non reportant fructum benedictionis, sed retributionem confusionis. Propterea cum Moyses mitteretur ad populum, dedit ei Deus signum triplici de causa. Primo, quia vnusquisque in Aegypto colebat singulariter Deum suum, & innumerabiles erant, qui dicebantur dij, & ideo dignum erat fieri signum, vt ostenso mirabili signo, & potentia Dei, vnus Deus, & vnus omnium creator esse per signa crederetur, & idola omnia vana esse probarentur. Secundo dabatur Moysi signum in figura, & representatione corporis mei futuri. 3 Quid enim rubus ardẽs & non combustus designabat nisi Virginem de Spiritu sancto fœcundatam, & absque corruptione parientem? Ego certe de rubo illo processi. Ego de Virginea carne Mariæ 4 assumpsi humanitatem. 4 Similiter etiam var. lect. serpens Moysi in signum datus, significabat cor meum. Tertio dabatur signum Moysi propter veritatem astruendam faciendorũ, & per figuram signorum implendorum, vt veritas Dei tanto verior, & certior esset probaretur, quo eaquæ signa significabant tempore suo euidentius fuissent adimplera.

5 5 Nunc autem mitto verba mea ad filios Israel, & ad milites, quibus non est necesse fieri signum, triplici de causa. Primo, quia iam colitur, & scitur vnus Deus, & omnium Creator ex scriptura sancta, & multiplicibus signis. Secundo, quia non sperant me nasciturum, quia veraciter me sciunt natum, & sine corruptione incarnatum, quia scriptura omnis completa est. Nec melior fides & certior haberi, & credi debet, quam quæ nunc a me, & sanctis prædicatoribus meis prædicata est. Veruntamen tria tecum feci quibus credi potest. Primo quod verba mea var. lect. cundo quod ad verbum meum exiuit de homine possesso dęmonium. Tertio, quia vni dedi diffidẽtia corda ad charitatem mutuã reformare. Ideo non dubites de his qui credituri sunt mihi. Qui enim credunt mihi credunt, & verbis meis. Quibus ego sapio, eis & sapiũt verba mea. Proprerea scribitur quod Moyses ex collocutione Dei velabat faciẽ suam. Tu autem non debes velare faciem tuam. Ego quippe aperui tibi oculos spirituales, vt videas spiritualia, aperui aures, vt audias quæ spiritus sunt. Ego denique ostendam tibi corporis mei effigiem, quale fuit in passione, & ante passionem, quale fuit post resurrectionem, quod Magdalena, & petrus, & alij viderunt. Audies etiam vocem meam quæ loquebatur in rubo Moysi hęc eadem nunc loquitur in anima tua.

6 vera sunt, & non discrepant a vera fide. 6 Se-

NOTAE.

1 SCribitur in lege Moysi, quod Moyses custodiens pecora in deserto, cum videret rubum.

Sic enim legimus Exodi c. 3. Moyses autem pascebat oues Ietro soceris sui sacerdotis Madian, cumq. minasset gregem ad interiora deserti, venit ad montem Dei Horeb, apparuitq. ei Dominus in flamma ignis de medio rubi: quo loco notandum est cum Philone de vita Moysis, quod Rubus frutex spinosus est, vel solo tentactu vulnerans, cuius folia serpenti superiecta, ipsum serpentem occidere ferunt, quod autem mistice significet traditimus hoc eodem cap. nota 3.

5 Nunc autem mitto verba mea ad filios Iſrael, & ad milites, quibus non eſt neceſſe fieri ſignum.

In præſenti capite tres redduntur cauſæ, quare noſtris his temporibus ea ſigna, ac miracula neceſſaria non ſint, quæ in principio naſcentis Eccleſiæ frequenter fiebant, & præter has, alias quoque ſancti Patres probabiles adduxerunt, inter quas ea eſt potiſſima, quam affert D. Iſidorus lib. primo, de ſummo bono cap. 27. vt nimirum fides confirmaretur, modo vero quia firmata eſt Eccleſia miraculis non eget, quod nunc inquit Eccleſia non ea miracula facit, quæ ſub Apoſtolis faciebat, cauſa eſt, quia tunc oportebat mundum miraculis credere, nunc vero iam credentem oportet bonis operibus corruſcare, eandẽ cauſam reddit D. Aug. in lib. de vtilitate credendi ad Honoratum c. 16. ſecunda cauſa, quam habet loc. cit. S. Iſidorus, eſt, quoniam inquit antequam Antichriſtus appareat virtutes ab Eccleſia, & ſigna ceſſabunt, quatenus eã quaſi abiectiorem proſequatur audacius, ob quam vtilitatem ceſſabunt miracula, & virtutes, vt per hoc ſanctorum clareat patientia, & reproborum, qui ſcandalizabuntur lætitas oſtendatur, & perſequentium audacia fortior fiat, hoc idem annotauit Gloſſ. ord. in Iob c. 41. ad ea verba, & faciem eius præcedet egeſtas, tertiã huius rei cauſam attulit D. Aug. lib. 1. retract. c. 13. quia inquit miracula ad hæc vſque noſtra tẽpora minime durare permiſſa ſunt, ne anima ſemper viſibilia quæreret, & eorum conſuetudine frigeſceret genus humanũ quorum nouitate flagrauit. Poſtrema cauſa eſt eiuſdem in lib. de vtilitate credendi c. 17. vbi dicit, quod ſi miracula quotidie fierent non mira eſſent: raritas enim ſpectat ad miraculorum excellentiam; cur inquit iſta modo nõ fiunt, quia non mouerent, niſi mira eſſent, at ſi ſolita eſſent mira non eſſent, idem docet lib. 1. retractat cap. 14. ſed lib. 22. de ciuitate Dei cap. 8. etiam hodierna die hæc fieri ſigna tradit, non tamen, ita eſſe euidentia, & apparere quemadmodum primis illis temporibus contingebat, nunc ait etiam fiunt miracula in eius nomine, ſiue per ſacramenta eius, ſiue per orationes, vel memorias Sanctorum, ſed non eadem claritate illuſtrantur, vt tanta quanta illa gloria diffamentur, huic quoque alia probabilis cauſa addi poſſet, quia cum fides propagata sit, & sufficienter probata non expedit, vt in Ecclesis frequenter miracula fiant, est enim fides de rebus non visis, miracula autem euidentiã quandam important: vnde recte D. Chrysost. tradit hom. 38. operis imperfet. si vero inquit perfecto in fide & maturo sensibus miracula ostendas, delectatur quidem aspectu, nihil autem ei proficit ad edificationem sensus, aut ad notitiam veritatis, sed hæc de re legendi sunt D. 6 Secundo, quod ad verbum meum exiuit de homine postesso dæmonium.

var. lect. M. S. legit, Secundo, quod ad verbum meum exiuit ab homine obsesso dæmonium.

VERBA MELLIFLVA Christi ad sponsam, de gloria, & honore boni, & veri militis, & de occursu Angelorum ad ipsum mirifico, & qualiter ipsum gloriola Trinitas pijssime ad indicibilem requiem pro paruo labore recipit, & assumit.

CAP. XI.

DIXI tibi prius de fine, & pœna militis, qui primo recessit à militia mihi professa. Nunc dico tibi per similitudinem, quia aliter spiritualia non poteris intelligere de gloria, & honore illius, qui viriliter militiam veram primo incepit, & virilius consummauit. Iste amicus meus cum venit ad finem vitæ suæ, & anima de corpore exiret, quinque legiones Angelorum mittebantur in occursum eius. Inter quos venerunt innumerabiles dæmones, vt aliquid sui iuris inuenirent, quia pleni malitia sunt, & ab ea nunquam cessant. Tunc autem vna vox clare, & lucide sonuit in cælo dicens. Nunquid non est iste ô Domine pater, qui se ad voluntatem tuam alligauit, & eam perfecte compleuit? Tunc ipse personaliter respondit in conscientia sua. Vere ego sum: deinde tres voces audiebantur. Vna ex parte deitatis dicens. Nunquid non ego te creaui, & dedi tibi corpus & animam. Tu es filius meus, & voluntatem patris tui fecisti, veni ergo nunc ad potentissimum Creatorem tuum, & dulcissimum Patrem, tibi enim debetur æterna hæreditas, quia filius es. Tibi debetur hæreditas Patris, quia ei obedisti. Veni ergo dulcissime ad me, & ego recipiam te cum lætitia, & honore. Secunda vox audiebatur ex parte humanitatis dicens. Frater mi, veni ad fratrem tuum, ego enim obcali me pro te in bellum, ego fudi sanguinem meum pro te, veni ad me, quia sequebaris voluntatem meã, veni ad me, quia rependisti sanguinem pro sanguine. Qui paratus fuisti dare mortem pro morte, & vitam pro vita. Ideo tu, qui sequebaris me in vitã tua, veni nunc in vitã meam, & gaudium meum, quod non finietur. Veraciter enim confiteor te fratrem meum. Tertia vox audiebatur ex parte spiritus, qui non tres dij, sed vnus. Veni inquit miles meus, qui fuisti sic desiderabilis intus, quod concupiui habitare tecum. Tu fuisti sic virilis extra, quod dignus eras, vt defenderem te. Ideo pro corporis tui inquietudine, intra in requiem. Pro mentis tuæ tribulatione, ingredere in consolationem ineffabilem. Pro charitate tua, & virili deuotione intra in meipsum, & habitabo in te, & tu in me. Veni ergo egregie miles ad me, quia nihil desiderasti nisi me, veni, & repleberis diuina voluntate. Postea quinque legiones Angelorum, quasi quinque vocibus sonuerunt. Prima loquebatur dicens. Præcedamus egregium militem istum, & feramus ante eum arma sua, idest, præsentemus Deo nostro fidem suam, quam incoruptam conseruauit, & ab inimicis iustitiæ defensauit. Secunda vox ait. Feramus ante eum clypeum suum, idest, demonstremus Deo nostro patientiam suam, quæ quamuis Deo nostro nota sit, gloriosior tamen ex nostro erit testimonio. Per patientiam enim non solum aduersa sustinuit patienter, sed & pro aduersis gratias Deo referebat. Tertia vox ait. Præcedamus eum, & præsentemus conspectui Dei nostri gladium eius, id est, demonstremus obedientiam eius, quæ in duris, & lænibus iuxta modum professionis suæ obediuit. Quarta vox ait. Venite, & ostendamus Deo nostro equum suum, id est, testimonium perhibeamus humilitatis eius. Sicut enim equus fert corpus hominis. Sic humilitas eius præcedens eum, & subsequens ad omne bonum opus ferebat eum. Nihil quippe in eo inuenit superbia sessi, ideo secure equitabat. Quinta vox ait. Veni te, & præsentemus Deo nostro galeam eius, idest, testimonium demus de diuino desiderio eius, quod habuit ad Deum, ipse denique omni hora meditabatur eum in corde, ipsum habebat in ore, ipsum in operibus, ipsum super omnia desiderabat. Pro eius amore, & honore exhibuit se mortuum mundo. Ergo præsentemus hæc Deo nostro, quia dignus est iste, pro modico labore æternam quietem, & cum domino suo lætari, quæ tantum, & totiens desiderabat. Cum talibus vocibus, & mirabili choro Angelorum ferebatur batur amicus meus in requiem perpetuam? Quæ videns anima exultans intime ait. Felix ego, quod aliquando vnquam creata fui. Felix ego, quia Deo meo seruiui, quem nunc video. Felix ego, quia gaudium habeo, & gloriam, quæ non finietur. Ecce taliter amicus meus venit ad me, & tali premio remuneratus est. Et quamuis non omnes effuderint sanguinem pro nomine meo, nihilominus tamen eandem mercedem habebunt, si habent voluntatem dare vitam suam pro illo tempore, se sic offerente, & necessitate fidei ingruente. Ecce quantum voluntas bona facit.

VERBA CHRISTI AD sponsam de suæ iustitiæ immutabilitate, & æternitate, & qualiter assumpta humanitate talis iustitia in charitate per ipsum fuerit illuminata. Et quomodo pie suam misericordiam exercet in damnatis, & dulciter ad misericordiam monet milites præliba-tos. 3 2 6

CAP. XII.

EGO sum verus Rex. Et nullus est dignus vocari Rex nisi ego, quia a me est omnis honor, & potestas. 1 Ego sum, qui iudicaui primum Angelum, qui cecidit propter superbiam cupiditatem, & inuidiam. Ego sum, qui iudicaui Adam, & Cain, & totum mundum, immittendo propter hominum peccata diluuium. Ego idem sum, qui populum Israeliticum permisi in captiuitatem venire, & eum mirabiliter in signis mirabilibus eduxi. In me est omnis iustitia, & erat, & est sine principio, & fine, nec aliquando imminuitur apud me, sed semper vera in me permanet, & immutabilis, & quamuis nunc isto tempore iustitia mea videatur aliquantulum mitior, & Deus quasi in iudicando, nunc patiëtior. 2 Hoc tamẽ non est immutatio iustitiæ meæ, quæ nunquam immutatur, sed ostensio maior charitatis meæ. Eadem quippe iustitia, & eadem veritate iudicij, nunc mundum iudico, qua tunc cum populum meum Aegyptijs seruire permisi, qua & in deserto afflixi. Sed ante incarnationem meam occultabatur dilectio, quam in iustitia habui, quasi lux abscondita, seu aliqua nube obumbrata. Assumpta vero humanitate, licet mutabatur lex data, non tamen mutabatur iustitia, sed euidentius apparuit, & copiosius illuminabatur in charitate per filium Dei, & hoc tripliciter. Primo, quia mitigabatur lex, quæ erat dura, propter inobedientes, & induratos. Et difficilis propter domandos superbos. Secundo, quia filius Dei passus, & mortuus est. Tertio, quia iudicium, quasi longius nunc quam antea ex misericordia, & protrahi videtur, & mitius esse, nunc in peccantes. Multũ quippe rigida, & stricta videtur iustitia in primis parentibus, in vlta diluuij. In morte in heremo prostratorum, & eadem iustitia, nunc mecũ est, & æternaliter fuit. Sed nunc magis misericordia, & charitas apparet, quæ tunc rationabiliter in iustitia occultabatur, & misericorditer. Licet occultius exhibebatur, quia nunquam iustitiã sine misericordia feci, nec facio, nec sine iustitia pietatem. Nũc autem potes quærere, si in omni iustitia habeo misericordiam, quomodo misericors sum in damnatos? Respondeo tibi per exemplum, quasi aliquis iudex sederet in iudicio, & frater eius veniret ad iudicium iudicandus, cui dicit iudex. Tu frater meus es, & ego iudex tuus, & licet te intime diligo, tamen non potero, nec debeo facere contra iustitiam. Tu vides omnem iustitiam in conscientia tua secundum merita tua, secundũ hanc ergo oportet te iudicari. Si enim possibile esset venire contra iustitiam, libenter pro te iuditiũ portarem. Ego sum sicut iudex ille. Homo frater meus est per humanitatem. Quo veniente ad iudicium meum, conscientia eius dicit culpam suam, & intelligit, secundum quam iudicandus est. Ego vero quia iustus sum. Respondeo animæ per similitudinem dicens sibi. Tu vides omnem iustitiam in conscientia tua, dic ergo quid mereris? Tunc respondet mihi anima. Iudicium meum dicit mihi conscientia mea, & ipsum est pœna digna pro meritis, quia non obediui tibi. Cui ego respondeo. Ego iudex tuus suscepi omnem pœnam pro te, & notum feci tibi periculum tuum, & viam eundi, ne tu venires in pœnam. Iustitia quippe fuit, vt ante satisfactionem culpę cælum non intrares, hũc ego sustinui pro te, quia personaliter impotens eras ad patiendũ. Ego ostendi tibi per Prophetas, quæ mihi erat futura, & nec minimũ punctũ, de quo Prophetæ vaticinabantur prętériui. Ego ostendi tibi omnem dilectionem, quam poteram, vt verteres te ad me. Sed quia auertisti te a me, ideo iustitia nunc es dignus, quia misericordiam contempsisti. Veruntamẽ adhuc ita misericors sum, quod si possibile esset me iterato mori magis, eandem pœnã, quam in cruce semel patiebar, iterum magis paterer pro te, quã tali iustitia videre te iudicari. Sed iustitia dicit impossibile

var. lect.

sibile esse me iterato mori. Misericordia vero dicit, si possibile esset morerer libenter pro te. Ecce quomodo misericors sum etiã in damnatos, & quam charitatiuus. Quicquid enim facio hoc facio, vt ostendam charitatem meam. Ab initio quippe dilexi hominem, etiam cum iratus viderer, sed dilectionem meam nullus curat, nec attendit. Nunc ergo quia iustus, & misericors sum, moneo eos qui dicuntur milites, vt quærant misericordiam meã, ne inueniat eos iustitia mea, quæ est stabilis sicut mons, ardẽs sicut ignis horribilis quasi conitruum, subita quasi arcus extensus ad sagittandum. Ego moneo eos tripliciter. Primo sicut pater filios vt reuertantur ad me, quia ego pater, & creator eorum sum, reuertantur, & dabo eis patrimonium, quod paterno iure debetur eis. Reuertantur, quia licet contemptus sum, attamen cum gaudio suscipiam eos, & occurram eis cum charitate. Secundo rogo eos sicut frater vt recordentur vulnerum, & operum meorum, reuertantur, & suscipiam eos quasi frater. Tertio rogo vt dominus, vt reuertãtur ad dominum suum, cui dederunt fidem, cui & obsequium tenentur, & iuramento se obligauerunt. Ergo o milites reuertimini ad me patrem vestrum, qui cum charitate educaui vos. Considerate me fratrem vestrum pro vobis, & vobiscum factum similem. Reuertimini ad me pium dominum, inhonestas quippe magna est alij domino dare fidẽ, alij obsequium. Vos enim dedistis mihi fidem, quod defenderetis ecclesiam meam, quod miseris subueniretis; & ecce inimico meo datis obsequium. Deponitis etiam vexillum meum, & vexillum inimici mei erigitis. Ergo o milites redite ad me cum vera humilitate, qui a me per superbiam discessistis, si durum vobis videtur aliquid pro me pati, considerate quid ego feci pro vobis. Ego iui causa vestri sanguinolentis pedibus ad crucem, ego habui pro vobis manus, & pedes perforatos, ego nulli membro meo peperci pro vobis, & tamen hoc totum negligitis recedendo a me: redite ergo, & dabo vobis in auxilium tria. Primo fortitudinem contra inimicos corporales, & spirituales. Secundo magnanimitatem, qua nihil nisi me timebitis, qua delectabile videtur vobis pro me laborare. Tertio dabo vobis sapientiam, qua intelligetis veram fidem, & Dei voluntatẽ. Ergo redite, & state viriliter. Ego enim, qui moneo vos sum ille, cui Angeli seruiunt, qui patres vestros obedientes liberaui, inobedientes iudicaui, & superbos humiliaui. Ego fui primus in bello, primus in passione, sequimini ergo me, ne sicut cera ab igne diffoluamini. Cur rescinditis promissionem vestram? Cur iuramentum contemnitis? Nunquid ego minor, & indignior sum amico vestro temporali, cui si datis fidem soluitis? Mihi autem datori vitæ, & honoris, conseruatori sanitatis, non redditis promissum. Propterea boni milites soluite promissum, & si non sufficitis opere, saltem conemini voluntate, ego enim compatiens seruituti vestræ, qua diabolus opprimit vos, voluntatem recipiam pro opere. Si reditis ad me cum charitate, laborate pro fide Ecclesiæ meæ, & ego cum omni exercitu meo quasi pius pater occurram vobis. Daboque vobis pro præmio quinque bona. Primo honor æternus nunquam recedet de auditu vestro. Secundo facies, & gloria Dei nunquam recedet a visione vestra. Tertio laus Dei nunquam recedet de ore vestro. Quarto anima vestra habebit omnia quæ desiderabit, & nihil aliud desiderabit nisi quod habet. Quinto nunquam separabimini a Deo vestro, sed sine fine durabit gaudium, & sine fine in gaudio viuet uita uestra. Ecce o milites, talis erit retributio, si fidem meam defenditis, & pro honore meo, plus quam uestro laboratis. Recordamini si intellectus est uobis; quia ego patiens in uos sum, & quod infertis mihi talem contumeliam, qualem uos ipsi a uestris non ultis pati. Sed licet omnia ex potentia mea possum; & licet iustitia clamat super uos uindictam, adhuc tamen misericordia mea, quæ est in sapientia & bonitate, parcit vobis. Propterea quærite misericordiam: ex charitate enim præbeo ea quæ rogari humiliter deberem.

NOTAE.

1 EGo sum qui iudicaui primum angelum qui cecidit propter superbiam, cupiditatem, & inuidiam.

Ex his verbis nobis aperte colligendum est, ex Angelis cecidisse supremum, licet enim ex quibusdam Sacræ scripturæ locis, & ex D. Damasc. lib. 2. de fide orthodoxa. cap. 4. deduci posse videatur Angelorum Principem non cecidisse, vt Ezechiel 18. Tu Cherub extentus, & protegens posui te in monte sancto Dei: Ordo autem Cherubin non est supremus inter eos, & Damasc. loc. cit. affirmat, quod maior eorum Angelorum, qui peccauerunt fuit terrestri ordini Angelorum præfatus: communis tamen Theologorum opinio est in 2. sent. d. 6. ex Angelis fuisse supremum inter peccantes, prout traditur hic, & docent D. Greg. lib. 4. Moral. cap. 12. & lib. 9. c. 2. D. Augustl. lib. 11. super Genesim ad litteram, & lib. 1. de mirabilibus Sacræ scripturæ, cap. 2. Origen. tract. 9. in Matth. explicans illa verba Erunt primi nouissimi. D. Chrisost. hom. 5. & 7. ad ad populum Antiochenum Tertullianus lib. 2. contra Marcionem, circa medium. D. Isidorus de summo bono cap. 12. D. Bernard. in lib. de gradibus humilitatis, & serm. 1. Aduentus. D. Hieron. in Iob cap. 40. ad illa verba, ipse est principium viarum Dei. D. Gregor. Nazianzen. oratione secunda in Pascha eidem patet in Reuelat. extranag. cap. 82. ibi vide, Iustitiam meam in primo Angelo, & in primo homine, Ad locum vero supra citatum Ezechielis responderi potest, quod ibi supremus Angelus vocatur Cherub a scientia, qua simul cum mortali peccato esse potest, & remansit etiam in peccatoribus Angelis, non autem nominatur Seraphim, quod ardorem importat, & charitatem notat, qua cum mortali peccato manere non potest, hæc inconuenit nomina inferiorum superioribus Angelis aliquando tribui, quippe qui inferiorum virtutes, & excellentias habent.

a Hoc tamen non est immutatio iustitiæ mar. lect. nec, quæ nunquam immutatur, sed ostensio maior charitatis.

M. S. legit. Maioris ostensio charitatis. Dicitur autem hic, postremis hisce temporibus Deus maiorem ostendisse charitatem, quandoquidem mitior est ad inferendas nunc pœnas, quam primis illis temporibus, cum Iudæis, & Israelitis extiterit, quibus multo maiora flagella intulit, quam nobis hodierna die inferre consueuerit, neque tamen ex hoc mutatur Deus quandoquidem, vt aliquando post legimus, eadem iustitia, eademq; iudicij veritate mundum iudicat, qua tunc prius iudicabat, sed solum tunc diuina dilectio, non sic palam fiebat, vt post Christi Domini seruatoris nostri incarnationem propalata est, & ideo Paul. Apostolus ad Titum 3. apparuisse nobis benignitatem, & humanitatem Christi scripsit sed hæc de re egimus infra hoc eodem libro cap. 28. post 1. vbi probauimus Deum nullo pacto mutari posse, sed solam mutationem esse ex parte creaturarum.

b Quia nunquam iustitiam sine misericordia fecit.

D. Chrysost. super Matth. hanc eandem eamdem sententiam sentire videtur eundo, iustitiam coniunctam esse debere cum misericordia, & e contra; imo nunquam Deum nobiscum dignatus sit misereri nos esse, quin nō fuerit iustus, imo iustitiam a misericordia seiunctam, appellat crudelitatem, & misericordiam sine iustitia sanitatem: hæc autem verba sunt verba. Quoniam misericordia tunc est vere misericordia, si sic facta sit, vt iustitia per eam non contemnatur: si autem contempta iustitia misericordia obseruetur, ipsa misericordia non est misericordia, sed sanitas iustitia vero sine misericordia non est iustitia, sed crudelitas. Quare egregie D. Greg. Pamisex hom. 34. explicans illud Luc. 18. Deus propitiatus esto mihi peccatori, dicit, Ex hoc colligite, quia vera iustitia est passionem habet, falsa dedignationem: sed clarius Leo Papa serm. 8. de Natali Domini, Sic, inquit, destruendum fuit peccatum voluntarium, & hostile consilium, vt dono misericordiæ non obesset donis iustitiæ: ex quibus inferendum est verum esse, quod hoc loco scribitur Deum nunquam iustitiam fecisse sine misericordia, imo in omnibus operibus eius inueniri misericordiam, & iustitiam, & opus iustitiæ in misericordia fundari, elegantur probat D. Thom. 1. p. q. 21. ar. 4.

4 Hanc ego substinui pro te, quia personaliter imporens eras ad patiendum.

Ex his verbis duo nobis deducenda sunt. Primū quidem Christum Dominum redemptorem nostrū pro nostris peccatis de rigore satisfeciſſe iuſtitiæ, eiusq. opera fuisse infiniti valoris, & efficacia ad satisfaciendum. Secundū param creaturā sic nullatenus satisfacere potuisse: & quantum spectat ad primum, licet Christi humanitas, quæ in hac satisfactione erat principium, vt quo, sicut affirmant scholastici doctores, finita fuerit, & proinde actiones Christi finitæ entitatis, suppositum tamen diuinum, quod ad eas eliciendas principaliter concurrebat, actionibus humanis infinitum valorem tribuebat, & ideo licet illa actiones physice in genere entis finitæ essent, moraliter tamen in genere satisfactionis erant infinitæ: hoc enim non consistit in entitate aliqua physica, sed in morali dignitate proueniente ex connexione ad personam diuinam, quam ob causam dicendum est magis placuisse merita Christi quam hominum peccata displicuerint, per quod satisfactio huiusmodi non solum æqualis fuit, sed & superabundans, & hoc colligi potest ex Scriptura sacra, vt Rom. 3. Quem posuit Deus propitiatorem ad ostensionem iustitiæ suæ. Rom. 8. Dedit per filium pater, vt peccato damnaret peccatum, ad Hebr. 11. Vna oblatione consummauit vniuersum; idem tradunt Sancti Patres, D. Athanasius de humanitate Verbi, D. Basilius Hom. 25. D. Chrysost. Hom. 10. in Ioan. D. Augustinus lib. 3. de Trinitate cap. 13. & in Enchiridion cap. 39. D. Leo serm. 2. & 12. de passione, & Epistola 81. & 95. D. Anselm lib. prima, & secundo, cur Deus homo. D. Bonauent. in 3. dist. 20. quæst. 3. & ibidem communiter Doctores, Ricardus q. 4. Palud. q. 2. art. 2. Capreolus Concl. 2. Alensis. 3. p. q. 1. membro 7. & q. 17. membro 3. Gulielmus Parisiensis lib. cur Deus homo cap. 8. ex his infero secundum quod propositum supra, scilicet ad perfectam satisfactionem fuisse necessariam Christi Domini Incarnationem, quia pura creatura, vt scribitur hic impotens erat ad sic satisfaciendum, quandoquidem vt docuit D. Thom. 3. p. q. 1. art. 2. ad 2. argumentum, iniuria erat infinita, ex parte Dei offensi, ergo satisfactio debebat esse infiniti valoris, quod pura creatura præstare non poterat, non tamen negarim param creaturam potuisse imperfecte satisfacere Deo reddendo illi quantum ipsa posset, deficeret autem hæc satisfactio a rigorosa, quia re vera non esset ad æqualitatem offensæ, nec esset infiniti meriti.

5 Sic fine in gaudio viuet vita vestra.

Sic omnia impressa exemplaria habent, sed Codex Farnesianus M. S. legit, Et sine sine in gaudio vivet anima vestra, vivat, & vita vestra.

VERBA POTENTIAE Christi ad sponsam, contra huius temporis milites, & deforma tenenda in militibus procreandis, & quomodo Deus talibus robur, & auxilium in agendis præstat, & administrat.

CAP. XIII.

1 EGO sum cum Patre, & Spiritu sancto vnus Deus, trinus in personis, vnus nō separatur ab alio, nec diuiditur, 1 sed Pater est in Filio, & Spiritu, & Filius in Patre, & Spiritu, & spiritus in ambobus. Deitas misit Verbum suum Mariæ Virgini per Angelum suum Gabrielem, nihilominus tamen idem Deus mittens, & missus à seipso erat cum Angelo, erat in Gabriele, & ante Gabrielem in Virgine. 2 Dicto autem verbo ab Angelo, Verbum factum est caro in Virgine. Hoc Verbum, ego sum, qui loquor tecum. Pater misit me per seipsum cum Spiritu sancto in ventrem Virginis, non sic, quod Angeli ceperunt visione, & præsentia Dei, sed ego Filius, qui fui cum Patre, & Spiritu sancto in ventre Virgineo, idem eram in cælo cum Patre, & Spiritu sancto in visione Angelorum, omnia gubernans, omniaque sustentans, 3 licet humanitas mea ante solo filio assumpta requieuit in ventre Mariæ. 4 Ego igitur in deitate, & humanitate vnus Deus ad extensionem charitatis meæ, & in robur fidei sanctæ, non dedignor loqui tecum. Et licet humanitas mea videatur esse iuxta te, & loqui tecum. Verisimilius est tamen, quod anima tua, & conscientia tua mecum est, & in me, nihil enim mihi impossibile est, & nihil difficile in cælo, & in terra. Ego quippe sum sicut Rex potens, qui cum exercitu suo veniens ad ciuitatem omnia loca implet, omnia occupat. Sic gratia mea omnia membra tua implet, omnia fortificat. Ego denique sum in te, & extra te. Ego quamuis loquar tecum, idem tamen sum glo 2

ria. Quid mihi difficile est, qui potentia mea omnia sustento, sapientia mea omnia dispono, virtuosa mea omnia supero. Ego igitur cum Patre, & Spiritu sancto sine principio, & sine fine vnus Deus, qui pro salute hominum in humanitate assumpta, deitate illæsa permanente, vere passus sum resurrexi & ascendi, nunc veraciter loquor tecum. Dixi tibi prius de militia, quæ mihi quondam gratissima fuit, eo quod vinculo charitatis mihi colligata fuit, nam voto suo obligabāt se milites, dare carnem suam pro carne mea sanguinem suum pro sanguine meo, ideo & ego consensi in eos, & coniunxi eos mihi in vnum vinculum, & in vnam societatem. Sed nunc conqueror super ipsos milites, qui tenerentur esse mei, quod auersi sunt. Ego quippe sum Creator eorum, & Redemptor, ego & auxiliator, ego creaui eis corpus, & membra. Et omnia quæ in mundo sunt ad 4 vtilitatem eorum feci. Ego redemi eos 5 sanguine meo. 5 Ego emi eis hæreditatem æternam passione mea. Ego in omnibus periculis defendo eos, ego do eis fortitudinem ad agendum, & laborandum. Nunc autem ipsi auersi sunt a me. Ducunt pro nihilo passionem meam, negligunt verba mea, quibus anima eorum delectari, & pasci deberet. Contemnunt me exigente animo, & toto affectu carnem suam dare, & lacerare pro laude hominum, sanguinem suum fundere propter explectionem cupiditatis suæ, libenter mori propter mundana, & verba diabolica, & inania. Adhuc tamen licet sic auersi sint misericordia mea, & iustitia mea est in eis. Nam per misericordiam meam custodio eos, ne tradantur diabolo, per iustitiam meam tolero eos patienter. Et si adhuc reuerti voluerint ego gaudenter suscipio eos, & occurro eis in tempore. Dic ergo illi, qui militum nunc ad me conuertere vellet, quod sub hac forma mihi deuotus placere posset, vbicunque enim miles fieri vellet, deberet cum equo suo, & apparatu ad cimiterium Ecclesiæ procedere, & ibi eum relinquere, quia equus non est creatus ad superbiam hominum, sed ad vitam in terra, & ad defensionem, & in inimicorum Dei expugnationem. Deinde assumat manticellum, cuius ligaturæ ponenda est super frontem, vt sicut discretus assumit insignum obedientiæ, & patientiæ diuinæ, sic ipse miles assumat manticellum, & ligaturam ponit super frontem in signum professæ militiæ, & obedientiæ, pro crucis meæ defensione assumendæ. Quem etiam præcedat vexillum potestatis secularis, vt sciat se potestati mundanæ in omnibus, quæ non sunt contra Deum debere obedire. Ingressis autem eo ministerium clerici occurrant 2 ei cum vexillo Ecclesiæ, in quo depicta sit passio mea, & vulnera mea, in signum quod Ecclesiam Dei, & fidem defendere deberet, & prælatis eius etiam obtemperare. Cum autem ingreditur Ecclesiam vexillum temporalis potestatis foras Ecclesiam remaneat, & vexillum meum præcedat eum in Ecclesiam, in signum quod diuina potestas præcedit sæcularem, & quod de spiritualibus plus est curandum, quam de temporalibus. Dicta vero Missa vsque ad Agnus Dei, prælatus scilicet Rex, vel alius, procedat ad militem, circa altare, & dicat. Vis tu fieri miles? Quo respondente volo, subiungat. Promitte inquit Deo, & mihi te fidem sanctæ Ecclesiæ defendere, & prælatis eius in omnibus, quæ ad Deum sunt obedire. Quo respondente volo, tradat gladium in manus eius, & dicat. Ecce trado tibi gladium in manus tuas, vt non parcas vitæ tuæ pro fide, & Ecclesiæ Dei, vt inimicos Dei deprimas, & vt amicos Dei defendas. Postea committat ei clypeum, & dicat. Ecce do tibi clypeum, vt defendas te contra inimicos Dei, vt viduis, & orphanis tribuas auxilium, & vt honorem Dei in omnibus augmentes. Postea manum imponit collo eius dicens. Ecce obedientiæ subiectus es & potestati. Vide ergo, vt sicut ligasti te professione sic impleas, & opere. Post hoc autem mantellum adaptet sibi, & ligaturam vt quotidie habeat in memoria, quid Deo vouit, & quod ad Ecclesiæ Dei defensionem plus quam alij se professione in facie Ecclesiæ obligauit. His ergo peractis, & dicto Agnus Dei, sacerdos, qui Missam celebrat, tradat sibi corpus meum, vt fidem sanctæ Ecclesiæ defendat. Ego ero in eo, & ipse in me. Ego ministrabo ei auxilium in robur, & incendam eum flamma charitatis meæ, vt nihil velit nisi me, nihil timeat nisi me Deum suum. Quod si forte fuerit in campo, & ibi pro honore meo, & fide mea defendenda sumpserit militiam, nihilominus ei prodest, si intentio fuerit recta. Ego denique in omni loco sum per potentiam meã, & omnes mihi intentione rectã, & voluntate bona placere possunt. Ego autem sum charitas, & nullus ad me venire potest, nisi qui habeat charitatem, ideo nullis præcipio hoc facere, quia tunc seruirent mihi ex timore. Sed quicunque vellent sic assumere militiam, mihi placere possent. Dignum quippe esset, vt sicut per superbiam à vera professione militiæ excessum est, sic per humilitatem ad veræ militiæ cultum, se reuerti velle ostenderent. Hic miles creditur fuisse dominus Carolus filius S. Brigittæ.

NOTAE.

1 PAter est in Filio, & Spiritu, & Filius in Patre, & Spiritu, & Spiritus in ambobus.

D. Hilarius lib. 3 de Trinitate non longe a principio, huius rei difficultatem considerans, nec ratione aliqua, nec exemplo eam aperte explicari posse affirmat, Natura enim inquit humanæ intelligentiæ rationis huius dicti non capit, nec exemplum aliquod rebus diuinis humana, comparatio præstabit, sed quod non homini est intelligibile, Deo possibile est, in suo tamen libri docet vnam personam esse in alia tam per virtutis similitudinem, tum per deitatis plenitudinem, tum ratione diuinæ naturæ, quia in singulis est eadem diuinitatis plenitudo, quod etiam tradit D. August. de fide ad Petrũ cap. 1. & D. Ambros. cap. 5. posterioris Epistolæ ad Corinth. & Latius D. Thomas 1. p. q. 42. art. 3. & 4. vbi ostendit tres modos, quibus vna diuina persona dicitur esse in alia, scilicet ratione essentiæ ratione relationis, ratione originis, alij vero addunt etiam ratione circumincessionis, & immanentiæ atque sic intelligendum est, quod scribunt hic, & lib. 34. vnã scilicet personam esse in alia, quæ de re late egimus supra lib. 1. c. 42 nota 3.

2 Dicto autem verbo ab Angelo, Verbum caro factum est in Virgine.

Ex his, quæ hoc loco scripta sunt non videtur aperte colligi posse, quando Verbum in Virgine carofactum sit, licet enim hic legamus dicto verbo ab Angelo Mariam concepisse, tamen id quo tempore fuerit, an cum Maria consensum præstitit, an vero in principio salutationis Angelicæ, cum Gabriel ea verba protulit, Dominus tecum, mihi incertum est, videntur tamen dicendum, id factum esse cum beatissima Virgo consensum præbuit, quod indicare videntur illa verba, dicto autem verbo ab Angelo, quam sententiam secuti sunt D. August. de sancta Virginit. cap. 4. & de fide ad Petrum cap. 18. Damascenus de fide lib. 3. cap. 2. Athan. in Orat. de sancta Deipara, D. Ambros. Luca 1. ad ea verba gratia plena. Gregorius Emissenus, hom. 1. super Missus est. Petrus Chrysologus serm. 142. Beda Hom. 3. de Virg. Rupertus Hom. 6 in Cant. Canisius de B. Virgine lib. 3 cap. 2. Ioannes Maldonatus in Comment. in Lucam cap. 1. explicans illa verba, Gratia plena. Cæterum sunt etiã, qui existimarunt Mariam concepisse ante consensum præstitum, vt primum Angeli salutationem incepit cum dictum est ei, Aue gratia plena, huius opinionis fuere Chrysostomus in Liturgia, & plures etiam ex patribus Græcis, quos citat Canisius, eandem sententiam secuti sunt D. Hieron. & Gregor. Neocæsariensis in Hom. de Annunciatione B. Mariæ, sed quidquid sit priorem opinionem puto esse communiorem, & probabiliorem, quæ etiam ex fortasse liturgia plerisque est, & præsertim ex illis verbis

Ac dicat completa, & postea dicat quinta oratio, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Pater noster, non oportet quod dicat ab principio vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Ave Maria, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Credo in Deum, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Confiteor, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Miserere, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Gloria Patri, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Requiem æternam, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Kyrie eleison, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Sanctus, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Agnus Dei, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Benedicite, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Gratias agimus, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Deo gratias, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem. Et quando dicit Amen, non oportet quod dicat vsque ad finem, sed tantum vnum verbum, vel duo, vel tria, vel quatuor, vel quinque, vel sex, vel septem, & sic de singulis, vsque ad finem.

Et non tantum in vna, vel duabus orationibus vsque ad finem, sed in omnibus orationibus vsque ad finem. Et nihil dicit Deus hoc confingere sine ratione vana.

Quomodo ergo sola in te requiescat anima mea? Respondit: Quia tu es sola, quæ in te ipsa habes Patrem, Filium, Spiritum sanctum, Angelos, & Sanctos, intercedentes pro habente peccatum: quia tu es sola, quæ habes Patrem misericordiæ, quem misericors peccatrix aliter videndo non potest, nisi per te, quæ es Mater misericordiæ, quæ sola inter omnes peccatrices, sed & omnes Sanctos peccatrices, quos Deus misericors videre tuorum peccatorum et misericordiæ. Ecce ego ostendam tibi quam audacter peccatores peccant contra me. Ecce, inquit, ostendam tibi, quam audacter peccatores peccant contra me. Vide quot varias similitudines habeo. Videbat enim similitudines hominum: quosdam enim bonos in facie amabiles, et quosdam malos in facie horribiles, quosdam fere vilia, & lurida. Et respexit etiam vestes eorum, quosdam quasi de serico, quosdam de panno, quosdam de pellibus bestiarum. Quorum autem est genus? Et dixit ei: Omnium hominum. Et dixit ei: Quare ergo habent tot varias similitudines? Et dixit ei: Quia omnes homines, qui peccant, habent similitudinem peccati, quo peccant, et quo tales, qualis est peccatum, tales sunt homines. Et quia omnes homines peccant, ideo habent omnes similitudinem peccati. Et dixit ei: Quare ergo quidam habent similitudinem bestiarum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi bestiæ, et habent similitudinem bestiarum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem serpentum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi serpentes, et habent similitudinem serpentum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem draconum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi dracones, et habent similitudinem draconum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem porcorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi porci, et habent similitudinem porcorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem canum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi canes, et habent similitudinem canum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem vulpium? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi vulpes, et habent similitudinem vulpium. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem leonum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi leones, et habent similitudinem leonum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem ursorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi ursi, et habent similitudinem ursorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem luporum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi lupi, et habent similitudinem luporum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem leporum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi lepores, et habent similitudinem leporum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem cervorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi cervi, et habent similitudinem cervorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem equorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi equi, et habent similitudinem equorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem asinorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi asini, et habent similitudinem asinorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem mulorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi muli, et habent similitudinem mulorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem ovium? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi oves, et habent similitudinem ovium. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem agnorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi agni, et habent similitudinem agnorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem columbarum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi columbæ, et habent similitudinem columbarum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem turturum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi turtures, et habent similitudinem turturum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem passerum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi passeres, et habent similitudinem passerum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem hominum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi homines, et habent similitudinem hominum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem angelorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi angeli, et habent similitudinem angelorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem archangelorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi archangeli, et habent similitudinem archangelorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem thronorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi throni, et habent similitudinem thronorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem dominationum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi dominationes, et habent similitudinem dominationum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem principatuum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi principatus, et habent similitudinem principatuum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem potestatum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi potestates, et habent similitudinem potestatum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem cherubinorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi cherubini, et habent similitudinem cherubinorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem seraphinorum? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi seraphini, et habent similitudinem seraphinorum. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem Dei? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi Deus, et habent similitudinem Dei. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem Filii Dei? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi Filius Dei, et habent similitudinem Filii Dei. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem Spiritus sancti? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi Spiritus sanctus, et habent similitudinem Spiritus sancti. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem Trinitatis? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi Trinitas, et habent similitudinem Trinitatis. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem humanitatis Christi? Et dixit ei: Quia quidam homines, qui peccant, sunt quasi humanitas Christi, et habent similitudinem humanitatis Christi. Et dixit ei: Quare quidam habent similitudinem divinitatis? Hoc loco satis profecto verbi Dei concionatoribus doctrina traditur. Primo quidem tres conditiones exigentur ab eis nimirum, quod charitatem in primis habeant. Secundo conscientiam bonam, postremo optimam intentionem, & quidem hæc tria illis esse omnino necessaria manifestum est, quandoquidem concionatores nullatenus poterunt alios diuino amore inflammare, si ipsi fuerint eiusdem amoris ardore destituti, nec alios illuminare, si lumine fuerint orbati, nec aliorum vitia extirpare, si ijsdem fuerint referti, neque enim extincta lucerna aliam poterit vnquam accendere, & ideo tertio Regum cap. 7. & 2. Paralipomenon 4. legimus forcipes, quæ in templo Salomonis ad emungendas lampades seruabantur ex auro fuisse purissimo, vt eorum puritas significaretur, per quam populorum munditias purgare tenebantur: ideo optime illos admonet Diuus Gregorius Nazianzenus in Apologetico, mundari prius oportet, & sic alios mundare sapientem prius fieri, & sic alios facere sapientes, lumen fieri, sic alios illuminare, & Orig. libro decimo comment. in Epistola ad Romanos cap. 16. sicut inquit Pontifices cum offerebant, necessario eis erat prouidendum, ne macula ineesset hostiæ, vt posset esse accepta Deo, & grata, ita & qui Euangelium sanctificat, & verbum Dei annunciat, curare omnino debet, nec qua in prædicando macula, ne quod in dicendo vitium, ne quæ in magisterio culpa nascatur, sed si fieri potest semetipsum primo immolet, se primum vitijs iugulet, seque primo mortificet, sed latius explicat Diuus Gregorius tertio libro moralium cap. 5. qui concionatores gallo similes facit, gallus inquit cum edere cantus parat, prius alas foleter excutit, & semetipsum feriens vigilantiorem reddit, ita prædicatores cum verba prædicationis assumunt, prius se in sanctis actionibus exerceant, & paulo infra antequam verba exortationis proferunt omne, quod loquuti sunt operibus clament, idem habet in pastoralis tertia parte cap. 26 Diuus Hieronymus in Epistola ad Neoptianum, & in Ezechiel. libro primo. Diuus Augustinus de doctrina Christiana, annotauit etiam multa, Lodulphus de vita Christi 2. p. cap. 29.

3 Temporalia autem ad vtilitatem hominis, & necessitatem creata sunt, non ad superfluitatem.

Cum vltra, quam vsus postulat, & ratio proprij cõmodi honeste exigit diuitias homo congerit certe non ad finem, ob quẽ ha facta sunt, & homini tradita, illis vtitur: noli igitur, inquit D. Chrisost. Homilia 14. de Auaritia plus concupiscere, quam exigit necessitas, ne totum amittas, noli quæ superant vsum congregare, ne perdas etiam necessaria, noli præfinitos terminos prætergredi, ne facultatibus vniuersis exuaris, atque huius sententiæ Diui Chrisosto mi ratio esse potest, quoniam sæpe Deus permittit quempiam sua bona perdere, quæ cum sua stultitia superflua sua deberet pauperibus erogare, marcescet namque scribit D. Iacob. in sua canonica cap. 1. Diues in itineribus suis, Putei enim qui exhauriuntur melius fluunt, quibus si suas aquas relinquas intactas, fœtorem contrahunt, ita diuitiarum quies inutilis, motus vero vtilis est, & fructuosus, sic Basilius Homilia in diuescentes, & Clemens Alexandrinus lib. 1. Stromatum.

4 Per hoc talentum omnia seruientia facile vitantur.

Sic habent omnes impressi codices, sed Farnesianus M. S. addit omnia seruientia facile vitantur, & difficilia facilia reputantur.

5 Tribus enim generibus hominum amici mei succurrere possunt.

Hic de concionatoribus sermo fit, qui si optime, vt par est prædicationis officio fungerentur tribus generibus hominum prodesse poterit, vt scribitur hic. Primo quidem damnatis. Secundo cadentibus, & resurgentibus, postremo vero iustis, & quidam debitare merito quispiam poterit, quomodo iuuare damnatos queant, cum iam extra statum merendi, ac demerendi positi sint, sed hoc intelligendum necessario est, de his, qui in via adhuc sunt, quique præsciti, an reprobi sint, quibus tunc prædicatores opem ferunt, quandoquidem acriter reprehendentes causa sunt, ne quotidie peccatis peccata addentes, ac maiora vitia committentes grauioris quoque pœnæ fiant rei, & ideo paulo infra legimus, quamuis enim ex iniustitia mea, & malitia eorum indurauerit præfinito tempore, & præscito damnandi sum, leuius tamen supplicium ferret eis, si per aliquem a malis aliquibus refrenarentur.

6 Et aliquanto post, vbi in impressis codicibus legitur. Quibus si misericordia diceret parcere, iustitia tamen, & eorum malitia contradicit.

var. lect.

Farnesianus M. S. Quibus si misericordia deberet parcere, vel si misericordia diceret parce.

7 Tertio possunt proficere iustis, & perfectis, numquid & ipsi cadunt, vtique, sed ad maiorem eorum gloriam, & diaboli confusionem.

Deus Optimus Maximus permittit aliquando iustos cadere, vt forsitan resurgentes, ac subinde diuino seruitio se strictius mancipantes maiorem sibi postea gloriæ aeronam comparent, sæpe enim contingit, vt quo se grauius peccasse perpendunt, eo humiliores, & feruentiores reddantur, & inde fit, vt postea pro cæteris a Deo vnice diligantur, vnde D. Gregorius Homilia 34. in Euangelia paulo post initium affirmat Ducem in prælio cum militem magis diligere, qui post fugam conuersus fortius hostem premit, & in hoc ipso scribitur Lucæ 15. quod ita gaudium erit in cœlo super vno peccatore pœnitentiam agente, quam super nonaginta nouem iustis, qui non indigent pœnitentia, licet enim innocentia cæteris paribus præstantior sit, ac maiori dilectione dabat. Hæc forte ut meus opponam, quæ ne pudeat quidem vulgatæ Scripturæ fides, quæ ut nos ab illis, ita illos ab aliis, qui ante nos fuere, accepisse, nec quicquam ultra Patres posse desiderare necesse est: quæ ipsa ut ab illis ad nos, ita ab aliis ad illos per manus ad nos usque pervenisse, nec ullum esse modum credendi, si ad fidem Scripturæ sacræ, quæ ab illis ad nos, ab aliis ad illos, ab aliis ad alios per manus ad nos usque pervenit, non credamus. Quæ cum ita sint, quis non videt, quam sit ridiculum, quod Pighius, Lib. 1. Hierarch. Eccles. cap. 3. pag. 15. & Lib. 2. cap. 1. pag. 28. Scripturæ sacræ fidem ex Ecclesiæ auctoritate nimirum & magno illorum Patrum consensu pendere, quos ipse ad Ecclesiæ auctoritatem refert, ut ex illa Scripturæ sacræ fidem, ex qua illi hauserunt, & ex qua tantum hausisse videri possunt, ut ipsi ex illis hauserint, & ex illis ad nos usque pervenerit, nullam habeat? Regnorum & terrarum meorum, ita vos mihi sacras istas preces humiliter exorate.

Ego autem dixi: Domine, ego sum indigna
vox. Assumpsisti me ad officium valde magnum & arduum. Ideo necesse est mihi, ut ore confuso & pudibundo tibi respondeam.
Quare enim, qui se valde vilipendit, & ab omnibus vilipendi desiderat, ad tam magnum officium assumitur? Respondens autem Dominus, Ita promptus sum, dixit, ad exaudiendum te, quando ad me clamas, sicut ego sum promptus ad exaudiendum omnes homines clamantes ex toto corde, & ex toto gemitu. Unde non est magnum, quod me assumsi. Non assumsi me, quia bonus fui, sed quia misericors sum. Et ideo, quia misericors sum, assumsi te, quamvis peccatrix fuisti. Quia ego sum misericors, & non judex, qui peccatores damnare velim, sed vocator, qui omnes ad me venire desiderem.
Quare homo humana compassione & pietate motus, non debet peccatores suos odire, sed potius diligere, & ad se venire desiderare, ut eos ad me vocare possit? Ego enim, qui sum misericors, & non judex, omnes ad me venire desidero, & ideo omnes vocare debeo. Sed quia homo non est misericors, sicut ego, ideo non omnes vocare debet. Sed quia ego sum misericors, & non judex, ideo omnes vocare debeo. Et quia homo non est misericors, sicut ego, ideo non omnes vocare debet. Sed quia ego sum misericors, & non

NOTÆ.

1 PRophetia latius in specie complectitur, quæ scripsit. Sed nunc particulariter accipitur pro illo, quod scripsit de Ecclesia. Et dicit Gregorius, quod Ecclesia habet tres partes passas.

Prima fuit ante legem: 2. sub lege consummata: tertia fuit, fine lege, & ante finem mundi. Et hæc tertia in quo, quod finis mundi venit nescitur penitus.

Et ex illis tribus partibus tenuis remanebit vna pars, quæ est Ecclesia militans. Et ideo dicit, quod Ecclesia habet tres partes passas. Et tunc illa vltima pars remanet tenuissima.

Et dicit, quod Ecclesia habet tres partes passas, quia illa pars, quæ fuit ante legem, passa fuit, quia passa fuit persecutionem Cain, & aliorum, qui fuerunt contra Abel, & alios iustos. Et ita illa pars, scilicet ante legem, passa fuit. Et sub lege fuit passa, quia Iudæi fuerunt contra Christum, & Apostolos, & alios sanctos. Et illa pars sub lege, scilicet Ecclesia, passa fuit. Et fine lege, & ante finem mundi, scilicet, quando Antichristus venerit, & persecutionem contra Christianos faciet, & illa pars finem mundi, scilicet Ecclesia militans, passa fuit. Et ideo dicit, quod Ecclesia habet tres partes passas, & illa vltima pars remanet tenuissima, scilicet Ecclesia militans, quæ est in finem mundi Rectius M. S. Farneſianus legit, Et in eum ex iuſſa permiſſione mea præualuerunt.

CAP. XVIII.

TRIA mirabilia tecum feci. Vides enim ſpiritualibus oculis. Tu etiam audis ſpiritualibus auribus. Tu ſentis corporali manu ſpiritum meum in tuo viuente pectore. 1 Viſio quam vides non tibi videtur ſicut eſt. Si enim videres ſpiritualem pulchritudinem Angelorum, & animarum ſanctarum, corpus tuum non ſufficeret videre, ſed rumperetur quaſi vas corruptum, & putridum, propter gaudium animæ ex viſione. Si autem videres dæmones ſicut ſunt, aut viueres cum gimio dolore, aut morereris per ſubitaneam mortem, propter terribilem viſionem eorũ. Ideo videntur tibi ſpiritualia quaſi corporalia. Angeli, & animæ videntur tibi in ſimilitudine hominum, qui habent vitam, & animam, quia Angeli viuunt cum ſpiritu ſuo.

2 2 Dæmones videntur tibi in forma, quæ eſt ad mortem, & mortalis, vt in forma animalium, vel aliarum creaturarum. Illa enim habent mortalem ſpiritum, quia moriente carne moritur ſpiritus, diaboli autem non moriuntur in ſpiritu, ſine fine enim moriuntur, & ſine fine viuunt. Spiritualia vero verba cum ſimilitudine tibi dicũtur, ſpiritus enim tuus aliter non poteſt capere. Inter omnia autẽ [illegible]mirabilius, quod ſpiritus meus in corde tuo ſentitur moueri. ciam quidem, & ab omnibus, & vbi-cunque, quia ipsa per se bona, & apta ad vsum, & ad delectationem hominum: sed non omnibus, & non vbique pretiosa. Pretiosa dicimus ea, quæ ob raritatem, & difficultatem, quæ in eorum acquisitione sunt, à viris magnis, & in magna fortuna constitutis, quæ ad vsum, & ornatum, & delectationem hominum facta sunt, magno æstimantur. Quæ autem ob eandem causam, sed à mediocribus fiunt, ea sunt mediocriter pretiosa. Quæ autem ob eandem causam, sed à tenuibus, & humilibus fiunt, ea sunt humiliter pretiosa. Quæ autem ob eandem causam, sed à sordidis, & abiectis, ea sunt abiectè pretiosa. Quæ autem ob eandem causam, sed à pauperibus, & egenis, ea sunt egenè pretiosa. Quæ autem ob eandem causam, sed à mendicis, ea sunt mendicè pretiosa. Quæ autem ob eandem causam, sed à seruis, & mancipiis, ea sunt seruiliter pretiosa. Quæ autem ob eandem causam, sed à vilissimis, & nequissimis, ea sunt vilissimè pretiosa. Quæ autem ob eandem causam, sed à pessimis, & nequissimis, ea sunt pessimè pretiosa. lectabiliter in ore, intrant cum charitate in cor. Ego habeo vnum clericum, & vnum de fensorem, & vnum rusticum. Primus est delectabilis sicut sponsa, quam sponsus honestissimus cum diuina charitate toto desiderio desiderat, huius vox erit sicut vox, quæ ex clamore, & colloquutione resultat in silvis. Secundus erit paratus dare vitam suam pro me, non timebit mundi opprobrium. Hunc ego armabo armis Spiritusancti.

2 2 Tertius habebit tam firmã fidem, quod dicet sic. Tam firmiter credo, quod quasi videam, quæ credo, spero etiam omnia, quæ promiserat Deus, voluntatem habebit faciẽdi bona, & proficiendi in bono, & omittere mala. In os primi hominis dictorũ trium ponam tria verba, quæ clamabit. Primo clamabit, qui habet fidem faciat opere, quę credit. Secũdo, qui sperat, firmiter sit stabilis in omni bono. Tertio, qui diligit perfecte, & charitative, desideret feruenter videre, quæ diligit. Secundus erit quasi leo fortis in laborando in insidijs præcauendis, sollicitus, & 3 stabilis in perseuerando. 3 Tertius erit sapiens sicut serpens, qui stabit in cauda, & caput leuabit ad cælum. Isti complebunt voluntatem meam, hos sequentur alij. Et licet tres nomino, & per eos tamen plures intelligo. Deinde loquebatur ad sponsam dicẽs. Sta stabilis noli sollicitari de mundo, non de opprobrio, quia qui omnia opprobria audiui, ego sum Deus tuus, & Dominus.

i var. lect. ECce amici mei quomodo per tales potest abyssus illa insatiabilis minui, quo modo famus poterit impleri.

In præsenti capite conqueritur Dominus de clericis, ab{que} Ecclesiæ ministris, quod suo officio, ut par est non fungantur, & quidem a clericis sumẽs exordiũ dicit, eos fatuos esse leprosos, & mutos leprosos quidem ob vitiorum, turpitudinẽ, ac fœtorem, mutos vero, quia nec verba, nec laudes Dei populis prædicãt. Secundo dicit etiam illos, qui ad Ecclesiam defendendã constituti sunt, nil aliud facere, quam sua quærere, & quæ Dei sunt negligere, postremo eos, quos ad laborandum in vinea Dei posuit, similes esse asinis docet, qui caput inclinantes ad terram nil aliud, quam terrena, & caduca quærunt, & ex his infert, quod scribitur hoc loco, quomodo per tales potest abyssus illa insatiabilis minui, quod explicans circa initium præsentis capitis, dicit, via semper aperta est, in quam anima descendunt sicut nix de cælo in terram, & sicut a facie solis nix dissolvitur, in aquã, sic animæ a magnitudine supplicij dissolventur ab omni bono, & renouantur ad omnem pœnam, id vero, quod ex his deducit nimirum, quomodo famus poterit impleri cum M.S. Farnesiano corrigendum arbitror, quomodo Paradisus poterit impleri.

2 Tertius habet tam firmam fidem, quod dicet sic, tam firmiter credo, quod quasi videam quæ credo.

Nulli dubium esse potest, fidei certitudinem, etiam prout est in nobis maiorem esse quacunque alia certitudine, imo vero constanter asseverandum esse arbitror posse Christianum hominem certiorem esse de rebus fidei, quæ tantummodo credit, quam de his, quæ corporalibus oculis videt, ideo certiora tenenda sunt, quæ fidei sunt, quam quæ oculis vidimus, aut quopiam alio sensu percipimus, quãdoquidẽ illi decipi, & allucinari possunt, non vero diuina virtus, quæ infallibilis est, quæue intellectum hominis determinat ad assentiendum rebus fidei, quod egregie explicat D. Chrisost. hom. 21. super Ep. ad Hebr. Fides inquit, dici non potest, nisi circa ea, quæ non videntur, amplius, quam circa ea, quæ videntur satisfactionem, quisquam habuerit, & D. Aug. lib. 8. confess. c. 10. clamat, inquit ad Dñm de longinquo, ego sum, qui sum, & audiui sicut audiri solet in corde, & non erat vnde dubitarem, facilius{que} me dubitarem viuere, quam non esse veritatem.

Serpentum naturam, hominum designare prudentiam, colligi potest ex illo Matt. 10. Estote prudentes sicut serpentes, quo loco elegantes allegorias afferunt Hieronymus, Hilarius, & Chrisost. & plura hac de re tradiderunt D. August. serm. 87. circa finem, & lib. 13. confessionum. cap. 21. Eucherius de spiritalibus formulis cap. 5. Origen. super Ezechiel hom. 1. & in Iosue hom. 4. vt autem hoc explicemus apertius, sciendum est in tribus præcipue serpentum prudentiam nosci, Primo, quia cum frigidæ sint naturæ, cumque senescunt visum amittunt, ideo frequenter solis radijs se se exponunt, vt inde, & calorem hauriant, & lumen obtineant, secundo, vt caput, a quo totius suæ vitæ ratio pendet conseruent intactum, corpus flagellis exponunt postremo ad arctum etiam foramen veterem pellem deponunt, atque hæc sunt, quæ Christianis quoque sapientibus obseruanda sunt. Primo, vt se se diuinæ gratiæ soli exponant, caputque ad Deum verum solem attollant, vt inde, & charitatis feruorem & sacrarum litterarum lumen, ac intelligentiam recipiant, & hoc est, quod scribitur hic, tertius erit sapiens sicut serpens, qui stabit in cauda, & caput leuabit ad cælum, 2. debet more serpentis etiam totum corpus morti tradere, vt mentẽ quæ caput est ut ridere. Hæc enim sanctitas est vitanda, quæ ridiculum facit hominem, & quæ non est in veritate. Sanctitas enim vera est, quæ in veritate est, & quæ non est ridenda. Sed sanctitas, quæ non est in veritate, est ridenda, & ridiculum facit hominem. Sanctitas enim, quæ non est in veritate, non est sanctitas, sed est ridenda & ridiculum facit hominem. Sanctitas autem, quæ est in veritate, non est ridenda, sed est sanctitas, quæ est in veritate. Et ideo quando in præsentia hominum sanctitatem quæ non est in veritate, ostendis, ridiculum facis hominem, & ridendus es. Quando autem veritatem facis & amas, & veritatem diligis, sanctitatem quæ est in veritate, ostendis, & non ridiculum facis hominem, & ridendus non es. Quando autem sanctitatem, & veritatem, & veritatem quæ est sanctitas, ostendis, & sanctitatem quæ est veritas, ostendis, & sanctitatem quæ est in veritate, ostendis, & veritatem quæ est in sanctitate, ostendis

Vers. 1. Et ecce mulier quæ erat sanguinis fluxu laborans annos duodecim, accessit retrorsum, & tetigit fimbriam vestimenti eius. 2. Dicebat enim intra se: Si tetigero tantum vestimentum eius, salva ero. 3. At Iesus conuersus, & videns eam, dixit: Confide filia, fides tua te saluam fecit. Et saluata est mulier ex hora illa.

Vers. 4. Et cum venisset Iesus in domum principis, & vidisset tibicines, & turbam tumultuantem, 5. dicebat: Recedite, non enim mortua est puella, sed dormit. Et irridebant eum. 6. Et cum eiecta fuisset turba, introiuit, & tenuit manum eius: & surrexit puella. 7. Et exiit fama hæc in vniuersam terram illam.

Vers. 8. Et transeunti Iesu inde, secutæ sunt eum duæ cæci clamantes, & dicentes: Miserere nostri fili Dauid. 9. Cum autem venisset domum, accesserunt ad eum cæci: & dicit eis Iesus: Creditis quia possum hoc facere vobis? Dicunt ei: Etiam Domine. 10. Tunc tetigit oculos eorum, dicens: Secundum fidem vestram fiat vobis. 11. Et aperti sunt oculi eorum: & comminatus est illis Iesus, dicens: Videte ne sciat quis. 12. At illi exeuntes diffamauerunt eum in vniuersa terra illa.

Vers. 13. Ipsis autem exeuntibus, ecce obtulerunt ei hominem mutum dæmonium habentem. 14. Et ejecto dæmonio, locutus est mutus: & admirata sunt turbæ, dicentes: Quia non apparuit sic in Israel. 15. Pharisæi autem dicebant: In principe dæmoniorum ejicit dæmonia.

Vers. 16. Et circuibat Iesus ciuitates omnes & castella, docens in synagogis eorum, & prædicans Euangelium regni, & curans omnem languorem, & omnem infirmitatem. 17. Videns autem turbas, misertus est eis, quia erant vexati & iacentes sicut oues non habentes pastorem. 18. Tunc dicit discipulis suis: Messis quidem multa, operarii autem pauci. 19. Rogate ergo Dominum messis, vt mittat operarios in messem suam.

CAP. XVIII.

TRIA mirabilia tecum feci. Vides enim ſpiritualibus oculis. Tu etiam audis ſpiritualibus auribus. Tu ſentis corporali manu ſpiritum meum in tuo viuente pectore. 1 Viſio quam vides non tibi videtur ſicut eſt. Si enim videres ſpiritualem pulchritudinem Angelorum, & animarum ſanctarum, corpus tuum non ſufficeret videre, ſed rumperetur quaſi vas corruptum, & putridum, propter gaudium animæ ex viſione. Si autem videres dæmones ſicut ſunt, aut viuentes cum primo dolore, aut morereris per ſubitaneam mortem, propter terribilem viſionem eorũ. Ideo videntur tibi ſpiritualia quaſi corporalia. Angeli, & animæ videntur tibi in ſimilitudine hominum, qui habent vitam, & animam, quia Angeli viuunt cum ſpiritu ſuo.

2 2 Dæmones videntur tibi in forma, quæ eſt ad mortem, & mortalis, vt in forma animalium, vel aliarum creaturarum. Illa enim habent mortalem ſpiritum, quia moriente carne moritur ſpiritus, diaboli autem non moriuntur in ſpiritu, ſine fine enim moriuntur, & ſine fine viuunt. Spiritualia vero verba cum ſimilitudine tibi dicũtur, ſpiritus enim tuus aliter non poteſt capere. Inter omnia autẽ [illegible]bilius, quod ſpiritus meus in corde tuo ſentitur moueri. Spiritus verò diuinus accendit diuinis desiderijs, & ostendit diuina, & futura, & abscondita: & ideò Prophetæ, & Apostoli, & Euangelistæ, non dicuntur, sua dixisse, sed illa locuti sunt, quæ Spiritus sanctus dixit: quia non ipsi scribebant voluntate, & ideo non dicebant, sed Spiritus sanctus per eos dicebat, & scribebat. Vnum dico tibi, ne scrutari, neque iudicia Dei scrutanda, quod ego dico, & scribo, non dico, neque scribo, quia ego sum, sed quia Spiritus sanctus me mouet. Primo enim in spiritu propositum habui, quod scribendum non essem, sed quia non valui resistere, nec potui retinere, quin scriberem, ideò scribo, & dico, quia Spiritus sanctus me mouet, & me compellit. pus in confusionebantur interiora homini, & posteriora, ita quod nihil remaneret. Hæc nubes fili mi verba tua sunt, quæ multis tenebrosa videntur, & incredibilia, quia non multocies audita, quia idioris ministrata, nec signis declarata. Hæc verba præcedit petitio mea, & misericordia tua, qua misereris omnibus, & allicis quasi mater omnes ad te. Hæc misericordia lenis est quasi aer lenissimus in patientia, & sufferentia, & calli dulcedo in charitate, qua pronocantes te ad iram mones ad misericordiam, & offers cõtemptoribus pietatem. Ergo omnes, qui audierint verba hæc eleuent oculos, & videbunt in intelligentia, vnde processerint verba. Inquirent si consenserunt misericordiam, & humilitatem. Attendant si sonant præsentia an futura, veritatem an falsitatem, & si vera inuenerint fugiant ad latibulum, adeant ad veram humilitatem cum diuina charitate, nam cum iniquitas venerit, tunc præcisa separabitur anima a corpore, animam vero claudet in se ignis, & ardebit interius, & exterius. Ardebit quidem, sed non consumetur. Propterea ego regina misericordia clamo ad habitatores mundi, vt eleuet oculos, & videant misericordiam. Ego moneo, & rogo quasi mater, consulo quasi domina. Cum enim venerit iniquitas, impossibile erit resistere. Ergo credite firmiter, & respicite, probate in conscientia veritatem, mutate voluntatem, & tunc qui ostenderit verba charitatis, ostendet, & opera, & signa charitatis. Deinde filius mihi loquebatur dicens. Ostendi tibi supra de apibus, quod habent triplex bonum de apiastro suo. 5 Dico tibi nunc, quod tales apes deberent esse illi cruciferi, quos in illis finibus terrarum Christianorum posui. Sed iam ipsi pugnant contra me, nam de animabus non curant, non compatiuntur corporibus, conuersorum ad fidẽ Catholicam, & ad me de errore. Opprimunt enim eos laboribus, priuant libertatibus, in fide non instruunt eos, sacramentis priuant, & cum maiori dolore mittunt eos ad infernum, quam si starent in suo assueto paganismo. Nec etiam pugnant nisi vt dilatent superbiam suam, & augeant cupiditatem suam. Ideo veniet eis tempus, quo

NOTAE.

1 NOn possent conuerti nisi ipsimet mouerint voluntatem suam ab bonum.

Cum iustificatio motus quidam sit quo homo existens à Deo recedit a statu peccati, & ad Deum conuertitur, quis non videat, ad huiusmodi conuersionem liberi arbitrij motionem requiri: cum autem homo in hoc iustificationis actu respiciat vtrunque statum recessus, scilicet a peccato, & accessum ad Deum, vtique necesse erit, quod eius mens per liberi motum arbitrij recedat a peccato illud detestando, & accedat ad Deum eum diligendo, eiusque gratiam acceptando, & hoc est mouere voluntatem suã ad bonum, vt legimus hic, vnde Ioan. 6. scribitur, omnis qui audit à Patre, & didicit venit ad me; sicut enim nequit intelligi, aliquem discentem nisi doctrinæ Magistri consentiat, ita nec Deum iustificantem aliquem per gratiam, nisi iustificandus conetur ad Deum ire per liberum arbitrium, sed hic diligenter aduertendum cum D. Thoma p. 2. q. 113. art. 3. quod sicut Deus est, qui iustificat impium, vt dicitur Rom. 3. ipse quoque est, qui mouet impij voluntatem ad iustitiam, mouet autem secundum vnius cuiusque modum, omnia namque suauiter disponit Sapientiæ 8. scribitur, & quia homo liber est, ita impĩdit bonum donum gratiæ iustificantis, quod etiam simul cum hoc liberum mouet arbitrium ad illud donum acceptandum, nullam libertati vim inferendo.

2 Veruntamen cum autumnus veniet proui debo apibus bonis, & separabo eas a malis.

Quemadmodum in autumno eos colligit fructus homo, quos prius seminauerat, eosque in horreo collocat, vt inde possit reliquo suæ vitæ tempore laborat, vnde de cætera viuere possit, ita quoque cum ex hac vita mortali decesserit, vt sementem fecerit, ita tunc temporis metet, si enim bonorum operum ediderit fructus, eos colliget, hisque perpetuo in alia vita fruetur, quandoquidem illi Deus copiosam tunc rependet remunerationem. Designat nam que autumnus remunerationis tempus, vt tradit D. Hieron. super Isaiæ cap. 18. cæpit ius illa verba, & erit flos decidens gloriæ exultationis eius, qui est super verticem vallis pinguium quasi temporaneũ ante maturitatem autumni, & hoc est, quod scribitur hic. veruntamen cum autumnus veniet prouidebo apibus bonis.

3 Ego Dominus creator omnium, ego possessor apum illarum.

Hoc loco Christus Dominus se vniuersalis Ecclesiæ caput esse, ac principatu hoc, quod sibi iure competere probat, quoniam eam sanguine suo acquisiuit, vt asserum 20. D. Lucas tradidit optime autem se regi apum similem facit, qui, & habet misericordiæ mel, & aculeum iustitiæ: per misericordiam nanq; peccatoribus ad se reuertentibus parcit, sed per iustitiam si in peccatis persistunt eosdẽ grauiter punit, hanc etiam ob causam Lucas 9. cap. & 10.

ter se, & illum ad se: sicut ante dixi, de quadam alia Virgine, quæ dixit, quod ego eram sponsa Christi, & ipse sponsus meus: & ego non sentio me talem esse, nec scio, quomodo ipse sit sponsus meus, & ego sponsa ejus.

Non confitebatur se talem dixisse, quod ipse esset sponsus ejus, & ipsa sponsa ejus, sed quod ipse esset sponsus ejus.

Deinde videbam istam Virginem, quæ dixerat, quod ipse esset sponsus ejus, & ipsa sponsa ejus, quæ erat in magna tristitia, & angustia, & dicebat, quod nescio, quomodo ipse sponsus meus, & ego sponsa ejus, & videbam, quod ipse Dominus respondebat ei, & dicebat: Ego sum sponsus tuus, & tu sponsa mea, & ego sum tecum, & tu mecum, & ego sum in te, & tu in me, & ego sum tua, & tu mea, & ego sum tibi, & tu mihi, & ego sum tibi, & tu mihi, & ego sum tibi, & tu mihi lectabiliter in ore, intrant cum charitate in eor. Ego habeo vnum clericum, & vnum defensorem, & vnum rusticum. Primus est delectabilis sicut sponsa, quam sponsus honestissimus cum diuina charitate toto desiderio desiderat, huius vox erit sicut vox, quæ ex clamore, & colloquutione resultat in silvis. Secundus erit paratus dare vitam suam pro me, non timebit mundi opprobrium. Hunc ego armabo armis Spiritus sancti.

2 2 Tertius habebit tam firmã fidem, quod dicet sic. Tam firmiter credo, quod quasi videam, quæ credo, spero etiam omnia, quæ promiserat Deus, voluntatem habebit faciẽdi bona, & proficiendi in bono, & omittere mala. In os primi hominis dictorũ trium ponam tria verba, quæ clamabit. Primo clamabit, qui habet fidem faciat opere, quę credit. Secũdo, qui sperat, firmiter sit stabilis in omnĩ bono. Tertio, qui diligit perfecte, & charitative, desideret feruenter videre, quæ diligit. Secundus erit quasi leo fortis in laborando in insidijs præcauendis, sollicitus, & stabilis in perseuerando. 3 Tertius erit sapiens sicut serpens, qui stabit in cauda, & caput leuabit ad cælum. Isti complebunt voluntatem meam, hos sequentur alij. Et licet tres nomino, & per eos tamen plures intelligo. Deinde loquebatur ad sponsam dicẽs. Sta stabilis noli sollicitari de mundo, non de opprobrio, quia qui omnia opprobria audiui, ego sum Deus tuus, & Dominus.

NOTAE.

i var. lect. ECce amici mei quomodo per tales potest abyssus illa insatiabilis minui, quo modo sanus poterit impleri.

In præsenti capite conquaritur Dominus de clericis, aliisque Ecclesiæ ministris, quod suo officio, ut par est non fungantur, & quidem a clericis sumẽs exordiũ dicit, eos facile esse leprosos, & multos leprosos quidem ob vitiorum, turpitudinẽ, ac fœtorem, multos vero, quia nec verbo, nec laudes Dei populis prædicãt. Secundo dicit etiam illos, qui ad Ecclesiam defendendã constituti sunt, nil aliud facere, quam sua quærere, & quæ Dei sunt negligere, postremo eos, quos ad laborandum in vinea Dei posuit, similes esse asinis docet, qui caput inclinantes ad terram nil aliud, quam terrena, & cadura quærunt, & ex his infert, quod scribitur hoc loco, quomodo per tales potest abyssus illa insatiabilis minui, quod explicans circa initium præsentis capitis, dicit, via semper aperta est, in quam anima descendunt sicut nix de cælo in terram, & sicut a facie solis nix dissoluitur, in aquã, sic animæ a magnitudine supplicij dissoluentur ab omni bono, & renouantur ad omnem pœnam, id vero, quod ex his deducit nimirum, quomodo sanus poterit impleri cum M.S. Farnesiano corrigendum arbitror, quomodo Paradisus poterit impleri.

3 Tertius habet tam firmam fidem, quod dicet sic, tam firmiter credo, quod quasi videam quæ credo.

Nulli dubium esse potest, fidei certitudinem, etiam prout est in nobis maiorem esse quacunque alia certitudine, imo vero constanter asseuerandum esse arbitror posse Christianum hominem certiorem esse de rebus fidei, quæ tantummodo credit, quam de his, quæ corporalibus oculis videt, ideo certiora tenenda sunt, quæ fidei sunt, quam quæ oculis videmus, aut quopiam alio sensu percipimus, quãdoquidẽ illi decipi, & allucinari possunt, non vero diuina virtus, quæ infallibilis est, quæue intellectum hominis determinat ad assentiendum rebus fidei, quod egregie explicat D. Chrisost. ho. 21. super Ep. ad Hebr. Fides inquit, dici non potest, nisi circa ea, quæ non videntur, amplius, quam circa ea, quæ videntur satisfactionem, quisquam habuerit, & D. Aug. lib. 8. confess. c. 10. clamat, inquit ad Dñm de longinquo, ego sum, qui sum, & audiui sicut audiri solet in corde, & non erat vnde dubitarem, facilius que me dubitarem viuere, quam non esse veritatem.

Serpentum naturam, hominum designare prudentiam, colligi potest ex illo Matt. 10. Estote prudentes sicut serpentes, quo loco elegantes allegorias afferunt Hieronymus, Hilarius, & Chrisost. & plura hac de re tradiderunt D. August. serm. 87. circa finem, & lib. 13. confessionum. cap. 21. Eucherius de spiritualibus formulis cap. 5. Origen. super Ezechiel hom. 1. & in Iosue hom. 4. vt autem hoc explicemus apertius, sciendum est in tribus præcipue serpentum prudentiam posse, Primo, quia cum frigida sint natura, cumque senescunt visum amittunt, ideo frequenter solis radijs se se exponunt, vt inde, & calorem hauriant, & lumen obtineant, secundo, vt caput, a quo totius suæ vitæ ratio pendet conseruent intactum, corpus flagellis exponunt postremo ad arctum etiam foramen veterem pellem deponunt, atque hæc sunt, quæ Christianis quoque sapientibus obseruanda sunt. Primo, vt se se diuinæ gratiæ soli exponant, caputque ad Deum verum solem attollant, vt inde, & charitatis feruorem & sacrarum litterarum lumen, ac intelligentiam recipiant, & hoc est, quod scribitur hic, tertius erit sapiens sicut serpens, qui stabit in cauda, & caput leuabit ad cælum, 2. debet more serpentis etiam totum corpus morti tradere, vt mentẽ, quæ caput est hominis ab omni ſcelere conſervet immunem, poſtremo expedit, vt veterem pellem deponat, priſtinas naturam relinquendo vitas, & virtutes ſectando, vt novam vitam inſtituat, ſicut indicat Apoſtolus ad Coloſenſ. 3. deponentes, inquit veterem hominem cum actibus ſuis, & induentes novum eum, qui renovatur in agnitione ſecundum imaginem eius, qui creavit illum, ſed hoc idem egregie explicat Gl. ordin in locum citatum Matthæi his verbis, ſerpentis aſtutia eſt, quod toto corpore, caput, in quo vita eſt occultat, & protegit, ita, & nos ſtri periculo corporis caput noſtrum, quod eſt Chriſtus cuſtodiamus, vel quod per anguſtias ſe coartans veteri tunica exuitur, innovatur, ſic introrſus per anguſtam portam veterem exuit hominem. alteram etiam Epiphanius hæreſi 37. proprietatem affert, ex qua ſerpentis prudentia noſcitur, quando inquit ſitu preſſus a latibulo proceſſit, ad aquam, vt bibat non ſimul ſecum accipit venenum, ſed in latibulo relinquit, & ſic progreſſus potum aquarum ſumit proinde & ipſi hoc imitemur, vt quando ad ſanctam Dei Eccleſiam, aut ad preces, aut ad miſſarum venerimus, malitiam, aut voluptatem, aut inimicitiam, aut aliud quid in cogitationibus noſtris ne biſcum ne feramus.

VERBA VIRGINIS GLORIOSÆ ad filiam de modo Chriſtum de cruce deponendi, & de ſuis amaritudine, & dulcedine in filij paſſione, & qualiter anima per Virginem, & amor Dei, & mundi per duos iuuenes deſignantur, & de conditionibus, quas anima debet habere tanquam virgo.

CAP. XXI.

MARIA loquebatur. quinque cogitare debes filia mea. Primo, quod omnia membra filij mei in morte dirigebantur, & frigeſcebant, & ſanguis, qui de vulneribus eius in paſſione effluxit, membris omnibus adhæſit coagulatus. Secundo, quod in corde pungitus erat tam amare, & immiſericorditer, quod pungens non deſtitit, donec lancea attigit coſtam, & ambæ partes cordis eſſent in lancea. 1 Tertio cogita, quomodo deponebatur de cruce. Hi duo, qui deponebant eum de cruce tres applicabant ſcalas, vna protendebatur ad pedes, ſecunda ſubtus aſcellas, & ad brachia, tertia ad medietatem corporis. Primus aſcendit, & tenebat eum per medium. Secundus aſcendens per aliam ſcalam, excuſſit primo vnum clauum de vno brachio. Deinde applicata ſcala excuſſit clauum alterius manus. Qui quidem claui longe vltra lapitem crucis protendebantur. Deſcendente igitur illo, qui ſuſtentabat onus corporis paulatim, & modice, prout poterat. 2 Ille alius aſcendit, ſcalam, quæ var. lect. tendebatur ad pedes, & excuſſit clauos pedibus. Cumq. appropinquaret ad terrã, vnus eorum tenuit corpus per caput, alius per pedes, ego vero, quæ Mater erã tenui per medium. 3 Et ſic nos tres portauimus eum ad quandam petram, quæ in linteo mundo per me operta erat, in qua obuoluimus corpus, 4 ſed non conſui lynteum. 4 Sciebã enim procerto, quod non in tumulo putreſceret. Poſtea Mariæ Magdalenæ, & aliæ ſanctæ mulieres venerunt, nec non, & Angeli ſancti multi, quaſi athomi ſolis affuerunt, obſequium exhibentes creatori ſuo. Qualem autem triſtitiam tunc temporis habui, non eſt, qui valeat dicere. Eram enim ſicut mulier pariens cuius omnia membra poſt partum tremula ſunt. Quæ licet præ dolore vix reſpirare poſſit, tamen gaudet interius quantum poteſt eo quod ſcit filium ſuum natum, in eandem miſeriam, de qua exiuit nunquam rediturum. Sic ego licet ex morte filij mei eram incomparabiliter triſtis, tamen quia ſciui filium meum non amplius moriturum, ſed in æternum victurum gaudebã in anima mea, & ſic cum triſtitia mea quædam lætitia miſcebatur. Vere dicere poſſum, quod ſepulto filio meo, quaſi duo corda in vno ſepulchro fuerunt. Nunquid non dicitur, vbi eſt thezaurus tuus ibi eſt, & cor tuũ? Sic in ſepulchro filij mei, ſẽper cogitatio, & cor meum verſabatur. Deinde adijciens Mater Dei dixit. Dicã tibi de illo tali per modum exẽpli, quomodo, & in quo ſtatu poſitus erat. & quomodo nũc conſtitutus eſt, quaſi quod quædam virgo euidãm deſponſata eſſet, & ante ipſã duo iuuenes ſtarent, quorum vnus a virgine vocatus dixit ei. Conſulo tibi ne credas ei quem deſponſaſti, ipſe enim rigidus eſt in operibus ſuis, tardus in remuneratione, auarus in donis. Crede ergo magis mihi, & verbis, quæ tibi dico, & mõſtrabo tibi aliũ, qui non eſt durus, ſed lenis in omnibus, qui dat tibi ſtatim, quod deſideras, qui dat etiã tibi copioſe, quę placent, & delectant. Quibus auditis virgo cogitans ſecum reſpondit. Verba tua ſunt dulcia ad audiendũ. Tu perſona liter lenis es, & pulcher ad ſentiendum, conſultum credo verba tua ſequi. Et cum extraheret amulũ de digito, vt porrigeret iuueni, vidit vidit ſuperius vnam ſcripturam, in qua erãt tria verba. Primum erat, cum veneris in cacumen arboris, caue, ne apprehendas aridum ramum arboris ad ſuſtentandum te, ne forte cadas. Secundum verbum erat, caue, ne recipias conſilium ab inimico. Tertium erat, non ponas cor tuum inter dentes leonis. Cunque Virgo videret hæc, retraxit manum, & retinuit anulum cogitans ſecum ſic. Hæc tria quæ video, forte notant, quod iſte, qui me in ſponſam habere cupit non eſt fidelis. Mihi videtur, quod verba ſua ſunt vana, & plenus eſt odio, & interficiet me. Et cum ſic cogitaret iterum reſpexit, & vidit aliam ſcripturam, in qua etiam erant tria verba. Primum erat. Da ei qui tibi dedit. Secundum verbum erat. Da ſanguinem pro ſanguine. Tertium erat, non alienes poſſeſſori, quod ſuum proprium eſt. Quibus viſis, & auditis cogitauit iterum ſic Virgo. Prima tria verba informant me, quomodo fugiam mortem, ſequentia tria quomodo obtineam vitam, ergo iuſtum eſt, vt magis ſequar verba vitæ, tunc Virgo ſapienti vſa conſilio vocauit ad ſe ſeruum illius, qui eam primo deſponſauit, & eo appropinquante, ille qui eam decipere voluit ſe ab eis elongauit. Talis eſt anima illius deſponſata Deo ſuo. Duo iuuenes, qui ante eam ſtabant, ſunt amicitia Dei, & amicitia mundi. Nam amici mundi magis, & vicinius appropinquant ei vſque nunc, qui loquebantur ei de diuitijs, & honore mundi, ad quos pene extendiſſet annulum amoris ſui, & eis in omnibus conſenſiſſet. 5 Sed ſuccurrente gratia filij mei, vidit ſcripturam quandam, ideſt, audiunt miſericordiæ eius verba, in quibus intellexit tria. Primo quod caueret ſibi, nedum altius aſcenderet, & rebus caſuris inniteretur, grauior ei caſus immineret. Secundo intellexit nihil eſſe in mundo niſi dolorem, & ſollicitudinem. Tertio, quod mala eſt diaboli retributio. Deinde aliam ſcripturam vidit, ſcilicet audiuit verba eius conſolatoria. Primo, vt daret ſua Deo, à quo habet omnia. Secundo, vt redderet ei ſeruitium corporis ſui, qui ſanguinem ſuum fudit pro eo. Tertio, vt non alienaret animam ſuam a Deo ſuo, qui eam creauit, & redemit. Iſtis auditis, & diligenter conſideratis, appropinquant ei, nunc ſerui Dei, & placent, & elongant ſe ab eo ſerui mundi. Sed nunc anima eius eſt, quaſi Virgo, quæ de brachio ſponſi ſui nouiter ſurrexit, quæ tenetur habere tria. Primo veſtes decoras, ne forte derideatur a famulis Regis, ſi in veſtibus deprehenditur aliqua deformitas. Secundo debet eſſe morigerata, iuxta voluntatem ſponſi, ne ſi aliquid in actibus ſuis inueniatur inhoneſtũ, dehoneſtetur ſponſus propter eam. Tertio debet eſſe mundiſſima, vt ſponſus non inueniat in ea vnam maculam, pro qua contemni, & repudiari poſſit. Deinde habeat ductores ad cubiculum ſponſi ſui, ne forte in ambitibus, vel in ſubtili aditu errare contingat. Qui vero ductor eſſe debet, duo habeat. Primo, vt videatur a ſequente. Secundo, vt audiatur quid docet, & quo iter. Ille autem qui ſequitur aliquem præcedentem tria tenetur habere. Primo, vt non ſit ſegnis, & piger in ſequendo. Secundo, vt non abſcondat ſe a præcedente. Tertio, vt diligenter eius attendat, & conſideret veſtigia præceſſoris, & eum ſollicite ſequatur. Ergo anima eius, vt ad cubiculum ſponſi perueniat, neceſſe eſt, vt a ductore ducatur, qui eam ad ſponſum ſuum Deum feliciter perducat.

NOTAE.

TErtio cogita quomodo deponebatur de cruce, hi duo, qui deponebant eam de cruce tres applicabant ſcalas.

In præſenti Capite modus deſcribitur, quo Redemptor noſter Chriſtus de cruce depoſitus fuit, qua de re Euangeliſtæ nil aliud ſcriptum reliquerunt, niſi Ioſephum ab Arimathea nobilem virum obtenta à Pilato facultate depoſuiſſe corpus Domini, ſic Matth. 27. Marci 15. Luc. 23. ex his vero, quæ hoc loco traduntur, intelligimus Chriſti Domini corpus fuiſſe de cruce depoſitum, Crucem in terra fixo manente, & erecta, non vero, quod ſuerit ſimul cum corpore ſublata, & e foramine petræ euulſa, & in terram collocata, & ex his duobus modis primus, qui traditur hic probabilior eſt, quem communis Eccleſiæ pictura probat, tum quia Pilatus, qui facultatem corpus Chriſti de cruce deponendi dederat minime exiſtimandum eſt, etiam conceſſiſſe, vt inde crux quoque tolleretur, tum etiam, vt annotauit Franciſcus Suarez in Comment. ſuper 3. par. S. Thomæ quæſt. 51. diſput. 41. ſect. 2. Tomo 2. illud eſſe in more poſitum, vt cum quiſpiã ob delictum aliquod publicum patibulo publice traditur, ſi quando corpus eius è patibulo deponitur, manet tamen patibulum, quaſi in ſignum ſupplicij ad cæterorum terrorem, & hinc deduxit accidiſſe forſitan in depoſitione Chriſti de cruce, vt eius corpus de cruce ſuerit depoſitum, crux vero in proprio loco erecta maneret, vt & manſiſſe ſcribitur hic, & propterea, qui depoſuerant eum per tres ſcalas aſcenderunt ad Crucem, & ibi excuſſis è manibus, pedibuſque clauis Chriſti corpus depoſuerunt cruce in terra fixa, ac vt prius erecta manente, ſed hæc de re plura videri poſſunt apud Emericum de Campo Doctorem Louanienſem, qui tractatum edidit de imagine CHRISTI de cruce depoſiti, & in ſinu matris obedientiæ, non tamen habebant de illis, & distinctionem, ut quæ non viderant oculi, nec auribus audierant, nec in cor hominis ascenderant, quæ præparauit Deus diligentibus se. 1. Cor. 2. Quæ desiderant Angeli prospicere. 1. Pet. 1. Nil ex vetus testamento non fuisse Mosi, & patribus debitis in manifestatione tanti viri latere potuisse antequam in lucem prodiret euangelium.

NOTAE.

PRæfa pellationes in mysteriis complectuntur, vbi aliquæ, sed multa rationabiliter non fuerunt reuelata, quæ in euangelio patefacta sunt, vt Ioannes ipse testatur, inquiens:

Si scripsaluas libros, sed omnia rationabiliter fallax fuit, quæ nescimus vel cognoscimus, quæ in euangelio patefacta sunt, manifestantur per me.

Et ex illo tantummodo manet certitudo in his, quæ reuelata sunt, & non in his, quæ non reuelata sunt, quæ ideo non reuelata sunt, quia fuit præcognitum eorum ruinam futuram.

*Ab his verbis Ioannis Scotus, Anglicus, vult probare, quòd non sit certum, scripturam esse diuinam, quia non reuelatum est, quibus scripturis reuelatum sit, quæ non sint, vt ipse vult, diuinæ. Et à tam falsa interpretatione illa conquirit, quæ sint ea, quæ minus sint diuinitus reuelata, & quæ magis, & quæ non sint reuelata, & quæ sint, & quæ non sint, & quæ sint reuelata, & quæ non sint reuelata, & quæ sint reuelata, & quæ non sint reuelata, & quæ sint reuelata, & quæ non sint reuelata

DE TRIBVS MIRABILIBVS, quæ Chriſtus fecit cum ſponſa, & quomodo viſio Angelorum propter pulchritudinem, & viſio dæmonum propter turpitudinem eſt intolerabilis in ſua eſſentia, & quare dignatus eſt Chriſtus talem viduam hoſpitari.

CAP. XVIII.

TRIA mirabilia tecum feci. Vides enim ſpiritualibus oculis. Tu etiam audis ſpiritualibus auribus. Tu ſentis corporali manu ſpiritum meum in tuo viuente pectore. 1 Viſio quam vides non tibi videtur ſicut eſt. Si enim videres ſpiritualem pulchritudinem Angelorum, & animarum ſanctarum, corpus tuum non ſufficeret videre, ſed rumperetur quaſi vas corruptum, & putridum, propter gaudium animæ ex viſione. Si autem videres dæmones ſicut ſunt, aut viueres cum gramio dolore, aut morereris per ſubitaneam mortem, propter terribilem viſionem eorũ. Ideo videntur tibi ſpiritualia quaſi corporalia. Angeli, & animæ videntur tibi in ſimilitudine hominum, qui habent vitam, & animam, quia Angeli viuunt cum ſpiritu ſuo.

2 2 Dæmones videntur tibi in forma, quæ eſt ad mortem, & mortalis, vt in forma animalium, vel aliarum creaturarum. Illa enim habent mortalem ſpiritum, quia moriente carne moritur ſpiritus, diaboli autem non moriuntur in ſpiritu, ſine fine enim moriuntur, & ſine fine viuunt. Spiritualia vero verba cum ſimilitudine tibi dicũtur, ſpiritus enim tuus aliter non poteſt capere. Inter omnia autẽ [illegible] mirabilius, quod ſpiritus meus in corde tuo ſentitur moueri. Tunc illa reſpondit. 3 O Domine mi, & filius Virginis,

3 var. lect. quare dignatus es tu tam vilem viduam hoſpitari, quæ ſum pauper in omnibus bonis operibus, & modica in conſcientiæ intellectu, & conſumpta in omni peccato longitur-nitate temporis? Cui ille reſpondit. Ego habeo tria. Primo ego poſſum pauperem ditare, inſipientem, & modici intellectus facere ſufficientem, & intelligentem. Ego ſufficio etiam antiquum renouare ad iuuentutem.

4 4 Sicut enim fœnix comportat in vallem ſtipulas ſiccas, inter quas comportat ſtipulas vnius arboris, quæ exterius eſt ſicca ex natura, & intus calida, 5 in quam primo venit ca-

5 var. lect. lor radij ſolis, & incenditur. Deinde ex ipſa omnes ſtipulæ accenduntur. Sic oportet te congregare virtutes, quibus a peccatis renouari poſſis. Inter quas vnum lignum habere debes, quod interius eſt calidum, & exterius ſiccum, ideſt, cor quod purum ſit, & ſiccatum exterius ab omni mundi delectatione, & interius plenum omni charitate, vt nihil velis nihil deſideres, niſi me. Tunc in hoc primo

1 veniet ignis charitatis meæ, & ſic incenderis omnibus virtutibus, in quibus concremata, & a peccatis purgata, reſurges quaſi auis renouata, depoſita pelle delectationis.

NOTAE.

1 VIſio quam vides non tibi videtur ſicuti eſt.

Quoniam impoſſibile eſt, dum in hac vita mortali ſumus diuinam corporalibus oculis immediate inſueri eſſentiam, quandoquidem, vt ait Apoſtolus 1. Corinth. 13. videmus nunc per ſpeculum in enigmate, tunc autem facie ad faciem, ideo legimus hic viſio quam vides non tibi videtur ſicuti eſt, cognitio enim Dei per ſimilitudinem non eſt viſio diuinæ eſſentiæ, vt docet D. Thom. 1. par. q. 12. art. 2. 9. & 11, quam facie ad faciem videre tantũmodo Beatis in Patria conceditur ſicut 1. Io. 3. ſcribitur quoniã

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam qualiter Deus loquitur amicis suis per suos prædicatores, & per tribulationes, & quomodo Christus per apum possessorem, & Ecclesia per Alueolum, & Christiani per apes designantur, & qualiter mali Christiani inter bonos permittuntur viuere.

CAP. XIX.

EGO sum Deus tuus. Spiritus meus introduxit te audire, & videre, & sentire. Audire verba mea, videre similitudines, sentire spiritum meum cum gaudio, & deuotione animæ. In me est omnis misericordia cum iustitia, & iniustitia misericordia. Ego sum sicut ille, qui videt amicos suos cadere a se in viam, vbi chaos horrendum est, de quo impossibile est consurgere. Quibus amicis loquor per eos, qui habet intelligentiam scripturæ. Loquor per flagella, præcaueo eos de periculo
2 eorum. Sed ipsi [illegible] non curantes de verbis meis. Verba mea non sunt nisi quasi vnum verbum, hoc est conuertere peccatores ad me. Vadis enim periculose, quia nisi dispiciant in via, & pro tenebris cordis tui a te quales sunt abscondantur. Hoc verbum meum contemnitur, hæc misericordia mea negligitur. Verumtamen quamvis sic maledicerentur, quod eos penitentes moneo, tamen [illegible] iustus, quod dum si

Si vero ipsi voluntatem ad me verterint, & affectu in me consenserint, non omnes dæmones eos retinere possunt. Est enim vermis quidam, qui dicitur apis in possessione domini sui. Quæ apes regi socialem Asylo triplicem fructum exhibent, & ab eo triplicem virtutem habent. Primo apes portant ad regem suum omnem dulcedinem, quam possunt acquirere. Secundo fauos ad nutum eius, & circumquaque volant, & quocunque processerint, semper ad eum redeunt, & amore ad eum ad regem. Tertio sequuntur eum, & stabiliter inhærendo ei quiescunt. Primo his tribus apes habent a rege suo triplex bonum. Primo ex voce eius habent certum tempus exeundi, & laborandi. Secundo habent ab eo regimen, & mutuam charitatem. Ex eius omnia consumebantur interiora homini, & exteriora, ita quod nihil remaneret. Hæc nubes fili mi verba tua sunt, quæ multis tenebrosa videntur, & incredibilia, quia non multoties audita, quia idiotis ministrata, necsignis declarata. Hæc verba præcedit pectoris mea, & misericordia tua, qua misereris omnibus, & alliois quasi mater omnes ad te. Hæc misericordia lenis est quasi aer lenissimus in patientia, & sufferentia, & calli dæst in charitate, qua prouocantes te ad eram mones ad misericordiam, & offers cõtemptoribus pietatem. Ergo omnes, qui audierint verba hæc eleuent oculos, & videbunt in intelligentia, vnde processerint verba. Inquirant si sonuerunt misericordiam, & humilitatem. Attendant si sonant præsentia an futura, veritatem an falsitatem, & si reperiunt fugiant ad latibulum, id est, ad veram humilitatem cum diuina charitate, nam cum iustitia venerit, nunc præterit ignis sipambitur anima a corpore, animam vero claudet in se ignis, & ardebit interius, & exterius. Ardebit quidem, sed non consumetur. Proponam ego regina misericodiæ clamo ad habitatores mũdi, vt eleuẽt oculos, & videant misericordiam. Ego moneo, & rogo quasi mater, consulo quasi domina. Cum enim venerit iustitia, impossibile erit velle re. Ergo credite firmiter, & respicite, probate in conscientia veritatem, mutate voluntatem, & tunc qui ostenderit verba charitatis, ostendet, & opera, & signa charitatis. Deinde filius mihi loquebatur dicens. Ostendi tibi supra de apibus, quod habent triplex bonum de apiastro suo. 5 Dico tibi nunc, quod tales apes deberent esse illi crucifiri, quos in illis finibus terrarum Christianorum posui. Sed iam ipsi pugnant contra me, nam de animabus non curant, non compatiuntur corporibus, conuersorum ad fidẽ Catholicam, & ad me de errore. Opprimunt enim eos laboribus, priuant libertatibus, in fide non instruunt eos, sacramentis priuant, & cum maiori dolore mittunt eos ad infernum, quam si starent in suo assueto paganismo. Nec etiam pugnant nisi vt dilatent superbiam suam, & angeant cupiditatem suam. Ideo veniet eis tempus, quo confringentur dentes eorum ma- nus dextra mutilabitur, & subneruabitur dexter pes eorum, ne viuant, & seipsos cognoscant.

NOTAE.

1 NOn possent conuerti nisi ipsimet mouerint voluntatem suam ab bonum.

Cum iustificatio motus quidam sit quo homo exitatus à Deo recedit a statu peccati, & ad Deum conuertitur, quis non videat, ad huiusmodi conuersionem liberi arbitrij motionem requiri: cum autem homo in hoc iustificationis actu respiciat vtrunque statum recessum, scilicet a peccato, & accessum ad Deum, vtique necesse erit, quod eius mens per liberi motum arbitrij recedat a peccato illud detestando, & accedat ad Deum eum diligendo, eiusque gratiam acceptando, & hoc est mouere voluntatem suã ad bonum, vt legimus hic, vnde Ioan. 6. scribitur, omnis qui audit a Patre, & didicit venit ad me, sicut enim nequit intelligi, aliquem discentem nisi doctrinæ Magistri consentiat, ita nec Deum iustificantem aliquem per gratiam, nisi iustificandus conetur ad Deum ire per liberum arbitrium, sed hic diligenter aduertendum cum D. Thoma p. 2. q. 113. art. 3. quod sicut Deus est, qui iustificat impium, vt dicitur Rom. 3. ipse quoque est, qui mouet impij voluntatem ad iustitiam, mouet autem secundum vnius cuiusque modum, omnia namque suauiter disponit Sapientiæ 8 scribitur, & quia homo liber est, ita impedit homini donum gratiæ iustificantis, quod etiam simul cum hoc liberum mouet arbitrium ad illud donum acceptandum, nullam libertati vim inferendo.

2 Veruntamen cum autumnus venict prouidebo apibus bonis, & separabo eas a malis.

Quemadmodum in autumno eos colligit fructus homo, quos prius seminauerat, eosque in horreo collocat, vt inde postea reliquo suæ vitæ tempore habeat vnde de cætero viuere possit, ita quoque cum ex hac vita mortali decesserit, vt seminem fecerit, ita tunc temporis metet, si enim bonorum operum ediderit fructus, eos colliget, hisque perpetuo in alia vita fruetur, quandoquidem illi Deus copiosam tunc rependet remunerationem. Designat nam que autumnus remunerationis tempus, vt tradit D. Hieron. super Isaiam cap. 18. explicans illa verba, & erit flos decidens gloriæ exultationis eius, qui est super verticem vallis pinguium, quasi temporaneũ ante maturitatem autumni, & hoc est, quod scribitur hic. veruntamen cum autumnus veniet prouidebo apibus bonis.

3 Ego Dominus creator omnium, ego possessor apum mearum.

Hoc loco Christus Dominus se vniuersalis Ecclesiæ caput esse, ac principẽ docet, quod sibi iure competere probat, quoniam eam sanguine suo acquisiuit, vt actorum 20. D. Lucas tradidit optime autem se regi apum similem facit, qui, & habet misericordiæ mel, & aculeum iustitiæ: per misericordiam namq; peccatoribus ad se reuertentibus parcit, sed per iustitiam si in peccatis persistunt eosdẽ grauiter punit, hanc etiam ob causam Lucas assumpsit, & id 20. &

VERBA QVARTIONIALIA
Dei de tribus, quæ sunt quotidiana exercitia Sanctæ Dominæ: & quia tria sunt, quæ in tribus, videlicet in corde, in ore, & in opere, Deo placent, & agentibus bonum præmia, & de gloria præmia, & operibus bonis.

CAP. XX.

RESPONDIT Sancta Virgo Maria, & dixit: Quotidiana exercitia mea sunt, quæ Dominus Sanctæ Trinitati placuerunt, & quia de tribus in tribus quotidie exercitia mea sunt, ideo tria sunt, quæ Deo placent, & quæ ipsi placuerunt, quia in tribus hominibus, qui in tribus locis sunt, videlicet in corde, ore, & opere. Ita & ego in tribus exercitiis sum, videlicet in corde, ore, & opere. Et quia tria sunt, quæ Deo placent, & quæ ipsi placuerunt, ideo tria sunt, quæ ipsi placuerunt, videlicet in corde, ore, & opere. Et quia tria sunt, quæ Deo placent, & quæ ipsi placuerunt, ideo tria sunt, quæ ipsi placuerunt, videlicet in corde, ore, & opere. Et quia tria sunt, quæ Deo placent, & quæ ipsi placuerunt, ideo tria sunt, quæ ipsi placuerunt, videlicet in corde, ore, & opere.

lectabiliter in ore, intrant cum charitate in cor. Ego habeo vnum clericum, & vnum defensorem, & vnum rusticum. Primus est delectabilis sicut sponsa, quam sponsus honestissimus cum diuina charitate toto desiderio desiderat, huius vox erit sicut vox, quæ ex clamore, & colloquutione resultat in filuis. Secundus erit paratus dare vitam suam pro me, non timebit mundi opprobrium. Hunc ego armabo armis Spiritus sancti.

2 2 Tertius habebit tam firmã fidem, quod dicet sic. Tam firmiter credo, quod quasi videam, quæ credo, spero etiam omnia, quæ promiserat Deus, voluntatem habebit faciẽdi bona, & proficiendi in bono, & omittere mala. In os primi hominis dictorũ trium ponam tria verba, quæ clamabit. Primo clamabit, qui habet fidem faciat opere, quę credit. Secũdo, qui sperat, firmiter sit stabilis in omni bono. Tertio, qui diligit perfecte, & charitatiue, desideret feruenter videre, quæ diligit. Secundus erit quasi leo fortis in laborando in insidijs præcauendis, sollicitus, & 3 stabilis in perseuerando. 3 Tertius erit sapiens sicut serpens, qui stabit in cauda, & caput leuabit ad cælum. Isti complebunt voluntatem meam, hos sequentur alij. Et licet tres nomino, & per eos tamen plures intelligo. Deinde loquebatur ad sponsam dicẽs. Sta stabilis noli sollicitari de mundo, non de opprobrio, quia qui omnia opprobria audiui, ego sum Deus tuus, & Dominus.

NOTAE.

1 var. lect. ECce amici mei quomodo per tales potest abyssus illa insatiabilis minui, quo modo fanus poterit impleri.

In præsenti capite conqueritur Dominus de cleri sis, alijsque Ecclesiæ ministris, quod suo officio, vt par est non fungantur, & quidem a clericis sumẽs exordiũ dicit, eos factos esse leprosos, & multos lepro sos quidem ob vitiorum, turpitudinẽ, ac fœtorem, multos vero, quia nec verba, nec laudes Dei populis prædicãt. Secundo dicit etiam illos, qui ad Ecclesiam defendendã constituti sunt, nil aliud facere, quam sua quærere, & quæ Dei sunt negligere, postremo eos, quos ad laborandum in vinea Dei posuit, similes esse asinis docet, qui caput inclinantes ad terram nil aliud, quam terrena, & cadnea quærunt, & ex his infert, quod scribitur hoc loco, quomodo per tales potest abyssus illa insatiabilis minui, quod explicans circa initium præsentis capitis, dicit, via semper aperta est, in quam anima descendunt sicut nix de cælo in terram, & sicut a facie solis nix dissoluitur, in aquã, sic animæ a magnitudine supplicij dissoluentur ab omni bono, & renouantur ad omnem pœnam, id vero, quod ex his deducit minimum, quomodo fanus poterit impleri cum M.S. Farnesiano corrigendum arbitror, quomodo Paradisus poterit impleri.

3 Tertius habet tam firmam fidem, quod dicet sic, tam firmiter credo, quod quasi videam quæ credo.

Nulli dubium esse potest, fidei certitudinem, etiam præsit in nobis maiorem esse quacunque alia certitudine, imo vero constanter asseverandum esse arbitror posse Christianum hominem certiorem esse de rebus fidei, quæ tantummodo credit, quam de his, quæ corporalibus oculis videt, ideo certiora tenenda sunt, quæ fidei sunt, quam quæ oculis videmus, aut quopiam alio sensu percipimus, quãdoquidẽ illi decipi, & allucinari possunt, non vero diuina virtus, quæ infallibilis est, quæue intellectum hominis determinat ad assentiendum rebus fidei, quod egregie explicat D. Chrisost. ho. 22. super Ep. ad Hebr. Fides inquit, dici non potest, nisi circa ea, quæ non videntur, amplius, quam circa ea, quæ videntur satisfactionem, quisquam habuerit, & D. Aug. lib. 8. confess. c. 10. clamat, inquit ad Dũm de longinquo, ego sum, qui sum, & audiui sicut audiri solet in corde, & non erat vnde dubitarem, facilius quę me dubitarem viuere, quam non esse veritatem.

3 Tertius erit sapiens sicut serpens, qui stabit in cauda, & caput leuabit ad cęlum, isti complebunt voluntatem meam, & hos sequuntur alij.

Serpentum naturam, hominum designare prudentiam, colligi potest ex illo Matt. 10. Estote prudentes sicut serpentes, quo loco elegantes allegorias afferunt Hieronymus, Hilarius, & Chrisost. & plura hac de re tradiderunt D. Augustin. serm. 87. circa finẽm, & lib. 13. confessionum. cap. 21. Eucherius de spiritualibus formulis cap. 5. Origen. super Ezechiel hom. 1. & in Iosue hom. 4. vt autem hoc explicemus apertius, sciendum est in tribus præcipue serpentum prudentiam nosci, Primo, quia eum frigida sint naturæ, cumque senescunt visum amittunt, ideo frequenter solis radijs se se exponunt, vt inde, & calorem hauriant, & lumen obtineant, secundo, vt caput, a quo totius suæ vitæ ratio pendet conseruent intactum, corpus flagellis exponunt postremo ad arctum etiam foramen veterem pellem deponunt, atque hæc sunt, quæ Christianis quoque sapientibus obseruanda sunt. Primo, vt se se diuinæ gratiæ soli exponant, caputque ad Deum verum solem attollant, vt inde, & charitatis feruorem & sacrarum litterarum lumen, ac intelligentiam recipiant, & hoc est, quod scribitur hic, tertius erit sapiens sicut serpens, qui stabit in cauda, & caput leuabit ad cælum, 2. debet more serpentis etiam totum corpus morti tradere, vt mentẽ, quæ caput est hominis ab omni scelere conseruet immunem, postremo expedit, vt veterem pellem deponat, prisinas naturam relinquendo vitia, & virtutes sectando, vt nouam vitam instituat, sicut indicat Apostolus ad Colosens. 3. deponentes, inquit veterem hominem cum actibus suis, & induentes nouum eum, qui renouatur in agnitione secundum imaginem eius, qui creauit illum, sed hoc idem egregie explicat gl. ordin. in locum citatum Matthæi his verbis, serpentis astutia est, quod toto corpore, caput, in quo vita est occultat, & protegit, ita, & nos stri periculo corporis caput nostrum, quod est Christus custodiamus, vel quod per angustias se coartans veteri tunica exuitur, innouatur, sic intrans per angustam portam veterem exuit hominem. alteram etiam Epiphanius hæresi 37. proprietatem affert, ex qua serpentis prudentia noscitur, quando inquit siti præssus a latibulo procedit, ad aquam, vt bibat non simul secum accipit venenum, sed in latibulo relinquit, & sic progressus potum aquarum sumit. proinde & ipsi hoc imitemur, vt quando ad sanctam Dei Ecclesiam, aut ad preces, aut ad missas venerimus, malitiam, aut voluptatem, aut inimicitias, aut aliud quid in cogitationibus nostris ne biscum ne feramus.

VERBA VIRGINIS GLORIOSÆ ad filiam de modo Christum de cruce deponendi, & de suis amaritudine, & dulcedine in filij passione, & qualiter anima per Virginem, & amor Dei, & mundi per duos iuuenes designantur, & de conditionibus, quas anima debet habere tanquam virgo.

CAP. XXI.

MARIA loquebatur. quinque cogitare debes filia mea. Primo, quod omnia membra filij mei in morte dirigerunt, & frigescebant, & sanguis, qui de vulneribus eius in passione effluxit, membris omnibus adhesit coagulatus. Secundo, quod in corde punctus erat tam amare, & immisericorditer, quod pungens non destitit, donec lancea attigit costam, & ambæ partes cordis essent in lancea. 1 Tertio cogita, quomodo deponebatur de cruce. Hi duo, qui deponebant eum de cruce tres applicabant scalas, vna protendebatur ad pedes, secunda subtus ascellas, & ad brachia, tertia ad medietatem coporis. Primus ascendit, & tenebat eum per medium. Secundus ascendens per aliam scalam, excussit primo vnum clauum de vno brachio. Deinde applicata scala excussit clauum alterius manus. Qui quidem clau- ui longe vltra stipitem crucis protendebantur. Descendente igitur illo, qui sustentabat onus corporis paulatim, & modice, prout poterat. 2 Ille alius ascendit, scalam, quæ var. tendebatur ad pedes, & excussit clauos pe- lect. dibus. Cumq. appopinquaret ad terrã, vnus eorum tenuit corpus per caput, alius per pedes, ego verò, quæ Mater erã tenui per mediũ. 3 Et sic nos tres portauimus eum ad quandam petram, quæ in linteo mundo per me operta erat, in qua obuoluimus corpus, 4 sed non consui lyntеum. 4 Sciebã enim procerto, quod non in tumulo putresceret. Postea Mariæ Magdalenæ, & aliæ sanctæ mulieres venerunt, nec non, & Angeli sancti multi, quasi athomi solis affuerunt, obsequium exhibentes creatori suo. Qualem autem tristitiam tunc temporis habui, non est, qui valeat dicere. Eram enim sicut mulier pariens cuius omnia membra post partum tremula sunt. Quæ licet præ dolore vix respirare possit, tamen gaudet interius quantum potest eo quod scit filium suum natum, in eandem miseriam, de qua exiuit nunquam rediturum. Sic ego licet ex morte filij mei eram incomparabiliter tristis, tamen quia sciui filium meum non amplius moriturum, sed in æternum victurum gaudebã in anima mea, & sic cum tristitia mea quædam lætitia miscebatur. Vere dicere possum, quod sepulto filio meo, quasi duo corda in vno sepulchro fuerunt. Nunquid non dicitur, vbi est thesaurus tuus ibi est, & cor tuũ? Sic in sepulchro filij mei, sæpe cogitatio, & cor meum versabatur. Deinde adijciens Mater Dei dixit. Dicã tibi de illo tali per modum exẽpli, quomodo, & in quo statu positus erat. & quomodo nũc constitutus est, quasi quod quædam virgo cuidãm desponsata esset, & ante ipsã duo iuuenes starent, quorum vnus a virgine vocatus dixit ei. Consulo tibi ne credas ei quem desponsasti, ipse enim rigidus est in operibus suis, tardus in remuneratione, auarus in donis. Crede ergo magis mihi, & verbis, quæ tibi dico, & mõstrabo tibi aliũ, qui non est durus, sed lenis in omnibus, qui dat tibi statim, quod desideras, qui dat etiã tibi copiosè, quę placent, & delectant. Quibus auditis virgo cogitans secum respondit. Verba tua sunt dulcia ad audiendũ. Tu personaliter lenis es, & pulcher ad sentiendum, consultum credo verba tua sequi. Et cum extraheret anulũ de digito, vt porrigeret iuueni,

vidit ſuperius vnam ſcripturam, in qua erãt tria verba. Primum erat, cum veneris in cacumen arboris, caue, ne apprehendas aridum ramum arboris ad ſuſtentandum te, ne forte cadas. Secundum verbum erat, caue, ne recipias conſilium ab inimico. Tertium erat, non ponas cor tuum inter dentes leonis. Cunque Virgo videret hæc, retraxit manum, & retinuit anulum cogitans ſecum ſic. Hæc tria quæ video, forte notant, quod iſte, qui me in ſponſam habere cupit non eſt fidelis. Mihi videtur, quod verba ſua ſunt vana, & plenus eſt odio, & interficiet me. Et cum ſic cogitaret iterum reſpexit, & vidit aliam ſcripturam, in qua etiam erant tria verba. Primum erat. Da ei qui tibi dedit. Secundum verbum erat. Da ſanguinem pro ſanguine. Tertium erat, non alienes poſſeſſori, quod ſuum proprium eſt. Quibus viſis, & auditis cogitauit iterum ſic Virgo. Prima tria verba informant me, quomodo fugiam mortem, ſequentia tria quomodo obtineam vitam, ergo iuſtum eſt, vt magis ſequar verba vitæ, tunc Virgo ſapienti 1 vſa conſilio vocauit ad ſe ſeruum illius, qui eam primo deſponſauit, & eo appropinquante, ille qui eam decipere voluit ſe ab eis elongauit. Talis eſt anima illius deſponſata Deo ſuo. Duo iuuenes, qui ante eam ſtabant, ſunt amicitia Dei, & amicitia mundi. Nam amici mundi magis, & vicinius appropinquant ei vſque nunc, qui loquebantur ei de diuitijs, & honore mundi, ad quos pene extendiſſet annulum amoris ſui, & eis in omnibus conſenſiſſet. 5 Sed ſuccurrente gratia 5 var. filij mei, vidit ſcripturam quandam, ideſt; lect. audiunt miſericordiæ eius verba, in quibus intellexit tria. Primo quod caueret ſibi, nedum altius aſcenderet, & rebus caſuris inniteretur, grauior ei caſus immineret. Secundo intellexit nihil eſſe in mundo niſi dolorem, & ſollicitudinem. Tertio, quod mala eſt diaboli retributio. Deinde aliam ſcripturam vidit, ſcilicet audiuit verba eius conſolatoria. Primo, vt daret ſua Deo, à quo habet omnia. Secundo, vt redderet ei ſeruitium corporis ſui, qui ſanguinem ſuum fudit pro eo. Tertio, vt non alienaret animam ſuam a Deo ſuo, qui eam creauit, & redemit. Iſtis auditis, & diligenter conſideratis, appropinquant ei, nunc ſerui Dei, & placent, & elongant ſe ab eo ſerui mundi. Sed nunc anima eius eſt, quaſi Virgo, quæ de brachio ſponſi ſui nouiter ſurrexit, quæ tenetur habere tria. Primo veſtes decoras, ne forte derideatur a famulis Regis, ſi in veſtibus deprehenditur aliqua deformitas. Secundo debet eſſe morigerata, iuxta voluntatem ſponſi, ne ſi aliquid in actibus ſuis inueniatur inhoneſtũ, dehoneſtetur ſponſus propter eam. Tertio debet eſſe mundiſſima, vt ſponſus non inueniat in ea vnam maculam, propter quam contemni, & repudiari poſſit. Deinde habeat ductores ad cubiculum ſponſi ſui, ne forte in ambitibus, vel in ſubtili aditu errare contingat. Qui vero ductor eſſe debet, duo habeat. Primo, vt videatur a ſequente. Secundo, vt audiatur quid docet, & quo itur. Ille autem qui ſequitur aliquem præcedentem tria tenetur habere. Primo, vt non ſit ſegnis, & piger in ſequendo. Secundo, vt non abſcondat ſe a præcedente. Tertio, vt diligentius attendat, & conſideret veſtigia præceſſoris, & eum ſollicite ſequatur. Ergo anima eius, vt ad cubiculum ſponſi perueniat, neceſſe eſt, vt a ductore ducatur, qui eam ad ſponſum ſuum Deum feliciter perducat.

NOTAE.

1 TErtio cogita quomodo deponebatur de cruce, hi duo, qui deponebant eum de cruce tres applicabant ſcalas.

In præſenti Capite modus deſcribitur, quo Redemptor noſter Chriſtus de cruce depoſitus fuit, qua de re Euangeliſtæ nil aliud ſcriptum reliquerunt, niſi Ioſephum ab Arimathea nobilem virum obtenta à Pilato facultate depoſuiſſe corpus Domini, ſic Matth. 27. Marci 15. Luce 23. ex his vero, quæ hoc loco traduntur, intelligimus Chriſti Domini corpus fuiſſe de cruce depoſitum, Cruce in terra fixa manente, & erecta, non vero, quod fuerit ſimul cum corpore ſublata, & e foramine petræ euulſa, & in terram collocata, & ex his duobus modis primus, qui traditur hic probabilior eſt, quem communis Eccleſiæ pictura probat, tum quia Pilatus, qui facultatem corpus Chriſti de cruce deponendi dederat minimè exiſtimandum eſt, etiam conceſſiſſe, vt inde crux quoque tolleretur, tum etiam, vt annotauit Franciſcus Suarez in Comment. ſuper 3. par. S. Thomæ quæſt. 51. diſput. 41. ſect. 2. Tomo 2. illud eſſe in more poſitum, vt cum quiſpiã ob delictum aliquod publicum patibulo publice traditur, ſi quando corpus eius è patibulo deponitur, manet tamen patibulum, quaſi in ſignum ſupplicij ad cæterorum terrorem, & hinc deduxit accidiſſe forſitan in depoſitione Chriſti de cruce, vt eius corpus de cruce fuerit depoſitum, crux vero in proprio loco erecta maneret, vt & manſiſſe ſcribitur hic, & propterea, qui depoſuerant eum per tres ſcalas aſcenderunt ad Crucem, & ibi excuſſis è manibus, pedibuſque clauis Chriſti corpus depoſuerunt cruce in terra fixa, ac vt prius erecta manente, ſed hac de re plura videri poſſunt apud Emericum de Campo Doctorem Louanienſem, qui tractatum edidit de imagine CHRISTI de cruce depoſiti, & in ſinu matris funerali linteo involuti. Idem ille probat F. Daniel Millonius in elucidationibus stigmatum sacrosanctæ dominicæ impress. cap. 1. n. 12. vbi asserit, quod si tunc crux humi basisset, non proprie Christus de cruce depositus diceretur, sed clavis remissis, diceretur a cruce sublatus, depono enim verbum significat quasi deorsum pono.

2 Ille alius ascendit scalam, quæ tendebatur ad pedes, & excussit clavos pedibus.

var. lect. Hic textus cum M. S. colire Fornesium sic reprehendendus est. Ille alius ascendit scalam, quæ protendebatur ad pedes, & excussit clavos de pedibus.

3 Et sic nos tres patefactum est nobis ad quandam petram, quæ linteo mundo perfecte erat tecta.

Hoc loco duo nobis breviter inuestiganda sunt. Primo, qui fuerint tres, qui Christum de cruce deposuerunt. Secundo quid sentiendum sit de linteo illo mundo, quo Christi corpus fuisse obvolutum legimus hic, & quantum spectat ad primum, dicendum est, illos tres fuisse Beatissimam Virginem, Iosephum, & Nicodemum, & de Beatissima Virgine, licet Evangelistæ nihil dixerint; pie tamen credendum est depositionem filij suimet crucis pium opus dedisse, & maternis manibus tunc temporis collum nasse sicut scribitur hic, & admonuit Card. Baronius tomo 1. annalium anno Christi 34. Et nos tradidimus lib. 7. revelat. cap. 15. nota 5. & fauet Suarez loco superiori nota citato, alij vero duo, quorum hic mentio fit, & Iosephum, & Nicodemum extitisse, ex sacris litteris colligi potest. Matt. 27. Marci 15. Lucæ 23. qui de hac depositione ab his facta verba facientes, sic loquuti sunt, tulit, vel deposuit corpus Iesu, quæ verba indicant manibus propriis id ab his factum esse, & quanquam fuerint mirabiles, est tamen rationi, ac religioni magis consentaneum, vt illud per seipsos, non per alios fecerint, cum ad id pietatis, & charitatis affectu moverentur. de linteo autem Matt. 27. & Marcus 15. cap. scribunt, Iosephum ab Arimathea, postquam depositum corpus Iesu illud involuisse in syndone munda, de qua in præsenti nota fermo fit, hanc autem summo honore in Ecclesia Taurinensi asservari omnes norunt, & ea est, qua corporis Christi Domini delibuta unguento in sepulchro posita fuit, quæ & in se imaginem Christi habet expressam. de hac syndone plura extant apud Alphonsum Paleottum Archiepiscopum Bononiensem in libro quem Iesu Christi stigmata sacræ syndoni impressa inscripsit, multa etiam de ea congerit F. Daniel Millonius in elucidationibus eiusdem libri. cæterum fuisse in more positum apud Iudæos, & Christianos vt defunctorum corpora linteo obvoluerentur asseverant Dionysius Alexandrinus epistola ad fratres quæ extat apud Eusebium lib. 7. hist. cap. 17. & ex D. Hieron. epist. 49. ad Innocentium, & D. Athan. in vita S. Antonij, verum si quis rationem aliquam quærat, quapropter Christi corpus in sydone hac fuerit involutum D. Thomas 3. p. q. 51. art. 2. in fine, ad tertium huius facti litteralem causam reddens, dicit hoc fuisse conuenientissimum ob quam dam honestatem, moraliter vero significatum esse illa facta, nos simplicibus, ac rudioribus rebus curiosos esse debere, mistica vero eius esse potest, quod voluerit Deus nobis inde insinuare, Christum pure mente, ac simplici animo esse suscipiendum, quam ob causam ab Ecclesia statutum est, vt corpus Domini tantum in panno linteo consecretur, vt habetur Concilium Rhemense cap. 3. apud Burchardum, lib. 3. cap. 98. & cap. consulto de consecrat. d. 1. Rabanus Maurus lib. de instit. clericorum cap. 33. D. Hieron. in Matt. cap. 27. Beda in Marcum cap. 15. Innocentius 3. lib. 2. de misteriis Missæ c. 36. 4 Sciebam enim pro certo, quod in tumulo non putresceret.

Beatissimam Virginem fuisse de sui filij resurrectione penitus certam ex his verbis colligunt, idcirco affirmant, non fuisse linteum, quo corpus eius erat involutum, eo quod omnino credebat illud in sepulchro non esse incinerandum, & hoc est, quod 1 psal. 15. David testatur, non dabis sanctum tuum videre corruptionem, quod D. Aug. exponens, ait, inquit sanctificatum corpus, per quod & alij sancti fiendi sunt, corrumpi patieris, idem in epistola 120. ad Honoratum, & quamplures alij sacrarum litterarum interpretes super eundem psal. vt Hieron. & Basil. & Theodoretus, & in eodem sensu interpretatus est hunc locum Paulus Act. 13. vbi probat non posse de Davide illa verba intelligi, dicit enim David in sua generatione cum administrasset voluntatem Dei, dormiuit, & appositus est ad patres suos, & vidit corruptionem, quem vero Deus suscitauit non vidit corruptionem, & colligit hoc etiam D. Thomas ex illis verbis eiusdem psal. quæ vtilitas in sanguine meo dum descendo in corruptionem, quasi dicat, si corpus meum putrefieret perderetur effusi sanguinis vtilitas, quod confirmat ipse pluribus rationibus 3. p. q. 51. art. 3. hoc idem videat Damascenus lib. 3. de fide, cap. 28. Suarez. & alij in 3. d. 21. q. 2. Ludolphus de vita Christi 2. p. cap. 68. non longe a principio capitis, Iacobus de Valentia in psalm. 15.

Manuscriptus habet, Idest audiuit misericordiæ eius verba, sic etiam infra legimus alium scripturam vidit, idest audiuit. qua loco lector aduertat verbum videre, sæpi pro audire: sic etiam in sacris litteris vnum pro alio sumitur frequenter. vt Exo. 20. Populus autem videbat voces, hoc est audiebat; sic etiam 2. Cor. 12. Paulus audiuit arcana verba, ibi namque audire, est videre, quia tunc Apost. per eam visionem, instructus est de mysterijs gratiæ, tanquam per doctrinam altissimi magisterij.

VER-

VERBA DOCTRINAE Virginis gloriosæ ad filiam de spirituali, & temporali sapientia, & quam ipsarum quis debeat imitari, & qualiter spiritualis sapientia post paucos labores ducit hominem ad perpetuã consolationem, temporalis vero ad æternam damnationem.

CAP. XXII.

1 MARIA loquebatur. Scribitur, quod qui vult sapiẽs esse addiscat sapientiam à sapiente. Vnde per exemplum dico tibi, quasi esset vnus, qui volens addiscere sapientiam, vidit duos magistros ante se stare, ad quos ait: Libentissime addiscerem sapientiam, si scirem, quo me duceret, qualem haberet utilitatem, & qualem finem. Respondit alter magistrorum, si meam sapientiam sequi volueris, dicet te in altissimum montem, sed in via duritia lapidum est sub pedibus, difficultas, & præruptum est in ascensu. Si laboraueris in ista sapientia, habebis quod exterius est tenebrosum, sed intus fulgidum. Si tenueris eam firmiter, habebis quod vis. Sed quasi circulus circumuoluitur, & attrahet te sibi magis, ac magis, dulciter, ac dulcius, donec lætitia ab omni parte tempore suo perfundaris. Secundus magister ait. Si sapientiam meam secutus fueris, ducet te in vallem floridam, & ex omni terræ fructu amœnam. Mollicia est in via sub pedibus, & in descensu modicus labor. Si perstiteris in ista sapientia habebis, quod extra est fulgidum, sed cum frui eo volueris fugiet a te, habebis etiam quod non durat, sed statim finitur, & cum liber perlectus fuerit, simul & liber, & lectura annihilatur, & vacuus relinqueris. Quibus auditis cogitabat ille secum. Audito hic duo mirabilia, si ascendero in montem debilitantur pedes, & grauatur dorsum. Si vero obtinuero, quod extra est obscurum, quid mihi prodest? Si autem laborauero, in quod nullum habebo finem, quando tunc erit consolatio? Alter quoque magister promittit, quod fulgidum est extra, sed non manfurum, sapientiam
2 cum lectura finituram. Quæ ergo mihi var. in istis utilitas, si carent stabilitate? Cunq; lect. sic cogitabat in animo, affuit eximpromiso quidam homo inter duos magistros, & ait. Licet mons altus est, & difficilis est in ascensu, tamen supra montem nubes est lucida, ex qua habebis refrigerium. Si autem, quod promittitur exterius est tenebrosum, frangi quidem potest, 3 & sic obtinebis aurum, var. quod intus latet, quod cum lætitia æternaliter lect. possidere. Duo isti magistri duplex est sapientia, spiritualis videlicet, & carnalis. Spiritualis est voluntatem propriam Deo relinquere, & toto desiderio, & opere in cælestia suspirare. Non enim veraciter sapientia dici potest, nisi cum verbis concordat opus, hæc sapientia ducit ad vitam beatam. Sed ista sapientia est petrosa in perueniendo, & prærupta in ascendendo. Durum quippe est, & petrosum videtur, affectionibus suis resistere. Præruptum est consueta delectabilia calcare, mundi honorem non amare. Quamuis autem sic difficile est. Attamen quicunque cogitat secum, quia tempus breue est, & mundus finiturus, animumque constanter firmauerit ad Deum, huic supra 1 montem apparebit nubes, idest, consolatio Spiritu sancti. Is denique erit dignus consolatione, qui non alium consolatorem quærit nisi Deum. Quomodo enim incepissent tam ardua, & amara omnes electi Dei, nisi bonæ voluntati hominis, tanquam instrumento bono cooperatus fuisset spiritus Dei? Hunc autem spiritum adduxit eis voluntas bona, inuitauit diuina charitas, quam habebant ad Deum, quia laborabant voluntate, & affectu, donec opere fiebant fortes. Adepta vero consolatione spiritus, obtinebatur, & mox aurum diuinæ delectationis, & charitatis, quia non solum patiebantur multa contraria, sed in patiendo considerata retributione delectabantur. Hæc delectatio videtur mundi amatoribus tenebrosa, quia diligunt tenebras. Dei vero amatoribus lucidior est sole, & fulgentior auro, quia frangunt tenebras vitiorum, & ascendunt in montem patientiæ, contemplantes nubẽ consolationis, quæ non finitur, sed incipit in præsenti, & quasi circulus circumuoluitur, donec veniat ad perfectionem. Mundi vero sapientia ducit ad vallem huius miseriæ, quę florida videtur abundantia rerum, amœna in honoribus, mollis in voluptate. Ista sapientia citius finitur, nec aliquid plus vtilitatis habet, nisi quod solum modo videbat, & audiebat. Ergo filia mea inquire sapientiam a sapiente, idest, a filio meo. Ipse quippe est sapientia, a quo est omnis sapientia, circulus ille ipse est, qui nunquam terminatur. Ego clamo ad te quasi mater ad filium, dilige sapientiam, quæ intus est, quasi aurũ extra contemptibilis, Intus feruens charitate, extra laboriosa, & opere fructuosa, & ſi turbaris ex onere, ſpiritus Dei erit conſolator tuus. Accede, & conare tanquam homo progrediens donec aſueſcit, non retrocedas, donec venias ad montis ſummitatē, Nihil enim tam difficile eſt, quod in continuatione ſtabili, & rationabili non erit facile. Nihil tam honeſtum in principio agreſſionis, quod ex imperfectione conſummationis non obfuſcetur. Ergo accede ad ſpiritualem ſapientiam, hæc ducet te ad labores corporis, ad mundi contemptum, ad modicam tribulationem, & perpetuam conſolationem. Mundi vero ſapientia fallax eſt, & pungitiua, hæc ducet te ad temporalium congregationem, & ad præſentem honorem, ſed in fine ad maximam infelicitatem, niſi ſollicite præuidcatur, & caueatur.

NOTAE.

1 SCribitur, quod qui vult ſapiens eſſe addiſcat ſapientiam à ſapiente.

Sic enim Eccleſiaſtici cap. 8. legimus Ne deſpicias narrationem Presbyterorum Sapientum, & in Prouerbijs eorum conuerſare, ab ipſis enim diſces ſapientiam, & doctrinam. Hoc loco de ſpirituali, & temporali ſapientia agitur, & vtriuſque diſcrimen diligenter excutitur, atque eas ad inuicem differre potiſſimum docet Beatiſſima Virgo hic, primo quidem, quia ſpiritualis ſapientia aliqualem in principio videtur habere laborem, in fine tamen quietem maximam, ac guſtum affert, temporalis vero è contra in initio voluptates policetur, in fine tamen animi ſollicitudinem, & rancorem præſtat, Secundo, quia ſpiritualis ſapientia ducit homines ad æternam requiem, temporalis vero ad perpetuam damnationem. deſcribitur autem hic circa medium preſentis Capitis ſpiritualis ſapientia, & dicitur, quod eſt, voluntatem propriam Deo relinquere, & toto deſiderio, & opere ad cœleſtia ſuſpirare, & hanc ſapientiam appellat primam ſcientiam D Greg Nazian. in Apologetico, quam aliud non eſſe tradit ubique quam vitā laudabilem. & apud Deum mentem puram, per quā puri puro inguntur, & ſancti ſancto ſociantur, ſed d. Leo ſerm. de Epiphania Domini ſcribit, diuinam hanc ſapientiam, non in abundantia verbi, nec in aſtutia diſputandi, neque in appetitu laudis, & gloria, ſed in vera humilitate conſiſtere: plura etiam de illa habet Aug. lib. 14. de Trinit. cap. 11. Qualis autem temporalis ſapientia ſit, explicat D Gregor. lib. 10 Moral. cap. 27. exponens illud Iob 12. deridetur iuſti ſimplicitas: ſapientia, inquit, mundi eſt eos machinationibus regere, ſenſui verbis velare, quæ falſa ſunt vera oſtendere, quæ vera ſunt falſa demonſtrare, quæ de re fuſe agit D Bern. ſer. 36. in Cant. & Paul Apoſt. 1. Cor. 2. hanc vocat ſapientiā huius ſæculi. ſapientiam inquit, non huius ſæculi, neque principum huius ſæculi, qui deſtruuntur, ſed loquimur Dei ſapientiam in miniſterio, quod abſconditum eſt, cæterum hæc temporalis ſapientia à B. Iacobo Apoſtolo in ſua Canonica pariter appellata eſt terrena, animalis, & diabolica, terrena quidem, inquantum, per eam anima terrena gloriam quærit, & procedit ex concupiſcentia oculorum. Animalis vero in quantum procedit ex concupiſcentia carnis. Poſtremo diabolica dicitur, in quantum per dæmonis ſuggeſtionem comparatur, vel quia procedit ex ſuperbia mea, & ideo mundana ſapientia vocatur, quia omnia, quæ ſunt in mundo ad iſta tria reducuntur, ſic annotarunt Lyranus, & Beda Iacobi 4.

2 var. lect. Et aliquanto poſt, vbi in vulgatis legitur, Quæ ergo mihi in iſtis vtilitas, ſi carent ſtabilitate.

Farneſianus Codex M S. habet, Quæ ergo in iſtis habilitas, ſi deſit vtilitas, ut magis lectio magis probatur, & quadrat ſenſui, quæ ſequidem agitur de temporali ſapientia, quia non habet ſtabilitatem aliquam, & cito peritura ſupra legimus.

3 var. lect. Et ſic obtinebis aurum, quod intus latet, quod cum lætitia æternaliter poſſidere.

Hæc deſideruntur verbum poterit quod Farneſianus Codex addit, Et ergo, quod cum lætitia eam minime poſſidere poterit.

VERBA VIRGINIS GLOriosæ ſuæ humilitatis declarationis ad filiam, & qualiter humilitas per mantellum deſignatur, & de conditionibus verę humilitatis, & de eius fructu mirabili.

CAP. XXIII.

MVLTI mirantur, cur tecum loquor. Certe ideo vt humilitas mea oſtendatur. Sicut enim cor de membro corporis infirmo non gaudet antequam ipſum receperit ſanitatem, & recepta ſanitate plus lætatur. Sic ego quantumcumque homo peccat, ſi ex toto corde, & vera emendatione ad me reuerſus fuerit, ſtatim paratus ſum recipere reuertentem. Nec attendo quantum peccauerit, ſed cum quali intentione, & voluntate redit. Ego vocor ab omnibus Mater miſericordiæ, vere filia miſericordiæ filij mei fecit me miſericordem, & miſericordia eius viſā compatientem. Ideo miſer erit, qui ad miſericordiam eum poſſit non accedit. Ergo tu filia mea veni, & abſconderte ſub mantello meo, hic eſt exterius contemptibilis, intus vero vilis pro-

pretendi? Nihil enim dubitabit rex, quin Aman-dolorum hominem meum in regem conspiret.
Quis enim alius tam audax esse potest, qui Mardochæo hostis esse velit, nisi qui mihi ipsi mortal. amicitiam vult exercere? Quo-circa si quæ fecisti ab amicis, ea non sunt ejus cujus petitio affecta est mortis: tuus enim est, qui ad te confugit, non ejus, qui ante quam tuus fieret, infensus fuit. Cæterum quidquid regi dixeris, quod mihi conducat, id ego libenter audiam. Quod si tu ipse hanc causam mihi tuendam susceperis, facilius id fiet. Nam et ego ipse, quæ tu mihi dixeris, ea regi dicam, et tu ipse, quæ ego tibi dixero, ea regi dicito. Ita fiet, ut ego quidem ab illo gratiam inveniam, tu vero ab utroque.

VII. Et respondens ei: Quid, ait, opus est verbis? Ego, si placet, ingrediar, et ipse pro me dicam, et tu mihi, si quid voluero, suggeres.
Ingressus ergad regem Esther, et ante pedes ejus procidens, ut mos erat, cum lacrymis dixit: Si inveni, rex, gratiam in oculis tuis, et si placet tibi, et si mihi expedit, ut vivam, pro qua rogo, et pro populo meo, quem tradidit Aman, ut occidatur, et deleatur, et pereat omnis tribus ejus, quæ est mihi ge-nere et sanguine conjuncta. Non enim ut mancipium, aut ancillam, aut famulum vendidit me, ut tacere debuerim, quia nihil tam pretiosum est, quod emi possit, quam libera mens, et ingenua servitus: sed ut omnis gens mea pereat, et ego cum ea.

Alij verò ambulant in tenebris, & delectabilius eis videtur, eſſe in tenebris, quam viam inquirere, per quam venire poſſent ad lucem. Propterea ſponſa mea congregemus in domos noſtras hæc tria, ſcilicet bonam voluntatem, præmeditationem diuinam, & diuinam ſapientiam. Hæc enim ſunt, ex quibus lætari debemus, licet autem te moneo, attamen omnes electos meos in mundo in te noto, quia anima iuſti ſponſa mea eſt, ego enim Creator ſum, & Redemptor.

NOTAE.

1 SEd potes quærere, quid notat panis iſte nunquid noto panem, qui in Altari eſt hic, vtique ante verba illa, Hoc eſt corpus meum, panis eſt, ſed dicto verbo illo, non eſt panis, ſed corpus meum.

De tranſubſtantiationis materia, & qua ratione de ea loquendum ſit, & de propoſitionibus quibuſdam, quæ vel concedenda, vel neganda ſunt egimus ſupra lib. 1. cap. 48. nota 3. vbi à nobis afferuntur plura, quæ ad intelligentiam huius textus facere videntur.

2 Sed panis, quem in domum noſtram congregare debemus, eſt voluntas bona, & ſincera.

Quemadmodum eorum quibus homo nutritur, & paſcuur panis præcipuum eſt alimentum, cuius conſueuerunt homines tempore meſſis tantumdem ſibi prouidere, quantum eo anno illis ſufficere poſſit ad victum, ita quoque Chriſtiano homini toto vitæ ſuæ tempore voluntas bona, veluti quodam alimentum neceſſarium eſt, ſine qua ſpiritualem vitam traducere nequaquam poteſt, quandoquidè ab optima voluntate concurrente gratia Dei, bona emanant opera, mala vero à prana: atque hunc eſſe panem, quem comediſſe inimicum ſcripſit Hierem. cap. 5. Diabolus enim panem noſtrum, hoc eſt, opera bona peccantibus nobis comedit, & auſert, quod etiam annotauit D. Auguſt. ſerm. Domini in monte 2. Lyranus, & Gloſſ. ordinar. in locum citatum Hieremiæ, & hic eſt panis bonæ voluntatis, cuius hic mentio fit, quem indomum noſtram congregare debemus.

Quid eſt autem edulium hoc, vtique ſapientia diuina.

Hoc loco non de rerum diuinarum cognitione agitur, quam homines ſacrarum litterarum ſtudijs ſibi comparare ſtudent, nec de ea ſapientia, quæ humanis rationibus quæritur, ſed quæ bonorum operationibus comparatur, quæque in actione potius conſiſtit, quam in contemplatione, quæque, vt ait D. Gregor. Nazianzenus in Apolog. de virtutibus animi commonet, & præloquitur, quæ plura in ſuis libris, atque operibus oſtendit, fidemque verbis operum ſuorum adſtipulatione confirmat; hæc Greg. atque de hac ſapientia Chriſtum Dominum cum S. Brigitta loqui hic, patet aperte; hoc eodem capite ab quanto poſt his verbis (diuina enim ſapientia non eſt præciſe in literatura, ſed in corde, & bona vita) & hanc eam eſſe arbitror, quam habere Paulus Apoſtolus profitebatur 1. Corinth. 2. cum dixit, non enim iudicaui me aliquid ſcire inter vos, niſi Ieſum Chriſtum, & hunc Crucifixum, vnde Theodoretus exponens illud Hieremiæ 5. Sapientes ſunt, vt faciant mala, illam aſſerit eſſe veram ſapientiam, quæ cum timore Dei coniungitur, vbi autem inſidiæ, & terginerſatio eſt, non ſapientia, ſed verſutia, & calliditas vocatur.

4 Alij ſunt inſipientes ad mundi delectabilia, & honorem eius, & ſapientes ad conſiderandum, quæ Dei ſunt.

Ad horum intelligentiam notanda ſunt, quæ tradit Origen. lib. 10. in Epiſtola ad Romanos cap. 16. vbi explanans illa verba Apoſtoli, volo vos ſapientes eſſe in bono, & ſimplices in malo, reſpondet obiectioni cuiuſdam, qui quærebat quomodo fieri poſſet, vt vnus, & idem ſit ſapiens, & inſipiens, prout etiam legimus hic, reſpice inquit, ad artes illas, quæ in vſum hominum habentur, quomodo ille, qui ſapientiſſimus eſt grammaticus, in arte fabrili inſipientiſſimus eſt, vel rurſus ſapientiſſimus gubernator, quomodo in arte medicinæ inuenitur inſipiens, ſic ergo poſſibile eſt in his, quæ ad Deum pertinent eſſe ſapientem, in his, quæ ad ſæculum inſipientem hactenus Origenes, ex cuius verbis præſentis mihi ſenſus aperte colligi poteſt, quibus & nos addimus ſapientem eſſe in bono, vt dicit Apoſtolus aliud non eſſe, quam ſapientem ſe exhibere ad conſiderandâ, quæ Dei ſunt, diſcernendo etiam pretioſum à vili, virtutem à vitio, verum à falſo, ſimplicem vero in malo, eſt eſſe inſipientem ad mundi delectabilia, hoc eſt, ignarum, nec aptum ad ea, ita vt nec per approbationem ſciamus ea, nec per ſedulam inquiſitionem diſcamus, nec per operationem experiamur.

VERBA ADMONITIONIS vitæ Virginis ad filiam, & Christi ad sponsam de vestimentis habendis in secunda domo, & qualiter per talia vestimenta pax Dei, & proximi, & opera misericordiæ, & abstinentia pura designantur, & omnium istorum declaratio optima.

CAP. XXVI.

MARIA loquebatur. Imprime tibi monile passionis filij mei, sicut iste sanctus Laurentius impressit sibi. Ipse enim cogitabat quotidie in mente sua sic, Deus meus ipse est Dominus meus, ego vero seruus. Ipse Dominus Iesus Christus fuit nudatus, & derisus, quomodo ergo decet, vt ego seruus vestiar delicatioribus? Ipse fuit flagellatus, & affixus ligno, non decet ergo, vt ego qui seruus sum, si vere seruus sum, sim absque dolore, & tribulatione. Cumque igitur super prunas extenderetur, & cum adeps liquidus in ignem decurreret, & omnia membra ignis inflammaret, respexit oculis in cælum dicens. Benedictus sis tu Deus meus, & Creator meus Iesu Christe, ego cognosco me non bene in diebus meis vixisse, cognosco etiam me in honore tuo modicum fecisse. Ideo quia misericordia tua maxima est, rogo te, vt facias mecum secundum misericordiam tuam, & cum illo verbo anima à corpore separata est. Ecce filia mea, qui tantum filium meu dilexit, qui talia pro honore eius passus est adhuc indignum se dixit obtinere cælum. Quomodo ergo illi digni sunt, qui secundum voluntatem suam viuunt? Propterea considera semper passionem filij mei, & sanctorum eius. Non enim sine causa tanta passi sunt, sed vt alijs exemplum viuendi darent, & vt ostenderent quantam districtionem filius meus pro peccatis exiget, qui non minimum peccatum vult esse sine emendatione. Deinde filius veniens loquebatur sponsæ dicens. Dixi tibi prius quæ debent esse in domibus nostris. Inter cætera enim debent tibi esse vestes sub triplici genere. Primo vestimentum lineum, quod nascitur, & crescit de terra. Secundo pelliceum, quod fit de animalibus. Tertio sericum, quod fit de vermibus. Lineum vestimentum habet duo bona. Primo molle est, & lene ad nuda corporis. Secundo non perdit colorem suum, sed quo frequentius abluitur, tanto fit mundius. Secundum vestimentum, scilicet pelliceum etiam habet duo. Primo cooperit turpitudinem, secundo calefacit contra frigus. Tertium vestimentum, scilicet sericum habet etiam duo. Primo videtur esse valde pulchrum, & delicatum. Secundo valde charum ad emendum. Lineum vero indumentum, quod ad nuda corporis habile est, notat pacem, & concordiam. Hanc debet deuota anima habere ad Deum, vt pacem habeat cum Deo suo, nihil aliud, vel aliter volendo, quam quod Deus. Non ex
1 arcebando eum per peccata, 1 quia inter
var. Deum, & animam non est pax, nisi peccare lect. desistatur, & concupiscentia refrenetur. Debet etiam pacem habere ad proximum, scilicet non inferendo ei mala, succurrendo ei si habet, sufferendo si contra eum peccaue 2 rit. 2 Quid enim infelicius distendit animã
var. quam semper peccatum appetere, & nunlect. quam eo repleri, semper desiderare, & nunquam quiescere? Quid vero amarius pungit animam, quam contra proximum irasci, & bonis eius inuidere? Ideo pacem debet anima habere ad Deum, & ad proximum, quia nihil quietius esse potest, quam quiescere a peccato, & non sollicitari de mundo. Nihil etiam lenius, quam gaudere de bono proximi, & ei velle, quod sibi ipsi. Hoc quoque lineum indumentum debet esse ad nuda corporis, quia cordi, in quo Deus quiescere vult, pax vicinior inter cæteras virtutes propinquius, & principalius inhærere debet. Hæc enim est virtus, quæ Deum inducit in cor, & introductum tenet. Quæ pax tanquam lineum nascitur, & crescit de terra, quia vera pax, & patientia oritur de consideratione infirmitatis propriæ. Homo enim qui de terra est consideret infirmitatẽ suam, scilicet quod statim irascitur, si offenditur, quod statim dolet si læditur, & si sic cogitauerit non faciat alteri, quod ipse non potest perfectaliter ferre, cogitando secum, quia sicut ego, sic & proximus meus infirmus est. Sicut ergo nolo talia pati, sic nec ipse potest. Tunc pax non amittit colorem suum, ideſt, stabilitatem suam, sed eo fit constantior, quia consideratio infirmitatis proximi in seipso, facit hominem benuole tolerare illata. Si autem per impatientiam pax denigratur aliquo modo, tanto fit candidior apud Deum, quanto frequentius, & citius lauatur per pœnitentiam. Fit etiam lætior, & cautior ad ferendum, quo plus exasperantur, & frequentius abluitur, quia gaudet de spe retributionis, quam sperat sibi futuram propter pacem, & eo sollicitius cauet sibi, ne per impatientiam cadat. Secundum vestimentum, scilicet pelliceum no-

tat

ere opera adhærentia. Quo quidem vellimento probabiliter & pulchre memoratum examinari; (quid Deus mentis sibi locutione intenderit) quia ipse Deus, qui verpellam talem non curat, quando opera reli-gionis ex ea non damnabiliter fiunt, & bona.

Ibi. 2. Fornicationes. Prius enumerat vitia exteriora, & peccatorum, & mentium causas in medio positas, & postea ipsa expressa. Secunda debuisset mentem dicere, Regum. Quid ergo mentis sibi ostenderetur per regem? Ipse Deus, qui est Rex Regum, regens omnia subditorum, ac pro-prium mentem, ac regnum diffidentiæ. Per Regum verum quoque Christum, & ipsa Scripturæ veteris appropriatum. Tertium Regum Ecclesiam militantem, & ipsa Ecclesiæ militantis, quæ sola charitate ad consolationem diffidentiæ potest. Hoc

Christus de Maria Virgine, & vermis tamen non homo dicitur, quare vermis, quia mortalis, quia de carne natus, quia sine concubitu natus, quare non homo, quia, in principio erat Verbum, idem habet Epistola 49. ad Deo gratias, & Epistola 120. ad Honoratum, & tradit Origen. hom. 14. super Lucam, D. Dionysius de caelesti Hierarchia cap. 2. Hieronymus super Psal. 21. & ibidem Theodoretus, Cassiodorus, Iacobus de Valentia, & alij plures, quæ infra de eadem re lib. 4. Revelat. cap. 99. nota prima.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam, de instrumentis in tertia domo reponendis, & qualiter per talia instrumenta bonæ cogitationes sensus disciplinati, & vera confessio designantur, & omnium istorum optima declaratio, & de clausura istarum domorum in generali.

CAP. XXVII.

ILIVS Dei loquebatur ad sponsam dicens. Dixi tibi prius, quod in tertia domo deberent esse instrumenta sub triplici genere. Primo instrumenta, in quibus infundentur liquores. Secundo instrumenta quibus terra foris præparetur, vtputa rastrum, & securis, & huiusmodi quibus contrafacta restaurentur. Tertio instrumenta viua, sicut asini, & equi, & similia, quibus, & viua, & mortua promoueantur. In prima autem domo, in qua sunt liquores, debent esse duo instrumentorum genera. Primo instrumenta, in quibus infundantur liquores fluidi, & dulces sicut aqua, & oleum, vinum, & huiusmodi. Secundo instrumenta, in quibus infundantur liquores amari, & spissi, sicut synapis, & farina, & consimilia. Nunquid potes tu intelligere, quid ista significant? Liquores certe significant cogitationes animæ bonas, & malas. 1 Cogitatio enim bona est, sicut oleum dulce, & sicut vinum delectabile. 2 Cogitatio vero mala est, sicut synapis amara, quia amaram facit animam, & turbidam. Et sicut homo quandoque habet necesse de liquoribus spissis, qui licet nō multū proficiunt ad corporis sustentationem, prosunt tamen ad corporis, & cerebri purgationem, & sanationem. Sic etiam cogitationes malæ sunt, quia quāuis non impinguant, & satiant animam, vt oleum bonarum cogitationum, tamen proficiunt ad animæ purgationem, sicut synapis ad purgationem cèrebri. Nisi enim non quandoq. interuenirent cogitationes male, tunc homo esset Angelus, & non homo, & putaret homo omnia habere a seipso. Ideo vt homo intelligat infirmitatem suam, quam habet a seipso, & fortitudinem quam habet a me, necesse est, vt permittatur ex magna misericordia, quandoq. tentari cogitationibus malis, quibus si homo non cōsentit, purgatio sunt animæ, & custodia virtutum suarū. Et licet amaræ sint quasi synapis, ad ferēdum tamen multum sanant animam, & ducunt eam ad æternam vitam, & sanitatem, quæ nō potest haberi sine amaritudinibus. Ergo vasa animæ, vbi cogitationes bonę reponentur sedule præparentur, & continue mundentur, quia vtile est, vt etiam cogitationes malæ adueniant propter probationem, & maius meritum, laboret autem anima diligenter, ne cōsentiat eis, vel delectetur in eis. Alioquin dulcedo, & incrementum animæ effundetur, & sola amaritudo remanebit. In secunda domo debent esse instrumenta etiā sub duplici genere. Primo instrumenta exteriora, quibus terra foris præparetur ad semen, & spinæ eradicentur, vtputa aratrum, & rastrum. Secundo instrumenta vtilia ad necessaria interiora, & exteriora, vtputa securis, & consimilia. Instrumenta autem quibus terra excolitur significant sensus hominis, qui ad vtilitatem proximi, tanquam aratrum ad terram ordinandi sunt. Mali enim homines sunt, sicut terra, quia terrena semper cogitant. Ipsi namque sunt arida a compunctione pro peccatis suis, quia peccatum nihil reputant. Ipsi sunt frigidi in diuina charitate, quia nihil nisi suam voluntatem quærunt. Ipsi sunt ponderosi ad agendum bona, quia alacres sunt, pro honore mundi. Ideo vir bonus istos excolere debet per sensus exteriores, sicut & bonus rusticus terram excolit per aratrum. Primo enim debet excolere per os suum, loquendo eis vtilia animæ, & informando ad viam vitæ. Deinde opere faciendo bona, quæ poterit, vt proximus informetur per verba, & excitetur ad faciendum bona. Deinde excolet reliquis membris proximum suum, vt fructifer fiat, scilicet oculis simplicibus, ne videat impudica, vt proximus impudicus addiscat in omnibus membris modestiā. Auribus suis excolat, ne audiat inepta, & pedibus, vt alacer sit ad opus Dei. Huic terræ sic exculte ego dans pluuiam gratiæ meę per laborem excolentis tribuam, & gaudebit laborans de fructu terræ prius aridæ cum cœperit germinare. Instrumenta vero quæ ad interiora præparanda necessaria sunt, sicut securis, & consimilia, significāt intentionem discretam, & diuinam discussionem operis sui.

ſui. Quia quicquid boni homo fecerit, non debet facere propter honores, & laudem hominum, ſed ex diuina charitate ad æternam retributionem. Ideo examinet homo diligẽter opera ſua qua intentione, & qua mercede hæc fecit, & ſi inuenerit in opere ſuo aliquam ſuperbiam, abſcidat ſtatim ſecuri diſcretionis, vt ſicut foris excolit proximum ſuum, qui quaſi extra domum eſt, ideſt, extra ſocietatem amicorum meorum per opera mala, ſic intus per diuinam charitatem fructificet ſibi. Quia ſicut opus ruſtici, qui non habuit inſtrumenta, quibus repararet deſtructa citius erit in uacuum. Sic niſi diſcreta diſcretione, homo examinet opera ſua quomodo alleuientur, ſi laborioſa videntur, quomodo reparentur, ſi franguntur, non peruenient ad profectum. Propterea non ſolum laborandum eſt efficaciter exterius, ſed & intus ſollicite conſiderandum quomodo, & qua intentione laboratur. In tertia domo debent eſſe inſtrumenta viua, quæ promoueant mortua, & viua, ſcilicet equi aſini, & alia animalia. Hæc inſtrumenta ſunt confeſſio vera. Ipſa enim eſt, quæ viua, & mortua promouet. Quid notat viuum niſi animam, quæ Deitate mea creata eſt, & in æternum viuit. Ipſa enim per confeſſionem verã, quotidie magis, ac magis appropinquat Deo. Sicut enim animal, quo frequentius, & melius nutritum fuerit, tanto fortius eſt ad portandum, & pulchrius ad intuendum. Sic, & confeſſio, quo frequentius facta fuerit, & quanto diligentius tam de minimis, quam de maximis: tanto magis animam promouet, & in tantum Deo placet, quod etiam animam
8 in cor Dei inducit. 3 Quid autem ſignificat mortua, quę etiam confeſſio promouet, niſi opera bona, quę per mortale peccatum moriuntur. Nam ipſa opera bona in mortalibus peccatis morientia, mortua ſunt apud Deum, quia nullum bonum placere poterit Deo, niſi prius peccatum, vel voluntate per facta corrigatur, vel opere. Nec in vno vaſe ſuauia, & fętẽtia bene cõuenire poterunt. Si autem aliquis opera bona mortalibus peccatis mortificat, & veram confeſsionem de commiſſis aſſumpſerit, cum voluntate emẽdandi, & cauendi de cætero, mox per confeſſionẽ, & virtutem humilitatis reuiuiſcũt opera bona, quę prius fuerunt mortua, & proficiunt ei ad ſalutẽ æternam, qui ſi moritur nõ facta cõfeſſione, opera ipſa bona, quę mori, & adnihilari non poſſunt, nec tñ propter mortale peccatum æternã vitam mereri poterunt, proficiũt ei ad leuiorẽ pœnã, vel alijs ad ſalutem. Si tñ fecit ipſa opera bona cũ diuina intẽtione, & ad Dei honorem. Si vero fecit ipſa opera, propter honorem mundi, & ipſius vtilitatem, tunc ipſa opera moriente factore moriuntur, quia mercedem ſuam recepit de mundo, pro quo laborauit.
4 4 Propterea ſponſa mea, per quam intelligo omnes amicos meos, congregemus in domos noſtras illa, vnde ſpiritualiter Deus vult delectari cum anima ſancta. Primo in domum primam, ſcilicet panem ſinceræ voluntatis nihil volẽdo, niſi quod Deus. Secundo potum diuinæ præmeditationis, nil agendo, niſi ibi cogitetur Dei honor. Tertio edulium diuinæ ſapientiæ, cogitando ſemper, quæ futura ſunt, & quomodo præſentia ordinanda ſunt. In ſecundam domum congregemus pacem a peccatis ad Deum, & pacẽ a rixa ad proximum. Secundum opera miſericordiæ, quibus etiam opere vtiles ſimus proximo. Tertio abſtinentiam perfectam, qua coarceamus ea, quæ turbare volunt pacem. In tertiam domum congregemus rationabiles, & bonas cogitationes ad ornandum domum noſtram interius. Secundo ſenſus bene diſciplinatos, & temperatos, ad lucendum amicis noſtris exterius. Tertio confeſsionem veram quaſi ſi infirmamur reuiuiſcere poſſimus. Sed quamuis domus habeantur, non tamen poſſunt conſeruari congregata in eis niſi habeantur oſtia, nec oſtia poſſunt pendere ſine cardinibus, nec ſerari ſine ſeris. Ideo vt congregata maneant ſalua ponatur in domo oſtium, ſcilicet ſpes firma, vt nullius frangatur aduerſitatibus. Quę ſpes habeat duos cardines, ſcilicet, vt homo non deſperet de adipiſcenda gloria, nec de fugiendo ſupplitio, ſed in omni aduerſitate ſemper de miſericordia Dei confidens ſperet meliora. Sera autem oſtij debet eſſe diuina charitas, qua muniatur oſtiũ ne ingrediatur inimicus. Quid enim prodeſt habere oſtium ſine ſera. Quid ſpem ſine charitate? Si enim quis ſperat præſentia æterna, & deſperat de Dei miſericordia, nõ tamẽ diligit Deum, & timet, oſtium quidem habet quaſi ſine ſera, per quod inimicus capitalis ingredi poteſt cum voluerit, & occidere. Sed ſpes recta eſt, vt qui ſperat faciat etiam bona, quæ poteſt, ſine quibus non poteſt obtinere cęleſtia, ſi ſciuit, & potuit facere bona, & noluit. Si vero quis exceſſiſſe ſe intelligit, vel non feciſſe cum potuit, habeat bonam voluntatẽ faciendi bona, quæ poteſt, & quod facere non poterit, & ſperet firmiter ſe ad Deum poſſe accedere, etiam per bonã voluntatem, & diuinam charitatem. Ergo oſtium, ideſt ſpes muniatur diuina charitate, vt ſicut ſera multa habet intus retinacula, ne hoſtis aperiat, ſic in diuina charitate ſit quędã ſollicitudo ne Deus offẽdatur, ſic charitatiuus timor ne diſcedat ab eo. Feruor etiam igneus quomodo Deus diligatur, & cura quomodo imitetur. Sic et dolor, eo quod non ſufficit tantum facere ſicut vellet, & ſicut obligatum ſe intelligit. Humilitas quoque qua homo, quod agit reputat nihilum, reſpectu peccatorum ſuorũ. His retinaculis muniatur fera, ne diabolus faciliter feram charitatis aperiat, & immittat amorem ſuum. Clauis vero, qua aperitur, & clauditur fera, debet eſſe deſiderium ſolius Dei, conueniens cum diuina charitate, & diuino opere, vt ſcilicet nihil velit habere homo etiam ſi poſſet niſi Deum, & hoc propter maximam charitatem eius. Hoc enim deſiderium claudit Deum in anima, & animam in Deo, quia vna vtriuſque voluntas. Hanc vero clauem vxor, & vir debent habere ſoli, ideſt, Deus, & anima, vt quoties Deus ingredi voluerit, & delectari in bonis, ſcilicet animæ virtutibus, liberum habeat acceſſum per clauem ſtabilis deſiderij. Quocies etiam anima ingredi voluerit ad eor Dei libere poſſit, quia ipſa nihil deſiderat niſi Deum. Hæc clauis cuſtoditur per animæ vigilantiam, & humilitatis ſuæ cuſtodiam, qua Deo adſcribit omne bonum, quod habet, & cuſtoditur etiam clauis hæc per Dei potentiam, & Dei charitatem, ne anima à diabolo ſupplantetur. Ecce ſponſa mea, qualis charitas Dei eſt ad animam. Sea, ergo firmiter, & fac voluntatem meam.

NOTAE.

1 COgitatiõ enim bona eſt ſicut oleum dulce, & ſicut vinum delectabile.

Quemadmodum oleum optimum eſt cibi condimentum, quo deficiente, nec fercula ſapiunt, nec vllam comedentibus delectationem afferunt, ita quoque vinum, & guſtui ſuaue eſt, & ſua natura calidum, & quam plurimos generat ſpiritus, ſic prorſus optima cogitatio, cæterarum virtutum eſt condimentum, ſine qua opera bona Deo minime placent, nec operanti Religionis feruor adijcitur, nec charitatis ſpiritus multiplicantur, immo totus frigidus, ac tepidus, ſic operans manet, neque in ſpirituali vita quidquam proficit, & idcirco Diuus Hieronymus in Epiſtola ad Demetriadem admonet, vt aſſuefcat animus ſollicita ſemper, & pernigili cuſtodia, ſuas cogitationes diſcernere, & ad primum animi motum, vel probare, vel reprobare, quod cogitat, vt & bonas cogitationes alat, vel ſtatim malas extinguat, hinc nanque ait, fons eſt boni, & origo peccandi.

2 Cogitatio vero mala eſt, ſicut ſynapis amara.

Synapis herba eſt, aut ſemen quoddam, quod tritum, & contuſum tantum habet acrimoniam, vt etiam frequenter lacrymas excitet comedenti, ita quoque cogitatio prana, quæ vt notauimus ſupra, eum fons ſit, & radix malorum omnium, nobis ve luti ſynapis triſtitiæ, ac lacrymarum cauſas affert.

3 Quid autem ſignificant mortua, quæ etiã confeſſio promouet, niſi opera bona, quę per mortale peccatum moriuntur.

Ad huius textus intelligentiam breuiter eſt notandum ex Scholaſticis, opera noſtra poſſe dici viua, mortua, viuificata, & mortificata, hæc autem dicuntur per comparationem ad illa, quæ in naturalibus ſunt, ea enim nos viuere aſſeueramus, quibus ineſt principium vitæ, & vitalis operatio ab hoc emanans, vt brachium, vel quodpiam aliud membrum mouendo, mortuum vero, quod nec vitæ habet principium, nec operationem, habere tamen hac poterat, vt homo mortuus, mortificata autem vocamus ea, quibus quidem vitæ eſt principiũ, deeſt tamen operatio, ob aliquod impedimentum, vt ſtupidum membrum, quod non poteſt moueri ob aliquod impedimentum, habet tamen principium in ſe vitale, quod impedimentum, ſi remouerentur. Huiuſmodi membrum viuificatum diceretur, quandoquidem à mortificatione, per vitalem operationem cauſata, ad priſtinas operationes reſtitueretur. His declaratis dicendum mihi videtur, quod hic primo ſermo ſit, de bis operibus, quæ licet ex genere ſuo bona ſint, quia tamen in peccato mortali ſiunt mortua dicuntur, quandoquidem carent vitali principio, quod charitas eſt, atque ad hunc ſenſum fides ſine operibus Iacobi 2. mortua dicitur, hæc autem opera promoueri per confeſſionem legimus hic, non quidem, quod per pœnitentiam reuiuiſcant, vt de mortificatis operibus infra dicemus, quia vt auctor eſt D. CAP. XXVIII.

LILIVS loquebatur ad ſponſam dicens. Cur ſic turbaris, ex eo quod ille dixit verba mea eſſe falſa? Nunquid ego ſum eo deterior ex vituperio eius, aut fierem eo melior ex laude eius? Ego nempe immutabilis ſum, nec minui, nec augeri poſſum, nec laude indigeo. Sed homo me laudans, ex laude mea proficit non mihi, ſed ſibi ipſi. Nec vnquam de ore meo (qui ſum veritas) falſitas proceſſit, vel procedere poteſt, quia omnia quæcunque locutus ſum per Prophetas, ſiue per alios amicos meos, aut ſpiritualiter, aut corporaliter, ſicut tunc intellexi perficientur. 1 Nec ideo erant falſa, quia vnum dixi ſemel, aliud ſecundo, vnum expreſſius, aliud obſcurius, quia ad probandam fidei meæ conſtantiam, & amicorum meorum ſollicitudinem, multa oſtendi, quæ ſecundum diuerſos effectus ſpiritus mei, diuerſimode à bonis, & malis intelligi bene, & male poſſunt, vt haberent in diuerſis ſtatibus, vnde diuerſi diuerſa exercere poſſent in bono. 2 Nam ſicut deitatem meam aſſumpſi humanitatem meam in vna perſona, ſic & quandoque loquebar ex parte humanitatis meæ, inquantum ſubiecta erat deitati, quandoque ex parte deitatis inquantum creatrix erat humanitatis, vt patet ex euangelio meo. Et ſic quamuis diuerſa videantur a calumniantibus, & neſcientibus, tamen vera erant verba ſecundum veritatem. 3 Nec etiam ſine cauſa erat quod obſcure tradidi aliqua, 4 quia ſic erat iuſtitia, vt occultaretur conſilium meum aliquantulum a malis, & vnuſquiſque bonorum feruenter expectaret gratiam meam, & pro expectatione obtineret premium, ne ſi certo tempore conſilium meum inſinuatum fuiſſet, omnes ab expectatione, & charitate propter longiturnitatem temporis deſiſterent. Plurima etiam promiſi, quæ tamen a præſentibus propter ingratitudinem ſubtracta ſunt. Si enim ipſi a malitia ſua deſtitiſſent, ego vtique quod promiſeram præſtitiſſem. Ideo non debes turbari, quod verba mea arguantur mendacij. Quod enim impoſſibile videtur apud homines, hoc poſſibile eſt apud me. 5 Mirantur etiam amici mei, cur non eſt ſine cauſa. Nunquid non Moyſes miſſus erat ad Pharaonem, non tamen ſtatim oſtendebantur ſigna. Quare? Quia ſi enim ſtatim ſigna veniſſent, & opera, non manifeſta fuiſſet duritia Pharaonis, nec potentia Dei, nec mirabilia oſtenſa. Nihilominus tamen Pharao propter malitiam vſam damnaretur, etiam ſi non veniſſet Moyſes, quamuis duritia eius non fuit ita manifeſta. Sic etiam nunc fiet. Propterea ſtate viriliter. Aratrum quippe quamuis a bobus trahitur, tamen ſecundum voluntatem regentis regitur. Sic etiam quod verba mea audiatis, & ſciatis, non tamen vadunt, vel proficientur ſecundum voluntatem veſtram, ſed ſecundum meam. Ego enim ſcio, quomodo terra eſt diſpoſita, & quomodo excolenda. Vos autem omnem voluntatem veſtram mihi committite, & dicite: Fiat voluntas tua.

NOTAE.

1 NEc ideo erant falſa, quia vnum dixi ſemel aliud ſecundo, vnum expreſſius aliud obſcurius.

In præſenti capite Chriſtus Dominus Beatæ Brigitæ oſtendit, quod ipſe, & immutabilis ſit, ac etiam verax, quodque nec mutabilitatis, nec falſitatis redargui nequaquam poteſt, etiam ſi in ſacris litteris frequenter legimus quædam, quæ contrarium videantur innuere, aliquando enim præcepit Deus, vt obſeruarentur legalia, aliquando vero probibuit, ſæpe etiam aliquibus populis, vt Niniuitis vrbium ſubuerſiones, ac flagella per Prophetas prædixit, & poſtea pepercit. Ezechiæ mortem per Iſaiam annunciauit, vt Iſaiæ 38. ſcribitur diſpone domui tuæ, quia morieris, & non viues neque tamen ſic euenit, ſed quindecim annos vitæ ei adiecit Dominus. Item Geneſis 8. Moyſes dixit pœnituiſſe Deum, quod fecerit hominem, & Ieremias capite decimo octauo in perſona Dei ſcribit. Loquar aduerſus gentes, & aduerſus regnum vt eruigiam deſtruam, & diſperdam illud, ſed ſi pœnitentiam egerit ego, & ego pœnitentiam ſuper malo, quod cogitaui, vt facerem eis hæc, & alia plura, quæ poſſemus hic ex ſacris litteris afferre teſtimonia indicare videntur, & Deum mutabilem eſſe, & falſitatis poſſe reuinci, quod aſſerere, & impoſſibile eſt, & blaſphemiæ ſit maxima, quia Deus immutabilis eſt ſicut hoc eodem capite dicitur, & Malachiæ tertio, & Iacobi primo, apud quem non eſt tranſmutatio, & Pſalm. 101. Tu autem idem ipſe es, & Numerorum 23. Non eſt Deus quaſi homo vt mentiatur, neque filius hominis, vt mutetur, 2. Thimot. 2. Se ipſum negare non poteſt, cæterum, vt hoc declaremus apertius, ſciendum eſt, quod licet Deus aliquando rerum velit mutationes, non tamen inde inferre libet eum mutabilem eſſe, quia contingit eadem voluntate manente, quod aliquis velit, vt hoc modo fiat, poſtea velit contrarium, & ratio eſt, quia aliud eſt rerum velle mutationes, aliud voluntatem mutare, nec aliquo modo dici poteſt, quod Dei voluntas mutata ſit, quandoquidem ab æterno præuidit hoc nunc eſſe volituram & poſtea contrarium, eſt ergo tota mutatio ex parte creaturarum, quod vt aliquo exẽplo palã fiat ſi per impoſſibile ſol ſemper in noſtro meretur hemiſpherio in eodẽ ſitu. Luna vero nouente quandoque interponeretur inter nos, & ſolem, contingeret, quod ſol aliquando nos illuminaret, & aliquando non illuminaret, nulla tamen in eo facta mutatione, ita prorſus æterna Dei voluntate manente, nona ſæpe producit, frequenter etiam probibet, quæ prius volebat, & alia ſexcenta facit, quæ in creaturis tantummodo mutationem inuoluunt. Rurſus ex Diuo Thoma notandum eſt, prima parte quæſtione 19 articulo 7 ad ſecundum, quod voluntas eſt cauſa prima, qua ad agendum non excludit cauſas ſecundas, ſed quia cauſa ſecunda non adæquat virtutem primæ, ideo multa reperiuntur in cauſa prima, nimirum in voluntate, ac ſcientia Dei, quæ ſub inferiorum cauſarum ordine minime ſunt, vnde reſpiciens ad inferiores cauſas quis dicere poterit Lazarus non reſurget, reſpiciens ad primam reſurget, ex quo inferitur, quod ſi aliquando Deus aliquid pronunciat futurum, & non ſequitur illud prædicit ſecundum diſpoſitionem ſecundarum cauſarum, qua diſpoſitione deficiente non ſequitur, vt de Ezechia, cuius mors fuit pronuncianda, niſi plangeret, fleuit ergo, ideo non eſt mortuus, atque ex his aperte intelligi poſſunt, quæ ſcribuntur hic, nimirum Dei verba non eſſe falſa, quia vnum ſemel dicat, & aliud ſecundo, ſed Deum aliquando illud permiſiſſe ad probandam fidei ſuæ conſtantiam, & amicorum ſuorum ſollicitudinem, plura quoque ſecundum diuerſos effectus ſpiritus ſui oſtendiſſe, quæ poſſent a bonis, & malis diuerſimode intelligi, vt inde homines haberent in diuerſis ſtatibus, vnde diuerſi diuerſa poſſent ſe in bono exercere, ſed hac de re videnda eſt gloſſa ordinaria Iſaiæ 38. ad ea verba, Diſpone domui tuæ, vbi plura affert ex Diuo Gregorio, & Diuo Auguſtino, quæ ad præſentis notæ intelligentiam facere poſſunt.

2 Nam ſicut deitatem meam aſſumpſi humanitatem meam in vna perſona, ſic quandoque loquebar ex parte humanitatis meæ in quantum ſubiecta erat deitati, quandoq. ex parte deitatis, &c.

var. lect.

Hunc textum ſic corrigendum eſſe arbitror cum Manuſcripto Farneſiano, nam ſicut in Deitate mea aſſumpſi humanitatem meam, atque etiam ex hoc deducitur, quod licet in ſacris litteris quædam de Chriſto ſcripta inueniantur, quæ ad inuicem pugnare videntur, non tamen eſſe falſa, ſed veriſſima, vt legimus ad Philippenſes ſecundo, quod Chriſtus æqualis eſt patri, deinde quod minor eſt Patre, & quod paulo minus eſt minoratus ab Angelis, vt Pſalm 8. & ad Hebræos ſecundo, & quod Chriſtus obedit Patri ſecundo, quod Chriſtus manet in æternum Ioann. 12. poſtea, quod mortuus eſt. Roma. 5. & alia ſexcenta, quæ ſecundum duarum naturarum diſtinctionem accipienda ſunt, & ideo egregie Diuus Auguſtinus lib. 1. de Trinitate capit. 1. dicit ſe ipſo Chriſtus factus eſt minor, formam serui accipiens, neque enim ſic accepit formam serui, vt amitteret formam Dei, in qua erat æqualis Patri, vt in forma serui, & in forma Dei, idem ſit ipſe vnigenitus filius Patris, idem quoque probat Diuus Hieronymus in explanat. ſimboliad Damaſum, D. Damaſc. 4. lib. de fide cap. 19. & ſuſe D. Athan. in ſimbolo.

3 Nec etiam ſine cauſa erat, quod obſcure eradidi aliqua.

Innititur hoc loco non ſine cauſa factum eſſe, quod plurima in ſacris litteris reperiantur, quæ intellectu difficillima ſunt, & præter has cauſas, quæ hic afferuntur, duæ quoque huius rei admodum probabiles reddantur lib. 8. cæleſtis Imperatoris ad Reges cap. 48. quarum altera eſt, ne quis præſumat improbe Dei verba diſcutere, ipſe enim eſt, qui de ſublimi humilem facit, & de inimico amicum, ſecunda cauſa eſt, vt qui occaſionem diſcendi quærit inueniat, & ſane ſacrarum litterarum obſcuritas doctis viris anſam præbet difficiliora loca interpretandi, ſenſus obſcuros inueſtigandi, parvulis panem verbi Dei frangendi, ſi enim omnia, quæ ſacræ paginæ referunt, aut etiam liber hic Cæleſtium Reuelationum facillime ab vnoquoque intelligerentur fortaſſe contingeret, vt nec ſtudioſe, aut ſollicite quæreretur, neque eorum veritas ſuauiter inueniretur, quod optime explicat Petrus Chriſolog. ſerm. 96. ſi dicta inquit, vel facta Chriſti carnalibus ſenſibus ſubijcerentur torpeſceret animus, mens vacaret, dormiret ingenium, cor tabeſceret, extingueretur quidquid humani vigoris eſt, & caloris, & ſicut in lapide friget ignis, latet ignis in ferro, ipſe tamen ignis lapidis colliſione flammatur. ſic obſcurum verbum, verbi, ac ſenſus collatione reſplendet.

4 Quia ſic erat iuſtitia, vt occultaretur conſilium meum aliquantulum a malis.

Cum conſilium proprie quædam ſit inquiſitio rationis in rebus dubijs, cumque præſupponat inquiſitionem mediorum, & ignorantiam certi medij ad conſecutionem finis, vt ex D. Damaſcen. lib. 2. fidei Orthodoxæ cap. 22. & D. Thoma par. 2. quæſt. 14. art. primo ad ſecundum colligi poteſt; ideo nobis dicendum videtur, proprie in Deo minime eſſe ponendū, & propterea Dama. vbi ſupra affirmauit, quod Deus non conſiliatur, ignorantis enim eſt conſiliari, ſed ſciendum eſt, dupliciter poſſe ſumi conſilium. Primo quidem pro ipſa inquiſitione cum diſcurſu, & quia ſic imperfectionem quandam, & ignorantiam connotat, ideo non poteſt in Deo poni, qui perfectiſſimus eſt, & ſcientiſſimus. Secundo ſumi poteſt pro certitudine, ac reſolutione alicuius rei, vnde dicere ſolemus conſilium habet, talis eſt reſolutio, & ſententia conſilij eius, & ita ſumptum proprie in Deo eſſe affirmamus, qui rerum omnium certitudinem, ac ſcientiam habet, & ſic ſumitur hic cum ſcribitur, vt occultaretur conſilium eius, hoc eſt, vt celaret a malis quidquid de ereuit eſſe facturum, & in hoc etiam ſenſu paulo poſt legimus hoc eodem capite, ne ſi certo tempore conſilium meum inſinuatum fuiſſet, omnes ab expectatione, & charitate propter longanimitatem tem poris deſiſterent, & ad Epheſ. 1. Paulus Apoſtolus ſcribit, quod omnia operatur ſecundum conſilium voluntatis ſuæ, hoc eſt, ſecundum certiſſimam ſuæ voluntatis rationem, & decretum, vel vt habet ibi Gloſſ. Interlinearis, ſecundum voluntatem, quæ eſt ex ratione: vel vt annotauit ibidem Carthuſianus, ſecundum certiſſimam rationem ſuæ voluntati conſonam, & placentem.

VERBA MONITIONIS

Ioannis Baptiſtæ ad ſponſam in figura, in qua Deus per pullos, corpus per nidum mundi, delectationes per animalia ferocia, ſuperbia per aues rapaces, mundi lætitia per laqueum deſignantur.

CAP. XXIX.

IOANNES Baptiſta loquebatur ad ſponſam Chriſti dicens. Dominus Ieſus vocauit te de tenebris in lucem, de immunditia in perfectam mundi tiam. De anguſtia in latitudinem. Quantum ergo ſibi pro his regratiari teneris, quis explicare valet, aut quando ſufficeres? Veruntamen facio quantum vales. Eſt auis quædam quæ dicitur pica. hæc enim diligit pullos, quia ova vnde proceſſerunt pulli fuerunt in ventre eius. Hæc auis facit ſibi nidum de rebus inueteratis, & attritis propter tria. Primo propter requiem. Secundo propter latibulum a pluuia, & nimia ſiccitate. Tertio, vt nutriat pullos ſuos, qui fiunt ex ouis, quæ auis ex charitate componendo ſe ſuper ea fouet pullos. Cum vero pulli nati ſunt, mater allicit eos ad volandum per tria. Primo per cibi adminiſtrationem. Secundo per ſedulam vocem. Tertio per volatus ſui exemplificationem. Pulli vero quia diligunt matrem, aſſueti cibo matris, ferunt ſe primo paulatim præcedente matre ſupra nidum.

nidum. Inde iuxta vires progrediuntur vlterius, donec ex vsu, & arte sint perfecti.

Hac anis Deus est, qui æternaliter est, & nunquam immutatur, & ex deitatis eius vtero, omnes animæ rationales egrediuntur. Cuilibet vero animæ paratur nidus de rebus attritis, quia corpus de terra consociatur animæ, in quo Deus animam nutrit cibo bonarum affectionum. Defendit ab auribus malarum cogitationum, & dat requiem a pluuia malarum actionum. Quælibet vero anima, quia tali de causa coniungitur corpori, vt ipsa corpus regat, nequaquam ab eo regatur, & vt corpus ad laborem excitet, & ei rationabiliter prouideat. Ideo Deus tanquam mater bona, docet animam proficere in meliora. 1 docet exire de arcto, in latiora. Primo per cibum, dando intelligentiam, & rationem iuxta capacitatem vnius cuiusque, iudicando menti quidve fugiendum. Sed sicut mater primo educit pullos supra nidum, sic homo addiscit cogitare cælestia. Cogitare etiam quam arctus, & vilis sit nidus corporis, quam lucida sunt cælestia, & quam delectabilia sunt æterna. Educit etiam Deus animam per vocem suam qua clamat. Qui sequitur me habebit vitam, qui diligit me, non morietur. Hæc vox ducit ad cælum. Hanc qui non audierit, aut surdus est, aut 2 ingratus dilectioni matris. 2 Tertio educit Deus animam per volatum, idest, per humanitatis suæ exemplum. Hæc humanitas gloriosa habuit quasi duas alas. Primo, quia in eo erat omnis munditia, & nihil coinquinatum. Secundo, quia omnia bona fecit, his duabus alis volabat humanitas dei in mundo. Has ergo sequatur anima quantũ potest. Et si non poterit opere, saltem conetur voluntate. Cum autem euolat pullos, cauenda sunt sibi tria. Primo pro animalibus ferocibus, ne resideat iuxta ea super terram, quia ipse pullus non est fortis sicut illa. Secundo caueat ab auibus cupidis, quia ipse pullus adhuc non est celer euolare, sicut aues ille sunt, & ideo in latibulo tutius est morari. Tertio caueat, ne concupiscat prædam, in qua est laqueus. Animalia illa ferocia, quæ dixi, sunt delectationes, & cupiditates mundi, ab his enim sibi caueat pullus, quia dulces videntur sentiri bonæ ad possidendum, & pulchrę ad videndum, Sed cum putantur teneri euadunt celeriter. Cum vero creduntur delectari, mordent immisericorditer. Secundo caueat ab auibus cupidis, hæ sunt superbia, & ambitio. Istæ enim sunt, quę semper altius, & altius desiderãt ascendere, & alias aues præcedere, & odire inferiores. Ab his autem caueat pullus, & desideret in latibulo humilitatis morari, vt non superbiat de data gratia, non contemnat inferiores, & minoris gratiæ non cogitet se aliquibus meliorem. Tertio caueat à præda, in qua est laqueus. Hæc enim est lętitia mundi. Nam bonum videtur habere risum in ore, & delectationem in corpore, sed latet in his aculeus. Adducit enim immoderatus risus immoderatam lætitiam. 3 Voluptas corporis adducit inconstantiam mentis, ex quibus consequitur tristitia, vel in morte, vel ante, seu in tribulatione. Festina igitur filia, & tu egredi frequenter de nido tuo per desiderium cælestium. Caue tibi à bestijs cupiditatum, & ab auibus superbiæ. Caue à præda lætitiæ vanæ. Deinde loquebatur Mater ad sponsam, & ait. Caue de aue, quæ tincta est pice, quia omnes qui tangunt eam maculantur. Hęc enim est amicitia mundi, instabilis vt aer, fœda in acquisitione fauoris, & societate mala. Non cures de honoribus, non attendas ad fauores, non respicias ad laudem, vel vituperium. Nam ex his prouenit inconstantia animi, & diminutio diuinæ charitatis. Sta igitur stabilis. Deus enim qui te incepit extrahere de nido, pascet te vsque ad mortem. Post mortem vero non habebis famem. Custodiet etiam te a dolore, defendet te in vita, & post mortem nihil timebis.

CAP. XXX.

MARIA loquebatur filio dicens. Da fili mi nouæ sponsæ tuæ, vt corpus tuum dignissimum radicetur in corde eius, vt ipsa mutetur in te, tuaque delectatione repleatur. Deinde ait. 1 Hic sanctus cum temporaliter vixit, fuit in fide sancta sicut mons stabilis, quem non fregit aduersitas, nulla retraxit delectatio. Fuit & flexibilis ad voluntatem tuam sicut aer mobilis, quocunque eum impetus spiritus tui traxit. Fuit insuper in charitate tua ardens quasi ignis calefaciens frigidos, & consumens iniquos. Nunc autẽ anima eius tecũ est in gloria, vas autem instrumenti eius depressum est, & in humiliori loco iacet, quam decet. Ideo fili mi da corpori eius altiorem elevationem, honora illud, quod te pro modulo suo honorauit. Eleua illud, quod te labore suo, quo potuit eleuauit. Respondit filius. Benedicta sis tu, quæ nihil relinquis intactum, quod ad amicos tuos pertinet. Non decet Mater, vt vides, quod lupis detur cibus optimus. Non conuenit saphirus membra conseruans sana, & corroborans infirma, ponatur in luto. non etiam decet, vt cæcis accendatur lumẽ. Iste quippe homo sicut in fide fuit stabilis, & in charitate feruentissimus, sic & in continentia optime fuit ad voluntatem meam dispositus, propterea sapuit mihi sicut cibus optimus, optime decoctus, in omni patientia, & tribulatione. Dulcis denique, & bonus in bona voluntate, & affectu, melior in conatu, & virili progressu, optimus, & dulcissimus in laudabili consummatione. Propterea non decet vt ante lupos talis exaltetur cibus, quorum cupiditas nescit satietatem, quorum delectatio refugit herbas virtutum, & sicit carnes putridas, quorum, & vox astuta omnibus est nociua. Fuit etiam quasi saphirus in annulo per fame, & vitæ claritatem, per quam ostendit se esse Ecclesiæ suæ sponsum, Domini sui amicum, fidei sanctæ conseruatorem, & mundi contemptorem. Propterea Mater charissima non decet vt tantæ bonitatis amator, tanquam mundus sponsus tangatur a tam immundis. Tantæque humilitatis amicus, ab amatoribus mundi contingatur. Fuit etiam tertio tanquam lumen positum super candelabrum, per omnem mandatorum meorum exequutionem, per bonæ vitę doctrinam, per hanc muniuit stantes ne caderent. Per hanc eleuauit cadentes, per hanc etiam futuros post se ad me excitauit. Hoc lumen indigne videre sunt obcæcati amore suo, hoc lumen discernere nesciunt, qui habent albuginem superbiæ, hoc lumen attrectare non valent scabiosi manibus, quia hoc lumen cupidis, & suam voluntatem amantibus, est nimis odiosum. Ideo priusquam eleuetur, iustum est, vt illi, qui immundi sunt purgentur, & qui cæci sunt illuminentur. Illum vero hominem, quem homines terræ dicunt sanctum, tria ostendunt eum non esse sanctum. Primo, quia ante mortem non imitabatur vitam sanctorum. Secundo, quia hilarem voluntatem non habuit patiendi martyrium pro Deo. Tertio, quia non habuit charitatem ardentem, & discretam sicut sancti. Tria quoque sunt, propter quę quis videtur a populo sanctus. Primum est mendacium, fallacium, & placere volentium. Secundum facilitas credulitatis insipientium. Tertium est cupiditas, & tepiditas prælatorum, & examinatorum. Vtrum autem ipse est in inferno, uel purgatorio, nondum est tibi licitum scire, sed cum tempus fuerit loquendi.

CAPVT PRIMVM.

IESVS Christus Deus, & homo, qui venit ad terram assumere humanitatem, & saluare animas sanguine suo, 1 qui vitam veram illuminauit. Aperuit que portam cæli ipse me misit ad vos. Audi tu,cui datum est audire spiritualia. Si Episcopus iste proponit ire per viam arctam,per quam pauci ambulant, & esse vnus de paucis, deponat primo pondus circumstans, & onerans eum. Hoc est mundi cupiditatem habendo mundum ad sola necessaria sua, secundum Episcopalem humilem sustentationem.Sic fecit ille bonus Matthæus,qui vocatus a Deo reliquit onus graue mundi,& inuenit onus leue. 2 Secundo sit præcinctus ad viam, sicut dicit scriptura. Quod Tobias paratus ad viam,inuenit Angelum præcinctum stanté. Quid significat, quod Angelus erat præcinctus, nisi quod omnis Episcopus præcinctus debet esse cingulo iustitiæ,& diuinæ charitatis.Paratus ire per viam illam,per quã ille iuit,qui ait.Ego sum pastor bonus,qui pono animam meam pro ouibus meis. Paratus etiam cũ verbis, loqui veritatem. Paratus cũ operibus facere iustitiam tam in seipso,quã in alijs.Non dimittendo iustitiam, propter minas, seu opprobria. Non propter falsam amicitiam,seu vanum timorẽ.3 Omnis igitur Episcopus,qui taliter apparet præcinctus ad eum veniet Tobias, ideſt, homines iusti, & sequentur vitam eius. Tertio debet comedere panem, & aquam antequam aggrediatur viam.Sicut legitur de Helia, quod excitatus a somno,inuenit ad caput suum panẽ, & aquam.Quis est iste panis datus Prophetæ,nisi bonum corporale,& spirituale, quod administrabatur ei. Nam præparabatur ei in hæremo panis corporalis propter exemplum,licet enim Deus potuisset sustentasse Prophetam sine cibo corporali,voluit tamẽ præparari panem ei corporalem, vt intelligeret homo,Deo esse placitum,quod vtatur bonis donis Dei temperate ad consolationẽ carnis. lect. fortis. Ergo quia in omni verbo Dei viuit homo, monemus Episcopum sumere buccellā panis, hoc est, diligere Deum super omnia. Hanc buccellam inueniet ipse ad caput suū, idest, quia ratio sua dicet, Deū suū super omnia, & præ omnibus diligendū. Tum propter creationem, & redemptionem, tum propter longam patientiam, & suam bonitatem. Rogamus eum etiam bibere pauxillum aquæ, hoc est, intime cogitare amaritudinem passionis Christi. Quis enim digne sufficiat cogitare angustias humanitatis Christi, quas tunc patiebatur, quando petijt transferri a sæculi horum passionis, quando guttæ sanguinis decurrebant in terrā. Bibat ergo Episcopus aquam istam, cum pane charitatis, & tunc confortabitur ad progrediendum in via Iesu Christi. Incepta igitur via salutis, si Episcopus vltra progredi voluerit, vtile est ei a prima hora diei regratiari Deo, toto corde, Recogitare follicite actus suos, & petere auxilium a Deo, ad faciendum voluntatem eius. Deinde cum induit se vestibus, orat in hunc modum. Cinis tenetur esse cū cinere, & terra cū terra. Veruntamen quia ex prouidentia Dei Episcopus sum, induo te corpus meū vestibus, quæ ex terra sunt. Non propter pulchritudinem, & superbiam, sed propter operimentū, ne nuditas tua appareat. Nec curo vtrum indumentum tuū melius sit, an vilius, 6 sed tantum, vt ad reuerentiam Dei Episcopalis agnoscatur habitus. Et ex habitu discernatur Episcopalis auctoritas, ad correptionem, & informationem aliorum. Ideo rogo te pijssime Deus, vt tribuas mihi in animo stabilitatē, ne superbiā de cineris, & terræ precio, nec inaniter glorier de colore puluereo. Sed præsta fortitudinem, vt sicut habitus Episcopalis discretus, & honorabilis est præ alijs propter auctoritatem diuinam, sic habitus animæ meæ respiciatur apud Deū. Ne propter auctoritatem indiscrete, & indigne habitam, deprimar profundius. Seu propter habitum laudabilem inaniter portatū denuder ignominiosius ad meam damnationem. Deinde legat, vel decantet horas. Quo enim homo ad altiorem gradum ascenderit, eo maiorem honorem tenetur Deo reddere. Attamen cor purum, ita placet Deo in silentio, sicut in cantu, dummodo alijs iustis vtilitatibus occupetur homo. Post dictam Missam, exerceat Episcopale officium suum. Cauendo follicite, ne plus attendat ad corporalia, quam ad spiritualia. Cum vero accedit
5 ad mensam, cogitationem habeat talē. O Domine Iesu Christe, qui corpus, quod corrumpitur cibo corporali sustētari præcipis, da mihi auxilium, sic corpori meo dare necessaria, vt non improbe contra animā insolescat caro, ex ciborū superfluitate, nec lentescat in seruitio tuo ex indiscreta parcitate. Sed inspira moderantiam congruam, vt cum terra de terrenis sustentatur, Dominus terræ a terra sua, ad iram non prouocetur. Cum vero in mēsa fuerit, permittitur ei moderata consolatio, & collocutio, in qua euitetur scurrilitas, & vanitas. Nec tale verbū proferatur vel audiatur, quo audientes occasionem habeant ad peccandum, sed omnia sint honesta, & salutaria. Sicut enim in mensa corporali deficientibus pane, & vino omnia sunt insipida, sic in mensa Episcopali, & spirituali deficiente bona doctrina, & exhortatione, omnia apposita insipida sunt animæ. Et ideo vt euitetur vanitatum occasio, legatur, vel recitetur aliquid, in mensa tale, vnde ædificentur assidētes. Perfecta vero refectione, & redditis in benedictione deo gratijs, inquirat agenda, vel certe reuoluat libros, ex quibus trahi potest ad animæ perfectionem. Post cœnam vero consolari poterit cū familiaribus suis. Attamen sicut mater ablactans infantem perungit vbera cinere, seu aliqua alia amaritudine, donec infans dissuescat a lacte, & assuescit cibis solidioribus. Sic Episcopus attrahat deo familiares suos talibus verbis, quibus timeant Deum, & diligant. Vt & ipsorum sit Pater, per diuinam auctoritatem, & eorum Mater per spirtualē educationē. 6 Si vero forte scienter aliquem suorū familiarium peccare ad mortem animæ, qui auditis admonitionibus non resipiscit, remoueat eum a se. Quem si retinuerit propter commodum, & consolationem temporalem, non erit immunis a peccato eius. Pergens vero ad lectum suum, examinet diligenter facta, & affectus ipsius diei iam præteriti cogitando taliter. O deus Creator corporis mei, & animæ vide me misericordia tua, & præsta gratiam tuam, vt ex somni abundantia, non tepescam in seruitio tuo. Nec somni inquietudine deficiam a seruitio tuo, sed modera somnum meum ad honorem tuum, quem ad corporis alleuiationem haberi præcepisti. Et da mihi fortitudinem, vt inimicus diabolus non inquietet me, nec abstrahat a tua pietate. Surgens autem a lecto diluat confessionem, si quas negligentias caro passa est, ne sequentis noctis somnus, cum præteritæ delictis oriatur.

Ad Librum Tertium Cælestium Reuelationum Sanctæ Brigittæ.

CAPVT PRIMVM.

1 var. lect.

IRCA initium præsentis Cap. vbi in vulgatis legimus, Qui vitam veram illuminauit.

M. S. Farnesianus habet, Qui viam veram illuminauit, sic etiam paulo post, hoc eodem cap. vbi legitur, Vitam eius, corrige Viam eius.

2 Secundo sit præcinctus ad viam, sicut dicit scriptura, quod Tobias paratus ad viam inuenit Angelum præcinctum stantem.

Sic enim legimus Tobiæ V. Egressus Tobias inuenit Iuuenem splendidum stantem præcinctum, & quasi paratum ad ambulandum. Hoc loco Christus Dominus indicat, quæ nam debeat parare Episcopus, vt in Episcopali officio rite (vt par est) se gerere queat; & inter cætera duo potissimum illi esse necessaria docet, Iustitia, & Charitas, dicitq. quod eius sequi vestigia debet, qui dixit, Ego sum pastor bonus: sed quid sit Christi sectari vestigia, late explicat D. Prosper lib. 2. de vita contemplatiua cap. 21. vbi exponens verbum illud 1. Ioan. 2. Debemus ambulare sicut Christus ambulauit, dicit, Quid est ambulare, sicut ille ambulauit, nisi contemnere omnia prospera, quæ contempsit, & non timere aduersa, quæ pertulit; docere, quæ docuit, sperare, quæ promisit, præstare beneficia etiam ingratis, non retribuere secundum merita malenolis, orare pro inimicis, misereri peruersis, æquanimiter pati subdolos, atque superbos, ac denique carni mori, iuxta verbum Apost. ad Col. 3. qui hortatur nos, vt dumtaxat Christo viuamus, atq; hoc est, iter & Prælatus in Episcopali munere tenere debet, & hæc est via, per quam incedere illi opus est, & hæc sunt, quibus bene, rectèque officium suum, iuxta B. Brigittæ doctrinam, Sanctorum Patrum decreta, & sacrorum Canonum sanctiones, obire poterit: sed hæc apertius infra declarantur lib. 4. Reuelat. cap. 106. vbi Beatissima Virgo comparat Episcopum Angelo præcincto, qui apparuit Tobiæ, Cur, inquit, Angelus apparuit Tobiæ præcinctus ad viam, nisi quod omnis sacerdos, & Episcopus præcinctus debet esse cingulo diuinæ iustitiæ, paratus dare animam suam pro ouibus suis, paratus in verbis loquendo veritatem, paratus in operibus ostendendo in se ipso viam iustitiæ, paratus ad patiendum pro iustitia, & veritate. Cæterum per Angelos in sacris litteris, etiam significari Episcopos, & Sacerdotes, tradunt sancti Patres Ambros. de initiandis myst. cap. 2. & 1. de sacram. cap. 2 Beda super Genesim cap. 28. D. Dionys. de cælesti Hierar. cap. 12. Hi namque ascendere, & descendere per scalam dicuntur, vt Genesis 28. scribitur, quia contemplatione ascendunt ad cælestia, & charitate proximi ad infima descendunt.

3 Omnis igitur Episcopus, qui taliter apparet præcinctus, ad eum veniet Tobias, id est, homines iusti, & sequentur vitam eius.

Ex his, quæ dicta sunt deducit Christus Dominus, quod si Episcopus eam sibi viuendi normam præscribat, idemque teneat iter, quod supra descripsit, futurum esse, vt omnes quoque subditi eius vestigia sequantur, ac suæ vitæ regulas sectentur: Sicut enim ait D. Bernardus Epistola 127. error prælati multos inuolnit, tantis obest, quantis præest, sic & nos e contra dicere possumus optimum Episcopi exemplum tantis prodesse, quantis dominatur: & idcirco legimus hic, quod veniet ad eū Tobias, quia nimirum eum sequentur homines iusti, & iusti: iusti quidem illius vestigia, ac actus mores sectando, iniusti vero peccata relinquendo ad iustitiam redeundo: Tobias enim interpretatur bonus Domini, seu bonitas Domini, vel iustus Dñi; Verum sicut Tobias fuit, vt Zach. 6. legimus, qui ad pontificis coronam conficiendam aurum, & argentum contulit, ita quoque Tobias erit, per quem homines iusti, ac innocentes designantur, vt annotarunt Lyranus, & Rupertus Abbas ibi, qui aurum, & argentum ad coronam Episcopi conficiendam conferet, tunc enim eius fama apud gentes erit illustrior, & vita eius apud Deum gratior, vnde merito, & à subditis honore, & à Deo aeterna gloria coronabitur.

4 Quia homo infirmus ex se erat, sed ex var. Deo ad tantum proficiendum iter for- lect. tis.

M. S. Farnesianus habet, Sed à Deo ad tantum perficiendum iter factus fortis.

5 O Domine Iesv Christe, qui corpus, quod corrumpitur cibo corporali sustentari præcipis.

In præsenti capite duo scitu dignissima afferuntur. Primo quidem formula quædam traditur cibos benedicendi, quæ sane memoriæ mandanda est: redolet enim & grauitatem, & pietatem. Secunda describitur; qualis esse debeat mensa eorum, & habetur ibi: sicut n. in mensa corporali deficientibus pane, & vino, omnia sunt insipida, &c. vbi innuitur, quod ad scurrilia vitanda, & ad præsentium adificationem cibi, vel lectione sacra, vel disputatione aliqua condiantur, est enim hæc, & antiqua, & admodum laudabilis consuetudo, de qua D. Gregor. ad Natalem Episcopum scribens, & est Epistola 53. lib. 2. Communia, inquit, tunc veraciter ex charitate sunt, cum in eis nulla absentium vita mordetur, non inanes sæcularium negotiorum fabulæ, sed lectionis sacræ verba audiuntur, & cum non plus, quam necesse est seruitur corpori, sed sola eius infirmitas reficitur, vt ad vsum exercendæ virtutis habeatur: Sed latius hoc tradit Conc. Trid. sess. 2. in decreto de modo viuendi, & alijs in Concilio seruandis aliquanto post initium, his verbis, Et quoniam oportet Episcopos esse irreprehensibiles, sobrios, castos, domui suæ bene præpositos, hortatur etiam, vt ante omnia quilibet in mensa seruet sobrietatem, moderationem ciborum, deinde cum in eo loco sæpe otiosi sermones oriri soleant, vt in ipsorum Episcoporum mensis diuinarum scripturarum lectio admisceatur, idem habet sess. 25. de reform. cap. 1. vbi etiam citatur concilium Carthaginense 4. cap. 15.

6 Si vero scit scienter aliquem suorum familiarium peccare ad mortem animæ, qui auditis admonitionibus non resipiscit, remoueat eum à se.

Hoc loco admonentur Episcopi, quomodo erga suos familiares se gerere debeant, eorum vitia, si quæ sint inquirendo, ac exprobrando, quod si ab hac cura Cardinalis immunis non est, vt affirmat Diuus Antoninus par. 3. sua summa tit. 19. cap. 2. multo minus immunis erit Episcopus, qui speculator est omnium suarum, ac subditorum, vt dicitur hoc eodem libro cap. 3. & nos ibi nota 5. annotauimus, spectat enim hoc & ad eius officium, & ad bonam eius existimationem, cui debet consulere. Talis, inquit D. Hieronym. Epistola 3. habeto socios, quorum contubernio non infameris, quod si id facere neglexerit graniter peccat: tenetur enim si post factam admonitionem aliquos comperit tumaces, ac persistentes in vitijs inuenerit, penitus eos à se remouere, ac quamcitissime ab alijs seiungere; ne bonos inficiant, neue eorum prauo exemplo ad eandem viuendi formam trahant: idem quoque Diuus Bernardus, Si à summo Pontifice exigit, quanto magis etiam ab alijs inferioribus Prælatis idipsum requireret, scribens enim ad Eugenium lib. 4. de consid. Studeas, inquit, scire mores, & studia familiarium tuorum: non decet, vt vitia domus tuæ vltimus scias, quod quamplurimis nonimus contigisse, alius alia dispenset, tu disciplina proinde, illud nemini credas, si insolentior coram te, vt sæpe fouerit, vel habitus apparuerit, manus tua super huiusmodi vlciscere iniurias tuas, impunitas ausum parit, ausus excessum, demum Episcopi decet sanctitudo, honestas in vultu, in incessu, in habitu: Hoc etiam admonuit Concilium Tridentinum sess. 22. in decreto de modo viuendi, & alijs in concilio seruandis, quo loco hortatur Episcopos, vt diligentiam adhibeant, summaque cura studeant, vt familiares sui optima, ac probata vita sint, familiares, inquit, suos vnusquisque instruat, & erudiat, ne sint risosi, vinosi, impudici, cupidi, elati, blasphemi, & voluptatum amatores, vitia demum fugiant, & virtutes amplectentur, & in vestitu, & cultu, & omnibus actibus honestatem præseferant, sicut decet ministros ministeriorum Dei. Plura quoque, quæ ad optimos probeq. familiam regendam spectant tradunt lib. 7. Reuelat. cap. 12. & tradit etiam Hieronymus Plaius in libro quem edidit de offic. Cardinalis cap. 23.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD filiam, de remedio opportuno ad difficultatem Episcopo occurrentem in via arcta. Et quomodo patientia per vestes,& decem præcepta per decem digitos, & desiderium æternorum, & fastidium mundanorum per duos pedes designantur. Et de tribus inimicis in via contra Episcopum existentibus.

CAP. II.

ITEM loquitur Dei Mater. Dic episcopo, quod si incesserit per viam dictam, tunc tria difficilia occurrent ei. Primo,quod via est arcta. Secundo, quod in ea sunt spinæ pungentes. Tertio,quod via est petrosa, & inæqualis. Contra hæc tria, dabo tibi tria consilia. Primum est,quod induat se episcopus vestibus fortioribus, & subtiliter consutis, contra viam arctam. Secundum est, quod habeat decẽ digitos ante oculos suos, inter quos respiciat tanquam per cancellos nẽ pungatur à spinis. Tertium est,quod cautè ponat pedes suos, & in quolibet vestigio attendat, si pes positus subsistit solide, nec præcipitanter ponat ambos pedes simul,nisi prius certificatus fuerit de qualitate viæ. Quid vero significat via arcta,nisi malitiam hominum prauorum contra iustos,qui derident opera iusta, & deprauant vias, & monita iustorum recta. Et quicquid humile, & pietatis est paruipendunt. 1 Contra tales homines induat se episcopus veste patientiæ,& constantiæ,quia patientia grauia facit esse suauia, & illatas contumelias,gaudenter tolerare. 2 Quid vero significant spinæ, nisi aduersitates mundi. Contra has habendi sunt digiti decem præceptorum Dei, & consiliorum eius. Vt cum pupugerit spinæ aduersitatis,& paupertatis, consideretur passio, & paupertas Christi. Cum vero pungit spina iræ,& inuidiæ, consideretur charitas Dei, quam nobis seruare præcepit. Charitas enim vera non quærit,quę sua sunt,sed se totam exponit ad honorem Dei,& proximi vtilitatem. Quod vero debet esse cautus in ponendis pedibus,significat,quod vbique debet rationabiliter timere. Nam bonus homo tenetur habere quasi duos pedes. Primus est, desiderium æternorum. Secundus est, fastidium mundi. In desiderio vero æternorum debet esse discretio, ne desideret æterna sibi soli tanquam digno, sed totum desiderium suum, & voluntatem, & remunerationem, ponat in manus Dei. In fastidio vero mundi debet esse cautio, & timor, ne fastidium sit propter aduersitates mundi, & vitæ impatientiam, ne sit etiam propter vitæ temporalis maiorem requiem, & laboris alijs proficui exonerationem. Sed solummodo fiat propter peccatorũ abominationẽ, & desiderium æternæ vitæ. Hi igitur difficultatibus viæ superatis, adhuc præcaueo episcopum de tribus inimicis, qui sunt in via sua. Primus quippe hostis nititur sibilare in aures episcopi,vt obstruat auditum eius. Secundus stat antè eum, vt pungat oculos eius. Tertius est ante pedes eius clamans alte, & habens laqueum,quo pedes illaqueat, quando eleuat eos a terra. Primus hostis sunt homines illi siue infusiones illæ, qui nituntur episcopum trahere à via recta dicentes. Cur tantum assumis tibi laborem, & pergis per viam tam arctam, diuerte ergo magis in viam floridam, per quam vadunt plures. Quid ad te quomodo ille, vel illi viuunt. 3 Quid ad te offendere, & obiurare illos, a quibus honorari, & amari possis. Si non offendunt te,& tuos,quid tibi curę est, quomodo viuunt,aut si offendunt Deum. Si vero tu ipse bonus es,quid ad te iudicare alios. Da magis munera, & accipe, vterè amicitia hominum,vt laueris, & bonus voceris in vita tua. Secundus hostis desiderat excęcare te sicut Philisthijm Sampsonẽ. Hi sunt pulchritudo, & possessio mundi, fluxus vestium,& diuersus apparatus rerum, honores hominum,& fauores. Cum enim ista offeruntur,& placent oculis,excęcatur ratio, tepescit amor mandatorum Dei, peccatum perpetratur licentius,& commissum leuigatur,Propterea cum episcopus necessaria moderata habuerit,contentetur. Nã nimis multis videtur nunc dulcius esse stare ad molam cupiditatis cum Sampsone,quã diligere Ecclesiam secundum laudabilem dispositionem curæ pastoralis. Tertius hostis clamat alte habens laqueum,& dicens.Cur inquit,sic vadis caute,& inclinato capite.Cur in tantum humilias teipsũ,qui a pluribus debes, & possis honorari. Esto magis sacerdos,vt sedeas cũ primis.Esto episcopus,vt honorari possis à pluribus.4 Procede ad maiores dignitates vt maiora obtineas seruitia, & maiori fruaris quiete.Congrega thesauros,quibus alios iuuans tecũ,ab alijs consolari possis,&vbiq. esse lætus. Cunq. animus talibus inclinatus fuerit affectionibus, & suggestionibus mox affectus eleuatur,quasi pede quodã prauę delectationis ad terrenã cupiditatem, qua ita inuoluitur laqueo curæ mundialis, quod vix consurgit ad considerationem suæ miseriæ, & præmiorum, seu suppliciorum æternorũ. Nec mirum, scriptura enim dicit: Quod qui episcopatum desiderat, bonum opus desiderat ad honorem Dei. Nunc autem plerique desiderant honorem, & refugiunt laborem, in quo animæ est salus sempiterna. Propterea episcopus iste stet in gradu quem habet, nec appetat altiorem, donec Deo placuerit ei aliter prouidere.

NOTAE.

1 CONtra tales homines induat se episcopus veste patientiæ, & constantiæ.

Inter cæteras virtutes, quibus præditus ẽsse debet Episcopus, patientia in primis, animique constantia est, nam quemadmodum ex diuina misericordia nullo vnquam tempore permittit Deus, vt ad eorum solatium aliqui boni non desint, ita quoq; aliqui semper peruersi, ac mali reperiuntur homines ad patientiæ, & humilitatis exercitium; contra quos bis potissimum duabus virtutibus esse pugnandum, admonet hic Beatiss. Virgo. Hanc ob causam ad Episcopum spectare arbitror illud verbum Iob 30. Frater fui Draconum, & socius struthionum: eius enim partes sunt, & aduersa patienter tolerare, & ob illatas injurias nec animo frangi, nec mente turbari, sed omnia veluti struthio ferrum deglutire, alias inter bonos numerari minime poteris, vt docet gloss. exponens illud Cant. 2. Sicut lilium inter spinas: bonus non fuit, qui malos tolerare non potuit. Quod etiam egregie annotauit D. Greg. qui locum citatum Iob exponens: Nullum, ait, perfectũ esse censendum, qui inter proximorum mala non est patiens: & lib. 20. Moral. cap. 28. affirmat impatientiam potestati amicam esse; vnde fit prælatos in huiusmodi vitium frequenter incidere, & subditis eos plus interius patientiæ iugo subiciendos esse, quam foris hominibus præsunt, & eo veriorem principatũ foris exhibere, quo humiliorem Deo intrinsecus famulatum tenent, & ideo plus sæpe quædam tolerare, quo de eis vlcisci amplius possunt.

2 Quid vero significant spinæ, nisi aduersitates mundi.

In præsenti capite Beatiss. Virgo dicit viam, per quam Episcopi ambulant spinis esse refertam, & non longe ab initio capitis scribitur, via arcta est, & in ea spinæ sunt pungitiuæ, insuper declarat hic per spinas aduersitates intelligendas esse: quod etiam annotarunt D. Hieron. super Isaiam c. 34. D. Bernar. serm. 48. in Cant. Aug. etiam ibi super cap. 2. Quæ quidem tot, tantaq. reperiuntur in Episcopali regimine, vt mirum non sit si D. Chrisost. lib. 3 & 6. de sacerdotio, omnis episcopalis vocet pelagum laborum, & arumnarum abyssum: atq. inter has spinas erat lilium sponsæ, Cant. 2. Sicut lilium inter spinas, quæ licet tribulationibus præmeretur, suam tamen nec venustatem amittebat nec fortitudinem; ita quoque Episcopo animum aduersitas nõ deiciat, sed inflammet; fortior fiat in aduersis, prõptior in angustijs, & in omnibus sese audaciorem exhibeat: Verum quanta afferre possint prælatis, aliisq. commoda tribulationes, tradit D. Aug. in ps. 93. 128. & 143. vbi sic ait. O securitas tribulationum fortior fuit Iob in sterquilinio contra suam Euam, quam Adam in Paradiso contra suam: idem habet contra secundam epistolam Gaudentij lib. 2. exponens illud, Qui pie volunt viuere in Christo persecutionem patientur: sed late de eadem re agit Chrisost. in ps. 122. & 141. vbi affert exemplum agricolæ, qui amputat comas arborum ne nimis luxurientur, & humores, & vires in radices conuertantur: Ideo, inquit, oportet abscindi temporales prosperitates, vt homines conuertantur in radices, adest tentationes ponant in internis, & æternis bonis, & non superfluant foliis. Legendus est etiam D. Bernar. epist. 32. 72. 73. & 136. quam sic concludit, Diuina igitur sapientia sic pro moderamine hæc alternauit electis, vt nec aduersa frangãt, nec læta dissoluant, cum potius illa ex istis gratiora & illa ex his tolerabiliora sint.

3 Circa medium capitis, vbi in impressis codicibus leguntur. Quid ad te offendere, & obturare illos. M. S. habet Obiurgare illos.

4 Procede ad maiores dignitates, vt maiora, & obtineas seruitia, & maiori fruaris quiete.

Nihil est, quod magis episcopali curæ insidiãtur, nihil quod a suo munere tutius, probeque obeundo Episcopo magis impediat, quam in suo statu nolle quiescere, sed altiorem gradum quærere, & maiores dignitates sectari: acerrimus namque hostis est, vt legimus hic, prauum ambitionis desiderium, quod grauius sibi, suisq. subditis nocet, quam quodlibet aliud vitium: dum enim rebus mundanis Episcopus inhiat, cælestia deserit, dum excellentiores gradus affectat, sibi commissas oues negligit, dum alijs præesse studet, eos quibus præest contemnit, sed frequenter accidit, vt bi quod sic appetunt inordinate, non solum non assequantur, sed in foro Dei iudicio, eo quod possident priuentur. & ideo admonendi sunt cum D. Ioanne in Apocal. cap. 3. Tene quod habes, vt nemo accipiat coronam tuam: & in fine etiam præsentis capitis admonetur quidem Episcopus his verbis: Propterea Episcopus iste stet in gradu, quem habet, nec appetat altiorem, donec Deo placuerit ei aliter prouidere.

DE-

DECLARATIO PLENARIA Virginis ad Epiſcopum, qualiter vt Deus honoretur per ipſum exerceat Epiſcopale officium. Et de duplici fructu veram dignitatem obſequente, & de duplici confuſione falſam dignitatem obſequente, & de occurſu Ieſu Chriſti, & omnium Sanctorum ad verum, & rectum Epiſcopum.

CAP. III.

LOQVEBATVR Mater Dei. Ego exponere volo Epiſcopo, quod tenetur facere Deo, & quid eſt honor Dei. 1 Omnis itaque Epiſcopus debet habere infulam in brachijs ſuis bene cuſtoditam. Non vendere eam pro pecunia. Non concedere alijs propter amicitiam carnalem. Non perdere propter negligentiam, & tepiditatem. Quid vero ſignificat infula Epiſcopalis, niſi dignitatem, & poteſtatem Epiſcopalem? Ordinare ſcilicet clerum, & confirmare chriſma, corrigere errantes, excitare exemplo ſuo negligentes. Quod vero in brachijs debet habere infulam bene cuſtoditam, ſignificat, quod ſedule debet cogitare quomodo, & qualem accepit poteſtatem Epiſcopalem. Quomodo eam tenuerit. Quis vero ſit eius fructus. Quisve finis. Si Epiſcopus attendere velit, quomodo accepit poteſtatem, 2 a attendat primo ſi deſiderauit Epiſcopatū propter ſe, vel an propter Deum. Si autem propter ſe, tunc ſine dubio deſiderium ſuum erat carnale. Si vero propter Deum, ideſt, ad honorem faciendum Deo, tunc deſiderium ſuum erat meritorium, & ſpirituale. Deinde ſi Epiſcopus cogitet ad quid recepit Epiſcopatum. Certe vt eſſet Pater pauperū, conſolator, & mediator animarum, nam bona epiſcopalia bona ſunt animarum. Quæ ſi infructuoſe comedantur, & prodigaliter expenduntur, animæ illæ clamabunt vindictam ſuper iniuſtum diſpenſatorem. Qualis vero erit fructus Epiſcopalis dignitatis, dicam tibi, ipſe quippe erit duplex, ſicut dicit Paulus, corporalis ſcilicet, & ſpiritualis. Corporalis, quia in terris eſt Vicarius Dei, & ideo ob honorem Dei quaſi Deus ab hominibus honoratur. In cælis erit corporalis, & ſpiritualis propter glorificationem corporis, & animæ, quia ibi erit ſeruus cum domino. Tum propter viram Epiſcopalem, quā geſſit in terris. Tum propter exemplum humilitatis, quo alios ſecum ad gloriam prouocauit. Omnis vero, qui veſtem, & dignitatem habet Epiſcopalem, ſed refugit vitam, duplici confuſione erit dignus. Quod vero poteſtas Epiſcopalis non debet vendi. Significat, quod Epiſcopus non debet eſſe ſcienter ſimoniacus. Nec exercere officium ſuū propter pecuniam, vel hominum fauorem. Nec promouere illos propter preces hominum, quos ſciuerit eſſe malæ vitæ. Quod vero infula non debet alijs concedi propter amicitiam hominum. 3 Significat quod Epiſcopus non debet diſſimulare peccata negligentiū. Nec dimittere illos impunitos, quos poteſt, & debet corrigere. Non ſilere peccata amicorum propter carnalem amicitiam. Nec imponere dorſo ſuo peccata ſubditorū, quia Epiſcopus eſt ſpeculator Dei. Quod vero Epiſcopus non debet perdere infulam propter negligentiam, ſignificat, quod Epiſcopus non debet illa committere alijs ad faciendum, quæ ipſe perſonaliter tenetur, & poteſt fructuoſius facere. Nec propter quietem carnis illa dimittere alijs, quæ ipſe perfectius valeret adimplere, quia officium Epiſcopi non eſt quietis, ſed laboris. Nec Epiſcopus ignorare debet vitam, & mores eorum, quibus committit officia ſua, ſed ſcire, & inquirere quomodo ſeruant iuſtitiā. Et ſi prudenter, & non cupide gerunt ſe in agendis. 4 4 Inſuper ſcire te volo, quod Epiſcopus, quia paſtoris vices habet, tenetur habere faſciculum florum ſub brachijs ſuis, quo oues vicinæ, & remotæ illectæ currant gaudenter poſt odorem eius. Iſte vero faſciculus florum ſignificat prædicationem diuinam, quam Epiſcopus habere tenetur. Brachia vero duo quibus faſciculus prædicationis diuinæ innititur, ſunt duo opera neceſſaria Epiſcopo, ſcilicet bona opera in publico, & bona opera in abſcondito. Vt oues vicinæ in epiſcopatu eius videntes charitatem epiſcopi in operibus, & audientes in verbis, glorificent deū in epiſcopo. Oues vero remotæ audientes famam epiſcopi, deſiderent illum ad ſequendū. Nam iſte eſt ſuauiſſimus faſciculus non erubeſcere veritatem, & humilitatem Dei. Docere bona, & eadem quæ docet facere. Eſſe humilem in honore, & deuotum in abiectione. Cumq. epiſcopus compleuerit viam iſtā, & peruenerit ad portā, neceſſe eſt ei aliquid habere in manu, quod præſentet ſummo regi. Et ideo habeat in manu vas ſibi charum & hoc vacuum offerendo illud regi ſummo. Vas vero iſtud vacuum offerendum eſt, cor ſuum, quod vt vacuum ſit ab omni voluptate, & appetitu laudis tranſitoriæ, laborandū eſt ei die, ac nocte. Cumq. introducendus eſt talis epiſcopus in regnum gloriæ, occurret ei Ieſus Chriſtus Deus verus, & homo, cum omni ſanctorum exercitu. Tunc audiet Angelos dicentes. O Deus noſter gaudium noſtrum, & omne bonum. Iste Episcopus mundus fuit in carne, virilis in operatione, decet ergo nos eum præsentare tibi. Desiderauit enim quotidie societatem noſtram. Ideo comple desiderium eius, & auge ex aduentu eius gaudium noſtrum. Tunc quoque dicturi sunt, & cæteri sancti. O Deus gaudium noſtrum est de te, & in te, nec indigemus alio. Attamen gaudium noſtrum excitatur ex gaudio animæ huius Episcopi, quæ dum portauit desiderauit te. Portauit enim flores suauissimos in ore, quibus augmentauit numerum noſtrum. Portauit in opere, quibus habitãtes de prope, & a longe reficiebat, ideo da ei gaudere nobiſcũ, & tu similiter gaude de eo, quem moriendo pro eo tantum desiderauit. Vltimo dicturus est ei Rex gloriæ. O amice veniſti præsentare mihi vas cordis tui, vacuum a te, & a voluntate propria, ideo ego implebo te delectatione, & gloria mea, lætitia mea erit tua, & gloria tua nunquam finietur a me.

NOTAE.

1 OMnis itaque Episcopus debet habere Infulam in brachijs ſuis bene cuſtoditam.

D. Bernardus in prologo libri primi de conſideratione ad Eugenium, Episcopalis inſulæ meminit: Amor, inquit Dominum neſcit, agnoſcit filium, & in inſulis per ſe ſatis ſubiectus, idem habet lib. 2. cap. 10. Nunquid inſulatus, inquit, nunquid micans gemmis: quid autem per inſulam intelligendum ſit, explicat ibi Gerardus Voſſius noſtris hiſce temporibus vir doctiſſimus, ac in Græcis litteris apprime eruditus, in notis ad D. Bernardum locis citatis. In inſulis, inquit, hoc eſt in faſcijs Pontificalibus, in diademate, & corona, atque hoc loco per inſulam ad litteram intelligendum eſſe puto Epiſcopalem mitram, qua caput Epiſcopi ornatur, in qua Pontificia maieſtas, ac auctoritas miſtica deſignatur, & colligitur hoc expreſſe ex verbis, quæ habentur nõ longe ab initio præſentis capitis, ibi. Quod vero ſignificat inſula Epiſcopalis, niſi dignitatem, & poteſtatem Epiſcopalem. Hanc eandem myſticam Mitræ ſignificationem affert Innocentius Tertius lib. 2. myſter. Miſſæ cap. 44. Vt autem Mitra duo cornua habet, inſinuatur vtriuſque teſtamenti ſcientia, quã Epiſcopus debet habere, vt annotarunt D. Antoninus 3. p. ſumma. tit. 20. cap. 2. §. 9. Innocentius libro citato cap. 60. Turreeremata in canone diſciplina diſt. 45. Cæterum ad huius rei maiorem intelligentiam ſciendum eſt ex Hieronym. ab Oleaſtro in Leuiticum cap. 8. ad litteram Mitram dictam eſſe Hebraice (a Sanap) quod eſt involuere, & inde habet ortum (miſnephet) ideſt involucrum, ſeu mitra, ſic ab involuendo dicta, quia ea caput involuebatur, vt ait ſitra, quæ Exod. 28 & Leuit. 8. Et mitte eos, inquit, mitras, & cinge eos zonis, & circundabis eis cidaras, quã dicit cidarã, vel tiaras, quoniã nõ eſt interpretatum, nec in vſu modo eſt ignoratur, puto tamen non eſſe capitis tegumen, vt nonnulli putarunt, neque enim diceret circundabis eis, niſi tale aliquid eſſet, quod non capiti, ſed corpori vſui eſſet; ſed in Leuit. q. 32. affirmat ſpectare ad capitis ornamentum, Quod eſt, ait, quod Aaron, & reliquos filios eius modum illorum duorum digere prohibendo eis. Caput veſtrum cidara non denudabitis, vbi te oſtendit cidaras ad capitis ornatum pertinere.

2 Attendat primo, ſi deſiderauit Epiſcopatum propter ſe, vel an propter Deum, ſi autem propter ſe, tunc ſine dubio deſiderium ſuum erat carnale, ſi vero propter Deum, ideſt ad honorem faciendum Deo, tunc deſiderium ſuum erat meritorium, & ſpirituale.

Hoc loco Beatiſſima Virgo indicare videtur, licitum eſſe ad bonum finem Epiſcopatum appetere, quod vt explicemus apertius notandum eſt ex D. Thoma 2. 2. q. 185. art. 1. & Soto de iuſt. & iure. lib. 10. q. 3. in Epiſcopatu tria eſſe, primum, quod caput eſt omnium Epiſcopalis operatio, ac functio, qua animarum ſaluti conſulitur ſecundum illud Io. vltimo. Paſce oues meas, ſecundum eſt ordinis dignitas, & excellentia, quæ Matt. 25. tangitur. Fidelis ſeruus, & prudens, quem conſtituit Dominus ſuper familiam ſuam, tertium, & poſtremum, quod ad duo priora conſequitur, eſt reuerentia, & honor, & bonorum temporalium copia, de qua primo ad Timot. 5. Paulus, qui bene præſunt presbyteri duplici honore digni ſunt. His declaratis mihi dicendum eſt, primo Epiſcopatum appetere abſolute propter commodum, & finem animarum, & tunc maxime, cum quis a ſuperiori eo dignus eſſe iudicatur, & laudabile eſt, ac meritorium, & hoc eſt, quod ſcribitur hic, ſi vero propter Deum deſiderauit Epiſcopatum, ideſt ad honorem faciendum Deo, tunc deſiderium ſuum erat meritorium, & ſpirituale, quia hoc eſt deſiderare prodeſſe ſubditis, quod actus eſt virtutis, vt probant Cardinalis Caietanus ſuper Sanctum Thomam loco citato, & Sotus etiam de iuſtitia, & iure, loco citato, & patet ex D. Bernardo epiſtola 24. vbi inquit. Nec præeſſe refugendum prodeſſe poteſt, quia nec quidem tibi ſi præes, & non prodes, ſed ea grauius ſi quis præeſſe metuis, prodeſſe refugis, idem colligi poteſt ex D. Iſidoro lib. 3. de ſummo bono cap. 33. Multis, inquit, intercipit Sathanas fraudibus eos, qui vitæ, & ſenſus vilitate præſtantes præeſſe, & prodeſſe aliis nolunt, & duriori regimen animarum imponitur rerum, & conſultius arbitrantur quieſam vitam agere.

operis, quam lucris animarum insistere, quod tamen decepti agunt per argumentum diabolj fallentis eos sub specie boni, vt dum illos à pastorali officio retrahit, nequequam proficiant, qui eorum verbis, & exemplis instrui poterunt. sed hoc potest apertius deduci ex Paulo 1. ad Timot. 3. ibi, si quis Episcopatum desiderat, Vbi Gloss. Interlinearis notat eum recte Episcopatum desiderare, qui desiderat operari, & prodesse multis, & Lyranus, ibi asserit, quod non est desiderandus Episcopatus propter officij dignitatem, sed propter onerosum laborem, qui est ordinatus ad honorem Dei, & proximi salutem: Caterum appetere Episcopatum ratione dignitatis, & præeminentiæ, vel temporalium bonorum, crimen est maximum, cum autem id animæ fit consulendi proximi, temerarium esse videtur: existimat enim ille, qui sic Episcopum optat posse huiusmodi onus perferre: sic docet D. Thomas loco supra citato; & innititur hic, cum legimus, si desiderauit Episcopatum propter fe, intelligo ad sibi quærenda bona temporalia, & dominium super alios, tunc sine dubio desiderium suum erat vitiosum.

3 Episcopus non debet dissimulare peccata negligentium, nec illos dimittere impunitos, quos potest, & debet corrigere, non silere peccata amicorum propter carnalem amicitiam, nec imponere dorso suo peccata subditorum, quia Episcopus speculator est Dei.

Quoniam hoc loco episcopi speculatores appellantur, inde deducere libet, eorum nomen non esse honoris, sed operis, est namque speculari superintendere, & totamentis acie, omnique vigilare, vnde speculatores, & superintendentes à D. Hieron. in Epistola ad Eugenium, appellantur, & refertur 93. Canone legimus, & annotauit D. Aug. lib. 19. de ciuit. c. 16 circa med. atque hinc nobis inferendum est, in quo eorum functio, ac munus peculiariter positum esse debeat: tenetur enim eos reprehendere, qui reprehensione digni sunt, alios redarguere, qui proximo scandalo sunt, alios blandiri, qui vitæ probitate, ac sanctitate cæteris proficui sunt, alios hortari, & promouere, qui in operando tepidi sunt, clericorum, & laicorum vitia exemplo, verbis, legumiisq. pœnis insectari. quod si ad humanum fauorem captandum id facere neglexerint, non pastores vocãdos esse dicit D. Greg. in pastorali c. 5. sed mercenarios, qui suorum subditorum peccata in dorso portabunt, vt scribitur hic, quoniam pro his rationem reddituri sunt: quomodo autem iuxta varias delinquentium conditiones in admonendo se gerere debeant, tradit D. Greg. in pastorali par. 3. & D. Bernard. fuse lib. 3. de consid. ad Eugenium Papam.

4 Insuper scire te volo, quod Episcopus, quia pastoris vices habet, tenetur habere fasciculum florum, sub brachijs suis, quo oues vicinæ, & remotæ illectæ, currant gaudentes post odorem eius, iste vero fasciculus florũ significat prædicationem.

Inter cætera Episcopi munera peculiare est officium prædicandi, quod fasciculo florum, ideireo hoc comparatum, quisquis per illud debet Episcopue eorum suarum animas, à terrenarum rerum fœtore abductas, sua prædicatione odore, ac sermonis sui nitore, ad cœlestium amorem inflammare: hoc enim ostendunt & sacræ litteræ, sanctiq. Patres, Concilia quoque strictè illis præceperunt: sic enim Apost. Paulus 1. ad Timot. 4. scribens, Attende, inquit, lectioni, & exhortationi, & doctrinæ, & 2. ad Tim. 4. Prædica verbum, insta opportune, importune. & Conc. Carthag. 4. Episcopus ait, nullam rei familiaris curam ad se reuocet, sed lectioni, & orationi, & verbi Dei prædicationi tantummodo vacet. Verum apertius, vt alia antiquiora Concilia omittamus, hoc tradidit Conc. Trid. sess. 5. cap. 2. vbi inter Episcopalis onera, munus prædicandi dicit esse præcipuum, & præcipit Episcopis, vt per seipsos illud obeant, nisi legitima fuerint causa impediti, idem quoque habet D. Greg. Epist. 39. lib. 2. & Epistola 30. lib. 4.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM de concupiscentia malorum Episcoporum, & quomodo propter bonam voluntatem multi dignitatem obtinent spiritualem, quam inordinati Episcopi contemnunt, qui ad eam corporaliter sunt vocati, per latum exemplum inducit.

CAP. IIII.

MATER Dei loquebatur ad sponsam filij dicens. Tu ploras, quod charitas Dei ad hominem est maxima, & æ contra charitas hominum est ad Deum modica: Vere sic est. Quis enim est dominus, vel Episcopus, qui non magis concupiscit dominium ad honorem mundi obtinendum, vel diuitias, quam ad subueniendum pauperibus suis propriis manibus. Et ideo quia domini, vel Episcopi nolunt venire ad nuptias omnibus præparatas in cœlo, venient pauperes, & infirmi, sicut per exemplum tibi ostendere volo. In ciuitate quadã, erat quidam episcopus sapiens, & pulcher, & diues, qui de pulchritudine, & sapientia sua laudatus non regratiabatur Deo, vt debuit, qui dedit ei ipsam sapientiam. Laudabatur quoque, & honorabatur de diuitijs suis, & ideo dedit multa propter mundi fauorem. Plurima quoque concupiuit, vt largius daret, & amplius honoraretur. Iste Episcopus habebat quẽdam clericum pitrena-

2 var. lect. Similiter & in iſtis temporibus amici Dei clamabant dicentes. O benigniſſime Deus, nos videmus populum innumerabilem in periculoſis procellis perire, quoniam gubernatores auidi ſunt, illis terris iugiter applicare volentes. Vbi ſibi ipſis maius lucrum exiſtimant prouenire. Illic ſe, & populum ducentes vbi horribiliores ſunt iactus vndarum, neſciente populo ſecuritatis portum, & ob hoc miſerabiliter periclitatur populus infinitus, nimis paucis venientibus ad bonum portum. Ideo rogamus te omnis gloriæ regem, vt portum illuminare digneris quatenus populus vitare ſua pericula valeat, & iniquis gubernatoribus non parere, ſed ad portum rectum reduci lumine tuo benedicto. Per iſtos vero gubernatores, intelligo omnes poteſtatem habentes corporaliter, & ſpiritualiter in mundo. Plerique enim illorum in tantum diligunt voluntatem propriam, quod de animarum vtilitate, & ſuorum ſubditorum non attendunt, ſæuiſſimis mundi procellis, videlicet ſuperbiæ, cupiditatis, & immanditiæ, ſe voluntariæ involuendo, quorum actus miſera imitatur communitas, credens ſe per illam viam tenere rectam, & ſic ipſi ſe vna cum ſubditis perimunt ſequendo ſuæ voluntatis quemlibet appetitum. Per lucem vero, quam amici Dei petebant intelligo aliquam diuinam reuelationem fieri in mundo, ad hoc, vt charitas Dei renouari valeat in cordibus hominum, & eius iuſtitia

NOTAE.

1 SCriptum eſt, quod amici mei olim clamabant rogantes Deum dirumpere cælum, & deſcendere.

Sic legimus cap. 64 Iſaiam aliquando clamaſſe, Vtinam dirumperes cælos, & deſcenderes, à facie tua montes defluerent, ſcribitur autem hoc loco, ſic Amicos Dei clamaſſe, quoniam Iſaias non tantummodo in perſona ſua, ſed & omnium etiam Prophetarum Chriſti Aduentum deſiderantium loquutus eſt, præuidebat namq; Propheta Meſſiæ aduentũ, Populi abiectionem, & gentium vocationem, ſunt tamen, qui opinati ſunt, hunc textum Iſaiæ intelligendum eſſe non de primo Chriſti aduentu, ſed de ſecundo, vt annotauit Lyranus ibidem qui ſecundã hanc opinionem cenſet eſſe veriorem, quoniam, inquit, hoc loco Iſaias indicat illum venturum eſſe cum magna poteſtate, in primo autem aduentu Chriſtus venit in maxima humilitate, vt Zach. 9. patet illo verbis, Ecce Rex tuus venit tibi iuſtus, & Saluator, ipſe pauper, & aſcendens ſuper aſinum, explicat autem Lyranus illum textum ſic, Vtinam dirumperes cælos, & deſcenderes ad iudicium, ſcilicet, & ſubdens Propheta, à facie tua montes defluerent ſicut exuſtio ignis, Quia, inquit ante aduentum Iudicis montes terremotu corruent, & terra igne conflagrationis purgabitur, atque arderent igne, quando illo ignis purgabit aquas in ſuperficie terræ exiſtentes, hæc Lyranus, qui profecto etiam Alexan. Hoc loco quædam breuiter notanda ſunt, primum quidem, vt intelligamus quid ſit vocare aliquem in Spiritũ ſanctũ, ſciendum eſt ergo verbum vocare in ſacris literis ſumi aliquãdo pro excitare, vt 1. Reg. 3. vocauit Dominus Samuel, qui dormiens in templo Domini à Domino vocatus eſt.

Septimo autem die vocauit eum, vnde vocē sponsi Cant. 2. inspirationē esse Dei decet D. Bern. ser. 53. in Cant. & in triplici hoc sensu sumitur hic Verbū vocare, cum scribitur, placuit te vocare in Spiritum sanctum, hoc est, in te excitare Spiritum sanctum, aut te inspirare per Spiritum sanctum, verba vero, quæ sequuntur nimirum, ad videndum, audiendum, & vt debeas alijs revelare, indicant quapropter huiusmodi Reuelat. B. Brigittæ tradite sint ad Episcoporum nimirum instructionem, ad secularium Principum gubernationem ad populorum correctionem, quod apertius insinuatur lib. 7. VERBA EIVSDEM AMbrosij ad sponsam quandam similitudinem viri, & vxoris, & ancillæ disponentia, & qualiter per adulterum Episcopus malus, & per vxorem Ecclesia, & per ancillam mundi amor designantur, & de crudelissima sententia contra adhærentes magis mundo, quam Ecclesiæ.

CAP. VI.

EGO sum Ambrosius Episcopus, qui tibi appareo, loquens tecum per similitudinem quandam, quoniam cor tuum non potest capere intelligentiā spiritualium sine similitudine aliqua corporali. Vir quidam erat habens vxorem legitimam venustam valde, & prudentem. Cui tamen ancilla plus placebat, quam vxor, & ex hoc tria contingebant. Primum est, quod verba, & gestus ancillæ magis eum lætificabant, quam vxoris. Secundum est, quod ancillam vestiebat nobilissimis indumentis, non curans, quod vxor pannosa esset, aut quod communi panno vestiretur. Tertium est, quod nouem horis morari solebat cum ancilla, decima vero solum cum vxore. Nam prima hora erat cum ancilla, vigilans, dum eius pulchritudinem aspiciendo iucundabatur. Secunda hora inter ipsius brachia dormiebat. Tertia hora pro ancillæ commodo, corporalem laborē gaudenter sustinebat, Quarta hora quietem corporis cum ipsa habebat post corporis lassitudinem. Quinta hora inquietudinem mentis, & curam super eius prouisione habebat. Sexta hora mentis quietem cum ea habebat, quia iam videbat se de sua prouisione ei pleniter complacere. Septima hora intrabat in eum ardor carnalis concupiscentiæ. Octaua hora complebat cum ea suæ voluptatis appetitum. Nona hora aliqua omittebat agere, quæ tamen ei libebat perficere. Decima hora faciebat aliqua, quæ tamen non delectabant eum facere. Et sic vna hora tantummodo manebat cum vxore. Veniens vero quidam de propinquis vxoris ad adulterum grauiter increpauit eum dicens. 1 Ad legitimam tuam mentis tuæ charitatem conuerte ipsam diligendo, & sicut decet vestiendo, nouemque horis cum ipsa manendo, & sola decima hora cum ancilla, alioquin scies te mortem pessimam subiturum. 2 Per istud adulterum intelligo istius Ecclesiæ prouisorē, habentem quidem episcopale officium, sed vitam adulterinam. Ipse quippe sanctæ Ecclesiæ spirituali copula, ita coniunctus est, quod ipsa eius sponsa charissima esse deberet, qui tamē charitatem suā ab ipse retraxit. Multo-plus diligens seruilem mundum, quam dominam sponsam tam præclaram. Et ideo tria facit. Primum est, quod de mundi fraudolenta adulatione plus gratulatur, quam de sanctæ Ecclesiæ morigerosa dispositione. Secundū est, quod omnem mundi ornatum diligit, de defectu vero ornatus Ecclesiastici corporalis, vel spiritualis minus curans. Tertium est, quod nouem horas expendit pro mundo, & solam decimam pro Ecclesia sancta. Nam prima hora cum mūdo vigilat hilariter eius pulchritudinem intuens delectabiliter. Secunda hora inter brachia mundi, quæ sunt altitudo morum, & vigilantia hominum armatorum dormit suauiter corporis sui securitatem, se per hæc tenere confidens felicit ter. Tertia hora pro mundano cōmodo corporalem laborem sustinet gaudenter, vt ex hoc cum mundo lætetur corporaliter. Quarta hora post corporalem laborem accipit quietem corporis libenter, quia quicquid ei placet iam habet sufficienter. Quinta hora mentis inquietudinem habet multipliciter, vt mundanis rebus prouidere videatur sapienter. Sexta hora mentis quietem habet iucundaliter, prouisionem suam mundanis hominibus placere videns vniuersaliter. Septima hora audiendo, & videndo mundi delectabilia, & in voluntatem suam trahit desiderabiliter, ex quibus in corde accenditur impatienter, & intolerabiliter. Octaua

hotè perficit actualiter; quæ prius desidera bat ardenter. Nona hora aliqua sibi placita propter mundum omittit inutiliter, ne videatur eos offendere, quos diligit carnaliter. Decima hora aliqua bona perficit, sed non delectabiliter, timens, quod infamis habeatur contemptibiliter, & diiudicetur miserabiliter, si ea aliqua ex causa omiserit totaliter, & ista hora decima solummodo cum sancta Ecclesia solet commorari. Bona quæ facit non ex charitate faciens, sed ex timore, timet enim supplicium ignis infernalis, quin si posset cum sospitate corporis, & mundanarum rerum abundantia æternaliter viuere, de carentia supernæ fœlicitatis non curaret. Propterea dico certissime, iurans per Deum, qui caret principio, & erit finem, quod nisi se cito ad sanctam Ecclesiam conuerterit, cum ipsa nouem horas ducendo cum ancilla vero, ideſt mundo, decimam, nõ tamen cum diligendo, sed inuitus, eius diuitias; & honores secundum episcopale officium habendo, omnia ad Dei honorem humiliter, & rationabiliter disponendo, ipse in anima sua spiritualem percussionem tam gravem habebit, sicut ille, per similitudinẽ corporalem loquendo, habere videretur, qui tam horribiliter percuteretur in vertice, quod planta pedis, cum tota corporis carne dissolueretur, venæ, & nerui rumperentur, ossa confringerentur, & medullæ miserabiliter vndique effluerent. Et sicut amarissime cor illius corporis cruciari videretur, si vertex, & viciniora membra percuterentur dum etiam planta pedis, quæ remotior est læderetur. Sic & misera anima diuinæ sententiæ propinquissima ictui, torqueri æstimabitur amarissime, dum conscientia se videt vbique intolerabiliter sauciari.

NOTAE.

1 var. lect. Paulo ante medium præsentis capitis, vbi bastenus impressa omnia habent exemplaria, Ad legitimam tuam mentis tuæ charitatem conuerte ipsam diligendo, & sicut decet eã vestiendo.

M.S. Farnesianus legit, Ad legitimam vxorem tuam reuertere, atque ita legendum esse arbitror, quandoquidem reprehenditur hic quidam Episcopus, qui sponsam legitimam suam, hoc est Ecclesiã, deseruerat, seque ad huius seculi delitias, ac voluptates conuerterat: redarguitur autem sub similitudine viri, qui vxorem duxerat, quì tamen cũ sua vxoris ancilla sæpissime coniungebatur, qua de re à quodam suæ vxoris propinquo admonetur, vt relicta ancilla quamcitissime ad suam vxorem legitimam reuertatur, & idcirco textus iste sic restituendus est, reuertere ad legitimam vxorem tuam.

2 Per istud adulterium intelligo istius Ecclesiæ prouisorem habentem quidem Episcopale officium, sed vitam adulterinam.

Optime hic D. Ambr. Episcopum suæ Ecclesiæ curam deserentem, & terrenis rebus inhærentem, adulterum appellat: sicut enim, cum alter coniugũ a fide in matrimonio præstita recedit, adulterium committere dicitur: sic quoq. Prælatus adulterium committit, cum eidem Ecclesiæ, quæ illi desponsata est, fidem frangit, vnde in consecratione Episcopo traditur anulus, quod præcipue desponsatis congruit, vt significetur se cum Ecclesia sibi commissa, veluti cum sponsa gerere debere.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD Sponsam, qualiter Episcopus diligens mundum flabello pleno vento, & testudini iacenti in putredine comparatur, & quomodo talis Ambrosio Episcopo oppositus iudicatur.

CAP. VII.

SCRIPTVRA dicit, qui diligit animam suam in hoc mundo perdet eã. Iste vero episcopus diligit animam suam iuxta omnem voluptatem suã, & spiritualis delectatio non est in corde eius. Ideo bene comparari potest flabello pleno vento, iuxta conflatorium. Nam sicut carbonibus consumptis, & ære ignito fluente adhuc remanet ventus in flabello; sic ipse quamuis naturę suæ tribuit omne quod appetit, consumens tempus suũ inutiliter, tamen remanet sibi eadem delectatio, sicut ventus in flabello. Nã voluntas eius est ad superbiã, & cupiditatẽ mundi, ex quibus induratis corde dat occasionẽ, & exẽplum peccandi, qui consumpti in peccatis defluunt in infernum. Nõ sic dispositus fuit ille bonus Ambrosius Episcopus. Eius deniq. cor plenum fuit diuina voluntate. Eius cibus, & sõnus rationabilis, qui exsuffians peccati voluptatẽ, tempus suum consumpsit vtiliter, & honeste. Ipse quippe bene vocari potest flabellũ virtutũ. Sanauit. n. vulnera peccati verbis veritatis, incendit frigidos diuina charitate, & bonorũ operum suorum exẽplo, feruentes quoq. voluptate peccati, refriguerũt ex eius munda vita. Et sic ipse multos iuuit ne intrarent mortẽ inferni, quia diuina delectatio in eo permansit, quãdiu vixit. Iste vero episcopus similis est testudini, quæ iacẽs in innata putredine, trahit caput in terram. Sic iste iacet, & delectatur in peccati abominatione trahens animũ ad terrena nõ ad

VERBA VIRGINIS AD Sponsam de sui ipsius perfectione, & excellentia, & de inordinato magistrorum modernorum appetitu, & de eorum falsa responsione ad Virginis gloriosæ quæstionem sibi per ipsam factam.

CAP. VIII.

MATER loquitur. Ego sum illa, quæ ab æterno in charitate Dei fui, & ab infantia mea Spiritus sanctus perfecte erat mecum. Et sicut de nuce exẽplum habere poteris, quæ cum crescit dilatante se testa, quæ extrinsecus est, dilatatur, & crescit etiam nucleus, qui intrinsecus est. Ita vt nux semper sit plena, & nihil in ea vacuum, quod capax
1 sit alicuius rei exterioris. 1 Similiter & ego ab infantia mea plena eram Spiritu sancto, & iuxta corporis, & ætatis meæ accrescentiam, tam affluenter me totam repleuit Spiritus sanctus, quod nihil in me vacuum reliquit ad peccati alicuius introitum. Et ideo ego illa sum, quæ nunquam peccatum commisi veniale, nec mortale. Ego quippe in charitate Dei tam ardens eram, quod nihil mihi placuit, nisi perfectio voluntatis Dei. Feruebat enim in corde meo ignis diuinæ charitatis. Deus quoque super omnia benedictus, qui me sua potentia creauit, & Spiritus sancti virtute repleuit, ad me ar-
2 dentem charitatem habuit. 2 Et ex huius charitatis feruore misit nuncium suum ad me, faciens me voluntatem suam intelligere, vt videlicet fierem Mater Dei. Quod dum noui esse voluntatis diuinæ, statim ex igne charitatis, quam in corde ad Deum
3 habui, 3 per os meum exiuit veræ obedientiæ verbum, per quod nuncio respondi. Fiat inquiens mihi secundum Verbum tuum. Et in eodem puncto, Verbum caro factum est in me, & Dei filius, factus est filius meus, & sic ambo habebamus vnũ filium, qui vtrunque Deus est, & homo, & ego similiter Mater atque Virgo. Cumque hic filius meus, qui est Vir sapientissimus, & Deus verus Iesus Christus iaceret in vtero meo, tantam ab ipso adepta sum sapientiam, quod non solum magistrorum intelligere valeam sapientiam. Verum etiam in cordibus eorum cerno, vtrum verba ipsorum ex diuina charitate, aut ex solius litteraturæ astutia procedunt. Ergo tu quæ verba audis, nuncia magistro illi, quod ego tria ab ipso interrogo. Primum est, vtrum maius est sibi desiderium ad habendum fauorem, & amicitiam Episcopi corporaliter, vel an desiderat plus animam eius præsentare Deo spiritualiter. Secundo vtrum ex plurimorum florenorum propria, & singulari possessione in animo plus delectetur, vel an ex nullorum. Tertio quid sibi de his duobus videtur magis placere, vocari, scilicet magister, & inter honoratos cum primis pro mundana gloria residere, aut simplex frater vocari, & inter vltimos residere. Hæc tria diligenter perserutetur. 4 Si enim Episcopum corporaliter
4 var. lect. plusquam spiritualiter diligit, tunc sequitur quod magis dicit ei illa, quæ delectant eum audire, quam omnia peccaminosa prohibet, quæ delectant eum agere. Si vero de plurimorum florenorum proprietate plus gratulatur, quam nullorum, tunc diuitias plus paupertate diligit, & videtur, tunc amicis suis consulere, quod magis teneant quicquid possunt acquirere quam dimittant, quo carere libentius potuissent. Si vero delectatur nomine magistri propter honorem mundi, & inter honoratos locari, tunc superbiã plus humilitate diligit, & ex hoc similior coram Deo apparet asino, quam magistro.
5 5 Tunc enim vacua stramina manducat, quæ litteraturæ scientiæ sine charitate comparantur, & deest optimum triticum, quod charitati comparatur. Quia charitas diuina in superbo corde firmari nunquam potest. Post excusationem autem magistri excusantis se, & dicentis, quod maius esset sibi desiderium præsentare animam Episcopi Deo spiritualiter, & quod plus delectatur in nullis florenis. Tertio, quod nihil curat de nomine magistri. Respondit iterum Mater. Ego sum, quæ veritatem de ore Gabrielis audiui, & indubitanter credidi, vnde & veritas de meo corpore sibi carnem sumpsit, & sanguinem, & mansit in me. Illam eandem veritatem genui de me, qui vtrunque Deus, & homo est ex se. Et quia veritas, quæ Dei filius est, ad me venire, & in me habitare, ex meque nasci voluit, ideo plenissime intelligo vtrum in ore hominum sit veritas an non. Verum ego tria a magistro quæsiui, quem mihi bene respondisse, probarem, si in verbis suis fuisset veritas, quæ quia in eis non erat, ideo de alijs tribus ipsum præcaueo. Primum est, quòd aliqua sunt, quæ corporaliter diligit, & desiderat, & illa nullo modo obtinebit. Secundum est, quòd illud, quòd nunc habet cum mundana lætitia citius amittet. Tertium est, quòd pusilli intrabunt cælum, magni autem stabunt foris, quoniam porta est angusta.

NOTAE.

1 SImiliter, & ego ab infantia mea plenaram Spiritu sancto, & iuxta corporis, & ætatis meæ accrescentiam, tam affluenter me totã repleuit Spiritus sanctus, quod nihil in me vacuum reliquit ad peccati alicuius introitum.

Ex his verbis satis aperte duo colligi possunt. Primo quidem Beatiss. Virginẽ nullum vnquam contraxisse peccatum, Secundo vero hoc singulare priuilegium, quod nunquam peccauerit ab exordio suæ infantiæ accepisse, quod ex his verbis deducitur, ab infantia mea plena eram Spiritu sancto, &c. Sic etiam docuerunt Gabriel in 3. dist. 3. q. 2. art. 3. sequuntur Almainus, & Ocham dist. 12. quæst. 2. Sed D. Thomas 3. par. quæst. 27. art. 4. ad primum, & in 3. dist. 3. quæst. 1. art. 3. distinguens, tradit in prima sanctificatione datum esse Mariæ solum, vt nunquam de facto peccaret, in secunda vero, idest, in sui filij conceptione datum esse, vt nec deinceps peccare posset, fauens huic sententiæ D. Bonauent. in 3. d. 3. q. 2. art. 1. Richardus Victorinus super Cantica cap. 26. Alensis 3. par. quæst. 9. membro 3. art. 2. §. 2. sed quidquid sit certissimum est, diuinitus obtinuisse Mariam, vt nunquam peccaret, & de facto, nec culpam aliquã venialẽ, nec mortalem cõmitteret, vt scribitur hic, quod videtur definitum (vt refert Vega lib. 14. in Concilij Tridentini cap. 18.) in Concilio Claromontano sub Vrbano Secundo, & Concilio Tridentino Sess. 4. Can. 23. tradit Ecclesiam tenere Mariam Virginem ex diuino peculiari priuilegio, omnia peccata venialia vitasse, & hæc est concors Scholasticorum sententia in 3. dist. 3. qui pluribus argumentis, & coniecturis hanc veritatem confirmant, sic etiam sancti Patres senserunt D. Bernardus Epistola 174. & serm. 2. de Assumptione D. Augustinus de Nat. & gratia cap. 36. Rupertus lib. 7. de glorificatione Trinit. cap. 13. & lib. 6. in Cant. circa initium, Vgo Victorinus lib. 2. de Emanuele cap. 30. D. Thomas quodlib. 6. art. 3. ex his merito cum D. Gregorio Thaumat. serm. 2. in Annuncia. non longe ab initio Mariam appellare possumus Immaculatum puritatis, ac integritatis simulacrum, Supercælestis lætitiæ vas, atque receptaculum, nitæ candidiorem mentem habentem, corpus vero auro fulgidius, & ad finem eiusdem sermonis eam etiam vocat Thronum Cherubicum, & ser. 3. Campum deliciarum, Animatam ciuitatem, de qua psal. 86. scribitur. Gloriosa dicta sunt de te ciuitas Dei, Paradisum Dei ratione præditum, Portam Orientalem, Domicilium Verbo Dei dignum, Æternum Cælum, Sanctuarium præparatum, Incarnationis Christi cubiculum, Parnum natiuitatis Christi secundum carnem Thalamum, Arcam Dei ratione præditam, Animatum Regis Angelorum palatium.

2 Ex huius charitatis feruore misit nunciũ suum ad me, faciens me voluntatem suam intelligere, vt videlicet fierem Mater Dei.

Ad horum intelligentiam duo breuiter a nobis inuestiganda sunt: primo quidem cuius dignitatis, & ordinis fuerit Gabriel, qui incarnationis Domini ea mysterium nuncianit. Secundo vero, an in specie visibili, & humana apparuerit. Et quantum spectat ad primum, cum in sacris litteris hoc minime expressum sit, cumq. inter Sanctos Patres hac de re aliqualis dissensio sit, res incerta, & ambigua est, & quidem D. Bernardus Homil. 1. super Missus est, existimauit, illum fuisse ex supremis Angelis. Arbitror, inquit, hunc Angelum non de minoribus esse, qui qualibet ex causa crebra soleant ad terras fungi legatione: probat autem hoc dupliciter, primo quia illud dignitati mysterij erat consonum, vt ad illud nunciandum dignissimus mitteretur: decebat enim summum Angelum, summum mysterium annunciare. Secundo, quia supremi Angeli non sũt sub alijs, sed sub Deo immediate: hic autem qui missus est, a Deo dicitur missus, Lucæ 1. Missus est Gabriel Angelus a Deo. Sed hæc D. Bernardi sententia aliqualem haberet difficultatem, si per supremũ Angelum intelligeret aliquem ex ordine supremo primæ Hierarchiæ: & ratio est, quia supremi Angeli non mittuntur, vt constat ex D. Dionysio de cælesti Hierarch. c. 3. dicit enim, Angelorum ordines officijs, ac functionibus distinctos esse, ex omnibus autem ordinibus duo vltimi infimæ Hierarchiæ ad custodiendos homines, resq. propalandas, quæ ad eos spectant destinati sunt, Dicendum ergo videtur hunc fuisse ex vltima Hierarchia caput, & Principem secundi ordinis Archangelorum, quia Archãgeli summa solent nunciare, quam sententiam plures ex Sanctis Patribus secuti sunt, qui Angelum illum Archangelum vocarunt: sic Damasc. sermon. de Natiu. Mariæ, eum Angelum Archangelum vocat, & sui ordinis Principem: sanct. D. Aug. ser. 14. de Natiu. Iren. lib. 3. cont. hæres. c. 25. Ambr. lib. 1. de Spiritu S. c. 7. And. Hieros. Ho. de Anunc. Hesich. ho. 1. de Sancta Deipara, D. Gregorius homil. 34. in Euangel. D. Thomas 3. p. q. 30 ar. 2. ad quartũ. Ad auctoritatẽ ergo Ber-

Bernardi respondeo, eum per supremum Angelum non intellexisse absolute primum in ordine omnium Angelorum, sed primum, & caput secundi ordinis Archangelorum infimæ Hierarchiæ, illi enim primæ Hierarchiæ, vt probauimus supra non mittuntur, cum vero dicit decuisse summum Angelum, summum mysterium annunciare, verissimum quidem est, quia summa annunciare est Archangelorum, minora Angelorum, tum quia eo ipso, quod nunciat, sine suprema, sine minora committitur, non esse absolute supremum primæ Hierarchiæ, quia illi ad annunciandum non mittuntur, nec valet, Secunda ratio, qua probabatur Gabrielem esse primæ Hierarchiæ, quoniam Lucæ primo scribitur à Deo missus, nam etiam Angeli infimi dicuntur à Deo missi, quia ex eius imperio mittuntur, licet ea, ob quæ mittuntur cognoscant à superioribus Angelis; postremo patet Gabrielem non esse ex supremis, quia Danielis 8. legimus, ipsum Gabrielem fuisse missum ab alio Angelo.

Superest videamus modo, an Gabriel sub humana specie, exteriusque sensibili Mariæ apparuerit, quod sane videtur affirmandum, quoniam illum esse venturum Virgini annunciabat, qui licet hominibus fuisset hactenus inuisibilis, visibilem tamen se exhibere volebat visibilem formam sumendo, & ideo D. Augustinus serm. 14. de Annunciat. de Gabriele verba faciens dicit, in persona Virginis, venit ad me quidam magnus Christi Paranimphus, non Patriarcha primus, aut Propheta egregius, sed Gabriel Archangelus facie nitidus, veste corruscans, ingressu mirabili, aspectu terribili, & Lucæ 1. scribitur, ingressum fuisse Angelum, & discessisse, quæ omnia corporalem motum, & visionem etiam corporalem insinuant, quod etiam admonuit D Thomas 3. par. quæst. 30. art. 3 idem affirmarunt Origenes Hom. 4. in Lucam, Petrus Chrisologus serm. 140. Ambrosius lib 1 de officijs cap. 8. Eusebius Emissenus Hom. 1. super Missus est, Hieronymus Epistola 22. ad Eustochium de custodia Virginitatis, circa finem, & apertius hoc idem insinuauit D. Gregorius Thaumat. serm. 1. in Annunciat. aliquanto post initium, quo loco Mariam, sic Angelum alloquentem facit; è cælo aduenisti, & in terra humanam formam exhibes, & lucis fulgore splendes.

3 Per os meum exiuit verè obedientiæ verbum, per quod nuncio respondi fiat, inquiēs mihi secundum Verbum tuum, & in eodem puncto, Verbum caro factum est, in me, & Dei filius factus est filius meus.

Beatissima Virgo hoc loco affirmat, quod statim, vt suum consensum Incarnationi filij Dei præstitit, in eodem instanti in se filium Dei concepit, ita vt idem Christus, tunc temporis esset, & verus filius Dei, & verus filius hominis, sunt tamen, qui existimarunt, Mariam concepisse ante consensum præstitum, vt primum illam Angelus salutauit illis verbis (Dominus tecum) sic D. Chrysost. in Liturgia, D. Greger. Neocæsariensis D. Hieronym. hom. de Annunciat. & alij ex patribus Græcis, videtur tamen dicendum, id factum esse præstito consensu, cū ea verba protulit (fiat mihi secundum Verbum tuū) sicut scribitur hic, & affirmarunt fere omnes Patres D. Athanasius, D Augustinus, Beda, D. Ambros. Petrus Chrisolog. & alij quos citauimus supra lib. 2. Reuelat. cap. 13. nota 2. vbi de hac re latius egimus.

4 Tunc sequitur, quod magis dicit ei illa, quæ delectant eum audire, quam omnia peccaminosa prohibet.

var. lect. M. S. Farnesianus sic legit, Tunc sequitur, quod magis dicit ei, illa quæ delectant eum audire, quam illa peccati ignominiosa prohibeas.

5 Tunc enim vacua stramina masticat, quæ litteraturæ scientiæ, sine charitate comparantur.

Non video quis sensus, ex his verbis elici possit, & ideo locum sic esse restituendum censeo, tunc enim vacua stramina masticat, qui litteraturæ scientiam, sine charitate sibi comparat, hic autem Beatissima Virgo acriter quendam sacræ Theologiæ Doctorem reprehendit, qui ob magistrij gradum ambitionis vento inflatus, Episcopo, cui inseruiebat, non quæ ad Dei honorem, proximique salutem spectabant, sed quæ Episcopo placita erant suggerebat dicitur autem masticare stramina, quia quemadmodum, cum sola stramina animalibus ad comedendum dantur, ea semper debilia sunt, nec inde vires hauriunt, ita prorsus Doctor veluti quoddam animal rationis expers, nisi cum litterarum scientia charitatem coniungat, & ad proximorum commodum doctrina non vtatur, nihil proficit, nec congruentem fructum ex litteris percipit, vnde Hieremiæ 14. huiusmodi Doctores trahere ventum, quasi Dracones dicuntur, quia in solo ambitionis vento persistunt, & de sua doctrina vanitate gloriantur, vt auctor est D. Hieron. ibi, quod egregie explicans D Bernardus super Cant. serm. 36. sunt, inquit, qui sciunt eo fine tantum, vt sciant, & turpis curiositas est, & sunt qui sciunt, vt scientiam suam vendant, scilicet pro pecunia, & honoribus, & turpis quæstus est, & sunt, qui scire volunt, vt sciantur ipsi, & turpis vanitas est, & sunt, qui scire volunt, vt ædificent, & charitas est, & sunt, qui scire volunt, vt ædificentur, & prudentia est.

CAP. X.

LOQVITVR Mater. Ne timeas ea, quæ nunc videbis à ſpiritu malo eſſe exiſtimãs. Quemadmodum enim cum ſolis appropinquatione duo veniunt lux, videlicet, & calor, qui caliginoſam vmbram non ſequuntur. Sic cum Spiritus ſancti aduentu in corde tuo veniunt. Ardor ſcilicet diuinæ charitatis, & fidei ſanctæ perfecta illuminatio. Hæc autem duo, nunc ſentis. Hęc quoque duo diabolum, qui caliginoſæ vmbræ comparatur non ſequuntur. Mitte ergo ad illum, quem tibi nominaui nuncium meum, quamuis autem ego ſcio, cor, & reſponſionem eius, finem quoque vitæ eius celerem, tamen debes mittere ei verba iſta ſequentia. Ego denique notum illi facio, quod in dextra parte ſanctæ Eccleſiæ, fundamentum tam vehementer dilapſum eſt, quod ſumma teſtudo plures ruptu ras habet, dans ex ſe caſus periculoſos, ita quod multi de ſubeuntibus perdunt vitam. Plereque columnæ, quæ in altum tendere deberent, vſque ad terram ſe inclinant. Totumque etiam pauimentum tam ſuffoſſum eſt, quod cæci introeuntes cadunt periculoſe. Et adhuc interdum contingit clare videntes, vna cum cœcis cadere grauiter cauſa periculoſarum foſſarum eiuſdem pauimenti. Et propter iſtas cauſas ſtat nimis periculoſe Eccleſia Dei, & quid ſibi ſic ſtanti vicinius eſt, quam ruina? Certiſſime dico tibi, quod niſi iuuamen reparationis habuerit ipſius ruina tam grandis erit, quod per totã Chriſtianitatem audietur. Ego autem illa Virgo ſum, in cuius vterum filius Dei venire dignatus eſt, excluſa quacunque carnis contagioſa voluptate. Ille vero idem Dei filius de meo clauſo vtero natus eſt, cum maxima conſolatione, & ſine aliqua pœna. Ego iuxta crucem ſteti, quando cum vera patientia infernum victorioſe vincebat, & ſui cordis ſanguine cælum aperiebat. Ego etiam eram in monte quando Dei filius, qui eſt, & meus filius ad cælum aſcendit. Ego etiam totam Catholicam fidem clariſſime noui, quam ipſe euangelizando omnes ingredi cælum volentes docuit. 1 Ego itaque illa eadem iam ſto ſuper mundum continua oratione ſicut arcus cæli ſuper nubem, qui ad terram inclinari videtur, & ambobus ſuis finibus eam tangere. Per cæleſtem arcum itaque meipſam intelligo, quæ ad habitatores mundi me inclino, tangens bonos, & malos oratione mea, ad bonos nanque me inclino, vt in his, quæ ſancta Eccleſia præcipit ſtabiles efficiantur. Ad malos vero ne in malitia ſua proceſſum habeant, vt fiant deteriores. 2 Notum itaque facio iſti, quem tibi nominaui, quod ex vna parte terræ, horribiles nubes ſurgunt contra claritatem arcus. Per quas nubes intelligo illos, qui in carne vitam meretricalem habent, & ſunt inſatiabiles ſimiles voragini maris ad cupiditatem pecuniæ. Bona quoque irrationabiliter, ac prodigaliter, ſicut torrens in impetu ſuo aquam fundens, pro ſuperbia largiuntur. Hæc itaque tria plerique nunc exercent Eccleſiæ prouiſores, quorum peccata in cælum aſcendunt horribilia ante conſpectum Dei contra meam orationem, ſicut teterrime nubes contra claritatem arcus. Sic etiam illi, qui iram Dei mecum placare deberent, contra ſe iram Dei excitant, & tales in Eccleſia Dei non deberent exaltari. Quicunque ergo curam apponere voluerit, vt fundamentum Eccleſiæ fiat ſtabile, & vinea illa benedicta, quam Deus fundauit ſanguine ſuo renouetur. Si ſe inſufficientem viderit, ego Regina cælorum cum omnibus Angelis ei in adiutorium venire volo, fabuloſas radices extirpando, ſterileſque arbores ignem proijciendo, ac in earum locis ramuſculos fructuoſos inſerendo. Per vineam vero intelligo Eccleſiam Dei, in qua duo, humilitas ſcilicet, & charitas diuina debent renouari.

Sequitur additio. Filius Dei loquitur de nuntijs Papæ. Vos veniſtis in ſocietatem maiorum, & adhuc ad maiora aſcendentis. Ideo ſummè meretur ille, qui laborat ad hoc, vt humilitas exaltetur, quia ſuperbia iam nimis aſcenderat. Honorem etiam maximum habebit ille, qui charitatem habet ad animas, quia ambitio, & ſimonia iam in pleriſque regnant. Felix etiam erit ille, qui conatur pro poſſe ſuo, vt vitia de mundo extirpentur, quia iam plus ſolito inualeſcunt. Eſt etiam vtiliſſimum habere, & petere patientiam, quia in diebus multorum, qui nunc viuunt ſol dimidiabitur, ſtellæ confundentur, ſapiẽtia infatuabitur, humiles in terra ingemiſcent, & audaces prævalebunt, hoc ſapientium eſt intelligere, & interpretari, qui aſpera ſciunt deplanare, & futura prouidere.

1 EGo itaque illa eadem ſto ſuper mundum continua oratione ſicut arcus cęli ſuper nubem.

Optime hoc loco Maria ſe cæleſti ſimilem eſſe arcui tradit, qui ſicut Geneſis 9. legimus, diuinitus datus eſt mundo in ſignum fœderis, ac pacti, quo nobis Creatorem noſtrum factum eſſe propitium intelligeremus: ita quoque benigniſſimus Deus Beatiſſimam Virginem nobis contulit, vt pro peccatis noſtris precibus ſuis imminentes tempeſtates ſedaret, & ſicut aereus arcus, quam pluribus fulget coloribus, ſic etiam Maria innumeris elucet mundo virtutibus: eſt enim ob Virginitatem candida, ob charitatem purpurea, ob morum ſuauitatem, ac puritatem coloris aerei, vt mirum non ſit, ſi de ea Regius Propheta ſcripſerit Pſalm. 44. Aſtitit Regina à dextris tuis in veſtitu deaurato circundata varietate, vt autem in huius arcus pul-

Vide, inquit, arcum, & benedic eum, qui fecit illum, valde ſpecioſus eſt in ſplendore ſuo, gyrauit cælum in circuitu gloriæ ſuæ, manus excelſi aperuerunt illum, imperio ſuo accelleranit niuem: hactenus Eccleſiaſtes, qui biſce poſtremis verbis viſus eſt indicare voluiſſe niuem fuiſſe acceleratam, tunc maxime quando Exquiliinum montem in Vrbe Menſe Auguſti nine cooperiri Deus inſſit, oſtendens locum, vbi ad honorem Virginis dedicaretur Eccleſia, quæ hodierna die Sanctæ Mariæ Maioris nomine communiter appellatur.

2 Notum itaque facio iſti, quem tibi nomi naui, quod ex vna parte terræ horribiles nubes ſurgunt contra claritatem arcus.

Prædicit hic Beatiſſima Virgo, Beatæ Brigitæ futurum, vt contra eum Epiſcopum, de quo in præſenti capite ſermo ſit, complures inſurgant hoſtes, qui illi, eiuſque Eccleſiæ graviores moleſtias, ac maxima incommoda illaturi erant: dicit autem, quod nubes inſurgent, quia per nubes prauorum hominum deſignantur ſuggeſtiones; ſic enim tradit D. Gregor. curæ paſtoralis part. 3. admonitione 16. paulo poſt medium, vbi explicans illud Eccleſiaſtici 11. qui obſervat ventum non ſeminat, & qui conſiderat nubes nunquam metit. Quid enim per ventum, inquit, niſi malignorum ſpirituum tentatio exprimitur, & quid per nubes, quæ mouentur à vento, niſi aduerſitates prauorum hominum deſignantur. idem docent D. Bernard. ſuper Cant. ſerm. 58. & Eucherius de ſpiritualibus formulis cap. 3. dicere etiam poſſumus, quod hic per nubes ſignificari poſſunt hæretici, qui huius prælati, cuius hoc loco mentio fit, vitæ, ac morum prauitate adducti, conſurrexerũt contra claritatem arcus, ſcilicet contra Eccleſiam, & doctrinam ſacram, quæ proprie arcus eſt Eccleſiæ, ob ipſa enim ad hominum corda ferienda, ſicut ſagittæ, veniunt terribiles minæ, vnde Pſalm. 7. ſcribit David, Arcum ſuum tetendit, & paravit illum, & in ipſo paravit vaſa mortis, & ſagittas ſuas ardentibus effecit, quia peccatoribus per ſacras litteras terrores, & minas velati ſagittas incutit, ſic explicat hunc locum Pſalmi D. Auguſtinus.

VERBA FIDEI SPONSAE ad Chriſtum, & qualiter Ioannes Baptiſta inducit ſponſæ certitudinem Chriſti ſibi alloquentis, & de boni diuitis fœlicitate, & qualiter indiſcretus Epiſcopus propter ſui fatuitatem, & peſſimam vitam aſſimilatur ſimiæ.

CAP. XI.

SPONSA loquebatur Chriſto in oratione humiliter dicens. O Domine mi Ieſu Chriſte, ſic firmiter credo tibi, quod etiam ſi ſerpens iaceret ante os meum, non intraret niſi te propter bonum meum permittente. Reſpondit Ioannes Baptiſta. 1 Ille qui apparet tibi ipſe eſt naturaliter Dei filius, cui Pater me audiente perhibuit teſtimonium dicens. Hic eſt filius meus. 2 Ipſe eſt, a quo Spiritus ſanctus proceſſit, qui me baptizante ſuper eum in columbæ ſpecie apparuit. Ipſe eſt ſecundum carnem verus filius Virginis, cuius corpus manibus meis attrectaui. Crede ergo ei firmiter, & ingredere viam eius. Ipſe enim eſt, qui viam rectam ad cælum demonſtrauit, per quam pauper, & diues ingredi poteſt cælum. 3 Sed quærere poteris quomodo diues debet eſſe diſpoſitus, qui ingreſſurus eſt cælum. Cum Deus perſonaliter dixerit, quod facilius eſt camelum per foramen acus tranſire, quam diuitem ingredi cælum? Ad hoc reſpondeo tibi. Ille diues qui ſic diſpoſitus eſt, qui timet aliquid ſecum male eſſe acquiſitum, qui ſollicitus eſt, ne bona ſua inutiliter, & cõtra Deũ expendantur, qui inuita poſſidens poſſeſſionem, & honorem mundi, libenter deſiderat ſeparari ab eis. Turbaturque de diſpendio animarum inhonoratione Dei. Et quãuis ex diſpenſatione diuina cogitur quodãmodo habere mundum, tota tamen intentione vigilat circa amorem Dei, hic talis diues fructuoſus, & fęlix diues eſt, & charus Deo. Sed nõ eſt, ſic diues iſte epiſcopus, ipſe quippe ſimilis eſt ſimiæ habenti quattuor conditiones. Quarum prima eſt, quod præparatur ei veſtes tendentes ad inferiorem partem, & anteriora velantes, ſed verecundiora eius apparent tota nuda. Secunda conditio eſt, quod digitis ſuis tangens fœtentia applicatori ſuo. Tertia eſt, quod faciem quidem habet humanam, ſed colorem, & ſpeciẽ reliquam beluinam. Quarta eſt, quod licet habet manus, & pedes, attamen cum digitis, & manibus calcat lutum. Sic Epiſcopus iſte fatuus eſt quaſi ſimia, curioſus in mundi vanitate, deformatus a laudabili operatione, nam habet veſtes, ideſt, ordines epiſcopales, qui ſunt valde honorabiles, & precioſi apud Deum, ſed verecundiora ſua apparent nuda, quia leuitas morum ſuorum, & affectus carnalis oſtenditur hominibus ad animarum deſtructionem. Contra quæ dicit miles ille egregius, quod verecundiora hominis maiorem honeſtatẽ habent, notans per hoc, quod motus beſtiales clericorum celari debent bonis operibus, ne exemplo eorum infirmi ſcandalizentur. Simia quoque tangit, & odorat fœtentia. Quid facit digitus niſi demonſtrationem rei viſæ, ſicut ego videns Deum in humanitate demonſtraui eum digito. Ecce inquiens Agnus Dei. Quid ergo ſunt digiti Epiſcopi, niſi mores ſui laudabiles, quibus demonſtrare deberet iuſtitiam Dei, & eius charitatem. Nunc autem in operibus ſuis demonſtrat, quod eſt diues, & generoſus, ſapiens mundi, & prodigus pecuniarum. Quid autem ſunt hæc omnia, niſi tanquam digitos mittere ad fœtentia? Nam gloriari de carne, & lata familia, quid aliud eſt, quam gloriari de inflatis ſaccis? Simia quoque habet faciem humanam, ſed ſpeciem reliquam beluinam. Sic iſte animam quidem habet ſignaculo Dei inſignitam, ſed per propriam cupiditatem deformatam. Quarto ſicut ſimia tangit, & calcat cum pedibus, & manibus lutum, ſic iſte affectu, & opere terrenis inhiat, auertens vultum ſuum a cæleſtibus, & inclinans ad terrena tanquã animal obliuioſum. Nunquid talis mitigat iram Dei? Nequaquam, ſed magis prouocat contra ſe iuſtitiam Dei.

Additio. Hæc reuelatio facta eſt delegato Cardinali anno Iubilei, &c. Filius Dei loquitur. O diſputator ſuperbe, vbi pompa tua, vbi apparatus equorum? Noluiſti intelligere cum eſſes in honore, ideo nũc inhonoratus es. Dic igitur quamuis omnia ſcio, audiente ipſa ſponſa, & noua, quæ quæro. Et ſtatim quaſi vna perſona tremula, & nuda apparuit mirabiliter deformata. Cui dixit iudex. O anima tu docuiſti ſpernere mundũ, & diuitias eius, cur ergo ſecutus es ea? Reſpondit anima, quia dulcius ſapuit mihi fœtor peſſimus, quam odor tuus ſuaviſſimus. Et ſtatim dicto verbo per æthiopem vnum, infuſum eſt animæ vas ſulphuris, & veneni. Item dixit iudex. O anima tu poſita fuiſti populis in candelabrum lucis, quare non lucebas verbo, & exẽplo. Reſpondit anima, Quia charitas tua fuit abraſa a corde meo. Ibam ſicut homo ſine memoria, & ſicut vir vagus reſpiciens præſentia, & non attendens futura. Quo dicto anima priuata eſt lumine oculorum. Et dixit vnus æthiops, qui adſtare videbatur. O iudex, hæc anima mea eſt, quid facturus ſum? Reſpondit iudex, Purga eam, & quaſi in prælo examina, donec veniat conſiſtorium, in quo allegationes amicorum, & inimicorum diſcutientur.

NOTAE.

1 ILle qui apparet tibi, ipſe eſt naturaliter Dei filius, cui pater me audiente perhibuit teſtimonium dicens. Hic eſt filius meus dilectus.

In præſenti capite B. Ioannes Baptiſta ſponſam certiſſimam reddit, quod ille, qui eam alloquitur Chriſtus eſt, de quo vt ſcribitur Matth. 17. & Marci 1. præclarum Pater coram eodem Ioanne dant teſtimonium dixit, Hic eſt filius meus dilectus, in quo mihi bene complacui. Optime autem hoc loco dicitur, quod ipſe eſt naturaliter Dei filius, quandoquidem ſi rationi, ac Sanctorum Patrum doctrinis nos conformare volumus, nullo pacto Chriſtus Dominus filius adoptiuus dici poteſt, ſed tantummodo naturalis: adoptiuus namque filius is proprie eſt, qui per adoptionem filius fit, cum prius non eſſet, fit enim ex non filio filius, ſicut nos filij dicimur adoptiui, quia cum eſſemus, vt dicit Apoſtolus ad Epheſ. 2. Natura filij iræ, prædeſtinauit nos in adoptionem filiorum per Ieſum Chriſtum, vt ipſemet in eadem Epiſtola cap. 1. tradit, Chriſtus autem nũquam fuit non filius, nec fuit aliquando extraneus, & ideo hic proprie dicitur naturaliter filius, quod affirmauit etiam D. Hieron. ſuper epiſt. ad Epheſ. explicans illud cap. 1. in charitate prædeſtinauit nos, de Chriſto, inquit, Ieſu ſcriptum eſt, quia ſemper cum patre fuit, & nunquam eum, vt eſſet voluntas pater ne præueſſit, & ille quidem natura filius eſt; nos vero adoptione, atque hoc etiam eſſe verum affirmamus quantum ad temporalem filiationem, quoniam cum filiatio non naturæ conueniat, ſed perſonæ, in Chriſto autem vna tantummodo ſit perſona, & hæc vna diuina, non humana, ſecundum quam in diuinis eſt naturalis, ita quoque in humanis eris filius naturalis: quod egregie tradit D. Auguſt. in lib. de fide ad Petrum cap. 2. circa medium, ille, ſcilicet Deus, factus eſt naturaliter filius vnigenitus Dei Patris, idem habet tract. 82. in Ioan. & lib. 3. contra Fauſtum cap. 3. & epiſt. 120. cap. 4. & lib. 1. de conſenſu Euangeliſt. cap. 3. D. Ambroſ. lib. 1. de fide c. 9. paulo ante medium, & lib. Incarnationis Dominicæ cap. 8. D. Hilarius non longe a principio tertij libri de Trinitate. D. Thom. 3. p. q. 23. art. 4. & q. 32. art. 3. & q. 43. art. 4. & lib. 4. contra gentes cap. 4. Magiſter in 3. diſt. 10. D. Chriſoſt. ſeu auctor oper. imperfecti in Matth. hom. 40. Irenæus lib. 3. contra hæreſes cap. 21. Hic tamen admonere lectorẽ cenſui, Durand. in 3. d. 4. q. 1. n. 6. & d. 10. q. 3. num. 5. concedere contra tot virorum Doctorum auctoritatem, Chriſtum, vt hominem, eſſe filium Dei adoptiuum: probat autem, quia, inquit, gratia Chriſti eſt eiuſdem rationis cum noſtra, ſed nos ratione illius gratiæ ſumus filii adoptiui, ergo & Chriſtus, cui obiectioni dupliciter ſatisfit; primo dicendo gratiam vnionis alterius eſſe rationis a gratia filiorum adoptiuorum; ideo non conſtituere Chriſtum hominem filium adoptiuum, ſed naturalem, eſt enim hæc gratia ſic Chriſto connaturalis, & intrinſeca, vt ratione illius Chriſtus ius habeat connaturale ad æternam hæreditatem. Reſpondeo ſecundo, quod licet habitualis gratia eiuſdem rationis ſit cũ noſtra, quo ad modum tamen illam habendi maximum eſt diſcrimen: nos enim per eam conſtituimur filii adoptiui, quia non ſupponimur filij, ſed extranei, Chriſtus tamen per eam gratiam non proprie conſtituitur filius, ſed ſupponitur, non enim aliquando fuit extraneus, & illa gratia eſt quaſi proprietas conſequens filiationem.

2 Ipſe eſt a quo Spiritus ſanctus proceſſit.

Hoc loco aperte definitur, Spiritum ſanctum procedere etiam a filio contra id, quod Patres Græci tradiderunt, & refertur in Florentina ſynodo per duodecim ſeſſiones, atque hoc eſſe de fide, noſtra hac tempeſtate credimus, & probatur ex ſymbolo D. Athanaſii, & ex Concil. Nicæno. & fuit definita hac etiã veritas in Later. Concilio, vt habetur in cap. firmiter, de ſumma Trin. & fide Catholica, & ex Concilio Lugdunenſi, & Toletano 3. 4. 8. & denique in Conc. Florentino concluſum ex communi etiam Græcorum, ac Latinorum conſenſu; & patet etiam ex Sacris literis Ioan. 16. Ille me clarificabit, quia accipiet de meo, vbi de Spiritu ſancto loquitur Chriſtus, & vna perſona nihil accipit ab alia, niſi per proceſſionem, & Ioan. 15. ſcribitur, quod filius mittet Spiritum ſanctum. Paracletus autem Spiritus ſanctus, quem ego mittam vobis: ſed in diuinis tunc vna perſona dicitur mitti ab alia, quando procedit ab illa: hanc etiam concluſionem præter Latinos doctores, quos hic citare longum eſſet, aliqui etiam doctiſſimi ex Græcis ſequuntur, vt D. Greg. Nazianz. Nyſſenus, Epiphanius, & Theodoretus, quos citat Florentina ſynodus, & Cyrillus lib. 1. ſup. Ioan. cap. 33. Didimus lib. 2. de Spiritu ſancto. D. Chriſoſt. hom. 1. in expoſit. ſymboli Apoſt. & homilia 2. in expoſitione eiuſdem ſymboli, & alij etiam, quos citat Magiſter in primo Sententiarum diſt. 11.

3 Sed quærere poteris quomodo diues debet eſſe diſpoſitus, qui ingreſſurus eſt cœlum, cum Deus perſonaliter dixerit, quod facilius eſt Camelum per foramen acus tranſi-

re,

re, quam diuitem ingredi cælum.

Quamquam ardnam sit, ac difficile omnibus ingredi regnum cælorum, cum arcta sit via, quæ ducit ad illud, & lata, quæ ad perditionem: singulari tamen ratione diuiti, vt dines est, hoc difficilius videtur, vt mirum non sit, si hanc difficultatem Beata Brigitta, ex his verbis Euangelij, quæ habentur Matthæi decimonono, Marci decimo, Lucæ 19. de diuitum salute dubitet, videtur enim ex his posse colligi, quod sicut fieri non potest, vt Camelus ob corporis ingentem magnitudinẽ, ac deformitatem, per angustissimum acus foramen transeat, ita quoque impossibile videatur, diuitem posse Regnum cælorum ingredi, sed vt rem hanc enucleatius aperiamus, sciendum est, diuitias ex se non esse ad vitam æternam consequendam impedimenta, cum à Deo nobis conferantur, vt potius sint adiumento ad eam acquirendam, sed quod prauus, & inordinatus hominis affectus erga diuitias, qui vt plurimum reperiri solet in diuite, difficilem reddit aditum ad regnum cælorum, quam difficultatem tangens Christus Dominus, eam sententiam protulit supra à nobis citatam, & ideo affirmarunt nonnulli explicantes hunc Euangelij locum Hierosolymis, quandam fuisse portam, quæ foramen acus appellabatur, per quam Camelus nisi deposito onere, ac flexis genibus transire non posset, indicantes, ex his colligi, nec diuitem posse transire angustam portã, quæ ducit ad vitam, nisi abiecto prauo diuitiarum affectu, sollicitudine, & onere: verum placet aliquibus magis per Camelum intelligere funem nauicũ, sic Theophilactus, Euthimius, & alij quos refert ipsemet Euthimius in locum citatum Matth. quod etiam tradit Hector pictus in Ezech. cap. 16. sicut enim cum huiusmodi funis per foramen acus transire non potest, si distribuatur in fila, ingreditur singulis ingredientibus filis, ita diues, cum per diuitiarum ligamen Regnum cælorum ingredi non potest, tunc sibi ad illud aditum faciet, si pauperibus diuitiarum fila distribuat, sed alij hunc locum mystice interpretantur sic, ita vt per Camelum Christũ intelligant, qui omnium in se onera portauit, per diuitem, cupidum, & sæculi huius amatorem, per acũ, passionem, diuitem pungentem, per foramen passionis angustias, vt sensus sit, facilius est Christũ pro amatoribus sæculi pati, quam sæculi amatores, ad Christum conuerti, sic habent D. Augustinus lib. 2. quæst. Euang. cap. 47. & D. Greg. lib. 35. Moral. cap. 9. cæterum dicendum est nobis, Christum Dominum hac hyperbolica locutione significasse rei difficultatem, nõ impossibilitatẽ, licet autem impossibile sit Camelum ingredi foramen acus, tamen hac comparatione vtitur Dominus ad difficultatis exaggerationem: sicuti nos communiter dicere solemus, de eo quod factu difficillimum est hoc impossibile est, vt fiat, & tamen illud factu possibile est, ita Christus Dominus facta Cameli, cum diuite comparatione, pulchre significat diuites veluti Cameli diuitijs onustos esse, ex gybbo quoddam ob prauum affectũ estum coram Deo esse deformatos, ac proinde per angustam non posse portam introire, quæ ducit ad vitam, nisi prauo affectu ac iniqua illa sollicitudine depositis, & hos esse mysticos illos camelos, quos ingressuros esse portas Hierusalem scripsit Isaias cap. 60. vbi hunc locum edisserens D. Hieron. approbat hanc interpretationem, difficultatem, inquit, rei proposuit, non impossibilitatem, quam sane interpretationem eo veriorem esse censeo, quo apud Iudæos, qui vt alicuius rei difficultatem indicarent, illud erat Prouerbium, facilius esse per foramen acus introire camelum, quam id fieri, & quod hæc sit hyperbole, & exaggeratio quædam, qualis in huiusmodi Prouerbijs esse solet annotauit Ioannes Maldonatus in Comment. super Matth. 19. nu. 24.

LOQVITVR SPONSA Christo preces effundendo pro supradicto Episcopo, & de responsionibus Christi, & Virginis, & sanctæ Agnetis sponsæ factis.

CAP. XII.

DOMINE mi scio, quod nemo ingreditur cælum, nisi Pater traxerit eum. Ideo ò Pater piissime trahe istum infirmũ Episcopum ad te. Tu vero fili Dei adiuua conantem. Tu quoque sancte Spiritus imple charitate tua episcopum frigidum, & exinanitũ. Respondit Pater. Si trahens est fortis, res vero quæ trahitur ponderosa, nimis citius 1 dissipabitur opus, & annihilatur. 1 Si vero, qui trahitur ligatus est, non potest adiuuare, nec seipsum, nec trahentem, & si immundus est, qui trahit, abominabilis est ad trahendum, & tangendum. Sic episcopus iste, dispositus est, sicut qui stat in diuersorio deliberans secum, quæ via sit tenenda. Respondit sponsa. O Domine mi nunquid non scriptum est, quod nemo stabiliter stat in hac vita, sed aut ad meliora vadit, aut ad peiora. Respondit Pater, vtrumque dici potest, nam stat quasi inter duas vias gaudij, scilicet, & doloris. Turbatur de horrore supplicij æterni, affectat obtinere cæleste gaudium, sed tamen asperum sibi videtur, viam quæ tendit ad gaudia perfecte ambulare. Vadit vero quando illa sequitur ad quæ feruentiorem habet voluntatem. Item loquitur beata Agnes. 2 Iste episcopus est dispo- 2 var. situs sicut ille, qui staret inter duas vias, lect. vnam earum sciret arctam in principio, sed

in fine gaudiosam. Aliam sciret delectabilẽ ad tempus,sed in fine habentem profundum insatiabile,& doloroſum. Cumq. viator cogitans de istis vijs,delectaretur in eundo viã in principio delectabilem,timens tamen de insatiabili profundo incidit talis cogitatio. Est, inquit, compendium quoddam in via ista delectabili,si inuenero illum diu ambulare possum securus, & cum appropinquauero fini,& profundo, si inuenero compendiũ 3 nihil mihi nocebit. 3 Et ambulans securus
var. in via,cum veniſſet ad profundum, cecidit lect. mirabiliter, quia compendium, vt cogitauit non inuenit. Talium cogitationum viri inueniuntur hodie multi,qui cogitantes taliter secum. Oneroſum est, inquiunt, irẽ per viam arctam,durum est relinquere voluntatem propriam,& honores, propterea ponunt sibi spem falsam,& periculoſam:longa,inquiunt, est vita nostra, misericordia Dei est maxima,delectabilis est mundus iste & ad delectationem creatus, ideo nil obest si ad tempus vtar mundo secundum velle meum,quia in fine vitæ sequi volo Deum. Est enim compendium quoddam viæ huius mundi,idest contritio, & confessio, hanc si obtinuero saluus ero. Talis cogitatio velle scilicet peccare vsque in finem,& tunc confiteri,est valde debilis spes, quia nescient, antequam cadunt. Quibus & in extremis inspiratur quandoque tantus dolor, & subitus finis,quod nullo modo fructuoſam inuenire poterunt contritionem. Et merito, noluerunt enim præuidere futura mala cũ potuerunt, sed in arbitrio, & limitatione sua posuerunt tempus misericordiæ Dei. Nec proponebant finem facere peccato, antequam peccatum non poterat eos delectare. Similiter & Episcopus iste stetit inter istas duas vias.Nunc autem appropinquat viæ delectabiliori carnis, & habet ante se,quasi tria folia,quæ perlegit. Primũ folium legit dulciter,& continue.Secundum quandoq. sed non cum delectatione. Tertiũ folium raro,& hoc cum dolore.Primum vero sunt diuitiæ, & honores quibus delectatur.Secundum est timor gehennæ, & futuri iudicij,quo conturbatur. Tertium est amor Dei,& timor filialis,qui raro reuoluitur. Si enim attenderet quid pro eo fecit Deus, quidve ei impendit,nunquam amor Dei extingueretur in corde eius. Respondit sponsa. O domina roga pro illo. Et tunc beata Agnes ait,quid fecit iustitia, nisi iudicium, quidue misericordia,nisi quod alliciat? Mater Dei loquitur.Sic dicetur episcopo. Deus licet omnia potest facere, tamen homo personaliter cooperari debet, vt peccatum fugiatur,& charitas diuina obtineatur. Nam tria sunt,quæ inducunt ad fugiendum peccatum, & tria inductiua sunt ad obtinendũ charitatem. Tria quibus fugitur peccatum sunt, Pœnitentia perfecta.Secundum, intentio nolle ea iterato committere. Tertium emendare se iuxta consilia illorum, quos videt contempsisse mundum.Tria vero operãtia ad obtinendam charitatem sunt,Humilitas,misericordia,& labor charitatis. Nam quicunque non legeret nisi vnum Pater noster,pro obtinenda charitate, citius appropinquaret illi effectus charitatis. De altero Episcopo,de quo tibi prius dixi, concludo nunc,quod fossæ videntur ei nimis latæ ad saltandum,muri nimis alti ad scandendum, feræ fortes ad confringendum. Ideo sto ego & expecto eum, sed ipse verterat caput suum,ad opera trium turbarum, quas delectabiliter videndo considerat. Prima earum chorisat, huic ipse dicit,placet mihi audire vos,expectate me.Secunda stat ad speculandum,huic ipse dicit,placet mihi videre,quæ videtis,quia delectant me multum. Tertia lætatur,& quiescit,& cum hac quærit ipse quietem,& honorem. Sed quid est chorisare in mundo, nisi ab vna temporali lætitia transire in aliam, ab vno appetitu honoris in alium? Quid vero est stare, & cogitare, nisi a contemplatione diuina subtrahere animum.Et de congregatione, & erogatione tẽporalium cogitare?Quid vero est quiescere, nisi carnis habere quietem? Has itaque tres turbas considerando, iam ascendit in montem altum,sed de transmissis sibi verbis meis, nihil curat, nec de illa clausula verborum curat,scilicet,si tenet ipse promissionem suam,tenebo & ego meam.Respondit sponsa. O benignissima Mater noli discedere ab eo.Cui Mater. Non discedo donec terra suscipit terram,imo magis si confregerit feras,obuiabo ei sicut ancilla,& adiuuabo sicut mater? Et addidit mater. Tu filia cogitas,quæ fuisset remuneratio Canonico illi Aurelianen.si Episcopus suus fuisset conuersus? Respondeo tibi. Sicut tu vides quod terra profert herbas, & flores diuersę 4 speciei,& diuersi generis, 4 sic si omnis ho-var. mo laudabiliter stetisset ab origine mundi in lect. institutione sua,omnes obtinuissent excellentem mercedem,quia omnis,qui in Deo est, transit ab vna lętitia in aliam, non quod tedium in aliqua sit, sed quia continue augetur delectatio,& gaudium ineffabile continue innouatur.

Declaratio.

Hic fuit Episcopus Vexionen. qui cum esset Romæ multum de suo reditu angustiaretur,auditum est in spiritu:Dic,inquit,Episcopo,quod mora sua vtilior est quam accele-ratio ratio, hi quoq. qui de comitiua ſua præceſſerunt ſubſequentur eum. Ideo cum ad patriam redierit, verba mea inueniet vera. Sic itaq. omnia euenerunt. Nam rediens inuenit Regem captum, & totum regnum turbatum. Hi quoque qui præceſſerunt eum de comitiua, impediti in via, longe ſubſequebantur eum. Scito etiam, quod domina illa, quæ eſt in comitiua Epiſcopi ſana reuerteretur, ſed non in patria morietur, & ita euenit, nam ſecunda vice iuit Romam, & ibi mortua eſt, & ſepulta.

Item de eodem Epiſcopo.

Cum domina Brigitta deſcendiſſet de monte Gargano ad ciuitatem Mafredoniã in regno Apuliæ, idem Epiſcopus exiſtens in comitiua Dominæ, caſu accidente in mõte, cecidit de equo ita grauiter, quod duæ coſtæ fractæ ſunt. Qui de mane cum domina profectura eſſet ad ſanctum Nicolaum de Baro, vocauit eam ad ſe dicens: O domina grauiſſimum eſt mihi hic ſine veſtra præſentia manere. Et oneroſum eſt etiam vobis moram trahere propter me, maxime propter incurſantes iſtos homines. Rogo, inquit, vos per amorem Ieſu Chriſti, vt rogetis Deum pro me, & tangite latus doloris mei. Spero enim per tactum manus veſtræ dolorem meum mitigari, quæ præ compaſſione reſoluta in lachrymas, ait, O Domine mi. Ego reputor quod non ſum, nam ego ſum peccatrix maxima in conſpectu Dei. Veruntamen omnes rogemus Deum, & ipſe reſpondebit fidei veſtræ. Facta itaque oratione cum ſurrexiſſet, tetigit latus Epiſcopi dicens, Sanet te Dominus Ieſus Chriſtus. Et ſtatim dolor diſceſſit, & ſurgens Epiſcopus ſequutus eſt Dominam per totam viam, vſque rediret Romam.

NOTAE.

1 SI vero qui trahitur ligatus eſt, non poteſt adiuuare nec ſeipſum, nec trahentem.

Beatiſſima Brigitta ad Deum hic fundit preces pro quodam Epiſcopo, qui in Epiſcopali munere (vt par eſt) non ſe recte gerebat, & ideo diuinum implorans auxilium, maximo charitatis affectu petit a Deo, vt Epiſcopum ad ſe ſua gratia efficaciter trahat: quandoquidem, inquit, ad Deum venire nullus poteſt, niſi traxerit eum, vt in principio præſentis capitis, & Ioann. 6 ſcribitur, ſed quoniam ad hoc noſtri quoque exigitur arbitrij operatio; ideo legimus hic ei reſpondiſſe Dominum ſic, Si vero qui trahitur ligatus eſt, non poteſt adiuuare nec ſeipſum, nec trahentem: ac ſi diceret, Si vero is, quem Deus ſua gratia trahere vult peccatorum funibus ligatus ſit, volens in illis perſiſtere, certe nec Deo trahenti, cooperatur, neque diuinæ vocationi correſpondet: ſecus vero dicendum eſt, ſi velit conſenſum diuinæ vocationi præſtare: quæ ſane omnino exigitur, quod euidenter patet ex his duobus verbis Euangelij; nemo venit ad me, niſi pater meus traxerit eum: venit, & traxit: primum libertatem oſtendit arbitrij: traxit vero diuinæ gratiæ efficaciam, ex quo hæreticorum error aperte conuincitur, qui hoc teſtimonio abutuntur ad negandam libertatem arbitrij, cũ dicant, quod tractio vim quandam, & neceſſitatem importet, ſic annotarunt D. Chriſoſtom. homil. 45. & D. Auguſt. tract. 26 in Ioannem, & Theophilactus in comment. in hunc locum. Verum turpiter in hac re lapſi ſunt, ignorantes verbum trahere, non ſemper in ſacris literis neceſſitatem importare, ſed aliquando ſuauem quandam, & moralem motionẽ, quæ proprium actum eius, qui trahitur non excludit: ſic Cant. 1. trahe me poſt te, & curremus in odorem vnguentorum tuorum. & Oſeæ 11. In funiculis Adam traham eos, hoc eſt beneficijs, quibus ligari ſolent homines illos ad amandum me vehemẽtiùs monebo. Sed hac de re videndi ſunt D Hieron. lib. 3. contra Pelagianos. Proſper contra collatorẽ cap. 6. & lib. 2. de vocatione gentium cap. 9. alias 27. D. Auguſt. de prædeſtinatione Sanctorum cap. 8. & tractat. 26. in Ioannem, vbi inquit, Si poetæ dicere licuit, trahit ſua quemq. voluptas, non neceſſitas, ſed voluptas, non obligatio, ſed delectatio, quãto fortius dicere debemus trahi homines ad Chriſtum, qui delectantur veritate, delectantur beatitudine, delectantur iuſtitia, delectantur ſempiterna vita, & clarius etiam libro 1. contra duas epiſtolas Pelagianorum cap. 19. Trahitur miris modis, vt velit ab illo, qui nouit intus in ipſis hominum cordibus operari, non vt homines, quod fieri non poteſt nolentes credant, ſed vt volentes ex nolentibus fiant. Eandem fere ſententiam habet in Enchiridion cap. 32. Legitur, inquit, in diuinis eloquijs, & miſericordia eius præueniet me. Pſ. 22. Nolentem, inquit, præuenit, vt velit, volentem ſubſequitur, ne fruſtra velit, vbi nota, quod verbum nolens, non ſumitur pro eo, quod eſt inuitus, ſed pro eo quod eſt adhuc non cogitans, non diſpoſitus, non enim gratia cogit, neque vim noſtro libero infert arbitrio, ſed ſuauiter trahit, nobis etiam cooperantibus, & ideo paulo poſt medium præſentis capitis legimus, Deus licet omnia poſſit facere, tamen homo perſonaliter cooperari debet.

2 Iſte Epiſcopus eſt diſpoſitus ſicut ille, qui ſtaret inter duas vias, vna earum ſciret arvar. lect. dam in principio, ſed in fine gaudioſam, aliam ſciret delectabilem ad tempus, ſed in fine habentem profundum inſatiabile, & doloroſum.

Codicis Farneſ. M.S. lectio magis placet, ſic enim habet, Iſte Epiſcopus eſt diſpoſitus ſicut ille qui ſtaret inter duas vias, quarum vnam sciret esse arctam in initio, sed in fine gaudiosam, alteram vero sciret in principio esse ad tempus delectabilem, sed in fine profundum habentem insatiabile, & dolorosum.

Manuscriptus Farnesianus legit, Cecidit mirabiliter.

4 var. lect. Sic si omnis homo laudabiliter stetisset ab origine mundi in institutione sua omnes obtinuissent excellentem mercedem.

Farnesianus manuscriptus legit, Omnes obtinuissent excellentiorem mercedem, Sed ad horum verborum intelligentiam distinguendum nobis est, nam si hoc loco sermo sit, de eo laudabili vita instituto, eoque spiritus feruore, in quo primi illi sanctissimi Patres in lege veteri, ac etiam noua peculiari Dei munere perstiterunt, verissimum esse censeo, quod scribitur hic, si in eo vsque ad hæc, quoque tempora permansissent, excellentiorem, quoque mercedem recepturi fuissent, quandoquidem per peccata, quæ quotidie plura committunt homines, illam mercedem non perdidissent, caterum si de iustitia originali, hoc intelligatur, negandum esse arbitror, si in illa stetissent homines maiorem consecuturos fuisse mercedem, cum enim post primorum parentum lapsum ex passione, & meritis Christi copiosior nobis gratia collata sit, cumque ex peccato originali fomes peccati auctus sit, nullus dubitare potest, quin maior etiam merces, ac corona illustrior nobis præparata sit, quod egregie tradit Diuus Augustinus de correptione, & Gratia cap. 11. paulo ante medium tale, inquit, erat adiutorium, quod deficeret, cum vellet, & in quo permaneret, si vellet, non quo fieret, vt vellet, hæc est prima gratia, quæ data est primo Adam, hanc Diuus Augustinus intelligit iustitiam originalem, sed hæc potentior est in secundo Adam. Prima, est enim qua fit, vt habeat homo iustitiam si velit, Secunda ergo plus potest, qua etiam fit, vt velit, & tantum velit, tantoque ardore diligat, vt carnis voluntatem contraria concupiscentem, voluntate spiritus vincat, & aliquanto post eodem capite, hæc autem ait, tanto maior est, vt parum sit homini per illam reparare perdita, idem docet cap. 12. eiusdem libri.

VERBA MATRIS AD Filiam qualiter verba, & opera Christi per thesaurum, & deitas per castrum, & peccata per feras, & virtutes per muros, & pulchritudo mundi, & delectatio amicorum per duas fossas mirabiliter designantur, & exponuntur, & qualiter se debeat habere Episcopus, circa curam animarum.

CAP. XIII.

MATER Dei loquitur ad sponsam filij dicens. Ille Episcopus petit me in suam charitatem, ideo debet hoc facere, quod est mihi charissimum. Ego quippe scio, thesaurum quem qui possederit, nunquam erit miser. Qui videbit eum nunquam sentiet tribulationem, & mortem. Quicunque desiderat illum habebit quicquid appetit cum exultatione. Iste vero thesaurus clausus est in bono castro quattuor feris, quod castrum habet extra se muros altos, & spissos, & grossos. Extra vero muros sunt duæ fossæ profundæ, atque latæ. Ideo rogo ipsum, vt transiliat ambas fossas vno saltu. Ascendat muros vno passu, confringat omnes feras vno ictu, & sic præsentet mihi rem preciosissimã. Nunc autem quid ista significant dicam tibi. Hoc vobiscum vocatur thesaurus, quod raro sumitur in vsus, & raro mouetur. Hic thesaurus sunt verba charissimi filij mei, & eius preciosissima opera, quæ in passione, & ante passionem fecit, necnon, & illa mirabilia opera, quæ tunc fecit, quando Verbum factum est caro in corpore meo, & quod quando in Altari quotidie panis eadem fit caro ad verbum Dei. Hæc omnia sunt preciosissimus thesaurus, quæ ita iam neglecta, & oblita sunt. quod pauciissimi sunt, qui ea recolunt, ergo eis vtantur ad profectum suũ. Veruntamen corpus illud glorioſum filij Dei iacet in castro munito, id est, in deitatis virtute. Sicut enim castrum defendit contra inimicos, sic filij mei deitatis potentia defendit humanitatis suæ corpus, vt nullus ei noceat hostis. Seræ vero quattuor, peccata sunt quattuor, quibus excluduntur multi a participatione, & bonitate virtutis corporis Christi. Primum est superbia, & cupiditas ad honores mundi. Secundum est cupiditas ditas ad poſſeſſiones mundi. Tertium eſt voluptas ſęda ad corporis immoderatam impletionem, & fętidiſſimam eius expletionem. Quartum eſt ira, & inuidia, & negligentia propriæ ſalutis. Iſta quatuor diligunt, & in conſuetudine habent nimis multi, propterea elongantur nimis a Deo. 1 Nam vident corpus Dei, & recipiunt, ſed anima eorum tam longe eſt a Deo, ſicut fures, qui furari deſiderant, ſed appropinquare non valent propter fortes feras. Et ideo dixi, quod confringeret feras vno ictu. Ictus vero ſignificat zelum animarum, quo ipſe Epiſcopus confringere debet peccatores cum operibus iuſtitiæ ex diuina charitate, vt confractis feris vitiorum, peccator pertingere valeat ad pretioſum hunc theſaurum. Et quamuis non poſſit omnes peccatores percutere, faciat vt teneatur, quæ poſſit, & potiſſime his, qui ſunt ſub manu ſua, non parcendo paruo, vel magno, propinquo, vel cognato, inimico, vel amico. 2 Sic fecit ille ſanctus Thomas de Anglia, qui paſſus eſt multas tribulationes pro iuſtitia, & in fine occubuit dura morte, quia non pepercit percutere corpora cum iuſtitia Eccleſiaſtica, ad hoc vt anima minorem pœnam pateretur. Cuius vitam imitetur iſte Epiſcopus, quatenus omnes audientes intelligant, quod odit peccata propria & aliorum: & tunc talis ictus zeli diuini audietur ſuper omnes cœlos in conſpectu Dei, & Angelorum, & multi conuertentur, & meliorabuntur, dicentes: Non, inquiunt, odit nos, ſed peccata noſtra, reſipiſcamus ergo, & erimus amici Dei, atque ſui. Tres vero muri qui ambiunt caſtrum ſunt tres virtutes. Prima eſt dimittere delectabilia carnis & facere voluntatem Dei. Secunda eſt magis velle pati opprobria, & damna pro veritate, & iuſtitia, quam habere honores, & poſſeſſiones mundi, diſſimulando veritatem. Tertia eſt non parcere vitæ, vel bonis pro ſalute cuiuslibet Chriſtiani. Sed attende quid nunc facit homo. Denique ſibi videtur, quod muri iſti prædicti ita ſunt alti, quod nullo modo poſſent tranſcendi. Propterea corda hominum non appropinquant illi gloriofiſſimo corpori cum permanentia, nec animæ eorum, quia longe ſunt a Deo; & ideo præcepi amico meo, quod tranſcenderet muros vno paſſu. Hoc enim vobiſcum vocatur paſſus, quando pedes longa a ſe ſeparantur diſtantia ad transferendum celeriter corpus. Sic etiam eſt ſpiritualis paſſus. Cum enim eſt corpus in terra, & charitas cordis in cœleſtibus. Tunc tranſcendumtur tres prædicti muri, quia tunc placet homini ex conſideratione cœleſtium dimittere propriam voluntatem, pati repulſam, & perſecutionem pro iuſtitia, mori etiam libenter pro honore Dei. Duæ vero foſſæ extra murum ſunt pulchritudo mundi, & præſentia, & delectatio amicorum mundi. In his foſſis multi libentiſſime quieſcerent, & nunquam curarent in cœlis videre Deum. Et ideo foſſæ iſtæ ſunt latæ, & profundæ. Latæ, quia talium hominum voluntas longe, latæque eſt a Deo. Profundæ quoque ſunt, quia plurimos detinent in profundo infernali; propterea foſſæ iſtæ tranſcendi debent vno ſaltu. Quid enim eſt ſaltus ſpiritualis, niſi ſeparare totum cor ſuum ab his, quæ vana ſunt, & de terrenis ſalire in regnum cœli. Ecce nunc oſtenſum eſt, quomodo confringendæ ſunt feræ, & tranſiliendi muri, nunc oſtendam quomodo præſentare debet Epiſcopus iſtæ, rem pretioſiſſimam, quæ vnquam fuit. Deitas quippe ab æterno, & ſine principio fuit, & eſt, quia non eſt inuenire in ea principium ſiue finem. Humanitas vero fuit in meo corpore, & ſuſcepit de me carnem, & ſanguinẽ. Ideo ipſa eſt res precioſiſſima, quæ vnquam fuit, & eſt. Ergo quando anima iuſti recipit cum charitate corpus Dei in ſe, & corpus Dei implet animam, tunc ibi eſt precioſiſſima res, quæ vnquam fuit. Nam licet deitas eſt tribus perſonis ſine principio, & ſine fine in ſe, tamen quando Pater miſit filium ſuum cum deitate, & Spiritu ſancto ad me, tunc ſumpſit benedictum corpus ſuum de me. Nunc vero oſtendam eidem Epiſcopo, quomodo præſentanda eſt Domino precioſiſſima res illa. Vbicunque amicus Dei inuenerit peccatorem, in cuius verbis eſt modica charitas ad Deum, & magna ad mundum, ibi anima vacua eſt ad Deum. Propterea amicus Dei habeat charitatem ad Deum dolendo, quod anima redempta ſanguine Creatoris inimica eſt Dei. Condoleatque miſeræ animæ habendo ad eam quaſi duas voces. Vna qua roget Deum miſereri animæ. Aliam quæ oſtendat animæ periculum ſuum. Si autem iſta duo Deum, ſcilicet, & animam concordare poterit in vnum, tunc manibus dilectionis ſuæ præſentat Deo precioſiſſimam rem. Quia quando corpus Dei, quod fuit in me, & anima a Deo creata conueniunt in vnam amicitiam, hoc eſt mihi chariſſimum, nec mirum. Ego enim præſens eram, quando miles ille egregius filius meus exiuit de Hieruſalem tenere certamen, quod tam forte fuit, & durum, quod omnes nerui in brachiis eius extendebantur. Dorſum eius erat liuidum, & ſanguinolentum. Pedes perforati clauis, oculi & aures plenæ ſanguine. Collum quoque inclinabatur, quando tradidit ſpiritum. Cor ſcindebatur a cuſpide lanceæ, & ſic cum maximo dolore vicit animas. 3 Qui nunc reſidens in gloria extendit brachium ad homines mines, ſed pauciſſimi tamen inueniuntur, qui præſentant ei ſponſam. Ideo amicus Dei non parcat vitæ, & bonis iuuando alios ſecum, eoſque filio meo præſentando. Dicito adhuc eidem epiſcopo, quod quia ipſe petit me in ſuam charam amicam, ideo volo ei dare fidem meam, & ligare me cum eo in vnum vinculum. Nam corpus Dei, quod fuit in me, recipiet animam eius in ſe, cum 4 magna charitate, 4 vt ſicut Pater cum filio fuit in me, qui corpus meum, & animam habuit in ſe, & ſicut Spiritus ſanctus, qui eſt in Patre, & filio fuit vbique mecum, qui & filium meum intra ſecum, ſic & famulus meus ligatus erit cum eodem ſpiritu. Nam quando ipſe diligit paſſionem Dei, & corpus eius habet in corde chariſſimum, tunc habebit humanitatem, quę intra ſe, & extra ſe habet deitatem, & eſt Deus in eo, & ipſe in Deo, ſicut eſt in me Deus, & ego in eo. Cum vero famulus meus, & ego habemus vnum Deum, tunc habebimus, & vnum vinculum charitatis, & Spiritum ſanctum, qui eſt cum Patre, & filio vnus Deus. Adde adhuc vnum Verbum. Si iſte Epiſcopus tenet promiſſionem ſuam mecum, ego iuuabo eum dum viuit. In fine vero vitæ volo ſeruire, & aſtare ei præſentando animam eius Deo, & dicendo ſic. O Deus meus iſte ſeruiuit tibi, & obediuit mihi, ideo præſento tibi animam eius. O filia, quid cogitat homo, qui contemnit animam ſuam? Nunquid Deus Pater cum incomprehenſibili deitate ſua dimiſiſſet innocentem filium ſuum pati in humanitate, tam duram pœnam, niſi fuiſſet illa virtuoſa delectatio, & affectio, quam habet ad animas, & illa æterna gloria, quam eis præparauit.

Hęc reuelatio facta eſt de Epiſcopo Lincopen. qui poſtea factus fuit Archiepiſcopus.

Item de eodem 6. lib. c. 22. quod incipit. Ille Prælatus.

Et de eodem Additio.

Epiſcopus, pro quo tu ploras venit ad lo-ne purgatorium, ideo pro certo ſcias, quod quamuis in mundo multos habuit impeditores, iàm ipſi reportauerunt iudicium ſuũ, & ipſe propter fidem, & munditiam ſuam mecum glorietur.

NOTAE.

1 NAm vident corpus Dei, & recipiunt, ſed anima eorum tam longè eſt a Deo ſicut fures, qui furari deſiderant, ſed appropinquare non valent propter fortes feras.

Hoc loco Beatiſſima Virgo tradit eos qui ſacrum indigne ſumunt Euchariſtiam, recipere quidem ſacramentum, & verum Chriſti Domini corpus, non vero rem ſacramenti, & ſacramentalem effectum, qui gratia eſt, & idcirco bi longè à Deo eſſe dicuntur, quandoquidem cum Deo per gratiam, quam non obtinuerunt, nullatenus coniunguntur, neque eius participes fiunt, hanc vero participationem quatuor potiſſimum impedire peccata legimus bis paulo ante citata verba huius note, nimirum Superbiam, Auaritiam, Luxuriã, & Irã, vnde qui hanc cæleſtem menſam frequentant pro viribus ſtudere debent, ne huiuſmodi vitijs polluti ad eam accedant.

2 Sic fecit ille Sanctus Thomas de Anglia, qui paſſus eſt multas tribulationes pro Iuſtitia, & in fine occubuit dura morte, qui non pepercit percutere corpora cum iuſtitia Eccleſiaſtica.

Proponitur hic egregium Epiſcopis imitandum exemplum, Thomas, ſcilicet Cantuarienſis, qui pro zelo Iuſtitiæ, ac Eccleſiaſticæ libertatis defenſione, nec laboribus, neque propriæ vitæ pepercit, & veluti bonus paſtor animam ſuam pro ouibus poſuit, eius vitam, ac res præclare geſtas, ſi quis ſcire vellet, vt imitaretur, legat in primis Ioannem Epiſcopum Carnotenſem, Gulielmum Cantuarienſem, Surium Tomo 6. Herbertum, & Alanum, aliosque quos refert Gerardus Voſſius in Catalogo Archiepiſcoporum Cantuarienſium à ſe in lucem edito, notiſque illuſtrato, vide ibi notas ad S. Thomam, vbi affirmat de eo extare plurima in volumine M. S. Bibliothecæ Vaticanæ num. 1222. de quo etiam Martyrologium Romanum die 29. Decembr. cum autem in præſenti nota legimus, D. Thomam Eccleſiaſticis cenſuris, & præcipuè excommunicatione, per quam olim dabatur dæmonibus poteſtas vexandi corpora, vt delinquentes reſipiſcerent, ſic Gloſſ. ordinaria, Theodoretus, Lyranus, & Carthuſianus, in illud 1. Corinth. quinto, iam iudicaui huiuſmodi tradere ſatanæ in interitum carnis, vt ſpiritus ſaluus ſit.

3 Quia nunc reſidens in gloria extendit brachium ad homines.

Quia nimirum virtutem ſuam communicat copioſè omnibus, & ipſemet Chriſtus, qui excelſum brachium Dei dicitur Iſaiæ 33. paſſionis ſuæ fructuum omnes participes fecit, vnde in Pſalm. 43. explicans D. Auguſtinus illa verba, & brachium eorum non ſaluauit eos, ſed dextera tua, & brachium tuum, & illuminatio vultus tui, dextera tua, inquit, potentia tua, brachium tuũ, ipſe filius tuus, idem etiam habet in enarrat. Pſalm. 70 & 135. & ibidem Arnobius, ſed latius explicat D. Greg. 32. Moral. cap. 6. aut etiam dicendum eſt, Deum in gloria reſidentem brachium ad homines extendere, quatenus omnibus supernaturale auxilium dare paratus est, vult enim omnes homines saluos fieri, & ad agnitionem veritatis venire, sic habet Apostolus Paulus 1. ad Timot. 2.

4 Vt sicut Pater cum Filio fuit in me, qui corpus meum, & animam habuit in se, & sicut Spiritus sanctus, qui est in Patre, & filio vbique mecum fuit.

Quomodo tres personæ Trinitatis fuerint in vtero Beatissimæ Virginis, & qua ratione hac de re iuxta sanctorum Patrum, ac Scholasticorum Doctorum sententias loquendum sit egimus supra lib. 1. cap. 38. nota 1. & fusius cap. 42. eodem lib. nota 3. vbi attulimus quinque modos, quibus dicere possumus vnam personam diuinam esse in alia, interim hic admonere lectorem censui, non agi hoc loco de Incarnationis mysterio, per quod Christus Dominus peculiari ratione fuit in vtero Beatissimæ Virginis, sed de vnione, qua anima iusti per gratiam est in Deo, & Deus in ea, quod aperte colligitur ex his verbis, quæ immediate sequuntur, vbi legimus sic, & famulus meus ligatus erit cum eodem spiritu, nam quando ipse diligit passionem Dei, & corpus eius habet in corde charissimum, & tunc habebis humanitatem, quæ intra se, & extra se habet deitatem, & est Deus in eo, & ipse in Deo, sicut est in me Deus.

VERBA MATRIS AD filiam sub figura mirabili de quodam Episcopo, qualiter scilicet Episcopus per papilionem vermem, & humilitas & superbia Episcopi per duas alas, & tres species mala Episcopi palliantes, per tres vermis colores, Episcopi opera per spissitudinem coloris, duplex voluntas per duo cornua papilionis, & cupiditas per os, modica charitas per paruum corpus designantur, & exponuntur.

CAP. XIV.

MATER loquitur ad sponsã filij dicẽs. Tu es vas, quod possessor implet, & magister euacuat, attamẽ vnus, & idem est, qui implet, & vacuat. Nam sicut qui infunderet vasi simul vinum & lac, & aquam, diceretur magister, si vnum quodque illorum insimul coagulatorum separaret, & reduceret in naturam propriam. Sic ego Mater, & magistra omnium feci, & facio tibi. Nam ante annũ, & mensem dicta sunt tibi plura negocia, & omnia quasi coagulantur in anima tua. Quæ si statim effunderentur, simul videretur abominabile, cum ignoraretur eorum finis. Ideo paulatim distinguo ea, sicut mihi placet. Nunquid recolis, quod misi te ad quendam Episcopum quem vocaui seruum meum? Ideo nunc similamus eum papilioni vermi, qui habet alas latas colore albo, rubeo, & blaueo respersas, cum vero tangitur, color eius spissus remanet in digitis tanquam cinis. Hic vermis modicum habet corpus, sed grossum os, duo cornua in fronte, & occultum locũ in ventre, per quem immunda ventris emittuntur. Alæ vero huius vermis, idest, Episcopi, sunt humilitas eius, & superbia. Nam humilis apparet extra in verbis, & gestibus humilis in vestibus, & operatione, sed intus est superbia, qua magnus est in conspectu sui, tumidus de honore, ambitiosus de fauore hominum, & arrogans, alijs sua præferendo, & aliena iudicando. His igitur duabus alis, volat per humilitatem apparentem coram hominibus, vt singulis placeat, & in ore sit omnium. Per superbiam vero sibi ipsi qua se existimat multis sanctiorem. Tres vero colores alarum, sunt tres species palliantes mala eius. Nam color eius rubeus significat, quod continue de passione Christi disputat, & miraculis Sanctorum, vt vocetur Sanctus, sed certe longe sunt à corde ipsius, quia minime sapiunt sibi. Color vero blaueus significat, quod exterius videtur non curare de temporalibus, sed mortuus esse mundo, & totus cælestis, sicut blaueum speciem habet cæli. Sed certe color iste secundus non maiorem coram deo stabilitatem, & fructum affert, quam ille primus. Color vero albus indicat ipsum in vestibus religiosum, in moribus superlaudabilem. Sed tanta dulcedo, & perfectio est in colore tertio, qualis in duobus primis. Sicut enim color papilionis spissus est, & adhæret manibus, vél tamen relinquens manibus, nisi quasi cinerem. Sic opera sua videntur admiranda, quia desiderat esse solus, sed ad vtilitatem propriam vacua, & infructuosa sunt, quia non sincere quærit, nec diligit diligendum. Cornua vero duo duplex est voluntas eius. Nam desiderat habere vitam sine incommodis in hoc mundo, post mortem vero vitam æternam. Vt & honore magno non fraudetur in terris, & in cælestibus perfectius coronetur. Iste Episcopus simillimus est etiam papilioni, qui cogitat portare cælum in cornu vno, & terram in altero, qui tamen si posset non sustentaret minimum quid ad honorem Dei. Sic ille Ecclesiæ Dei se credit, & cogitat proficere verbo suo, & exemplo, tanquam si sine illo non ita cresceret, terrenosq. homines per merita sua germinadicam Ecclesiæ Sponsæ Filii mei Iesu Christi meæ, qui est vnus Catholicus, Cum ipse vnus sit vnus Deus, & vna Fides, vna Spes, vna Charitas, vna Ecclesia. Quid ergo est diuidere Christum? Quando quis dicit, Ego sum Apostolicus, ego sum Catholicus, ego sum Euangelicus, Cum non sit nisi vna Ecclesia, vna Fides, vna Spes, vna Charitas, quæ est Catholica? Quid ergo est Apostolicus? Quando quis habet Librum Apostoli, & non habet Librum Euangelistæ, & econtra, quod si omnes habent vnum Librum, non habent vnum Sensum, nec vnum Intellectum. Sic illi Ecclesiæ diuisionem efficiunt publice aut occulte, qui modo quod Apostolus, modo quod Euangelista dicit, quidam dicit magnum & non magnum, vel quidam dicit magnum & non magnum, & non habent vnum Librum, vnum Sensum, vnum Intellectum, vnum Spiritum, vnum Deum, vnum Christum. Quia quod dicitur illi Ecclesiæ Sponsæ meæ, dicitur omnibus, qui sunt de eadem Ecclesia, & membra. Scripsi ego Apostolo, & aliquam Ecclesiam Christum habere Librum Iesu Christi. Et Euangelista scripsit. Quidam Christum habent Librum, cum Apostolo & Euangelista. Quidam Christum non habent Librum, neque cum Apostolo, neque cum Euangelista, sed non habent.

CAP. XV.

TUM Iesus Mater ad Iudam dicit. Aliqui Episcopi obtulerunt, quod vnus Episcopus, & quatuor viri venirent ad te, & ego dixi, quod non, quia non sunt boni. Quia quamuis non bonus sit Episcopus, tamen non debet ipse, neque alius Episcopus, neque quicunque alius, qui non sit bonus, habere conuersationem cum illo, qui est malus. Sed quamuis malus sit Episcopus, tamen non debet ipse, neque alius Episcopus, neque quicunque alius, qui non sit malus, vitare eum, neque eum damnare, neque per eum quicquam agere, quod pertineat ad Ecclesiam. Quia quamuis, ipse Episcopus sit damnatus, tamen non debet ipse, neque alius Episcopus, neque quicunque alius, qui non sit damnatus, damnare eum

CAP. XVI.

FILIVS loquitur ad ſponſam dicens. 1 Quid credis quare iſti duo oſtenduntur tibi? Nunquid quia vituperium eorum, & dānum placet Deo? Abſit, ſed ideo fit, vt patientia, & honor Dei manifeſtior fiat, & audientes timeant iudicium Dei. Sed veni, & audi mirābile. Et ecce quidam iunior Epiſcopus quæſiuit ſeniorem dicens. Audi frater, & reſponde mihi. Cum ad iugum obedientiæ fuiſti obligatus, cur deſeruiſti illud? Cū paupertatē, & religionem elegiſti, cur reliquiſti illas? Cum per religionis ingreſſum oſtendiſti te mortuum ſæculo, cur deſideraſti Epiſcopatum? Reſpondit ſenior. Obedientia, quæ me ſubeſſe docuit erat mihi onerosa, ideo affectaui libertatem. Iugum quod Deus dicit ſuaue, erat mihi amarum, ideo quæſiui, & elegi corporis quietem. Humilitas erat in me ficta, ideo concupiui
2 honorem. 2 Et quia melius eſt minare, var. lect. quam trahere, ideo deſideraui Epiſcopatū. Quæſiuit ſecundo iunior. Cur non honorabas ſedem tuam mundi honore? Cur non acquiſiſti diuitias per mundanam ſapientiam? Cur non diſpenſaſti ea, quæ habebas ſecundum honorem mundi? Cur tantum te exterius deiecisti, & non magis iuxta mundialem ambitionem proceſſiſti? Reſpondit ſenior. Ideo non ſtraui ſedem meam cum mundi honore, quia ſperabam amplius honorari, ſi apparerem humilis, & ſpiritualis, 3 quam ſi viderer temporalis. 3 Et propterea vt à mundanis hominibus laudarer videbar quaſi omnia contemnere. Vt vero diligerer à ſpiritualibus, humilis, & deuotus apparebam. Ideo vero non acquiſiui diuitias cum mundana ſapientia, ne ſpirituales viri notarent me, & contemnerent propter tēporale. Ideo vero non dedi largiter dona, quia magis placebat mihi eſſe cum pauciorib⁹ propter quietem meam, quam cum pluribus. Et plus delectabar, ſi aliquid habeam in area, quam ſi tribuiſſem aliquid manu mea. Item quęſiuit iunior. Dic mihi cur deditti aſino dulcem, & delectabilem potum de immundo vaſe? Cur tribuiſti epiſcopo ſiliquas de ara porcorum? Cur coronam tuam ſtrauiſti ſub pedibus? Cur expuiſti triticum, & maſticaſti zizaniam? Cur ſoluiſti alios de funibus, teipſum vero ligaſti cum pedibus? Cur alienis vulneribus appoſuiſti ſanatiua, & tuis propriis mortificatiua. Reſpondit ſenior. Ideo dedi aſino dulcem potum de immundo, & deſpecto vaſe, quia cum eſſem literatus placuit mihi propter mundi honorem magis tractare ſacramenta diuina altaris, quam vacare curæ ſæculari. Et quia occulta mea erant hominibus incognita, Deo vero nota, aſſumpſi præſumptione nimiam, & auxi mihi iudicij terribilis grauiorē equitatem. Ad ſecundum dico, quod dedi epiſcopo ſiliquas de ara porcorum, quia naturę meæ incentiua effundendo perficiebam, nec in coercendo ſtabilis permanebam. Ad tertium. Ideo poſui coronam epiſcopalem ſub pedibus, quia placuit mihi magis facere miſericordiam propter fauorē hominū, quam iuſtitiā pro honore, & amore Dei. Ad quartum Ideo expuens triticum maſticabā ſtramina, quia verba Dei non loquebar ex amore Dei, nec delectabat me illa facere, quę aliis proponebam. Ad quintum. Ideo ſoluens me ipſum ligabam, quia venientes ad me cum contritione abſoluebam, & illa, quæ illi pœnitendo deflebant, & deflendo reliquebant, hęc me delectabat adimplere. Ad ſextum. Ideo alios vaxi voguento ſanatiuo, & meipſum mortifero, quia docendo vitæ puritatem alios emendaui, & meipſum deterioraui, nam illa, quę præcepi aliis hæc ipſe nolui mouere digito. Et vnde alios vidi proficere, inde ipſe deficiendo tabeſcebam, quia me delectabat magis commiſſis peccatis ſarcinam addere, quam ea emendando alleniare. Poſt hæc audita eſt vox quædam dicens. Regratiare Deo, quod non es cum illis venenoſis vaſis, quæ cum diſſoluentur, vadunt ad ipſum venenum. Et ſic ſtatim alter illorum mortuus nunciabatur.

NOTAE.

1 QVid credis, quare iſti duo oſtenduntur tibi.

Hi ſunt duo illi Epiſcopi, de quibus ſupra decimoquarto capite, & decimoquinto ſermonem habuit Beatiſſima Virgo cum B. Brigitta, hic autem rationem reddit, quare voluerit Deus eorum propalare ſacinora, ac vitia, & huius rei tres affert cauſas, quarum prima eſt, vt oſtendatur patientia Dei, qui eos tam diu ad pœnitentiam expectauit, Secunda, vt oſtendatur honor Dei, qui cum ſit ſumme bonus permittit aliquando hominum ſcelera manifeſtari, vt inde palam fiat, ea peccata ex eorum procedere malitia, & nullo pacto ex Dei bonitate, qua vult omnes homines boni ſint. Tertia, vt oſtendatur inſtum eius iudicium, cuius recordatione à malo retrahuntur.

2 Et quia melius eſt minare, quam trahere, ideo deſideraui Epiſcopatum.

var. lect. - Codex M. S. Farneſianus aliter legit, Et quia melius eſt præeſſe, quam ſubeſſe, quæ mihi lecto magis placet, ex ea enim manifeſtum fit, quare Monachus ille, de quo hic ſermo eſt appetierit Epiſcopatũ, quamquam & alia lectio idem videatur innuere, ſed verba illa ſic eſſent corrigenda, quia melius eſt minari, quam trahi, quandoquidem verbum minor ſignificat alijs minas intentare, & hoc volebat Monachus ille, alijs potius imperare, & minas inferre, quam trahi, nimirum ab aliorum voluntate pendere, & eorum præceptis trahi, & obedire.

3 Et propterea, vt à mundanis hominibus laudarer, videbar, quaſi omnia contemnere, vt vero diligerer à ſpiritualibus, humilis, & deuotus apparebam.

Quemadmodum plerumque meretrices conſueuerunt, ſuos vultus, qui fœdi, ac turpes ſunt multis diuerſorum colorum pigmentis honeſtare, vt eos decipiant, qui neſciunt, quæ ſub illius fuci velamine lateat turpitudo, ita quoque Monachus iſte, vt multos deciperet, qui eum humilem, ac honorum contemptorem exiſtimabant, videbatur omnia temporalia negligere, & dignitates recuſare. Vnde circa finem præſentis capitis legimus, eum recuſaſſe Epiſcopatum, vt hominibus humilis, ac laude dignus videretur, ideo dicit poſui coronam Epiſcopatum ſub pedibus quia placuit mihi facere magis miſericordiam propter fauorem hominum, quam iuſtitiam pro amore, & honore Dei, hanc ob cauſam eum comparandum eſſe cum Simone Cireneo crediderim, qui crucem tulit alienam, quia inanis gloriæ auiditate incenſus, ea fecit, quæ non dilexit: arbores, inquit D. Bernardus ſerm. de S. Benedicto, quæ fructum faciunt, ſed non ſuum, hypocritæ ſunt, cum Simone Cireneo crucem portantes, non ſuam, qui religioſa intentione carentes angariantur, & quæ non amant, amore gloriæ, quam deſiderant, facere compelluntur.

eandem ſententiam habet Hector Pinctus in Ezechiel cap. 40.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD filiam, vitam, & ordinem S. Dominici commendantia, & qualiter tempore mortis ſuæ conuerſus eſt ad Virginẽ, & qualiter modernis tẽporibus pauci de ſuis fratribus ſequũntur ſignum paſſionis Chriſti per Dominicum eis datum, & multi vadunt poſt ſignum inciſionis per diabolum eis oblatum.

CAP. XVII.

ITEM loquitur Mater dei ad ſponſam dicens. Dixi tibi heri de duobus, qui erant de regula S. Dominici. Certe ipſe Dominicus filium meum habuit pro ſuo chariſſimo Domino, & me Matrem eius dilexit, plus quam cor ſuum. Huic ſancto inſpirauit filius meus tria eſſe in mundo, quæ diſplicebant eidem filio meo. Superbiam, ſcilicet, & cupiditatẽ, & concupiſcentiam carnis. Ad quarum triũ diminutionem S. Dominicus impetrauit maximis ſuſpirijs auxilium, & medicamentum, cuius Deus compaſſus lacrymis inſpirauit ei legem, & regulam viuendi, in qua ipſe ſanctus contra tria mala mundi tria bona conſtituit. Nam contra vitium concupiſcentiæ, inſtituit nil poſſidere, niſi cum licentia prioris ſui. Contra ſuperbiam, inſtituit habere humilem habitum, & ſimplicem. Cõtra carnis inſatiabilem voraginem, inſtituit abſtinentiam, & tempus debitum ad ſe regulandum. Priorem quoque conſtituit fratribus ſuis ad obſeruationem pacis, & cuſtodiam vnitatis. Deinde volens quoddam ſpirituale ſignum dare fratribus ſuis, impreſſit quaſi vnam ſpiritualem crucem, & rubeam in ſiniſtro brachio eorum iuxta cor, per doctrinã, & exempli ſui efficaciam, quando docuit, & monuit eos continue recordari paſſionem Dei, prædicare feruenter verba dei, non propter mundum, ſed propter amorẽ Dei, & animarum. Docuit inſuper illos magis ſubijci, quam præeſſe, voluntatẽ propriã odire, contumelias patienter ferre, nihil præter victũ, & veſtitum deſiderare. Veritatem corde diligere, & ore proferre, laudẽ propriã, non quærere, ſed diuina verba ſemper in ore habere, & docere, & illa non propter pudorẽ dimittere, nec propter fauorẽ humanum recitare.

Cun-

Cunque inſtaret tempus reſolutionis eius, quod filius meus ei in ſpiritu oſtendit, iuit ad me Matrem eius cum lacrymis dicens. O Maria regina cæli, quam ipſe Deus prælegit ſibi in coniunctionem deitatis, & humanitatis. Tu es illa ſingularis Virgo, & ſingulariter digniſſima Mater. Tu es illa potentiſſima, de qua ipſa poteſtas prodijt, audi me rogantem te, quia enim ſcio te potentiſſimam, ideo præſumo de te. Suſcipe fratres meos, quos educaui, & foui ſub ſtricto ſcapulari meo, & defende eos ſub lato mantello tuo. Rege eos, & refoue, ne hoſtis antiquus præualeat eis, & ne diſſipet vineam nouellã, quam plantauit dextera filij mei. Quid vero domina mea aliud noto per ſcapulare ſtrictum, quod palliolum vnum habet ante pectus, & aliud retro, niſi duplicem conſiderationem, quam ad fratres meos habui? Sollicitabar quippe nocte, & die pro eis, quomodo in rationabili, & laudabili deſeruirent Deo temperantia. Orabam etiam pro eis, ne quid de mundo concupiſcerẽt, quod vel Deum offenderet, aut famam humilitatis, & pietatis apud proximum denigraret. Nunc igitur quia tempus remunerationis meæ inſtat, aſſigno tibi membra mea, doce ergo eos ſicut filios, & porta eos, ſicut Mater. Cum his enim verbis, & alijs vocatus eſt, Dominicus in gloriam Dei. Cui ego per ſimilitudinem loquendo, reſpondi taliter. O Dominice amice dilecte, quia dilexiſti me, plus quam te. Ego ſublato mantello meo defendam, & regam filios tuos, necnon & omnes, qui in regula tua perſeuerant ſaluabuntur. Mantellus vero meus latus miſericordia mea eſt, quam nulli feliciter petenti denego. Sed omnes, qui quærunt, ſub miſericordiæ meæ ſinu proteguntur. Sed quid credis tu ô filia mea, quod regula Dominici ſit? Vtiq. humilitas, & continentia, & contemptus mundi. Nam omnes, qui hæc tria aſſumunt, & perſeuerando diligunt, nunquam damnabuntur, & hi ſunt, qui tenent regulam beati Dominici: Sed audi mirabile. Dominicus aſſignauit filios ſuos ſub mantello meo lato, & ecce pauciores ſunt, nunc ſub mantello meo lato, quam tunc erant ſub ſcapulari ſuo ſtricto. Nec tamen omnes viuente adhuc ipſo Dominico habuerunt ouina vellera, & Dominicos mores. Sicut melius per exemplum oſtendo tibi mores eorum. Si Dominicus deſcenderet de altitudine cæleſti, in qua eſt, & diceret furi, qui prodit de valle, & conſiderat oues ad mactandum, & perdendum. Cur inquiens vocas, & abducis oues meas, quas ex ſignis euidentiſſimis cognoſco eſſe meas? Reſpondere poteſt fur. Cur Dominice approprias tibi illa, quæ tua non ſunt? Nam ſubreptio violenta eſt aliena vſurpare ſibi. Si reſpondere volueris, Dominicum enutriſſe eas, & domuiſſe, & præceſſiſſe, & docuiſſe. Dicturus eſt fur. Si tu enutriſti eas, & docuiſti, tunc ego blandiendo ſuauiter reduxi eas ad voluntatem propriam. Si tu lenitatẽ cum auſteritate miſcebas eis, & ego alliciebam eas blandius, & oſtendebam, quod delectabat eas ſuauius, & ecce plures currunt ad paſtum, & vocem meam. Et ideo oues, quæ ſequuntur me feruentius cognoſco eſſe meas, quia liberum habent arbitrium ſequendi allicientem. Si reſponderit iterum Dominicus, quod oues ſuæ ſignatæ ſunt ſigno rubeo in corde, dicturus eſt fur oues meæ ſignatæ ſunt ſigno meo, ſigno ſcilicet, inciſionis in dextra aure. Et quia manifeſtius, & euidentius eſt ſignum meum ſigno tuo, ideo cognoſco oues meas. Fur igitur iſte diabolus eſt, qui de ouibus Dominici plures ſibi incorporauit, quæ inciſæ ſunt in dextra aure, quia non audiunt verba vitæ dicentis. Arcta via eſt in cælum. Sed ſola illa delectabiliter audiendo perficiunt, quæ eas delectat adimplere. Oues vero Dominici paucæ ſunt, quæ ſignum rubeum habent in corde, qui paſſionem Dei cum charitate recolunt, & verba Dei prædicantes feruẽter vitam beatam ducunt, in omni caſtitate, & paupertate. Nam hæc eſt regula Dominici, ſicut vulgo dicitur, omnia ſua portare in dorſo, nihil velle poſſidere, niſi quod permittit regula. Non ſolum dimittere ſuperflua, ſed & à licitis, & neceſſarijs, quandoq. propter carnis motus temperare ſe.

VERBA MATRIS AD filiam, quod citius fratres nunc audirent, & audiunt vocem diaboli, quam ſui patris Dominici, & quomodo nunc pauci imitantur eius veſtigia, & qualiter Epiſcopatus deſiderantes propter mundi honorem, & ſui quietem, & libertatem, non ſunt in regula ſancti Dominici, & de terribili ſententia contra tales, & de experientia dãnationis pro tali Epiſcopatu.

CAP. XVIII.

LOquitur Mater ad ſponſam dicens. Dixi tibi, quod omnes, qui ſunt in regula Dñici, ſunt ſub mãtello meo. Nũc auditura es, quam multi ſunt tales. Si Dñicus deſcenderet de loco deliciarũ, in quo feliciter vere eſt, & clamaret taliter. O fratres dilectiſſimi ſequimini me, quia vobis reſeruãtur quatuor bona, honor ſcilicet pro humihumilitate, diuitiæ perpetuæ pro paupertate, ſacietas ſine faſtidio pro continentia, vita æterna pro contemptu mundi, vix auditetur. Sed ſi e contra ſtatim aſcenderet diabolus deconualle, clamaretque alia quattuor diſſimilia. Vobis Dominicus inquiens promiſit quattuor. Videte me, ego enim vobis, quæ deſideratis oſtendam manu. Nam ecce honorem offero, diuitias habeo manu voluptas in promptu eſt, mundus erit delectabilis ad fruendum. Suſcipite igitur, quæ offero, vtimini his, quæ certa ſunt, viuite cum gaudio, vt poſt obitum ſimul gaudeatis. Si iſtæ duæ voces, nunc ſonarent in mundo plures currerent ad vocem latronis diaboli, quam ad vocem Dominici amici mei tam præclari. Et quid dicam de fratribus Dominici, certe pauci ſunt, qui ſunt in regula eius, & pauciores ſunt, qui imitando veſtigia ſequuntur eius. Nam non omnes audiunt vnam vocem, quia non ſunt omnes de vno genere, non quod non ſint omnes à Deo, & non quod omnes ſaluari non poſſint, ſi volunt. Sed quia non omnes audiunt vocem filij Dei dicentis. Venite ad me, & ego reficiam vos, ſcilicet dando meipſum. Sed quid dicam de illis fratribus, qui propter mundum deſiderant Epiſcopatus, nunquid ſunt in regula Dominici? Nequaquam. 1 Aut qui acceptant Epiſcopatus, rationabili de cauſa, nunquid excludun tur a regulâ Dominici? non vtique. Nam beatus Auguſtinus regulariter vixit ante Epiſcopatum, ſed in Epiſcopatu non reliquit regularem vitam, quamuis aſcendit ad maiorem honorem. Aſſumpſit enim honorem inuitus, non ad quietem, ſed certe ad maiorem laborem, quia videns ſe poſſe prodeſſe animabus, libenter propter Deum reliquit voluntatem propriam, & quietem carnis, vt plures lucrifaceret Deo ſuo. Propterea qui ſic deſiderant, & aſſumunt Epiſcopatus, vt animabus eo magis proficiãt, ipſi sũt in regula Dominici, & merces eorũ duplicabitur, tũ propter regulæ dulcedinẽ, a qua abſtracti ſunt, tũ propter onus Epiſcopale, ad quod ſunt vocati. Propterea juro ſuper Deũ, ſuper quẽ iurabãt prophetę, qui non iurabãt. Propter impatientiam, ſed quia recéperunt Deũ in teſtimoniũ verborũ ſuorũ, ſic ego dico nunc, & iuro ſuper eundẽ Deũ, quod veniet fratribus illis, qui contempſerunt regulã Dominici venator de poteſtate cũ effrænatis canibus, tanquã ſi ferus diceret domino. Multę inquiens oues intrauerunt hortum tuum, quarũ carnes vemẽtę ſunt, & vellera ſordibus conglobatas, quarum lac inutile eſt, & laſciuia nimis inſolefcens. Iube inquiens eos abſcindi, ne paſcua pro ouibus vtilibus deficiant, & ne boues ex inſolentia malarum perturbentur. Cui reſponderet Dominus. Claude foramina, ne aliquæ ingrediantur, niſi quas mihi bene conuenit, & expedit educare, & paſcere, & quæ pacificæ ſunt, & honeſtæ. Sic ego dico, quod prius claudentur aliqua foramina, ſed non omnia. Poſt veniet venator cum canibus, qui non parcet veleribus a ſagittis, non corporibus a vulneribus ad hoc, vt vita finiatur. Deinde venient cuſtodes, qui diligenter conſiderabunt, & attendent, de quo genere fuerint oues, quæ ad paſtum Domini intromittuntur. Reſpondens ſponſa dixit, ò domina, ne indigneris, ſi quæro. Cum Papa mitigauit eis auſteritatem regulæ, nunquid reprehendendi ſunt, ſi comedunt carnes, vel cætera, quæ apponuntur. Reſpondit Mater. Papa conſiderans infirmitatem naturæ humanæ, ſimul & defectum, quem quidam propoſuerunt, rationabiliter permiſit eos comedere carnes, ad hoc vt abiliores, & feruentiores eſſent in prædicando, & laborando, non vt deſidiores, & diſſolutiores apparerent, & ideo excuſamus Papam de hac permiſſione. Dixit iterum ſponſa. Dominicus inſtituit habere veſtes non de optimis, nec viliſſimis pannis, ſed de medio temperatis. Nunquid reprehendendi ſunt, ſi de mollioribus induuntur? Reſpondit Mater. Dominicus, qui regulam de ſpiritu filij mei dictauit, præcepit habere veſtes non de mollioribus, & pretioſioribus, ne forte arguerentur, & notarentur, de pulchro habitu, & pretioſo, & ſic ſuperbirent. Inſtituit etiam non habere veſtes de viliſſimis, & duriſſimis, ne propter duritiam veſtis inquietarentur nimium in capiendo ſomnũ poſt laborem. Sed inſtituit veſtes habere temperatas, & neceſſarias, de quibus non ſuperbirent, & in quibus nil vanitatis haberent, ſed per eas frigus carnis expellerent, & ad virtutum profectum continuum ſe munirent. Et ideo laudamus Dominicum in inſtitutione ſua, ſed fratres ſuos reprehendimus, eos, videlicet, qui habitum ſuum ad vanitatem transformant, & non ad vtilitatem. Dixit iterũ ſponſa. Nunquid reprehendendi ſunt illi fratres, qui filio tuo ædificant Eccleſias altas, & ſumptuoſas? Aut vituperandi, & dijudicandi ſunt, ſi ad tales ſtructuras ædificandas plura mendicant? Reſpondit Mater. Quando Eccleſia in tantum lata eſt, quod capit ingredientes, quando muri tantum in altum excreuerint, quod non coarctant introeuntes. Quando murorum ſpiſſitudo tam fortis eſt, quod non a quolibet vento diſſoluatur. Quando tectura tam firmiter compacta eſt, quod non ſtillat, ſufficit eis ædificaſſe. Nam placet Deo magis cor humile in humili Eccleſia, quam alti muri, in quiin quibus corpora sunt intra, sed corda ab extra, propterea nõ habẽt necesse arcas auro,& argento implere propter ædificia,quia non profuit Salomoni ædificasse tã sũptuosa ędificia,ex quo neglexit eũ diligere,propter quẽ ędificabãtur. His dictis,& auditis statim senior Episcopus, qui supra nunciabatur mortuus clamabat dicens. O o o ablata est mitra,& ecce apparet,quod latebat subtus. Vbi est nunc honorabilis Episcopus? vbi sacerdos venerandus? vbi pauper frater? Certe abest Episcopus,qui vnctus fuit oleo in officium Apostolicum, & in puritatem vitæ. Remanet vero seruus sterquilinij pinguedine maculatus. Abest etiam sacerdos, qui consecratus fuit verbis sanctis, vt mutaret inanimatum & mortuum panem in viuificantem Deum. Remanet vero proditor fallax, qui vendidit eum propter cupiditatem, qui redemit omnes ex charitate. Abest quoque pauper frater,qui cum iuramento abnegauit mundum,sed nunc pro superbia, & ostentatione mea sum iudicatus. Veruntamen nunc compellor dicere veritatem, quod ille iustus iudex qui iudicauit me, magis voluit set liberare me tam amara morte sicut tõc patiebatur,cum staret in ligno Crucis, sed iustitia cui obuiare non poterat contradicebat,quam quod aliter fuissem sicut nunc superior iudicatus.

NOTAE.

1 AT qui acceptant Episcopatum rationabili de causa,nunquid excluduntur a regula Dominici,non vtique.

Hic tenus nobis ansam præbet,vt breuiter quæramus, vtrum Religiosi,qui a Religione ad Episcopatum transeunt ad sua regulæ obseruantias teneantur,& quidem ex verbis hic notatis aperte colligi potest huiusmodi Episcopos suæ Religionis,in qua fuerunt professi regulis esse subiectos, quod tamen id absolute non esse concedendum arbitror; nam si loquamur de earum rerum obseruantia, quæ non solum non obstant statui Episcopali, sed ad illud eius vitæ,probeq. obeundum conferunt, vt castitas, paupertas, & obedientia ,quam non relinquunt, sed mutant, vt qui prius religionis Prælato obtemperabant,deinde obtemperent Papæ, tunc dicendũ est Episcopum ad eas teneri, si quæ vero inter Regulares obseruantias existunt, quæ Pontificiæ functioni obstaculo esse possunt, vt solitudo, silentium, abstinentiæ graues,quæ cum corpus, vtplurimum debilitent accidere potest, vt Episcopum suo oneri ineptum reddant,ab his ego eum penitus immunem esse censeo,circa quæ tamen poterit talis Episcopus per suam auctoritatem nonnunquam dispensatione vti,sicut id in Religione poterat auctoritate sui Superioris,seuus vero crediderim de his obseruantijs, quæ medium videntur habere locum, quia, scilicet non semper obstant,sed aliquando obstare possent, vt lauus ad cutem radi. & in his dormire, & alia similia, atque huius doctrinæ potissimam rationem esse putat D.Thom. 2.2.q.184.ar.8. quoniam licet Religio, & Episcopatus status sint perfectionis, Episcopatus tamen hac in re multum excellit, nam si ad inuicem comparentur,religionis status in ordine ad Episcopalem se habet,sicut disciplina ad magisterium, & dispositio ad perfectionem; vnde sicut non tollitur dispositio perfectione adueniente, ita quoque Religioso professo adueniente statu perfectionis,nimirum Episcopatus nõ tolluntur ea,quæ ad huiusmodi perfectionem status poterant disponere,imo coadiuuare,sed ea tantummodo,quæ Episcopali functioni possunt esse obstaculo. Ex his ergo deducendum est secundum communem omnium sententiam,Religiosum professum Episcopum electum liberari,& eximi a iurisdictione,& potestate Præfectorum,& a pœnis,quæ irrogantur in regulis,& constitutionibus suæ Religionis, non vero a votis in professione factis. Caterum Caetanus tom.1. opusc tract.25.q.2.docet Episcopum vi statuti,aut legis non cogi seruari Religionis decreta sed ex honestate,& tantummodo rationis & debito quodam morali; idem tradidit Sotus de iust.& iur lib. 10. q 5 ar.7 Sed quidquid sit Religiosum professum ad Episcopatum assumptum absolute teneri ad vota essentialia,& ea quæ non obstant functioni Episcopali tradunt D.Thom vbi sup. Ang.in summ. ver.religio q.33. & Siluester ver.religio 7.q. 11. Ioann. Azor lib. 12.inst.moral cap.7.circa fin.& hoc aperte colligitur ex verbis præsentis notæ ibi, non vtique, nam B.Aug. regulariter vixit ante Episcopatum,sed in Episcopatu non reliquit regularem vitam.

RESPONSIO SPONSAE AD Christum, qualiter diuersis cogitationibus,& inutilibus afficitur,& quo modo eas remouere non possit, & responsio Christi ad Sponsam quare istud permittitur a Deo, & de magna vtilitate cogitationum, cum detestatione, & timore cum discretione ad coronam habita, & quod peccatum veniale non debet contemni, ne inducat in mortale.

CAP. XIX.

LOQVITVR Filius ad Sponsam. Quid turbaris,& sollicita es filia? Respondit illa, quia diuersis cogitationibus, & inutilibus afficior, quas remouere non possum, & iudicij tui terribilia ribilis auditio me conturbat. Respondit filius. Hæc est vera iustitia. Sicut enim prius delectabaris in affectionibus mundi contra velle meum, sic nunc permittuntur tibi cogitationes variæ contra velle tuum. Veruntamen time cum discretione, & confide fortiter in me Deo tuo. Sciens pro certissimo, quod quando meus non delectatur in cogitationibus peccati, sed reluctatur eis detestando eas purgatio, sunt animæ, & corona. Si vero modicum peccatum, quod intelligis esse peccatum, delectat te facere, & & facis ex confidentia abstinentiæ, & præsumptione gratiæ, nec assumis pœnitentiã, nec aliam facis emendam, scito illud posse 1 fieri mortale, 1 propterea si in mentem venerit aliqua peccati delectatio qualiscunque fuerit, considera statim ad quid tendit, & pœnitere. Nam postquam natura hominis debilitata est ex infirmitate eius, pluries pro

2 cedit peccatum. 2 Non enim est homo, qui 3 non peccat saltem venialiter. 3 Sed Deus
var. misericors dedit homini remedium, dolere, lect. scilicet de omni peccato, necnon & emendata, ne forte, non bene emendata sint, nam nihil ita odit Deus, sicut scire peccatum, nec curare, aut ex meritis aliquibus præsumere quasi Deus, ideo toleraret aliquod peccatũ tuum, quasi sine te non posset honorari, aut ideo licite permitteret tibi facere vnum malum, quia feciſti plura bona, cum magis etiã si centies feciſſes bene pro vno quoque malo, adhuc non sufficeres rependere Deo pro charitate, & bonitate sua. Propterea time
4 rationabiliter, 4 & si cogitationes prohibevar. re non poteris, saltem fer patientiam, & colect. nare contra eas voluntate. Non enim damnaberis pro eis, si ingrediuntur, quia non est tuum prohibere, nisi in eis delectaberis. Time etiam quamuis cogitationibus non consentis, ne forte propter superbiam cadas. Omnis enim qui stat, solius Dei virtute stat. Ideo timor introductorium quoddam est in cælum, nam multi ideo lapsi sunt in præcipitium, & mortem propriam, quia timorem diuinum abiecerunt a se, & ibi erubuerunt confiteri coram hominibus, vbi non erubescant peccare coram Deo. Ideo qui pro modico peccato non curat petere veniam, huic
5 & ego dedignabor relaxare peccatum. 5 Et sic exercitatione auctis peccatis, illud quod ex contritione remissibile, & veniale erat, ex negligentia, & contemptu fiet valde graue, sicut in hac anima iam iudicata perpendere poteris. Postquam enim veniale, & remissibile commisit, auxit per consuetudinem confidens de bonis suis aliquibus operibus quasi minora, non attendendo, quod iudicarẽ. Et sic irretita anima per consuetudinem delectationis inordinatæ, non correxit, nec compescuit voluptatem peccati, donec iudicium erat in foribus, & vltimus punctus appropinquabat, ideo appropinquante fine inuoluebatur subito conscientia eius miserabiliter, & doluit, quod cito moreretur, timẽs separari ab illo modico temporali, quod diligebat. Nam deus ad vltimum punctum sustinet hominem, & expectat, si forte homo peccator voluntatem suam omnem quam habet liberam mouere voluerit ab affectu peccati. Sed quia voluntas non corrigitur. Ideo anima sine infinito constringitur, quia diabolus sciens, quod vnusquisque secundum conscientiam, & voluntatem iudicabitur, laborat maxime in fine, vt anima ludificetur, & euertatur ab intentionis rectitudine, quod & fieri permittit Deus, quia anima cum deberet, renuit vigilare. Noli insuper confidere, & præsumere nimium, si quem dico amicum, & seruum, sicut vocaui istum prius, quia etiam iudas vocatus est amicus, & Nabuchodonosor seruus. Nam sicut dixi, personaliter vos amici mei estis, si feceritis, quæ præcipio vobis. Sic dico nunc amici sunt cum me imitantur, inimici sunt cum me, & mandata mea contemnendo persequuntur. Nunquid non dauid postquam dictum est, quod inueni hominem secundum cor meum, excessit per homicidium? Salomon, cui tam mirifica data, & promissa sunt, excessit à bonitate & non est completa in eo promissio propter ingratitudinem eius; sed in me filio Dei. Propterea sicut in dictamine tuo ponitur clausula cum finali, sic ego in locutione mea 1 clausulam istam pono, & finalem. Si quis fecerit voluntatem meam, & dimiserit suam hæreditatem, accipiet vitam æternam. Qui vero audierit, nec faciendo perseuerauerit, erit sicut seruus inutilis, & ingratus. Sed nec debes diffidere, si quem dico inimicum, quia statim inimicus mutauerit voluntatem ad bonum, erit amicus Dei, nunquid non Iudas erat cum duodecim vnus, quando dixi. Vos amici mei estis, qui secuti estis me, & sedebitis super sedes duodecim. Tunc quidem temporis sequebatur me Iudas, nec tamen sedebit cum duodecim. Quomodo ergo completi sunt sermones Dei? Respondeo tibi, Deus qui videt corda, & voluntates hominũ secundum illa iudicat, & remunerat, quæ videt. Homo vero secundum quod videt in facie iudicat. Ideo ne bonus superbiret, vel malus diffideret, vocauit Deus ad Apostolatum, ita bonos, sicut & malos, sicut & quotidie vocat ad dignitates bonos, & malos, vt omnis, qui officium tenet cum vita, glorietur in æterna vita. Qui vero honorem habet absque onere glorietur ad tempus interminum peritarus. Ergo quia Iudas non sequebatur me corde perfecto nõ pertinuit

ad eum, qui secuti estis me, quia non perseuerauit vsque ad remunerationem, sed ad eos, qui perseueraturi erant, tam præsentes, tunc temporis quam futuri. Quia Dominus, in cuius conspectu sunt omnia, quandoque loquitur in præsenti, quæ ad futura pertinent, & de faciendis tanquam iam sint facta. Quandoque etiam præteritum, futurumque permiscet, & præterito vtitur pro futuro, vt nullus præsumat discutere consilium impermutabile trinitatis. Audi adhuc vnum Verbum. Multi sunt vocati, pauci vero electi. Sic iste vocatus est ad Episcopatum, sed non electus, quia ingratus gratiæ Dei. Ideo nomine Episcopus, sed merito degenerans cum his, qui descendunt, & non ascendunt, computabitur.

Additio.

Filius Dei loquitur dicens. Miraris filia quare alius Episcopus habuit pulcherrimũ finem, alius ita horrendum, nam paries cadens confregit eum totum, & modicum superuixit, & hoc modicum cum ingenti dolore. Respondeo tibi. Scriptura dicit, immo ego ipse dixi quod iustus qualicunque morte moritur iustus est apud Deum, sed homines mundi hunc iustum reputant, qui pulchrum exitum habebit sine dolore, & pudore, Deus vero hunc discernit iustum, qui à diuina abstinentia probatus est, vel qui pro iustitia tribulatur, quia amici Dei quasi tribulantur in hoc mundo, aut ad minus supplicium in futuro, aut ad maiorem coronam in cælo. Nam Petrus, & Paulus pro iustitia mortui sunt, sed Petrus amarius Paulo, quia plus dilexit carnem Paulo, & quia Ecclesiæ meæ accepit primatum, debuit, & se mihi amariori morte conformare. Paulus vero, quia plus dilexit continentiam, quia plus laborauit tanquam miles egregius gladium obtinuit, quia ego dispono omnia secundũ merita, & secundum mensuram. Propterea in iudicio Dei non coronat, vel damnat finis, vel mors contemptibilis, sed intentio, & voluntas hominum, & causa. Simile est de istis duobus Episcopis, nam alius patiebatur amariorem pœnam, & despectiorem mortem, hoc fuit ei ad minorem pœnam, quamuis non ad gloriam, quia non patiebatur bona voluntate, quod vero alius obtinuit glorioſum finem, hoc fuit ex occulta iustitia mea, sed non ei ad premium æternum, quia non correxit voluntatem suam dum viuebat.

NOTAE.

1 PRopterea si in mentem venerit aliqua peccati delectatio qualiscunque fuerit considera statim ad quid tendit.

Ad horum intelligentiam notandum est nobis, quod dupliciter homo potest se habere in ordine ad delectationem. Primo quidem si deliberate cogitet de re aliqua delectabili cum animo, vt delectetur, eoque fruatur, tunc dicitur expresse consentire, & mortaliter peccare, si sit de re mortali, & ideo vt scribitur hic, statim homo debet considerare, ad quod ea cogitatio tendat, si vero homo sufficienter aduertat de mala cogitatione, eiusque periculo, & illam negligat reprimere post tempus sufficiens humanæ fragilitati ad deliberandum datum, tunc etiam tacite consentire dicitur, & mortaliter peccare his concurrentibus, primum, vt id, de quo delectatio capitur immolauit culpam mortalem, vt explicat D. Thomas 1.2. quæst. 74. art. 8 Secundo, vt qui delectatur se delectari aduertat, nec satis esset aduertere ad mortale peccatum, nisi plene aduerteret. Tertio, vt non conetur delectationem expellere, quoniam si conaretur, & adhuc perduraret, id illi potius merito tribuendum esset, quam vitio, & hoc est, quod paulo infra legimus in hoc capite, non enim damnaberis pro eis si ingrediuntur, subintellige cor tuum, sic enim addit M.S. Farnesianus. Quartum, & postremum, quod requiritur est, vt ex rationabili causa delectationem moram a se repellere omittat, quod explicat Nauar. in Man. cap. 11. num. 10. & in cap. cognationis de pœnitentia dist. 1.

2 Non enim est homo, qui non peccat saltem venialiter.

Certissimum mihi esse videtur, quod legimus hic, nullum hominem, dum in hac vita mortali viuit regulariter posse à veniali pœnitus culpa esse immunem, hic tamen excipitur Beatissima Virgo, & si quis alius est, cui hoc singulare beneficium diuinitus concessum est, & probatur primo, quia hoc negare est Deum mendacem facere, vt in prima sua canonica cap. 1. D. Ioannes tradit, hoc etiam ex pluribus sacræ scripturæ locis patet aperte, vt Isaiæ 64. facti sumus immundi omnes & 53. omnes quasi oues errauimus, & vnusquisque in viam suam declinauit, & Proverb. 24. septies in die cadit iustus, & Rom. 3. omnes peccauerunt, his tamen obstare posse videtur, quoniam fieri posset, vt quis ad eum perfectionis, ac sanctitatis gradum perueniat, vt omnia venialia peccata vitare queat, vt Iob de seipso cap. 27. dicit, neque reprehendit me cor meum in omni vita mea, & in fine secundi libri Paralipomenon in oratione Manasse habetur, tu Domine non imposuisti pœnitentiam iustis Abrahæ, Isaac, & Iacob; his qui tibi non peccauerunt, sed his non obstan obſtantibus veriſſimum eſſe arbitror, quod legimus hic, id nullatenus fieri poſſe, quam dubitationem pertractans D. Auguſt. in lib. de Spiritu, & littera, in initio capitis primi ſcribens Marcellino dicit; Reſcripſiſti te moueri eo quod in poſteriori duorum librorum fieri poſſe dixi, vt ſit homo ſine peccato, ſi voluntas eius non deſit ope diuina adiuuante, ſed tamen præter vnum, in quo omnes viuificabuntur, neminem fuiſſe, vel fore, in quo hic viuente, eſſet iſta perfectio: abſurdum enim tibi videtur aliquid fieri poſſe, cuius deſit exemplum: eandem quoque rem proſequitur in libris de peccatorum meritis, & remiſſ. ad eundem Marcellinum ſcriptis, mihi ergo dicendum eſt poſſe quidem hominem ſingula peccata venialia vitare, non tamen omnia, vt probat hic, D. Auguſtinus, & ex citatis ſacræ ſcripturæ locis ſupra aperte colligitur, ad locum autem Iob cap. 27. reſpondeo, quod ibi S. Iob non intendit ſe à venialibus penitus excuſare, cum ipſemet. Deo loquatur, ſignaſti, quaſi in ſaculo delicta mea, & rurſus peccaui, ſed ſcribis ibi, quod cor ſuum peccatum non reprehendebat, quia ſi quando aliquod commiſerat, ſtatim pro eo ſatisfaciebat, nec permanebat in eo, vnde locus non dabatur, vt eum cor ſuum reprehenderet, idem reſpondeo ad verba illa Manaſſes, quia non intendebat Patriarchas à venialibus immunes eſſe aſſerere, ſed iuſtos Patriarchas vocat, quia ob peccata venialia non deſierunt eſſe iuſti, tum quia permittit aliquando Deus, vt ipſi cadant, vt ſeruentiores reſurgant, & inde in vita ſpirituali magis proficiant.

3 var. lect. Sed Deus miſericors dedit homini remedium dolere, ſcilicet de omni peccato, necnon, & emendata.

MS. Farneſianus hic addit verbum plangere, quod neceſſario addendum eſt, quia locus eſt mancus, & legit, Necnon, & emendata plangere.

4 var. lect. Et ſi cogitationes prohibere non poteris ſaltem per patientiam.

Rectius manuſcriptus habet, Saltem ſer patienter.

5 Et ſi exercitatione auctis peccatis illud, quod ex contritione remiſſibile, & veniale erat ex negligentia, & contemptu fiet valde graue.

Peccatum, cum conſiſtat principaliter in actu voluntatis, ideo diligenter attendendum, quo animo quis aliquid facit, ſi enim aliquod præceptum, quod culpam lætalem de ſe non inuolueret, ea tamen voluntate quis tranſgrederetur, vt vel præcipientem, vel præceptum contemneret dubitari non poteſt, quin tranſgrediens ratione contemptus mortaliter peccaret, alias enim peccatum, tantummodo veniale committeret, & hoc eſt, quod legimus hic, peccatum veniale ex contemptu fieri poſſe valde graue, idem etiam fieret, ſi in eo finē quis vltimū conſtitueret, vel referret ad mortale, ſed vt hoc explicemus apertius notandum eſt, ex D. Thoma 1. 2. q. 88. art. 3. quod idem actus numero peccati venialis eadem voluntate manente nunquam poterit fieri mortale peccatum, neq; etiam ſi multa ſumerentur peccata venialia poſſent conſtituere vnum mortale quod patet, iū ex parte durationis pœnæ veniali debitæ, quæ temporalis eſt, mortali vero æterna, tum etiam ex parte pœnæ damni, quæ mortali peccato correſpondet, eſtque carentia diuinæ viſionis, cui nulla alia æquiparari poteſt, ſed hac de re, legendus eſt, D. Bonauent. in 4. ſent. diſt. 16. & Silueſter in ſumma verbo peccatum, num. 4. Angelus eodem verbo num. 4. illud autem D. Auguſtini, quod refertur 25. diſt. § Criminis, nullum eſt peccatum adeo veniale, quin fiat criminale, dum placet, explica cum Gloſſ. dum placet complacentia fruitionis, ſeu finis, vt docuimus ſupra.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM quomodo per talentum dona Spiritus ſancti deſignantur, & qualiter ſanctus Benedictus ſibi donum Spiritus ſancti datum multiplicauit, & per quæ Spiritus ſanctus, vel Spiritus diabolicus hominis animam ingreditur.

CAP. XX.

1 MATER loquitur. Filia ſcriptum eſt, quod qui quinque talenta acceperat, alia quinque lucratus eſt. Quid enim eſt talentū niſi donū Spiritus ſancti, nam alij accipiunt ſcientiam, alij diuitias, alij apud diuites familiaritatem, & tamen omnes duplum reportare debent Domino ſuo lucrum, ſcilicet de ſcientia viuendo vtiliter ſibi, & alios inſtruendo. De diuitiis, & cæteris donis vtendo rationabiliter, & alijs miſericorditer ſubueniendo. Sic ille bonus Abbas Benedictus, donum gratiæ, quod acceperat multiplicauit, quando omne contempſit, quod tranſitorium erat, quando carnem ſuam ſeruire coegit animæ, quando nihil præpoſuit diuinæ charitati. Qui inſuper timens, ne aures macularentur auditu inani, oculi viſione delectabilium fugit in eremum, 2 imitans illum qui nondum natus exultando intra viſcera materna cognouit aduentum ſui pijſſimi redemptoris. Qui quidem Benedictus etiam ſine eremo obtinuiſſet cælum, quia mundus erat ei mortuus, & cor eius totum plenum Deo. Sed placuit Deo vocare Benedictum in montem, vt cum pluribus innoteſceret plures eius exemplo ad perfectionis vitam incitacitarentur. Huius beati viri corpus erat quasi faceus terræ, in quo claudebatur ignis Spiritus sancti, qui exclusit ab eius corde diabolicum ignem. Sicut enim ignis corporalis ex duobus accenditur, ex aere scilicet, & flatu hominis, 3 sic Spiritus sanctus ingreditur animam hominis, vel per inspirationē personalem, aut per aliquam operationem humanam, seu loquutionem diuinam, mentē excitat ad Deum. Similiter spiritus diabolicus visitat suos, sed differunt incomparabiliter. Nam Spiritus sanctus calefacit animā ad quærendum Deum, sed non comburit carnaliter; lucet etiam puritate modestiæ, sed non offuscat mentem malitia. Spiritus vero nequam comburit mentem, ad carnalia, & amaricat intolerabiliter. Obtutcat quoque animam per inconsiderationem sui, & deprimit eam inconsolabiliter ad terrena. Ergo vt ignis iste bonus, qui erat in Benedicto, ignirct plures; vocauit Deus Benedictum in montem, qui conuocatis a se pluribus scintillis fecit de eis per Spiritum Dei maximū rogum, & composuit eis regulam de spiritu Dei, per quam multi perfecti facti sunt sicut Benedictus. Nunc autem multæ faces proiectæ de rogo sancti Benedicti iacent vbique dispersę habentes pro calore frigiditatem, pro luce tenebras, quæ si in igne iacerent conglobata darent vbique ex se flammam, & calorem.

NOTAE.

1 SCriptum est quod qui quinque talenta acceperat, alia quinque lucratus est.

Sic enim legimus Matth. 25. explicat autem hic Beatiss. Virgo quid talenti nomine intelligendum sit nimirum dona Spiritus sancti, inter quæ, & scientia ac diuitiæ spirituales connumerantur, & D. Greg. hom. 9. in Matth. sensus quinque esse tradit, atque ex huiusmodi talentis domino, qui nobis ex misericordia sua ea contulit duplum reportare lucrum debemus, sicut hoc loco scribitur, quod tunc facimus, quando illa ad Dei honorem, ac sanctæ Ecclesiæ commodum, & proximorum salutem impendimus, vnde egregie D. Augustinus ad Simplicianum scribens lib. 2. q. 2. super primum Regum tomo 4. dicit, quod qui talentis acceptis ex charitate minime vtitur, dignus est, qui bis à Deo priuetur, quid enim inquit per talentum intelligitur, quam munus aliquod diuinum, sed qui habet dabitur ei, qui autem non habet; & quod habet auferetur ab eo, quod non habet auferri non potest, sed aliud non habet, vt merito auferatur, quod habet, non habet charitatem vtendi, vt auferatur quidquid aliud habet, quod sine charitate non prodest.

2 Imitans illum, qui nondum natus exultando intra viscera materna, cognouit aduentum sui piissimi Redemptoris.

Ex hoc textu libet aperte deducere D. Ioanni Baptistæ vsum fuisse liberi arbitrij, quandoquidem dicitur hic, cum iam esset in vtero materno, aduentum Christi Domini cognouisse: idem quoque asseritur infra lib. 4. Reuelat. cap. 74. his verbis, de quo ego nondum natus exultani, & quē demonstrando plenius agnoscebam, quod etiam fatentur D. Ambrosius, & Theophylactus Lucæ 1. dicit enim Ambrosius Ioannem Domini sensisse gratiam, & aduentum, & clarius ibidem his verbis habebat intelligendi sensum, qui exultandi habebat effectum, idem tradit de instit. Virgin. cap. 13. & lib. 4. de fide ad Gratianum cap. 4. sequuntur hanc sententiam Leo Pont. serm. 10. de Natiuit. Orig. hom. 4. in Lucam, Petrus Chrisologus serm. 88. Chrisost. homil. 1. in Lucam Concilium Basilense Sess. 43. affirmat Ioannem in vtero Matris Christū agnouisse, fauent etiam Bernardus serm. de Natiu. D. Ioannis, Maximus Ho. 1. de Natiuit. Ioannis Baptistæ, Irenæus lib. 3. cap. 18. idem probatur ex Hymno Pauli Diaconi, qui de eo in eius festiuitate ab Ecclesia cantatur (ventris obstruso recubans cubili, senserat Regem, Thalamo manentem) iuit in hanc opinionem Cardinalis Caetanus super 3. par. S. Thomæ q. 27. art. 6. qui dicit ex littera Euangelij D. Lucæ colligi posse D. Ioanni fuisse accelleratum vsum liberi arbitrij, quia ibi dicitur exultauit in gaudio, licet enim exultare absolute positum ad inanimata referri possit secundum illud Psalm. 113. montes exultauerunt, vt arietes, proprie tamen illud est animalium, & quia non sine animali passione gaudium fit. ideo oportet Ioannem exultasse in gaudio, & quia illud supponit aliquam cognitionem sine qua non reperitur lætitia, nec aliqualis lætitiæ ratio, quæ nō alia potuit esse in eo, quā de Domini præsentia inde fit consequens D. Ioannem aduentū Christi cognouisse rationali cognitione, & tunc obtinuisse vsum liberi arbitrij, sed hanc Cardinalis Caetani doctrinam non efficaciter concludere affirmat Cornelius Iansenius in sua concordantia parte 1. cap. 4 quia inquit exultare in gaudio gesticulationē potius significare, quam gaudium, vt sensus sit exiliit cum gesticulatione, sicut in Psalm 32. bene psallite in vociferatione, hoc est, cum vociferatione, vociferando, & hanc gesticulationem posse intelligi in Ioanne exultisse dicit absq. gaudio, mētis, & cognitionis præsentię Dei, ad hāc sententiam videtur etiā accedere D. Aug. in epi. ad Dard. q. 57. circa med. vbi docet D. Ioannem intellexisse causam suæ exultationis, sed eam fuisse potius rei magnæ significationem ab Elisabeth. cognoscenda: non vero a parvulo cognitæ, eamq. exultationem diuinitus factam esse, sed de hac re D. Augustt. satis dubie loquitur, vt animaduertit D. Thom. 3. p. q. 27. art. 6. in corpore. Cæterum ad illud quod Iansenius monet, respondendum est cum Origene Hom. 7. in Lucam, quod licet ver-

bum exultandi, ſimpliciter dictum metaphorice aliquando in ſacris literis ſumatur, tamen exultare in gaudio nunquam reperietur ſecundum metaphoram vſurpatum, ſed proprie in ſua ſignificatione, ad illud vero D. Auguſtini reſpondet Franc. Suarez ſuper 3. p. S. Tho. q. 27. diſp. 3. ſect. 7. D. Aug. in ea epiſtola locutum fuiſſe de tota Ioannis ſanctificatione, ibiq. proceſiſſe inquirendo, non determinando, vide etiam Ioan. Maldonat. in comment ſuper Lucam c. 1. n. 41.

3 Sic Spiritus ſanctus ingreditur animã hominis.

Duo hoc loco modi afferuntur, quibus Spiritus ſanctus hominum corda ingreditur. Primo quidem per internam motionem quando, ſcilicet, inſpirat, vt de Deo cogitemus, vtq. eum toto corde diligamus, & mundi omnibus rebus poſthabitis illum ſolũ quæramus. Secundo per externam loquutionem, & tũc maximè, quando per ſacros Doctores, ac verbi Dei Prædicatores hortatur, vt legi Euangelicæ obediamus, Chriſti veſtigia ſectemur, vitia fugiamus; id autem quod ſequitur, ſimiliter ſpiritus diabolicus viſitat ſuos, non eſt intelligendum per internam illam, ac immediatam motionem, qua Deus illabitur animæ: hoc enim eius tantummodò proprium eſt, ſed quod moueat hominum voluntates moraliter præſentando illis delectabilia obiecta, & perſuadendo eos vt illa acceptent, ac etiam excitando humores, quibus ſubinde paſſiones, ac affectiones praua circa ea inſurgunt, vtriuſq. autem motionis differentia hic aſſignatur, quia quæ à Deo eſt per charitatem inflammat, & per veram cognitionem illuminat, quæ vero a Diabolo hominem refrigerat, & intellectum obtenebrat.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM Sancti Benedicti vitę magnificentiam & perfectionem per exemplum oſtendentia, & quomodo anima fructificans mundo per lignum infructiferũ, & ſuperbia mentis per ſilicem, & anima frigida per chriſtallum deſignatur & de tribus ſcintillis valde notandis, ab his tribus ſcilicet criſtallo, ſilice, & ligno ortis.

CAP. XXI.

LOQVITVR Mater. Dixi tibi prius, quod corpus Beati Benedicti erat quaſi ſaccus, qui diſciplinabatur & regebatur, ſed non regebat. Denique eius anima erat quaſi Angelus, qui dedit ex ſe calorem magnum, & inflammationem, ſicut per exemplũ oſtendo tibi. Quaſi ſi eſſent tres ignes, quorum primus ſuccenſus in myrrha dedit ex ſe odorẽ ſuauitatis. Secundus erat ſuccenſus in arido, qui dedit ex ſe carbones ardentes, & ſplendorem fulgentem. Tertio ſuccendebatur in oliua, qui dedit ex ſe flammam, lumen & calorem. In his tribus ignibus intelligo tres perſonas, & in tribus perſonis tres ſtatus in mundo. Primus ſtatus erat eorum, qui conſiderata charitate Dei, reliquerunt voluntatem propriam in manus aliorum, qui pro vanitate, & ſuperbia mundi aſſumpſerunt paupertatem, & abiectionem, pro intemperantia dilexerunt continentiam, & puritatem. 1 Iſti habuerunt ignem in mirrha, quia ſicut mirrha eſt amara, ſed tamen fugat dæmonia, & extinguit ſitim, ſic abſtinentia eorum amara erat corpori, ſed ſemen extinguebat inordinatam concupiſcentiam, & omnem poteſtatem dæmonum euacuabat. Secundus ſtatus eorum erat, qui cogitabant ſecum taliter. Ad quid diligimus honorem mundi cũ non ſit aliud niſi quali aer verberans aures, ad quid diligimus aurum, cum non ſit niſi terra rubea. Quis vero finis carnis, niſi putredo, & fauilla? Ad quid vero nobis prodeſt concupiſcere terrena, cum omnia ſint vanitas? Propterea ad hoc ſolum viuere, & laborare volumus, vt Deus honoretur in nobis, & vt alij ex verbis noſtris, & exẽplis ad Deum igniantur. Iſti tales ignem habuerunt in arido, quia amor mundi fuit eis mortuus, & quilibet eorum dabat ex ſe carbones ardentes iuſtitiæ, & fulgorem diuinæ prædicationis. Tertius ſtatus erat illorum, qui de amore Chriſti paſſionis feruentes, toto deſiderio affectabant mori pro Chriſto. 2 2 Iſti ignem ſuum habuerunt in oliua. Sicut enim oliua in ſe habet pinguedinem, & feruentiorem calorem cum incenditur, ſic iſti totaliter impinguati fuerunt diuina gratia, ex qua dederunt ex ſe lumen diuinę ſcientiæ ardorem feruentioris charitatis, robur honeſtiſſimę conuerſationis. Iſti tres ignes longe lateque ſe dilatauerunt. Quorum primus incenſus fuit in Eremitis, & Religioſis, 3 ſicut deſcribit Hieronymus. Qui vitas eorum inſpiratus Spiritu ſancto inuenit mirabiles, & merito imitandas. Secundus incenſus fuit in confeſſoribus, & doctoribus. Tertius in martyribus, qui carnem ſuam pro Deo contempſerunt, & alij contempſiſſent, ſi auxiliũ à Deo obtinuiſſent. Ad quoſdam igitur iſtorum trium ſtatuum, & ignium miſſus fuit B. Benedictus, qui conflauit tres ignes in vnum, in tantum, quod qui inſipientes erant illuminabantur. Qui frigidi inflammabantur. Qui feruentes erant feruentiores efficiebantur. Et ſic cum his ignibus incepit relireligio Benedicti, quæ vnumquemque iuxta diſpoſitionem, & capacitatem ſenſus ſui dirigebat in viam ſalutis, & æternæ felicitatis. Nunc autem ſicut de ſacco beati Benedicti ſpirabat dulcedo Spiritus ſancti, per quem multa monaſteria innouantur, ſic de ſacco multorum fratrũ eius diſcedit Spiritus ſanctus, quia calor cineris extinctus eſt, & faces iacent diſperſæ, nec dantes ex ſe calorem, nec ſplendorem, ſed fumum impuritatis, & cupiditatis. Veruntamen ad ſolatium multorum dedit mihi Deus tres ſcintillas, in quibus intelligo plures. Prima extracta eſt de cryſtallo per ſolis calorem, & ſplendorẽ, quæ ſe iã in arido fixit, vt fiat ex ea magnus ignis. Secunda extracta eſt de duro ſilice. Tertia de ligno infructuoſo, quod creuit cũ radicibus ſuis, & folia ſua dilatauit. 4 Per cryſtallum vero, qui eſt lapis frigidus, & fragilis, ſignificatur anima illa, quæ licet frigida ſit in amore Dei tamen voluntate, & affectu conatur ad perfectionem, & rogat Deũ ſibi in adiutorium. Ideo voluntas illa portat quin ad Deum, & meretur, vt accreſcant ei tentationes, per quas frigeſcit a tentatione prana, donec Deus irradians cor, ſic figit ſe in anima a voluptate vacua, vt iam non 5 velit viuere niſi ad honorem Dei. 5 Per ſilicem vero ſignificatur ſuperbia. Quid enim durius eſt ſuperbia mentis illius, qui omniũ deſiderat laudes, & tamen concupiſcit vocari humilis, & videri deuotus. Quid abominabilius anima illa, quæ omnibus in cogitationibus ſe præfert, & a nullis patitur obiurgari, nec doceri. Veruntamen multi ſic ſuperbi petunt humiliter a Deo, vt ab eorum cordibus auferatur ſuperbia, & ambitio. Propterea Deus cooperante voluntate bona amouet a cordibus eorum contraria, & quandoque mollia, quibus, & a mundialibus retrahuntur, & ad cæleſtia incitantur. Per lignũ vero infructuoſum ſignificatur anima illa, quæ nutrita in ſuperbia fructificat mundo, & deſiderat habere mundum, & omnem honorem ſuum. Attamen quia timet mortem æternam, multos ſtipites peccati extirpat, quæ aliter ſi non timeret perpetraret. Propterea Deus propter iſtum timorem appropinquat animæ, & inſpirat gratiam ſuam, vt lignum inutile fiat fructuoſum. Itaque cum talibus ſcintillis religio beati Benedicti renouari debet, quæ modo videtur multis deſolata, & abiecta.

NOTAE.

1 ISti habuerunt ignem in myrrha, quia ſicut myrrha eſt amara, ſed tamen fugat dæmonia, & extinguit ſitim, ſic abſtinentia eorum erat amara corpori.

Ex proprietatibus myrrhæ, quas refert Plinius lib. 12. natural. Hiſt. cap. 15. & 16. colligi poteſt, quod ſcribitur hic, eam pœnitentiæ, ac abſtinentiæ ſymbolum eſſe, & inter cæteras eius proprietates tres præcipuæ inueniuntur. Primo, quod ſapore amara eſt. Secundo, quod eius inciſo cortice defluit lacryma. Tertio, quod niſi comburatur in ignem nullum ſpirat odorem, ex his facile intelligemus, quid ſignificet, quod legimus hoc loco iſti habuerũt ignem in myrrha. iſti nimirum, qui in eremo ſanctiſſimam vitam ducebant, eorum corpora vigiliis ieiuniiſque domantes, ignem ponebant in myrrha, quia, & ſuorum laborum ſudores, & Chriſti Domini paſſionis dolores amoris igne temperabant, cogitantes, quod & ipſe in cruce myrrha potatus fuit, quodque dolores, & cruciatus maximos pro illis pertulit, ſicque faſciculum ſibi myrrhæ cum ſponſa confidentes, quod illis videbatur amarum, & nullum redolere odorem, poſtea fiebat dulce, & ſuauiſſimum ſpirabat odorem, idem annotarunt D. Bernard. ſerm. 43. in Cantica, & Agatius ibi cap. 1. explicantes illa verba ſponſæ, faſciculus myrrhæ dilectus meus mihi inter vbera mea commorabitur, inſinuant hoc etiam Gloſſ. Interlinearis, & Beda eodem loco.

2 Iſti ignem ſuum habuerunt in oliua.

Quemadmodum ſuperiori nota diximus, eos qui in eremo vitam ſuam ducebant, ignem habuiſſe in myrrha, ſic legimus hic, illos, qui pro Chriſto Domino mori cupiebant, ignem habuiſſe in oliua, ſicut enim cum oliua torcular premitur, oleum emittit, ita quoque ſancti Martyres, cum Tyrannorum perſecutionibus premebantur, & ſanguinem pro Religione Chriſtiana fundebant, tunc maxime olei pinguedine replebantur, gratia ſcilicet cæleſti, Spiritus ſancti donis, & fructibus charitatis, quæ per oleum deſignantur, vt annotarunt D. Ambroſ. ſuper Pſalm. 108. Origen. in Leuit. Hom. 12. & in Cant. Hom. 1. D. Greg. ſuper primum Reg. cap. 10. & 16. & lib. 19. Moral. cap. 13 D. Auguſt. ſuper Pſalm. 44. D. Hieron. ad Principiam inſuper ſicut oleum, quolibet alio humore compreſſum non quam ſubtus retinetur, ſed omnibus liquoribus ſupereminet, ſic & Martyres, qui oleum habebant in igne, licet pluribus tribulationibus cruciarentur ſemper tamen ſupereminebant, & terrenis relictis ad cælum tendebant.

3 Sicut ſcribit Hieronymus, qui vitas eorũ inſpiratus Spiritu ſancto inuenit mirabiles, & merito imitandas.

Hæc de re latiſſime D. Hieronymus 1. tomo ſuorum operum, vbi deſcribit vitas S. Hilarionis Abb. Pauli 1. eremitæ, S. Malchi monachi, & aliorum plurimorum.

4 Per cryſtallum vero, quæ lapis eſt frigidus, & fragilis ſignificatur anima illa, quæ licet frigida ſit in amore Dei, tamen voluntate, & affectu conatur ad perfectionem.

Hoc loco Beatiſſima Virgo hominem in Dei obſequio tepidum, ac frigidum chryſtallo comparat, quæ cum ſit ingenti gelu concretum, & præ nimio frigore contriſtatum, non ſit facile ſolis radijs liquefi, ita quoque is, qui in peccatorum abyſſo indura tus eſt ſolo Spiritu ſancti calore, cui nihil eſt impoſſibile ſæpe reſoluitur, ſic tradit D. Auguſtinus in enarrat. Pſalm. 147. explicans eum verſiculum mittit cryſtallum ſuam, ſicut buccellas, ante faciem frigoris eius, quis ſuſtinebit mittet verbum ſuum, & liquefaciet ea. Verba autem, quæ immediate ſequuntur nimirum, ſi ideo voluntas iſta portat eum ad Deum, & meretur, vt ei accreſcant tentationes indicant Deum aliquando permittere, vt tentemur, vt inde, qui tepidi eramus ad Dei obſequium ferventius ſubleuemur, gemina, inquit, D. Iſidorus lib. 2. de ſummo bono cap. 2. percuſſio eſt diuina vna in bonam partem, qua percutimur in carne, vt emendemur, altera qua vulneramur in conſcientia ex charitate, vt Deum ardentius diligamus: idem habet D. Chryſoſt. Homil. 10. in Matth. Deus ait tribulationes irruere permittit, vt ad ipſum frequentius fugiamus tale aliquod faciunt amantiores filiorum parentes, cum parvulos ſuos viderint à ſe quidem ſæpe diſcedere præcipiunt famuli terribilia quæ ſimulare, vt exagitati etiam metu parvuli, ad maternum ſinum confugere feſtinent.

Per ſilicem vero ſignificatur ſuperbia.

Silex genus eſt lapidis, qui cum ferro percutitur ignem excutit, ſic quoque ſuperbus, qui hoc loco per ſilicem deſignatur, adeo durâ cervicis eſt, vt ſi quando ab aliquo quoquomodo, vel etiam in minima læditur, aut ſi aliqua de re admonetur ſuperbia virus euomit, ignem diſcordiæ excitat, & pro collatis beneficijs iniurias frequenter rependit, ac illi, à quo benigne reprehenditur ſæpe ſe ingratum ac iniurioſum exhibet, & ideo ſcribitur hic, quid abominabilius eſt anima illa, quæ ſe in omnibus cogitationibus præfert, & à nullis patitur obiurgari, nec deceri. Cæterum ſi lapis iſte diuino calore ſoluatur, & diuini amoris igne tangatur protinus in feruorem ſpiritus liquatur, & vt ait D. Gregor. 18. Moral. cap. 17. ad ſequentem vitam deſiderio rum eſtu ardet, quam prius ardens inſenſibilis manebat, vnde optime de illo dici poteſt, quod ſcribitur Iob 28. & lapis calore ſolutus in ea vertitur, vbi D. Greg. lapis ergo ſolutus calore in ea vertitur, quia dura mens ſuperni amoris igne liquefacta, ad veram ſortitudinem commutatur.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM de monacho habente cor meretricum in pectore, & quomodo per propriam voluntatem, & concupiſcentiam, & ſubterfugionem ab Angelica vita à Deo apoſtatauit.

CAP. XXII.

ITEM loquitur Mater ſponſæ. Quid vides in iſto qui aſtat reprehenſibile? Reſpondit illa. Quod raviſſime dicit Miſſam. Cui Mater. Non eſt ideo iudicandus. Sunt enim multi, qui factorum ſuorum memores rationabiliter abſtineat, & non minus mihi ſunt accepti, Sed quæ vides in eo alia. Et illa. Quod non habet veſtes a beato Benedicto inſtitutas. Cui Mater. Contingit multoties, quod conſuetudo quædam inchoata, & omnes, qui ſciunt eam eſſe malam, & imitantur reprehendendi ſunt, qui vero ignorant inſtituta laudabilia, eſſentque libenter conſenti de abiectioribus, ſi non conſuetudo longinqua prævaleret, tales non ſunt faciliter, & improbe iudicandi. Sed audi, & indicabo tibi, quod in tribus alijs reprehendendus eſt. Primo, quod cor eius, in quo Deus quieſcere deberet, eſt in pectore meretricum. Secundo, quod dimiſit modicum ſuum, & concupiſcit multa aliena, promiſit abnegare ſeipſum, & ſequitur totam propriam voluntatem. Tertio, quod Deus creauit animam ſuam pulchram quaſi Angelum, & ob hoc deberet habere Angelicam vitam, ſed modo anima eius habet imaginem illius Angeli, qui per ſuperbiam à Deo apoſtatauit. Hic apud homines magnus eſt, ſed qualis apud Deum nouit Deus. Ipſe enim Deus eſt, ſicut ille, qui clauſum aliquid habent in pugno, abſcondit illud ab alijs, donec aperiat pugnum. Sic Deus infirma eligit, & coronas eorum in præſenti abſcondit, donec vnicuique reddet ſecundum opera ſua.

Declaratio.

Hic fuit Abbas nimis ſecularis, nil curans de animabus, qui ſubito mortuus eſt ſine ſacramentis. De quo dixit Spiritus ſanctus. O anima dilexiſti terram, et iam terra recepit te. Mortuus es vita tua, et iam non habebis vitam meam, nec mecum eris particeps, quia ſocietatem eius dilexiſti, qui a me per ſuperbiam lapſus eſt, et contempſit veram humilitatem.

RE-

RESPONSIO DEI PATRIS ad precem ſponſæ pro peccatoribus, & quomodo tres ſunt, qui teſtimonium dant in terra, ſicut tres in cælo, & qualiter tota Trinitas perhibet ſponſæ teſtimonium, qualiter ſponſa ſua eſt per fidem, & omnes, qui fidem rectam ſanctæ Eccleſiæ imitantur.

CAP. XXIII.

MI dulciſſime Deus. Rogo te pro peccatoribus, in quorum conſortio, ego ſum, vt eis miſereri digneris. Reſpondit Deus Pater. Audio & ſcio voluntatem tuam, ideo perficietur oratio charitatis tuæ. Propterea ſicut dicit Ioannes in Epiſtola ſua hodie, immo ego per Ioannem. Tres ſunt, qui teſtimonium perhibẽt in terra, ſpiritus. Aqua, & ſanguis, & tres in cælo Pater, & Filius, & Spiritus ſanctus. Sic tres dant tibi teſtimonium. Nam ſpiritus, qui cuſtodiuit te in viſceribus Matris teſtificatur animæ tuæ, quod Dei es per fidem Baptiſmi, quam profitebantur ex parte tua parentes. Teſtimonium perhibet tibi Aqua baptiſmatis, quod humanitatis Chriſti es filia per renouationem, & emendationem primæ tranſgreſſionis. Teſtimonium quoque perhibet tibi ſanguis Ieſu Chriſti, quo redempta es, quod dei tatis es filia, & à poteſtate diabolica per ſactam ſanctæ Eccleſiæ ſegregata. Nos quoque Pater, & filius, & Spiritus ſanctus, tres in perſonis, ſed vnum in ſubſtantia, & potentia, teſtimonium tibi perhibemus, quod noſtra es per fidem. Similiter, & omnes, qui rectã fidem ſanctæ Eccleſiæ imitantur. Et in teſtimonium, quod velis facere voluntatem noſtram procede, & recipe de manu ſacerdotis corpus, & ſanguinẽ humanitatis Chriſti, vt teſtimoniũ perhibeat tibi filius, quod ejus es, cuius corpus ſumis in robur animæ. Teſtimonium perhibeat tibi Pater, qui eſt in filio, quod Patris es, & filij. Teſtimonium perhibeat tibi Spiritus ſanctus, qui eſt in filio, & Patre, & ſpiritus in vtroque, quod trinus, & vnius es per fidem veram & dilectionem.

RESPONSIO IESV CHRISTI ad ſponſę preces pro infidelibus, ſcilicet, quod Deus ex malitia malorũ hominum honoratur, licet non ex virtute eorum, & voluntate, quod ſibi probat per exemplum, in quo Eccleſia, vel anima per Virginem, & nouẽ ordines Angelorum, per nouem fratres Virginis, Chriſtus per Regem tres ſtatus hominum, per tres filios Regis deſignantur.

CAP. XXIV.

DOMINE mi Ieſu Chriſte. Rogo te, vt fides tua dilatetur ſuper infideles, boni accendantur charitate tua amplius, mali vero melioren tur. Reſpondit filius. Tu turbaris ex eo, quod Deus minorem habet honorem. Deſideras vero toto corde, vt perficiatur honor Dei. Ideo do tibi vnum exemplum, quo intelligere poteris, quod Deus etiam ex malitia malorum honoratur, licet non ex virtute, & voluntate eorum. Nam Virgo quædam erat ſapiens, & decora, diues & morigeroſa, quæ habebat nouem fratres quorum quilibet diligebat ſororem ſuam, ſicut cor ſuum, & vniuſcuiuſque cor erat quaſi in illa. In regno vero vbi Virgo erat tale erat ſtatutum, quod quicunque honoraret honoraretur, qui deprædaret, deprædaretur, qui vero violaret decapitaretur. Rex vero regni habebat tres filios. Quorum primus diligebat Virginem, & præſentauit ei calceos deauratos cum cingulo aureo, annulum in manu, & coronam ſuper caput. Secundus vero concupiuit poſſeſſionem Viginis, & deprædatus eſt eam. Tertius concupiuit virginitatem Virginis, laborans, vt eam violaret. Iſti vero tres filij Regis capti ſunt a nouem fratribus Virginis, & præſentati Regi. Cui dixerunt fratres. Sororem noſtram concupierunt filij tui. Primus quidem honorauit eam, & dilexit toto corde. Secundus ſpoliauit eam. Tertius vero libenter dediſſet vitam ſuam, ſi valuiſſet violare eam. In illo vero puncto capti ſunt, quo voluntatem completam habuerunt ad iſta iam dicta perficienda. Quibus auditis reſpondit Rex. Omnes inquiẽ filij mei ſunt, & omnes æqualiter diligo. Veruntamen contra iuſtitiam facere non poſſum, nec volo, ſed ita de filijs ſicut de ſeruis intendo iudicare. Itaque tu fili mi, qui honoraſti Virginem veni, & accipe honorem, & coronam cum Patre tuo. Tu vero fili, qui concupisti possessionem Virginis, & rapuisti, intrabis quidem carcerem, donec restituantur ablata, audiui enim testimonium super te, quod pœnitens de facto tuo voluisti reddere ablata, sed quia præuentus sceleri, & inopinato iudicio non perfecisti, ideo manebis incarceratus, donec restituatur quadrans. Tu vero filij mi, qui ad violandum Virginem omnes adhibuisti conatus, nec de facto tuo pœnituisti. Ideo quot modos adhibuisti ad dehonestationem Virginis, tot modis aggrauabitur pœna tua. Respondernnt omnes fratres Virginis, laus sit tibi iudex pro iustitia tua. Nisi enim virtus fuisset in te, & in justitia tua æquitas, in æquitate tua vero charitas, nunquam taliter iudicasset. Hæc autem Virgo significat Ecclesiam sanctam, cuius dispositio est excellens in fide, pulchra in septem sacramentis. Laudabilis in moribus, & virtutibus, amabilis in fructu, quia demonstrat veram viam ad æternitatem. Hæc sancta Ecclesia quasi tres habet filios, in quibus significantur plures. Primus sunt illi, qui diligunt Deum toto corde. Secundus sunt illi, qui temporalia diligunt ad honorem suum. Tertius sunt illi, qui præponunt Deo voluntatem suam. Virginitas vero Ecclesiæ, animæ sunt hominum a sola deitatis potentia creatæ. Primus ergo filius præsentat calceos deauratos, quando contritionem suscipit pro commissis negligentijs, & peccatis. Præsentat vero vestes, quando præcepta legis attendit, quando consilia Euangelica seruat, in quantum potest. Componit cingulum, quando incontinentia, & castitate firmiter proponit perseuerare. Annulum quoque mittit in manum, quando firmiter credit, quæ precipit Sancta Ecclesia Catholica, iudicium scilicet futurum, & vitam sempiternam. Lapis vero annuli spes est, sperans constanter nullum peccatum esse tam abominabile, quod pœnitentia, & voluntate emendandi non deleatur. Coronam vero imponit capiti, quando charitatem veram habet. 1 Sicut enim diuersi lapides sunt in corona, sic diuersæ virtutes sunt in 2 charitate. 2 Caput vero animæ siue Ecclesiæ, corpus meum est. Hoc quicunque diligit, & honorat merito filius Dei appellatur. Ergo quicunque tali modo sanctam Ecclesiam, & animam suam diligit, hic nouem fratres habet, idest, nouem ordines Angelorum, quia eorum particeps, & socius erit in vita æterna. Ipsi enim Angeli sanctam Ecclesiam toto amore amplectuntur quasi in corde cuiuslibet eorum esset. Non enim Ecclesia sancta saxa, & parietes sunt, sed animæ iustorum, & ideo de earum honore, & profectu tanquam de proprio Angeli gratulantur. Secundus autem frater, vel filius significat illos, qui constitutionem sanctæ Ecclesiæ contemnentes, viuunt ad honorem mundi, & amorem carnis, qui virtutum pulchritudinem transformantes, viuunt secundum voluntatem suam, attamen circa finem pœnitent, & conteruntur de factis suis malis. Istis debetur purgatio, donec operibus, & orationibus Ecclesiæ Deo reconcilientur. Tertius filius significat illos, qui animam suam scandalizantes non curant, si æternaliter pereant dummodo perficere possint voluptatem suã. Super tales, nouem ordines Angelorum petunt iustitiam, quia ad pœnitentiam conuerti contempserunt. Ergo cum Deus facit iustitiam laudant eum Angeli propter æquitatem inflexibilem. Cum vero perficitur honor Dei gaudent de virtute eius, quod etiam malorum malitia vtitur ad honorem suum. Ideo cum videris prauos compatere eis, gaude vero de honore Dei æterno. Nam Deus, qui nihil mali vult, quia Creator omnium, & vere ex se solus bonus, permittit tamen multa fieri tanquam iustissimus iudex, de quibus in cælestibus, & in terris propter æquitatem suam, & occultam bonitatem honoratur.

NOTAE.

1 SIcut enim diuersi lapides sunt in corona, sic diuersæ virtutes sunt cum charitate.

Cum charitas omnium sit forma virtutum, quippe quæ eorum actus ordinat ad vltimum finem, eumque sit radix, & fundamentum, quatenus illa sustentantur, & nutriuntur ab ea, non est mirum, si scribitur hic, quod cum charitate cæteræ virtutes coniunguntur, immo virtutes non esse censendas veras virtutes a charitate seiunctas, affirmauit D. Augustinus ad Macedonium Epistola 52. quod late explicat Apostolus Paulus 1. Corinth. 13. vbi eas omnes virtutes enumerat, quæ charitati adhærent, charitas inquit, patiens est, benigna est, non emulatur, &c. Vnde merito Cassiodorus in Psalm. 12. Plusiam quandam virtutum appellat charitatem, sub qua, & beata voluntas germinat, & operatio sancta fructificat, patiens hæc est, in aduersis temperata, in prosperis, humilitate potens, afflictione lætissima, inimicis benevola, bonis suis superans malos.

2 Caput animæ siue Ecclesiæ corpus meum est.

Sic etiam Paulus Apostolus ad Coloss. cap. 1. ipse est caput corporis Ecclesiæ, qui est principium, primogenitus ex mortuis, vt sit in omnibus primaprimatum tenent, idem ad Epheſ. 1. aperte habet his verbis ipſum dedit caput ſuper omnem Eccleſiam, quæ eſt corpus ipſius, quo loco ſermo eſt, de Chriſto homine, dicitur enim ibi ſuſcitans eum à mortuis, &c. & ideo hoc loco annotare debemus Chriſtum Dominũ vocari caput Eccleſiæ proprie ſecundum naturam humanam, quia ad rationem capitis ſpectat, vt ſit homogeneum, & conforme cæ membris, eſt autem Chriſtus ob humanam naturã eiuſdem rationis cum omnibus hominibus, quod etiam annotarunt D. Baſilius de Spiritu ſancto cap. 30. D. Auguſtinus Epiſtola 57. ad Dardanum, & in Præfat. ad Pſalm. 29. & ſerm. 50 de verbis Domini & Epiſtola 50. & 57. in fine aſſerit aliter habitare in Chriſto, vt in capite aliter in cæteris membris, & lib. 1. de Trinit. cap. 12. dicit Chriſtũ ſecundum formam ſerui eſſe caput, idem aſſeruerũt in locis citatis Paul, Hieron. Ambroſ. Hilarius, Theophilactus, & Chriſoſt. hanc autem gloriam capitis, & quidquid ad regnum ſpirituale pertinet, ſibi per paſſionem ſuam meruit Chriſtus, vt nos ſupra fuſius docuimus lib. 1. Reuelat. cap. 6. nota 5. & eodem lib. cap. 39. nota 4. & probat D. Aug. de vnitate Eccleſiæ cap. 7. & 8. & de iudiciaria poteſtate colligitur Iob 36. cauſa tua, quæ quaſi impij iudicata eſt, cauſam iudiciumque recipies.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam ineffabilis Trinitatis myſterium declarantia, & quomodo diabolici peccatores per contritionem, & voluntatem emendandi obtinent Dei miſericordiam, & de reſponſione Chriſti, qualiter miſeretur omnibus, ſcilicet, tam ludæis, &c. & de duplici iudicio damnandorum, ſcilicet, & ſaluandorum.

CAP. XXVI.

IESVS loquitur. Ego ſum Creator cæli, & terræ, vnus cum Patre, & Spiritu ſancto verus Deus. Quia Deus eſt Pater, Deus filius, Deus Spiritus ſanctus, non tres Dij, ſed tres perſonæ, & vnus Deus. Nunc autem quærere poteris, ſi tres perſonæ, quare non tres Dij. Reſpondeo tibi, quod non eſt aliud Deus, niſi ipſa potentia, ipſa ſapientia, ipſa bonitas, a qua eſt omnis poteſtas infra cælum, & ſupra, omnis ſapientia, & omnis pietas, quæ poterit cogitari. Itaque Deus trinus eſt, & vnus, trinus in perſonis, vnus in natura. Nam potentia, & ſapientia eſt Pater, a quo ſunt omnia, & qui eſt ante omnia, potens non aliunde ſed a ſeipſo, & æternaliter. 1 Potentia & ſapientia etiam filius æqualis Patri non a ſe ipſo potens, ſed a Patre potenter, & ineffabiliter genitus principium de principio, & a Patre nunquam ſeparatum. Potentia & ſapientia etiam Spiritus ſanctus, a Patre, & Filio procedens, æternus cum Patre, & Filio, & æqualis in maieſtate, & poteſtate. 2 Vnus ergo Deus, & tres perſonæ, quia vna natura, trium vna operatio, & voluntas, vna gloria, & poteſtas, qui ita eſt vnum in eſſentia, quod etiam ſunt diſtincti proprietate perſonarum. 3 Nam totus Pater eſt in Filio, & Spiritu, & Filius in Patre, & Spiritu, & Spiritus in vtroque in vna deitatis natura. Non ſicut prius, & poſterius, ſed ineffabiliter. Vbi nihil eſt prius, aut poſterius, nihil alio maius, aut minus, vel alterius, ſed totum ineffabile, & æquale. Propterea bene ſcriptum eſt, quod Deus eſt mirabilis, & multũ laudabilis. Nunc autem conquæri poſſum, quod laudabilis ſum parum, & multis ignotus, quia omnes quærunt propriam voluntatem, ſed pauci meam. Tu vero eſto trabilis, & humilis, nec te extollas in cogitatu, cum aliorum offendo tibi pericula, nec eorum prodas nomina niſi tibi præcipiatur.

Non enim ad confusionem eorum ostenduntur tibi eorum pericula, sed vt conuertantur, & cognoscant iustitiam, & misericordiam dei. Sed nec eos fugere debes tanquã iudicatos, quia etiam si dixero hodie, quod aliquis pessimus est, si inuocauerit mecum contritione cras, & cum voluntate emendandi, paratus sum indulgere ei. Et quem heri dixi pessimum nunc hodie dico amicũ charissimum propter contritionem. In tantum, 4 quod si contritio fuerit stabilis, dimitto ei non solum peccatum, sed & pœnam peccati. Sicut per exemplum cognoscere poteris. Quasi essent duo frusta argenti vi ui, & ambo concurrerent festinando inuicẽ. Si in eorum coniunctione non esset residuum nisi quasi vnus achomus, adhuc potens esset Deus facere, ne conuenirent. Sic si aliquis peccator esset ita radicatus in diabolicis operibus, quod staret in ipso puncto perditionis, adhuc obtineret veniam, & misericordiam, si Deus inuocaretur cum contritione, & voluntate emendandi. Nunc autem cum ita sim misericors, quærere poteris, cur non misereor gentilibus, & Iudæis, quorum aliqui si erudirentur fide recta, libenter pro Deo morerentur? Respondeo tibi, quod omnibus facio misericordiam, tam gentilibus, quam Iudæis, nec relinquitur aliqua creatura sine misericordia mea. Nam quicunque audiunt, quod fides eorum non est vera, & desiderant feruenter veram, aut quicunque credunt hoc esse optimum, quod tenent, quia non est eis aliud vnquam prædicatum, factuntque toto conamine, quæ possunt, horum iudicium erit in leuiori misericordia. Nam duplex est iudicium damnandorum, scilicet, & saluandorum. Christianorum enim damnandorum erit sine misericordia, quorum pœna erit æterna, & tenebræ, & voluntas firmata contra Deum, saluandorum vero erit visio Dei, & gloriatio in Deo, & velle Deo bonum. Ab his exclusi sunt Gentiles, & Iudæi, & mali, & falsi Christiani. Qui quamuis non habuerunt fidem rectam, habuerunt tamen iudicem conscientiam suam, credentes eundem esse Deum, quem coluerunt, & offenderunt. 5 Isti autem quorum voluntas, & actio, erat & est secundum iustitiam, & contra peccatum, habebunt cum minus malis Christianis iudicium misericordiæ in supplicijs, propter dilectionem iustitiæ, & odium peccati, sed non habebunt consolationem in fruitione gloriæ, & visionis Dei, quem non videbunt propter baptismi carentiam, quia aliquod temporale, aut occultum iudicium Dei retraxit eos, ne salutem fructuosæ quærerent, & obtinerent. Si vero nihil retraxit eos in quærendo Deum verum, & baptizando, non timor, aut labor, non dispendium bonorum, vel honorum, sed impedimentum solum humanam fragilitatem superans, istos ego, qui Cornelium, & Centurionem, nondum baptizatos vidi, altius, & perfectius remunerare scio, sicut eorum exigit fides. Quia est alia ignorantia malitiæ, alia pietatis, & dilectionis. 6 Similiter & alius est baptismus aquæ, alius sanguinis, alius perfecte voluntatis. Quæ omnia nouit pensare Deus, qui omnium nouit corda. Propterea ego, qui sine principio natus sum æternaliter de principio, qui & iterum in fine temporum natus sum temporaliter, ab initio noui singulorum remunerare merita, & do vnicuique iuxta merita sua. Nec minimum bonum, quod fit ad honorem Dei translibit sine remuneratione. Ideo teneris tu multum regratiari Deo, quia de Christianis nata es, & in tempore salutis, quia multi desiderabant hoc obtinere, & videre, quod offertur Christianis, & non obtinuerunt.

NOTAE.

1 POtentia, & sapientia etiam Filius æqualis Patri non à seipso potens, sed a Patre potenter, & ineffabiliter genitus principium de principio, & a Patre nunquam separatum.

Hoc loco de æterna verbi generatione sermo fit, vbi duo à nobis breuiter annotanda sunt primum, verbum in diuinis dici propriè genitum, non creatum, aut factum, non quidem ea generatione, quæ communiter accepta se extendit ad productionem corruptibilium, quia cum illa fœtus sit, de non esse ad esse, & de potentia ad actum nullo pacto Filio Dei competere potest, cum ille sit incorruptibilis nullam habens admistam potentiam, & æternus sit, & æternaliter generetur, vt dicit Dauid Psalm. 2. Ego hodie genui te, cum autem æternitas, nec præteritum, nec futurum propriè comprehendat, sed solum esse præsens, idcirco dixit, Ego hodie genui te, hoc est, ab æterno genui te, sic annotarunt D. Augustinus in Psalm. citatum, & D. Athanasius lib. de vnitate sanctæ Trinitatis, & D. Paulus Hebræorum primo. adducit hunc locum ad probandum Christum esse verum Deum, & Dei Vnigenitum.

Secundum, quod erat annotandum est, quod ideo hoc loco Verbum diuinum principium, de principio dicitur non principiatum, ne cogamur concedere filium procedere à Patre, vt principiatum a principio, quoniam vt egregie docuit D. Thom. p. 1. q. 33. art. 1. ad 2. Patres non consueuerunt dicere filium esse principiatum à Patre, vel Spiritum sanctum principiatum à Patre, & à Filio cum hoc nomen principiatum significare videatur aliquid ad subsistentiam, vel miserationem pertinet, quamquam Magister sent. in 1. d. 29 concedat quidem filium esse ex principio, negat tamen inde sequi quod filius habeat principium, quia inquit, habere principium denotare videtur, quod aliquo modo incepit, re vera negari non potest, quod filius habeat principium, sicut legimus hic, quia negare esset illum habere Patrem, neque tamen hinc potest inferri, id quod dicit Magister, scilicet filium aliquando incepisse, quoniam cum dicimus Patrem esse principium filii, non notamus temporis aliquam durationem, sed modum processionis, quo filius ab aterno fuit à Patre, cuius ipse principium est, qui loquendi modus probari potest ex cap. vnico de summa Trinit. & fide Catholica vbi habetur, quod Pater, & Filius sunt vnum principium Spiritus sancti, idem habetur in Conc. Florent. & in Conc. Sirmiensi Can. 23. damnatur, qui dixerit filium esse sine principio, ita explicat D. Aug. lib. 6. de Trinit. cap. 2. illud Ioan. 1. In principio erat Verbum, & clarius hoc habet lib. 4. de Trinit. cap. 20. circa finem, vbi affirmat, Patrem esse principium totius deitatis, quod etiam probat D. Thomas 1. par. q. 33. art. 1.

2 Vnus ergo Deus, & tres personæ, quia vna natura trium, vna operatio.

Vt veritatem verborum præsentis notæ hinc per cipiamus, in memoriam revocanda est communis illa Theologorum Doctorum distinctio de operationibus ad intra, & extra, & quidem hoc loco de actionibus ad extra fermo fit, cum scribitur, quod trium personarum vna communis est operatio, sed de actionibus ad intra secus dicendum esset, cuius ratio deduci potest, ex citatis verbis, quoniam cum Deo competat operari ratione suæ naturæ, cæt. ut diximus, vt legimus hic, vna sit communis trium personarum natura, sequitur, quod sit vna communis operatio, quod etiam definitur in Conc. Lateranensi primo in principio, & cap. firm. de summa Trinit. dicuntur personæ diuinæ indiuisam habere virtutem, & in Conc. Toletano quinto Can. 1. & Tolet. 11. in confessione fidei definitum est, cum sit Trinitatis operatio ad extra inseparabilis esse, & indiuisa, idem habet D. Augustinus 1. de Trinitate cap. 4. & 5. eandem veritatem ipsemet Christus Dominus docuit, Ioan. 5. vbi dicit quidquid facit Pater, & Filius similiter facit, & eadem est ratio Spiritus sancti ex æqualitatem virtutis, & potentiæ.

3 Nam totus pater est in filio, & spiritu, & filius est in patre, & spiritu, & spiritus in utroque.

Quomodo vna persona diuina sit in alia, & qua ratione hoc de re loquendum sit, ostendimus supra lib. 1. cap. 42. nota 1. & lib. 2. cap. 13. nota prima.

4 Quod si contritio fuerit stabilis dimittet ei non solum peccatum, sed & pœnam peccati.

Nulli dubium esse potest, si contritio eas partes habeat, quæ ad perfectam, & integram suæ naturæ conditionem exigitur, posse aliquando, & culpam, & totam peccato debitam pœnam remittere, & per stabilitatem contritionis intelligendum esse arbitror hoc perfectam, & omnibus numeris absolutam contritionem, qua quatuor præcipue conditiones requiruntur, primo dolor maximus peccatorum, non quidem intensiuus, sed extensiuus, vel appertinentius, quatenus peccata sunt offensa Dei. Secundo propositum omnino firmum amplius non peccandi de cætero, Tertio sacramentum confessionis in voto & propositum confitendi, Quarto voluntas satisfaciendi, atque hæc simul si in pœnitente reperiantur fieri poterit sicut legimus hic, vt aliquando, & culpa, & pœna à Deo misericorditer ei condonentur, quod etiam tradit D. Thom. in 3. sent. d. 19. art. 3. q. 1. & in 4 dist. 15. q. 2. art. 2. sequitur Durandus in 4. d. 17. q. 3. & Gloss. in cap. Mensuram de pœn. dist. 1. & Gloss. in cap. Deus, qui de pœnit. & remiss. & colligitur aperte ex Concil. Trident. Sess. 14. Can. 12. sed animaduertendum est, quod licet contritio proprie dicta aliquando peccata diminuat, quoad culpam, & pœnam, remanere tamen obligationem confitendi proprio Sacerdoti, vt docent Adrianus in 4. de Confess quæst. 1. & D. Thom. in 4. sent. dist. 17. quæst. 2. art. 1. quæstiuncula prima.

5 Paulo post medium præsentis capitis, vbi in vulgatis habetur, horum iudicium erit in leuiori misericordia.

Arbitror omnino legendum esse, Horum iudicium erit in maiori misericordia, ad cuius rei intelligentiam sciendum est, quod hic comparatio sit, vt ex contextu colligitur, inter Gentiles, Iudæos & Christianos malos, quos omnes fore damnandos hoc loco legimus, Verum si per Gentiles intelligamus eos, qui proprie legem scriptam, non habuerunt de quibus Paulus Romanorum 2. verba faciens scripsit, quicunque enim sine lege peccauerunt, sine lege peribunt, dicendum est, hos leuiori pœna puniendos esse, quâ puniuntur Iudæi, & Christiani mali quandoquidem illi non à lege scripta Mosis, vt Iudæi, nec à lege Euangelij, vt Christiani, sed à lege tantummodo naturali bonum, malumque eis ostendente condemnabuntur, si secundum eam non vixerint, Iudæus autem & Christianus ab vtraque lege etiam naturali, & scripta, si eas minime obseruauerint damnabuntur, quo enim maiora, & plura beneficia à Deo receperunt, eo maiores pœnas luere debent, si se gratos propter illa non exhibuerint, sic enim annotarunt Oecumenius, Theophilactus, & Lyranus in locum citatum Pauli, & egregie D. Chrisost. hom. 5. in eandem Epistolam, & D. Aug. in lib. de Spiritu, & littera cap. 21. & 26. & fusius in Psalm. 118. Concione 25. ad eum versiculum, præuaricatores reputasti omnes peccatores terræ, qui in loco triplicem facit legem, vnam scriptã per Mosen datam Iudæis, quam non acceperunt Gentiles, ideo dicit Paulus eos sine lege peccasse, alteram legem facit naturalem, & naturaliter inſitam cunctis hominibus, & quam nullus mortalium mentis compos ignorare poteſt, & contra hanc peccant omnes Gentiles quicunque peccant, Tertiam legem dicit Auguſtinus eam fuiſſe, quæ primo homini data eſt in Paradiſo, cuius prævaricatione, non ſolum ipſe Adam, ſed omnes eius poſteri facti ſunt eius prævaricatores, de ſecunda ergo lege, quæ ad rem noſtram facit, intelligit Auguſtinus, fuiſſe locutum Apoſtolum, cum dixit Rom. 2. ipſi ſunt lex, qui oſtendunt opus legis ſcriptum in cordibus ſuis, & affirmat ibidem quod non immerito prævaricatores eſtimantur omnes peccatores terræ, nullus enim eſt, qui alteri facit iniuriam, niſi qui ſibi fieri nolit, & in hoc tranſgreditur naturæ legem, quam non ſinitur ignorare, dum id quod facit, non vult pati, & hæc lex erat populo Iſrael ante legem Moſis data, quoniam ipſi homines erant, ſine lege autem naturali eſſent, ſi præter naturam humani generis eſſe potuiſſent, multo igitur magis prævaricatores, deinde facti ſunt accepta lege divina, hactenus Auguſtinus, ex cuius verbis aperte conſtat verum eſſe, quod ſcribitur hic, Iudæos, & Chriſtianos malos graviori pœna dignos eſſe, quia legem ſcriptam habuerunt, quam Gentiles, qui tantummodo naturalem, & ideo legendum eſt, eorum iudicium erit in maiori miſericordia.

6 Chriſtianorum enim damnandorum erit ſine miſericordia.

Subintelligendum eſt hoc loco, Iudicium, quod dicitur futurum ſine miſericordia non abſolute, ſed comparatiue ad Gentiles, de quibus ſuperiori nota egimus, quorum pœna levior erit, vt probavimus, non tamen negandum eſt, etiam cum malis Chriſtianis damnatis Deum miſericordiam facere; quia punit eos citra condignum.

7 Iſti autem, quorum voluntas, & actio erat & eſt ſecundum iuſtitiam, & contra peccatum habebunt cum minus malis Chriſtianis iudicium miſericordiæ in ſupplicijs propter dilectionem iuſtitiæ, & odium peccati.

Hoc loco duo colligi poſſe videntur, Primum quidem Gentiles, qui fidem veram non habuerunt aliqualem tamen iuſtitiæ rationem in ſuis operibus habuiſſe, quod vt fiat manifeſtum, ſciendum eſt, quod ſi de perfecta iuſtitia loquamur, quæ ſecundum D. Auguſtinum in lib. de vera Relig. cap. 48. & de ſalutaribus documentis cap. 1. conſiſtit in vera dilectione Dei, quem ex tali iuſtitia toto corde amare, illique adhærere tota voluntate debemus, cum ſummum ſit bonum, & hanc iuſtitiam negandum videtur habuiſſe huiuſmodi homines, quippe qui perfectè iuſti non fuerunt, quod oſtendit D. Auguſtinus lib. 4. contra Iulianum cap. 3. dicens non eſſe in aliquo veram virtutem, niſi iuſtus ſit, neque quiſquam iuſtus eſt, niſi qui ex fide vivit & Prouerb. 24. dicitur, qui dicit impium iuſtum eſſe, maledictus eris in populo, & inter cætera, quæ ibi afferi argumenta præcipuum ſunt, ex connexione virtutum, cum dicat veram non eſſe prudentiã eius, qui fornicatur à Deo, ſed quidquid ſit notis dicendum videtur, eos potuiſſe habere aliqualem rationem iuſtitiæ in ſuis operibus, ſi in his dictamen rationis ſecum eſſent, & bene moraliter ſe geſſiſſent, quæ tamen opera ſine ſpeciali auxilio facta, nec diſpoſitiones immediate ad gloriam, neque ad finem ſupernaturalem conſequendum ſufficientes fuiſſent, poterant quoque quoad ſubſtantiam operis, quædã legis mandata adimplere, quæ tamen iuſta dicebantur eſſe, quatenus rationi erant conformia, quod probari poteſt, Prima ex tribus concilijs Mileuitano Arauſicano, & Triden. relatis à Benedicto Pererio ſuper cap. 19. Epiſt. ad Ro. diſp. 5. nu. 16. vbi hanc dubitationem admodum accurate, ac diligenter examinat, & in his concilijs fuiſſe concluſum aſſerit, ſine ſpeciali auxilio Dei, licet nullum poſſit fieri bonum, quod ad gratiam iuſtificationis pertineat, poſſe tamen aliquid fieri morale, ob naturalem quandam, & humanam honeſtatem, quod etiam patet ex Paulo Rom. 2. illis verbis, Gentes, quæ legem non habent naturaliter, quæ legis ſunt faciunt, & Matt. 5. ſi diligitis eos, qui vos diligunt, quam mercedem habebitis, nonne hoc publicani faciunt, & ſi ſalutaueritis fratres veſtros tantum quod amplius facitis, nonne & Ethnici hoc faciunt: idem patet ex D. Greg. Ho. 40. qui verba faciens de diuite Epulone exponens illa verba Lucæ 16. recepiſti bona in vita tua, quia inquit, geſſerat dum viueret aliquid bonum, quod in præſenti ſæculo erat remunerandum, confirmat, hoc etiam D. Thom. 1. 2. q. 65. art. 2. qui diſputans an virtutes morales poſſint eſſe ſine charitate concludit, eas ea ratione, qua ſunt effectrices boni in ordine ad finem naturalem hominis, poſſe per vim humanam acquiri, & ſine charitate, vt inquit fuerunt in multis gentibus, ſecus vero dicendum de virtutibus moralibus, quæ ſunt operatrices bonæ in ordine ad vltimum finem, in quo ſenſu habent rationem virtutis perfectæ. & ſic non poſſunt humanis actibus acquiri, nec eſſe ſine charitate, ex quibus palam fit, quod legimus hoc eodem capite paulo ante verba præſentis notæ, nimirum, qui quamuis non habuerunt fidem rectam, habuerunt tamen Iudicem conſcientiam ſuam, ſecundum cuius dictamen operabantur, & hæc eſt iuſtitia de qua hoc loco ſermo fit, quæ quoniam non eſt ſufficiens diſp. ad gloriam, ideo dicitur, & ad æterna ſupplicia tradebantur Gentiles, ſed quod minorem pœnam patiebantur, quam mali Chriſtiani, quia illi non ea auxilia obtinuerunt, quæ ipſi quotidie à Deo recipiunt, nec ita per peccata auertuntur à Deo, ſicut illi, cum ſupponamus eos in actionibus ſuis rationis regulas eſſe ſecutos, & ex hac etiam patet, id quod in principio propoſuimus admonere velle, quomodo, ſcilicet potuerint odio habuiſſe peccata, non quidem, vt erant offenſa Dei, ad quod faciendum ſpeciale auxilium exigitur, ſed vt ſunt contra bonum naturæ, quod illi bene moraliter operando, vt ſupra dictum dictum eſt profitebãtur perficere, peccare enim aliud non eſt, quam recedere ab eo, quod eſt ſecundum naturam, cæterum neq. hoc eſſe poſſibile in ſtatu naturæ corruptæ aſſequi abſq. auxilio habitualis gratiæ ſanantis, ad hoc vt quiſquam omnino a peccato abſtineat, probat D. Thom. 1. 2. q. 109. art. 8.

8 Similiter & alius eſt Baptiſmus Aquæ, alius Sanguinis, alius perfectæ voluntatis.

Hoc loco tria eſſe Baptiſmata deputur, Aquæ ſcilicet, Sanguinis, & Flaminis, non quidem vt tria Sacramenta diſtincta, quoniam vt dicit Apoſtolus ad Epheſ. 4. Sicut vna eſt Fides, vnũ etiã eſt Baptiſma, ſed quia alia duo quæ hic enumerantur conueniunt cum Baptiſmo Aquæ, quo ad aliquem effectum, qui emanat ab ipſis, ideo appellantur Baptiſmata, ſed tamen non conueniunt cum eo in ratione ſigni, quod proprie ad Sacramentum ſpectat, ideirco non tollitur vnitas Sacramenti cum etiam alia duo in aquæ Baptiſmate includantur, quod ex Chriſti Domini paſſione efficaciam habet. horum autem trium principẽ locum tenere Sanguinis Baptiſmum cenſeo, quoniam vt auctor eſt. D. Tho. 1. p. q. 63. art. 12 paſſio Chriſti in aquæ Baptiſmo operatur per quandam figuralem repræſentationem, in Baptiſmo Flaminis, per quãdam affectionem, ſed in Sanguinis Baptiſmo per operis imitationem quod longe præſtantius eſt, tum quia Spiritus Sanctus in primo operatur per virtutem latentem in ſecundo, per cordis commotionem: in tertio vero potiſſimum per dilectionem, & ideo Ioan. 15. ſcribitur maiorem hac dilectionem nemo habet, vt animam ſuam ponat quis pro amicis ſuis, vnde egregie D. Auguſtin: de Eccleſiaſt. dogmat. cap. 74. comparans Baptiſmum Aquæ cum Baptiſmo Sanguinis, dicit Baptizatus confitetur fidem ſuam coram Sacerdote, Martyr coram perſecutore, ille poſt confeſſionem aſpergitur aqua, hic ſanguine, ille per impoſitionem manus Pontificis recipit Spiritum Sanctum, hic templum efficitur Spiritus Sancti.

DEPRECATIO SPONSAE ad dominum pro Roma, & de multitudine innumerabili Sanctorum Martyrum Romę quieſcentium, & de tribus gradibus perfectionis Chriſtianorum, & de quadam viſione ipſius ſponſæ, & qualiter Chriſtus ei apparens prædictam viſionem ſibi expoſuit & declarauit.

CAP. XXVII.

MARIA. Liget immitis fuerim, tamẽ te inuoco in adiutorium meum. Et rogo te, vt rogare digneris pro excellentiſsima & ſanctiſsima illa vrbe Roma. Video enim ſcor poraliter quod quædam Eccleſiæ, in quibus oſſa Sanctorũ quieſcunt deſolate ſunt. Quædam vero habitantur, ſed corda & mores rectorum earum longe ſunt a Deo. Impetra ergo eis charitatem, quia audiui ex ſcripturis, quod Romæ quælibet dies in anno ſeptem millia continet martyrum. Et ideo quamuis animę non minorem honorem obtinent in cęlo, licet oſſa eorum contineantur in terris, tamen rogo te vt Sanctis tuis, & Sanctorum tuorum reliquiis amplior honor exhibeatur in terris, & ſic deuotio populi excitetur. Reſpondit Mater. Si menſurares terram centum pedum in longitudine, & totidem in latitudine, & ſeminares eam plenam puris granis tritici, ita compreſſe, quod non eſſet diſtantia inter granum & granum, niſi quaſi articulus digiti vnius, quodlibet vero granum daret fructũ centuplum 1 adhuc eſſent plures Martyres, & Confeſſores Romę à tẽpore illo quo Petrus venit Romam cum humilitate, vſquequo Celeſtinus diſceſsit a ſede ſuperbię, & reuerſus eſt ad ſuam ſolitariam vitam. De illis vero Martyribus & Cõfeſſoribus loquor, qui fidem veram prædicabant contra diſidentiam, & humilitatem contra ſuperbiam, & qui pro veritate fidei mortui ſunt, vel voluntate parati erant mori. Nam Petrus & alij plures, ſic calidi, & feruentes erant ad proferendum verba Dei, quod ſi potuiſſent mori pro vnoquoq. homine libenter feciſſent. Attamen timidi fuerunt ne a conſpectibus illorum, quos verbo conſolationis & prædicationis iouebant raperẽtur, quia ſalutem eorum plus deſiderabant, quã vitam propriam & honorem. 2 Fueruut quo

In primo gradu fuerunt illi, quorum cogitatio fuit iſta. Nos credimus quicquid ſancta præcipit Eccleſia. Neminem defraudare volumus, ſed defraudata reddere, & Deo ſeruire deſideramus toto corde. Conſimiles etiam fuerunt tempore Romuli fundatoris Romæ, ſecundum fidem ſuam qui cogitabant taliter. Nos intelligimus, & ſcimus ex creaturis, quod Deus eſt creator omnium, hunc ergo diligere volumus pre omnibus. Quam plures vero cogitabant iſta. Nos audiuimus ex Hębreis, quod Deus verus oſtendit ſeeis per miracula manifeſta. Et ideo ſi ſciremus in quo nos magis fundare deberemus libenter faceremus. Iſti omnes fuerunt quaſi in primo gradu. Tempore vero placito Petrus venit Romam, qui alios eleuauit in poſitiuum gradum, alios in comparatiuum, alios in ſuperlatiuum. Illi enim, qui fidem recepe runt veram, qui in coniugio, & alia diſpoſitione laudabili ſteterunt, iſti fuerunt in poſitiuo gradu. Qui vero ſua dimiſerunt propter charitatem diuinam, qui alijs exempla bona viuendi oſtenderunt verbis, & exemplis, & operibus, necnon & qui nihil Chriſto præpoſuerunt, iſti fuerunt in comparatiuo gradu. Qui vero carnem ſuam dederunt pro amore Dei, iſti fuerunt in gradu ſuper-

3 latiuo. 3 Sed quęramus in his gradibus ſu pradictis, vbi inuenitur charitas Dei feruentior? Quæramus in militibus, & doctoribus. quæramus in religioſis, & mundi contemptoribus, qui tenerentur eſſe in comparatiuo, & ſuperlatiuo gradu, & certe nimis pauci inueniuntur. Nam non eſt vita auſterior, quam vita militaris, ſi in ſua vera inſtitutione ſtaret. Si enim monacho præcipitur habere cucullam, militi præcipitur grauius ſcilicet lorica. Si vero eſt graue monacho pugnare cõtra voluptatem carnis, militi eſt grauius inter armatos hoſtes procedere. Si vero ordinatur monacho durus lectus, grauius eſt militi in armis quieſcere. Et ſi monachus turbatur, & affligitur abſtinentia durius eſt militi affligi continuo timore vitæ. Non enim militia Chriſtianitatis incepta eſt propter mundi poſſeſsionem, & cupiditatem, ſed ad confortandam veritatem, & dilatandum veram fidem. Et ideo gradus militaris, & religioſitatis in ſuperlatiuo gradu vel comparatiuo eſſe tenerentur. Sed omnes gradus a ſua laudabili diſpoſitione apoſtatauerunt, quia charitas Dei verſa eſt in cupiditatem mundi. Si enim auferetur vnus florenus de tribus, magis tacerent plerique veritatem, quam loquendo amitterent illũ. Nunc autem loquitur ſponſa dicens. Iterum vidi quaſi multos hortos in terra, roſas vero, & lilia conſpexi inter hortos. In quodam vero loco ſpatioſo terræ vidi agrum centũ veſtigiorum in longitudine, & totidem in latitudine. In quolibet autem veſtigio erant ſeptem grana tritici ſeminata, & quodlibet granum dabat fructum centuplum. Poſt hæc audiui vocem dicentem: O Roma Roma, muri tui dirupti ſunt, ideo portæ tuæ ſunt ſine cuſtodia, vaſa tua venduntur, ideo altaria tua deſolata ſunt, viuum ſacrificium, & incenſum matutinum comburitur in atrio, ideo non egreditur de Sancta ſanctorum ſanctus odor ſuauiſſimus. Et ſtatim apparens Dei filius dixit ſponſæ. Horum intelligentiã quæ vidiſti indico tibi. Terra quã vidiſti ſignificat omnem locum, vbi nunc eſt fides Chriſtiana. Horti vero ſignificant loca illa vbi ſancti Dei receperunt coronas ſuas.

Veruntamen in paganiſmo, ſcilicet in Hieruſalem, & in alijs locis multi fuerunt electorum Dei, quorum tamen loca tibi modo nõ ſunt monſtrata. Ager vero centum pedum in longitudine, & totidem in latitudine ſignificat Romam. Nam ſi omnes horti de toto mundo coniuncti eſſent Romæ, certe Roma 2 eſſet æque magna de martyribus, in carne loloquor, quia locus ille electus eſt ad amorẽ
4 Dei. 4 Triticũ vero, quod inter veſtigia vidiſti, ſignificat illos, qui per carnis macerationem, & contritionem, & vitam innocentem, intrauerunt cælum. 5 Roſæ vero paucę
5 ſunt martyres rubicundi ſanguinis ſui effuſione in diuerſis locis. 6 Lilia vero confeſſores ſunt, qui fidem ſanctam verbis, & op-
6 eribus prædicauerunt, & confirmauerunt. Nunc autem ego poſſum loqui de Roma, ſicut Propheta loquebatur de Hieruſalem. Olim, inquiens habitauit in ea iuſtitia, & principes eius principes pacis. Nunc autem, verſa eſt in ſcoriam, & principes eius homicidæ. O ſi cognoſceres dies tuos o Roma, teres vtique, & non gauderes. Roma quippe in diebus antiquis erat quaſi tela colorata, omni colore pulcherrimo, & contexta nobiliſſimo filo. Terra quoque eius erat colorata colore rubeo, ideſt ſanguine martyrum, & contexta, ideſt commixta oſſibus ſanctorũ. Nunc autem portæ eius deſolatæ ſunt, quia defenſores, & cuſtodes earum inclinati ſunt ad cupiditatẽ. Muri eius depreſſi ſunt, & ſine cuſtodia, quia iam non curant animarum damna, ſed clerus, & populus, qui ſunt murus Dei diſperguntur ad faciendum vtilitatem carnis. Vaſa diuina venduntur contẽptibiliter, quia ſacramenta Dei propter pecuniam, & fauorem mundanum diſpenſantur. Altaria vero deſolata ſunt, quia qui celebrat cum vaſis, manus habet a charitate Dei vacuas, & oculos ad offertoriũ, & licet Deum vere habeant inter manus, cor tamen vacuũ eſt a Deo, quia mundanis vanitatibus eſt repletum. Sanctum vero ſanctorum, vbi olim conſumabatur ſummum ſacrificium, ſignificat deſiderium diuinę fruitionis, & viſionis, de quo aſcendere deberet charitas ad Deum, & proximum, & odor totus continẽtiæ, & virtutis. Nunc autem ſacrificium cõſumitur in atrio, ideſt in mundo, quia tota diuina charitas verſa eſt ad incontinentiã, & mundi vanitatem. Talis eſt Roma corporaliter ſicut vidiſti: nam altaria plura deſolata ſunt, offertorium expenditur in tabernis. Offerentes plus vacant mundo, quam
Deo. 7 Veruntamen ſcias, quod a tempore 7
Petri humilis, vſque dum Bonifatius aſcendit ſedem ſuperbiæ, innumerabiles animæ aſcenderunt in cęlum: Adhuc tamen Roma non eſt ſine amicis Dei, qui ſi haberent

NOTAE.

1 ADhuc essent plures martyres, & confessores Romæ a tempore illo, quo Petrus Romam venit cum humilitate, vsque quo Coelestinus discessit a sede superbiæ, & reuersus est ad solitariam vitam.

Dubitari minime potest, hunc, cuius hic mētio fit, non fuisse Coelestinum V. qui ex heremita ad summum Pontificatum euectus est, hic propria quieti, ac saluti tm consulens, quinto fere mense, postquā fuerat assumptus, abdicauit se Pontificatu, quem Petrum Morronem prius appellatum fuisse Platina affirmat in vita ipsius. Hic fuit vir probitate, & vitæ sanctitate conspicuus, vt ex eodem Platina & ex Martyrologio Romano videre est die 19. Maij, & ex Surio tom. 3. De eodem plura narrat D. Antoninus 3. p. tit. 20. cap 8. relatus est in numerum Sanctorum a Clemente V. Anno D. 1313. Scribitur autem hoc loco, Ab eo tempore quo Petrus Romam venit, vsque ad hunc Pontificem plures & martyres, & confessores floruisse, nec mirū, cum ingentes persecutiones a temporibus Principis Apostolorum sub Nerone, alisq. Catholicæ Ecclesiæ hostibus, vsque ad Siluestrum passa sit Ecclesia, & subinde etiam tunc vsque ad Coelestini Pontificatum, multiplices fuerint exortæ hæreses, quod quamplurimos causam dederit, sanguinis effusione, doctrinæ, ac morum probitate Catholicam fidem propagandi.

2 Fuerunt quoque tanti.

var. lect. Rectius Farnesianus Codex M.S. legit. Fuerūt quoque cauti, atque ita esse legendum patet ex subsequentibus verbis: indicans enim Apostolos tunc temporis cautos ac prudentes fuisse, quippe qui, prout Dei honori, ac animarum saluti conducere posse arbitrabantur, seipsos martyrio exponebant.

3 Sed queramus in his gradibus supradictis, vbi inueniatur charitas Dei feruentior.

Iam supra hoc eodem cap. duo perfectionis gradus distincti sunt, Martyrium primus, secundus vero Confessorū: his vero virtus additur ximirū Mundi contemptus scilicet qui veram nobilitatem profitentur, & ex his duobus postremis, qui hoc loco ad inuicem inter se comparantur, videtur indicari militarem vitam auctoriorem esse vita monastica: sed quidquid sit constanter asseuerandum est, horum supremum, ac præstantissimum esse Martyrium, quandoquidem inter omnes actus virtutis, charitas primum locum tenet, tanto enim quis magis rem aliquam diligere ostendit, quanto pro ea magis rem amatam contemnit, & rem magis odiosam eligit, sed inter alia bona in mundo, homo vitam præcipue alijs rebus præfert, & mortem maxime odit: ergo qui vitam pro Dei confessione dat & mortem eligit charitatis perfectionem maxime ostendit: vnde Io. 15. scribitur, Maiorem charitatem nemo habet, quā vt animam suam ponat quis pro amicis suis, hinc D. Aug. lib. 1. de Virginitate c. 2. Martyrium præfert Virginitati, & D. Tho. 2. 2. q 124. ar. 3. probat illud esse actum maxime perfectionis.

4 Triticum vero, quod inter vestigia vidisti, significat illos, qui per carnis macerationem, & contritionem, & vitam innocentem intrauerunt cælum.

Christus Dominus præsentis capitis visionem exponens B. Brigittæ dicit, per triticum, eos significari, qui carnis macerationē regnum cælorum adepti sunt, & sane sicut granum tritici, quod est inclusū in palea, nisi fuerit tritturatum, foras non egreditur & nisi percutiatur de palea non exilit, ita quoque homo, nisi proprium corpus ieiunijs, vigilijsq. præmat, nunquam de carnis affectionibus, ac terrenis concupiscentijs exit; secus si carnem edomauerit sibi sum ad Deum reuertitur, & omnibus posthabitis nō aliud quam quæ Dei sunt quærit: Vnde Ioan. 12. scribitur, Nisi granum frumenti cadens in terra mortuum fuerit, ipsum solum manet, si autem mortuum fuerit multum fructum affert.

5 Rosæ vero pauci martyres sunt rubicundi languinis suæ effusione.

Rosa cum flos sit odoriferus, & ex spinoso fruticę oriatur, rubicundi, aut etiam albi coloris, egregie sanctos Martyres designat, hi enim ob sanguinis effusionem rubicundi sunt, & ob summam quam moriendo ostendunt charitatem, odorem maximum emittunt, vt merito dicere possint cum Apostolo 2. Cor. 2. Christi bonus odor sumus, vt vero rosæ ad hæc sunt, innocentiam ac vitæ integritatem indicant, quam sibi per martyrium comparanti & ideo de his scriptum est Apocal. 7. Dealbauerunt stolas suas in sanguine Agni. Martyres autem per rosas significari tradit Encherius de spiritualibus formulis cap. 4.

Hoc loco Confessores liliis comparantur, sicut enim lilium & candore, & odore flos est præstantissimus, ita quoq. Sancti & vitæ probitate, & verbi Dei prædicatione, & odorem maximum ac ingentem candorem redolent. Hinc est, quod Cant. 5. ipsa sponsa lilijs comparat labia sponsi: Labia, inquit eius distillantia myrrham: & hoc quia ab eo emanabant suauissima, ac dulcissima verba, quæ magnum omnibus spiritum odorem. Cæterum Sanctos viros humiles & probos per lilia in sacris literis designari, tradunt Basilius in psal. 44 Greg. 14 Moralium cap. 6. Bern. in Cant. ser. 70 & 71.

Hic fuit Bonif. 8 qui successit in Pontificatu Coelestino V. de quo supra egimus hoc eodē cap. not. 1.

IN-

INFORMATIO VIRGINIS ad sponsam de modo sciendi diligere, & quattuor ciuitatibus, in quibus quattuor charitates inueniuntur, & quę istarum debeat proprie charitas nuncupari perfecta.

CAP. XXVIII.

MATER loquitur ad sponsam dicens. Nunquid filia diligis me? Respondit illa. Doce me domina diligere, quia anima mea fœdata est dilectione falsa, seducta veneno mortifero, pro quo non valet apprehendere dilectionem veram. Et Mater. Ego inquiens docebo te. Nam quattuor sunt ciuitates, in quibus quattuor inueniuntur charitates, si tamen omnes charitates nuncupari debent, qnia non est proprie dicenda charitas, nisi vbi Deus, & anima in vera virtutũ vnitate confederantur. Prima igitur ciuitas est, ciuitas probationis, quæ est mundus, in quo ponitur homo, vt probetur, si diligit Deum, an non, vt experiatur infirmitatem suam, vt acquirat sibi virtutes quibus redeat ad gloriam, vt purgatus in terra gloriosius in cælis coronetur. In hac ciuitate inuenitur dilectio inordinata, cum diligitur caro, plus quam anima. Cum desideratur temporale feruentius, quam spirituale. Cum honoratur vitium, & despicitur virtus. Cum plus dulcescit peregrinatio, quam patria. Cum plus timetur, & honoratur moriturus homunculus, quam in æternum regnaturus Deus. Secunda ciuitas est, ciuitas purgationis, in qua abluuntur sordes animæ. Placuit enim Deo talia loca ordinare, in quibus coronandus purgaretur, qui in libertate negligens insolescebat, sed tamen cum timore. In hac ciuitate inuenitur imperfecta dilectio quia diligitur Deus, ex spe soluendæ captiuitatis, sed non ex feruore affectionis, propter tædium, & amaritudinem satisfaciendæ culpæ. Tertia ciuitas est, ciuitas doloris, vbi est infernus. In hac inuenitur dilectio omnis malitiæ, & immunditiæ, omnis inuidiæ, & obdurationis. In hac quoque ciuitate regnat etiam Deus per ordinatam suam iustitiam, per mensuram suppliciorum debitã, per malitiæ refrenantiam, per libratam promeritis omnium æquitatem. Nam sicut alij damnandorum peccant plus, alij minus. Ita & pœne, & retributionis condigne constituti sunt termini. Nam & si omnes damnandi includuntur tenebris, non tamen omnes vno eodemque modo. Differunt enim tenebræ à tenebris, horror ab horrore, ardor ab ardore. Vbique denique disponit Deus iustitia, & misericordia, etiam in inferno, vt aliter puniantur hi, qui peccauerunt ex industria, aliter qui ex infirmitate, aliter, qui ex sola originalis peccati noxa tenebantur quorum plaga, & si in carentia diuinæ visionis, & lucis electorum consistit, Misericordiæ tamen & gaudio per hoc appropinquant, quod ad horrorem suppliciorum non perueniunt cum prauorum operum effectum non habebant. Alioquin nisi Deus disponeret in numero, & mensura, diabolus nunquam mensuram haberet in puniendo. Quarta ciuitas est ciuitas gloriæ. In hac est dilectio perfecta, & charitas ordinata, qua nihil desideratur, nisi Deus, & propter Deũ. Vt ergo ad istius ciuitatis perfectionem peruenias, quadruplicem oportet te habere charitatẽ, scilicet ordinatam, mundam, veram, & perfectam.

Ordinata vero charitas est, qua caro diligitur ad solam sustentationem, mundus ad nullam superfluitatem, proximus propter Deum, amicus propter vitæ puritatẽ. Inimicus propter remunerationem. Munda vero charitas est, qua vitium non diligitur cum virtute, qua consuetudo praua contemnitur qua peccatum non leuigatur. Vera autem est dilectio, quando Deus toto affectu, & corde diligitur, quando honor, & timor Dei præcogitatur in omnibus actibus, quando ex fiducia bonorum operum, minimum peccatum non committitur, quando sapienter moderat quis seipsum, ne ex nimio feruore deficiat, quando ex pusillanimitate, & ignorantia tentationum non declinatur ad peccatũ. Perfecta vero est charitas, quando nihil dulcescit homini sicut Deus. Hæc in præsenti inchoatur, sed in cælo consumatur. Ergo dilige istam perfectam charitatem, & veram, quia omnis, qui eam non habuerit purgabitur, si tamen fidelis, si feruens, si paruulus, si renatus fuerit, alioquin transibit ad ciuitatẽ horroris. Nam sicut vnus est Deus, sic vna est fides in Ecclesia Petri, vnũ baptisma, vna gloriæ, & remunerationis perfectio. propterea qui ad vnum Deum peruenire desiderat, debet vnam voluntatem, & vnam charitatẽ cum vno Deo habere. Ideo miseri sunt illi, qui sic dicunt. Sufficit si ero in cælo minimus, nolo esse perfectus. O insensata cogitatio, quomodo erit ibi imperfectus, vbi sunt perfecti omnes, alij ex innocentia vitæ. Alij ex innocentia pueritiæ. Alij ex purgatione. Alij ex fide, & bona voluntate.

NO-

NOTAE.

1 QVod ad horrorem ſuppliciorum non perueniunt, cum prauorum operum effectum non habebant.

De parvulis hic ſermo ſit, qui cum ſolo peccato originali deceſſerint, pœnam ſenſus nullatenus patiuntur, ſed tantummodo damni, quæ in carentia diuinæ viſionis conſiſtit, & ideo ſcribitur hoc loco, quod ad horrorem ſuppliciorum non perueniunt, ſcilicet ad ſenſus pœnas, quæ homini infligitur propter actuale peccatum, quod ipſi non comiſerunt, hanc autem parvulorum pœnam D. Auguſt. in Enchiridion cap. 93. circa medium vocat lenißimam, non quidem quod viſione diuina carere, ſit minima pœna cum ſit omnium maxima, ſed D. Auguſtin. loquitur comparatiue ad eos, qui vtramque pœnam luunt, parvuli autem, qui cum originali tantummodo peccato deceſſerunt pœnem damni ſolam patiuntur, & ideo eorum pœnam leniſſimam eſſe Auguſtinus affirmauit, aut etiam dicendum eſt, illam pœnam vocari ab Auguſtino leniſſimam, quoniam illam, non vt ſibi afflictiuam, & nocuam parvuli apprehendunt, nec de carentia viſionis diuinæ triſtantur, vt nos late probauimus ſupra lib. 2. Reuelat. cap. 1. nota 6.

In præſenti capite fuſe traditur qualis eſſe debeat perfecta, & ordinata charitas, & in quo differat ab inordinata, dictum eſt autem ſupra, non longe ab initio capitis, quod inordinata ea eſt, qua ferventius temporale diligitur, quam ſpirituale, ordinata vero dicitur eſſe, qua nihil diligitur niſi Deus, aut propter Deum, nunc vero, vt hoc oſtendatur apertius admonemur, charitatis perfectionem eſſe ſumendam, ex fine diligendorum, cum enim, & nos metipſos, & proximum amare debeamus, videndum eſt, vt id debitis circumſtantijs, & bono ſic fine perficiamus, ex amore namque totum eſt, quod bonum eſt, & totum, quod malum eſt dicit Diuus Auguſtinus in lib. de ſubſtantia dilectionis, & amoris cap. 1. Tomo 4. & ideo hoc loco legimus eam eſſe cenſendam ordinatam charitatem, qua caro diligitur ad ſolam ſuſtentationem, vbi per carnem intelligas quidquid ad hominis ſuſtentationem à Deo ordinatum eſt, illud autem, quod ſequitur, nimirum proximus propter Deum eſt diligendus, amicus propter vitæ puritatem, inimicus propter remunerationem, indicat ad perfectam charitatem omnino exigi, vt nihil niſi in ordine ad Deum, & extra Deum nihil ametur, quia aliàs non amor verus eſt, ſed cupiditas, vt loco ſupra citato docet Diuus Auguſtinus, medium quippe ait eſt cor hominis, vnde fons amoris erumpit, & cum per appetitum ad exteriora decurris, cupiditas dicitur, cum vero ſcribitur, quod Amicus ob vitæ paritatem diligendus eſt, non excluditur, quod etiam prauos homines, quatenus ſunt eiuſdem naturæ, & poſſunt eſſe participes nobiſcum beatitudinis non amemus, ſed quod bonos, vt boni ſunt ferventius diligamus, & ad hunc eundem ſenſum accipiendum eſt illud, quod hic quoque ſequitur, inimicum propter remunerationem diligendum eſſe, non quidem vt inimicus eſt, ſed vt poteſt eſſe particeps eiuſdem remunerationis nobiſcum, vitæ nimirum æternæ, aut etiam propter meritum, quod ex eius dilectione conſequi poſſumus, iuxta Domini præceptum Matth. quinto. Ego autem dico vobis diligite inimicos veſtros, an vero magis meritorium ſit diligere inimicum, quam Amicum, Diuus Thomas 2. 2. quæſt. 27. art. 7. dicit abſolute amicorum dilectionem præſtantiorem eſſe, ac meliorem inimicorum dilectione, tum quia illa ferventior eſt, tum quia ſi conſideretur ex parte rei, quæ diligitur potior eſt, melior namque eſt amicus, quam inimicus, ſic tradunt etiam Magiſter in 3. diſtinct. 30. Altiſiodorenſis in 3. tract. 5. cap. 2. quæſtione vltima, & alij plures ex Scholaſticis, ſecus vero dicendum eſt, ſi expendatur ratio, propter quam inimicus amatur, quæ non poteſt eſſe alia, quam ipſemet Deus, amici vero poteſt eſſe alia ratio dilectionis, & amoris, & ideo ex hac parte videtur magis poſſe quis conſequi meritum diligendo inimicum, quam amicum.

3 Hæc in præſenti inchoatur, ſed in cælo conſummatur.

Ad horum verborum intelligentiam duo nobis animaduertenda ſunt, primum quidem charitatem in via non inchoari ſolum, ita vt hic initium tantummodo ſumat, & in patria poſtea ſecundũ totam ſuam latitudinem creſcat, ſed intelligendum eſt, quod ita inchoetur, quod etiam augeri poßit in via, ſicut quotidie ſanctis Viris contingit, qui propter eorum opera bona creſcunt in amore Dei, quod eſſe veriſſimum, ex pluribus ſacrarum litterarum teſtimonijs conſtat, vt ad Epheſios 4. veritatem autem facientes in charitate creſcamus in illo per omnia, qui eſt caput Chriſtus, & ad Philippenſes primo, Oramus Deum, vt charitas veſtra magis, ac magis abundet, & probat Concil. Trid. Seß. 6. cap. 10. vbi habet, quod iuſti magis iuſtificantur per bona opera, & quod hoc iuſtitiæ incrementum petit Eccleſia cum Orat. da nobis fidei, ſpei, & charitatis augmentum, an vero hoc charitatis augmentum fiat eſſentialiter, & per maiorem radicationem in ſubiecto, per hoc, quod ſubiectum participet magis, ac magis charitatem, an vero per additionem aliquam alicuius diſtincti gradus ſecundum ſpeciem, vel numerum, hoc relinquen-dum eſſe cenſui Scholaſticorum diſputationibus, qua de re agit Diuus Thomas 2. 2. q. 24. art. 5. & ibi late Caietanus, & Bannes. Durand. in 1. diſtin. 17. quæſt 5 & alij plures Scholaſtici ex dictis, inferitur: ſecundum quod ſupra propoſuimus hoc loco annotare, nimirum an fieri poſſit, quod charitas quæ augeri poteſt in via, peruenire poſſit ad eum gradum, quem habent Sancti in patria, & ſane ſimpliciter loquendo videtur dicendum, quantitatem charitatis in via non poſſe æquari quantitati charitatis, quæ eſt in patria: & ratio eſſe poteſt quia charitas viæ ſemper reſpicit obiectum abſens, patriæ vero præſens, ergo ſemper intenſius operatur ob præſentiam rei diligibilis, & idcirco hic appellatur patriæ charitas conſummata, hoc eſt vndequaque perfecta, viæ vero inchoata: & hoc probari poteſt ex his verbis Pauli Apoſt. ad Philipp. 3. Non quod iam acceperim, aut perfectus ſim, ſequor autem ſi quo modo comprehendam; vbi de perfectione charitatis in patria loquitur. & 1. Corin. 13 probat hoc Apoſtolus illis verbis; Cum venerit quod perfectum eſt euacuabitur, quod ex parte eſt, ſcilicet, quod eſt ex parte perfectũ in via tolletur cum venerit, quod perfectum eſt in patria & clarius idem annotarunt gloſſ. & Lyranus in illud Matthæi 11. qui minor eſt in regno Dei, maior eſt illo.

LAVS SPONSAE AD Virginem continens templi Salomonis ſimilitudinem, & Deitatis vnitatis cum humanitate veritatem inexplicabilem, & qualiter ſacerdotum templa ſunt vanitate depicta.

CAP. XXIX.

BENEDICTA tu Maria mater Dei, Templum Salomonis. Cuius parietes fuerunt deaurati, cuius tectum præfulgens, cuius pauimentum pretioſiſſimis ſtratum lapidibus, cuius compoſitio tota effulgens cuius interiora omnia redolentia, & delectabilia ad intuendum. 1 Denique per omnem modum ſimilaris es templo Salomonis, in quo verus Salomon ſpaciabatur, & ſedit, in quod induxit arcam gloriæ, & 2 candelabrum ad lucendum. 2 Sic tu benedicta Virgo templum es Salomonis illius, qui fecit inter Deum, & hominem pacem, qui reconciliauit reos, qui viam dedit mortuis, & pauperes ab exactore liberauit. Corpus quippe tuum, & anima facta ſunt Deitatis templum, in quibus erat tectum diuinę charitatis, ſub quo filius Dei egreſſus à patre ad te, gaudenter habitauit tecum. Pauimentum vero templi fuit compoſita tua vita, & exercitatio virtutum aſsidua. Nulla enim tibi defuit honeſtas, quia totum in te fuit ſtabile, totum humile, totum deuotum, totumque perfectum. Parietes vero templi fuerunt quadranguli, qui a nullo perturbaris opprobrio, de nullo ſuperbiebas honore, nulla inquietabaris impatientia, nihilque quæris niſi honorem, & amorem Dei affectabas. Picturæ vero templi tui fuerunt inflammatio continua Spiritus ſancti, qua in tantum eleuabatur anima tua, vt nulla eſſet virtus, quę non amplior, & perfectior eſſet in te, quam in aliqua alia creatura. Itaque in hoc templo tunc ſpaciabatur Deus, quando membris tuis infudit ſuæ viſitationis dulcedinẽ. Requieuit vero quando Deitas ſociabatur humanitati. 3 Benedicta igitur ſis tu Beatiſ 3 var. ſima Virgo, in qua Deus magnus factus eſt lect. puer paruus, antiquiſsimus Dominus factus eſt puſillus filius, ſempiternus Deus, & creator inuiſibilis, factus eſt viſibilis creatura. Ideo quia piiſsima, & potentiſsima es domina, rogo te, reſpice in me, & miſerère mei. Mater enim Salomonis es, non illius, qui fuit filius Dauid, ſed eius qui pater eſt Dauid & dominus Salomonis, qui ędificabat templum illud mirificum, quod te veraciter prafigurabat. Filius enim exaudit matrem, & talem, ac tantam matrem. Impetra ergo vt puer Salomon, qui fuit quaſi dormiẽs in te, ſit vigilans mecum, vt nullius peccati delectatio me pungat, ſed contritio omnium malorũ ſit ſtabilis, amor mundi ſit mihi amarus, patientia perſeueranti, penitentia fructuoſa. Non enim habeo aliquid vtilitatis pro anima mea ſi verbum veum, hoc eu miſerere. Maria, quis templum meum contrarium omnino eſt. Eſt enim tenebroſum vitijs, humorem ex luxuria, corruptum ex cupiditatis vermibus, inſtabile ex ſuperbia, labile ex vanitate mundanorum. Reſpondit Mater. Benedictus ſis Deus, qui cordi tuo hanc inſpirauit proferre ſalutationem, vt intelligeres quanta in Deo ſit bonitas, quanta q. dulcedo. 4 Sed cur cõparas me Salomoni, & templo Salomonis cum mater ſim illius cuius generatio non habet principium, nec finẽ, & illius qui legitur non habuiſſe patrẽ, nec matrem, hoc eſt Melchiſedech. Ipſe enim deſcribitur fuiſſe ſacerdos, & ad ſacerdotes pertinet templum Dei, & ideo ego ſum mater Sacerdotis ſummi, atq. Virgo.

Reges quippe gloriantur de palatijs ſuis, de exercitu ſuo, & de proceſſu, & honore mundi. Sacerdotes vero ſuperbiunt de bonis, & & poſſeſſionibus temporalibus animarum. Nam ſicut dixiſti templum depictum auro, ſic templa ſacerdotum depicta ſunt vanitate, & curioſitate mundi, regnat enim ſimonia in capite. Arca teſtamenti ſublata eſt, lucernæ virtutum extinctæ, menſa deuotionis deſolata. 8 Reſpondit ſponſa. O Mater miſericordiæ miſerere eis, & roga pro illis. Cui Mater. Propterea vt preces exaudiantur pro alijs duo ſunt neceſſaria, voluntas ſcilicet deſerendi peccatum, & voluntas proficiendi in bono. Omnis enim qui hæc duo habuerit, illi proficient preces meæ.

NOTAE.

8 DEnique per omnem modum tu ſimilaris templo Salomonis, in quo verus Salomon ſpaciabatur, & ſedit.

Hoc loco ſponſa Beatiſſimam Virginem templo Salomonis comparat, in quo præter cætera quatuor præſtantiſſima exiiterunt, quemadmodum & Maria quatuor etiam habuit, quæ fuerunt admiratione & laude dignißima. Primum quidem, quod ſicut hoc templum candidiſſimo marmore fuerat constructum, & intrinſecus auro mundiſſimo ornatum, ſic fuit Maria puriſſimi amoris candore alba, & perfectiſſima charitatis ornata; inſuper, & alia duo reperiuntur egregia in hoc templo, primum quod non ædificaretur, nec malleus, nec ſecuris, nec quopiam aliud ferreum inſtrumentum auditum eſt, ſic 3. Regum cap. 6. ſcribitur; ſecundo quod ad illud ædificandum diuerſorum ſtatuum gentes conuenerunt, ita prorſus factum eſt, cum in hoc Mariæ templo ſacratiſſimum Chriſti Domini corpus formatum eſt, nec ſecuris, neque malleus auditus eſt, quippe quod abſque humana ſemine, & carnali copula conceptum fuit; vt vero eius templi operarii ex filiis Iſrael, aliisque gentibus exiſterent, indicabat omnium hominum genus, per quos ea ædificanda Eccleſia ad caput eius Chriſtum adorandum, eiuſq. patrocinium implorandum conuenire debere.

2 Sic tu Benedicta Virgo templum es Salomonis illius, qui fecit inter Deum, & hominem pacem, qui reconciliauit reos, qui vitam dedit mortuis, & pauperes ab exactore liberauit.

Ex dictis conſtat, qua ratione Beatiſſima Virgo Templi Salomonis figurà fuerit: hic autem cauſa redditur, quare potius Salomonis templo, quam cuiuslibet alterius fuerit comparata, & quidem ſi nominis etimologia diligenter conſideretur, inuenimus Salomonem, non aliud quam pacificum ſignificare, & Chriſtus eſt, de quo ſcripſit Apoſtolus ad Coloſſenſes primo, qui pacificauit per ſanguinem crucis eius, ſiue quæ in cælis, ſiue quæ in terris. Vnde merito Beata Brigitta, Mariam laudans, de illa hoc loco, ſic ſcribit, templum eſt Salomonis illius, qui fecit inter Deum, & hominem pacem, cum autem legimus hic, Chriſtum liberaſſe pauperes ab exactore, intelligendum eſt à damone, qui à diuina Iuſtitia exactor fuerat conſtitutus, ani propter peccata noſtra, & præcipue parentum noſtrorum nos debitores eramus, à quo deinde per paſſionem Chriſti ſumus liberati, quod nobis Deus per Zachariam, iam multo ante promiſerat, vt ipſe cap. 9. ſuarum Reuelationum illis verbis teſtatur. & non tranſibit vltra ſuper eos exactor, inde habetur Iſaiæ 14. quomodo ceſſauit exactor, qui erat tributum, contriuit Dominus baculum impiorum, & virgam dominantium, ex dictis ſatis aperte colligi poteſt, quomodo intelligendum ſit illud etiam, quod legimus hic, Chriſtum ſcilicet, vitam mortuis dediſſe, hic enim ſermo ſit, non de corporali, ſed ſpirituali morte, à qua nos liberaſſe dicitur, quatenus cum eſſemus mortui peccatis, vt Epheſiorum 2. ſcripſit Paulus, vinificauit nos liberando à morte culpæ, & conferendo gratiam, quæ vita eſt Animæ datarus demum vitam gloriæ.

3 Benedicta igitur ſis tu Beatiſſima Virgo,
var. in qua Deus magnus factus eſt puer parvus, lect. antiquiſſimus dominus factus eſt puſillus filius, ſempiternus Deus, & creator inuiſibilis, factus eſt viſibilis creatura.

Magis placet Farneſiani Codicis M. S. lectio ſic enim legit, Sempiternus Deus, & Creator inuiſibilis factus eſt viſibilis inter creaturas, nam vt annotauimus ſupra lib. 2. cap. 46. nota prima, Sancti Patres, ac Doctores Scholaſtici, vt plurimum, & abſolute non conſueuerunt concedere hanc propoſitionem Chriſtus eſt creatura, ne cum Arianis videantur ſentire, qui putabant Chriſtum vere, & propria creaturam eſſe, tum quia quod eſt creatum per ſe, eſt aliquid ſubſiſtens, ergo eſſe creatum videretur compiere ſuppoſito diuino, quod aſſirmare hæreticum eſt, & ita non abſolute hæc præpoſitio admittenda eſt, ſed in quo ſenſu accipienda ſit apud quoſdam Sanctos Patres, qui eam aliquando videntur conceſſiſſe tradidimus ſupra lib. 2. Reuelat. cap. 46 nota 1.

4 Sed cur comparas me Salomoni, & Templo Salomonis, cum Mater ſim illius, cuius generatio non habet principium, nec finem, & illius, qui legitur, nec habuiſſe Patrem, nec Matrem, hoc eſt, Melchiſedech.

Quærit hic Beatiſſima Virgo à ſponſa, cur eam Salomoni, ac Salomonis Templo comparauerit, cum potius Melchiſedech comparari debuerit, quandoquidem Chriſtus Dominus filius eius pluribus de cauſis figurabatur in illo, quarum vna hoc loco adducitur, quia ſcilicet, ſicut ipſe ſine Matre, & ſine patre fuiſſe ſcribitur, ita quoque Chriſtus, vt Deus, nec initium habet, neque finem. Secunda etiam, quia ipſe Rex Salem fuit, ſic Chriſtus Rex pacificus, vt paulo ſupra demonſtrauimus, hoc eodem capite nota 2. Tertio quia Melchiſedech fuit Rex, & Sacerdos, ita Chriſtus vtramque perſonam geſſit; poſtremo ſicut ille panem, & vinum obtulit in ſacrificium, vt legimus Geneſ. 14. ſic quoque Redemptor noſter veluti ſummus Sacerdos in ara Crucis, Deo Patri pro nobis, carnem ſuam, & ſanguinem obtulit, & ſacroſanctum Euchariſtiæ ſacramentum, ſub ſpeciebus panis, & vini inſtituit. Qua de re legendi ſunt D. Auguſtinus lib. 16. de Ciuitate Dei cap. 22. Origenes in Ioſue hom. 26. D. Hieronymus ad Euagrium. D. Ambr. 1. de Abraham cap. 3. Georgius Venetus Cant. 2. cap. 10.

5 Nam filius Dei, qui eſt filius meus vtrunque eſt Sacerdos, & Rex Regum.

Chriſtum Dominum vere fuiſſe ſacerdotem ſecundum ordinem Melchiſedech, ex pluribus ſacrarum literarum teſtimonijs conſtat, vt Pſalm. 109. & ad Hebræos 7. & vere ipſe eſt Sacerdos magnus rogans pro populo, ad quem pertinet hoſtia pro peccato, vt Leuit. 2. legimus, & idem ipſe eſt, qui ſe ipſum in ara crucis pro nobis ſemel Deo Patri obtulit, vt dicit Concil. Trident. Seſſ. 22. cap. primo; quod etiam affirmarunt Diuus Auguſtinus contra aduerſarium legis, & Propbetarum cap. 20. & 12. & de Ciuitate cap. 17. & in enarrat. Pſalm. 26. D. Damaſcen. lib. 4. de fide cap. 14. D. Ambroſ. de fuga ſæculi cap. 2. & ſuper Lucam cap. 1. D. Hieron. ſuper Zachar. cap. 3. bis addendum eſt, Chriſtum ſacerdotem fuiſſe, qui vere omnia Sacerdotij munera exercuit, quorum primum eſt orare, & aduocati officio fungi. Secundum ſacrificare pro populo. Tertium docere populum, vt Aggei 2. & Malach. 2. Quartum proprium eius eſt ducere exercitum Domini. Deuteronomij 20. Quintum docere viam, per quam ſit ambulandum Ioſue 3. Sextum iudicare inter lepram, & lepram, Deuteronom. 13. Poſtremum paſcere populum veluti paſtor, & has omnes functiones Chriſtum exercuiſſe ex ſacris litteris, & Sanctorum Patrum Doctrinis manifeſtiſſimum eſt.

6 Denique in templo meo induit ſe veſtibus Sacerdotalibus ſpiritualiter, in quibus obtulit ſacrificium pro mundo.

In vtero Virginis Chriſtus Dominus carnem aſſumpſit humanam, quam pro omnibus nobis Deo Patri in ara crucis, ſicut ſummus Sacerdos obtulit, & hoc eſt, quod Beatiſſima Virgo hoc loco dixit, Redemptorem noſtrum in ſuo templo induiſſe Sacerdotalibus veſtibus, cum vero addit, id ſpiritualiter fuiſſe factum, inſinuat Beatiſſima Virgo, Chriſtum ex ea carnem aſſumpſiſſe opere Spiritus ſancti non per ſeminis deciſionem, aut carnalis copulæ operationem.

7 Extra vero tamquam pugil fortiſſimus var. lect. campum, & pugnam detinbat ſe.

Sic enim habent omnes impreſſi Codices, ſed Farneſianus M. S. legit; Extra vero tamquam pugil fortiſſimus per campum decurrebat, & ſe in pugna exercebat.

VERBA SANCTAE AGNETIS ad ſponſam de dilectione habenda, ab ipſo ſponſo ad Virginem, ſub floris figura, & qualiter Virgo glorioſa loquens declarat immenſam, & æternam pietatem diuinam, contra noſtram impietatem, & ingratitudinem, & quomodo amici Dei non debent inquietari in tribulationibus.

CAP. XXX.

BEATA Agnes loquitur ſponſæ dicens. Filia dilige Matrem miſericordiæ. Ipſa enim ſimilis eſt flori ſiue cirpo, cuius figura conſimilis eſt gladio. Qui quidem flos habet duas extremitates acutiſſimas, & cuſpidem gracilem. Altitudine vero, & latitu-
1 dine ſuper alios flores ſe extendit. 1 Sic Maria flos eſt florum, flos, qui creuit in valle, & ſuper omnes montes ſe dilatauit. Flos, inquam, qui nutrisbatur in Nazareth

& in Libanum se diffundebat. Hic flos super omnia habuit altitudinem, quia benedicta regina cœli super omnem creaturam excedit dignitate, & potestate. Habuit & ipsa Maria duas acies siue extremitates, a cutissimas, tribulationẽ, scilicet cordis in passione filii, & constantiã certaminis contra incursiones diaboli, quia nũquã peccato cõsentiebat. 2 Verũ .n. prophetabat senex ille, qui dicebat: Tuam inquiens animam pertransibit gladius. Nam quasi tot ictus gladij sustinuit spiritualiter, quot in filio suo vulnera & plagas præuidebat, & videbat. Habuit insuper Maria latitudinem excedentem hoc est, misericordiam. Nam sic pia & misericors fuit, & est, & maluit omnes tribulationes sufferre, quam quod animæ non redimerentur. Nunc autem coniuncta filio non obliuiscitur, innatæ bonitatis suæ, sed ad omnes extendit misericordiam suam etiam ad pessimos, vt sicut sole illuminantur, & inflammantur cœlestia, & terrestria, sic ex dulcedine Mariæ, nullus est, qui non per eam si petitur sentiat pietatem. Habuit & Maria cuspidem gracilem, hoc est, humilitatem. Per hanc enim placuit Angelo, respondens se esse Ancillam, quæ eligebatur in Dominam. Per hanc concepit filium Dei, quia noluit placere superbis. Per hanc ascendit ad summum thronum, quia nihil dilexit nisi ipsum Deum. Procede igitur carnalis, & salutа Matrem misericordiæ, quia iam venit. Tunc apparens Maria respondit: Dixisti Agnes substantiuum adde, & adiectiuum. Cui Agnes: Si dixero pulcherrimam, vel virtuosissimam, hoc nulli de iure competit nisi tibi, quæ es Mater salutis omnium. Et Mater Dei respondit beatæ Agneti. Dixisti verum, quia ego sum potentior omnium, ideo Addam adiectiuum, & substantiuum canalis, scilicet Spiritus sancti. Sed veni canalis, & audi me. Tu doles ex eo, quod prouerbium istud vertitur inter homines. Viuamus secundum libitum nostrum, quia Deus faciliter placatur. Vtamur mundo, & honore eius dum possumus, quia propter hominem factus est mundus. Vere filia talis locutio non procedit de charitate Dei, nec tendit, aut trahit ad charitatem Dei. Veruntamen Deus propter hoc non adhuc obliuiscitur charitatis suæ, sed omni hora pro ingratitudine hominum ostendit pietatem suam. Nam ipse similis est fabro fabricanti opus solemne, qui quandoque ignescit ferrum, quandoque infrigidat. Sic Deus faber optimus, qui mundum fecit ex nihilo, ostendit charitatem suam Adæ, & posteris eius. Sed refriguerunt in tantum homines, quod Deum, quasi pro nihilo reputantes enormia plurima commiserunt. Propterea ostensa misericordia, & admonitione benigna præcedente, ostendit Deus iustitiam per diluuium. Post vero diluuium posuit Deus fœdus suum cum Abraham, & ostendit illi signa dilectionis suæ, & eduxit progeniem eius in signis, & mirabilibus maximis. Dedit populo legem de ore proprio, & verba sua, & præcepta signis euidentissimis confirmauit. Cumque iterum procedente tempore frigesceret populus, & in tantam vesaniam prorumperet, quod etiam idola 3 coleret, 3 pius Deus volens iterum ignire frigidos, misit mundo filium proprium, qui veram viam ad cœlum docuit, & humilitatem veram imitandam demonstrauit. Nunc autem a multis nimium obligatus, & neglectus est, sed tamen adhuc ostendit, & exhibet verba misericordiæ suæ. Noa autem omnia perficientur simul, magis, nunc quam prius. Nam antequam veniret diluuium, prius admonebatur, & expectabatur populus ad pœnitentiam. Sic ergo Israel antequam terram promissionis ingrederetur, prius probatus est, & ad tempus protracta est promissio. Bene quippe valuisset Deus eduxisse populum in quadraginta diebus, & non protraxisse ad quadraginta annos. Sed iustitia Dei exigebat, vt ingratitudo populi ostenderetur, & misericordia Dei manifestaretur, populusque futurus tanto magis humiliaretur. 4 Nunc 4 autem si quis cogitare vellet, cur sic Deus afflligeret populum suum, aut cur pœna aliqua debet esse æterna, cum vita ad peccandum non possit esse æterna, magna esset audacia. Sicut & ille audax est, qui cogitatione, & ratione intelligere, & comprehendere nititur, quomodo Deus est æternus. Denique Deus æternus, & incomprehensibilis est, & in eo æterna iustitia, & retributio est, misericordiaque inexcogitabilis. Alioquin nisi Deus ostendisset iustitiam suam in primis Angelis, quomodo sciretur iustitia eius, qui omnia iudicat in æquitate. Et nisi fecisset iterum misericordiam suam cum homine creando eum, & liberando in infinitis signis, quomodo tanta bonitas eius sciretur, & charitas eius tam immensa, & tam perfecta. Igitur quia sempiternus est Deus, sempiterna in eo est iustitia, in qua non est additio, nec diminutio. Sicut in homine, qui præcogitat opus suum facere tali modo, & tali die. Deus vero cum facit iustitiam suam, vel misericordiam, perficiendo manifestat eam, quia ab æterno præsentia, præterita, & futura sunt apud illum. Propterea amici dei patienter debent stare in amore Dei, & non inquietari, quamuis viderint mundiales prosperari. Quia Deus est sicut optima lotrix, quæ pannum immundum ponens inter procellas, vt ex motione aquæ fiat purior, & candidior, Diligenter cauet ictus vndarum, ne submergatur pannus. Sic Deus ponit in præsenti amicos suos inter procellas paupertatis, & tribulationis, quibus ad æternam vitam purgentur, custodiens eos diligenter, ne vel nimia tristitia, vel tribulatione intolerabili demergantur.

NOTAE.

1 Sic Maria flos est florum, flos qui crevit in valle, & super omnes montes se dilatauit, flos, qui nutriebatur in Nazaret, & in Libanum se diffundebat.

Maria in præsenti nota floribus eō̃paratur, nullius tamen in specie floris, cui ipsa hoc loco similis esse perhibetur mentio fit, sed si diligēter præsentis notæ verba perpendantur, colligemus aperte per florem lilium intelligendum esse. Primo, quia paulò supra legimus, quod flos iste habet duas extremitates acutissimas, & cuspidem gracilē. Secundo, quod latitudine, & altitudine, se extendit super alios flores, optime ergo Maria lilio comparatur, quippe quæ alios virtutibus, ac fauoribus supereminet, & ideo præcæteris electa fuit, quia omnes sanctitate præcelluit, & sicut lilium, vt scribit Ambro. super Lucam cap. 12. nullius annui vsus cultum requirit, nec sicut ergà prouentum cæterorum fructuum, ita etiam ergà istius floris generationem sollicitis in arbem reddit labor actus agricolis, sic quoque Christus Dominus ex Maria intacta virginitate, & nullo humano increcedente cultu prodijt, vnde merito Cantic. 2. de se dixit. Ego flos campi, & lilium conuallium, quare autem flos campi, aut hortorū, aut etiam liliū conuallium appellatur, annotauimus supra libro primo, cap. 52. nota prima, cum autem scribitur hic, quod flos iste nutricbatur in Nazaret, dupliciter intelligi potest. Primo, quod cum Nazaret Ciuitas sit Galileæ, in qua Saluatorem ipsa concepit, & enutriuit, hac de causa dicebatur, quod nutrita erat in Nazaret, vbi vitam degebat, aut etiam cum Nazaret custodia, vel florida interpretetur secundum Diuum Bernardum ad milites Templi sermo. septimo, optime Maria dicebatur enutrita in Nazaret quæ sub diuina custodia multis magnisque virtutibus, veluti floribus ornata, vitam traduxit, diffundebat autem se in Libanum, quia suarum virtutum odores per Ecclesiam spargebat, Libanus namque Ecclesia dicitur dealbata, in qua odor est bonorum operum, & olivæ fructiferæ, & sublimes virtutes tanquam cedri, quod etiam tradiderunt Origenes super Ezech. Hom. 11. D. Hieron. super Oseam cap. 14. & super Zscher, cap. 10. Vnde merito de Maria Dauid cecinit ps. 71. superexaltabuntur super libanum fructus eius, & florebunt de Ciuitate, sicut fœnum terræ.

2 Verum etiam prophetabat senex ille, qui dicebat, tuam inquiens animam pertransibit gladius.

Beatissima Agnes alloquens sponsam dicit, Mariam Virginem ex passione filij sui tristitiam percepisse maximam, ad quod probandum citat illud Lucæ secundo, & tuam ipsius animam pertransibit gladius, vbi per gladium non aliud intelligendum esse arbitror, quam dolorem, quem in Christi morte pertulit Mater acerbissimum, intima anima eius penetrantem, vt probauimus fusè libro 6. cap. 19. Nota quinta, vbi hunc eundem locum interpretati sumus neque placet, quod affirmarunt Tertullianus de carne Christi. cap. 7. Amphilochius Homilia de occursu Domini, quæ habetur in Homiliario in Dominica, infra Octauam Natiuitatis Domini, Titus Bostrenus, Lucæ 2. Theophilactus in Lucam loco citato, & Origen. Homilia decimaseptima in eundem, qui per gladium intelligunt scandalum, quod inde Maria sumpserit, fortassis autem inquit Theophilactus, & dolorem, quem in passione tulit, fortassis autem & scandalum dicit gladium, quo Maria offensa fuit, cui sententiæ fauere videtur in enarratione psalmi decimiterty. Diuus Chrisostom sed Diuus Augustinus in libro quæstionum noui, & veteris testamenti Tomo 4. quæst. 73. insinuat Beatissimam Virginem in morte Domini stupore quodam dubitasse, quam dubitationem non fuisse communem cum infidelitate aliqua asserunt Diuus Thomas tertia parte, quæstio. 27. articulo 4. ad secundum, sed cum hesitatione stuporis cuiusdam, cui annexus esse solet ingens quædam admiratio, ad quem sensum reuocandi sunt supra citati patres, qui dubitationem illam non proprie fidei infirmitatem, sed rerum visarum admirationem, stuporemque appellarunt, & ad Diuum Chrisostomum respondet Franciscus Suarez in commentarijs super tertiam partem Summæ Thomæ quæst. 27. disputat. 4. sectiano quarto, inter opera eius non inueniri enarrationem aliquam in Psalm. 13. Tertullianum vero, aut fuisse corruptum, aut textum non fideliter citatum, Theophilactum etiam nihil certi hac de re affirmasse, verum quidquid sit omnino dicendum videtur, ex citatis verbis, nullatenus colligi posse Beatissimam Virginem dubitasse, nec scandalum aliquod sumpsisse ex morte filij eius, sed dolorem maximum sensisse, quod etiam ipsemet Origenes fatetur Hom. 18. in Lucam circa medium, & annotauit Gloss. ibidem, & aperte deducitur ex contextu, scribitur enim, ecce inquit, positus est in ruinam, & in signum, cui contradicetur, & tuam ipsius animam pertransibit gladius, quasi dicat, adeo contradicetur ab impijs illis, vt ob id doloris gladius penetraturus sit, non solum filij tui animam, aut credentium.

ſionem eum, ſed & tuam quoque animam, ſic interpretatur hunc locum D. Hieronym. ſerm. 1. de Aſſumptione, Euthimius, & Beda in Commentariis, Diuus Bernardus ſerm. de Beata Virgine ſuper illa verba Apocalyp. 12. Signum magnum, Cardinalis Toletus in ſecundum caput Lucæ annotatione 56. Cornelius Ianſenius in ſua concordantia parte prima cap. 10. non longe à fine, Ioannes Maldonatus in Lucam cap. 2. nu. 35. Franciſcus Suarez loco citato.

3 Pius Deus volens iterum ignire frigidos miſit mundo filium proprium, qui veram viam ad cælum docuit.

Chriſtum Dominum in terram à Patre fuiſſe miſſum, vt homines in pietate frigidos accenderet, & ad charitatis opera patranda inflammaret ipſe met teſtatur per Lucam Euangeliſtam cap. 12. Ignem inquit, veni mittere in terram, & quid volo, niſi vt ardeat, hoc autem maxime per prædicationis officium fecit, & ideo legimus hic, qui veram viam ad cælum docuit. hunc ob cauſam probabiliter exiſtimo, per ignem, cuius hoc loco mentio fit prædicationem, ac doctrinam Euangelicam intelligendam eſſe, per quam homines ad pietatis, & Religionis opera accendendi erant, & à ſordibus purgandi, & ideirco ſuper Apoſtolos, qui vbique Euangelium prædicare debuerant, ſub ignis ſpecie Spiritus ſanctus deſcendit, vt prius hoc igne ibi calefierent, qui alios calefacere debebant, hinc eſt, quod Dauid prædicationem ignitum eloquium appellat Pſalm. 118. immo & ignem ipſum eſſe verbum Dei affirmant Diuus Ambroſius, & Hilarius in citatum verſiculum eiuſdem Pſalmi.

Quamuis diuinorum operum rationes perfecte inueſtigare impoſſibile, ac temerarium ſit, aliquas tamen quærere, prout nos Deus luminis in diis participes facit, vt inde ſapientia, ac iuſtitia diuina, quoquomodo innotoſcat, non eſt inconueniens, ſicut & propoſitæ dubitationis hoc loco rationem reddere, quare Deus ob mortale peccatum pœnam homini infligat æternam, cum vita non poſſit eſſe peccantium æterna, eorumque actiones finitæ ſint, ideo illis finita pœna reſpondere deberet, poſtremo etiam, quia ſic peccatorum omnium pœnæ æquales eſſent, quod videtur eſſe abſurdum, ſed vt breuiter huic dubitationi ſatisfaciamus, duo in primis notanda ſunt, Primum quidem infinitatem pœnarum dupliciter conſiderari poſſe, vel ſecundum intenſionem, & acerbitatem, aut etiam ſecundum durationem, Secundo animaduertendum eſt, in peccato eſſe duo, primum quidem auerſio ab incommutabili bono, quod eſt infinitum, & ex hac parte peccatum infinitum eſt; Secundo vero conuerſio ad commutabile bonum, ſcilicet ad creaturas, quæ quia finitæ ſunt, & ipſa etiam conuerſio finita, ideo ex hoc capite peccatum finitum eſt, his poſitis dico primo, quod peccato correſpondet pœna infinita, qua parte infinitum eſt, nimirum reſpectu incommutabilis boni, quo priuat, quia propter hoc confertur pœna damni, quæ infinita eſt, cum ſit infiniti boni amiſſio, vt auctor eſt D. Thomas 1. 2. quæſt. 77. art. 4. Secundo dico, quod peccato prout finitum eſt, ſecundum, quod connotat conuerſionem ad finitum bonum reſpondet finita pœna, quantum ad intenſionem, & hinc eſt, quod Deus, qui punit citra condignum, ipſis damnatis pœnas ſenſus, nunc augere poſſet, quam tamen ſecundum peccatorum qualitates auget, iuxta illud Deuteronom. 25. pro menſura peccati erit, & plagarum modus, & ideo non ſequitur illud inconueniens, quod peccatorum pœnæ ſint æquales. Dico tertio huiuſmodi pœnam quantum ad durationem infinitam appellari poſſe, quæ ſic per diuinam iuſtitiam conuenienter peccantibus infligitur, nam ſicut qui in politico regimine ex propria culpa ſubuertit pacem, & amicitiam ciuium ad inuicem, & debitam Principi obedientiam minimè præſtat, omnino ſecundum leges à ciuitate pellitur, vel per mortem, vel per exilium, vel perpetuum carcerem, quæ pœna ſecundum legis intentionem perpetua eſt, ita quoque in diuino regimine, ſub quo homines per fidem ſpem, & charitatem congregantur, ſi bi charitatis ordinem ad proximum, vel ſubiectionis ad Deum per peccatum mortale tollant per petuo carceri merentur ad iudicari, ac à Dei conſortio, & Sanctorum, per mortem, ſcilicet ſecundam, excludi, & ad perpetuum carcerem inferni damnari.

VER-

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam optimum exemplum de medico, & rege ponentia, & qualiter Chriſtus per talem medicum deſignatur, & quomodo frequenter ſalvantur damnandi ſecundum homines, & damnantur ſaluandi ſecundum homines, vel mundum.

CAP. XXXI.

IHESVS Dei loquitur ad ſponſam dicens. Medicus venit in regionem longiquam, & ignotam, in qua Rex non regebat, ſed regebatur, quia cor habebat leporinum. Et ideo ſedens in throno, quaſi coronatus aſinus apparebat. Populus vero ſuus vacabat commeſſationibus, & honeſtatis, equitatiſque, oblitus, omnes de futuris bonis conſulentes odiebat, Cumq. medicus ſe præſentaret regi, & de ſerta voluptatis ſe esse diceret, cauſaq. cognitionis infirmitatum hominum ſe affirmaret veniſſe. Rex admiratus de homine, & de loquela eius reſpondit. Ego habeo duos homines in carcere cras decollãdos, & alter eorũ vix reſpirare põt. Alius vero robuſtior & corpulentior eſt, nunquã poſtquã in carcere ingreſſus eſt factus eſt deterior. Ingredere igitur ad eos, & contẽplare vultus eorũ, quis eorum melioris complexionis ſit. Cumque ingreſſus fuiſſet medicus, & vidiſſet eos dixit regi. Homo quem robuſtum dicitis, ſimillimus mortuo eſt, nec viuere poterit. De alio vero ſpes bona eſt. Cui Rex Vnde inquit noſti hæc? Et medicus, quia alius inquit, impletus eſt humoribus, & vento nociuo, nec curari poterit. Alter vero exinanitus facilitèr poterit ſanari mediante lenitate aeris. Et tunc ait Rex. Conuocabo nobiliores meos, & ſapientes, vt viſa ſapientia, & induſtria tua glorioſus appareas in oculis eorum. Cui reſpondit medicus. Nequaquam inquit hoc facito. Scis enim populum tuum inuidum eſſe gloriæ, & quem non poterit operè perſequitur, & deprauat verbo. Sed expecta, & oſtendam tibi ſoli in conclaui ſapientiam meam, ſic enim inſtructus ſum, & doctus, ſcilicet ſapientiam meam plurimam habere in ſecreto, & modicam in aperto. Nec quæro gloriam in tenebris tuis, cum in luce patriæ meæ glorior. Sed nec tempus ſanitatis eſt adhuc, donec ventus auſtralis afflauerit, & ſol in meridie apparebit. Cui rex. Quomodo poſſent fieri iſta in terra mea. In ea enim ſol raritſime oritur, quia extra climata ſumus, & ventus Aquilonaris ſemper dominatur nobis. Sed quid mihi ſapientia tua prodeſt, & tanta mora ſanitatis? Video enim te ſatis verbis abundare. Reſpondit medicus. Sapientis eſt non eſſe ſubitum. Sed ne tibi ſuſpectus, aut ingratus appaream. Da mihi iſtos duos homines in poteſtate, & ducam eos ad fines regni tui, vbi aer eſt competentior, & tunc videbis quantum opera, quantumve valebunt verba. Cui Rex. Atrioribus inquit, & vtilioribus occupati ſumus, quid nos diſtrahis. Aut quid confert nobis magiſterium tuum. In præſentibus enim bonis delectantur, quæ videmus, & poſſidemus, ad futura vero incerta non aſpiramus. Veruntamen ſuſcipe homines illos, vt petis, & ſi oſtenderis in eis aliquod magnificũ, & dignũ admiratione, prædicabimus te, & prædicari faciemus glorioſum. Suſceptis igitur à medico hominibus illis, & ad temperiem aeris deportatis. Alius tranſijt ad mortẽ. Alius vero blandimento aeris refocillatus reuixit. Medicus ille ego ſum, qui medèri cupiens hominibus verba mea miſi mundo per te. Quamuis autem infirmitates multorum vidi, duo tamen oſtendi tibi in quibus, & iuſtitiam, & miſericordiam meam poteras admirari. Vnum enim oſtendi tibi, quem diabolus poſſedit occulte, ſed aeternaliter puniendum. Cuius opera hominibus videbantur, & laudabantur tanquam iuſta. Alterum vero oſtendi, cui aperte dominabatur diabolus, ſed ſanandum dixi tempore ſuo, licet non hominibus aperte, vt tu credebas. Nam fuit iuſtitia diuina, vt ſicut ſpiritus malignus paulatiue in eũ dominari ceperat, ſic eadem dictabat iuſtitia, vt paulatim egrederetur, ſicut & egreſſus eſt donec anima carne ſoluta perueniret cum eo diabolus ad iudiciũ. Cui dixit iudex. Tu purgaſti eam, & enibraſti quaſi triticum. Nunc ait pertinet ad me pro confeſſione ſua duplici corona coronare eã. Recede igitur ab ea, quam tanto tempore purgaſti. Et ait ad animam. Veni ò felix anima, & vide ſenſibus ſpiritualibus gloriam meam, & iocunditatem meam. Ad alteram vero animã dixit. Quia fides vera non fuit in te, & tamen quaſi fidelis gloriabaris, & laudabaris, & quia operã iuſtorum perfecta non ſunt inuenta in te. Propterea merces illa fidelium non erit in te. Tu quoque in vita tua quæſiuiſti, cur voluit mori pro te, & humiliari pro te tantũ. Ideo reſpondeo tibi nunc, quod fides Eccleſiæ S. vera eſt, quæ ſurſũ trahit animas. Et paſſio mea & ſanguis meus introducit eas in cælũ. Ideo infidelitas tua, & amor tuus vanus deprimẽt re ad nihilum, & nihil eris respectu spiritualium æternorum. Quod vero diabolus non egrediebatur videntibus cunctis de homine illo? Respondeo, mundus iste est, quasi vile tugurium respectu tabernaculi, quod inhabitat Deus, populusque Deum exasperans. Ideo paulatiue, sicut ingrediebatur, ita egredietur.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD Sponsam sub figura ponentia, qualiter Deus Pater ipsam inter cæteros sanctos elegit in Matrem, & in portum salutis.

CAP. XXXII.

MATER loquitur ad sponsam dicens. Quidam quærens lapides reperit magnetem, quem eleuans manu propria custodiuit in thesauro suo, & per eum deduxit nauem ad portum suum. Sic filius meus multos quærens lapides Sanctorum, me specialiter elegit in Matrem sibi, vt per me homines reducerentur ad portum cæli. Ergo sicut magnes attrahit sibi ferrum, sic ego attraho Deo dura corda. Ideo turbari non debes, si quandoque cor tuum induratur, quia hoc est ad maiorem coronam.

VERBA FILII AD SPONSAM & quomodo per duorum hominum exemplum ostendit se iudicare secundum interiora, & non secundum exteriora.

CAP. XXXIII.

FILIVS Dei loquitur sponsæ. Miraris de duobus, vnus, qui erat quasi lapis quadratus. Alius peregrinus Hierosolymitanus, sed neuter peruenit, ad id quod tu sperabas. Primus itaque ad quem missa fuisti, fuit lapis quadratus firmus in conceptibus suis, sed tamen quasi Thomas pie dubitans. Ideo quia nondum erat tempus, quo complete sunt malitiæ hominum, probauit vinũ, sed non bibit. De secundo dixi, quod Hierosolymitanus esset comes itineris. Hoc ideo factum est, vt quem fama iustum, & sanctum dixerat, sciretis statum suum. Nam ipse est religiosus habitu, & professione monachus, sed moribus apostata, dignitate sacerdos, sed seruus peccati, Peregrinus fama, sed intentione Girouagus, Hierosolymitanus opinione, sed magis Babylonicus. Insuper & contra obedientiam, & Apostolica statuta, est egressus. Totusque infectus est hæresi, ita quod se credit, & dicit Pontificẽ futurum, qui restituet omnia. Cuius & libri hęc testantur. Ideo subito morietur, & nisi cauerit sibi patri mendacij sociabitur. Ideo non debes turbari, si aliqua obscure dicuntur, aut si prædicta non fient secundum cogitatum tuum, quia verba Dei diuersimode intelligi possunt. Et quoties hoc contingit, veritatem eorum iudicabo. Nunc autem ego Deus, verus Hierosolymitanus sum. Ideo ego ipse comes itineris tui esse volo.

Declaratio.

Spiritus Dei loquitur. Audisti illum mor tuum, de quo dixi tibi, qui erat lapis quadratus, & pie dubitans. Ideo scito, quod non erit in numero illorum, qui tentauerunt Deũ in deserto, nec cum illis, qui petebant signũ, sicut Ionæ Prophetæ. Nec cum illis, qui persequutionem mouerunt contra me, sed cum illis erit, qui zelum habebant, & charitatem, sed nondum perfectam.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM sub figura, in qua anima in annulo corpus in panno designantur, & qualiter anima per discretionem debet purificari, & corpus per abstinentiam debet mundari, & non interfici.

CAP. XXXIV.

MATER Dei loquitur. Si datur alicui annulus, qui nimis strictus est digito, & quæritur ab inimico consilium quid faciendum sit. Respondit, præscindatur digitus, & sic annulus ei adaptabitur. Canis amicus nequaquam, inquit, sed magis annulus cum malleo extendatur. Si vero aliquis velit potum potentis Domini per mundum pannicolum trahicere, & colare, & quæreret consilium ab inimico. Ille respondet. Præscinde de panno omne, quod immundum est, & vbi aliquid mundum inueneris ibi trahice potum Domini tui. Cui amicus. Nullo modo sic fiat, sed magis prius mundificandus, & lauandus est pannus, & postea potus trahicien dus. Sic est etiam in spiritualibus. In annulo itaque intelligitur anima, in panno vero corpus. Ergo anima, quæ in digito Dei esse debet, extendi debet malleo discretionis, & purificationis. Corpus vero non interfici, sed mundari per abstinentiam, vt verba Dei per illud diffundantur.

REVELATIONVM CÆLESTIVM SANCTAE BRIGITTAE DE SVETIA.

VERBA IOANNIS EVANGELISTAE AD SPONSAM, qualiter nullum opus eſt ſine remuneratione, & quomodo Biblia præcellit omnes ſcripturas, & de Rege Prædone, & Proditore, & Prodigo, &c. & Conſilio ipſi Regi à ſancto Ioanne dato, & qualiter debeat contemnere diuitias, & honores propter Deum.

CAPVT PRIMVM.

APPARVIT Sponſæ perſona quædam hominis, cuius crines videbantur circumciſi cum opprobrio. Corpus perunctum erat oleo, totumque nudatum, ſed nihil erubeſcens, qui ſponſæ dixit. Scriptura quam vos vocatis ſanctam dicit ſic, quod nullum 1 opus ſine remuneratione erit. 1 Hæc eſt illa ſcriptura, quæ apud vos Biblia vocatur. Sed apud nos eſt fulgida quaſi ſol reſplendens incomparabilius auro, fructificans quaſi ſemen, quod centuplum ex ſe profert fructum. Sicut enim aurum cætera præcellit metalla, ſic ſcriptura, quam vos dicitis ſanctam, nos vero vocamus eam in cælo auream, præcellit omnes ſcripturas, quia in ipſa honoratur, & prædicatur verus Deus, Patriarcharum replicantur opera, Prophetarum explanantur infuſiones. Ergo quia nullum opus ſine remuneratione eſt. Audi quæ loquor. Rex iſte, pro quo tu ſupplicas, coram Deo prædator eſt, proditor animarum, Prodiguſque effuſor diuitiarum. Itaque ſicut nullus proditor eſt peior illo, qui diligentem ſe prodit, ſic iſte multos ſpiritualiter prodidit, carnaliter diligendo iniuſtos. Iniuſte exaltando impios. Iuſtos deprimendo, exceſſus corrigendos diſſimulando. Secundo nullus prædo peior eſt illo, qui prodit eum, qui in ſinu eius caput ſuum reclinat, ſic communitas terræ, quaſi in ſinu ſuo erat, quam Rex iſte miſerabiliter deprædatus eſt, aliorum bona auferri permittendo tendo. Alijs intolerabilia imponendo. Aliorum iniurias dissimulando. Iustitiam semper remisse exercendo. Tertio nullus fur peior est illo, qui creditis sibi omnibus, & acceptis clauibus furatur Domino inuito.

2 2 Sic iste accepit claues potestatis, & honoris, quibus iniuste, & prodigaliter vsus est non ad honorem Dei. Ergo quia aliqua sibi placita dimisit amore mei, consulo sibi tria.
3 3 Primo, quod sit sicut ille Euangelicus, qui relictis siliquis porcorum rediit ad patrem. Sic ipse contemnat diuitias, & honores, quæ respectu æternorum non sunt, nisi porcorum siliquę, cum humilitate, & deuotione regrediendo ad patrem suum Deum. 4 Secundo
4 dimittat mortuos sepelire mortuos suos, & sequatur viam arctam crucifixi Dei. Tertio relinquat graue pondus peccatorum suorum, & ingrediatur per viam illam, quæ in principio est arcta, sed in fine gaudiosa. Tu quoque, quæ vides me, intellige, quia ego sum ille, qui scripturam auream plenius agnouit, & agnoscendo augmentaui. Ego fui nudatus ignominiose, sed quia patienter sustinui, Deus vestiuit animam meam veste
5 immortali. 5 Ego etiam fui intinctus oleo, ideo nunc gaudeo oleo lætitiæ sempiternæ.
6 6 Ego insuper post Matrem Dei lætissima morte de mundo transiui, quia custos Matris Dei factus fui, & corpus meum est in loco quietissimo, & securissimo.

NOTÆ ET VARIÆ LECTIONES

Ad Librum Quartum Cælestium Reuelationum Sanctæ Brigittæ.

CAPVT PRIMVM.

1 HÆC est illa scriptura, quæ apud vos Biblia vocatur, sed apud nos est fulgida quasi sol, resplendens incomparabilius auro, fructificans, quasi semen, quod centuplum ex se profert fructum.

Hoc loco sacra scriptura, & soli, & auro comparatur, soli quidem, quia sicut ille sua luce Vniuersum illuminat, sic eam legentibus intellectum illustrat. Auro vero, quia per charitatem inflammat, est enim aurum charitatis symbolum, & quemadmodum ex auro alij monumenta, alij annulos, & alia fercula ad ornatum conficiunt; ita ex vna scriptura scientia interpretes, pen innumeros intellectus, quasi varia ornamenta componunt, quæ ad decorē calathi sponsæ proficiunt: sic habet D. Greg. Epist. 101. eadem similitudine vtuntur Theodoretus serm. 1. de Græcarum affectionum curatione D. Chrysost. Hom. 35. in Ioannem, & D Hieron. ad Principiam, Scripturam sacram vestibus Aaron auro, & purpura contextæ similem facit.

2 Sic ille accepit claues potestatis, & honoris, quibus iniuste, & prodigaliter vsus est, non ad honorem Dei.

D. Ioannes Euangelista hic, Regem quendam acriter reprehendit, qui Regia diuinitus accepta potestate abutebatur: dicitur autem obtinuisse claues potestatis, & honoris per metaphoram, sicut enim illud, quo auferuntur obstacula introitus in domum, dicitur clauis, & potestas ingrediendi domum, sic facultas, per quam datur introitus in administrationem Regni metaphorice, hoc loco appellatur clauis potestatis, & honoris, quæ à Deo est, iuxta illud Prouerb. 8. per me Reges regnant, & conditores legum iusta decernunt, qualis autem Rex esse debeat, & quomodo sese in regimine gerere iuste possit, suse traditur hoc eodem lib. 4. Reuel. cap 76. paulo post initium, vbi sic scribitur, inquiramus in Regibus, & in Ducibus, quis stat in laudabili suo statu, ille quippe est Rex, qui in moribus suis est sicut Iob, in humilitate sicut Dauid, in zelo legis vt Phinees, in mansuetudine, & humilitate vt Moyses.

3 Primo, quod sit sicut ille Euangelicus, qui relictis siliquis porcorum rediit ad Patrem.

Postquam D. Ioannes dixerat, eum Regem, de quo in præsenti sapite, cū B. Brigitta sermonē habet, Regia potestate abusum fuisse, modo illi consulens, affirmat, si respicere velit, vt filium Prodigum imitetur, qui relictis siliquis rediit ad Patrem, cuius historia habetur Lucæ 15. hic autem per siliquas diuitiæ, & honores intelliguntur, vt autem quid proprie sint palam fiat: sciendum est, esse leguminum folliculos, siue integumentum leguminum, bis autem non porcos tantummodo, sed & pecora quoque vesci tradit Plinius lib. 18. cap. 12. Nam siliquæ inquit, caulesque grauissime sunt pabulo pecori, ad hanc nominis Etymologiam respexisse videtur Ambros. in locū citatū Lucæ cū dicit, quis autem aptior huiusmodi hominibus cibus, quam is, qui siliquam modo intus inanis, foris mollis est, quo corpus non reficitur, sed impletur, vt sit magis oneri, quam vsui, sed Euthimius siliquas designare voluptatem asserit, Theophilactus vero peccata ipsa, quibus pecator, quo magis peccat magis saturari cupit D. autem Hieronymus, Beda, & August. per siliquas seculares doctrinas intelligunt sterili vanitate resonantes, de quibus inquit, laudes Idolorum, fabularumque ad Deos gentium vario sermone, atque carminibus percrepant, quibus dæmones delectantur. Verum hoc loco per siliquas, diuitias intelligendas esse patet, ex contextu ibi, sic ipse contemnat diuitias, & honores, quæ respectu æternorum non sunt nisi porcorum siliquæ.

4 Dimittat mortuos sepelire mortuos suos.

Eadem sententia habetur Matth. 8. & Luc. 9. ad cuius intelligentiam sciendum est, Christum Dominum aliquando inuitasse quemdam ad sequendũ se, qui cum illum sequi paratus esset, temporis tamen aliquam dilationem postulauit, idque pietatis gratia in patrem exhibendæ, qui, vt auctor est Diuus Ambrosius, recenter mortuus erat, & idcirco respondens Domino dixit, Permitte me primum ire, & sepelire patrem meum, IESVS autem ait illi, sequere me, & dimitte mortuos sepelire mortuos suos; ac si diceret, Et si dilectio parentum necessaria sit, ita vt illis teneamur debita præstare obsequia, in comparatione tamen amoris diuini cũ præsertim impedimento sunt omnino debere contemni, & posthaberi, atque ex his optime huius nostræ verborum sensus patet. Cum enim hoc loco de quodam Rege sermo sit, qui ob diuitiarum, ac parentum amorem in administratione Regni iuxta Dei præcepta non se gerebat, dicitur illi, quod si respicere vult de tetum Deo committat, nec parentum, vel diuitiarum amore a diuina dilectione retardari sinat, sicut ergo his verbis Saluator noster voluit improbare officium sepulturæ mortuis exhibendum, aut curam patri a filijs debitam, sed tantum insinuare volun humana posthabenda diuinis, ita quoque hoc loco Beatus Ioannes Regem admonet, vt hoc idem obseruet. Cæterum si quis enucleatius huius textus sensum litteralem scire cupiat, legat Diuum Chrisostomum homilia 28. Ambrosium in psalmum 48. & in locum citatum Matthæi, qui per mortuos hic intelligunt infideles, vt sensus sit, sine gentiles sepelire gentiles suos. Diuus autem Augustinus lib. 4. de Trinitate cap. 3. & lib. 20. de ciuitate cap. 6. & quæst. 6. in Matth. affirmat mortuos ibi designare peccatores, qui non de Christo, sed de huius mundi rebus cogitant.

5 Ego etiam fui intinctus oleo, ideo nunc gaudeo oleo lætitiæ sempiternæ.

Beatus Ioannes cum dicit hic se fuisse intinctum oleo, insinuare videtur Regem quoque debere esse oleo vnctum, iisdemq. virtutibus præditum, quæ per oleum designantur: oleum in primis sapientiæ splendorem significat, vt admonuit Rupertus super Zach. cap. 4. & Origen. super Matth. hom. 32. aliquando etiam misericordiam, vt Rursus oliua ad latus a columba, Dei misericordiæ symbolum erat, & pacis, Genes. 8. typus etiam esse potest charitatis, sicut etiam oleum a nullo humore præmitur, sed asperis omnibus exilit, & supereminet, sic & charitas non potest ad ima prami, sed ad superna semper ascendit, quod admonuerunt D. Gregor. Hom. 20. D. Augusti. in Ioan. tract. 6. VD. Ambros. super Lucam cap. 3. Origen. in Leuit. Hom. 13. Tertullianus de Baptismo. Testimonia semper virens iustitiam notat, in qua debet esse oleum; quæ ante Deum lucernæ ardent, vt ait Ischias in Leuit. cap. 14. atque hæ sunt virtutes, quibus optimus quisque Rex ornatus esse deberet, quæ per oleum designantur, decet namque Regem sapientem ac prudentem esse, vt sapienter, ac prudenter se in regimine gerat; misericordem, vt non more Tyranni præsit, sed veluti pater subditos regat; charitatiuum, vt indigentes sustineat in Regno, pacem conseruet, rerum abundantiam ad pauperum sustentationem promoueat, iustum, vt vnicuique quod suũ est reddat, dignis honores, & præmia largiatur, indignis pœnas, & flagella conferat.

Hoc loco de seipso B. Ioannes duo notatu dignissima affert. Primum quidem se Virginis Mariæ a Christo custodem fuisse constitutum, quod etiam ipsemet in cap. 19. sui Euangelij asseuerat. Secundo vero cum leuissima morte ex hoc mundo migrasse, dicit autem morte leuissima transisse, quia cæteri Apostoli pro suæi Catholicæ confessione martyrium subiere; ipse vero propria morte senio confectus obiit, sed D. Ioannem Euangelistam violenta morte vitam finisse insinuare visus est D. Chrysost. Hom. 66. in Matthæum, & Hom. 27. super Epistolam ad Hebræos super illud verbum alij dicuntur fuisse. & quidem Euthimius in Commentarijs affirmat Chrysostomum, non solum locis citatis, sed etiam 1. & 2. Homilia in Ioannem docuisse Euangelistam in Asia fuisse occisum, idem fecisse Theophilactus in illa verba Matth. cap. 20. Calicem quidem meum bibetis, verum Ioannem non sic, vt indicant Chrysost. & Theophilactus obisse probari potest, Primo excommuni omnium Patrum consensu, qui vel eum adhuc esse superstitem censent, vel propria morte eum finisse, tum quia hoc apertè tradit D. August. serm. 149. de tempore, Ioannes inquit, obdormuit sine vulnere, sine cruciatu, vnde Gregorius Trapezuntius in libello, quem edidit de Ioanne adhuc viuente affirmat D. Chrysost. loqui de martyrio, ac violenta morte, quam D. Ioannes vna cum Enoch, & Elia, in fine seculi sub Antichristi vltima persecutione passurus est, his positis mihi probabilissimum esse videtur, quod scribitur hic Dnum Ioannem, non violenta, sed naturali morte obisse, fateor tamen grauissimos quosdam viros contrarium sensisse; quippe qui existimarunt eum futurum esse præcursorem secundi Aduentus Christi simul cum Enoch, & Elia, & probant hoc ex illo Ioan. 21. sic eum volo manere quid ad te, cum enim ibi Christus de secundo suo aduentu verba faciat, loquens de Ioanne concludit, sic eum volo manere, hoc est, sine morte vsque ad secundi aduentus meum, sed hic locus meo sane iudicio non aperte concludit Ioannem adhuc esse superstitem, nam ut egregiè annotarunt Chriſoſt. & Cyrillus, & ſi Saluator noſter ibi locutus ſit de ſecundo aduentu ſuo, nihil tamen certi de vita, vel obitu Ioannis ibi affirmauit, ſed tantummodo interrogando Petrũ illius curioſitatem eluſit, præterquam quod, quidam legunt, non ſic eum volo manere, ſed ſi eum volo manere? quid ad te, ſic habent fere omnes Græci Codices, & Vaticanus etiam, & plures alij; ſunt etiam, qui legunt, ſi ſic eum volo manere, quod ſi ita legendum eſt, certe ex illo textu nullatenus colligi poteſt D. Ioannem Euangeliſtam adhuc viuere: ſed quidquid ſit de lectionis varietate, Theophilactus docet, illa verba non eſſe intelligenda de ſecundo aduentu Chriſti ad iudicium, ſed de aduentu ad vindictam ſumendam de Iudeis, non perſonali præſentia ſed per effectum, ex his ergo non videtur poſſe conuinci, Ioannem non eſſe vita functum. Caeterum Ioannem Euangeliſtam naturalem obiiſſe mortem, itidẽ antiquiſſimus auctor Tertullianus libro de anima cap. 50. Obijt & Ioannes, quem in aduentu Domini remanſurum fruſtra fuerat ſpes. Io Baptiſtæ ad cælum migraſſe, & quia ob ſolemnitatem diei, eius feſtum celebrari minime potuit, ideo ſtatuiſſe Eccleſiam, vt in hebdomada Natalis Domini ſolemniter celebraretur, idem habet Gulielmus Durantus in Rationali diuin. offic. lib. 7. c. 14.

VISIO MIRABILIS ET notanda ſponſæ, & qualiter Deus ipſam viſionem exponit: in qua expoſitione baptizati per animal, gentiles per piſcem, & Dei amici per tres turbas deſignantur.

CAP. II.

POST hæc videbantur ſponſæ quaſi duæ ſtateræ ſtantes iuxta terram, quarum ſummitates, & ligaturæ aſcendebant nubes. Circuli vero ipſi penetrabant cælum. In prima vero ſtatera erat piſcis, cuius ſquamæ acutæ erant quaſi raſorium, viſus eius quaſi baſiliſci: Os vero quaſi vnicornij effundentis venenum. Aures autem quaſi acutiſſimæ lanceæ, & quaſi laminæ ferreæ. In alia vero ſtatera erat animal quoddam, cuios pellis quaſi ſilex. Os ingens erat effundens flammas ardentes. Cuius palpebrę quaſi duriſſimi gladij. Cuius aures duriſſimæ erant emittentes ſagittas acutiſſimas, tanquam de ære duro, & extenſo. Poſt hæc apparuerunt tres turbę populorum in terra. Prima erat modica. Secunda minor. Tertia vero minima, quibus vox vna ſonuit de cælis dicens: O amici: Ego vehementer ſitio cor animalis iſtius mirabilis, ſi aliquis eſſet qui ex charitate præſentaret mihi illud. Ego etiam ferentiſſime concupiſco ſanguinem piſcis, dummodo inueniretur homo, qui eum afferret mihi. Reſpondit vox vna de turba loquens quaſi ex ore omnium. Audi, inquit, ò conditor noſter, quomodo poterimus tibi præſentare cor animalis tanti. Cuius pellis durior eſt ſilice, ſi appropinquare voluerimus ori eius, incendemur flamma ignis eius. Si viderimus oculos eius transfodiemur ſcintillis ſagittarum eius. Et ſi forte ſpes aliqua eſſet de animali habendo, quis poterit apprehendere piſcem? Cuius ſquamæ, & alæ ſeu penniculę piſcis, acutiores ſunt cuſpidibus. Cuius oculi extinguunt viſum noſtrum. Cuius os diffundit in nos venenum inſanabile. Reſpondit vox de cęlo dicens. O amici, animal, & piſcis videntur vobis inuincibiles, ſed apud omnipotentem eſt facile. Ergo quicunq. quęrit viam ad impugnandum animal, ego de cęlo infundam ſapientiã fortitudinemq. tribuam. Qui vero paratus eſt pro me mori, ego ipſe me dabo ei in remunerationem. Reſpondit turba prima. O

ſumme Pater, tu es dator totius boni. Nos vero factura tua, libenter dabimus tibi cor noſtrum ad honorem tuum. Cætera vero quę extra cor ſunt, diſponemus ad ſuſtentationē & refectionem carnis noſtræ. Et quia mors videtur nobis dura, infirmitas carnis onerosa, ſcientia vero modica, ideo rege nos interius, & exterius, accipeque grataner, quæ offerimus. Et repende quantum, & quicquid tibi placet. Reſpondit turba ſecunda. Recognoſcimus infirmitates noſtras, & attendimus mundi vanitates, & varietates. Ideo libenter dabimus tibi cor noſtrum, omnemq. voluntatem noſtrā relinquimus in manus aliorum, quia ſubeſſe aliș magis deſideramus, quam minima de mundo poſſidere. Dixit turba tertia. Audi Domine tu, qui deſideras cor animalis, & ſitis ſanguinem piſcis, libenter dabimus tibi cor noſtrum, & parati ſumus mori pro te. Tu tribue ſapientiam, & nos quęremus viam ad inueniendum cor animalis. Poſt iſta ſonuit vox vna de cælo dicens. O amice, ſi inuenire deſideras cor animalis, perfora cum cerebro acuto manus tuas in medio. Deinde iunge palpebras cete, & coniunge palpebris tuis eum fortiſſimo bitumine. Accipe quoque laminam calibis, & alligabis eam cordi tuo, ita quod latitudo, & planities calibis ſint propinquiora cordi tuo. Claude quoque interſtitia narium, aterabendo ſpiritum tuum in collum. Et ſic clauſo ore, & incluſo ſpiritu procede audacter contra ſeuitiam animalis. Cumque peruenieris ad animal ipſum apprehende ambabus manibus aures eius, cuius ſagittæ non nocebunt tibi, ſed exibunt per aperta foramina manus tuæ. Inſuper occurre animali clauſo ore, & appropinquando ſuffla in illud totum ſpiritum tuum. Ad cuius aduentum flamme animalis non nocebunt tibi, ſed egredientur in animal ipſum, & incendent illud. Nota quoque diligentiſſime cuſpides gladiorum, qui exibunt de oculis animalis quibus coniunge oculos tuos munitos palpebris cete, ex quorum motu, & valida coniunctione, vel flectentur gladij animalis, vel ingredientur in cor eius. Conſidera etiam attente puluſculum cordis animalis, & ibi infige aciem calibis perualide, confodiendo ſilicem pellis animalis. Si tunc frangitur ſilex, ſcito, quod morietur animal, & cor eius erit meum. Quod ſi vnum talentum ponderabit, ego laboranti dabo centum. Si vero non frangitur, & animal nocuerit homini, ego curabo illum hominem ſaucium, & mortuum ſuſcitabo. Qui vero voluerit præſentare mihi piſcem, vadat ad littus habendo rete in manibus, quod contextum ſit non de filis, ſed de ære pretioſiſſimo. Ingrediatur itaque aquam, ſed non plus, quam ad genua, ne forte noceant procellæ. Et in illo loco figat pedem, vbi ſolidum eſt, & arena abſque luto. Deinde excoecet ſibi vnum oculum, quem excæcatum vertat ad piſcem, cuius viſus, qui eſt quaſi baſiliſci, nullo modo, tunc aduerſus hominem prævalebit. Sumat quoque clypeum de calibe in brachium ſuum, tunc non nocebit ſibi morſus ſerpentinus. Poſtea extendat rete ſuum ſuper piſcem, ita valide, & caute, quod piſcis raſorijs ſuis non valeat diſcindere rete, vel rumpere, nec euadere aliqua fortitudine, vel impulſu. Si itaque ſentit piſcem, extendat rete ſuper eum ſurſū. Quē ſi decem horis tenuerit ſuper aquis, tunc piſcis ille morietur. Quem portans ad litus reſpiciat eum oculo illo, quem non excæcauerat, & apponendo manus aperiat eum in dorſo, vbi plus eſt de ſanguine, & ſic præſentet eum Domino ſuo. Si vero piſcis euaſerit aut natauerit ad litus aliud, nocens homini veneno ſuo, ego potens ſum ſanare infectum. Nec minor erit remuneratio pro ſanguine piſcis, quam pro corde animalis. Item loquitur Deus. Staterę iſtæ ſignificant tantū quaſi quis diceret parce, & patere. Expecta & miſerere. Quaſi aliquis videns iniuſtitiā alterius, & ſemper vt à malo deſiſteret, eum admoneret. Sic ego Deus, & Creator omnium, quandoque more ſtatęræ deſcendo ad hominem admonendo eum, parcendo ei, & tribulationibus eum probando. Quandoque aſcendo mentes hominum illuſtrando, & inflammando, gratiaque inſolita viſitando. Ligaturæ vero ſtatęræ aſcendentes, nubes ſignificant, quod ego omnium Deus, omnes tam gentiles, quam Chriſtianos, tam amicos, quā inimicos ſuſtento, & gratia mea illuſtro, & viſito. Si tamen inuenirentur, qui gratiæ meæ reſpondere vellent, voluntatem, & affectum ſuum a malo auertendo. Animal vero ſignificat illos, qui Baptiſma ſuſceperunt, & peruenientes ad annos diſcretionis, & verba ſancti Euangelij non imitantes, quorum cor, & os ad terrena prolapſum eſt, ſpiritualia minime attenderunt. Piſcis vero ſignificat gentiles in procellis concupiſcentię vagantes, quorum ſanguis, ideſt, fides modica eſt, & intellectus ad Deum paruus, Ideo deſidero cor animalis, & ſanguinē piſcis, ſi tamen inuenirentur, qui ex charitate conarentur mihi illa præſentare. Tres vero turbæ ſunt amici mei. Primi, qui mundo vtuntur rationabiliter. Secundi, qui ſua relinquunt obediendo humiliter. Tertij, qui mori pro Deo parati ſunt. vide cap. 129.

IN præsenti capite nihil annotandum occurrit præterquam quod in eo plurima sub diuersis occultisque rerum imaginibus traduntur, quæ declaratione indigerent, quæ quoniam adamussim infra hoc eodem lib. 4. cap. 129. explicantur, idcirco illa hoc loco consulto omisimus.

COLLOCVTIO MIRABILIS per modum interrogationis, & responsionis inter Deum, & sponsam de Rege, & iure hæreditario Regis in regno, & suorum successorum, & qualiter quædam à successoribus regni repetenda sunt, & quædam non.

CAP. III.

DOMINE inquit sponsa, ne indigneris, si quæro. Audiui ex scriptura, quod nihil acquirendum est, cũ iniustitia, nec tenendum est aliquid acquisitum contra iustitiam. Nunc autem iste habet terram, quam quidam dicunt eum habere ex iniustitia, alij respondent contrarium. Et ideo mirum est, si in isto hoc toleras, quod in alijs reprobatur. Respondit Deus. Post diluuium nulli homines remanserunt, nisi qui erant in arca Noe. Et ex eis vna progenies nata est, quæ venit ad orientem, de qua etiam quidam venerunt in Suesiam. Et alia generatio venit ad occidentem, de qua quidam exorti venerunt in Daciam. 1 Sed qui primum ceperunt colere terram non circumuallatam aqua, nihil appropriabant sibi de terra eorum, qui habitabant vltra aquas, & in insulis, sed vnusquisque contentabatur de eo, quod inuenerat, sicut scriptum est de Loth, & Abraham. Si, inquit, tu ad dexteram vadis, ego sinistrã tenebo. Quasi diceret. Quicquid tu tibi appropriabis, hoc erit tuum, & hæredum tuorum. 2 Deinde procedente tempore venerunt iudices & reges, qui contenti terminis suis, non occupabant terram eorum, qui in insulis, & vltra aquam habitabant, sed stabat vnusquisque in terminis, & limitibus antiquorum. Respondit illa. Quid si pars aliqua regni, donatione aliqua alienaretur à regno, nunquid à successore non repetenda esset? Cui Deus. In regno quodam inquit, seruabatur corona pertinens ad regẽ. Populus ita considerans se non posse stare sine rege, elegerunt sibi regem, tradentes coronam regi electo custodiendam, & reconsignandam regi futuro. Si igitur ille rex sic electus, aliquam partem de corona alienare, vel diminuere vellet, certe rex futurus repetere posset, & deberet. Quia nulla diminutio debet esse in corona, nec rex diminuere, vel alienare põt coronã regni, nisi forte rationabili causa ad dies suos. Quid enim est corona regni nisi potestas regalis? Quid vero regnum nisi populus ei subiectus? Quid vero rex, nisi mediator, & conseruator regni, & populi? Ergo conseruator, & defensor coronæ, nequaquam dimidiare debet, vel diminuere coronam in præiudicium futuri regis. Respondit sponsa. Quid si rex ex necessitate, seu violentia cogeretur alienare partem coronæ? Cui Deus. Si, inquit, duo homines essent discordantes, alterque potentior nollet dare gratiam nisi abscinderetur digitus alterius, cuius esset digitus abscissus nisi eius, qui damnum passus est? Sic est etiã de regno. Si rex aliquis propter necessitatem vel captiuitatem diminueret partem aliquã de regno, certe rex futurus repetere potest. Quia rex non Dominus coronæ est, sed rector, nec necessitas facit legem. Respondit illa. Quid si rex alicui Domino concessisset ad dies suos partem aliquam coronæ, mortuoque rege Dominus ille, & successores sui detinerent concessa tanquam propria, nunquid repetenda essent? Cui Dominus. Vtique terra illa redire debet ad legitimum Dominum? Respondit illa. Quid si pars coronæ impignorata esset alicui propter debita, illoq. leuatis fructibus multis annis, mortuo, terra postea veniret in manus alterius, qui nullam iustitiam haberet ad terram, ex eo quod nec concessa ei fuisset, nec impignorata, sed occasione quadam occupasset illã, nec dimittere vellet nisi accepta pecunia? Quid faciendum esset? Cui Dominus. Si inquit aliquis haberet globum aureum in manu, & diceret astanti, globus inquit iste tuus est, si rehabere intendis da mihi tot libras, certe dari sibi deberent tot libræ. Quia vbi potestatiue aliqua terra occupata est, & pacifice possessa, sapienter repetenda est, & computatis damnis reducenda. Nunc autem sicut rex electus eleuatus super lapidem quẽdam ad spectaculum populi, designat dominium se habere, & possessionem in partibus superioribus regni. Ita etiam terra ista in partibus inferioribus, & iure hæreditario, & emptione, & redemptione pertinet ad regnum. Ideo rex obtenta conseruet, ne forte, si aliter fecerit, & dominium perdet, & sub corona redigetur. Item loquebatur sponsa.

O Domine ne indigneris, ſi adhuc quæro ſemel. Iſte rex habet duos filios, & duo regna; in altero regno eligitur rex iure hæreditario, in altero ſecũdum fauorem populi. Nũc autem contrarium factum eſt. Nam filius iunior aſſumptus eſt in regnum hæreditarium. Maior vero in regnum, quod per electionem debetur. Reſpondit Deus. In electoribus eorum tria erant inconuenientia, & quartum ſuperexcellit. Inordinatus amor, Prudentia ſimulata, adulatio ſtultorum, Et diffidentia de Deo, & cõmunitate. Ideo electio eorũ fuit cõtra iuſtitiã, contra Deũ, contra bonũ reipublicæ, & vtilitatẽ communitatis. Propterea ad prouidendũ paci, & conſulendum vtilitati communitatis, neceſſe eſt, quod ſenior filius recipiat regnum hæreditarium, iunior vero ad electionẽm veniat. Alioquin niſi retractẽtur priora facta, regnum patietur diſpẽdium, communitas affligetur. Diſcordia orietur, dies filiorum erunt in amaritudine. Regnaque eorum iam non erunt regna, ſed ſicut ſcriptum eſt. Potentes tranſmigrabunt a ſedibus ſuis, & qui ambulabãt in terris elabuntur. Ecce dico tibi exemplum de duobus regnis, in vno eſt electio, in alio hæreditas. Primum vbi electio eſt deſtructum, & afflictum eſt, quia uerus hæres non eligebatur. Et hoc fecerunt partes eligentium, & cupiditas ambientium regnum. Ergo Deus non 3 affligit filium pro peccatis patris, nec in æternum irascitur, ſed iuſtitiam facit, & ſeruat in terris, & in cælis. Ideo regnum illud non veniet ad priorem gloriam, & felicioremſtatum, donec verus hæres conſurget, aut ex paterna ſucceſſione, aut materna.

NOTAE.

1 SEd qui primum cæperunt colere terram non circumuallatam aqua, nihil appropriabãt ſibi de terra eorum, qui habitabant vltra aquas, & in inſulis, ſed vnuſquiſq. contentabatur de eo, quod inuenerat.

Hoc loco indicat Dominus Beatæ Brigittæ, quod ab initio homini in commune fuerit conceſſa bonorum poſſeſſio, ita vt de iure naturali tunc temporis ea ſpectarent ad eum, quæ ſibi primo vendicabat; & hoc eſt, quod ſcribitur hic, ſed vnuſquiſque contentabatur de eo, quod inuenerat, quod patet Geneſis primo, vbi Deus hominibus poſſidendã terram in communi tradidit, vt admonuit D. Iſidorus lib. 5. Etimolog. cap. 4. & refertur diſtinct. 1. cap. Ius naturale, ſed clarius docet Clemens Papa in Epiſtola ſua quarta, quæ citatur 12. q. 1. Cæterum. dilectiſſimis, vbi legitur, communis vſus omnium, quæ ſunt in hoc mundo, omnibus eſſe hominibus debuit, ſed per iniquitatem alius hoc dixit eſſe ſuum, & alius iſtud, vnde credo ortum eſſe celeberrimum illud axioma, amicorum omnia ſunt communia, ſecundam quem loquendi modum ſancti Patres reſpicientes ad illud axioma affirmant, omnia eſſe communia, ſic Diuus Auguſtinus ſuper Ioann. tract. 6. & habetur diſtinct. 8. Cum quo iure, & Diuus Chriſoſtomus ſuper Lucam cap. 6. a Deo inquit percepimus omnia, quod autem dicimus meum, & tuum mendacij ſunt verba, idem habet Diuus Ambroſius relatus 47. diſtinct. ſicut hi, vbi ſcribitur, nemo dicat proprium. quod eſt commune, & ſane in ſtatu innocentiæ congrua erat communis rerum poſſeſſio, tunc enim temporis, terra vel inculta ſponte ſua tuliſſet fructus, vel ſaltem indiguiſſet cultura exigua, & ita parus, quam refugiſſet nemo, imo ex ea non laborem ſed delectationem homo percepiſſet, vt ex Geneſis ſecundo colligi poteſt, vbi legimus, tulit Deus hominem, & poſuit eum in Paradiſo voluptatis, vt operaretur, & cuſtodiret illum, quod intellige opere delectabili, non laborioſo, ſic Chriſoſt. Homil. 14. in Geneſim, & Lyranus Geneſ. 2. ad ea verba, vt operaretur, & cuſtodiret.

2 Deinde procedente tempore venerunt iudices, & Reges, qui contenti terminis ſuis non occupant terram eorum, qui in inſulis, & vltra aquam habitabant.

Quemadmodum ſuperiori nota diximus, communis illa bonorum poſſeſſio ſtatui innocentiæ congrua fuit, ſic modo hic admonemur, rerum diuiſionem poſt lapſũ adeo eſſe neceſſariã, vt abſque illa citra miraculum nequaquam poſſet humanum genus diu conſeruari, hoc enim fit, vt vnuſquiſque ſiue Princeps, ſiue quilibet alius ſuis aſſignatis terminis contentus eſſe deberet, & hinc etiam plures lites componuntur, quæ ex inſatiabili rerum concupiſcentia, quæ poſt primorum parentum peccatum inualuit, ortæ eſſent, hanc ob cauſam Geneſis 13. dicitur inter Abrahã, & Loth huiuſmodi bonorum factam eſſe diuiſionem, ecce vniuerſa terra coram te eſt, recede a me obſecro ſi ad ſiniſtram ieris, ego dextram tenebo, ſi tu dexteram elegeris, ego ad ſiniſtram pergam, ex quo intelligendum eſt, diuiſionem non ſolum in genere, ſed etiam quod aliquæ nationes ab quam regionem poſſideant, & alia aliam eſſe de iure gentium, contra quam Caietanus 22. q. 99. art. 2. videtur ſentire. Dicit tamen Thomas quæſtione citata in ſolutione ad primum affirmat, hanc diuiſionem pertinere ad ius poſitiuum, ſed quæſtione 57. dixerat eſſe de iure gentium, qua de re legendus eſt etiam Sotus libro 4. de iuſtitia, & iure quæſtione tertia.

3 Ergo Deus non affligit filium pro peccatis patris, nec in æternum irascitur, ſed iuſtitiam facit, & ſeruat in terris, & in cælis.

Eadem prorſus ſententia legitur Ezechielis, cap. 18. vbi dicit Dominus, filium non portaturum iniquitatem patris, ideſt pœnam iniquitatis patris, hic tamen contrariari videtur id, quod ſcribitur Exodi capite vigeſimo, vbi Deus dicit, velle ſe viſitare iniquitatem patrum in filios in tertiam, & quar-

& quartam generationem, ſed ſi vtriuſque ſacri ſextus verba diligenter perpendantur, nullatenus ad inuicem pugnare inuenientur, nam Exodi 20. abſolute non dicitur, Deum velle punire peccata parentum in filios, ſed additur eorum, qui oderũt me, ideſt, in tertiam, & quartam generationem eorum, qui perſeuerabunt in odio mei, atque ita Deus punit in tertiam, & quartam generationem, eos qui in eadem peruerſitate parentum perſeuerare volunt, quod explicans Gloß. in locum citatum Ezechielis, non ideo ait puniuntur filij, quia peccarunt Patres eorum, ſed quia eis ſimiles quodam hæreditario malo Deum oderunt, idem admonuit ibidem Lyranus. Cæterum ſi filij non imitarentur peccata parentum, ſed in via Dei ambularent, profecto ob illorum peccata non punirentur, quod aperte colligi poteſt ex Ezechiel Propheta loco ſupra citato, dum dicit; ſi genuerit Vir filium, & viderit omnia peccata Patris, quæ fecit, & timuerit, & non fecerit ſimilia, ipſe non morietur propter iniquitatem Patris ſui, ita quod non eris hæres pœnæ Patris, niſi fueris hæres culpæ, & ad hunc ſenſum reuocanda ſunt verba præſentis Notæ, vt patet ex contextu, & ſic etiam explicat locum citatum Ezechielis. D. Auguſtinus contra Adimantum cap. 7. tomo 6. & in Enchiridion cap. 46. & latius Origenes Hom. 8. in Exodum D. Thomas 1. 2. q. 87. art. 8. ad primum, ſed Theodoretus q. 40. in Exodum dicit, verba illa, in tertiam, & quartam generationem continere potius commination em, quandam, quam quod vere Deus viſitet iniquitatem Patrum in filios in tertiam, & quartam generationem: eandem interpretationem, quam ſupra tulimus, probat Hieronymus ab Oleaſtro in Exodum cap. 20. vide, quæ de hac eadem re fuſius diximus lib. 5. Reuelat. inter rog. 14. q. 3.

VERBA DEI AD SPONSAM de duobus ſpiritibus, ſcilicet bono, & malo, & de mirabili, & viſibili bello in mente cuiuſdam Dominæ, orto ab inſpirationibus boni ſpiritus, & à tentationibus maligni ſpiritus, & quid in iſtis ſit eligendum.

CAP. IIII.

CHRISTVS Loquitur ſponſæ. 1 A duobus ſpiritibus ſuggeruntur, & infunduntur cogitationes, & infuſiones in cordibus hominum a bono ſpiritu, ſcilicet, & a malo. Bonus nempe ſpiritus ſuadet homini cœleſtia ſapere, & temporalia non amare. Spiritus malus ſuadet diligere, quæ videt, ſe uigat peccata. Allegat infirmitates. Et proponit exempla infirmorum. Ecce dico tibi exemplum, quomodo vterque ſpiritus inflãmat cor illius dominæ Reginæ tibi notæ, de qua alias dixi tibi. Spiritus quippe bonus dicit ei iſta, ſuggerens ea cogitationibus ſuis. Diuitiæ inquit ſunt oneroſæ, honor mundi, quaſi aer, & delectabilia carnis, quaſi ſomniũ. lætitia tranſitoria, & omnia mundialia vanitas. Iudicium quoque futurum ineuitabile, & tortor nimis durus. Ideo videtur mihi nimis eſſe durum ſtrictam tenere computationem pro diuitijs tranſitorijs, ſpirituale dedecus reportare pro aere de vento. Longã tribulationem ſuſtinere, pro delectamento momentaneo. Eique rationem reddere, cui omnia ſunt nota antequam fiant. Propterea tutius eſt dimittere multa, & facere minorem computationem, quam multis inuolui, & teneri ad reddendum longam oneroſam rationem. Reſpondit e contra inſpirationibus ſuis malus ſpiritus. Dimitte inquit, tales cogitationes, quia Deus mitis eſt, & faciliter placatur. Poſſide bona audaciter, da quæ poſſides largiter. 2 Ad hoc enim
2 var. lect. nata es, vt laudaris, & tribuas te petenti. Si enim dimittis diuitias ſeruies his, qui tibi ſeruierunt. Minuetur honor tuus, & augebitur deſpectio. Quia perſona pauper, 3 vadit ſine conſolatione. 3 Durumque eſt tibi nouis aſſueſci conſuetudinibus. Alienis
3 var. lect. domare carnem moribus, & ſine ſeruitio viuere. Ideo ſtabilis eſto in honore accepto. Tene ſtatum tuum regaliter, diſpone domũ tuam laudabiliter. Ne ſi mutaueris datum tuum, arguaris inconſtantiæ, ſed mane in inceptis, & eris apud Deum, & homines glorioſa. Iterum bonus ſpiritus ſuadet menti illius Dominę Reginæ iſta dicens. Scio duo eſſe æterna, cælum ſcilicet, & infernum. Omnis enim qui Deum diligit ſuper omnia non intrabit infernum. Qui vero non diligit Deum, non habebit cælum. Per viam igitur ad cælum inceſſit ipſe Deus factus homo, confirmauitque eam ſignis, & morte. Quam glorioſa ſunt cæleſtia, quam amara diabolica malitia, & quam vana ſunt terrena. Ipſumque Deum imitati ſunt Mater eius, & omnes Sancti, qui omnem pœnam ſuſtinere, omniaque amittere magis voluerunt, immo & ſeipſos contempſerunt, ne perderent cæleſtia, & æterna. Ideo tutius eſt dimittere honorem, & diuitias tempeſtiue, quam in finem pas tonere. Ne forte creſcente dolore in extremis decreſcat memoria delictorum. Illique rapiant ea, quæ congregaueram, qui de ſalute mea nihil curant. Reſpondit e contra mala infuſio diabolica,

Dimitte

Dimitte, inquit, ista cogitare. Nos sumus homines infirmi, Christus vero Deus, & homo; non debemus æquiparare opera nostra ad opera sanctorum, quibus & maior gratia, & familiaritas erat cum Deo. Sufficiat nobis sperare cælum, & iuxta infirmitatem nostram viuere, & peccata nostra eleemosynis, & orationibus redimere. Puerile namq; est, & insipientium insolita assumere, & ea non posse consumare. Iterum respondit bona infusio. 4 Indigna sum inquit assimilari sanctis, sed tamen totum est valde conari ad perfectionem paulatim. Quid namque obest aggredi insolita, potens enim est Deus dare adiutorium. Sæpe autem contingit, quod viam Domini potentis, & diuitis sequitur pauper aliquis. Et licet Dominus citius perueniat ad hospitium, delicatisque cibis fruatur, & in molli quiescit lecto, pauper tamen ad idem hospitium peruenit, licet tarde, & tamen ibidē reliquijs ciborum Domini participatur. Qui nisi viā Domini sequutus fuisset, hospitiumq. domini reliquisset, cibis domini vius non fuisset. Sic & ego dico nunc, quod quamuis indigna sim similari sanctis; tamen volo aggredi viam post eos, vt saltim possim participari meritis eorum. Nam duo sunt, quæ sollicitant me in animo. Primo, quod si mansero in patria superbia dominatur mihi. Amor parentum, qui iuuari petunt deprimit mentem meam. Superfluitas familiæ, & vestium est mihi onerosa. Ideo delectat me, & consultius est descendere de sede superbiæ, & peregrinando humiliare corpus meum, quam manere in honoris statu, & peccata peccatis accumulare. Secundo sollicitat me paupertas populi, & eorum clamor, quem vbi iuuare deberem, quotidie præsentia mea grauo. Ideo necessariùm est mihi consilium bonum. Respondit mala infusio, & suggestio diabolica. Peregrinari inquit nō est nisi inconstantis animi. Cum misericordia acceptior sit Deo omni sacrificio. Si enim recedis de patria cupidi homines audita fama tua, spoliabunt, & capient te. Et tunc pro libertate senties captiuitatem, pro diuitiis paupertatem. Pro honore dedecus, pro quiete tribulationem. Respondit iterum inspirando spiritus bonus. Audiui inquit quendam captiuum positum in turri, qui maiorem consolationem habuit in captiuitate, & tenebris, quam vnquam prius habuit in abundantia, & consolatione temporali. Ideo si placet Deo me tribulari, erit mihi in malis meritum. Ipse enim pius est ad consolandum, & prōptus ad subueniēdum. Maxime si nō egredior de patria nisi propter peccata mea, & ad promerendam diuinam charitatem. Respondit iterū mala infusio, & diabolica suggestio. Quid inquit si indigna fueris consolatione diuina, & fueris impatiens ad paupertatem, & humiliatem, tunc enim pœnitebit te assumpsisse rigorem. Tunc habebis baculū in manibus pro annulo. Panniculum in capite pro corona, & vilem faccum pro purpureo indumento. Respondit iterum bonus spiritus. 5 Audiui inquit, quod sancta Helisabet filia Regis Vngarię delicate enutrita, & nobiliter nupta, magnā sustinuit paupertatē, & deiectionem. Quæ maiorem consolationem obtinuit a Deo in paupertate, & sublimiorem coronam, quam si mansisset in omni honore mundi, & eius consolatione. Iterum respondit mala inspiratio. Quid inquit facies si tradiderit te Deus in manus hominum, fueriſque violata in corpore, nunquid præ pudore subsistere poteris? Nunquid non inconsolabiliter dolebis de pertinacia tua, totaq. generatio tua scandalizata lugebit? Tūc certe consurget tibi impatientia, tunc anxietas in corde, & ingratitudo ad Deum. Tunc optabis finire dies tuos. Et cum in ore omnium fueris diffamata, nunquid audebis apparere? Iterum respondit bona cogitatio. 6 Audiui ex scriptura, quod virgo beata Lucia ducta ad lupanar, constans in fide, & confidens de bonitate Dei dixit. Quantumcumque vexatur corpus meum, nihilominus virgo sum, & duplicabitur mihi corona. Cuius fidem respiciens Deus seruauit eam illesam. Sic ego dico, Deus qui neminem permittit tentari supra vires, custodiet animum meū, fidem, & voluntatem meam. Ego enim tota me ei committo, fiat eius voluntas de me. Ergo quia domina illa pulsatur his cogitationibus, ideo admoneo eā de tribus. Primo, quod reducat ad memoriam, ad qualem honorem est electa. Secundo, qualem charitatem Deus ei in coniugio suo ostenderat. Tertio, quam benigne in hac mortalitate est seruata. Iterum incauto eam de tribus. Primo, quod rationem redditura est Deo de omnibus bonis suis temporalibus, adhuc etiā de quolibet obolo, quomodo, scilicet, leuatus est, & erogatus. Secundo, quod tempus suū valde est breue, & nescit antequā cadat. Tertio, quod Deus nō parcit plus dñæ, quā ancillæ. Ideo consulo ei tria. Primo pœnitere de commissis, emendare fructuose confessa, Deum diligere toto corde. Secundo consulo fugere rationabiliter pœnam purgatorii. 7 Sicut enim qui non diligit Deum toto corde dignus est magno supplicio, sic qui non emendat peccata cum potest dignus est purgatorio, Tertio consulo dimittere amicos carnales ad tempus propter Deum, & venire ad locum, vbi compendium est inter cælum, & mortem, ad fugiendam pœnam purgatorii, quia ibi sunt indulgentiæ, quæ sunt eleuationes, & redemredemptiones animarum, quas sancti Pontifices dederunt, & sancti Dei sanguine suo promeruerunt.

NOTAE.

1 A Duobus spiritibus suggeruntur, & infunduntur cogitationes, & infusiones in cordibus hominum.

Hoc loco introducuntur spiritus bonus, & malus ad invicem colloquentes, & utriusque dicta, ac rationes diligenter referuntur, quæ quidem scitu sunt dignissima, quippe quæ valde conferre possunt ad discernendum spiritum bonum à malo, & Revelationes diuinitus datæ ab illusionibus dæmonum, quæ de re in pluribus locis in his Revelationum libris copiosè agitur, & præcipue lib. 3. cap. 12. & cap. 29. & nos ibi nota 3. & lib. 4. cap. 23. nota quinta, & eodem lib. cap. 78. & 110. nos autem fusè egimus cap. 10. in Præludijs ad Revelat. 3 Indigna sum assimilari sanctis.

Conatur hoc loco malus spiritus persuadere, ne nos Sanctorum sequamur vestigia, affirmans vnum quemque debere se indignum existimare, vt Sanctis ipsis æquiparetur, & ideo stultum esse dicit, ea aggredi, quæ consequi quispiam minime potest, propterea etiam legimus paulo supra à verbis præsentis notæ, spiritum malum sic loquentem, dimitte ista cogitare: nos sumus homines infirmi, Christus vero Deus, & homo, non debemus æquiparare opera nostra, ad opera Sanctorum, & aliquanto post puerile est, & insipientium insolita assumere, & ea non posse consumare, sed hæc ita accipienda sunt, non quod viris sanctitate conspicuis, pares nos esse credere debeamus, sed eorum vestigia sectantes, & virtutes amplectentes illis fieri similes pro viribus studeamus, expedit enim eos imitari, eandem quæ viam, per quam ipsi ambulauerunt aggredi, & post hæc, nos semper seruos inutiles, ac omnium minimos iudicare, iuxta illam Saluatoris nostri sententiam relatam à D. Luca cap. 17. cum omnia feceritis, dicite serui inutiles sumus.

Hanc eam esse Elisabeth arbitror, quæ vidua fuit filia Regis Andreæ Vngarorum, de qua Diuus Antoninus tertia parte suæ summæ tit. 19. cap. 11. & Surius Tomo 6. & alij plures, quos refert doctissimus Cardinalis Baronius in notis ad Martyrol. Rom. decimo nonas Nouembris.

6 Audiui ex scriptura, quod Virgo B. Lucia ducta ad lupanar constans in fide, & cõfidens de bonitate Dei dixit, quantumcumque vexatur corpus meum, nihilominus Virgo sum, & dupplicabitur mihi corona.

De ea fusè tract. S. Aldemus in lib. quem edidit de laude Virginitatis, & Sigisbertus de viris illustribus cap. 172. Surius Tomo 6. verba vero, quæ hoc loco notantur, nimirum quantumcumque vexatur corpus meum nihilominus Virgo sum, indicant, non ideo eam virginitatem amittere, qui corporalis membri integritatem, per vim nullo accedente consensu perdit, nam membrorum integritas per accidens, & materialiter ad Virginitatem spectat, in quantum scilicet, per hoc, quod ex proposito voluntatis abstinens, quis à venerea delectatione in membro corporeo integritatem conservat, vnde D. Thom. 2. 2. quæst. 151. art. 1. ad tertium, si contingat, inquit, quod per alium modum aliquo casu membri integritas corrumpatur, non magis virginitati præiudicat, quam si manus vel pes corrumperetur, huius autem dicti B. Thomæ, ratio est potest, quoniam pudicitia virtus est in animo collocata, vnde & si corpori pudici hominis vis aliqua extrinsecus inferatur, nullatenus pudicitia amittitur, si consensus non præstetur, sicut enim animi integritas, & sanctitas minime perditur, etiam si corpus morbo opprimatur, sic nec virginitas amittitur, etiam si extrinsecus Virginitatis signacula, per vim nullo accedente consensu confringantur, quod egregie admonuit D. Augustinus lib. 1. de libero arbitrio cap. 5. de pudicitia inquit, quis dubitauerit, quin ea sit in animo constituta, quandoquidem virtus est, vnde à violento stupratore eripi nec ipsa potest, idem habet Epistola 122. ad Florianum, circa finem. quidquid in carne, nec commisit, nec permisit libido patientis, solius erit culpa facientis, omnisque illa violentia, non pro corruptionis turpitudine, sed pro passionis vulnere deputabitur, hoc etiam repetit Epistola 180. ad Honoratum, & in lib. de mendacio cap. 7.

7 Secundo consulo fugere rationabiliter pœnam purgatorij, sicut enim, qui non diligit Deum toto corde dignus est magno supplicio, sic qui non emendat peccata, cum potest dignus est Purgatorio.

Pœnam purgatorij in hac vita fugere, non est aliud, quam pro peccatis in ea (detestata culpa) pœnas subire, & iustitiæ diuinæ satisfacere, Deus enim enim in hoc ſæculo mitius nobiſcum agit, quam in alio, & ideo in præſenti cap. datur conſilium, vt pœnam Purgatorij fugiamus, cum autem ſequitur, qui non emendat peccata, cum poſſit, dignus eſt purgatione, intellige de peccatorum emendatione, quoad pœnas in ordine ad ſatisfactionem, non vero quoad culpam, quia tunc non emendans ſic peccata in hac vita, cum poſſit, non eſt dignus Purgatorio, ſed Inferno.

VERBA BEATI PETRI AD Sponſam de deſiderio, quod habuit ad ſaluandas gentes. Et qualiter informat ſponſam ad memoriam obtinendam, & de magnis mirabilibus, quæ adhuc in vrbe Romana debent adimpleri, vel compleri.

CAP. V.

BEATVS Petrus loquitur ſponſæ Chriſti. Tu filia, cõparaſti me aratro, quod facit ſulcos latos, & extirpat radices. Hoc vtique verum fuit. Nam ſic feruens contra vitia fui, & ad mores accenſus, quod ſi totum mundum potuiſſem ad Deum conuertiſſe, nullatenus pepercíſſem vitæ meæ, nec labori. Ipſe quippe Deus dulcis mihi fuit in cogitatu, dulcis in locutione, dulcis in operatione, in tantum quod omnia erant mihi amara ad cogitandum præter Deum. Attamen ipſe Deus etiam mihi amarus fuit, non ex ſe, ſed ex meipſo. 1 Nam quoties cogitabam quantum deliqui, & quomodo eum negaueram, fleui amare, quia noueram iam perfecte amare, & fuerunt mihi lacrymæ meæ delectabiles, tanquam cibus dulcis. Quod vero rogas me dare tibi memoriam, reſpondeo tibi. Nunquid non audiſti, quam obliuioſus ego fui. Ego quippe plene inſtructus viam Dei. Iuramento obligaui me ad ſtandum, & moriendum cum Deo, ſed interrogatus ad verbum vnius mulieris negaui veritatem, & quare? quia reliquit me Deus mihi ipſi, & ego ipſe meipſum non cognoſcebam. Sed quid feci ego tunc. Tunc certe conſideraui meipſum, quod nihil eram ex me, & ſurrexi, & cucurri ad veritatem Deum, qui tantum memoriæ nominis ſui impreſſit cordi meo, quod nec coram Tyrannis, nec inter flagella, ſeu in morte poteram eum obliuiſci. Sic ergo fac, & tu. Surge per humilitatem ad magiſtrum memoriæ, & pete ab eo memoriam. Ipſe enim ſolus eſt, qui omnia poteſt. Ego vero iuuabo te, vt particeps fias granorum, quæ ego poſui ſuper terram. Inſuper dico tibi, quod ciuitas iſta Roma, ciuitas erat pugilum, cuius plateæ ſtratæ auro, & argento, nunc autem lapides eius ſaphyrei verſi ſunt in lutum, habitatores eius paucíſſimi, quorum oculus dexter erutus eſt, 2 dextera manus abſciſſa. 2 Butoneſque, & viperæ habitant cum eis, pro quorum veneno animalia mitia non audent apparere, nec piſces mei eleuare caput. Ideo adhuc in eam piſces congregabuntur. Et ſi non ita multi, vt olim, erunt tamen æque dulces, & audaces. In tantum quod ex eorum colluſione deſcendent buſones, & ranæ, & ſerpentes mutabuntur in agnos, & leones erunt, vt columbæ ad feneſtras ſuas. 3 addit. 3 Dico tibi amplius, quod adhuc diebus tuis audietur. Viuat vicarius Petri. Et videbis eum oculis tuis. Fodia enim montem delitiarum, & deſcendent inuidentes in eo. Qui autem beneuole noluerint deſcendere, venient compulſi contra ſpem omnium. Quia exaltari vult Deus cum miſericordia, & veritate.

NARRATIO OPTIMA BEATI Pauli ad ſponſam, qualiter precibus beati Stephani fuerit à Deo vocatus, & de lupo agnus effectus, & qualiter eſt bonum orare pro omnibus. 1

CAP. VI.

LOQVITVR Beatus Paulus ſponſæ Chriſti dicens. Tu filia comparaſti me leoni, qui inter lupos nutritus fuerat, ſed de lupis mirabiliter ereptus eſt. 1 Vere filia lupus rapax ego eram, ſed de lupo fecit me Deus agnũ. 2 Et hoc propter duo. Primo propter magnam ſuam charitatem, qui de indignis facit vaſa ſua, & de peccatoribus amicos ſuos. Secundo propter preces beatiſſimi Stephani protomartyris. Nam oſtendere tibi volo, quomodo, & in qua intentione, tunc fui quãdo lapidatus fuit Stephanus, & quare meas preces eius. Ego quippe non gaudebam nec delectabar de poena beati Stephani, nec inuidebam gloriæ eius, ſed tamen cupiebam eum mori, eo quod iuxta intentionem meã non videbam ipſum habere fidem veram. 3 Cumque viderem eum vltra modum feruentem, & patientem ad paſſionem ferendam, vehementer dolui ipſum eſſe infidelem cum reuera ipſe eſſet fideliſſimus, & ego totus coecus, & infidelis, & compatiendo ei, rogaui orando ex toto corde, quod poena ſua amara, proficeret ei ad gloriam, & coronã. Propterea cum primis profecit mihi oratio eius, quia per orationem ipſius de multis lupis ereptus ſum, & factus manſuetus agnus. Ideo bonum eſt orare pro omnibus, quia illis proficit oratio iuſti, qui propinquiores, & aptiores ſunt ad recipiendum gratiam. Sed nunc conquæror, quod vir iſte tam eloquens inter doctores, & tam patiens inter lapidantes, nimis oblitus, & neglectus eſt à cordibus multorum, & maxime ab his, qui ei in nocte, ac die tenerentur aſſiſtere. Hi enim portant ei vaſa ſua confracta, & vacua, lutoſa, & abominabilia. Ideo ſicut ſcriptum eſt. Induentur confuſione duplici, & rubore, & eijcientur a domibus voluptatis.

NOTAE.

1 VEre filia lupus rapax ego eram, ſed de lupo fecit me Deus agnum.

Optime hoc loco ſe Paulus comparat lupo, cum de eo Geneſis 49. ſcribatur Beniamin lupus rapax, is namque de tribu Beniamin extuit, qui mane comedit prædam, quando fideles in principio naſcentis Eccleſiæ perſequebatur, & vt Actorum 8. ſcribit Lucas, Saulus autem deuaſtabat Eccleſiam, ſed veſpere diuiſit ſpolia, cum conuerſus ad fidem Euangelium prædicauit, & plurimos ad Deum conuertit, ipſe quoque lupus eſt, qui feritate dimiſſa cum agno pariter habitauit, vt Iſaiæ 11. & 65. legimus, & idcirco de eo ſcribitur hic, ſed de lupo fecit me Deus Agnum, quod etiam annotarunt D. Hieronym. ſuper Iſaiam cap. 11. & 65. Beda ſuper Geneſim cap. 49. Euſebius de ſpiritualibus formulis cap. 5. D. Auguſtin. de ſanctis ſerm. 14. vbi agit de conuerſione Beati Pauli.

2 Et hoc propter duo, primo propter magnam ſuam charitatem, qui de indignis facit vaſa ſua, de peccatoribus amicos ſuos; Secundo propter preces Beatiſſimi Stephani protomartyris.

Ex verbis præſentis note videtur aperte colligi poſſe, Beatiſſimum Stephanum, dum à Iudæis lapidaretur orationem ſuæ, Pauli Apoſtoli conuerſionem promeruiſſe, quod etiam deduxit Dionyſius Carthuſianus ex verbis eiuſdem Beati Stephani, quæ in Actibus Apoſtolicis cap. 7. referuntur; Domine ne ſtatuas illis hoc peccatum, tam ſanctiſſima inquit Protomartyris oratio nequaquam poterat eſſe infructuoſa, quia eius virtute Paulus creditur illuſtratus, idem inſinuauit Ambroſius de panit. lib. 2. cap. 8. cuius precationis inquit, effectum in Apoſtolo videmus, Paulus enim qui lapidantium Stephanum veſtimenta ſeruabat, non multo poſtea, per gratiam Chriſti factus Apoſtolus eſt, qui fuerat antea perſecutor.

VISIO MIRABILIS, ET notanda, de quadam anima iudicanda, & de diaboli accuſationibus, & Virginis gloriosæ aduocationibus, & de expoſitione ipſius viſionis, in qua cælum per palatium, Chriſtus per ſolem, Virgo per mulierem, diabolus per Æthiopem. Angelus per militem deſignantur, & in qua duo loca pœnarum tremediabilia, & tria remediabilia computantur, & multa alia mirabilia, & quam maxime de ſuffragiis.

CAP. VII.

1 VNI perſonæ vigilanti in oratione, & non dormienti. 1 Videbatur in ſpirituali viſione, quaſi quod videret palatium incomprehenſibile magnitudine. In quo erant innumerabiles veſtiti veſtibus albis, & fulgidis, quorum quilibet videbatur habere ſedem propriam. In palatio vero principaliter ſtabat vna ſedes iudiciaria, in qua erat quaſi ſol. Et ſplendor, qui de ſole procedebat erat incomprehenſibilis, in longitudine, profunditate, & latitudine. Virgo quoque vna ſtabat iuxta ſedem habens pretioſam coronam in capite, omneſque ſeruiebant ſoli ſedenti in ſede, laudantes eum in Hymnis, & Canticis. Deinde videbatur quidam Æthiops terribilis in aſpectu, & geſtibus quaſi plenus inuidia, & accenſus ira magna, qui loquendo clamauit. O iuſte iudex iudica mihi animam, & audi opera eius modicum enim iam reſtat de vita eius. Permitte quoque mihi punire corpus cum anima, donec ab inuicem ſeparentur. Quibus dictis videbatur mihi, quod vnus ſtabat coram ſede quaſi miles armatus, pudicus, & ſapiens in verbis, modeſtuſque in geſtibus ſuis dicens. O iudex ecce hic ſunt bona opera eius, quæ geſſit vſque ad hanc horam. Et ſtatim audiebatur vox de ſole ſedentis in ſede, hinc inquit, vitium maius eſt, quam virtus, nec eſt iuſtitia, quod vitium ſummæ virtuti coniungatur. Reſpondit Æthiops: Ergo inquit, iuſtitia eſt, vt anima iſta coniungatur mihi. Sicut enim ipſa aliquod vitium habet in ſe, ſic & in me nequitia eſt omnis. Reſpondit miles. punctum,& postea fit iudicium. In isto vero homine, de quo loquimur adhuc coniuncta sunt anima,& corpus, & discretio manet in eo. Respondit Ethiops. a Scriptura dicit, quæ mentiri non potest. Diliges Deum super omnia, & proximum tuum,sicut temetipsum. Vide ergo, quod omnia opera istius facta sunt ex timore, non ex charitate sicut debuit. Omniaque peccata eius de quibus confessus est,inuenies confessa, cum modica contritione. Ideo promeruit infernum,quia demeruit regnum cęlorum. Et ideo peccata eius sunt hic manifesta apud diuinam iustitiam,quia nunquam adhuc obtinuit contritionem ex diuina charitate commissorum peccatorum suorum. Respondit miles. Ipse vtique sperauit, & credidit obtinere contritionem veram ante mortem. Cui Ethiops, tu inquit,omnia congregasti quæcunque benefecit,omniaque verba, & cogitatus ad salutem animæ eius nosti. Omniaq. inquit ista quæcunque sunt,non possunt assimilari gratiæ illi,quæ est contritio ex diuina dilectione cum sancta fide, & spe, & minus delere possunt omnia peccata sua. Nã iustitia ab æterno in Deo est, quod nullus peccator ingrediatur cælum,qui non habuit perfectam cõtritionẽ. Et ideo impossibile est,quod Deus iudicet contra dispositionem præscitam ab æterno,ergo anima ista iudicanda esc ad infernum,& mecum ad æternam pœnam coniungenda. Quibus dictis miles tacuit, nihil reipondẽs ad eius verba. Post hęc videbãtur dæmones innumerabiles, similes discurrentibus scintillis ex feruenti igne,& clamabãt vna voce dicentes ei, qui sedebat in sede quasi sol. Nos inquiunt scimus,quod tu vnus Deus es in tribus personis, & eras sine principio, & es sine fine, nec est alius Deus nisi tu, tu vere es ipsa charitas, cui coniuncta sunt misericordia,& iustitia, tu fuisti in te ab initio,nihil habens diminutum in te, nec transmutabile, sicut decet Deum, extra te nihil absque te,quod gaudium habeat. Ideo charitas tua fecit Angelos,ex nulla alia materia,nisi à deitatis tuæ pontentia, & fecisti sicut misericordia dictabat. Sed postquam nos intus accensi fuimus superbia,& inuidia, & cupiditate tua, charitas diligens iustitiã eiecit nos de cælo cum igne malitiæ nostræ, in abyssum incomprehensibilem,& tenebrosam,quæ vocatur,nunc infernus. 3 Sic fecit charitas tua, tunc, quæ nec separabitur adhuc de iusto tuo iudicio, siue fiat secundum misericordiam,siue secundum æquitatem. Plus dicimus, si res illa, quam præ omnibus diligis,quæ est Virgo, quæ te genuit, & quæ nunquam peccauit, si inquam illa peccasset mortaliter, & sine contritione diuina mortua fuisset,sic diligis iustitiã,quod anima eius nunquã obtineret cælũ,sed esset nobiscũ in inferno. Ergo ò iudex,cur nõ iudicas animam istã nobis, vt puniamus eã secundũ opera sua? Post ista audiebatur sonitus quasi tubæ,quẽ qui audiebant tacuerunt,& statim quædã vox loquebatur dicẽs Silete & auscultate omnes vos Angeli,& animæ,& dęmonia quid mater Dei loquitur. Et statim ipsa Virgo ante sedẽ iudicij apparens, & habens sub mantello suo quasi occultas res aliquas magnas dixit. O ò inimici,vos persequimini misericordiã, & cũ nulla charitate diligitis iustitiã. Licet in operibus bonis hic appareat defectus, pro quibus hæc aïa non debet obtinere cælũ. Videte tamẽ quid ego habeo sub mantello meo. Cunq. virgo ambos aperuisset sinus mãtelli,apparuit sub vno quasi quædã modica ecclesia,in qua aliqui monachi videbantur. Sub alio vero sinu apparuerunt mulieres, & viri, amiciq. Dei religiosi,& alij,& oẽs vna voce clamabãt dicentes. Misere misericors Dñe. Deinde factum est silentium,& 3 Virgo loquebatur dicens, 3 Scriptura dicit. Qui habet fidẽ perfectã põt per eã transferre montes in mundo. Quid ergo tunc possunt,& debẽt voces istorũ facere, qui & fidẽ habuerunt,& seruierũt Deo cũ feruenti charitate? Quid vero illi amici Dei facturi sunt, quos iste rogauit orare pro se, vt posset separari ab inferno,& obtinere cælum,nec pro bonis operibus suis aliã remunerationẽ quæsiuit, nisi cælestia? Nunquid non possunt,& valent oẽs eorum lacrymæ,& preces apprehendere, & eleuare eum,vt obtineat ante mortem suã diuinam contritionẽ cum charitate? Insuper & ego addam preces meas,cum orationibus omnium Sanctorũ,qui in cælo sunt,quos iste specialiter honorabat. Et iterum adiecit Virgo. O,inquit,dæmones præcipio vobis ex potestate iudicis,attendere ad illa,quæ in iustitia nunc videtis. Tunc omnes responderunt quasi ex vno ore,Nos inquiũt videmus,quod in mũdo modica aqua,& aer magnus placãtur ira Dei, sic & tua oratione placatur Deus ad misericordiam cum charitate. Post hęc audita est vox de sole dicens, propter preces amicorum meorum obtinebit iam ille diuinam contritionem ante mortem. Intantum, quod non veniat in infernum, sed purgabitur cum illis, qui grauiorem pœnam habent in purgatorio. 4 Purgata vero anima mercedem habebit in cælis cum illis, qui in terris spem, & fidem habuerunt cum minima charitate. Quibus dictis dæmones fugerunt. Deinde Sponsæ videbatur, quod quasi locus quidam terribilis, & tenebrosus aperiebatur, in quo apparuit fornax ardens intus. Et ignis ille nihil aliud habebat ad comburendum nisi dæmones, & viuentes animas. Supra vero fornacem iſtam apparuit anima illa, cuius iudiciu n̄ iam in ſuperioribus auditum eſt. Pedes vero animæ affixi fuerūt fornaci, & anima ſtabat erecta, quaſi perſona vna. Non autem ſtabat in altiſſimo loco, nec in infimo, ſed quaſi in latere fornacis. Cuius forma erat terribilis, & mirabilis. Ignis vero fornacis videbatur ſe trahere ſurſum infra pedes animæ, ſicut quando aqua trahit ſe ſurſum per fiſtulas, & violenter comprimendo ſe aſcendebat ſuper caput, in tantum, quod pori ſtabant, ſicut venæ currentes cum ardenti igne. Aures autem videbantur quaſi ſuſtinatoris ſuſorum, quę cerebrum totum cum continuo ſtatu commouebant. Oculi vero euerſi apparebāt & immerſi, & videbantur ad occiput intus eſſe affixi. Os quoque erat apertum, & lingua extracta per aperturas narium; & dependebat ad labia. Dentes autem erāt quaſi claui ferrei affixi per palatum. Brachia vero ita longa erant, quod tendebat ad pedes. Manus quoque ambæ videbantur habere, & comprimere quandam pinguedinem cum ardenti pice. Cutis vero quæ apparebat ſupra animam videbatur habere formam pellis ſupra corpus, & erat quaſi linea veſtis circumfuſa ſpermate. Quæ quidem veſtis, ſic erat frigida, quod omnis, qui videbat eam contremuit. Et de illa procedebat, ſicut ſanies de vlcere cum corrupto ſanguine, & fœtor, ita malus, quod nulli peſſimo fœtori in mundo poſſet aſſimilari. Viſa itaque iſta tribulatione audiebatur vox de illa anima, quę dixit quinque vicibus, væ, clamans cum lacrymis totis viribus ſuis. Primo, inquit, væ mihi, quia ſic modicum dilexi Deum, pro maximis virtutibus eius, & gratia mihi data. Secundo, væ mihi, quia non timui iuſtitiam Dei, ſicut debui. Tertio, væ mihi, quia dilexi corporis, & carnis meæ peccatricis voluptatem. Quarto, væ mihi, propter mundi diuitias, & ſuperbiam meam. Quinto, væ mihi, quod vnquam vidi vos Ludouicum, & Ioannam. Et tunc dixit Angelus mihi. Ego inquit volo tibi exponere viſionem iſtam. Palatiū iſtud, quod vidiſti, eſt ſimilitudo cœli. Multitudo vero illorum, qui erant in ſedibus veſtiti veſtibus albis, & fulgidis, ſunt Angeli, & ſanctorum animæ. Sol vero ſignificat Chriſtum in deitate ſua. Mulier autem Virginē, quæ Deum genuit. Æthiops vero diabolum, qui animam accuſat. Miles Angelum, qui bona opera animæ dicit. Fornax vero notat infernum, qui eſt intus, ſic ardēs, quod ſi totus mundus arderet cum omnibus, quæ in eo ſunt, non eſſet ſimile magnitudini fornacis illius. In iſta vero fornace audiuntur voces diuerſæ, omnes loquentes contra Deū. Omneſque inchoantes voces ſuas cum væ, & ſimiliter finiētes. Apparentque animæ quaſi perſonæ, quarum membra extenduntur inconſolabiliter nunquam habentes requiem. Scito etiam quod ignis, qui videbatur tibi in fornace, ardet in æternis tenebris, & animæ in eo ardentes, non habent omnes æqualem

5 pœnam. 5 Tenebræ vero quæ apparuerunt in circuitu fornacis, vocatur limbus, & procedit de tenebris, quæ ſunt in fornace, & ſunt tamen ambo vnus locus, & vnus infernus, quicunque illuc venerit, nunquam habebit
6 cum Deo manſionem. 6 Supra vero tenebras iſtas eſt maxima pœna purgatorij, quam animæ poſſunt ſuſtinere. Et vltra locum iſtum eſt locus alius, vbi minor eſt pœna, quæ non eſt alia niſi defectus virium in fortitudine, & pulchritudine, & conſimilibus. Sicut per ſimile dico, quaſi ſi aliquis eſſet infirmus, & ceſſante infirmitate, vel pœna nihil haberet de viribus, donec paulatim recuperaret.
7 7 Tertius vero locus ſuperior eſt, vbi nulla alia pœna eſt, niſi deſiderium perueniendi ad Deum. Et vt melius in conſcientia tua intelligas, dico tibi per ſimilitudinē, quaſi ſi æs 8 fuſceretur, & arderet cum auro in igne ardentiſſimo, & tamdiu deberet purgari, donec æs conſumeretur, & aurum remaneret purum. Quanto vero æs fortius, & ſpiſſius eſſet tanto ardentiori igne indigeret, donec aurum eſſet quaſi aqua currens, & totum ardens. Deinde magiſter eius proferet aurum in locum alium, vbi obtineat veram formam in viſu, & tactu. Poſtea mittit in tertium locum, vbi cuſtoditur, & præſentetur poſſeſſori. Sic eſt etiam ſpiritualiter. In primo loco ſupra tenebras eſt maxima pœna purgatorij, vbi vidiſti illam ſupradictam purgari, ibi eſt dæmonum tactus, ibi per ſimilitudinē apparent venenoſi vermes, & ſimilitudo animalium ferocium. Ibi calor eſt, & frigus, ibi tenebræ, & confuſio, quæ procedunt de pœna, quæ eſt in inferno, ibi quædam animę habent minorem pœnam, & quædam maiorē, iuxta quod erant peccata emendata, pro eo tempore, quo anima cum corpore manſit. Deinde magiſter, ideſt, iuſtitia Dei, profert aurum, ideſt, animas in alia loca, vbi nō eſt niſi defectus virium, in quibus animæ tādiu morabuntur, donec refrigerium habebunt, vel de ſpecialibus amicis ſuis, vel de ſanctæ Eccleſiæ communis operibus. Nam anima quo maius auxilium habebit de amicis, eo citius conualeſcit, & liberabitur ab illo loco. Poſt hæc anima fertur in locum tertium, vbi non eſt pœna niſi deſiderium perueniendi ad Dei præſentiam, & eius viſionem beatam. In hoc loco morantur multi, & nimis diu, præter illos, qui in mundo, dum viuerunt, nō perfectū deſiderium habuerunt perueniendi ad Dei præſentiam, & eius viſionē. Scito etiam quod multi moriuntur in mundo, do ita iusti, & innocentes, quod statim perueniunt ad pœnitentiam, & visionem Dei. Quidam vero peccatis suis cum bonis operibus sic emendatis, quod animæ eorum nullam sentiant pœnam. Sed pauci sunt, qui nō veniunt in locum, vbi eis desiderium peruenire ad Deum. Ideo omnes animæ in istis triū locis morantibus, participant de sanctæ Ecclesiæ precibus, & bonis operibus, quæ fiunt in mundo. Præcipue quę fecerunt dum viuerent, & eorum, quæ fiunt ab amicis eorum post mortem. Scito etiam, quod peccata sunt multiformia, & diuersa. Sic etiam pœnæ sunt multiplices, & diuersę. Ideo sicut efficiens, gaudet de pasticulo venienti ad os eius, sitiens de potu, tristis lætatur de gaudio, nudus de veste. Infirmus in veniendo ad sanitatem. Sic animę gaudent, & participant de his bonis, quę fiunt pro eis in mūdo. Deinde subiunxit Angelus. Benedictus sit ille, qui in mundo iuuat animas orationibus, & bonis operibus, laboreque corporis sui, quia iustitia Dei mentiri non potest, quę dicit, quod animę aut purgari debent post mortem pœna purgatorij, aut operibus bonis amicorum citius solui. Post hæc de purgato auditorio audiebantur multæ voces dicentes. O Domine IESV Christe iudex iuste, mitte charitatem tuam his, qui spiritualiter potestatem habent in mundo, tunc plus participare poterimus, quam hunc de eorum cantu lectione, & oblatione. Supra vero spatium illud, de quo clamor iste audiebatur videbatur quasi domus, in qua multæ voces audiebantur dicentes. Merces sit illis a Deo, qui mittunt nobis auxilium in defectus nostros. In ipsa quoque domo videbatur quasi aurora procedere, subtus vero aurorā apparuit nubes, quæ nihil habebat de luce aurorę, de qua vox processit maxima dicens. O Domine Deus da de tua incomprehensibili potestate, vnicuique conuenientem remunerationem in mundo, his qui nos eleuāt cum bonis operibus in tuæ diuinitatis lucem, & tuæ faciei visionem.

3 Scriptura dicit, qui habet fidem perfectam potest per eā transferre montes in mundo.

Hic scripturæ citatus locus habetur Matthæi decimoseptimo, vbi legimus. Amen quippe dico vobis si habueritis fidem sicut granum synapis dicetis monti huic transi hinc, & illuc transibit, atque hoc loco admonere lectorem censui Beatissimam Virginem non tantum fidem cōmendare voluisse, sed in genere fiduciam quodcunque impetrandi a Deo per orationem, & idcirco affirmat, quid ergo tunc possunt, & debent voces istorum facere, qui & fidem habuerunt, & seruierunt Deo cum feruenti charitate, ex quibus colligitur quantum sanctorum virorum preces apud Deum valeant, dum anima eius, de qua in præsenti capite agitur precibus eorum liberata sit. Cæterum D. Chrisost. in locum supra citatum Matthæi asserit, quosdam Apostolis etiam sanctitate minores, re postulante, per fidem montes transtulisse, quod fecisse D. Gregorium Neocæsariensem episcopum testamur S. Gregorius Papa lib. 1. Dialogor. cap. 7. & Eusebius libro 7. Historiæ Ecclesiasticæ cap. 25. postremo D. Hieron. mirifice per montes dæmones intelligit, dicitq. quod Dominus Apostolis dixerit, illos posse transferre mōtes, vt indicaret, eos habituros esse potestatem dæmones eiiciendi si fidem habuerint. dæmones enim mistice apud Hieremiam cap. 51. Montes vocantur ergo ad te mons pestifer ait Dominus, qui corrumpis vniuersam terram, & in hunc sensum possent etiam montes accipi hoc loco, vt intelligamus ex his, Beatissimam Virginem significasse sanctos illos, quos pro anima illa iuste & ex charitate orasse hic legimus, superasse dæmones: illam animam ab eorum manibus liberando.

4 Purgata vero anima mercedem habebit in cœlis eam illi, qui in terris spem, & fidem habuerunt cum minima charitate.

Per minimam charitatem hic loco intellige sufficientem dispositionem ad gratiæ infusionem, & gloriæ consequutionem, dicitur autem minima in ordine ad eos, qui maiorem habent ratione eius, quis in cœlo superiorem, ac eminentiorem locum obtinet, legimus autem hic, eam animam, de qua modo agimus habituram in cœlo inferiorem locum ob infimū gradum charitatis, mensura enim beatitudinis desumitur ex lumine gloriæ, & mensura luminis, ex charitate, vnde qui maiorem habebit charitatem, maius habebit lumen, & qui plus luminis, plures gradus beatitudinis, vnusquisque tamen suo gradu contentus erit, & perfecte beatus.

5 Tenebræ vero, quę apparuerunt in circuitu fornacis vocatur limbus, & procedit de tenebris, quę sunt in fornace, sunt tamen vnus locus, & vnus infernus, quicunque illuc venerit nunquam habet cum Deo vnionem.

Ad horum intelligentiam sciendum est, sabbas terram esse quatuor sinus, siue cœli in quatuor partes diuisum, quorum omnium in præsenti capite mētio fit, primus quidem, & infimus inferni dicitur, & locus est pro damnatis constitutus, secundus est limbus puerorum, ad quem decedentes sine baptismo parvuli cum solo originali peccato eunt, ibique morantur, tertius purgatorium vocatur, in quo tandiu manent animæ, quandiu pro cõmissis culpis diuina iustitiæ satisfecerint, & postmodum ad Dei visionem assumuntur, quartus locus dicitur limbus patrum, seu Abrahæ sinus, qui erat constitutus pro iustis, qui ante Christi Domini passionem moriebantur & de inferno, & limbo puerorum in præsenti nota sermo fit, vbi duo a nobis sunt animaduertẽda, primum, quod tenebræ puerorum, quæ non aliud sunt, quam diuinæ visionis carentia, dicuntur procedere de tenebris quæ sunt in fornace, quoniam quantum ad pœnam damni, tam animæ damnatorum in inferno, quam existentium in limbo puerorum pares sunt omnes namque diuina visione communiter priuantur, & vna pœna quoad hoc, est eiusdem rationis cum altera, & illa damnatorum se extendit ad pœnam puerorum, qui sine baptismo decesserunt: videntur tamen differre ex eo, quod pueri illam pœnam damni non apprehendunt, vt sibi afflictiuam, & de ea non tristantur, vt probauimus supra lib. 2. Reuelat. cap. 1. not. 4. secus vero est in damnatis, quibus etiam alia superaddita est, nimirum ignis, quæ est pœna sensus, secundum illud Matthæi 25. Ite in ignem æternum, & ideo eas tenebras hoc loco de fornace legimus procedere. & & esse vnum eundemq. locum infernus, & limbus propter identitatẽ pœnæ & loci contiguitatem, secundum quem sensũ Concilium Florentinum in litteris unionis affirmauit, tum eos, qui cum mortali peccato moriuntur, ijs illas, qui cum solo originali, mox in infernũ descendere, idem insinuat D. Aug. lib. 4. de baptismo parvulorum cap. 28. & lib. 1. Hipognostici, vbi monet non esse nisi duo loca, in quibus homines perpetuo futuri sunt, cælum scilicet beatorum, & infernum damnatorum, libet autem hoc loco ad maiorem horũ cognitionem inuestigare, quis nam sit horum locorum dispositio, & situs sub terra supponendum est primo infernum esse in centro terræ in loco infimo, quem describens Hieron. Matt. 12. ibi sicut fuit Ionas in ventre ceti, &c. dicit, quod sicut cor est in medio animalis, sic infernus in medio terræ: Dico secundo limbũ patrum seu Abrahæ sinum esse in superiori, ac digniori loco, quam limbus puerorum, & purgatorium & hunc sinum Abrahæ D. Augustin. epist. 99. secretæ cuiusdam quietis habitationẽ vocat, sicque fuisse appellatum Tertullianus lib. 4. de anima, cap. 16. monuit locutione figurata a parentibus, qui filios suos, quos unice diligunt in sinu fouent, & locus ille erat refrigerium fidelium Abrahæ fidem imitãtium, & liberatorem Messiam expectantium, tota ergo difficultas est de situ duorum locorum, purgatorij scilicet, & limbi puerorum, quis horum sit magis inferno vicinum. Franciscus Suarez Societatis Iesu Theologorum commentatissimus 3. p. S. Thomæ. qu. 52. disp. 49. art. 1. tom. 2. affirmat, si locorum spectetur conditio, quatenus in purgatorio reperitur ignis, & non in limbo, dici posse purgatorium esse debere inferno propinquius, si vero spectetur dignitas locorũ, quia in purgatorio sunt animæ iustorum, videtur dicendũ esse debere purgatorium in loco magis ab inferno remotum, cæterum sunt qui absolute asserunt purgatorium esse infra limbum Gehennæ virumsic Paludan. in 4. d. 45. qu. 3. Soto d. 45. q. 1. art. 2. qui D. Thomam in suam opinionem adduxit, ipse tamen contrarium sensit, vt dicam infra, fuere etiam Maior d. 44. qu. 3. in fi. Petrus de Tarantasia Prohlem. 1. art. 1. probabilius tamen esse censeo sentiẽtiam præsenti notæ scribitur limbum puerorum esse inferiorem, & viciniorem inferno sic D. Th. in 3. distinct. 3. art. 1. quæstiũc. 2. & ibi etiã Gabriel & in suppl. in 4. d. 45 q. 1. art. 1. Richardus in 4. d. 21 q. 3. a. 3. & aperte hoc colligitur ex Concilio Florentino in eo citato, quod limbum puerorum sub inferno comprehendi dicit, cuius rei etiam ratio probabilis reddi potest, quoniam limbus puerorum conuenit cum inferno, vt supra diximus in essentiali pœna damni, ac in æternitate pœnæ, tum quia limbus iste locus est pro quibusdam Dæmonibus deputatus, ideo maiorem habẽt ad inuicem conuenientiam, cum ergo maior sit proportio inter animas bonas viatrices, ac eas quam inter purgandas animas, & damnatas, hinc est, quod limbum puerorum inferno censeamus esse vicinorem.

6 Supra vero tenebras illas est maxima pars purgatorij, quam animæ possunt luere.

Præter infernum damnatorum, & limbum puerorum, extat & alius locus, quem appellant purgatorium, qui etiam est intra viscera terræ, sed supra infernũ, & limbum puerorum, & hoc legimus hic supra vero tenebras illas, hoc est supra limbum puerorũ, qui per tenebras designatur, ob carentiam lucis gloriæ, & diuinæ visionis, quibus ibi existentes pueri priuati sunt, quod esse purgatorium sub terra sub his terrum, probari posset ex his, quæ tam Ecclesia in Missa pro defunctis, quæ de purgatorio intelligunt: libera animas defunctorum de pœnis inferni, & de profundo lacu, & patet ex lob 21. Solutis doloribus inferni, quos esse dolores purgatorij, D. Aug. in Enchir. ep. 99 affirmat. Postremo hoc idem probat Doctiss. Card. Bellarminus de Purgatorio lib. 2. cap. 6. ex visione quadam, quam refert ex venerabili Beda lib. 5. cap. 13. Historiæ Anglicanæ, vbi visum est purgatorium inferno damnatorum contiguum, sed locum purgatorij subterraneum esse etiam ex sacris litteris probari potest 1. Eccles. 24. Et ecce ego spargam inferiores terræ, & illuminabo omnes sperantes in Domino, quæ verba de damnatis non possunt intelligi, sed de existentibus in purgatorio, cum autem scribitur, quod in purgatorio est maxima pœna, intellige non solum de pœna damni, quæ in tenebris diuinæ visionis consistit, de qua illic animæ existentes non possunt non dolere, videntes propter suam culpam ad tempus impediri fruitionem summi boni, sed etiam de pœna ignis, quam esse maximam vt D. Greg. in Pſal. 3. pœnitentialem illum (inquit) tranſitorium ignem omni tribulatione præſenti exiſtimo intollerabiliorem, imo verum. Beda ibidem putat eum extendere quæcunque ſupplicia Martyrum, vel latronum, idem habet D. Anſelm. 1. Cor. 3. D. Bernar. ſerm. de obitu Humberti, & D. Auguſt. in enarr. Pſal. 37. Quamuis inquit, ſuua per ignem, grauior tamen erit ille ignis, quam quidquid poteſt homo pati in hac vita, idem indicant D. Th. in 4. d. 21. q. 1. art. 1. Paluel. ibidem q. 1. art. 1. Concl. 4. Richard. d. 20. art. 2. q. 1. Sot. d. 13. art. 3. conc. 6.

CAP. VIII.

ITEM loquitur Angelus dicẽs. 1 Illa anima cuius diſpoſitionẽ vidiſti, & iudicium audiſti, ipſa eſt in grauiſſima pœna purgatorij. Et hoc ideo eſt, quia non intelligit, vtrum veniet ad requiem poſt purgationem, an damnata ſit, & hæc iuſtitia Dei eſt, quia ipſe habuit conſcientiam, ſeu diſcretionem magnã qua vtebatur ad mundum corporaliter, & ad animam ſpiritualiter, quia nimis oblitus eſt, & neglexit Deum, quamdiu vixit; ideo nunc anima eius patitur ardorem de igne, & contremiſcit de frigore. Ipſa eſt cœca de tenebris, & de dæmonum viſu horribili timoroſa, ſurda de clamore diaboli. Eſuriens & ſitiens intus, & ab extra veſtita cum confuſione. 2 Attamen Deus dedit ei vnam gratiam poſt mortem, quod ſcilicet non veniret ad tactum dæmonum, quia propter ſolũ honorem Dei peperçit, & dimiſit grauia delicta capitalibus inimicis ſuis, & fecit amicitiam cum capitali inimico ſuo. Scito etiam quod quicquid boni fecit, & quicquid promiſit, & dedit de bene acquiſitis diuitijs, & maxime preces amicorum Dei minuunt, & refrigerant pœnam eius, iuxta quod diffinitum eſt in iuſtitia Dei. NOTAE.

1 ILla anima, cuius diſpoſitionem vidiſti, & iudicium audiſti, ipſa eſt in grauiſſima pœna purgatorij, & hoc ideo eſt, quia non intelligit, vtrum veniet ad requiem poſt purgationem an damnata ſit.

In principio præsentis capitis scribitur, eam animam de cuius iudicio superiori capite actum est, quæve ad purgatorij pœnas iam adiudicata erat ignorasse, an in inferno fuerit, an vero in purgatorio collocata, quæ quidem pœna maxima est, vt habetur infrà lib. 6. Reuelationum cap. 39. circa finem, vbi legimus, Angelum quendam, Deum orasse pro anima cuiusdam, quem in vita custodierat, ne illi huiusmodi pœnam imponeret, & sane hoc esse supplitium maximum negandum non est, tum spem nullam, tunc anima habere possit illas pœnas aliquem finem habituras, & tamen spes vehementer leuire dolorem solet, & non parum afferre gaudij, his qui in tormentis sunt, sed quoniam ex hæreticis non defuerunt, qui dicere ausi sunt, omnes animas in purgatorio existentes de propria salute incertas esse, versarique in quadam ingenti animi anxietate, & etiam desperationis motibus cruciari contra quos scribit Cardinalis Bellarminus lib. 2. de purgatorio cap. 4. ideo hic de re perspicuitatis agendum est. & in primis illud falsum censendum est, quod Lutherus asserit, omnes animas in existentes æternæ salutis minime esse conscias, tum quia hoc repugnat communi Theologorum opinioni, vt testatur idem Cardinalis Bellarminus vbi supra, & confirmant D. Thomas in 4. d. 21. q. 1. art. 2. Caietanus tomo 1. opusculorum tract. 23. q. 2 Soto in d. 19. q. 3. art. 2. quod ratione probari potest ex eo, quoniam de salute propria constare potest animabus ex particulari iudicio, quod statim post transeuntesque obitum fit, in quo facta discussione operum, iuxta merita, vel demerita, præmia, vel pœnæ illis determinantur, vt probant scholastici in 4. d. 47. & patet Ecclesiastici 11. ex illis verbis, in fine hominis denudatio eius, cum ergo peracto particulari iudicio, vel ad infernum, vel ad purgatorium detrudantur animæ profectò scire possunt, an amore, vel odio dignæ iudicatæ fuerint, & præsertim in inferno Blasphemetur Deus, & in purgatorio laudetur, in inferno etiam, nec est fides infusa, nec charitas, quæ tamen in purgatorio sunt, atque ex his signis optimè potent anima nosse, quo in loco posita sit. de qua certitudine fusè agit Franciscus Suarez in Comment. ad 3. p. S. Th. tomo 4. disp. 47. sect. 3. nu. 5. ibi, tertio affero. Casus non videtur posse concedi, secundum aliquos Doctores Catholicos infra citandos, Deum aliquando in aliquo particulari casu, vel propter grauitatem alicuius culpæ, vel quia quis conuersionem suam vsque ad finem vitæ distulit, prout in hoc capite innuitur, sic animam in particulari iudicio iudicare, vt illi minimè innotescat, an eam ad purgatorij, vel inferni pœnas condemnauerit, circumscripto tamen desperationis vitio, & anxietate illa, quam impius Lutherus posuerat, quo loco ipse purgatorium falsa illa doctrina de medio tollere conabatur, atque hoc esse possibile, & in aliquo particulari casu contingere posse, raro tamen crediderim, vt constat ex verbis præsentis notæ, id enim non repugnat, nec diuinæ iustitiæ, nec pœnitentiæ, quæ tamen in re tam S. materia

Extrema censura subiecit, sed quidem huius sententiæ fuisse doctores Grauissimos, vt Dionysius Carthusianus de quatuor nouissimis art. 47. qui tamen hac in re limites prætergressum esse videtur, nam inquit communiter omnes animæ in purgatorio existentes esse incertas, quodq. magis est, addit quasi desperabiliter eandem confusionem defendit, Gerson lect. 1. de vita spirituali, quos citat Card. Bellar. vbi supra, & simul huic opinioni, etiam Rossensis contra Lutherum art. 32. licet art. 38. contrarium asserat, & Michael Baius de Meritis operum c. 8. sed siquis hanc eandem tuetur Henricus Susonus doctrina, ac vitæ sanctitate conspicuus in libello, quem edidit de nouem rupibus c. 22. cui etiam adstipulatur Laurentius Surius illius libelli interpres, libet autem hoc loco eius verba referre: alij sunt, inquit, in quos tanta Deus ira desæuit, vt ad extremum vsque iudicij diem in immanissimis cogantur hæreto supplicijs, nec vnquam experiri illis liceat vitæ in tam mari, vel purgatorij pœnis finem, tales ferme sunt hodie in suis iniquitatibus obstinati, qui vitæ emendationem vsq. ad obitum procrastinant, sed hoc quoq. fundere videtur identitas ignis, qui & inferni, & Purgatorij eiusdem est speciei, vt habetur in supplem. ad 3. partem D. Thomæ q. 97. art. 6. tum quia si verum est, quod dæmones in Purgatorio vexant animas, vt aliquibus Doctoribus placuit, a nobis in sequenti notabuntur capitulo, tunc satis probabiliter hinc quis posset inferre, aliquam animam Deo permittente ob aliquod graue delictum dubitare posse, an ad inferni, an vero ad Purgatorij pœnas condemnata sit eum eodem igne, & isdemque ministris dæmonibus se vexari, & cruciari sentiat, sed quoniam iudicium Dei humana non potest scire fragilitas, nec de pœnarum magnitudine, ac mensura fere sententiam, ideo præsens dubitatio cum Origene finienda est, qui hom. 8. in Numeros, de suppliciorum pœnarum ve magnitudine, ac multitudine alterius vitæ verba faciens, sic hoc nullus, inquit, ad integrum nouit, nisi cui pater omne iudicium tradidit, quæ dicit vide infrà lib. 6. cap. 39. nota 1.

Attamen Deus dedit ei viam gratiam post mortem, quod scilicet non deueniret ad tactum Dæmonum, quia propter solum honorem Dei pepercit, & dimisit grauia delicta capitalibus inimicis suis, & fecit amicitiam cum capitali inimico suo.

Ex verbis præsentis notæ videtur colligi posse, animas in purgatorio existentes a dæmonibus torqueri; dum enim legimus Deum peculiari beneficio concessisse huic animæ, de qua in superiori capite, & in præsenti agitur, ne ad locum dæmonum perueniret, profectò deducitur, dæmones in Purgatorio vexare animas; iam enim hæc ad Purgatorium aduenerat, vt in principio huius capitis Angelus B. Brigittæ refert: illa, inquit, anima, cuius dispositionem vidisti, & iudicium audisti, ipsa est in grauissima pœna Purgatorij, sed hæc sententia probari potest ex Beda lib. tertio histor.

Iſtius cap. 19. vbi ex quadam Reuelatione B. Furſei colligit à dæmonibus animas in purgatorio exiſtimari torqueri, quod etiam Dionyſius Carthuſianus fatetur, in libro de quatuor nouiſſimis, idem probari poteſt ex lib. 1. vitæ D. Bernar. c. 10. vbi legitur, Religioſum quendam poſt mortem S. Bernardo apparuiſſe, qui quattuor ſe traditi eſſe cõquerebatur à quibus dilacerabatur, qui poſtea eiuſdẽ Sancti precibus liberatus eſt ab his, quod etiam probabili ratione poteſt confirmari, quia dæmones ſunt miniſtri diuinæ iuſtitiæ in vindicandis peccatis poſt hanc vitam, ergo etiam cenſendum eſt illis commiſſum eſſe, vt miniſtris, eorum ſupplicium, tam in inferno, quam purgatorio, ſed hanc dubitationem Cardin. Bellarminus lib. 2. de purgatorio cap. 13. inſolutam relinquit, eamq. inter ſecreta diuina reponit, quæ poſtea inquit, nobis ſuo tempore palam fient, refert autem D. Thomam contrarium ſentientem in 4. d. 20. art. 5. plures etiã Scholaſtici in 4. d. 20. & 21. negant animas in purgatorio à dæmonibus cruciari ea ratione adducti, quia cum omnes animæ, quæ in purgatorio ſunt in vltimo conflictu de dæmone victoriam reportarint, non videtur conueniens, vt diuina iuſtitia permittat, eas ab hoſte, iam deuicto vexari, ſic Richardus, Bonauentura, Palud. & Soto, ſed hac de re, vide infra lib. 6. Reuel. cap. 10. nota 2. & eodem lib. cap. 21. nota 2.

VERBA ANGELI AD SPONſam de iudicio diuinæ iuſtitiæ contra animam ſupra dictam, & de ſatisfactione fienda in hac vita pro ipſa exiſtente in purgatorio.

CAP. IX.

ITEM loquitur Angelus. Tu prius audiſti, quod propter preces amicorum Dei, obtinuit ille diuinam contritionem ex charitate pro peccatis, modicũ ante mortem, quę contritio ſeparauit eum ab inferno. 1 Ideo poſt mortem iudicauit iuſtitia Dei, quod deberet per ſex ætates ardere in purgatorio, quas habuit ab illa hora, qua primo ſcienter mortale peccatum fecit, vſquedum ex diuina charitate pœnituit fructuoſe. Niſi de mundo & amicis Dei auxiliũ obtineret. Prima itaque ætas fuit, quod non dilexit Deum, propter nobilis corporis eius mortem, & propter tribulationes eius multiformes, quas & ipſe Chriſtus tolerauit, nõ propter aliam cauſam, niſi propter ſalutem animarum. Secunda ætas fuit, quod non dilexit animam propriam, ſicut Chriſtianus deberet, nec regratiabatur deo pro baptiſmo ſuo, & ex eo quod non erat Iudæus, vel paganus. Tertia ætas fuit, quod bene ſciuit, quæ deus præcepit facere, & ad hęc perficienda modicam habuit voluntatem. Quarta ætas fuit, quod bene ſciuit, quæ deus prohibuit his, qui ad cælum vellent ire, & audacter fecit contra illa, ſequens non conſcientiæ ſtimulos, ſed ſuum carnalem affectum, & voluntatem. Quinta ætas fuit, quod non vſus eſt gratia, & confeſſione, ſicut ad illum pertinebat, cum habuit tam longum tempus. Sexta ætas fuit, quod modicum curabat de corpore Chriſti, nolens illud frequenter recipere, quia a peccato continere noluit, nec charitatem habuit recipere corpus Chriſti, antequã in fine vitæ. Poſt iſta apparuit quidam quaſi homo modeſtus valde in viſu, cuius veſtes erant albæ, & fulgidæ quaſi alba ſacerdotalis, cinctus zona linea, & ſtola rubea ad collum, & ſubtus brachia eius, qui inchoabat verba ſua iſto modo. Tu quæ hæc vides attende, & nota, & memoriæ tuę cõmenda, quæ vides, & quæ dicũtur tibi. Vos quippe qui eſtis in mundo viuẽtes, non valetis eo modo intelligere potentiam Dei, & eius ante tempora conſtitutionẽ, ſicut nos, qui cum eo ſumus. Quia illa quę apud deũ fiunt in vnico puncto, hæc apud vos comprehendi non poſſunt, niſi cũ verbis, & ſimilitudinibus iuxta mundi diſpoſitionem. Ego itaque ſum de illis, quem iſte homo iudicatus ad purgatoriũ honorauit cum donis ſuis in vita ſua. Ideo dedit mihi deus ex gratia ſua, quod ſi aliquis vellet facere, quæ moneo, tunc anima iſtius transferri poſſet in ſublimiorem locũ vbi obtineat ſuam veram formam, & nullam aliam pœnã ſentiat niſi ſicut ille pateretur, qui magnum morbũ habuiſſet, & omnes dolores abeſſent. iaceretq. quaſi homo ſine viribus. Attamen ex hoc gauderet, quod pro certiſſimo ſciret ſe ad vitam peruenturum. Propterea ſicut tu audiſti, quod anima iſtius clamauit quinquies væ, ideo quinque dico conſolatoria ſibi. Primũ væ fuit, quod deum modicum dilexit. Ideo vt ab iſto liberetur, dentur pro anima eius triginta calices, in quibus ſanguis dei offeratur, & ipſe deus magis honoretur. 2 Secundum væ fuit, quod non timuit Deum, ideo pro iſto abſoluendo, eligantur xxx. ſacerdotes deuoti iudicio hominum, quorum quilibet dicat xxx. Miſſas, quando poſſunt, ix. de Martyribus, ix. de Confeſſoribus, ix. de omnibus Sanctis, xxviij. de Angelis, xxix. de ſancta Maria, trigeſimam, de ſancta Trinitate. Et omnes intente orent pro anima iſtius, vt ira Dei mitigetur, & iuſtitia eius ad miſericordiam flectatur. Tertiũ væ fuit pro ſuperbia eius, & cupiditate. Ideo pro iſto abolendo recipiantur, xxxi pauperes, quorum pedes lauentur cum humi litate,

ſitate, & dentur eis cibaria, & pecunia, veſteſq. quibus conſolentur, quorum quilibet, tam qui lauat, quã qui lauantur rogent Deũ humiliter, vt propter humilitatem ſuam, & amarã paſſionẽ ſuam, dimittat animæ iſtius cupiditatem, & ſuperbiam, quam commiſit. Quartũ vę fuit luxuria carnis ſuæ, ideo quicumq. daret vnam Virginem in monaſterijs, & vnam viduam ſimiliter, vnamq. puellũ in coniugium verum, dando cum eis tantum de bonis, vnde ſufficienter ad victum, & veſtitũ ſubſiſtant, tunc peccatum animæ iſtius, quod in carne cõmiſerat dimittet Deus, quia hæ ſunt tres vitæ, quas Deus in mundo ſtare iuſſit, & elegit. Quintum vę fuit, quod inulta peccata cõmiſit in tribulationem plurimorum, ſcilicet, quod totas vires adhibuit, quatenus illi duo prius nominati conuenirẽt in coniugium, qui non minus quadam conſanguinitate coniuncti erant, quam ſi fuiſſent ambo de proxima parentela, & hanc coniunctionem procurauit plus propter ſeipſum, quam propter regnum, & ſine requiſitione Papæ, contra laudabilem ſanctæ Eccleſiæ diſpoſitionem. Pro iſto itaque facto multi ſancti fuerunt martyres, ne contra Deum, & ſanctam Eccleſiam, ſeu Chriſtianos mores talia tolerarent, ſi quis tale peccatum abolere vellens iret ad Papam dicens. Quidã homo tale peccatum cõmiſit, non exprimendo perſonam, attamen in fine pœnituit, & obtinuit abſolutionem, non emendato peccato. Impone ergo mihi pœnitentiam qualemcunque vultis, vt tolerare poſſim, quia ego paratus 3 ſum pro eo peccatum illud emendare. Vere ſi non eſſet iſti impoſita maior pœnitentia, niſi vnum Pater noſter, valeret illi animæ ad diminutionem pœnæ in purgatorio.

NOTAE.

1 IDeo poſt mortem iudicauit Iuſtitia Dei, quod deberet per ſex ætates ardere in Purgatorio.

Angelus B. Brigittam in præſenti nota certiorem facit de iudicio eius animæ, de qua ſupra cap. 7. & 8. actum erat, & dicit, quod per ſex ætates illa ad Purgatorium condemnata erat, quod eſſe intelligendum arbitror, vſque ad finem ſæculi, quod ſexta ætate finiendum eſſe, quam plures tradiderunt, atque vſque ad diem iudicij plures animas in Purgatorio eſſe torquendas colligi poteſt ex ven. Vere Vere si non esset illi imposita pœnitentia maior nisi vnum Pater noster, valeret illi animæ ad diminutionem pœnæ in purgatorio.

Omnino credendum est pœnitentias à confessarijs nobis impositas conferre ad diminutionem pœnæ in Purgatorio luendæ, vt legimus hic, ex quo infero satius esse in via satisfacere, vbi nobiscũ mitius agitur, & per misericordiam Dei graviora peccata leuius puniuntur, quam velle scelerum pœnas in Purgatorio vehementissimo igne persoluere, vnde egregiè ait Maior. in 4 sent. d. 20. col. 3. non esse veri amici imponere parum pœnitentiæ, neque prudentiæ, eius paruitate lætari, & ideirco sacrum Conc. Trid. Sess. 14. cap 7. declarauit conuenientes pœnitentias esse à Confessarijs imponendas, & non leues pro grauibus inijungendas: hinc arbitror confessarium peccare, imponentem pœnitentiam pro suo arbitratu sine alia circumspectione, nulla peccatorũ grauitate, ac circumstantia perpensa, quod etiam tradidit Abulensis in caput 18. Matth. q. 49. circa finem.

VERBA QVAERIMONIAE Christi de Romanis ad sponsam, & de crudeli sententia contra eos à Christo illata, si in peccatis suis moriantur.

CAP. X.

ILIVS Dei loquitur hæc verba dicens, O Roma, tu mihi pro multis beneficijs malam retributionem rependis. Ego sum Deus, qui omnia creaui, meamq; maximam charitatẽ per corporis mei duriss mam mortem manifestaui, qua n propria voluntate pro animarum iure sustinui. Tres itaque viæ sunt, quibus te audire volui, & vere in omnibus eis tu mihi prodere voluisti. In prima enim via lapidem magnum suspendisti super caput meum, vt me conterereris. In secunda via acutam lanceam posuisti, quæ non sineret me ad te procedere. In tertia via mihi foueam fodisti, vt in eam incaute cadens suffocarer. Sed ista, quæ iam dico, non corporaliter, sed spiritualiter debent intelligi. Ego quidem ad habitatores Romæ, qui taliter faciunt loquor, sed non ad amicos meos, qui eorum opera non sectantur. Prima itaque via, qua venire solitus sum ad cor hominis est vetus timor Dei, super quem homo ingentem suspendit lapidẽ hoc est, magnam cordis duri præsumptionem, non timens iudicem, cui nemo resistere potest, sed ita in corde suo dicens si venerit ad me timor Dei, conteret eum præsumptio cordis mei. Secunda via, qua venio est diuini consilij infusio, quæ etiam multoties aduenit prædicationibus, & doctrinis. Tunc nempe in hac via homo lanceam ponit contra me, dum delectabiliter peccat contra præcepta mea, proponens firmiter in malis suis perseuerare, donec non poterit ea amplius visitare. Hæc certissime est illa lancea, quæ non sinit ad eum venire gratiam Dei. Tertia autẽ via est illuminatio Spiritus sancti, in cuiuslibet hominis corde, per quam homo intelligere potest, & pensare, quæ, & quanta pro eo feceram, & qualia pro ipso passus fueram in meipso. In hac siquidem via profundam mihi fodit foueam, sic dicens in corde suo: Quicquid mihi libet hoc mihi sua charitate charius est, sufficit enim mihi de his, quæ in hac vita delectant me cogitare, & sic diuina charitas vna cum operibus meis quasi in profunda fouea ab eo suffocantur. Vere habitatores Romæ hæc omnia mihi faciunt, & certissime verbis, & operibus hæc ostendunt. Verba & opera mea pro nihilo reputantes, mihique & Matri meæ, & Sanctis meis in ioco, & serio in lætitia, & ira maledicentes, & conuitijs pro gratiarum actionibus offerentes, Illi quidem non viuunt iuxta consuetudinem Christianorum, sicut sancta Ecclesia præcipit, quia maiorem charitatem non habent ad me, quam dæmones, qui magis miserias suas sustinere volunt æternaliter, suamque malitiam retinere, quam me videre, mihique in perenni gloria adhærere. Sic vtique sunt illi, qui corpus meum nolunt accipere, quod in altari de pane, sicut ego ipse constitui consecratur, cuius perceptio iuuat maxime contra diabolicam tentationem. O quam miseri sunt, qui tale iuuamen dum sani sunt, magis quam venenum respuunt, & abhorrent, quia nolunt se a peccatis retrenare. Nunc igitur per vnam viam eis incognitam veniam cum potentia deitatis meæ, vindictã meæ humanitatis contemptoribus inferendo. Et sicut ipsi mihi tria obstacula in vijs suis, ne ad ipsos ingrediar parauerũt, ita & ego alia tria ipsis parabo, quorũ amaritudinem viui, & mortui sentient, & gustabunt. Lapis itaq; meus mors est subitanea, & improuisa, quæ sic eos conteret, quod omnia quæ habent ad iucunditatem suam, hic remanebunt, & sola anima ad iudicium meum venire compelletur. Lancea vero mea est iustitia mea, quæ ita eos a me remouebit, quod nunquam gustabunt bonitatem meam, qui eos tedet, & nunquam videbunt pulchritudinem meam, qui eos creaui. Fouea autem pœna est inferni tenebrosa obscuritas, in quã ipsi cadent, viuendo ibi in miseria sempiterna. O omnes Angeli mei in cælo, & cões sancti condemnabunt eos, omnesq. dæmones, omnesque animæ in inferno maledicent eis. sed illos noto, & de illis hæc dico, qui ita dispositi sunt, sicut est dictum superius, sive fuerunt religiosi, sive seculares clerici, sive laici, sive mulieres, sive ipsorum filij, & filiæ, qui ad tantam deuenerunt ætatem, quod intelligunt Deum omnia peccata vetuisse, & nihilominus tamen peccatis se implicant voluntarie amore Dei exclusо, ejusq. timore parui pensо. Verumtamen talis est mihi adhuc voluntas, qualis fuit mihi pendenti in cruce. Ideò enim sum modo, qui tunc tui, quando latroni misericordiam petenti peccata omnia dimisi, & cæli portas aperui. Alteri quoque latroni me contemnenti infernum claustra patefeci. Vbi pro peccatis suis æternaliter cruciatur.

VERBA SANCTAE AGNETIS ad Virginem gloriosam ipsum laudantia, & benedicentia, & quatenus rogat Virginem pro filia, & de respone Domini, & Virginis dulci, & consolatoria ad ipsam, & qualiter ille mundus per ollam ignitam.

CAP. XI.

AGNES loquitur. 1 O Maria Mater, & Virgo virginum, merito vocari poteris aurora, quam sol verus Iesus Christus illuminauit. Sed nunquid voco te auroram propter regalem progeniem, aut propter diuitias, & honores? Nequaquam. Sed merito dicenda es aurora propter humilitatem, propter fidei illuminationem, propter singulare votum castitatis. Tu enim es veri solis nuncia, & productiua. Tu iustorum lætitia. 2 Tu dæmonum expulsio, tu consolatio peccatorum. Ergo rogo te propter nuptias istas quas Deus fecit tecum hora ista, vt filia tua stare possit in honore, & amore filij tui. Respondit Mater Dei. Quomodo intelligis nuptias istas eligito propter istam, quæ hæc audit? Respondit Agnes. Tu vere vtriusque Mater, & Virgo, & vxor es. Nam pulcherrimæ factæ sunt in te nuptiæ hora ista, cum Deus homini in te coniunctus est, absque confusione, & diminutione deitatis. Virginitas quoque & maternitas sociatæ sunt, illæso Virginitatis pudore, fitque Mater, & filia facta es tui Creatoris. Illum quippe hodie genuisti temporaliter, qui à Patre æternaliter genitus, omnia cum Patre operatus est. Nam Spiritus sanctus in te fuit, & extra te, & circumquaque tecum, 3 qui fecundauit te consentientem nuncio Dei. 4 Ipseque filius Dei, qui ho-die nam est de te etiam fuit in te antequam nuncius tuus perueniret ad te, ideo fac mihi cor diam cum filia tua. Ipsa enim similis est illi paupercule mulieri, quæ habitans in cõualle, nihil habebat nisi modicum viuidum, vtpote gallinam, vel anserem, quæ ad Dominum, qui in monte vallis habitabat tantum altera est, quod quicquid habebat viuidum Domino in monte ex charitate offerebat. Cui Dominus respondit. Superabundabo in omnibus, nec tua mihi sunt necessaria, sed forte, ideo parua tribuis, vt tibi maiora tribuamus. Cui illa. Non inquit, hæc ideo offero, quia tibi necessaria sunt, sed quia me tam etiam pauperculam cohabitari fecisti monte tuo, & in mensa tua honorasti, ideo exhibitum, quod mihi tamen est consolatorium offero tibi, vt probes, quod facerem maiora, si valerem, & ne gratuitus sim in gratia. Respondit Dominus, quia me tanta charitate diligis, ego eleuabo te ad montem meum, & dabo tibi, & tuis, vestes, & victum annualem. Sic nunc est filia tua disposita. Ipsa enim illud solum, quod habebat viuidum, idest, amore mundi, & illorum reliquit tibi. Ideo cura pecoris est prouidere ei. Respondit Mater ad filiam, dicens. Filia stabilis. Ego rogabo filium meum, qui dabit tibi victum annualem. & collocabit te in monte, vbi millia millium Angelorum seruiunt ei. Nam si computarentur omnes homines, qui nati sunt ab Adam vsque ad nouissimum, qui nasciturus est in fine mundi, pauciores essent Angeli inuenti, qui pro vnoquoque homine. Mundus quippe non est nisi quædam olla. Ignis vero subtus ollam, & cinis, sunt amici mundi. Sed amici Dei sunt quasi cibus optimus in olla. Ergo quando parata fuerit mensa, tunc cibus dilectis præsentabitur Domino, & delectabitur in eo, olla vero frangetur, sed tamen ignis non exinguetur.

NOTAE.

1 O Maria Mater, & Virgo virginum, tu merito vocari poteris aurora, quam sol verus Iesus Christus illuminauit.

In præcitata hora B. Agnes de laudibus Mariæ agens eam comparat auroræ, & Cant. 6. ipsamet ob id vera conjurgens appellatur, quare ibi auroræ similis sit annotauimus. Supra lib. 1. cap. 50. nota 1, & insinuauimus etiam hoc eodem cap. aliquanto post cum de ea scribitur, tu enim es veri solis nuncia, & productiua, ide habetur in Reu. extrauag. 50. & ser. Ang. c. 11.

2 Tu dæmonum expulsio.

Inter cæteras laudes, ac priuilegia, quibus B. Agnes præditam esse Mariam asserit, illud esse potissimum hoc loco asserit, quod dominium super dæmones potita sit, vt illorum vteri non debeat, si dæmones ab ea vincetur expulsio, & ab ipsomet Angelo fugabitur diabolus, vt legimus in ferm. Angel. cap. 19. idipsũ quoque fuse traditur lib. 1. Revel. cap 9. & lib. 4. cap. 108. & in ferm. Angel. cap. 20 Hinc nobis colligendum est quantum commodi nobis possit afferre, si eam in tentationibus, & angustijs nostris, & maxime contra dæmonum incursus invocaverimus. Nam enim inquit D. Bernardus sic timent hostes visibiles, quamlibet castrorum multitudinem, sicut dicit sorex potestates Mariæ vocabulum, patrocinium, & exemplum, sicut enim pulvis ante faciem venti spargitur, & sicut cera ante faciem ignis liquescit, sic a timentibus hujus nominis Mariæ, fugiunt, & pereunt, & iterum, ubi nomen Mariæ nominatur, ubi dæmonium effugatur, reis venia, mode legris, pusillis corde robur, afflictis consolatio, peregrinantibus adjutorium datur.

ab ea

3 Qui fecundasti te consentientem nuncio Dei.

Hoc est cum primum Angelo Gabrieli incarnationem filij tui annunciasti consensum præmisisti, filium Spiritus sancti virtute verbum concepisti, & inde fœcunda facta es.

4 Ipse filius Dei, qui hodie natus est de te, etiam fuit in te, antequam nuncius suus perueniret ad te.

Hoc loco insinuatur Beatiss. Virginem etiam de se Christi Domini incarnationem fuisse Deo gratissimam, & sum filium in se habuisse, quod intelligendum est per gratiam; nam vt legitur lib. 3. Revel. cap. 8. & lib. 4. c. 109. ipsa ab æterno fuit in charitate Dei, & Deo dilecta, & ab infantia plena Spiritu sancto. Vnde Cant. 4. de ea scribitur. Tota pulchra es amica mea, & macula non est in te; eadem ergo Maria, quæ filium suum ante incarnationem per gratiam in se habuit, eadem post Angelicam annunciationem secundum humanæ naturæ, & carnis veritatem in Ventre Virgineo portauit.

VERBA VIRGINIS MATRIS ad filiam de reuolutione amicorum Dei in hoc mundo, nunc in tribulationibus spiritualibus, nunc in consolationibus, & quid sit tribulatio spiritualis, & consolatio, & qualiter amici Dei debent gaudere, & consolari temporaliter.

CAP. XII.

MATER loquitur. Amici Dei dicuntur in mũdo, nunc in tribulatione spirituali, nunc in cõsolatione spirituali. Consolatio vero spiritualis est infusio spiritus sancti, consideratio magnalium operum Dei. Admiratio patientiæ eius. Et quando hæc omnia delectabiliter opere adimplentur. Tribulatio vero spiritualis est illa, quando contra voluntatem cogitationes immundæ, & importunæ conturbant mentem, quando mens angustiatur de inhonoratione Dei, & de dispendio animarum, quando animus ex rationabili causa cogitur temporalibus sollicitudinibus implicari. Sic etiam amici Dei, quandoque possunt consolari consolatione temporali, sicut de verbis ædificatorijs, de ludo honesto, seu de alijs operibus, in quibus nihil detractorium fit, aut inhonestum. sicut per exemplum intelligere poteris. Si enim pugnus semper teneretur clausus, aut contraherentur nerui, aut manus debilitaretur. Sic est etiam in spiritualibus. Si enim animus staret semper in contemplatione, aut oblivi scens seipsum, euanesceret superbia, aut mi noueretur corona gloriæ suæ. Ideo amici Dei quandoque consolantur Spiritus sancti infusione, quandoque tribulantur Dei permissione, quia per tribulationes exturpantur radices peccatorum, & fructus nostritiæ radicãtur. Veruntamen, Deus qui videt corda, & intelligit, omnia moderatur, tentationes amicorum suorum vt sint eis ad profectum, quia omnia facit, & permittit iuste in pondere, & mensura. Ergo quia tu vocata es in spiritum Dei, noli sollicitari de longanimitate Dei, quia scriptum est, quod nemo venit ad Deum, nisi pater traxerit eum. Sicut enim pastor cum talciculo florum alterabit, & allicit oues in domum, licet oues discurrant per ambitum, non tamen habebunt egressum, quia domus munita est parietibus, tectum altum, ianuę quoque clausæ. Propter quod oues allectæ sunt comedere fœnum in tantum quod factæ mansuetæ, etiam comedunt fœnum de manu pastoris. Sic etiã est factum tecum. Illa enim quæ tibi antea videbantur importabilia, & difficilia, iam facta sunt levia, in tantum quod te nihil iam delectat sicut Deus.

VERBA CHRISTI AD sponsam, quæ lacrymæ Deo sunt acceptę, & quæ non, & de quibus fienda, seu eroganda est eleemosyna pauperibus pro animabus defunctorum, & de consilio, & regimine Christi ad sponsam.

CAP. XIII.

ILIVS loquitur. Miraris cur illum non audio, quem vides multas habere lacrymas, & plurima largiri pauperibus pro honore meo. Respondeo tibi ad primum. Vbi duo fontes decurrunt frequenter contingit, quod in vnum conuenientes, alterius aqua, quę turbida est, & lutosa, maculat, & deturpat aquam fontis purissimi, quam factam lutosam quis poterit bibere? Sic est etiam de lacrymis multorum. Quorundam enim lacrymæ quandoque procedunt ex humiliatione inclinationis naturæ, quandoque ex mundi tribulatione, & timore inferni. Talium enim lacrymæ lutosæ sunt, & fętidæ, quia non procedunt ex charitate Dei. Sed illæ lacrymæ sunt mihi dulces, quæ procedunt ex consideratione beneficiorum Dei, & consideratione suorum peccatorum, & amore ad Deum. Tales lacrymæ eleuant animam a terrenis in cęlum, & regenerant hominem ad vitam æternam. Nam duplex est generatio, carnalis, & spiritualis. Carnalis generatio generat hominem de immunditia ad immunditiam. Plorat damna carnis, sustinet gaudenter labores mundi. Talium filius non est filius lacrymarum, quia per tales lacrymas non acquiritur vita æterna. Sed illa generat filium lacrymarum, quæ plorat dispendia animæ, quæ sollicita est ne filius offendat Deum. Talis mater propinquior filio est, quam quæ generat carnaliter, quia per talem generationem acquiritur beata vita. Ad secundum. scilicet, quod tribuit eleemosynas pauperibus, respondeo tibi. Si emeres tunicam filio tuo ex pecunia serui tui, nunquid de iure non esset tunica eius, qui possidebat pecuniam? esset vtique. Sic est etiam spiritualiter. Nam quicunque grauat subditos suos, aut proximos, vt ex eorum pecunia succurrat animabus charorum suorum, plus me ad iram prouocat, quam mitigat, quia ablata iniuste proderunt his, qui bona iuste antea possidebant, & non pro quibus dantur. Veruntamen quia iste benefecit tibi benefaciendum est ei, & spiritualiter, & corporaliter; spiritualiter fundendo ad Deum preces pro eo, quia nullus credit quantum Deo plăcent prćces humilium, sicut per exemplum ostendam tibi. Si quis offerret Regi pondus magnum argenti, diceretur a circumstantibus, hæc est magna præsentatio. Si vero legeret vnum Pater noster Regi, derideretur. Sic est e contra apud Deum. Quicumque enim offert pro anima alterius vnum Pater noster acceptius est Deo pondere magno auri. 1 Sicut patuit in illo bono Gregorio, qui oratione sua etiam infidelę Cæsarem eleuauit ad altiorem gradum. Secundo dicito ei hęc verba, quia bene fęcisti mihi, rogo Deum omnium remuneratorem, vt reddat tibi secundum gratiam suam. Item dic ei sic, charissimę vnum consulo tibi, & vnum rogo. Consulo vt aperias oculos cordis tui, considerando instabilitatem, & vanitatem mundi. Recogitando quantum refriguerat charitas Dei in corde tuo. Et quam grauis est pœna, & horrendum iudicium futurum, & attrahe charitatem Dei in cor tuum, disponendo omnia tempora tua, bona temporalia, opera, affectus, & cogitationes ad honorem Dei, filios quoque tuos trade ordinationi, & dispositioni Dei, nihil propter eos de amore Dei minuendo. Secundo rogo, vt in orationibus tuis impetres, quatenus Deus, qui omnia potest, donet tibi patientiam, & impleat cor tuum sua benedicta charitate.

NOTAE.

1 SIcut patuit in illo bono Gregorio, qui oratione sua etiam infidelem Cæsarem eleuauit ad altiorem gradum.

VERBA CONFORTATIVA

Christi ad sponsam in timore positam, quod non debeat timere, de his quæ vidit, & audit, quia Spiritus sancti sunt, & quomodo diabolus per serpentem, & leonem, consolatio sancti Spiritus per linguam designantur, & qualiter sit opponendum diabolo.

CAP. XIV.

ILIVS loquitur. Cur times, & sollicitaris ex eo, quod diabolus immittit aliqua in verba Spiritus sancti. Nunquid aliquando audisti eum seruare linguam suam sanam, qui eam misit inter dẽtes leonis commoti? Aut nunquid aliquis quandoque suxit mel dulcissimum de cauda serpentis? nequaquam. Sed quis est leo, vel serpens. nisi diabolus. Leo propter malitiam, serpens propter astutiam. Quid vero lingua nisi consolatio Spiritus sancti. Quid namque est linguam ponere inter dentes leonis, nisi verba Spiritus sancti, qui in specie linguæ apparuit, propter fauorem, & laudem humanam dicere? Ergo quicunque laudes Dei ad placendum hominibus loquitur, hic vtique mordetur, & decipitur a diabolo, quia verba illa quãuis sint Dei, non procedunt de ore charitatis Dei, & lingua, scilicet Spiritus sancti cõsolatio auferetur ab eo. Qui vero nihil desiderat nisi Deum, omniaq; mundialia sunt ei molesta, nec corpus affectat videre, nec audire, nisi quæ Dei sunt. Animaq; eius in infusione Spiritus sancti lætatur, hic talis decipi non potest, quia spiritus malus cedit spiritui bono, nec audet ei appropinquare. Quid vero significat mel de cauda serpẽtis fugere, nisi consolationem Spiritus sancti de suggestionibus diaboli sperare, quod ne quaquã fieri potest, quia diabolus se magis millies occidi permitteret, quam vnicum. Verbum consolatorium daret animæ, cuius exitus tenderet ad finem vitæ. Ergo noli timere. Deus enim qui iocepit bonũ tecum perficiet ad finẽ booũ. Veruntamen scito, quod diabolus est quasi canis venaticus dimissus de copula, quãdo, videt te non esse in infusione Spiritus sancti, currens ad tecum tentationibus, & suggestionibus suis. Sed si opposueris ei aliquod durum, quod dentes sui, vel doleant, vel obstupescant, statim recedet a te, nec nocebit tibi. Quid vero est durũ opponendo diabolo, nisi charitas diuina, & obedientia mandatorũ Dei, quę cũ viderit diabolus perfecte in te, statim dentes eius, idest conatus eius, & voluntas frustrabitur, quia considerat te oĩa contraria magis velle pati, quam mandatis Dei contraire.

VERBA CHRISTI AD SPONsam, cur boni in hac vita tribulantur, & mali prosperantur, & quomodo Deus probat per exemplum, quod quandoq; promittit temporalia, in quibus subintelliguntur spiritualia, & qualiter Deus non prædixit singula ad certas horas, cum omnes horæ, & momenta ei sint nota.

CAP. XV.

ILIVS Dei loquitur. Miraris cur amicum Dei honorandum audisti tribulari, inimicũ vero Dei honoratum, quem credebas flagellandum, sicut dictum fuit tibi in alia diuina visione. Respondeo tibi, verba mea, & spiritualiter, & corporaliter intelligi debent. Quid enim est tribulatio mundi, nisi præparatio quędam, & eleuatio ad coronã. Quid vero prosperitas mundi homini abutenti gratia, nisi descensus quidã ad perditionem? Ergo tribulari in mũdo, vera exaltatio est ad vitam, prosperari vero in mundo homini iniusto, verus descẽsus ad infernum. Ideo ad instruendum patientiam tuam in verbis Dei, dico tibi vnum exemplum. Quasi Mater vna esset habens duos filios, quorum vnus natus fuit obscuro carcere, nihil sciẽs, nec audiens, nisi tenebras, & lac Matris. Alius vero natus fuit in tugurio paruo, habens cibum humanum, requiem in lecto, seruitium ab ancilla. Ei vero, qui in carcere natus fuit dixit Mater. O fili si volueris egredi a tenebris, habebis cibum delicatiorem, lectum molliorem, & tutiorem locum. Quod puer audiens egressus est, quia si Mater promisisset sublimiora, scilicet, vel currentes equos, vel domos eburneas, meas, ait latam familiam, non credidiſſet, quia nihil nouerat niſi tenebras, & lac maternum. Sic & Deus quandoque parua promittit, in quibus altiora intelligit, vt homo per temporalia addiſcat cæleſtia cogitare. Alteri vero filio dixit Mater. O fili quid tibi vtilitatis eſt morari in iſto vili tugurio? Audi igitur conſilium meum, & proderit tibi. Ego ſcio duas ciuitates. In prima eſt habitantibus gaudium interminabile, & indicibile, honorque ſine fine. In ſecunda eſt exercitium pugilum, vbi omnes, qui pugnant ſunt reges, omneſque qui vincuntur vincũt. Quod puer audiens, & egrediens ad ſtadiũ, regreſſus dixit Matri. Vidi inquit mirabilẽ ludum in ſtadio alij proſternebantur, & conculcabantur. Alij denudabantur, & mortificabantur, attamen omnes tacebant, omnes ludebant, nullusque contra proſternentes ſe leuauit caput, ſiue manum. Reſpondit Mater. Ciuitas iſta quam vidiſti non eſt niſi ſuburbiũ ciuitatis gloriæ. In iſto enim ſuburbio experiri vult Dominus illos, qui fuerint apti intrare ciuitatem gloriæ. Et quos viderit vigilantiores ad certamina, hos in gloria ſublimius coronabit. Et propterea in ipſo ſuburbio reſident hi, qui probaturi ſũt illos, qui in gloria ſunt coronandi. Quod vero vidiſti proſtratos denudari, verberari, & tacere, hoc ideo eſt, quia veſtes noſtra maculatæ ſunt, ex tenebris tugurij noſtri, quę vt ſubtilius mundentur opus eſt magno certamine, & labore. Reſpondit puer, grauc eſt conculcari, & tacere, melius enim iudico redire ad tugurium meum. Cui Mater. Si inquit manſeris in tugurio noſtro, orientur ex tenebris noſtris, & fœtoribus noſtris vermes & ſerpentes, quorum auditu horreſcit auditus tuus, quorum morſu infrigidabitur omnis virtus tua, quorum cohabitatione malles non fuiſſe natus. Quod puer audiens, & corporale bonum appetens, quod tamen Mater intellexit ſpiritualiter, factus eſt animequior, & quotidie incitabatur ad coronam. Sic facit & deus. Nam quandoque promittit, & tribuit temporalia, quandoque promittit carnalia, in quibus ſubintelligit ſpiritualia, vt & animus per accepta munera incitetur ad feruorem Dei, & per intellectũ ſpiritualem humilietur, ne de ſeipſo præſumat, ſicut fecit deus Iſraeli. Primo namque promiſit, & dedit eis temporalia, & cum eis fecit etiam mirabilia, vt per talia erudirentur ad inuiſibilia, & ſpiritualia. Deinde facta in eorum intellectu maiori deitatis cognitione cum prophetis Deus loquebatur obſcura verba, & difficilia ad intelligendum, intermiſtens quædam conſolatoria, & gaudioſa, quando ſcilicet promiſit populo reditum ad patriam, pacem perpetuam, omniaq; ruinoſa ædificanda. Quæ omnia promiſſa, licet populus carnalis intellexit, & habere ea voluit carnaliter, deus tamen quædam carnaliter, quædam vero ſpiritualiter adimplenda præſciuit, & præfiniuit. Sed potes quærere. Cur Deus, cui omnes horæ, & momenta nota ſunt, non plane, & ad rectas horas prædixit ſingula, aut cur alia dixit, & alia notauit? Reſpondeo tibi. Iſrael carnalis erat, & carnalia ſola deſiderabat, nec inuiſibilia niſi perviſibilia percipere poterat. Ideo placuit deo multis modis erudire populũ ſuũ vt creduli promiſſionum Dei coronarentur ſublimius propter fidẽ, vt proficiẽtes in bono feruerent amplius, vt deſidioſi ſuccenderentur ad Deum feruentius, vt tranſgredientes deſiſterent peccare liberius, vt tribulati tolerarent miſerias ſuas patientius, vt laborantes ſubſiſterent delectabilius, vt expectantes per obſcuram promiſſionem ſublimius coronarentur. Si enim Deus carnalibus ſola ſpiritualia promiſiſſet, omnes tepuiſſent ab amore cæleſtium. Si vero ſola carnalia promiſiſſet, quæ tunc differentia fuiſſet homini, & iumento? Sed pius, & ſapiens Deus, vt homo moderate tanquam morituros, iuſte gubernaret corpus ſuum, dedit ei corporalia, vt autem appeteret cæleſtia oſtendit beneficia, & miracula cæleſtia, vt vero timeret peccare oſtendit iudicia terribilia, & immiſſiones per Angelos malos, vt etiam illuminator promiſſionum, & dator ſapientiæ expectaretur, & deſideraretur, obſcura, & dubia cum conſolatorijs intermiſcebantur. Sic etiam adhuc hodierna die Deus per ſimilitudines corporales iudicat indicia ſpiritualia, & loquendo corporalem honorẽ intelligit ſpiritualem, vt ſoli Deo omne magiſterium tribuantur. Quid enim eſt honor mundi niſi ventus, & labor, & diminutio diuinæ conſolationis. Quid vero eſt tribulatio niſi præparatio virtutum? Ergo promittere iuſto honorem mundi, quid eſt niſi priuatio commodi ſpiritualis? Promittere vero tribulationes mundi, quid eſt niſi medicamentum, & antidotum magnæ infirmitatis? Propterea filia verba Dei multipliciter intelligi poſſunt, nec tamen ob hoc aliqua in Deo mutabilitas eſt conſideranda, ſed ſapientia eius admiranda, & formidanda. Nam ſicut in prophetis multa dixi corporaliter, quæ & corporaliter perficiebantur. Multa etiam dixi corporaliter, quæ ſpiritualiter perficiebantur, vel intelligebantur. Sic facio & nunc, & quãdo hæc contingunt cauſam eorum indicabo tibi.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD filiam quomodo diabolus astute frequenter ducit sub deuotionis pelle aliquãdo aliquos inter seruos Dei, vt ipsos perturbet, & quibus indulgentię largiuntur, & quomodo dispositio Ecclesiæ per anserem, & Deus per gallinam designantur, & qui sunt digni vocari pulli Dei.

CAP. XVI.

MATER loquitur sponsæ Christi. Cur collegistis illum, cuius lingua magnifica, vita ignota, mores mundiales? Respondit illa, quia inquit credebatur bonus, & non confunderetur, si homo linguæ nocet despiceretur. Veruntamen si Deo displicuisset præscirem, non magis eum, quam serpentem collegissem. Cui Mater. Hæc inquit voluntas tua bona, custodiuit, & refrænauit linguam eius, & cor, ne vos ad perturbationem commoueret. Diabolus quippe astutus adduxit vobis lupum in vellere ouis, vt inueniret occasionem sollicitandi vos, & in vos garriendi. Respondit illa, nobis apparet, quod sit deuotus, & pœnitens, & quod visitat sanctos, & dicit se velle abstinere a peccato. Respondit Mater. Vbicunque anser est cum pennis, dic vtrum comeditur caro an penne? Nonne penne abominabiles sunt stomacho, caro vero cibat, & confortat? Sic est spiritualiter dispositio, & constitutio sanctæ Ecclesiæ. Est enim quasi anser, in qua est corpus Christi tanquam caro recentissima. Sacramenta sunt quasi interiora anseris, alæ vero significant virtutes, & actus Martyrum, & Confessorum. Plumæ autem notant charitatem, & patientiam Sanctorum. Sed penne significant indulgentias, quas Sancti viri concesserunt, & promeruerunt. Ergo omnis qui venit ad indulgentias ea intentione, vt a peccatis prioribus absoluatur, & tamen vt remaneat in priori vitiosa consuetudine, hic quidẽ habet pẽnas anseris, de quibus nec cibatur, nec confortatur anima. Sed solummodo si fumantur, operantur ad reiectionem. Qui vero eo animo veniunt ad indulgentias, vt deinceps fugiant peccata, vt iniuste ablata restituant, vt læsis iniuste satisfaciant, vt vnum pobilium cum turpi lucro non acquirant, vt ad vnum diem viuere non vellent, nisi secundum velle Dei, vt in aduersitate, & prosperitate Deo voluntatem suam summittant, vt honores mundi, & amicitias eius fugiant, hic quidem talis habebit remissionẽ peccatorum similis est Angelo Dei in conspectu Dei. Et vero, qui gaudet de absolutione peccatorum priorum, nec tamen habet voluntatem relinquendi priores vanitates, & inordinatas mentis sua affectiones, sed iniuste acquisita vult retinere, mundum in se, & in suis diligere, de humilitate erubescere, consuetudines pravas non fugere, carnem suam a superfluis non restringere, huic quidem valent pœne, idest, indulgentiæ, ad reiectionem, idest, ad obtinendum contritionem & confessionem, quibus eiicitur peccatum, & acquiritur gratia Dei. Et olim erant quasi pedes quibusdam de manu diaboli in sinu Dei. Si tamen ad hæc obtinenda, persona litterarum voluntate bona velit cooperari. Respondit illa. O Mater misericordię ora pro illo, vt gratiam inueniat in conspectu filii tui. Cui illa, Spiritus sanctus inquit, visitationem, sed aliquid quasi petra iacet ante cor eius prohibens, ne gratia Dei ingrediatur. Deus quippe est quasi gallina calefaciens ova, de quibus fiunt viuentes pulli. Omnia itaque ova, quæ subtus gallinam sunt, recipiunt calorem eius, non aute alia circumiacentia, nec Mater frangit testam oui, in qua pullus concipitur, sed ipse pullus rostro suo tentat frangere, quod videns Mater, illi pullo calidiorem locum præparat, vbi subsistat. Sic Deus omnes cum gratia sua visitat. Eos vero qui sic cogitant, nos inquimus abstinere volumus à peccato, & in quantum possumus conari volumus ad perfectionem, hos visitat Spiritus sanctus frequentius, vt perfectius possint. Qui vero omnem voluntatem suam committunt Deo, nolentes nec minima facere contra amorẽ Dei, sed sequuntur eos quos vident tendere ad perfectiora, & sciant humilium hominum consilio, reluctantes discrete motibus carnis suæ, hos quasi gallina pullos subijcit sibi Deus, faciendo eis iugum suum leue, & consolando eos in difficultatibus suis. Qui vero propriam sequuntur voluntatem, cogitantes modica bona, quę faciunt esse digna apud Deum mercede, nec conantur ad maiorem perfectionem, sed stant in his quę mentem delectant, excusantes fragilitatem suam exemplis aliorum, & leuigantes culpas suas peruersitatibus aliorum, tales non sunt pulli Dei, quia voluntatẽ non habent frangere duritiam, & vanitatẽ cordis sui. Sed si possent vellent magis diu viuere, vt in peccato diu possent perseuerare. Non fecit sic ille bonus Zacheus, non ſic Magdalena. Sed quia in omnibus membris offenderant Deum, omnia membra dederunt ei, ad ſatisfaciendum ei pro offenſis. Sit quia ad mundi honores aſcenderunt mortaliter, deſcenderunt in eius contemptũ humiliter, quia difficile eſt Deũ & mundum ſimul diligere, niſi fuerit, ſicut animal illud, quod oculos habebat ante, & retro, & talis quantumcunque ſollicitus eſt tribulabitur tamen. Qui autem tales ſunt, ſicut huiuſmodi Zacheus, & Magdalena, tu-ſortem partem elegerunt.

Declaratio.

Hic adnotarus Origenis venit ad animam inhibilem, plus ex timore, quam amore, de quo loquitur Chriſtus in Ruta. Omnis qui timet periculum ſibi quod cauendum eſt, ne recidiuet in priora. Nam nauta etiam in portu nimium confidentes periclitantur. Ideo iſte caueat ſibi, ne veniat ad priorem ſtatum officij ſui. Alioquin niſi caueris amittes deſiderabilia. Conſurgita venient ad extraneos. Filij non recipient hæreditatem & ipſe non ſine dolore apud alienos morietur. Hic rediens factus eſt iterum exactor, & omnia ita euenerunt.

ſanctę Agnetis ad filiam, ad bene, & laudabiliter viuendum, & ad malam vitam, & Deo ingratam præcauendum. In qua fortitudo, & patientia per currum, per quatuor vero rotas deſignantur iſtę quatuor virtutes, ſcilicet, perfecte omnia relinquere propter Deum, humilitas, & Deum ſapienter diligere, carnemque diſcrete refrenare, & ponuntur quædam alia de religioſis.

CAP. XVII.

AGNES Loquitur ſponſæ Chriſti. Vidiſti inquit dominam ſuperbam in curru ſuperbiæ hodie. Cui ſponſa reſpondit: Vidi inquit, & rubeſcebã, quia caro, & fanies, puluis, & ſtercus ſe ibi laudari quærit, vbi merito debet ſe humiliare. Quid enim eſt talis oſtentatio niſi prodiga donorũ Dei conſumptio, vulgi admiratio, iuſtorum tribulatio, pauperum deſolatio, Dei prouocatio, ſui ipſius obliuio, iudicij futuri grauior dijudicatio, & diſpendium animarum? Reſpondit Agnes. Gaude filia, quia à talibus erepta es, propterea deſcribere tibi currum quendam volo, in quo te ſecure poteris reclinare. Currus itaque in quo ſedere debes eſt fortitudo, & patientia in tribulationibus. Cum enim homo carnem retrenare cœperit, & totam voluntatem ſuam Deo cõmittere, aut ſollicitat mentem ſuperbia, quę hominem eleuat a ſe, & ſupra ſe, quaſi ſimilis ſit Deo, & hominibus iuſtis; aut certe frãgit cum impatientia, & indiſcretio, vt vel redeat ad ſolita, vel deficiat in viribus, vel vt ineptus ſit in labore Dei. Propterea eſt opus patientia diſcreta, vt nec impatiens retrocedat, nec indiſcrete perſeueret, ſed viribus, & temporibus ſe conformet. Prima vero rota currus iſtius eſt voluntas perfecta relinquendi omnia propter Deum, nihilque deſiderare niſi Deum. Nam ſunt multi, qui temporalia relinquunt eo fine, vt aduerſitatibus careant, & tamen nihil eis deſit ad vtilitatem, & voluptatem, quorum rota non eſt bene ductilis, & verſatilis. Qui cum pungit paupertas deſiderant ſufficientiam, cum grauat aduerſitas, requirunt proſpera, cum tentat eos delectio murmurant de diſpoſitione diuina, & affectant honores. Cum præcipiuntur contraria quærunt proprias libertates. Ergo illa voluntas eſt Deo placita, quæ nihil de ſuo habere deſiderat, nec in proſperitate, nec in aduerſitate. Secunda rota eſt humilitas, qua homo reputat ſe ad omnia bona indignum, ponens ante oculos ſuos omni hora peccata ſua, reum ſe exiſtimando in conſpectu Dei. Tertia rota eſt diligere Deum ſapienter. Ille plane ſapienter diligit, qui ſeipſum circunſpiciendo odit vitia ſua, qui contriſtatur de peccatis proximorum, & parentum ſuorum, lætatur vero de ſpirituali eorum profectu ad Deum, qui amicum ſuum non optat viuere ad vtile, & commodum ſuum proprium, ſed vt Deo ſeruiat, timetque ei plus de mundano proceſſu, ne offendat Deum. Talis ergo eſt ſapiens dilectio, odiendo vitia, & fouendo propter fauorem, & honorem, eoſque plus diligendo, quos in amore Dei viderit feruentiores. Quarta vero rota eſt refrenatio diſcreta carnis. Quicunque enim eſt in coniugio, & cogitat ſic. Ecce inquit trahit me caro inordinate. Si vixero ſecundum carnem, ſcio pro certiſſimo, quia iraſcitur conditor carnis, qui plagare poteſt, & infirmare, qui occidet & iudicabit. Ideo ob amorem, & timorem Dei, refrenare volo benevole carnem meam, viuere modò debito, & ordinato ad honorem Dei. Quicunque taliter cogitat peccat aduersum Deum, eius nota accepta erit Deo. Si vero religiosus est, & cogitat sic. Ecce trahit me caro ad delicioſa, offert etiam ſe locus, tempus, & bona, & ætas ad delectandum, attamen adiutorio Dei nolo peccare, propter profeſſionem ſanctam, & momentaneum delectationis bonũ, magnum quippe eſt, quod voui Deo, pauper ingreſſus ſum, pauperior egrediar. Iudicium de cunctis ſum facturus, ideo ne offendam Deum meum, ne ſcandalizem proximũ meũ, ne meipſum faciam periurum, abſtinere volo. Talis abſtinentia digna eſt mercede magna. Si vero aliquis eſt in honore, & delitijs, & cogitat ſic. Ecce ego abundo in omnibus, & pauper deficit, & tamen vnus Deus eſt omnium, quid promerui ego, & quid demeruit ille? quid vero eſt caro niſi cibus vermium? Quid vero tot delicię, niſi nauſeæ, & occaſio infirmitatis, perditio temporis, & peccati inductiuum? Ideo refrenabo carnem meam, ne in ea vermes laſciuiant, ne grauius iudicium ſubeam, ne tempus pœnitentiæ inaniter expendam, & ſi forte caro male educata non poterit faciliter flecti ad groſſiora, vt pauper, ſubtraham tamen ei paulatim delicatiora aliqua ſine quibus bene poteſt ſubſiſtere, vt neceſſitatẽ habeat non ſuperfluitatem. Quicunq. ergo ſic cogitat, & faciendo conatur quantum poteſt, hic & confeſſor, & martyr vocari poteſt, quia martyrij genus eſt delitias habere, & delitijs non vti. In honore eſſe, & honorem contemnere. Magnum eſſe apud homines, & minima ſentire de ſeipſo. Itaque talis rota multum placet Deo. Ecce filia currum figuraui tibi, cuius auriga Angelus tuus eſt. Si tamen frenum eius, & iugum a collo tuo non excuſſeris, ideſt, ſi inſpirationes eius ſalubres non dimiſeris, ſenſus tuos, & cor tuum ad inania, & ſcurrilia relaxando. Nunc etiam currum, in quo domina illa ſedebat, dicere tibi volo. Currus plane impatientia eius eſt, ſcilicet contra Deum, & contra proximum, & contra ſeipſam. Contra Deum iudicando occulta iudicia eius, quia non proſperatur ad votum. Malignando contra proximũ, quia non cõſequitur bona eius. Impatiens quoq; in ſeipſam eſt, occulta cordis ſui patienter oſtendendo. Huius currus rota prima eſt ſuperbia, prætereundo ſe alijs, & alios iudicando, contemnendo humiles, & honores ambiendo. Secunda rota eſt inobedientia præceptorum Dei, quæ inducit in cor eius excuſationem infirmitatis ſuæ, leuigationem culpæ ſuæ, præſumptionem cordis malitiæq. defenſionem. Tertia rota eſt cupiditatis mundialium, quæ inducit ei prodigalitatem in expendendo, quæ habet negligentiam, & obliuionem ſui, & futurorum anxietatem cordis, tepiditatem ad amorem Dei. Quarta rota eſt ſui ipſius amor, per quẽ excludit a ſe Dei ſui reuerentiam, & timorem, finemq. ſuum, & iudicium non attendit. Huius currus auriga eſt diabolus, qui eam ad omnia, quæ ipſe miſerit in cor eius facit hilarem, & audacem. Duo vero equi qui trahunt currum, ſpes eſt longę vitæ, & voluntas peccandi vſque in finem. Frenũ vero pudor confeſſionis eſt. Qui quidem pudor ſic per ſpem longæ vitæ, & voluntatem perſeuerandi in peccato, trahit animã recto tramite, & in peccato ſic contrat, quod nec terrore, nec pudore, nec admonitione ſurgere poteſt. CAP. XVIII.

DVLCIS Maria inquit ſponſa. 1 Benedicta ſis tu æterna benedictione, quia Virgo ante partum, Virgo poſt partum, Virgo cũ ſponſo, Virgo etiam indubitata dubitante ſponſo. Propterea benedicta ſis tu, quia Mater, & Virgo, quia ſola Deo chariſſima, quia præ Angelis omnibus puriſſima, quia ſola cũm Apoſtolis fide pleniſſima, quia ſola dolore cordis amariſſima, quia præ confeſſoribus abſtinentia clariſsima, quia præ Virginibus omnibus excellentiſſima, continentia, & caſtitate. Ideo benedicant te omnia ſuperiora & inferiora, quia per te Deus Creator factus eſt homo. Per te iuſtus inuenit gratiam, peccator indulgentiam, mortuus vitam, exul redijt ad patriam ſuam. Reſpondit Virgo, 2 Scriptum eſt, quod Petro reddente teſtimonium filio meo, quod eſſet filius Dei, reſponſum eſt ei. Beatus es Simon, quia caro, & ſanguis non reuelauit tibi. Sic dico, ego nunc, hanc ſalutationem non reuelauit tibi carnalis anima tua, ſed ille, qui erat ſi-re principio, & fine fine. Propterea tu esto humilis, ego ero tibi misericors. Ioannes Baptista, vt promisit erit tibi dulcis. Petrus vero erit tibi mitis, Paulus autem fortis quasi Gigas. Tunc quoque Ioannes dicturus est tibi filia sede in genu. Petrus vero dicet, ò filia, aperi os, & cibabo te cibo dulcedinis. Paulus vero induet te, & armabit te armis charitatis. Ego vero quæ Mater sum præsentabo te filio meo. Veruntamen filia, ista potes etiam intelligere spiritualiter. 3 Nam in Ioanne, qui interpretatur gratia Dei, notatur obedientia vera, ipse quippe fuit, & est dulcis. Ioannes dulcis parentibus propter mirabilem gratiam, dulcis hominibus propter singularem prædicationem, dulcis Deo, propter vitæ sanctitatem, & obedientiam. Obediuit denique in iuuentute, obediuit in prosperis, & aduersis, obediuit, & humiliter stetit cum honorare posset, obediuit & in morte. Ergo obedientia dicit sede in genu, idest, descende ad humilia, & habebis sublimia, relinque amara, & obtinebis dulcia. Relinque propriam voluntatem, si vis esse paruula. Contemne terrena, & eris cælestis. Contemne superflua, & habebis abundantiam spiritualem. 4 In Petro vero notatur fides sanctæ Ecclesiæ. Sicut enim Petrus stabilis permansit vsque in finem, sic, & fides sanctæ Ecclesiæ sine fine stabilis permanebit. Ergo Petrus, idest, fides sancta dicit, aperi os & habebis cibum optimum, idest aperi intellectum animæ tuæ, & in sancta Ecclesia inuenies cibum dulcissimum, idest ipsum corpus Dominicum in sacramento altaris, nouam quoque legem, & veterem, explanationes doctorum, patientiam martyrum, humilitatem confessorum, Virginum castimoniam, omniumque virtutum fundamentum. Itaq. fidē sanctam quære in Ecclesia sancti Petri, quæsitamque memoriter retine, & operibus consuma. In Paulo vero notatur patientia: ipse enim fuit feruens contra impugnantes fidem sanctam gaudens in tribulationibus, longanimis in spe, patiens in infirmitatibus, compassiuus cum dolentibus, humilis in virtutibus, hospitalis in pauperes, misericors ad peccantes, magister, & doctor omnium, perseverās vsque ad finem in Dei charitate. Ergo Paulus, idest patientia, armabit te armis virtutum, quia patientia vera fundata est & roborata exemplis, & patientia Christi, & sanctorum eius accendit charitatem Dei in corde, succendit animum ad agenda fortia, reddit hominem humilem, mitem, misericordem, feruentem ad cælestia, sollicitum sui ipsius, perseverantem in inceptis. Itaq. omnem hominem, quem obedientia nutrit in genu humilitatis, fides cibat cibo dulcedinis, patientia vestit armis virtutum. Hunc ego Mater misericordiæ introduco ad filium meum, qui eum coronabit corona dulcedinis suæ. In ipso enim est fortitudo inexcogitabilis, sapientia incomparabilis, virtuositas indicibilis, charitas admirabilis; ideo & nullus rapiet eū de manu sua. Veruntamen filia, quāuis tibi loquor, per te tamen omnes intelligo, qui fidem sanctam sequuntur operibus charitatis. Sicut enim in vno homine Israel omnes Israelitæ intelligebantur, sic per te omnes veri fideles intelliguntur.

NOTAE.

1 BEnedicta sis in æterna benedictione, quia Virgo ante partum, Virgo post partum, Virgo cum sponso, Virgo etiam indubitata, dubitante sponso.

Hoc loco B Brigitta quamplurimas Mariæ laudes enumerat, atque inter cæteras potißimam esse Virginitatem tradit, ante partum, in partu, & post partum conseruatam: verba vero quæ sequuntur, nimirum Virgo etiam indubitata dubitante sponso, insinuare videntur, Ioſephum Mariæ ſponſum de eius virginitate dubitaſſe: cum enim sciret se esse sanctißimum, cumq. eam prægnantem comperisset fluctuare secum, ac de Virginis pudicitia visus est suspicari: & ideo D. Matth. cap. 1. sui Euangelij scribit, eam dimittere voluisse, an autem id facere voluerit, quod mali aliquod vere de ipsa fuerit suspicatus, vt docere videntur Theophilactus, & Euthimius in comment. in loc. cit. Matth. & Diuus Augustinus epist. 54. & serm. 16. de verbis Domini, & serm. 18. de tempore, an vero quia existimauerit, se illius esse indignum consortio, ob summā de ea quam habebat venerationem, cum illam tot tantisq. supernaturalibus dotis ornatam nouisset, vt indicant Origen. hom. 1. in diuersos, & D. Bernardus super missus est, explicauimus infra lib. 6. Reuel. cap. 59. not. 3.

2 Scriptum est, quod Petro reddente testimonium filio meo, quod esset filius Dei, responsum est ei, Beatus es Simon quia caro, & sanguis non reuelauit tibi.

Hoc Apostolorum Principis testimonium de Christo referunt Matth. cap. 16. & Lucas cap. 9. vbi ad intelligentiam verborum præsentis notæ sciēdum est, quod sicut Christus Dominus Petrum Beatum, ac felicem pronuncias, eo quod singulari beneficio Dei, filij cognitionem est assecutus, per quam tam illustre de eo reddidit testimonium, dicens, Tu es Christus filius Dei viui, quam ob causam beatus est a Christo appellatus, Beatus, inquit, es, quia hanc cognitionem ex sola patris mei cælestis reuelatione accepisti: non enim caro, & sanguis, hoc est carnales parentes tui, aut nulli penitus hominum te docuerunt, sed Pater meus cœlestis, sic hoc loco beatissima Virgo Brigittam admonet, quæ cum Mariæ virtutum in vterum quamplurima encomia attulisset, ea non ob hoc additis accepisse, sed diuinitus illi fuisse inspirata existimat; & idcò legimus hic, Sed dic ego nunc hanc salutationem non reuelauit mihi carnalis anima, sed ille qui erat sine principio, & sine fine.

3 Nam in Ioanne qui interpretatur gratia Dei, notatur obedientia.

Ioannis nomen non absolutè gratiam interpretandum esse, sed Dei gratiam censuit Beda Lucæ 1. ad ea verba, Et vocabis nomen eius Ioannem, cuius dicti rationem reddit, asserens sic fuisse appellatum, tum quod Dei gratuita bonitate parentibus datus esset; tum quod gratia Dei plenus esset, tum quod datus esset a Deo in populorum salutem, cuius etiam adiri potest, quod diuinæ gratiæ prænuncius, ac præcursor esset futurus. Verum Lyranus in locum citatum Lucæ interpretatur hoc nomen non Dei gratia, sed in quo est gratia, quia, inquit, Ioannes Christum manifestauit, per quem veritas, & gratia facta est, vt Io. 1. scribitur. sed Cornelius Iansenius in sua concordantia Euangelica par. 1. cap. 2. fuse de huius nominis ethimologia disserit, putatq. Ioannem significare Dominus misertus est, quod optime conueniat cum illis verbis Euangelij ab Angelo Zachariæ dictis, Exaudita est oratio tua, & addit etiam cum aspiratione hoc nomen scribendum esse: sed quidquid sit optime annotarit Ambros. in comment. super Lucam loco citato, Cyrillus lib. 1. in Ioan. cap. 7. Beda vbi supra, habere semper mysterium in sacris literis, aut mutationem veteris nominis, aut nouæ anticipatam positionem, & quidem huius rei mysteria recensuimus supra ex Beda, & Lyrano, hæc autem capite alia quædam enumerantur ibi, ipse quippe fuit, & est dulcis, &c.

4 In Petro vero notatur fides sanctæ Ecclesiæ.

Quemadmodum Christus Dominus lumen Apostolis contulit, vt lucem & ipsi mundo afferrent, & lumen mundi appellarentur, sicut Matt 5 legimus, ita quoque Simonem vocauit Petrum, in quo veluti in Petra fidei stabile iaceret fundamentum; vnde de eo peculiariter Christus Matth. 16. dixit. Tu es Petrus, & super hanc Petram ædificabo Ecclesiam meã. Quare mirũ non est si fidei symbolũ in præsentiarum Petrus esse dicatur, quippe qui etiam in Petram credidit, quæ Christus erat, vt dicit Apostolus 1. Cor. 10. Petra autem erat Christus, sic quoq. quicunque fidem habet Petri, Petrus dici potest, quod etiam annotarunt D. Augustinus super Ioan. tract. 7. & Hieron. super Matth. cap. 16. Orige. super Matth. hom. 1.

VERBA FILIAE AD DOMINAM de virtute, & laude suæ pulchritudinis, & de responsione Virginis, sui laudem confirmantis; & qualiter filius Virginem Matrem comparat turri fabro.

CAP. XIX.

DVLCIS Maria pulchritudo noua, pulchritudo clarissima. Veni in adiutorium mihi tu, vt deformitas mea deleatur, charitasq. accendatur. Tria enim dat pulchritudo tua. Primo, Purgat primo memoriam, vt verba Dei suauiter ingrediantur. Secundo, vt audita delectabiliter teneantur. Tertio, vt ad proximum ardenter diffundantur. Tria etiam pulchritudo tua præstat cordi. Primo aufert onus durissimum accidiæ, si tua consideretur charitas, & humilitas. Secundo dat oculis lacrymas, si tua attendatur pauperrimas, & patientia. Tertio, dat cordi in æternum feruorem dulcedinis, si sinceriter recolatur memoriæ tuæ pietatis. Vere domina tua es pulchritudo pretiosissima, pulchritudo desideratissima, quia infirmis data es in auxilium, tribulatis in solatium, omnibus in mediatricem. Ergo omnes, qui audierunt te nasciturum, & qui sunt te iam natam, bene clamare possunt: Veni pulchritudo clarissima, & illumina tenebras nostras. Veni pulchritudo pretiosissima, & aufer opprobrium nostrum. Veni pulchritudo suauissima, & mitiga amaritudinem nostram. Veni pulchritudo potentissima, & dissolue captiuitatem nostram. Veni pulchritudo honestissima, & dele fœditatem nostram. Ergo bene dicta, & venerabilis sit talis, & tanta pulchritudo, quam omnes videre optabant Patriarchæ, de qua omnes cecinerunt Prophetæ, de qua omnes electi gaudent. Respondit Mater. Benedictus sit Deus pulchritudo mea, qui dedit tibi talia verba loqui. Propterea dico tibi, quod pulchritudo antiquissima, æterna, & pulcherrima, quæ fecit, & creauit me, confortabit te. Pulchritudo vetustissima & noua innouans omnia, quæ fuit in me, & processit de me, docebit te mirabilia. Pulchritudo desideratissima delectans, & lætificans omnia, inflammabit animam tuam sua charitate. Propterea confide in Deo. Cum enim pulchritudo cælestis apparuerit, omnis pulchritudo terrena confundetur, & reputabitur quasi stercus. Deinde ait filius

Dei

Dei ad Matrem. O Benedicta Mater, tu es similis auri fabro, qui præparat opus pulchrum. Omnes qui viderint opus congratulantur, & cum vel lapides preciosos, aut aurum offerunt, vt opus perficiatur. Sic tu dilecta Mater omnium conanti surgere ad Deum tribuis auxilium, & neminem relinquis vacuum a consolatione tua. Propterea bene vocari poteris sanguis cordis mei. Sicut enim sanguine viuificantur, & roborantur omnia membra corporis, sic per te omnes viuificantur a peccato, & fructuosiores sunt ad Deum.

INFORMATIO S. AGNETIS ad filiam de non retrocedendo, & de non plus debito procedendo, & de modo tenendo in abstinentijs incipiendis, vel inceptis, & quæ continentia sit Deo acceptabilis.

CAP. XX.

AGNES loquitur. Filia sta stabilis, & non retrocedas, quia serpens mordens iacet ante talos. Nec etiã plus debito procedas quia cuspis lanceæ acutę ante te stat, a qua si plus iusto processeris, vulneraberis. Quid vero est retrocedere, nisi pœnitere in tentationibus assumptæ anteriora, & salubria, & velle ad consueta redire delectari mente in foeditatis cogitationibus. Talia si menti placent, omnia obscurant bona, paulatimque retrahunt ab omni bono. Nec etiam debes plus debito procedere, ideſt vltra vires te affligere, aut alios super naturam tuam in bonis operibus imitari, quia ab æterno disposuit Deus operibus charitatis, & humilitatis aperiri peccatoribus cęlum, seruata in omnibus mensura, & discretione. Nunc autem diabolus inuidus suadet homini imperfecto supra vires ieiunare, promittere inconsueta, & importabilia, velle imitari perfectiora, non consideratis viribus suis, & infirmitatibus suis, vt deficiente robore, vel homo continuet male incepta propter rubores hominum plus quam propter Deum, vel deficiat citius propter indiscretionem, & infirmitatem. Propterea mensura teipsã in teipsa, ideſt secundum fortitudinem, & debilitatem tuam, quia alij sunt a natura fortiores, alij debiliores, alij gratia Dei feruentiores, alij consuetudine bona alacriores. Ideo secundum consilium timentium Deum guberna vitam tuam, ne aut per inconsiderationem mordeat te serpens, aut cuspis gladij venenosi, ideſt suggestio diaboli venenosissima deludat mentem tuam, qua vel videri velis, quod non es, aut esse appetas quod est supra vires, & virtutem tuam. Nã sunt quidam, qui meritis suis obtinere credunt cęlum, quibus Deus parcit a diaboli tentationibus ex occulta dispensatione sua. Alij sunt, qui operibus suis satisfacere Deo putant pro excessibus suis, quorum omnium error omnino damnabilis est. Quod etiam si quilibet homo centies corpus suum occideret, non posset Deum vnum pro mille respondere, quia ipse dat posse, & velle, ipse tempora, & sanitatem, ipse replet in bonis desiderium, ipse dat diuitias, & gloriam; ipse est qui mortificat, & viuificat, exaltat, & humiliat, & omnia sunt in manu eius. Ideo illi soli honor exhibendus est, & nulla merita hominum alicuius reputationis sunt apud Deum. Quod vero mirabaris de domina, quę ad indulgentias veniens corrupta est. Respondeo tibi. Sunt quędam mulieres, quæ continentiam habent, sed non diligunt, quibus nec delectatio magna est, nec tentatio violenta, quibus si nuptię honorandæ præberentur, non speraret quidem, sed quia non offeruntur magna, dedignantur parua. Et ideo ex continentia aliquando oritur superbia, & præsumptio, propter quam contingit ex permissione diuina cadere sicut iã auditi. Si vero aliqua talis esset intentionis quod nec propter totum mundum si ei præberetur, vellet semel maculari, impossibile est talem relinqui ad turpia. Veruntamen si Deus permitteret ex occulta iustitia sua talem cadere, plus fieret ei ad coronã, quam ad peccatum, dummodo esset contra eius voluntatem. Propterea pro certo scito, quod Deus est quasi aquila, quæ ab alto prospicit infima, quæ si aliqua viderit ascendere de terra, statim quasi funda deijcit illa. Si vero aliquid venenosum prospicit contrarium sibi, quasi sagitta transuerberat. Si autem distillat aliquid immundum de superioribus supra ipsam quasi anser fortiter excutit a se & elongat. Sic etiam facit Deus, si viderit corda hominum ex fragilitate carnis, vel tentationibus diaboli contra voluntatem spiritus erigere se contra Deum, statim quasi funda per inspirationem compunctionis, & pœnitentiæ illud adnihilat, & facit hominem redire ad Deum, & ad seipsum. Si vero venenum cupiditatis carnis, vel diuitiarum intrauerit cor, mox Deus transuerberat mentem sagitta charitatis suæ, ne homo perseuerans in peccato a Deo separetur. Quod si aliquid immundum superbiæ, vel luxuriæ sedauerit animum, mox quasi anser per fidei, & spei constantiam deijcit. Ne vel animus obduretur in vitijs, aut anima ma iuncta Deo, damnabiliter maculetur. Propterea filia in omnibus affectionibus tuis, & operibus, considera misericordiam, & iustitiam Dei, & semper attende finem.

VERBA SPONSAE AD DEVM de eius virtute, & magnificentia, & responsio Virginis ad filiam, ipsam confortans, & qualiter boni, & serui Dei non debent cessare a prædicatione, & monitione gentium, siue conuertantur, siue non, quod probat per exemplum.

CAP. XXI.

BENEDICTVS sis tu Deus meus, qui es trinus, & vnus, trinus in personis, vnum in natura. Tu es ipsa bonitas, & ipsa sapientia, tu ipsa pulchritudo, & potestas, tu ipsa iustitia, & veritas, per quam sit omnia, vigent, & subsistunt. Tu vere similis es flori crescenti singulariter in campo, de quo omnes appropinquantes flori, obtinent suauitatem in gustu, & alleuiationem in cerebro, delectationem in visu, fortitudinem in reliquis membris. Sic omnes appropinquantes tibi fiunt pulchriores, relinquendo peccatum. Fiunt sapientiores sequendo voluntatem tuam, & non carnis. Fiunt iustiores sequendo vtilitatem animæ, & honorem Dei. Propterea pijssime Deus, da mihi id amare quod te delectat, tentationibus viriliter resistere, mundana omnia contemnere, & te iugiter in memoria mea retinere. Respondit Mater; Hanc salutationem promeruit tibi ille bonus Hieronymus, qui recessit de falsa sapientia, & inuenit sapientiam veram; qui contempsit honorem terrenum, & lucratus est ipsum Deum. Felix talis Hieronymus, felices qui eius imitantur doctrinam, & vitam, qui fuit amator viduarum, speculum proficientium, doctorque totius veritatis, & puritatis. Sed die filia, quid est, quod te sollicitat in corde tuo? Et illa, occurrit inquit cogitatio dicens, si bonaes, sufficit tibi bonitas tua, quid ad te iudicare, & prouocare alios, docereque meliores, quod nec tui ordinis est, nec status. Et qua cogitatione ita obduratur animus, quod & sui ipsius obliuiscitur, totusque refrigescit a charitate dei. Respondit Mater.

1 1 Hæc cogitatio multos etiam profectos re
var. trahit a Deo, nam diabolus impedit bonos, lect. ne loquantur malis, ne forte compungerentur, impedit etiam ne loquantur bonis, ne forte eleuarentur ad altiorem locum, quia boni audita doctrina bonorum, eleuantur ad
2 altiora merita, & loca, 2 sic eunuchus ille legens Esaiam, veniisset quidem ad minorem pœnam inferni. Sed occurrit Philippus, & docens eum, compendium ad cælum, eleuauit eum ad felicem locum. Sic etiam Petrus mittebatur ad Cornelium, si Cornelius prius fuisset mortuus, veniisset quidem propter fidem ad refrigerium, sed aduenit Petrus, &
3 proiecit eum ad portam vitæ. 3 Similiter etiam Paulus venit ad Dionysium, & duxit eum ad beatam remunerationem. Ergo amici Dei non debent attediari in seruitio Dei, sed laborare, vt homo malus fiet melior, & homo bonus veniat ad perfectiora.
4 4 Nam quicunque voluntatem haberet sibi laudi in aures omnium transeuntium, quod Iesus Christus esset vere Dei filius, & faciendo conaretur quantum posset ad aliorum conuersionem, licet nulli, vel pauci conuerterentur, nihilominus eandem mercedem obtineret, ac si omnes conuerterentur. Sic vt per exemplum dico tibi. Si duo mercenarij ex præcepto Domini foderent montem durissimum, & alius inueniret aurum electum, 5 alius vero nihil. 5 Isti propter laborem, & voluntatem digni æquali essent mercede. Sicut Paulus, qui plures conuertit, quam alij Apostoli, qui pauciores conuertebant, omnes tamen vnius erant voluntatis, sed dispensatio diuina occulta est. Propterea non est cessandum, quamuis, vel pauci, vel nulli recipiant verba Dei. Quia sicut spina conseruat rosam, & asinus transfert dominum suum, sic diabolus spina peccati per tribulationes proficit electis, tanquam nolis, ne per præsumptionem cordis dilabantur inaniter, & quasi asinus perducit eos ad Dei consolationem, & maiorem remunerationem.

NOTAE.

1 IN vulgatis vbi legitur, hæc cogitatio multos etiam profectos retrahit a Deo.
var. lect. M.S. Farnesianus habet, hæc cogitatio multos etiam proiectos retrahit, atque ita esse legendum censeo, aut saltem non profectos, sed perfectos, corrigendum est.

2 Sic Eunuchus ille legens Isaiam veniisset quidem ad minorem pœnam inferni, sed occurrit Philippus, & docens eum compendium ad cælum, eleuauit eum ad felicem locum.

Ad horum intelligentiam in memoria reuocanda sunt, quæ de Eunucho a Philippo conuerso Actorum 8. Lucas Euangelista scripsit, vbi inter cetera locum illum Iſaiæ 53. tamquam ouis ad occiſionem ductus eſt, Eunuchi conuerſioni anſam prabuiſſe legimus; dicitur autem Philippus in præſenti nota, eum docuiſſe compendium ad cælum, vel quod cuncta, quæ ad Chriſti nativitatis, paſſionis, ac totius vitæ hiſtoriam ſpectabant, veluti in compendio redacta narrauerit, per quæ ipſe viam, quæ ducit ad cælum agnouit, vel quod de neceſſario credendis, quæ ad æternæ gloriæ conſequutionem pertinent, eum breuiter inſtruxerit: quod etiam annotauit D. Auguſtinus de fide, & operibus cap. 9. vbi ſic de re agens, Pari modo, inquit, quod ſcriptum eſt Euangeliſtæ ſſe Philippum ſpadoni Dominum, nullo modo dubitandum eſt, & illa in eathechiſmo edoctus eſſe, quæ ad viam, mereſque pertinent eius, qui credit in Dominum Ieſum, hoc eſt enim euangelizare Chriſtum, non tantum dicere, quæ ſint credenda de Chriſto, ſed etiam quæ obſeruanda ei qui accedit ad compagem corporis Chriſti, imo vero cuncta dicere, quæ ſunt credenda de Chriſto.

3 Similiter etiam Paulus venit ad Dionyſium, & duxit eum ad beatam remunerationem.

Agitur in præſenti nota de D. Dionyſii Areopagitæ conuerſione, quo loco quiſpiam in primis quærere poſſet, quare hic Paulus ad Dionyſium in ſpecie veniſſe dicitur, cum ſicut Actorum 17. legimus Athenas venerit, non ad eum tantummodo, ſed ad omnes vniuerſaliter conuertendos, & præcipue ad illos conuincendos iudices, quos Areopagitas vocabant, qui ad maiores cauſas diffiniendas, ſanguinis nempe, morum, ac Religionis fuerant aſſumpti: quorum meminit Auguſtinus lib. 18 de ciuitate, cap. 10. & ibidem etiam plura refert Ludouicus Viues ex Libanio ſophiſta, & Badeo; ſed enim arbitror Dionyſii hoc loco mentionem fieri, quippequi inter cæteros illos iudices excellentior, ac eminentior erat; ideo eius quoque peculiariter meminit Lucas Euangeliſta loc. cit. ſicut annotauit Lyranus ad finem capitis ibi, in quibus erat Dionyſius Areopagita, dicit autem Cardinalis Baronius tomo 1. Annalium anno Chriſti 52. Paulum hoc anno Athenas veniſſe, & a paſſione Domini Anno 19. ab eo Dionyſium ſuiſſe ad fidem conuerſum, qui poſtmodum ſacro ſuſcepto Baptiſmate, ſe Apoſtoli magiſterio imbuendum tradidit & ab eo per triennium in fidei Catholicæ myſterijs inſtitutus eſt, in quibus tantum profecit, vt merito a Damaſceno Theologorum omnium Princeps ſit appellatus, & ab alijs doctor antiquiſſimus, & Pater venerabilis, cui plures aſſentiuntur, Paulum arcana reuelaſſe quæ raptus in cælum viuit & audiuit. Dionyſii vitam, ac res geſtas narrat Suidas, Michael Siſingerus, Metaphraſtes, & Surius tom. 5. & multa etiam de eo affert ſeitu dignißima Cardinalis Baronius in notis ad Martyrologium Romanum die 9. Octob.

4 Nam quicunque voluntatem haberet ſibilandi in aures omnium tranſeuntium.

Rectius habet Farneſianus codex M. S. ſibilandi in aures hominum, eſt autem ſibilare ſibilum edere, & ſibilus dicitur, qui ore fit, compreſſis dentibus, & parum conſtrictis labijs, quod conſueuerunt paſtores facere, cum ſibilo oues vocare volunt, & hic ſumendum eſſe cenſeo verbum ſibilare, pro prædicare: & ideo hic legimus, ſi quis conaretur quantum poſſet ad aliorum conuerſionem: ſicut enim paſtores ſibilo ſuas oues ad ouile reducunt, ſic concionatores, & Epiſcopi, qui paſtores ſunt debent prædicationis officio, errantes omnes ad ſalutis, ac veritatis viam reuocare.

5 Ad finem præſentis capitis, vbi hactenus impreſſa exemplaria legunt, ſi propter laborem, & voluntatem, digni æquales eſſent mercede.

var. lect.

M. S. Farneſianus addit æqualem, & legit, Si propter laborem æqualem, & voluntatem, æquali eſſent mercede digni.

QVALITER MODERNIS temporibus hominum malitia præcedit diaboli aſtutiam. Et qualiter homines nunc promptiores ſunt ad peccandum, quam diabolus ad tentandum, de ſententia contra tales illata, & qualiter Dei amici in prædicando debent laborare viriliter, & celeriter, & de ſcientiæ infuſione in ſuos amicos.

CAP. XXII.

1 ILIVS loquitur. Si turbari poſſem, merito, nunc dicere poſſem, pœnitet me feciſſe hominem. Nam homo modo eſt, ſicut animal, quod ſponte currit in retia, quantuncunque enim inclamatur, nihilominus ſequitur ſuæ voluntatis appetitum, Nec iam omnino imputandum eſt diabolo, quod violenter trahit hominē, immo homo ipſe prævenit malitiam eius. Sicut canes venatici, qui primo ducuntur copulis, inde tandem aſſueti capere, & deuorare animalia, etiam in accelerando ad prædam prævéniunt ductorem. Sic iam homo aſſuetus, & faſcinatus in peccato, promptior eſt ad peccandum, quam diabolus ad tentandum. Nec mirum eſt, diu enim eſt, quod Sedes Apoſtolica caput mundi, placuit Deum ſanctitate vitæ, & exemplo ſuo; ſicut primitus faciebat, & ideo reliqua membra facta ſunt debilia, & languida. 2 Nec conſideratur, cur Deus dives, factus eſt egenus, & pauper, ſcilicet, vt peritura contemnenda doceret, & cæleſtia amanda. Sed quod

2 var. lect.

homo

homo pauper natura, diues factus est falsis diuitiis, hoc omnes imitari appetunt, paucique inueniuntur alij, qui non imitentur.

3 3 Ideo veniet arator a potentissimo, exacuatus a sapientissimo, qui non quærit terras, & pulchritudinem corporum, non veretur fortitudinem fortium, nec timet minas principum, sed nec accipit personas hominum, qui seminabit carnes hominum. & diruet domos spirituum, qui corpora tradet vermibus, animasque tradet illis quibus seruierunt. Ideo amici mei ad quos te mittam laborent viriliter, & celeriter, quia non erit istud quod dico in nouissimis diebus, vt dixi prius, sed in diebus istis. Et multorum iam

4 viuentium etiam hoc videbũt oculi, 4vt impleatur quod scriptum est. Fiant vxores eorum viduæ, & filij sine patribus, omneque desiderabile hominum auferetur. Verumtamen quicunque ad me cum humilitate veniunt, hos ego misericors Deus suscipio. Qui vero fructum iustitiæ operibus impleuerint, his ego dabo meipsum, quia iustum est, vt domus purgetur, in qua rex ingressurus est, vitrum mundetur, vt claresçat potus, granum fortiter conteratur, vt ab arista separetur, illudque quod in formello clauditur vehementer premat̃ur, donec formellæ similitudo obtineatur. Attamen sicut post hyemem venit æstas, sic ego post tribulationẽ dabo cõsolationem, his scilicet, qui cupiunt esse paruuli, & qui cælestia præponderant plus quam terrena. Verumtamen sicut homo non nascitur, & moritur vno eodemque tempore, sic omnia temporibus suis nunc implebuntur. Scito etiam quod cum aliquibus volo facere iuxta prouerbium commune. Percute eum in collo, & curret, & tribulatio accelerare cogit. Cum aliis faciam sicut scribitur. Aperi os tuum, & implebo illud. Ad tertios vero dicam consolando, & inspirando. Venite idiotæ, & simplices, & dabo vobis os, & sapientiam, quibus linguosi non poterunt repugnare. Sic feci iam diebus istis, impleui simplices sapientia mea, & resistunt doctis. Euulsi magniloquos, & potentes, & subito decesserunt. Nec mirum, præcepi enim sapientibus, vt præciderent linguas serpentum sicut audisti, & noluerunt. Nec mater, quę fuit virgo communitatis voluit extinguere ora, vt ignem extingueret cupiditatis succensum in cordibus filiorum vt monui: ideo ego tempore felicitatis eorum succidi eos, & prȩcidi linguas eorum.

NOTAE.

1 SI turbari possem merito nunc dicere possem, pœnitet me feciſſe hominem.

In principio præsentis capitis legimus Deum pœnitere non posse, quia turbari minime potest, & tamen Geneſis 6. scripsit Moyses pœnituisse Deum, quod fecerit hominem, ad cuius rei intelligentiam scito quod Deus non est sicut cæteri homines, vt proprie eum rei alicuius pœniteat. sed pœnitere dicitur quia ad modum pœnitentis se habet, quatenus illa aliquando destruit, quod fecisse pœnitet: est enim Dei pœnitudo mutandarum rerum immutabilis ratio, vt egregie tradit D. Auguſtinus lib. 15. de ciuitate cap. 25. Eucherius lib. 1. in Geneſim cap. 39. & de ſpiritualibus formulis cap. 1. & animad. erudit Hieronymus ab Oleaſtro ibidem cap. 6. & colligitur ex gloſſ. interlin. ibi, & Ruperto in Geneſim lib. 4. cap. 14. & Hugone in annotat. in Geneſim, qui affirmat Deum pœnitere dum opus mutat, voluntate tamen & diſpoſitione immobili permanente. Scribitur autem hoc loco Deum pœnitere minime poſſe, quia turbari non potest, cuius rei ratio est, quoniam pœnitudo ſupponit aliquam animi affectionem, & mutabilitatem, cumq. Deus ſit purus actus, & omnino immutabilis, vt Malach. 3. & Iacobi 1. legimus. Inde ſequitur eum proprie pœnituere non poſſe, ſed per metaphoram opus eius pœnitentis eſſe videtur, non tamen pœnitentis affectum habet, qui animi eſt turbatio, ac mutatio, quod etiam docuit D. Auguſtinus de eſſentia diuinitatis, & in pſalm. 131. & late Benedictus Pererius in Geneſim li. 3. comment. ad ea verba cap. 6. pœnituit me feciſſe hominem, verſ. 151. Pœnitentia, inquit, dolor, ira, furor, triſtitia, & huiuſmodi dicuntur de Deo, non ſecundum proprietatem, ſed ſecundum ſimilitudinem, nec ſecundum affectum animi, ſed ſecundum effectum operis.

2 Nec conſideratur cur Deus diues, factus eſt egenus, & pauper.

Sic enim habet Paulus Apoſtolus 2. Corint. 8. quoniam propter nos egenus factus eſt, cum diues eſſet: His autem verbis præſentis notæ conquæritur Chriſtus Dominus, quod homines diuinorum beneficiorum adeo ſunt immemores, vt nec conſiderare velint, quapropter ipſe incarnatus ſit: hoc enim ſignificant ea verba, Cur Deus diues factus eſt egenus, cum enim Deus in natura Diuina diues ſit bonorum omnium habens plenitudinem infinitam, in tantam pro nobis deuenit paupertatem factus homo vt mirum non ſit ſi de ſe aliquando dixerit, vulpes ſpeas habent, filius autem hominis non habet vbi caput reclinet, Lucæ 9. & Matth. 8. & Zach. 9. ſcribitur, Exulta filia Sion, ecce Rex tuus venit tibi Iuſtus, & Saluator, ipſe pauper, & aſcendens ſuper aſinam: & Hieremias hanc extremam Chriſti

Hi admirans paupertatem 14. cap. suarum Revelat. clamans dicebat, quare quasi colonus venturus es in terra, & quasi viator declinans ad manendum.

3 Ideo veniet arator a potentissimo.

Quoniam vt superiori nota admonuimus homines diuina negligunt beneficia, & incarnationis singulare munus parupendunt, & vestigia Christi imitari non studeut, prædixit Christus hic B. Brigitta aratorem à Potentissimo venturum esse, hoc est, à Deo tribulationes plurimas, & sæua flagella esse mittendo, arare namq. Deus dicitur cum castigat, & tribulationem, & incommoda infert, vt ita animas præparet ad suscipiendum semen Dei, sic tradit D. Hieron. super Isa. cap. 28.

4 Vt impleatur, quod scriptum est: fiant vxores eorum viduæ, & filij sine patribus.

Inter cætera, quæ hoc loco flagella malis hominibus se daturum Christus Dominus affirmat, illud potissimum esse legimus hic, quod vxores eorum remansure sint absque viris, filij vero sine patribus, iuxta illud Psalm. 108. fiant filij eius orphani, & vxor eius vidua, quod mistice intelligendum esse arbitror: quandoquidem mali non amplius Deum habent Patrem, quia reprobi facti sunt, nec Ecclesiam Matrem, à qua propter eorum scelera electi sunt, vnde merito peccatores orphanos vocat Arnobius in Psalm. 93. & Augustinus in Psal. 108. eius dicti ratio esse potest, quia Deum habere Patrem hinc, recteque viuendo negligunt: Ecclesiam vero Matrem eius præcepta, legesque frangendo vitiant.

VERBA IOANNIS EVANgelistæ ad Virginem gloriosam, de quodam mero, & iniquo hypocrita, & responsio Virginis, qualiter talis sit constitutus, & diaboli illusionibus ad ipsum, & quomodo ex septem signis spiritus bonus cognoscitur, & ex totidem malignus spiritus dignoscitur.

CAP. XXIII.

IOANNES Euangelista dixit matri Dei. Audi tu Virgo, & Mater vnius filij non plurium. Mater vnigeniti filij Dei, plasmatoris, & redemptoris omnium. Audi inquam sicut, & audis quantum ille de fusus est à diabolo, quantum laborat, vt obtineat impossibile, quantum informatus est, & quantis rebus a spiritu mendacij, quantum etiam elongat se a Deo in specie ouina, & corde leonino. Ego docui, quod tres sunt, qui testimonium dant in cælo. & in terra, Pater, & Filius, & Spiritus sanctus. Isti vero testimonium perhibet spiritus malignus, quod totus factus est simulatorie sanctus, quem Pater non fortificat potentia sua, filius non vilitat sapientia sua. Spiritus sanctus non inflammat charitate sua. Nec mirum, aspirat enim ad potentiam contra potentiam Patris, vult esse sapiens contra sapientiam filij, habet inflammationem, sed aliter, quam sicut inflammat Spiritus sanctus. Ideo roga filium tuum, vt aut citius subtrahatur, ne perdantur plures, aut humilietur celerius pro errato. Respondit

1 Mater. 1 Audi tu Virgo, sed tamen virilis non fœminea persona. Tu es quem Deo placuit vocare cum læuissima morte de mundo propinquius mihi. Ego enim quasi obdormini in separatione animæ, & corporis, & euigilani in gaudio perpetuo. Nec mirũ. Ego quippe præ cæteris amarius in morte filij mei dolui, & ideo placuit Deo me de mundo cum morte læuissima separare. Tu vero inter Apostolos vicinus mihi appropinquasti, maioraque signa dilectionis expertus es præ alijs, & amarior tibi passio filij mei facta est, quam præ cæteris clarius

2 aspexisti, 2 & quia præ cæteris fratribus

var. lect. tuis longius vixisti, quasi in ipsorum omnium martyr fuisti. Ideo placuit Deo vocare te de mundo morte læuissima post me, quia Virgo virgini fuit commendata. Ideo fiet, quod petisti, & non prolongabitur. Attamen fili mi ostendere volo, quomodo iste, de quo loquimur est constitutus. Ipse quippe est quasi seruus monetarij, id est, diaboli, qui conflat, & percutit monetam suam, idest seruientem sibi suggestionibus, & tentationibus suis, donec perficiat eum ad velle suum. Cumque voluntatem hominis corruperit, & ad delectationes carnis, & amorem mundi inclinauerit, mox quasi formam, & superscriptionem ei imprimit, quia tunc ex signis exterioribus satis apparet, quem diligit toto corde. Quando vero homo opere explet affectum mentis suæ, & plus implicare se vult mundo, quam status suus requirit, pluraque facere, & vellet si posset, tunc perfecta moneta diaboli comprobatur. Veruntamen quod alia est moneta Dei, & alia moneta diaboli. Moneta Dei est aurea, idest fulgens, ductilis, & pretiosa. Sic omnis anima quæ habet impressionem Dei, est fulgens diuina charitate, ductilis patientia, pretiosa boni operis continuatione. Ergo anima bona conflatur virtute Dei, & probatur multis tentationibus, per quas anima considerans originẽ, & defectuo-fectuositates suas, Deiq. circa se pietatem, & patientiam, tanto fit pręciosior Deo, quãto humilior, & patientior, & sui sollicitior inuenitur. Moneta vero diaboli est cuprea & plumbea. Cuprea, quia habet similitudinem auri, habet duritiam, habet flexibilitatem, sed non sicut aurum. Sic anima iniusti, videtur quippe esse iustus, omnes dijudicat, omnibus sua przfert. Inflexibilis est ad opera humilitatis, mollis in suis operibus, difficilis ad reuocandum a suis conceptibus, mirabilis mundo, contemptibilis Deo. Est quoque moneta diaboli plumbea, quia deformis quia mollis, & flexibilis, quia ponderosa. Sic anima iniusti deformis est in voluptuosis affectionibus, onerosa in cupiditate mundi, flexibilis quasi arundo ad quzcunque diabolus inspirat menti, immo quandoq. facilior ad faciendum, quam diabolus ad tentandum. Sic etiam iste seruus monetarij est dispositus, qui attendiatus stare in obseruantijs regulatibus, sicut vouerat, cogitauit vias, quibus hominibus placeret per simulatam sanctitatem ad latius nutriendam carnem suam. Et mox diabolus immisit menti suę quzdam mendacia nocturnalia, quibus delusus credebat impossibilia, quz non euenient, sed vita eius abbreuiabitur, & honorem, quem cupit non consequetur. Veruntamen vbicunque aliqua noua moneta inuenitur, mittenda est ad aliquem sapientem, quz ponderis, & formę scientiam habeat sufficienter. Sed vbi inueniemus illum? Qui si inuentus fuerit modicum curat, immo nihil vtrum moneta falsa sit aut vera. Ideo in talibus vbicunque est consilium sicut per exemplum dico. Si oasi cortigerentur vnus florenus non attenderet ad recipiendum eum; si vero depunctos esset aliqua magna pinguedine, non dubium quin tunc ab eo reciperetur. Sic est etiam nunc, si acceditur ad aliquem sapientem dicendo sic. Ille talis hæreticus est, tunc non attenditur, quia charitas Dei refriguit tota. Si vero diceretur florenos habet multos, tunc omnes simul festinarent. Propterea erit ciro, quod dicit Paulus, adnihilabo sapientiam sapientũ, & humiliabo, & humiles exaltabo. 3 Attamen filia exvii. poteris cognoscere Spiritum sanctum, & spiritum immundum. Primo enim spiritus Dei facit vilescere hominem mundum, cuius honor reputatur in corde quasi aer. Secundo facit Deum charum animæ, & omnis delectatio carnis refrigescit. Tertio inspirat patientiam, & in Deo solã gloriationem. Quarto incitat mentem ad proximi dilectionem, & compassionem, imo etiam inimicorum. Quinto inspirat ad castitatem omnimodã, immo etiam rerum licitarum. Sexto facit confidere in Deo in omnibus tribulationibus, & in eis gloriari. Septimo donat desiderium velle dissolui, & esse cum Christo magis, quam in mundo prosperari, & inquinari. Itaque contra spiritus malus facit alia septem. Primo facit mundũ esse suauem, & cxlestia fastidire. Secundo facit appetere honores, & sibi ipsius obliuisci. Tertio excitat in corde odium, & impatientiam. Quarto facit contra Deum audacem, & in conceptibus animi sui pertinacem. Quinto facit leuigare peccata sua, & ea excusare. Sexto inspirat leuitatem animi, omnemque carnis impuritatem. Septimo inspirat spem diu viuendi, verecundiamque confitendi. Ideo sollicita esto circa cogitationes tuas ne a spiritu isto decipiaris.

Declaratio.

Hic fuit sacerdos ordinis Cistercien. qui post 18. annos apostasię cõpunctus reuersus est ad monasterium, qui dixit impossibile esse aliquem damnari, nec Deum loqui cum aliqua persona in hoc mundo, nec aliquem posse videre faciem Dei ante iudicium Dei. Quod cum audiuisset domina Brigitta dixit ei Spiritus sanctus. Vade inquit ad fratrem illum, & dic ei. O frater non vides sicut ego video, quomodo diabolus adhuc in senectute tua tenet mentem, & linguam tuam ligatam Deus eternus est, æterna est retributio eius. Ideo reuertere celeriter perfecto corde ad Deum, & fidem veram, quia sine dubio non ascendes de lecto isto, sed vtique morieris. Et si credideris eris vas Dei in honore. Qui resolutus in lacrymas, & dominę Brigittæ regratians sic perfecte correxit vitam suam quod conuocatis fratribus suis in hora resolutionis dixit, O fratres mei certificatus sum quod Deus misericors recepit confessionem meam daturus veniam. Orate pro me, quia credo omnia, quæ sancta credit Ecclesia, & sic sumptis sacramentis Dei obdormiuit

NOTAE.

1 AVdi tu virgo, sed tamen virilis non fęmineæ personæ, tu es quem Deo placuit vocare, cum leuissima morte de mundo propinquius mihi.

Duo hoc loco de D. Ioanne Euangelista scripta sunt: primo, quod virgo fuerit: secundo, quod leuissima morte obierit, & quidem quantum spectat ad secundum lautissime probauimus supra hoc eodem libro, capite primo, nota sexta Ioannem vere obiisse, quod autem legimus hic leuissima morte eum fuisse, vita functum, ideo est quod non martyrio, sed propria morte vitã finiuit, postrema, quod virgo fuerit ex verbis præsentis notæ aperte colligitur cum illum Beatissima Virgo Virginem appellat, vt verissimum sit, quod dicit Ecclesia a Christo Virginem Virgini fuisse comendatam, idem habetur lib. 6. Reuelat. cap. 119. & tradunt Hieron. contra Iouinianum. lib. 1. Ignatius Martyr in Epistola ad Philadelphios, Epiphanius hæresi 78. Augustinus de bono coniugali. cap. 21. & in Ioannem tractatu vltimo circa finem, qui affirmat Ioannem a Christo plus cæteris fuisse amatum, quod neque vxorem duxerit, & ab incunte ætate castissimus vixerit.

2 Et quia præ cæteris fratribus tuis lõgius vixisti, & quasi in ipsorum omnium Martyr var. lect. fuisti.

M. S. Farnesianus rectius habet, & inter eos quasi martyr fuisti, ex his autem verbis colligendum est nobis D. Ioannem, & si pro Christo sanguinem minime fuderit, martyrij tamen fuisse meritum asse cutum, nam martyrium voluntati defuit potius, quam voluntas martyrio: dicitur autem quasi martyr, quia ad veram martyrij rationem pertinet, vt probat D. Thom. 22. q. 123. art. 4. quod aliquis pro Christo mortem sustineat, quam ipse Ioannes nõ pertulit, illud vero, quod Matt. 20. de illo legimus dominum dixisse calicem quidem meum bibetis, obseruanis Hiero. fuisse implenum, quando Ioannes in feruentis olei dolium missus est, tunc enim licet mortuus nõ fuerit, tamen quia se sponte in testimonium fidei morti obtulit, eaque causa erat sufficientissima ad mortem inferendam, nisi miraculose, tunc Ioannes fuisset præseruatus. Ideo quasi martyr hoc loco appellatur quamquam D. Chrisost. Hom. 66. in Matt. & hom. 27. in Epistola ad Hebræos, & Theoph. Lucas in ea verba Matth. cap. 20. calicem quidem meum bibetis, affirment Ioannem violenta morte obiisse, quod tamen est contra omnium sententiam, nam quidam sunt, qui eum adhuc viuere in Paradiso terrestri arbitrãtur cum Enoch, & Elia; alij vero propria morte vitam finiuisse, vt nos latius probauimus ex patribus supra hoc eodem lib. cap. 1. nota 6. merito ergo D. Augustinus in Ioannem tract. 124. de eo verba faciens, restat inquit, vt si viuere ibi sit, quod sparsit fama de terra, quod subinde ablata inuescit, aut ideo fiat vt eo modo commendetur pretiosa mors eius, quam nequaquam martyrium commendat, non enim eum pro fide persequutor occidit, & clarius in sermo. de tempore 149. Ioannes inquit obdormiuit sine vulnere, sine cruciatu, qua autem ætate mortuus fuerit in præsenti capite non traditur, tantummodo illum præ fratribus longius vixisse legimus, recitat tamen Cedrenus in Nerua opinionem Hippolyti Martyris, qui opinatus est Ioannem vita excessisse annos natum centesimum sextum, & D. Hieronymus in comment. in Matth. cap. 20. & de scriptoribus Ecclesiasticis asserit Ioannem senio confectum obiisse anno post passionem Domini sexagesimo octauo.

3 Attamen filia ex septem poteris cognoscere Spiritum sanctum, & spiritum immundum.

Circa finem præsentis capitis septem traduntur signa, quibus deprehendere facile possumus discrimen inter spiritum bonum, & spiritum malum, quæ sane notatu dignissima sunt, quæ de re nos etiam supra egimus, lib. 1. Reuelat. ca. 4. nota 2. & li. 4. cap. 4. nota prima, & cap. 78. nota 2. & latius in prælud. ad Reuelat. cap. 10. vide etiam. lib. 3. cap. 14. & cap. 20. nota 3.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD FILIAM qui modus tenendus sit inter seruos Dei contra impatientes, & qualiter superbia per dolium vini designantur.

CAP. XXIV.

MATER loquitur. Vbi dolium vini incalescit, & intumescendo excrescit, ascendunt quædam exalationes & spumæ, quandoque maiores, quandoque minores, & subito ite rum decrescunt. Omnes autem circumstantes dolium considerant tales exalationes cito detumescere, & quod tales eleuationes proueniunt ex fortitudine vini ad innuendũ calorem eius. Ideo patienter expectant finem, & vini, seu ceruisię perfectionem. Omnes autem circumstantes dolium, qui nimis applicant nares in feruorem dolii contingent eis duo, aut nimia externutatio, vel cõmotio, aut cerebrum grauius patietur. Sic est etiam spiritualiter. Nam contingit aliquando, quod quorundã corda intumescunt & ascendunt ex superbia mentis suæ, & impatientiæ, quem ascensum viri virtutum attendẽtes, considerant, aut ex instabilitate animi, aut motu carnalitatis procedere. Ideo patienter verba sustinent, & attendunt finem, scientes, quod post tempestatem fieo tranquillitas. Et quia patientia maior est expugnatore vrbium, quia vincit hominem in seipso, quod difficillimum est. Illi uero, qui nimis impatientes sunt, verbaque iedunt equipollentia non attendentes retributionem gloriosam patientiæ, nec quam contemptibilis est fauor mundanus. Isti incurrunt in infirmitatem mentis, suis tentationibus propter impatientiam, quia nimis appropinquant nares ad commotionem dolii, ideſt verba, quæ non sunt nisi aer, nimis apponunt cordi suo. Ideo quando videritis aliquos esse impatientes, ponite adiutorio Dei custodiam ori vestro, nec dimittatis bona incepta vestra propter verba impatientiæ, sed dissimulate in quantum iustum est audita tanquam non audita, donec illi, qui inuenire volunt occasionem exprimunt verbo quicquid nolant corde.

VERBA MONITIONIS
Matris ad filiam, quod homo non debet curam facere in desideriis carnis, sed bene refouere corpus in moderatis necessariis, & qualiter homo stet iuxta corpus suum, & non in corpore.

CAP. XXV.

MATER loquitur. Tu debes esse sicut sponsa, quæ stat ante antipendium, quã mox, vt vocauerit sponsus, parata est ad voluntatem sponsi. Ergo antipendium istud, corpus est velans animam, quod continue abluendũ est, probandum, & tentandum, 1 corpus quippe est quasi asinus indigens cibo moderato, ne luxuriet, labore discreto, ne superbiat, flagello continuo, ne lacescat. Itaque sta iuxta antipendium, ideſt, iuxta corpus non in corpore, faciendo curam carnis in desiderijs, sed corpus moderatis necessarijs refouendo, quia ille stat iuxta corpus, non in corpore, qui corpus suum refrænat à voluptate ciborum non a necessitate. Sta quoque post antipendium contemnendo voluptatẽ carnis, faciendo honorem Dei, & te totam pro Deo impendendo. Sic steterunt illi, qui corpora sua quasi vestimenta strauerunt pro Deo, qui omni hora parati erant ad voluntatem Dei, quando Deo placuit vocare eos, quia non erat eis longum iter ad eum quem semper habuerunt præsentem, nec grauia onera deprimebant colla eorum, quia omnia contemnentes solo corpore erant in mundo. Ideo libere euolauerunt sine impedimento in cælum, quia nihil impediebat eos nisi quoddam aridum indumentum disciplinatum optime, quo exuto obtinuerunt, quod desiderabant. Sic iste cecidit periculosæ, surrexit sapienter, defendit se viriliter pugnauit constanter, perstitit perseueranter. Ideo iam coronabitur æternaliter, & est in conspectu Dei.

NOTAE.

1 CORpus quippe est quasi asinus indigens cibo moderato, ne luxuriet.

Beatissima Virgo in præsenti capite corpus hominis asino comparat, quippe qui sicut cibo indiget vt onera portet, sic corpus nostrum debitum exigit alimentum, vt necessarias functiones peragat. hac eadem similitudine vtuntur Eucherius de spiritualibus formulis cap. 5. Origen. hom. 6. in libros iudicũ D. Augustin. in psal. 31. & 33. Ad ea verba in Domino laudabitur anima mea, audiant mansueti, & lætentur, Beda super Genes. 22. Philo de sacrificio Abel, & Cain. optime autem docet cibum moderatum esse debere, nam quemadmodum nimio repletũ cibo corpus mentem languidam, ac segnem reddit, ita quoque nimia vitæ continentia debilitatem corpori infert, vt anima, quæ in contemplatione moueri debet, frequenter in mœstitia sit, neque enim inquit Diadochus de perfectione spirituali cap. 45. infirmo corpore esse debet, qui certat, sed ita infirmo, vt sustinendo certamini par esse possit, idem tradit D. Basilius lib. de Virginitate, & colligitur ex Paulo Rom. 12. qui obsequia nostra rationabilia esse debere præcipit corpore, namque velut instrumento vtitur anima, & ideo secundum vtilitatem, & exigentiam animæ gubernandum est, sicq. affligendum in potus, cibiq. parsimonia quantum ipsa ferre potest, propterea discretione opus est, hinc fit, quod Leu. 2. scribitur, in omni oblatione offerendum esse sal, & Hieremias cap. 48. tradit, quia plus fecit, quam potuit, idcirco perijt, hoc quoque exemplo pluuiæ probari potest, quæ tunc optima censenda est, quæ sensim descendit in terram subtus, nimius enim imber in præceps arua subuertit.

Virginis ad filiam, scilicet quæ opera virtuosa mereantur vitam æternam, & quæ non, & de maximo obedientiæ merito.

CAP. XXVI.

MVLTI sunt flores arboris non tamen omnes veniunt ad effectum. Sic multa sunt virtuosa opera, non tamen omnia merentur mercedem cælestem, nisi discrete fiant. Nam ieiunare, orare, visitare loca Sanctorum, virtuosa opera sunt, sed nisi eo animo fiant, vt credat se homo humilitate penetrare cælos, seruumque inutilem ad omnia, & discretionem habeat habeat in omnibus, modicum valent ad æter

1 na. 1 Ecce ſi videris duos homines alius eſt ſub obedientia, alius in libera poteſtate. Si ille qui liber eſt ieiunat, ſimplicem habebit mercedem. Si autem ille, qui ſub obedientia comedit illo die ieiunij carnes ſecundum inſtitutionem regulæ, & propter obedientiam, attamen libentius ieiunaret, ſi non obſiſteret obedientia. Ipſe habebit mercedē duplicem, vnam propter obedientiam, aliam propter dilationem deſiderij ſui, & non impletionem voluntatis ſuæ. Propterea eſto ſicut ſponſa, quæ prius præparat thalamum, quam veniat ſponſus, Secundo ſicut Mater, quæ præparat veſtes antequam naſcatur puer. Tertio ſicut arbor, quæ prius portat flores, quam veniant fructus. Quarto eſto ſicut vas mundum ad recipiendum potum aptum prius, quam infundatur.

NOTAE.

1 ECce ſi videris duos homines, alius eſt ſub obedientia, alius in libera poteſtate, ſi ille, qui liber eſt ieiunat ſimplicem habebit mercedem, ſi autem ille, qui ſub obedientia comedit illo die ieiunij carnes ſecundum inſtitutionem regulæ, & propter obedientiam, attamen libentius ieiunaret, ſi non obſiſteret obedientia, ipſe habebit mercedem duplicem.

Ex his verbis aperte colligere poſſumus magis eſſe laudabile, ac meritorium aliquid facere ex voto, quam abſque illo, quod adeo manifeſtum eſſe cenſeo, vt nulla indigeat probatione, ſicut enim quis plus obligat debitori, qui largiretur, cum fructibus haberet, quam qui tantummodo fructus, vt teſtis eſt Ioſephus lib. 1. de ſimilitudinibus cap. 84. ſic quoque qui voto aſtrictus Deo aliquid impendit, non ſuæ voluntatis aſſum ſolum ei confert, ſed & poteſtatem adiungit, ſuamque libertatem, ac voluntatem emancipatam Deo tradit, vt nequeat deinceps iure ſecus facere, idem probat D. Tho. tribus argumentis 2. 2. q. 88. art. 6. & Soto de iuſtitia, & iure lib. 7. q. 2. art. 4. & ideo ſcribitur hic, quod ille, qui eſt ſub obedientia habebit duplicem mercedem.

VERBA QVAERIMONIAE Virginis ad filiam, de quodam ſuo ſicto deuoto, comparando ipſum ad armigerum in bello corporali male armatum.

CAP. XXVII.

MATER loquitur. Ille eſt, qui dicit, ſe me diligere, ſed vertit ad me poſteriora, quando ſeruit mihi: Cum vero loquor ei dicit, quid dicis tu. Auertit que oculos a me, & reſpicit ea, quæ eum plus delectant. Iſte miſerabiliter eſt armatus, ſicut ille, qui eſſet poſitus in corporali bello, cuius galeæ foramina eſſent in occipite. Cuius clypeus ponendus in brachio penderet in humeris. Cuius gladio abiecto, vaginæ remanerent vacuæ. Cuius diplois, quæ corpus & pectus defendere deberet, iaceret ſubtus eum in ſella. Cuius ſellę ligaturæ in equo ſolutę eſſent. Sic iſte armatus eſt ſpiritualiter coram Deo. Et ideo diſcernere neſcit inter amicum, & inimicum, nec ſcit damnum facere hoſti. Spiritus vero, qui pugnat cum eo eſt ſicut ille, qui rationabiliter cogitat. Ego volo eſſe cu vltimis in pugna, quod poſſim videre rubeta, ſi primi perdiderint bellum, ſi vero vicerint veniam ita velociter, quod computabor cum primis. Ideo qui emiſit bellum ſecit ſecundum ſapientiam carnalem, & non ex charitate Dei.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD FILIAM de tribus modis tribulationum, qui per tres modos panum deſignantur.

CAP. XXVIII.

MATER loquitur. Vbicunque conſperſio panum eſt, debet fortiter cogitari, & laborari. Sed dominis apponitur panis triticeus, communitati vero ponitur panis deterior, totius vero panis adhuc peior datur canibus. Per cogitationem ergo intelligitur tribulatio, quia ſpiritualis homo ex eo maxime tribulatur, quod Deus non habet honorem a creatura ſua, & quod modica charitas eſt in ea. Omnes ergo quicunque iſto modo tribulantur ipſi ſunt triticum illud, de quo Deus, & omnis exercitus cæli gaudet, Omnes vero qui turbantur de aduersitate mundi, hi sunt quasi panis deterior, attamen valet multis ad obtinendum cælum. Qui vero tribulantur ex eo quod non valent omnino mala facere quæ vellent, isti sunt panes canum illorum, qui sunt in inferno.

VERBA MATRIS MARIAE ad filiam, qualiter sunt quidam dæmones ad homines præcipitandum, quidam ad retardandum, quidam in abstinentijs ad tentandum, & de modo tenendo contra istos dæmones.

CAP. XXIX.

MATER loquitur, omnes istos, quos vides circumstare vos, hi sunt spirituales hostes vestri, scilicet spiritus diaboli. Nam qui habent perticas, in quibus cernuntur laquei, hi sunt qui vos præcipitare volunt in peccata mortalia. Quos vero vides habere vncinos in manibus, hi sunt qui vos cupiunt retardare a seruitio Dei, vt fitis ad bona accidiosi. Qui vero habent instrumenta dentata sicut furcas, quibus attrahitur, & promouetur, quod homo desiderat, hi sunt qui tentant vos, vt assumeretis aliqua bona supra vires vestras, scilicet in vigilijs, ieiunijs, orationibus, & laboribus, aut in irrationabili expensione pecuniæ vestræ, quia ergo isti spiritus sic sunt cupidi ad nocendum vobis, vos tenete voluntatem istam, scilicet nolle offendere Deum, & petite auxilium Dei contra crudelitatem eorum, & tunc non nocebunt vobis eorum minæ.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD filiam, quod pretiosiora, & pulchriora mundi seruis Dei non nocent, quãuis talibus vtantur, dumtaxat quod ad honorem Dei vtantur, & hoc per exemplum Pauli.

CAP. XXX.

SCRIBITVR, quod Paulus ille bonus Apostolus dixit se esse sapientem quendam coram principe illorum, qui Petrum captiuauerat, & Petrum vocauit verum patrem. Et non peccauit Paulus in hoc, quia verba sua erant ad honorem Dei. Sic est etiam cum illis, qui verba Dei volunt, & desiderat loqui, quia si non possunt intrare ad dominos, nisi haberent indutas competentes vestes, non peccant induendo eas, dummodo aurum, & vestes, & lapides pretiosos non reputarent pretiosiores in voluntate, & corde, quam assueta vestimenta antiqua, quia omnia quæcunque apparent pretiosa, sunt terra.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM per exemplum probantia, quod prædicatores, & amici Dei non minus coronantur in conspectu Dei, si gentes non conuertantur ad eorum prædicationem, recta intentione facta, quam si conuertantur.

CAP. XXXI.

MATER Dei loquitur. Qui conducis operarium ad laborandum, dicendo ei, porta arcam de lignere, & inquire in quolibet onere, si forte ibi inuenire poteris granum auri, non minor erit merces eius si nihil inueniret, quam si reperiret multum. Sic est etiam cum illo, qui verbo, & opere ex diuina charitate laborat ad profectum animarum, non enim erit minor merces illi, si nullos conuerterit, quam si multos. Sicut magister dixit exemplum, Ille inquit bellator, qui ad præceptum domini sui egrediens ad bellum, & habens velle fortiter dimicandi rediret fanciatus, nullum habens captiuum, non minorem mercedem obtineret amisso bello propter voluntatem bonam, quam si victoriam fuisset consequutus. Sic est etiam cum amicis Dei. Nam pro quolibet verbo, & opere, quod faciant propter Deum, & vt animæ emendentur, necnon & pro qualibet hora tribulationis, quam patiuntur propter Deum, coronabuntur, siue multi conuertantur, siue nullus.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM de infinita tui miſericordia circa peccatores, & etiam circa ipſam laudantes, & honorantes.

CAP. XXXII.

MATER loquitur. Proverbium eſt vobiſcũ. Cũ tali inquit poteſt me educere de patria. Sic nunc dico ego. Nullus eſt talis, ac tantus peccator in mundo, qui dicit corde, & quod linguis meis Creator, & redemptor omnium, eſt ſibi amiciſſimus in corde, & intimus, quin non ſtatim parata ſum venire ad eum, ſicut Mater charitatis ad filium ample ctendo eum, & dicendo. Quid inquit fili placet tibi, qui & ſi promeruiſſet profundiſſimam inferni pœnam, haberet tamen voluntatem nihil curare de honoribus mundi, nec de cupiditate, & voluptate carnis, quam deteſtatur Eccleſia, nihilque deſideraret niſi ſolam ſuſtentationem ſuam, tunc ipſe & ego ſtatim eſſemus bene concordes. Dic ergo illi qui ſcribit cantum, & laudem meam non propter laudem ſuam, vel mercedem ſuam, ſed propter laudem illius, qui propter omnia opera ſua omni laude eſt dignus. Quia ſicut Principes mundi tribuunt laudatoribus ſuis mercedem mundi, ſic ſpiritualiter ego remunerabo eum. Quia ſicut vna ſillaba habet ſuper ſe multas notas, ita deo placet coronas in cælo dare ei pro qualibet ſillaba, quæ eſt in cantu, & dicetur de eo. Ecce venit laudator, qui pro nullo temporali bono dictauit cantum, niſi ſolum propter Deum.

Declaratio.

Hic tentatus de ſancta Trinitate factus in extaſi vidit quaſi tres facies mulierum. Prima dixit. Multis coniugijs interfueram nunquam vidi trinum, & vnum. Reſpondit ſecunda. Si tres & vnus neceſſe eſt, quod vnus ſit anterior. Alius poſterior, aut duo in vno. Et ſubiunxit tertia. Non poterunt ſeipſos facere quis ergo fecit eos. Tunc aperte dixit Spiritus ſanctus. Ad eum veniemus, & manſionem apud eum faciemus. Et euigilans liberatus eſt a tentatione. Poſt hæc dixit Chriſtus Domine Brigittæ. Ego ſum trinus & vnus. Ego volo tibi oſtendere quid ſit poteſtas Patris, quid ſapientia Filij, quid virtus Spiritus ſancti. Et iſta reuelatio completa eſt, vbi loquitur de pulpito. Item dixit Chriſtus. Dic iſti quod plus merebitur apud me de infirmitate, quam de ſanitate. Nam Lazarus clarior factus eſt ex dolore. Et Iob dilectior ex patientia. Nec tamen electi mei diſplicent mihi, qui ſanitatem habent, quia cor eorum eſt ſemper mecum. Et corpus eorum eſt ſemper in diſcreta abſtinentia, & pio labore.

DOMINE Reuerende. Inter alias collationes intimetur domino Papæ, quàm flebilis eſt ſtatus vrbis, quæ quondam felix extitit, & corporaliter, & ſpiritualiter. Sed nunc infelix eſt, & corporaliter, & ſpiritualiter. Corporaliter quidem, quia eius ſecutores Principes, qui eius defenſores eſſe deberent, facti ſunt ei ſeniſtimi raptores. perſonæ quantum eis placet facta confeſſione offerunt. Sed pauperes antequam audiãtur, cum pœnitentiario pactum facere compelluntur. Et certe dum pœnitentiarij orecenus abſoluunt, non verecundantur manibus ſuis ſibi pecuniam imbourſare. Item in Eccleſia ſtatutum fuit, vt quælibet perſonæ peccata ſua cõfiterentur, & ad minus ſemel in anno acciperet corpus Chriſti, & hoc quoad populum laicalem. Nam clerici, & claustrales hoc ſæpius faciunt in anno. Secundum fuit ſtatutum, quod qui non poſſunt eſſe continentes, vinerent in coniugio. Tertium fuit, quod omnes Chriſtiani ieiunarẽt in quadrageſima, & in quatuor temporibus, & aliarum feſtiuitatum vigilijs, quæ pœnæ omnibus permanent ſatis notæ. Niſi illi, qui graui infirmitate, aut in magna anguſtia eſſent conſtituti. Quartum fuit conſtitutum, quod in diebus feſtis, ab omni mundialium labore nouſquiſque abſtineret. Quintum fuit ſtatutum, quod nullus Chriſtianus pecuniam, ſiue aliquid aliud tale, lucrari deberet per vſuram. Sed contra hęc quinque ſtatuta optima ſupradicta, ortę ſunt quinque abuſiones inhoneſtæ, & grauiter nociuę. Prima eſt, quod centum perſonę, quæ ad annos diſcretionis uenerunt in Roma ſemoriuntur, quod nunquam fecerunt confeſſionem, nec corpus Chriſti acceperunt magis, quam veri idolatræ, pro qualibet perſona, quæ confeſſionem facit, & corpus Chriſti recipit, exceptis ſacerdotibus, & religioſis, & fęminis aliquibus. Secunda abuſio eſt, quod multi legitimas vxores accipiunt, qui ſi cum vxoribus habent diſcordiam, deſerunt eas quandiu placet auctoritate Eccleſiaſtica minime requiſita, ſumentes adulteras pro vxoribus, eaſque in honore habentes, & diligentes. Alij qui etiam adulteram cum vxore in eadem domo habere non abhorrent, gaudentes, quod eas in eadem domo audiunt ſimul parturire. Tertia abuſio eſt, quod multæ perſonæ ſanæ in ipſa quadrageſima veſcuntur carnibus, & de multitudine pauci ſunt, qui vna commeſtione in die contentantur. Etiam inueniuntur aliqui, qui in die ſe a carnibus abſtinent, vtentes cibis quadrageſimalibus, ſed in nocte in priuatis hoſpitijs ſatiantur carnibus. Certe clerici vna cum laicis hæc exercent, quando qui Saracenis ſimiles ſunt qui in die ieiunant, & in nocte, ſatiantur carnibus. Quarta abuſio eſt, quod quamuis aliqui operarij a labore per dies feſtos abſtineant, tamen diuites aliqui mercenarios ſuos, ad laborandum in vineis, ad arandum in agris, & ad excidendum lignas in ſyluis, ad deferendumque illa ad domicilia ſua, per dies feſtos mittere nõ deſiſtunt, & ſic pauperes non maiori quietę diebus feſtis, quam ferialibus gratulantur. Quinta abuſio eſt, quod Chriſtiani ita ſicut Iudæi exercent vſuram, & vere Chriſtiani vſurarij cupidiores ſunt iudęis. Item ſtatutum Eccleſię fuit, quod tales homines, quales iam numerati ſunt anathemate domarentur, contra quæ talis abuſio inchoata eſt. multi quippe non magis abhorrent maledictionem, quam benedictionem, qui etiam ſi ſe excommunicatos nouerint publice ſanctę Eccleſiæ introitum, uel conuerſationem hominum, ſeu colloquia non curant euitare. Pauci enim presbyteri, excommunicatis Eccleſię ingreſſum prohibent. Pauci etiam excommunicatorum conuerſationem, & colloquia abominantur, ſi eis aliqua amicabilitate coniuncti ſunt. Nec etiam excommunicatis ſi diuites ſunt, ſacra ſepultura denegatur. Igitur Domine non miremini, ſi nominatur Romam vrbem infelicem pro talibus abuſionibus, & multis alijs Eccleſiaſticis ſtatutis grauiter contrarijs. Quarę timendum eſt Catholicam fidem in breui deperire, niſi talis venerit, qui Deum ſuper omnia, & proximum ſuum ſicut ſeipſum diligat fide non ficta, omnes abuſiones abolendo. Compatimini ergo Eccleſiæ, & eius Clero, qui toto corde diligit Deum abhorrentes omnes malas conſuetudines, qui propter abſentiam Papæ quaſi orphani fuerunt, tamen filialiter patris ſedem defenderunt, proditoribuſque ſapienter reſtiterunt, in multis tribulationibus perſeuerando.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam inquirentia ab ea, qualiter mundus stat. Et de sponsæ responsione, scilicet, quod stat sicut saccus expansus, ad quem omnes indiscrete concurrunt. Et de crudelissima Christi sententia, & iusta contra tales.

CAP. XXXVII.

1 EILIVS loquitur. 1 Quomodo filia stat modo mundus? Et illa, sicut saccus expansus ad quem currũt omnes, & sicut homo currens non curans quid sequatur. Respondit Dominus. 2 Ideo iustitia est, vt vadam cum aratro meo super mundum, super gentiles, & Christianos non parcam seni, & iuueni, non pauperi, & diuiti, sed vnusquisque iudicabitur secundum iustitiam suam, & vnusquisque morietur in peccato suo, & relinquuntur domus cum habitatoribus, nec tamen faciam adhuc consumationem. Et illa: O Domine, ne inquit indigneris, si loquar. Mitte aliquos de amicis tuis, qui præcaueant, & præmoneant eos de periculo suo. 3 Et Dominus. 3 Scriptum est, inquit, quod diues in inferno desperans de salute sua propria, petiit, vt aliquis mitteretur ad præcauendum fratres suos, ne similiter perirent. Et responsum est ei. Nequaquam fiet hoc, quia habent Moysen, & Prophetas, à quibus doceri possunt. Sic ego dico nunc, habent euangelia, & dicta prophetarum, habent exempla & verba doctorum, habent rationem & intelligentiam, vtantur ergo eis, & saluabuntur. Nam si misero tu, non ita alte clamare poteris, vt audiaris. Si misero amicos meos pauci sunt, & si clamauerint vix audientur. Veruntamen mittam amicos meos, ad quos mihi placuerit, & præparabunt viam Deo.

NOTAE.

1 QVomodo filia stat modo Mundus, & illa sicut saccus expansus ad quem currunt omnes.

Quæsierat in præsenti capite Christus Dominus à sponsa, quomodo tunc temporis se Mundus haberet, cui respondens, illum expanso sacco esse similẽ tradit, bisque verbis non aliud significare voluisse credidi, quam homines hodierna die nil quærere, nisi quæ mundi sunt, quæve inania, & leuia existũt: diuina negligentes, & ideo legimus hic oẽs post eũ currunt, & sicut homo currẽs non curans, quid sequatur, hinc, & nos optime possumus eum Aggeo Propheta cap. 1. Mundum appellare sæculum pertusum, in quo quidquid boni reperitur, vt plurimũ ex negligentia perditur, & idcirco D. Hieronymus Aggei 1. & D. Greg. super Ezechiel cap. 4. Per sæculum pertusum bonorum operum inanitatem designari tradunt.

Nulli dubium est per aratrum hoc loco flagellũ Dei intelligendum esse, sicut enim aratrum terram proscindit, eamque subinde ad semen recipiendum præparat, vnde postea frumentum, cæteraque legumina producat, sic quoque tribulationes, & à Deo immissæ pœnæ, homines terrenis affectibus inolutos excitant, eosque ad Verbum Dei retipiendũ & ex eo fructum reportandum aptos reddunt, vnde arare, ac Deum dicit D. Hiero. super Isaiam cap. 28 cum castigat, & nobis tribulationes infert, & idcirco scribitur hoc loco non parcam seni, & iuueni, non pauperi, & diuiti, sed vnusquisque iudicabitur secundum iustitiam suam.

3 Scriptum est inquit, quod diues in inferno desperans de salute sua propria, petiit, vt aliquis mitteretur ad præcauendum fratres suos, ne similiter perirent.

Hanc diuinæ historiam narrat Lucas Euangelista 16. cap. sui Euangelij, quo loco de eo in tormentis existente verba faciens, eundem sic loquentem, & pro suis fratribus his verbis Deum rogantem facit, Rogo ergo te Pater, vt mittas eum in domum Patris mei, habeo enim quinque fratres, vt testetur illis ne, & ipsi veniant in hunc locum tormentorum, adducitur autem in præsenti nota huiusmodi textus Euangelij, quia in principio huius capitis cum dixisset, Dominus grauissimis vt ille flagellis Christianos, ac Gentiles torquere misericordia mota B. Brigitta pro eis Deum rogat, vt ex amicis suis aliquem mitat, qui hæc de re eos moneat, sicut fecisse dicitur Lucas refert, qui Deum rogauit vt aliquem ad suos fratres mitteret, eosque moneret, ne simul cum eis in eundem tormentorum locũ deuenirent, sciendum tamen est B. Brigitte pro ſalute hominum effuſas preces ex charitate proceſſiſſe, non vero dines charitatis aliquo affectu motus rogare potuit: huiuſmodi namque charitatis affectus à damnatis alienus penitus eſt, & ideo D. Greg. Hom. 40. in Euangelia, Beda, & Lyranus arbitrantur eum rogaſſe, quod ſciret, ex fratrum ſuorum conſortio in condemnatione pœnam ſibi augendam, eo quod vitæ ſuæ prauo exemplo eis occaſionem peccandi præbuerat. Cæterum Chryſoſt. hom. 4. de Lazaro, Ambroſius, & Theophylactus ibidem bono animo id ab eo factum fuiſſe videntur interpretari, quaſi vexatio illi dediſſet intellectum, velletque cauere fratribus, qui ſibi non cauiſſet, cum tempus erat. Addit & Caietanus hæc diuitem præcatum ex ſuperbia, quia cum multos videret ſaluari inter eos cupiebat eſſe ſuos, vt qui iam in maximam coniectus erat miſeriam, in ſuis ſaltem fratribus exaltaretur.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam de fide non habenda in ſomniis, immo præcauendo quantumcunque lęta, vel triſtia. Et quomodo diabolus in talibus falſitatem admiſcet veritati, propter quæ inſurgunt in mundo multi errores. Et quod Prophetæ, ideo non errauerunt, quia ſuper omnia Deum veraciter dilexerunt.

CAP. XXXVIII.

ITEM ILIVS loquitur. Quid te ſic eleuant ſomnia lęta, Cur vero ſic te deprimunt ſomnia triſtia? Nunquid non dixeram tibi, quod diabolus inuidus eſt, & quod ſine permiſſione Dei, non plus facere poterit, quam ſtramen ante pedes tuos. Dixi etiam tibi, quod ipſe eſt Pater, & inuentor mendacij, & quod in omnibus falſitatibus ſuis admiſcet veritatem. Propterea dico, quod diabolus non dormit, ſed circuit, vt inueniat aliquam occaſionem contra te. Ideo cauendum eſt tibi, quod diabolus, qui ex ſubtilitate ſcientiæ ſuæ, ex motibus exterioribus deprehendit interiora, non decipiat te. Nam quandoque immittit cordi lęta, vt inaniter gaudeas, quandoque triſtia, vt dolendo dimittas aliqua bona, quæ potuiſſes facere, & vt ante miſerias fias miſera, & dolorosa. Quandoque etiam diabolus immittit cordi deluſo, & volenti placere mundo multas falſitates, per quas decipiantur multi ſicut falſis prophetis. Et hoc contingit homini, qui plus aliud diligit, quam ipſum Deum. Ideo contingit, quod in multis falſis verbis inueniuntur multa vera, quia diabolus nunquam decipere poſſet, niſi falſitati admiſceret veritatem, ſicut patuit in illo arreptitio, quem vidiſti, qui licet confiteretur vnum Deum, impudicus tamen geſtus, & verba alia extranea oſtendebant, quod diabolus erat in eo poſſeſſor, & inhabitator. Nunc autem quærere poteris, cur permitto diabolo mentiri? Reſpondeo. Hoc permiſi, & permitto propter peccata populorum, & clericorum, qui illa ſcire voluerunt, quæ Deus noluit eos ſcire vbi proſperari deſiderabant, vbi Deus videbat ſaluti eorum non proficere. Propterea Deus multa permittit propter peccata, quæ non contingerent, ſi homo non abuteretur gratia, & ratione. Illi vero Prophetæ, qui nihil deſiderabant niſi Deum, nec verba Dei loqui voluerunt niſi propter Deum, iſti non decipiebantur, ſed verba veritatis loquebantur, & dilexerunt. Veruntamen ſicut omnia ſomnia non ſunt recipienda, ſic nec omnia ſunt contemnenda. Quia quandoque etiam Deus malis inſpirat bona, & exitus ſuos, vt reſipiſcant a peccatis ſuis. Quandoque etiam bonis bona in ſomnijs, vt amplius proficiant ad Deum. Ideo quando & quoties tibi aliqua talia occurrerint non apponas cor tuum, ſed pondera, & diſcerne illa cum amicis tuis ſapientibus ſpiritualibus, aut dimitte, & exclude ea de corde tuo quaſi non viſa, quia qui talibus delectatur, frequentius illuditur, & perturbatur. Ergo eſto ſtabilis in fide ſanctæ Trinitatis, dilige Deum toto corde. Eſto obediens tam in contrarijs, quam in proſperis. Nulli te præferas in cogitationibus tuis. Sed time etiá in benefactis. Non præteras ſenſus tuos ſenſibus aliorum, voluntatemque tuam totam committe Deo parata ad omnia, quæ velit Deus, tunc timere non habes ſomnia, ſi enim lęta fuerint non credas eis, vel non appetas, niſi ibi perpendatur honor Dei. Si vero triſtia fuerint non contriſteris, ſed pone te totam ad Deum. Deinde loquebatur Mater. Ego ſum Mater miſericordiæ, quæ filiæ dormienti præparo veſtes, filiæ induenti ſe præparo cibum, filiæ laboranti præparo coronam, & omne bonum.

NOTAE.

VEruntamen ſicut omnia ſomnia non ſunt recipienda, ſic nec omnia ſunt contemnenda.

Hic

Hic Beatæ Brigittæ textus nobis ansam præbet, vt aliqua de somnijs in medium efferamus, & eo maxime, quod indicat quædam somnia non esse contemnenda, quædam vero reicienda, quæ quoniam, vt plurimum dæmonum calliditate, ac malitia occurrunt, ideo admonet nos, quod talia discernamus cum amicis nostris sapientibus, & spiritualibus, nosque debere diligentes esse ad eorum differentias inuestigandas. D. Gregor. Hortatur lib. 4. Dialog. cap. 48. inter illusiones inquit, & Reuelationes ipsas visionum voces, & imagines quondam intimo sopore discernunt, vt scias quid a bono spiritu percipiant, & quid ab illusore patiantur: nam si erga hæc mens hominis cauta non esset, per deceptorem spiritum multis se vanitatibus immergeret. Caterum negari non potest, quod sicut pluribus somnijs fides nulla præstanda est, ita quædã esse vera fatendum est, nam quis audeat affirmare ea non esse vera, quæ multis per somnium in sacris litteris relata esse, & reuelata legimus, vt Salomoni, Abimalech, Iosepho, Magis, & Pilati vxori, aliisque non paucis, ac etiam mendacij, & superstitionis redarguendi essent Medici, & philosophi, qui ad morbos iudicandos curandosque frequenter obseruant somnia, ex quibus aperte colligitur aliqua diuinitus hominibus emitti, & per ea plurima prædici, quod etiam probant D. Gregor. vbi supra, Tertullianus in Apologetico cap. 23. Diuus Bernardus ad sororem, de modo bene viuendi serm. 68. Diuus Isidorus de summo bono lib. 3. cap. 6. Diuus Antoninus 2. par. tit. 12. cap. primo 6 & 8. Diuus Thomas 2. 2. q. 95. art. 6. Martinus del Rio in lib. disquisit. magicarum Tomo secundo libro quarto cap. tertio quæst. 6. Benedictus Pererius fuse in Commentarijs super Danielem libro primo quæstio. prima, & de Magia lib. 2. quæstio. 2. ex quibus omnibus ad quatuor capita somniorum causas reuocandas esse colligimus: quas quisque potest diligenter scrutari, & fusius apud illos legere, nobis autem, vt præsentis capitis doctrinæ palam fiat, de somniorum differentijs breuiter disserendum est, & inuestigandum; quæ vera sint, quæ a cælitus immissa, aut quæ inutilia, quæue dæmonum illusiones atque insidiæ postissimum signa sunt, ex quibus deprehendere possumus à Deo in somnijs nobis aliquid reuelari. Primum quidem, si ea somnia tendant, vt nobis manifestent, ea quæ solius Dei cognitioni reseruata sunt, nec possunt homini innotescere nisi Dei beneficio, ac munere, præsertim cum illa eminentissima sunt, ac præstantissima, vt nostræ fidei mysteria, arcana cœlestia, & alia huius generis, quæ ad hominum salutem iustificationem, & optimum regimen spectant, & idcirco in præsenti capite paulo post citata verba huius noctis legimus, quandoque etiam bonis bona in somnijs occurrunt, vt amplius proficiant ad Deum: cum ergo hominum, erga Deum profectum somnia indicant, illa à Deo esse nullus de cætero ambigat, aliud autem signum cælitus emissi somnij est, cum ad illud sequitur magna in homine illuminatio, & maxima commotio, qua Deus sic mentes illustrat, sic homines de fide, eiusque somnij auctoritate certiorem facit, vt Deum esse auctorem liquido cognoscat, atque ex his dedusi possunt duo alia signa indicantia, quæ à dæmone somnia sint. Primum quidem si frequenter accidant, vesque occultas, & futuras periendant, quarum cognitio, nec ad propriam, nec aliorum vtilitatem conferat, sed ad scientiæ ostentationem, vel etiam ad aliquod patrandum malum. Aliud vero signum est, si castis, sobrijs, & pijs viris obscœna, inhonesta, & crudelitatis plena somnia contingant: atque hæc à dæmone manare perspicuum est, qui impuris somnijs dormientium studet maculare corpora, vt etiam eius fœditatis si fieri potest sua animus particeps. Postremum vero signum est, cum in principio somnia lætitiam quandam inanem afferunt, & in fine timorem, tunc à dæmone illa esse probabiliter conijci potest, est enim dæmonis via in principio per aliquod breue temporis spatium delectabilis, sed in fine dolorosa, vt tradit Beata Brigitta lib. 3. Reuelationum cap. 12. & è contra cum initio timorem somnia inuenium, & in fine gaudium à Deo prouenire censenda sunt, cæterum hoc loco admonere lectorem censui, quod licet quædam, vt diximus somnia vera sint, non tamen his facile fides præstanda est, cum ea ex diuersis rerum causis nascantur, quas tamen frequenter ignoramus, sæpissime namque fit, vt admonuit Bernardus vbi supra, dæmones curiosos quosdam, & somnia obseruantes ita decipere, vt ea aliquando somnia non aliter eueniant, quam quod ipsi dicunt, & ideo aliquando vera pronunciant, vt in multis fallant, idem obseruauit D. Isidorus ijsdem plane verbis, quibus Bernardus, non inquit somnijs fides adhibenda est, ne forte sathanas in Angelum lucis se transformans, quem-libet incautum fallat, & aliqua erroris fraude decipiat, nonnunquam interdum dæmones deceptoria fraude ius quosdam curiosos, obseruantesque illudunt, vt quædam somnia non aliter eueniant, quam offendantur, vt enim in multis fallunt, interdum vera pronunciant.

VERBA MATRIS AD Filium de ſponſa. Et reſponſio Chriſti ad Matrem. Item verba Matris, quid deſignatur per Leonem, & per Agnum. Et qualiter Deus permittit propter ingratitudinem, & impatientiam hominum euenire, quę aliter eis non euenirent.

CAP. XXXIX.

MATER loquitur ad filium ſuum Ieſum dicens. Filia noſtra eſt quaſi Agnus, qui ponit caput ſuum in os Leonis. Cui reſpondit filius, melius eſſet, quod Agnus ponat caput in os Leonis, vt ſit cum Leone vna caro, & vnus ſanguis, quam quod Agnus fugat ſanguinem de carne Leonis. Vnde, & Leo indignaretur, & Agnus cibus eius eſt fœnum infirmaretur. Verancamen Mater chariſſima, quia omnem ſapientiam, & plenitudinem totius prudentiæ portaſti in vtero tuo, fac iſtam intelligere quid ſit Leo, & quid ſit Agnus. Reſpondit Mater Benedictus es tu fili mi, qui æternaliter manens cum Patre deſcendiſti ad me, & tamen
1 tu a Patre nunquam ſeparaſti. 1 Tu denique
2 es leo, ſed de tribu Iuda. 2 Tu Agnus ſine macula, quem Ioannes digito demonſtrauit. Ille ergo ponit caput in os leonis, qui primo voluntatem ſuam committit Deo, nec eam etiam ſi poſſet perficere vellet, niſi tibi ſciret complacere. Ille vero fugit ſanguinem leonis, qui de iuſtitia, & diſpoſitione ſua impatiens optat, & nititur ad alia obtinenda, quam tu ei conſtitueras, velletque in alio ſtatu exiſtere, quam tibi placere, & ſibi ipſi expediret. De talibus enim non placatur Deus, ſed ad iram prouocatur. Sicut enim Agni cibus eſt fœnum, ſic homo de humilibus rebus, & ſtatu, contentari debet. Et ideo propter ingratitudinem, & impatientiam hominum multa permittit Deus, quæ ſaluti hominum ſi patientes eſſent, non euenirent.

Ideo filia da voluntatem tuam Deo, & ſi minus quandoque fueris patiens ſurge per pœnitentiam, quia pœnitentia eſt, ſicut bona lotrix macularum. Contritio vero eſt bona candidatrix.

NOTAE.

1 TV denique es leo de tribu Iuda. *Chriſtum Dominum Leoni, & Leonis catulo ſimilem dixerunt ſancti Patres, Leoni quidem quia Deus, catulo vero Leonis, quia filius Dei ſecundum eſt paruulus, per humanæ naturæ aſſumptionem. inſuper quemadmodum Leo dormiens nullum timet, vigilantem vero cætera animalia timent, ita Chriſtus Dominus accubans dormiuit vt Leo, quia moriens de dæmone triumphum reportauit, & mortem vicit: quandoquidem quando voluit reſurrexit, & ideo Apocalyps. quinto aſſirmauit D. Ioannes vicit Leo de tribu Iuda, idem annotarunt Eusebius de ſpiritualibus formulis cap. 50. D. Dionyſius de cæleſti Hierarchia cap. 2. Origen in num. hom. 16. & ſuper Geneſ. homil. 17. D. 2 Tu es Agnus immaculata, quem Ioannes digito demonſtrauit. *In omnibus veteris teſtamenti figuris Chriſtum innocentem, ſine vlla macula peccati fuiſſe, præſignatum, quis dubitat? Agnus figurabat, vt immaculatus ſit, ſi cum in hoc caſu Beatiſſima Virgo Agno comparetur, ſua autem Agnus ille gratia ſine macula, & peccatis filij Iſrael ab ægyptiana ſeruitute liberati ſunt, vt Exodi 12. & Leuitici primo ſcribitur, ſic Chriſtus ſine peccato erat, & paſſione ſua a Diabolica ſeruitute liberatiſſimus, eoque magis illius Agni figuram gerebat, quo ipſe, & ſimplex erat, & innocens, quæ ſine Agnus ad victimam ducitur eſt, nec aperuit os ſuum, his addendum eſſe arbitror, quia licet in templo alia forent ſacrificia certis temporibus, vnum tamen reperiebatur quotidianum, in quo ſingulis vnus Agnus mane, & alius veſperi offerebatur, hoc ergo Iuge ſacrificium, quod beatitudinis perpetuitatem figurabat de Agno fiebat, ſic & Chriſtus, qui & Agnus Dei eſt, quotidie pro peccatis populi, & in Eccleſia vſque ad diem iudicij immolabatur, vnde merito Agnus ſine macula hoc loco appellatur, ſicut alia plura ex ſanctis Patribus annotarunt, vt D. VERBA VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam declarantia, quæ ſit Chriſtiana mors. Et quomodo homo bene moritur, aut male. Et quomodo amici Dei non debent tribulari ſi viderint ſeruos Dei corporaliter mori, & crudeliter.

CAP. XL.

ILIVS Dei loquitur: Noli timere filia, non morietur iſta infirma, quia placent mihi opera eius. Cumq; illa eſſet mortua. Iterum dixit filius Dei. Ecce filia verum eſt, quod dixi tibi, non eſt illa mortua, quia gloria eius magna eſt.

1 1 Nã ſeparatio corporis, & animæ iuſtorũ, non eſt niſi ſomnus, quia euigilant in æterna vita. Illa vero dicenda eſt mors, quando anima ſeparata à corpore viuit in æterna morte. Multi quippe non attendentes futura, optant, vt moriantur Chriſtiana morte.

2 2 Quid enim eſt Chriſtiana mors, niſi mori, ſicut ego mortuus ſum, innocenter, voluntarie, & patienter. Nunquid ego ideo contemnendus ſum, quia mors erat contemptibilis, & dura? 3 Aut ideo electi mei fatui, quia contemptibilia patiebantur, aut hoc voluit fortuna, & operabatur curſus ſtellarum? Nequaquam. Sed ideo ego, & electi mei patiebamur dura, vt oſtenderemus verbo, & exẽplo viam ad cælum eſſe duram, & vt aſſidue cogitaretur, quanta opus eſt munditia mentis, ſi tam aſpera paſſi ſunt electi, & innocentes. Ergo ſcito, quod ille moritur contemptibiliter, & male, qui diſſolute vinens moritur in voluntate peccandi, qui habens mundi proceſſum optat, vt longius viuat, & neſcit regratiari Deo. Qui vero Deũ diligit toto corde, & tribulatur innocenter deſpecta morte, aut longa infirmitate grauatur, ille & viuit, & moritur feliciter, quia mors aſpera, & minuit peccatum, & pœnam peccati, augetque coronam. Ecce reduco tibi ad memoriam duos, qui deſpecta, & amara morte iudicio hominum moriebantur, qui niſi tali morte ex miſericordia mea magna obtinuiſſent, ſaluari non fuiſſent. Sed quia Dominus non punit bis contritos corde. Ideo venerunt ad coronam. Propterea amici Dei nõ debent contriſtari, ſi flagellantur temporaliter, aut ſi amara morte moriuntur, quia feliciſſimum eſt lugere ad horam, & turbari in mundo, ne veniatur ad purgatorium grauius vbi nõ erit fuga, nec tempus laborandi.

NOTAE.

1 NAm ſeparatio corporis, & animæ non eſt niſi ſomnus, quia euigilant in æterna vita.

Ad bonam intelligentiam animadvertendum eſt quadrupliciter in ſacris literis ſomnum accipi poſſe. Primo quidem pro ſomno, ſeu dormitione naturæ, de qua Iob vndecimo loquitur, cum dicit, Securus dormias, & Marci 5. erat Ieſus in Puppi ſuper cervical dormiens. Secundo pro ſomno culpæ, & de hoc Apoſtolus Rom. 13. Tempus iam eſt de ſomno ſurgere, & Cant. quinto. Exurge, qui dormis. Tertio pro ſomno mortis, de quo prima ad Theſſalonicenſes cap. 4. Paulus nolumus autem vos ignorare fratres de dormientibus, vt non contriſtemini, hoc eſt, de defunctis, & in lib. Regum frequenter legimus dormiuit cum Patribus. Poſtremo ſumitur pro quiete futuræ gloriæ, vt Pſalm. 4. in pace in idipſum dormiam, & requieſcam, hoc autem loco proprie ſomnus ſumitur pro morte, in qua anima ſeparatur à corpore, qua propriæ reſpectu iuſtorum dormitio dicitur, quandoquidem hi ab hac mortali vita velut à leui quodam ſomno excitati, ad æternam vitam ſurgunt ibidem ſemper victuri, & ideo, ſacræ literæ, & Martyrologia mortem Sanctorum diem Natalem, aut dormitionem conſueuerunt appellare, non tamen negauim, poſſe quoque ſumi hic ſomnum pro quiete futuræ gloriæ, in qua dormire Sancti dicuntur, quia in ea mirabiliter quieſcunt, ſic etiam explicat illud Pſalm. 4. D. Auguſtinus. In pace in idipſum dormiam, & requieſcam, & tradunt Iſechius in leuiticum cap. 26. & Rupertus ſuper Oſeam cap. 1 ſecundo.

2 Quid eſt Chriſtiana mors niſi mori, ſicut ego mortuus ſum, innocenter voluntarie, & patienter.

In hoc capite Chriſtus Dominus definit, qualis ſit piorum hominum, quæ ve impiorum mors, tres autem virtutes propalat ſe habuiſſe cum mortuus eſt, infirmam, hic etiam nobis in morte noſtra opus eſſe, vtpe nimirum innocentia, patientia, & propenſa moriendi pro Chriſto voluntate, atque hæc ſi Chriſtianus bonus aſſequi ſtuduerit, dubium non eſt, quin ipſe quoque Chriſtiana morte moriturus non ſit, mala namque mors putanda non eſt, quando bona vita præceſſit, non enim facit malam mortem, niſi quod ſequitur mortem, ſic habetur in ſententijs ex Auguſtino excerptis ſententia 50. Tomo ſexto, ſed fuſius, hæc de re agit in libro, quem edidit de ſalutaribus documentis cap. 16. & aliquanto poſt hoc eodem capite deſcribitur, qualis ſit malorum hominum mors, ea ſcilicet, quam ſequitur peccandi voluntas, vſque ad finem vitæ, de qua Dominus Ioan. 8. & in peccato veſtro moriemini, & de hac legimus Chriſtum, cum B. Brigitta loquentem. hæc protuliſſe verba, ergo ſcito, quod ille moritur contemptibiliter, & male, qui diſſolute viuens moritur in voluntate peccandi, horum autem generis mortes ſi quis liberius conſideraret, animo credendæ eſt; eum magis quamcunque etiam graviſſimam ſubire velle pœnam, quam huiuſmodi morte vitam ſuam finire, vt auctor eſt D. Auguſtinus lib. 1. contra aduerſarium legis, & Prophetarum cap. 16. huius generis, inquit, mortes, per quas anima mittuntur in gehennam, ſi quis fideliter, vt dignum eſt cogitauerit, valde vili eſtimabit quamlibet ingentiſſimam fragem, & ſanguinis fluuios mortalium corporum, & quomodocunque quandocunque mortuorum.

3 Aut ideo electi mei fatui, quia contemptibilia patiebantur, aut hoc vbique fortuna, & operabatur curſus ſtellarum nequaquam, ſed ideo ego, & electi mei patiebantur dura, vt oſtenderemus verbo, & exemplo viam ad cælum eſſe duram.

VERBA MATRIS AD filiam, quod ſacerdotes rite habentes abſolutionis officium quantuncunque peccatores ſint, poſſunt abſolvere à peccatis. Et ſic de ſacramento Euchariſtiæ.

CAP. XLI.

MATER Loquitur. Vade ad eum, qui officiũ abſolutionis habet, quantuncunque enim oſtiarius leproſus eſt, nihilominus aperire poteſt portã, ſi habet claues, ſicut ſanus. Ita eſt etiam de abſolutione, & ſacramento Altaris, qualiſcunque enim miniſter eſt, ſi tamen rite habet officium abſolutionis, póteſt abſoluere a peccatis. Ideo nullus eſt contemnendus. Veruntamen præmoneo eum de duobus. Vnum eſt, quod filiũ, quod carnaliter diligit, & optat non habebit. Aliud eſt, quod vita eius breuiabitur citius. Et ſicut formica portans die, ac nocte granum, aliquando cum appropinquat foramini cadit, & moritur in introitu, grano remanente ab extra. Sic ipſe cum inceperit peruenire ad fructum laboris ſui, morietur, & pro ſuperuacuo labore ſuo conſumetur, & patietur.

VERBA MATRIS AD filiam, qualiter mores boni, & opera iuſtitiæ per poſtes in amicis Dei deſignantur. Et quomodo ſerui debent cauere à detractione.

CAP. XLII.

MATER loquitur. Amici dei dicuntur eſſe quaſi duo poſtes, per quos ingreſſuri ſunt alij. Ideo cauendum eſt diligenter, ne quid aſperum, vel durum obſiſtat ingredientibus, aut vnde comprimantur. Quid autem ſignificant poſtes, niſi mores compoſitos, operaque iuſtitiæ, & verba ædificatoria, quæ apparere dicunt, quotidie in amicis Dei. Ideo caueatur attente, ne quid durum, ideſt verbum detractorium, vel ſcurrile inueniatur in ore amicorum Dei. Aut in operibus eorum aliqua mundialia notentur, propter quæ ingredi volentes refugiant, & ingreſſi abominentur.

CAP. XLIII.

MATER loquitur. Iſti ſunt ſimiles vermi, qui videns ſemen opẽnum, non curat quantuncunq; fructus pereat, vel cadat, dummodo radices, ſeu proximiora terræ carpere poſſit. Sic iſti non curant, quod animæ pereant, ſi lucra ſua, & temporalia bona conſequantur. Ideo veniet eis iuſtitia filij mei, & citius ſubtrahentur. Reſpondit illa. Omne tempus apud deum non eſt, niſi quaſi momentũ ſtatere, quantuncunque apud nos eſt longum. Ideo patientia filij tui eſt magna etiam ſuper iniquos. Reſpondit Mater. Vere dico tibi, non protrahetur iudicium eorum, ſed veniet eis horribile, & rapientur a delitijs ad confuſionem.

VERBA CHRISTI AD sponsam, qualiter corpus per nauem, & mundus per mare designantur. Et qualiter voluntas est libera ad animas perducendum in cælum, vel in infernum. Et qualiter terrena pulchritudo vitro comparatur.

CAP. XLIV.

ILIVS Dei loquitur. Audi tu quæ desideras portum post mundi procellas. Omnis quicunque est in mari non debet timere aliquid si ille cum eo stat, qui prohibere potest ventos ne flent. Qui omnia corporalia, quæ nocere volunt iubet abscedere. Scopulosque mollescere, qui procellis imperare habet, vt nauem perducant ad quietum portum. Sic corporaliter in mundo sunt aliqui quasi nauis perducens corpus super aquas mundi, alijs in consolationem, alijs in tribulationem, quia voluntas hominis libera quasdam animas perducit in cælum, quasdam in profundum inferni. Illa ergo voluntas, quæ nihil desiderat feruentius audire, quam honorem Dei, nec ad aliud viuere, quam vt possit Deo seruire, ipsa placet Deo, quia in tali voluntate gaudenter moratur Deus, & mitigat omnia pericula animæ, scopulosque quietat, in quibus anima multoties periclitatur. Quid autem sunt scopuli nisi desiderium malum? Nam delectabile est videre possessiones mundi, & possidere, gaudere de corporis sui honore, & gustare quicquid delectat carnem. In talibus enim multoties periclitatur anima. Sed quando Deus in naui est omnia mollescunt, & anima omnia ista contemnit, quia omnis pulchritudo corporea, & terrena similis est vitro depicto ab extra, sed intus pleno terra. Fracto autem vitro non habet plus vtilitatis, quam terra nigra, quæ ad nihil aliud creata est, vt possideatur, nisi vt per eam ematur cælum. Itaque omnis homo, qui non plus desiderat audire honorem suum, seu mundi, quam nociuum aerem, qui omnia membra corporis sui mortificat, & voluptatem carnis suæ abominabilem detestatur. Hic quiete requiescere potest, & gaudenter euigilare, quia Deus est cum eo in omni hora.

VERBA QVAERIMONIAE sponsæ coram Imperatoris maiestate, ex eo, quod sorores quattuor filiæ regis Iesu Christi, scilicet humilitas, abstinentia, contentatio, charitas, nunc, proh dolor, annihilantur. Et sorores filiæ regis diaboli, scilicet superbia, delectatio, superfluitas, & simonia vocantur Dominæ &c.

CAP. XLV.

CONQVAEROR Non solum ex parte mea, sed etiam ex parte multorum electorum Dei coram Imperiali maiestate vestra. Quod erant quattuor sorores filiæ potentis regis, quarum quælibet habebat sedem, & potestatem in patrimonio suo. Quicunque enim volebant inspicere pulchritudinem istarum sororum obtinebant consolationem ex pulchritudine earum, & bona exempla ex earum deuotione. Prima vocabatur soror humilitas in omnium agendarum rerum dispositione. Secunda vocabatur soror abstinentia ab omni ioquinata conuersatione. Tertia vocabatur soror contentatio sine omni superfluitate. Quarta vocabatur soror charitas in proximorum tribulatione. Iste autem quattuor sorores, sunt iam in patrimonio suo annihilatæ, & quasi ab omnibus contemptæ. In quarum sedibus sunt aliæ quattuor illegitimæ sorores institutæ, quæ à fornicario progenitæ sunt, & vocantur iam dominæ. Quarum prima vocatur domina superbia, quæ est ad placendum mundo. Secunda vocatur domina delectatio, secundum omnem carnis appetitum. Tertia vocatur domina superfluitas, super omnem necessitatem. Quarta vocatur domina simonia, a cuius deceptione se quasi nullus custodire potest, quia verum iuste, vel iniuste acquisitum sit, quod recipit, tamen omnia recipit cum cupiditate. Istæ vero quattuor Dominæ loquuntur contra præcepta Dei, volentes ea annihilare, & tribuunt occasionem multis animabus ad æternam damnationem. Propterea domine facite propter charitatem, quæ Deus vobiscum fecit, & iuuate istas quattuor sorores, quæ vocantur virtutes, quæ processerunt de ipsa virtute Iesu Christo summo Rege. Quæ & iam depressæ sunt in ſancta Eccleſia, quæ eſt patrimonium Chriſti, vt exaltentur citius. Et vt vitia, quæ vocantur Dominæ in mundo, deprimantur, quæ ſunt proditrices animarum, quia natę ſunt de ipſo vitio diabolo proditore.

ſponſę ad quendam Dominum de reſtitutione facienda de iniuſte acquiſitis. Et de voce Angeli ſententiam contra ipſum proferentis crudelem.

CAP. XLVI.

DOMINE. Vos de periculo animę veſtræ præcaueo. Reducendo ad memoriam, quomodo Rex quidam in veteri teſtamento legitur vnius hominis vineam deſideraſſe, & pro vinea plenum pretium præbuiſſe. Sed quia poſſeſſori non placuit vineam vendere. Indignatus Rex, vineam ſibi per iniuſtitiam, & violentiam vſurpauit. Ad quem poſtmodum Spiritus ſanctus per os vnius Prophetæ loquebatur, iudicans Regẽ, ac Reginam, pro illa iniuſtitia turpiſſima morte debere mori. Quod vero in eis completum eſt. Ipſorumque liberi de prędictæ vineæ poſſeſſionem nequaquam ſunt lætati. Nunc igitur cum vos Chriſtianus eſtis, & fidem integraliter habetis, & ſcitis certiſſime eundem Deum, nunc eſſe, qui tunc erat, & ita potentem, & iuſtum ſicut tunc. Ideo ſine omni hęſitatione ſcire poteſtis, quod ſi aliquid poſſidere deſideraueritis iniuſte, aut cogendo poſſeſſorem ad vendendum contra velle ſuum, aut nullum pretium pro eo exhibendo, vindex erit ille potẽs, & iuſtus iudex. Vos quoque in doloribus timere habetis tale iudicium ſuper vos venire, quale ſuper illam reginam legitur peruenisſe, veſtroſque liberos de male acquiſitis non ditari, ſed magis inopia tribulari. Te igitur per Ieſu Chriſti paſſionem, qui tuam animam ſuo pretioſo ſanguine redemit hortor, & admoneo, vt animam tuam pro aliquibus tranſitorijs perſonaliter non diſperdas, ſed omnibus iniuſte a te, vel ob tui cauſam damnificatis, plene ſatisfacias, & quicquid iniuſte acquiſiti reſtituas, illis ad cõſolationem, qui nunc dolorem patiuntur, atque aliis in exemplum, ſi Dei amicitiam volueris obtinere. Deus eſt mihi teſtis, quod tibi iſta non ſcribo a me, cum tui notitiam non habeã, ſed illud, quod vni perſonæ contigit hoc me cum diuina compaſſione animę tuæ compulit ad ſcribendum. Illa enim perſona non dormiens, ſed vigilans, audiuit in orationibus ſuis vocem Angeli dicentis. Vrſæ Vrſæ, qui nimis audax es contra Deũ, & iuſtitiam, tua voluntas vicit in te conſcientiam tuam. Ita quod conſcientia tua omnino tacet, & voluntas loquitur, & operatur. Ideo cito venies in iudicium ante iudicium Dei, & voluntas tua ſilentium tenebit, & conſciẽtia tua loquetur, & teipſum ſecundum iuſtitiæ rectitudinem iudicabit.

VERBA FILII AD SPONSAM,

quomodo diaboli tentationibus debemus præcauere. Et qualiter diabolus per hoſtem, Deus per gallinam, eius potentia, & ſapientia per alas, eius miſericordia per pennas, & homines per pullos deſignantur.

CAP. XLVII.

FILIVS loquitur. Si hoſtis pulſat ad ianuam, non debetis eſſe, ſicut capræ currentes ad murum. Nec ſicut arietes, qui eleuantes ſe pedibus anterioribus, mutuo ſe impingunt cornibus, ſed eſtote ſicut pulli, qui videntes in aere auem volentem nocere eis, fugiunt ſub alas matris, vt abſcondantur. Qui etiam ſi non plus, quam vnam pennam matris valent apprehendere, & ſub illa ſe contegere gaudent. 1 Quis autem eſt hoſtis veſter niſi diabolus, qui omnibus bonis actibus inuidet, cuius pulſare eſt mentem hominis tentationibus commouere, pulſat quippe quandoque ira, & detractione, quandoque impatientia, & dijudicatione iudiciorum Dei, quando ſcilicet omnia non ſuccedunt ad votum ſuum, immo etiam frequentius pulſat, & inquietat vos innumeris cogitationibus, vt a ſeruitio Dei abſtrahamini, & vt opera veſtra bona apud Deum obfuſcentur. Ideo qualeſcunque fuerint cogitationes veſtræ non debetis dimittere locum veſtrum, nec eſſe ſicut capræ currentes ad murum, ideſt, habere duritiam cordis, aut iudicare opera aliena in cordibus veſtris, quia ſæpius, qui hodie eſt malus, eras bonus eſt. 2 Sed debetis ſubmittere cornua veſtra, & ſtare, & auſcultare, ideſt humiliare vos, & timere, habendo patientiam, & rogando Deum, vt male incepta in meliora conuertantur.

Nec

3 Nec etiam esse debetis sicut arietes ventilantes cornibus, ideſt verba dare pro verbis & improperia iungere improperijs, ſed ſtare debetis conſtanter ſupra pedes, & ſilere, ideſt fortiter reprehendere affectiones carnis, vt in loquendo, & reſpondendo habeatis præmeditationem, & violentiam quandam cum patientia, quia viri iuſti eſt vincere ſe ipſum, & a licitis etiam locutionibus, propter vitandum multiloquium, & offenſam abſtinere. Nam qui in commotione animi eſt funait nimis quod ſentit, videtur quodammodo vindicaſſe ſeipſum, & indicatle leuitatem animi ſui, & ideo vacuus erit a corona, quia noluit patientiam habere ad tempus, propter quam patientiam, & fratrem offendentem, lucratus fuiſſet, & ſeipſum ad maiorem
4 coronam præparaſſet. 4 Quid uero ſunt alæ gallinæ, niſi potentia, & ſapientia diuina? Ego quippe ſum quaſi gallina, qui pullos currentes ad uocem meam, ideſt deſiderantes obumbrationem alarum mearum, & potenter defendo a diaboli laqueis, & ſapienter inſpirationibus meis prouoco ad ſalutem. Quid vero eſt penna niſi miſericordia mea, quam qui obtinuerit ita ſecurus eſſe poteſt, ſicut pullus, qui ſub alis matris reſouetur. Ergo eſtote ſicut pulli currentes ad voluntatem meam, & in omnibus tentationibus, & cõtrarijs dicite voce, & operibus fiat voluntas Dei, quia ego confidentes in me defendo potentia mea. Refero miſericordia mea, teneo potentia mea, viſito conſolatione mea, & illumino ſapientia mea. Remunero in centuplum charitate mea.

NOTAE.

1 QVis autem eſt hoſtis veſter niſi diabolus, qui omnibus bonis actibus inuidet.

Aduerſarius, & hoſtis is proprie dicitur qui odio aliquem proſequens, ei mala procurat, atque hinc dæmones hoſtes in primis noſtri ſunt, qui nobis inuidentes, id quod optimum eſt, nempe animam proſequuntur, quam perdere nituntur, de quo Petrus apoſtolus in prima ſuæ canonicæ cap. 5. ſcribit aduerſarius veſter diabolus tanquam leo rugiens, circuit quærens quem deuoret; atque hunc in pluribus ſacrarum litterarum locis hoſtem, & inimicum appellari compertum eſt, vt Matth. 13. dicitur. Inimicus homo Lucæ 10. ad Timot. 5. Hebræorum 10. quod etiam annotauerunt D. Gregorius ſuper primum regum cap. 2. Arnob. ſuper pſal. 60. Origen. in Leuit. Homil. 16. & ſuper Lucam Hom. 35 & 38. D. Aug. ſuper pſal. 30. D. Baſil. ſuper pſal. 29. & 37.

2 Sed debetis ſubmittere cornua veſtra, & stare, & auſcultare, ideſt humiliare uos.

In præſenti nota Chriſtus Dominus per Beatam Brigittam nos admonet, vt noſtra cornua ſubmittamus, atque virtutem humilitatis & patientiæ aſſequi ſtudeamus, cornua autem ſubmittere non aliud ſignificare arbitror, quam prauos concupiſcentiæ affectus reprimere, atque fugere, virtutem prompte humilitatis, & patientiæ ſectari, & hoc eſt quod paulo infra legimus, ſed ſtare debetis conſtanter ſupra pedes, & ſilere, ideſt fortiter reprehendere affectiones carnis, qua propter egregie D. Gregorius Magnus libro primo Regum cap. 16. explicans illud cap. 3. Regum. Tulit igitur Samuel cornu olei, & vnxit eum in medio fratrum, cornu inquit recipit in ſublimitate ordinis, oleum ad fomenta virtutis, ſed pleno cornu vngitur, vt virtus Pontificis plena doceatur cornu nanque plenum in vnctione ſua habet, ſi iam in virtute patientiæ, quam miſericordiæ perfectus eſt.

3 Nec etiam eſſe debetis ſicut arietes, uentilantes cornibus, ideſt dare uerba pro uerbis.

Ex his verbis liquido conſtat quid Dominus per cornua ventilare indicare voluerit, nimirum verba dare pro verbis, & quidem cum ventilare aliud non ſit, quam ventum excitare, vel in ventum aliquid mittere, agitare, & verſare, ſic quoque ille, qui verba dat, non aliud facere videtur, quam vel ventum excitare, aut aerem pugno, vel calcibus verberare, quod proprie de eo dicitur, qui incaſſum aliquid facit, vnde Paulus Apoſtolus primo Corin. 9. indicare volens ſe non fruſtra contra mundum carnem, & dæmonem pugnare, ſed pugnando aduerſarios vincere, non nudis verbis, ſed affectuoſis precibus, ac bonis operibus dicit ſic pugno, non quaſi aerem verberans.

4 Quid uero ſunt alę gallinę niſi potentia, & ſapientia diuina, ego quippe ſum quaſi gallina, qui pullos currentes ad uocem meam, ideſt deſiderantes obumbrationem alarum mearum, & potenter defendo a diaboli laqueis, & ſapienter inſpirationibus meis prouoco ad ſalutem.

Duas Redemptor noſter Chriſtus in præſenti nola de ſe ipſo loquens ſimilitudines affert. Primo quidem potentiam ſuam, ac ſapientiam alis gallinæ comparat: ſecundo vero ſeipſum ipſimet gallinæ ſimilem facit, & quidem cum Deus cunctorum ſit creator hominum, idem quoque conſeruator, ac protector eorum eſt, eoſque duabus veluti alis defendit, ac protegit, potentia nimirum, ac ſapientia, potentia quidem, qua illos ab hoſte potente potenter eripit, ſapientia vero, qua eoſdem per ſacram doctrinam contra dæmonis aſtutiam tuetur, hominemque ad ſe trahit, nullam vim libero inferendo arbitrio, vnde hanc a Deo Dauid protectionem petens cecinit pſ. 16. Sub vmbra alarum tuarum protege me, quod exponens Diuus Hieronymus, ſub iſta inquit vmbra protege me, vt me non rapiat Milvus, & ſub duobus Teſtamentorum alis, ideſt ipſorum doctrinis, quibus vtuntur, cuſtoditur, ac regitur, ſicut gallina, quia per gallinam intelligitur ſapientia Dei Patris: ſicut enim gallina ſub alis pullos ſuos abſcondit propter Miluos, ſic & ſapientia diuina, et duo ala, quæ ſunt duo teſtamenta, protegunt Eccleſiam, idem annotarunt Arnob. in pſal. 16. & 90. D. Aug. de eſſentia diuinitatis. Poſtremo Chriſtus ipſemet gallinæ ſimilis hic eſſe dicitur, quia ſicut illa de more quodam affectu ſuos protegit pullos, & ad cibum conuocat, eorumq. infirmitatibus affecta infirmatur, & in Miluum inſurgit, ſic Chriſtus per carnis aſſumptionem infirmatus nos protegit, conſeruat, ac nutrit, ſuisq. alis a dæmonum incurſibus tutatur, quod etiam tradiderunt Origenes in Matth. hom. 26. D. Aug. de verbis Domini ſerm. 29. Eucherius de ſpiritualibus formulis cap. 5 Ludulphus de vita Chriſti 2. par. cap. 38.

CAP. XLVIII.

ILIVS Dei loquitur. Si iſte Rex velit me honorare: Primo minuat dedecus meum, & augeat honorem meum: dedecus quippe meum eſt, quod præcepta mea quæ præcepi, & verba quæ perſonaliter loquutus ſui contemnuntur, & quaſi a pluribus pro nihilo reputantur. Si igitur velit me diligere, habeat amodo maiorem charitatem ad animas omnium, pro quibus ego aperui cœlum cum ſanguine cordis mei. Si autem plus deſiderat requiem, quæ eſt cum Deo, quam dilatare patrimonium ſuum, habebit profecto maiorem delectationem, & auxilium a Deo reuincere locum illum Hieruſalem, in quo iacuit mortuum corpus meum. Dic inſuper tu, quæ hæc audis. Ego Deus permiſi eum coronari. Ideo ad ipſum pertinet plus ſequi voluntatem meam, & me ſuper omnia honorare, & diligere? Quod ſi non fecerit breuiabuntur dies eius.

Mi quoque, qui carnaliter eum diligunt, ſeparabuntur ab eo cum tribulatione, Regnumque eius in plures partes diuidetur.

CAP. XLIX.

VNI perſonæ videbatur quaſi quod eſſet in magno choro. 1 Et apparuit ſol magnus, & lucens, duoq. ſedes quaſi prædicator in choro erant, vna a dexteris, aliaq. a ſiniſtris, diſtantes a ſole longo ſpatio, & interuallo, duoq. radij de ſole ad ſedes procedebant. Tunc vox vna audiebatur de ſede, quę ad ſiniſtram partem erat, dicens. Aue Rex in æternum, creator, & redemptor, iuſtuſq. iudex. 2 Ecce Vicarius tuus, qui ſedet in ſede tua in mundo, reduxit iam ſedem ſuam in antiquum, & priorem locum, vbi ſedit primus Papa Petrus, qui fuit Princeps Apoſtolorum. Reſpondit vox de dextra ſede dicens. Quomodo, inquit, poterit intrare in ſanctam Eccleſiam, in qua foramina cardinum ſunt plena rubigine, & terra? Ideo & poſtes inclinati ſunt ad terram, quia in foraminibus non eſt locus vbi vncini imprimantur, qui poſtes deberent ſuſtentare. Vncini quoq. ſunt extenſi ad plenum, nihilq. curuati ad poſtes tenendum. Ideo amicum Dei nō decet manſionem habere in tali templo. Reſpondit vox de ſede ad partem ſiniſtram. Expone, inquit, ſpiritualiter, quæ dixiſti corporaliter. 3 Tunc ait vox, Papa ſimilatur, & deſignatur in poſtibus. In foraminibus vero cardinum ſignificatur humilitas, quæ ſic vacua debet eſſe ab omni ſuperbia, vt nihil appareat in ea, niſi quod pertinet ad officium humile Pontificale, ſicut foramen debet eſſe vacuum totaliter a rubigine, ſed iam foramina, ideſt humilitatis inſigna, ſunt ita repleta

VNI personę videbatur quasi quod esset in magno choro. 1 Et apparuit sol magnus, & lucens, duęq. sedes quasi prædicator in choro erant, vna a dextris, aliaq. a sinistris, distantes a sole longo spatio, & interuallo, duoq. radij de sole ad sedes procedebant. Tunc vox vna audiebatur de sede, quę ad sinistram partem erat, dicens. Aue Rex in æternum, creator, & redemptor, iustusq. iudex. 2 Ecce Vicarius tuus, qui sedet in sede tua in mundo, reduxit iam sedem suam in antiquum, & priorem locum, vbi sedit primus Papa Petrus, qui fuit Princeps Apostolorum. Respondit vox de dextra sede dicens. Quomodo, inquit, poterit intrare in sanctam Ecclesiam, in qua foramina cardinum sunt plena rubigine, & terra? Pauimentum vero totum effossum est, & conuersum in foueas profundas, ad modum puteorum profundissimorum, quæ nullum omnino habent fundum. Tectum autem est linitum pice, & ardet de igne sulphureo, stillans quasi pluuia densa. De nigredine vero, & spissitudine fumi, qui de abysso fossarum, & de stillicidijs tecti ascendit, oēs parietes maculati sunt, & ita deformes in colore ad intuendū quasi sanguis cōmixtus putrida sanie. Ideo amicum Dei nō decet mansionem habere in tali templo. Respondit vox de sede ad partem sinistram. Expone, inquit, spiritualiter, quæ dixisti corporaliter. 3 Tunc ait vox, Papa similatur, & designatur in postibus. In foraminibus vero cardinum significatur hūmilitās, quæ sic vacua debet esse ab omni superbia, vt nihil appareat in ea, nisi quod pertinet ad officium humile Pontificale, sicut foramen debet esse vacuum totaliter a rubigine, sed iam foramina, idest humilitatis insigna, sunt ita repleta

Ego Ricardus Dei gratia Episcopus Sarum, Dilecto filio Magistro Johanni de Sancto Paulo, Canonico Sarum, salutem in Domino sempiternam. Quia ex parte tua fuit nobis humiliter supplicatum, ut tibi licentiam concedere dignaremur, quod ad Ecclesiam Parochialem de Sancto Paulo, quam ad presentationem Dilectorum filiorum Abbatis et Conventus Sancti Albani, ad quos jus patronatus ejusdem Ecclesiæ pertinere dignoscitur, canonice obtinuisti, personaliter accedere, et in ea Divina celebrare valeas, nos tuis supplicationibus inclinati, tibi licentiam concedimus per præsentes ter, quod ibi latissime probat, vt etiam D. Thom. 2. 2. q. 171. art. 3. & nos ipse ostendimus in Prolegomenis ad Revelat. B. Brigitæ cap. 7. vbi has quoque revelationes prophecias esse consentias demonstramus.

3 Tunc ait vox Papa assimilatur, & designatum in postibus.

Quemadmodum per ianuam ingredientibus domus aditus patet, sic quoque per Romanum Pontificem ad Regnum cælorum ingressus hominibus datur, vnde mirum non est, si ei præsentia nota ipse postibus compararetur. Is enim est, de quo Matth. 16. scribitur, quæcunque ligaueris super terram erit ligatum, & in cælo, & quodcunque solueris super terram erit solutum, & vt alibi, meruo ergo Apostolorum Princeps Petrus Ianitor cæli vocatur, quippe qui claues eius habet, & portas aperit, vnde Isaiæ tertio. Portæ sunt, Pastores appellantur.

4 In vncinis vero, qui postibus coniungunt, significantur Cardinales.

Do superiori loco explicauimus quare Romanus Pontifex postibus comparetur, nunc vero superest ostendamus quare Cardinales, qui postibus coniungunter, Cardinales similiter esse dicantur, est enim cardo id super quod domus ostium vertitur, ipsique proxime adhæret, & sustentamina prætus Cardinales sunt, qui Consiliarij Papæ existentes simul cum eo Regimini Ecclesiastico onus portant, ac sustentant, vltimo proxime assistunt, vt cardines ostio, Cardinalitium vero idem significare videtur, quod principalis sacri, à quo alij pendent, vt à cardine ostium, vnde S. Isidorus lib. 7. Etymolog. c. 9. Cardines etiã dictos esse ostij, eo quod ab his cætera pendãt, quia per eos vertitur cuncta, & D. Augustinus lib. 1. de Baptismo cap. 8. eos qui inter hæreticos Donatistas principem locum tenebant Cardinales Donatistas appellat, & nostros primarios Cardinales aliqui vocant, sint etiam, & virtutes Cardinales, & alia fexcenta, Cæterum in reddenda ratione, quapropter Pontificis Electores Cardinales dicantur aliquata inter doctores dissensio est, nam Cardinalis Bellarminus de Clericis lib. primo cap. 16. controuersia quinta putat huiusmodi nomen fuisse primum loco impositum, & inde ad personas derivatum, quidam enim principaliores Ecclesiæ, in quibus Baptismatis conferrebatur sacramentum tituli Cardinales vocabantur, ad discrimen minus principalium; hinc illarum rectores presbyteros Cardinales appellabant; insuper ea quoque loca, quæ reperiebantur in vrbe distincta principalia, iuxta regionum numerum Diaconias Cardinales nominabant, hi vero, qui his præerant Diaconos Cardinales. Postremo Episcopi Cardinales dicti sunt sex illi, qui ad Romanum eligendum Pontificem conuenire debant, & eiusdem consiliarij erant præter cæteros alios Episcopos, quæ omnia probat ex Concil. Meldensi Can. 34. & ex Ioan. Diacono in vita S. MIHI videbatur quasi quod Rex vnus sederet in sede iudiciaria, & quælibet persona viuens staret ante illũ quælibetque persona habebat duos stantes iuxta se, quorũ vnus apparebat, quod esset quasi miles armatus. Alter vero quasi Ethiops niger. Ante vero iudicium stabat pulpitum, in quo iacebat liber eo modo dispositus, sicut viui prius, cũ ante eum tres Reges viderem stare, scilicet 8. lib. c. 48. Vidi etiam quod quasi totus mundus staret ante pulpitum, & audiui iudicem, tunc dicentem ad militem illum armatum. Voca inquit ante iudiciũ illos, quibus tu ser-

Agnus aperit primum signaculum, & audit vnum ex quatuor animalibus dicens, Veni & vide. Et vidit, & ecce equus albus, & qui sedebat super illum habebat arcum, & data est illi corona, & exiit vincens vt vinceret.

CAP. VI.

Et cum aperuisset sigillum primum, audiui vnum ex quatuor animalibus dicens tanquam vocem tonitrui, Veni & vide. Et ecce equus albus, & qui sedebat super illum habebat arcum, & data est illi corona, & exiit victor vt vinceret.

Crines quoque quasi ab igne combusti arue-runt. Cerebrum autem rumpebatur, deflues per nares, & per aures, lingua extendebatur, dentesque comprimebantur. Ossa vero in brachijs constringebantur, & quasi funes cõtorquebantur. Manus etiam decoriatæ, ad collum alligabantur. Pectus vero, & venter ita fortiter dorso coniungebantur, quod cõfractis cor cum omnibus interioribus euersum crepuit. Femora vero pendebant ad latera, ossaque confracta extrahebantur, eo modo quo filum tenue solet in globum glomerari. His visis ethiops respondit. O iudex peccata animæ iam sunt plagata secundum iustitiam. Comitte ergo nos iam ambos me scilicet, & animam, ita quod nunquã separemur. Miles vero ille armatus respondit. Audi iudex. Tu qui scis omnia, ad te iã pertinet audire victimam cogitationẽ, & affectionem, quam ista anima habebat circa finem vitæ suæ. Ipsa quippe in vltimo puncto taliter cogitauit. O si Deus vellet dare mihi spatium vitæ vellem, vtique libenter emendare peccata mea, omnique tempore vitæ meæ seruire ei, nec vnquam amplius ipsum offendere. Talia iudex cogitabat, & volebat. Memento etiam Domine, quod persona ista non tanto tempore vixit, quod obtineret plene intelligibilem conscientiam. Ideo Domine cogita immensam eius, & facito misericordiam. Tunc autem sic respondit qui est de libris iustitiæ. Talibus cogitationibus in fine non debetur infernus. Et iudex tunc ait, propter passionem inquit meam aperietur animæ cælum, purgatione prius pro peccatis recepta tanto tempore quanto tenetur pati, nisi obtinuerit auxilium ex bonis operibus aliorum viuentium.

Declaratio.

Hæc mulier vouit virginitatem in manus sacerdotis, & postea nupsit, quæ in partu postea periclitata moriebatur.

VISIO TERRIBILIS SPONSÆ, de quodam homine, & quadam muliere, & de expositione visionis sponsæ qualiter ab Angelo facta est, in qua multa mirabilia continentur.

CAP. LII.

VIDEBATVR mihi vnus homo. Cuius oculi erupti erant, sed tamen dependebant ad maxillas cum duobus neruis, hic habebat aures sicut canis, nares sicut equus, os sicut ferocissimus lupus. Manus ad modum pedum bouis maximi, pedes sicut Vulturis. Vna quoque mulier videbatur mihi iuxta eum stare, cuius crines erant sicut vepres. Oculi erant in occipite. Aures abscisæ. Nares plenæ sanie, & putredine. Labia sicut dentes serpentis. In lingua erat aculeus venenosus. Manus erant sicut duæ caudæ vulpinæ. Pedes sicut duo scorpiones. Dũ hæc ego viderem non dormiens, sed vigilãs, dixi. O quid istud est? Et statim quædam vox dulcisona loquebatur ad me, quæ tam consolatoria erat, quod omnis terror abscessit à me dicens. Tu ista videns, quid nam existimas illa esse? Ego respondi. Ignoro vtrum isti quos video sunt diaboli, aut bestiæ de tali bestiali natura progenitæ, siue etiam homines a Deo sic formati? Vox tunc respondit mihi. Non sunt diaboli, quia ipsi non habent corpora sicut istos habere vides. Nec sũt de genere bestiali, quoniam de stirpe Adæ sunt progeniti. Nec etiam a Deo taliter sunt creati. Sed coram Deo apparent a diabolo in animabus suis taliter deformis facti, & hæc tibi videntur quasi corporaliter. Ego tamen ostendam tibi quid significent spiritualiter. Illius hominis oculi videntur tibi erui, dependentes duobus neruis. Per duos enim nerues, duo intelliges. Primum est, quod Deum credidit æternaliter viuere. Secundũ est, quod credidit propriam suam animam post mortem corporis, æternaliter siue in bono, siue in malo victurã. Per duos vero oculos, etiam duo intelliges. Primum est, quod debuit considerare qualiter peccatum cuitare posset. Secundo quomodo valeret bona opera perficere. Ideo duo oculi, ideo eruti sunt, quia non fecit opera bona pro desiderio cælestis gloriæ, nec fugit peccata pro timore gehennalis pœnæ. Habet etiã caninas aures. Nam sicut canis nouit nomen Domini sui, neque alterius tantum curat, quantũ nomen suum proprium, si non nominari audierit, ita etiam iste non tantum curauit de honore nominis Dei, quantum de honore nominis proprij. Habet etiã equinas nares. Nam sicut equus, qui solutus est cæcto stercore suo, delectatur nares apponere illi, Similiter iste. Nam perpetrato peccato, quod coram Deo vilissimum stercus est, de ipsius fœtore dulce sibi videtur cogitare. Habet etiam os sic, vt lupus ferocissimus, qui ventre, ac ore suo repleto, ex illis, quæ viderat adhuc si aliquid aure vnum audierit, deglutire illud desiderat. Ita & iste, si omnia possideret, quæ oculis viderat, adhuc concupisceret illa, quæ alios possidere audiret. Habet etiam manus ad modum pedum fortissimi bouis, qui cum iratus fuerit, animal cui prævalet cum pedibus suis dirumpit, propter hoc vehementiam, non curans de inestimis vel de carnibus, dummodo vitam illi abſtulerit. Similiter iſte, nam quando eſt in ira, non curat, quod anima ſui inimici in infernum deſcenderet, nec qualiter corpus eius torqueretur morte, ſi vitam eius auferre poſſet. Habet etiam pedes ſicut Vultur. Nam ſicut Vultur habens aliquid inter vngues, quod ſumere eum delectat, pedem ſuper illud tam fortiter ſtringit, quod viribus pedis deficientibus præ dolore, ipſe quaſi neſciens dimittit cadere, quod tenebat, ita & iſte. Nam illa quæ iniuſte habet intendit tenere vſque ad mortem quando omnibus viribus deficientibus illa dimittere coarctabitur. Mulieres vero illius crines, videbantur ſicut vepres. In crinibus autem qui ſunt in ſummitate verticis, ornantibus faciem hominis, ſignificatur illius voluntas, quæ ſummæ ſummo Deo placere deſiderat. Hæc enim voluntas animam ſuam coram Deo adornat. Sed quia huius mulieris voluntas eſt, ſummæ huic mundo placere plus quam ſummo Deo, ideo ſui capilli apparent ſicut vepres. Oculi vero eius non apparent in occipite, quia mentales oculos auertit ab his, quæ bonitas Dei ſibi fecerat, in creando eam, in redimendo, & in diuerſis ſibi vtiliter prouidendo. Illa vera quæ tranſitoria ſunt intente reſpicit, a quibus quotidie diſcedit, donec ab aſpectu ſuo penitus euaneſcant. Aures igitur abſciſe ſpiritualiter apparent, nam minime curat doctrinam ſancti Euangelij, ſeu prædicationes audire. Nares vero plene putredine ſunt, quoniam ſicut per nares ſuauis odor ad cerebrum delectabiliter trahitur, vt cerebrum, inde fortificetur, ſic ipſa per affectiones ſuas quicquid putreſcibile corpus delectat ad ipſius fortificationem, trahit delectabiliter ad effectum. Labia vero illius ſicut dentes ſerpentis videbantur, & in lingua aculeus venenoſus. Nam dum ſerpens dentes fortiſſime conſtringit, propter defenſionem aculei, ne ab aliquo euentu frangatur, tamen ſqualor de ore eius effluit in dentes, quia ſeparatim ſunt locati. Similiter & ipſa claudit labia à confeſſione vera, ne frangatur delectatio peccati, quæ eſt animæ ſuæ aculeus venenoſus, ſqualor tamen peccati euidenter apparet coram Deo, & ſanctis eius. Dixi tibi prius de iudicio, & abiectione vnius matrimonij, qui contra ſtatuta Eccleſiæ contraxerunt. Nunc iudicabo tibi plenius de eis. Tu enim vidiſti manus mulieris ſupradictæ quaſi caudas vulpium, & pedes eius quaſi ſcorpiones. Hoc ideo eſt, quia ſicut in omnibus membris, & affectionibus erat inordinata. Sic & læuitate manuum ſuarum, & inceſſu pedum dulcedinem carnis prouocando, grauius ſcorpione animam viri pungebat. Et ecce in eodem momento apparuit ethiops, habens in manu tridentem, & in alio pede quaſi tres vngulas acutiſſimas, clamans & dicens. O Iudex iam hora mea eſt. Expectaui, & ſilui. Iam tempus eſt facienti. Et ſtatim ſedente Iudice cum exercitu innumerabili, apparuit mihi vir vnus, & mulier nudi. Et dixit iudex ad eos. Dicite inquit quæ vis omnia ſcio, quid feciſtis. Reſpondit vir. Audiuimus, & ſcimus vinculum Eccleſiæ, & non curauimus, immo deſpeximus. Reſpondit iudex, quia noluiſtis ſequi dominum, iuſtitia eſt, vt ſententiaris maledictionis. Et ſtatim ethiops infixit vngulam in corda amborum, & ſic fortiter compreſſit eos, vt quaſi in prælo poſiti viderentur. Et dixit iudex. Ecce filia talia merentur, qui ſe ſcienter elongant a Creatore ſuo propter creaturam. Dixit iterum iudex ambobus. Ego dedi vobis facultatem, vt congregaretis fructum deliciarum mearum, quid ergo nunc apportatis? Reſpondit mulier. O iudex delicias ventris quæſiuimus, & non apportauimus niſi confuſionem. Tunc dixit iudex lictori. Redde quod iuſtum eſt. Qui ſtatim infixit vngulam ſecundam in ventres amborum, & ſic fortiter vulnerauit, quod omnia inteſtina viderentur perforata. Et dixit iudex. Ecce talia merentur, qui legem tranſgrediuntur, & pro medicamento fiunt venenum. Iterum dixit iudex ambobus. Vbi eſt theſaurus meus quem accommodaui vobis ad vſuram? Reſpondent ambo. Poſuimus eum ſub pedibus noſtris, quia quæſiuimus theſaurum terrenum & non æternum. Tunc dixit iudex lictori. Da quod ſcis, & debes. Qui ſtatim infixit vngulam tertiam in corda eorum, & ventres, & pedes, ita vt omnia quaſi vnus globus viderentur. Et dixit ethiops. Domine quo vadam cum eis? Reſpondit iudex.

Tuum non eſt aſcendere, nec gaudere.

Quo dicto. A facie iudicis ſtatim vir, & mulier gementes diſparuerunt. Iterum dixit iudex.

Gaude fi-

VERBA VIRGINIS AD Sponſam, qualiter eſt parata ad defendendum omnem viduam, & omnem Virginem, & coniugatam, quas etiam videt in iuſto propoſito ſtantes, & ſuum filium ſuper omnia diligentes.

CAP. LIII.

VDI tu inquit Mater Dei, quæ toto corde rogas Deum, vt filij tui placeant deo. Vere talis oratio placita eſt deo. Non enim eſt Mater, quæ filium meum diligit ſuper omnia, & illud idem petit filijs ſuis, quin non ſtatim parata ſum iuuare eum, ad effectum petitionis eius. Nec etiam eſt aliqua vidua, quæ ſtabiliter rogat auxilium à deo ſtandi in viduitate, ad honorem dei, vſque ad mortem, quin non ſtatim parata ſum perficere voluntatem eius cum ea, quia ego ſui quaſi vidua, eo quod habui filium in terris, qui non habuit carnalem patrem. Non eſt etiam aliqua Virgo, quæ Virginitatem ſuam deſiderat ſeruare Deo vſque ad mortem, quin non parata ſum eam defendere, & confortare, quia ego ſum vere ipſa Virgo. Nec mirari debes. Cur dico ita. Scriptum eſt enim, quod Dauid deſiderabat filiam Saulis, quando fuit Virgo. Ipſe enim recepit eam, quando fuit vidua. Inſuper & habuit vxorem Vriæ, quando vir eius vixit. Attamen concupiſcentia Dauid non fuit ſine peccato. Sed delectatio illa ſpiritualis filij mei, qui eſt dominus Dauid, eſt ſine omni peccato. Ideo ſicut iſte tres vitæ, ſcilicet Virginitatis, viduitatis, & coniugij placuerunt Dauid corporaliter, ita filio meo placet eas habere in ſua delectatione caſtiſſima ſpiritualiter. Ideo non mirum, quod ſtuando traho earum delectationem ſpiritualem, in delectationem filij mei, quia eius delectatio eſt ad ipſas.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM de felici natiuitate ſpirituali cuiuſdam in peccatis peſſimis nutriti, quã natiuitatem precibus, & lacrymis ſeruorum Dei obtinuit.

CAP. LIV.

VIDE filium lacrymarum, qui nunc eſt receter natus de mũdo ſpiritualiter, qui fuerat prius natus de Matre ſua in mundum carnaliter. Sicut enim femina illa, quæ extrahit infantem de ventre Matris, primo caput trahit, deinde manus, deinde totum corpus, vſquequo cadit in terram. Sic ego feci illi propter lacrymas, & preces amicorum meorum. Extraxi illum quippe de mundo in tantum, quod iam ſpiritualiter eſt, ſicut puer nouiter natus. Ideo educari debet, & ſpiritualiter, & corporaliter. Nam ille ad quem te miſeram, educare eum debet precibus ſuis, & bonis operibus, & conſilijs cuſtodire. Illa vero femina, de qua tibi dictum eſt, rogabit pro eo, & cuſtodiet ſpiritualiter, attendendo etiam, vt habeat neceſſaria ſua corporaliter, quia ipſe ita profunde cecidit in peccata mortalia, quod omnes dæmones in inferno dixerunt de eo. Aperiamus os, ſi forte venerit, vt præmamus eum dentibus noſtris, & deglutiamus. Extendamus etiam manus, vt dirumpendo laceremus eum, habeamus quoque pedes promptos ad calcandum, & calcitrandum eum. Ideo dictum eſt tibi, quod nunc ſpiritualiter natus fuit, quia iam de poteſtate dæmonum eſt liberatus, ſicut bene colligere poteris de verbis illis, quæ audiſti, quod Deum corde, & corpore diligit ſuper omnia.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM qualiter precibus ſeruorum Dei vult diligere quendam puerum, & ipſum armis ſpiritualibus armare.

CAP. LV.

RECORDARE quod ſcribitur de Moyſe, quod filia Regis inuenit eũ ſuper aquas, & dilexit eũ pro filio ſuo. Scribitur quoq; in Scholaſticis hiſtorijs, quod idem Moyſes vicit terram per aues, quæ conſumpſerunt ſerpentes venenoſos. Ego ſum filia Regis de progenie Dauid, quæ volo puerum illum diligere, quem inueni in procellis lacrymarum, quæ effuſæ ſunt pro ſalute animæ eius, quæ incluſa fuit in arca corporis eius, quem educabunt illi, de quibus dixi, donec ad ætatem venerit in qua armare eum volo, & mittere ad terram vincendam Regi cæli. Sed quomodo hęc fiant tibi ignotum eſt, & mihi notum. Nam ego taliter præparabo eum, quod de eo dicetur. Iſte vixit ſicut vir, & mortuus eſt ſicut gigas venit ad iudicium ſicut bonus miles.

Additio.

Filius Dei loquitur. Vbi animal famelicū repellitur a præda. Expectat a longe inueniendo tempus redeundi ad prædam illam aut vadit ad ſpeluncam ſuam. Sic ego feci Principi terræ huius. Monui enim eum beneficiis meis: monui eum verbis, & verberibus, ſed tanto ingratior, & obliuioſior eſt, quanto manſuetiorem me ei oſtendo. Ideo vocabo eum nunc ſub coronam, & ad ſcabellum pedum, quia noluit ſtare in corona. Immittáq; ei, & aſſentatoribus ſuis aſpidem immitem de vipera, & ſubdola vulpe generatum, qui terram, & habitatores eius cōturbet, & ſimplices deplumabit, qui cacumina terrarum aſcendet, & gloriantes deijciet, & conculcet. Puerum vero iſtum, quem amici mei nutrierunt, ducam per aliam viam, donec veneritad locum glorioſiorem. Item loquitur filius Dei. Adhuc dicetur de puero iſto, quod vixit ſicut vir, pugnauit ſicut miles egregius. Coronabitur ſicut amicus Dei. O filia quid credunt mulieres, quæ gloriantur ex eo, quod filij earum procedunt in ſuperbia. Illa non eſt gloria ſed confuſio, quia regem ſuperbiæ imitantur. Sed illa eſt gloria, & ille eſt miles gloriæ, qui gloriatur in eo, quod facit honorem Deo quantum poteſt, & conatur ad maiora. Paratuſque eſt pati ea, quæ Deus vult eum pati, talis eſt miles Dei, & talis coronabitur cum militibus cæli.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM qualiter Roma debet mundari à ziza nia, primo acuto ferro, ſecundo igne, tertio per iuga boum.

CAP. LVII.

MATER loquitur. Roma eſt quaſi ager, ſuper quem ziza nia excreuit. Ideo prius debet mundari cum acuto ferro. Inde igne purgari. Poſtea arari cum iugo boum. Ideo faciam vobiſcum, ſicut qui transfert plantas in alium locum. Illi enim Vrbi præparatur talis pœna, qua ſi iudex diceret: Excoria inquit totam pellem, extrahe totum ſanguinem de carne. Excide omnem carnem in fruſta, & confringe oſſa, ita vt defluat omnis medulla.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam ſub figura exponentia, qualiter Chriſtus per Dominum peregrinantem corpus ſuum per theſaurum, Eccleſia per domum, ſacerdotes per cuſtodes deſignantur, quos ſacerdotes tanquam veros Dominus ſeptemplici honore honorauit. Et qualiter Deus conquæritur, quod iniqui ſacerdotes ſeptemplici vituperio ipſum vituperant, & qualiter ſeptem veſtes, ſcilicet ſeptem virtutes, quas deberent habere vertunt in ſeptem vitia.

CAP. LVIII.

IESVS loquitur. Ego ſum ſimilis Domino, qui hoc modo liter decertans in terra peregrinationis ſuæ regrediebatur in terram natiuitatis ſuæ cum gaudio, hic Dominus habebat theſaurum pretioſum valde, cuius intuitu glorificabantur lippientes oculi, triſtes conſolabantur, infirmi conualeſcebant, mortui ſuſcitabantur. Vt vero theſaurus honeſte, & ture cuſtodiretur, facta, & perfecta eſt domus quædam in magnificentia, & gloria, habens altitudinem decentem, ſeptemque gradus, quibus ad domum, & theſaurum aſcendebatur. Hunc itaque theſaurum, Dominus tradidit ſeruis ſuis videndum, & tractandum, fideliterque & munde cuſtodiē-

dum vt & charitas Domini probaretur ad ſeruos, fidelitaſque ſeruorum ad Dominum videretur. Procedente vero tempore deſpici cœpit theſaurus. Raro frequentabatur domus, tepueruntque cuſtodes, & charitas Domini negligebatur. Tunc Domino conſulente familiares ſuos, quid faciendum eſſet ſuper tanta ingratitudine. Reſpondit vnus eorum dicens. Scriptum eſt, quod iudices, & cuſtodes populi negligentes iuſſi ſunt ſuſpendi ad ſolem, ſed tuum eſt miſericordia, & iudicium, qui parcis omnibus, quia tua ſunt omnia, & omnium miſereris. Ego ſum in figura ille Dominus, qui quaſi peregrinus per humanitatem apparui in terra, cum tamen in cælo, & in terra potens eſſem ſecundum deitatem. Ego quippe tam forte certamen habui in terris, quod omnes nerui manuum, & pedum meorum rumpebantur propter animarum ſalutem. Relicturus itaque mundum, & aſcenſurus in cælum, a quo tamen ſecundum deitatem nunquam defui, reliqui mundo memoriale digniſſimum, ſcilicet corpus meum ſanctiſſimum, vt cum lex vetus gloriabatur de arca manna, & tabulis teſtamenti, cerimoniiſque alijs, ſic nouus homo gauderet de noua lege, & non vt olim de vmbra, de veritate ſcilicet corporis mei crucifixi, quod in lege figurabatur, vt autem corpus meum eſſet in gloria, & honore, inſtituit domus ſanctæ Eccleſiæ, vbi ſeruaretur, & tractaretur. 1 Sacerdotes, cuſtodeſq. ſpeciales eius, qui quodammodo etiam officio ſunt ſupra Angelos, quia quem ipſi Angeli timent contingere timore reuerentiæ, hunc ſacerdotes tractant manibus, & ore. Honorani quoque ſacerdotes ſeptemplici honore tanquã in ſeptem gradibus. Primo debent eſſe ſignifer, & ſpeciales amici mei, per munditiam mentis, & corporis, quia munditia primus locus eſt ad Deum, quem nihil contingit, nec decet coinquinatum. Nam ſi legalibus ſacerdotibus permittebatur commixtio tẽpore, quo non ſacrificabant, non mirum fuit, quia ipſi portabant teſtã non nucleum. Nunc autem veniente veritate, & fugata figura, ſummè ſtudendum eſt munditiæ tanto copioſius quanto dulcior eſt nucleus teſta. 2 Et in huiuſmodi continentiæ ſignum, capilli primo tondentur, ne voluptas animo, ſeu carni dominetur. In ſecundo gradu inſtituuntur clerici, quod ſint viri Angelici per omnem humilitatem, quia humilitate mentis, & corporis penetratur cælum, & vincitur diabolus ſuperbus. Et in huiuſmodi gradus ſignum conſtituuntur clerici ad expellendos dæmones, quia homo humilis eleuatur in cælum, vnde per ſuperbiam corruit dæmon elatus. In tertio gradu inſtituuntur clerici, ex eo quod debent eſſe diſcipuli Dei per continuam diuinæ ſcripturę lectionem, quibus, & ideo ab Epiſcopis traditur in manus liber, ſicut & militi gladius, vt & ſciant, quæ agenda ſunt, & oratione, & meditatione ſtudeant placare iram dei pro populo Dei. In quarto gradu inſtituuntur clerici cuſtodes templi Dei, & ſpeculatores animarum, quibus, & ideo traduntur claues ab Epiſcopo, vt ſolliciti ſint, circa ſalutem fratrum, verbiſque & exemplis prohoucant, & incitent infirmos ad perfectiora. In quinto gradu inſtituuntur diſpenſatores, & curatores Altaris, & mundialium rerum contemptores, vt dum Altari deſeruiunt de Altari viuant, & in terrenis, nequaquam niſi in his, quæ decent gradum eorum occupentur. In ſexto gradu inſtituuntur, quod ſint viri Apoſtolici prædicando veritatem Euangelicam, moribuſque ſe prædicationi conformando. In ſeptimo gradu inſtituuntur, quod ſint mediatores inter Deum, & hominem per immolationem corporis mei, in quo gradu ſacerdotes quodammodo ſunt ſuper Angelos dignitate. Nunc autem conquæror, quod gradus iſti diſſipati ſunt, quia ſuperbia diligitur pro humilitate. Impuritas exercetur pro munditia, dei lectio non attenditur, ſed liber mundi. Negligentia apparet in altaribus, ſapientia Dei reputatur fatuitas. Salus animarum non curatur. Nec ſufficiunt eis iſta, ſed adhuc etiam veſtes meas proijciunt, & contemnunt arma mea. 3 Ego quippe oſtendi in monte Moyſi veſtes, quibus ſacerdotes legis vterentur. Non quod in cæleſti Dei habitatione aliquid materiale ſit, ſed quia ſpiritualia niſi per corporales ſimilitudines non capiuntur. Ideo ſpirituale per corporale oſtendi, vt ſciatur quanta reuerentia, & munditia opus eſt his, qui habent ipſam veritatem, ſcilicet corpus meum, ſi tantam munditiam, & reuerentiam habebant hi, qui portabant vmbram, & figuram. Sed ad quid Moyſi oſtendi tantam veſtium materialium pulchritudinem, niſi vt per eas addiſceretur, & ſignificaretur ornatus, & pulchritudo animæ. Sicut enim veſtes ſacerdotis ſunt ſeptem, ſic animæ accedentis ad corpus Dei, ſeptem debẽt eſſe virtutes ſine quibus non eſt ſalus, Prima ergo veſtis animæ eſt contritio, & confeſſio, quæ tegit caput. Secunda eſt affectus ad Deum, & affectus caſtitatis. Tertia eſt labor pro honore Dei, & patientia in aduerſis. Quarta eſt non attendere ad laudes, & opprobria hominum, ſed ad honorem ſolius Dei. Quinta eſt abſtinentia carnis cum vera humilitate. Sexta eſt recogitatio beneficiorum Dei & iudiciorum eius timor. Septima eſt charitas Dei ſuper omnia, & perſeuerantia in bonis inchoatis. Nunc autem iſte veſtes immutatę mutatæ sunt, & contemptæ, diligitur quippe pro confessione excusatio, & leuigatio culpæ pro castitate, scurrilium continuatio, pro labore salutis animæ, labor vtilitatis corporis. Pro honore & amore Dei, ambitio mundialium, & superbia. Pro parcitate laudabili superfluitas in omnibus. Pro timore Dei, præsumptio, & dijudicatio iudiciorum Dei. Pro dilectione Dei super omnia, ingratitudo cleri super omnes. 4. Ideo sicut dixi per Pro- 4 phetam veniam in indignatione, & tribulatio dabit eis intellectum. Tunc Mater misericordiæ astans. Respondit. Benedictus sis tu fili mi pro iustitia mea, loquor ad te, qui omnia scis propter sponsam istam, quam tu vis intelligere spiritualia, quæ tamen nisi per similitudines capere non valet spiritualia. 5 Tu quippe dixisti in deitate tua, antè quam suscepisses humanitatem de me, quod si decem viri iusti inuenirentur in ciuitate misereri velles toti ciuitati propter decem. Nunc autem adhuc infiniti sunt sacerdotes, qui te oblatione corporis tui placant. Ergo misereris propter eos his, qui parum boni habent, hoc, quæ te secundum humanitatem genuit rogo, hoc omnes electi tui petunt mecum. Respondit filius. Benedicta sis tu, & benedictum verbum oris tui. Tu vides, quod tripliciter parco propter triplex bonum, quod oblatio corporis mei habet. Sicut enim ex præsumptione Iudæ tria offensa sunt bona in me. Sic ex oblatione sacrificij huius tria veniunt animabus. Denique patientia mea laudatur, quod sciens proditorem meum Iudam, non repulit conuersationem eius. Secundo, quòd astante proditore cum suis, omnes ex vnico verbo meo ceciderunt in terram, vbi potentia mea ostendebatur. Tertio, quia omnem malitiam eius & diaboli ad animarum conuerti salutem, vbi sapientia, & charitas diuina manifestabatur. Sic etiam ex oblatione sacerdotum eius veniũt bona. Primo, laudatur ab omni celesti exercitu patientia mea, quia idem sum in manibus boni, & mali sacerdotis, quia apud me non est personarum acceptio, nec merita hominum conficiunt hoc sacramẽtum, sed verba mea. 6 Secundo, quia hæc oblatio prodest 6 omnibus à quocunq; sacerdote ello oblata. Tertio, quia prodest etiam ipsis offerentibus quantumcunque malis, quia sicut ex vno verbo quod dixi, scilicet, ego sum, corruerunt hostes mei corporaliter in terram, sic dicto verbo meo, videlicet, hoc est corpus meum, fugiunt dæmones à tentando animas offerentium, nec auderent redire ad eos cum tanta audacia si affectus peccandi non sequeretur. Itaque misericordia mea parcit omnibus & omnes sufferet, sed iustitia clamat, vindicta, quia clamo quotidie, & quam multi respondent mihi satis tu vides. Veruntamen mittam adhuc verba oris mei, & qui audierint complebunt dies suos in lætitia illa quę nec dici nec cogitari potest pro dulcedine. Qui verò non audierint venient eis sicut scriptum est septem plagæ in anima, & septem in corpore, quas considerando, & legendo ea quæ gesta fuerant inuenient, ne experiendo contremiscant.

Inter cæteras, quas à Patres de Clericorum Tonsura causas pluribus in locis attulerunt, hæc quam in præsenti nota legimus potissima est, negari enim non potest per capillos, corporis superfluitates inuelintelligendum esse, & idcirco Clericos tonderi, vt indicetur superflua, & praecipue carnis pravas cupiditates ab illis amputandas esse, eiusque rebelles motus arcendos, ne voluptas animo, seu carni dominetur, vt scribitur hoc eandem quoque rationem reddiderunt S. Isidorus lib. 2. de diuinis officijs cap. 4. Hugo Victorinus lib. 2 de Sacramentis par. 3. cap. 1. Secundam rationem addens venerabilis Beda lib. 5. Hist. cap. 1. & cap. 22. & Guielmus Durantus in Rationali diuinorum lib. 3. cap. 4. vt scilicet in Clericis Christi Spina coronæ imago exprimatur, sicut enim Christiani omnes communi sanctissimæ crucis signo ornantur, ita quoque expedire visum est, vt Clerici, qui Christum patientem imitari debent speciali signo honorentur. Tertiam affert causam D. Dionys. cap. 6. Ecclesiasticæ hierarchiæ, vt ea capitis nudatione significetur vera nostra, aperta, & pura, quam Religiosi, atque Deo specialiter dicati debent præferri. Quarta, & nos addere possumus Clericos sic tonderi debere, vt capillorum circulus relinquatur in formam coronæ, et sic Regia demonstretur corona, ad quam electi sunt, & idcirco de his scripsit B. Petrus in sua prima Canonica cap. 2. Regale Sacerdotium, gens sancta, populus acquisitionis.

3 Ego quippe ostendi in monte Moysi vestes quibus Sacerdotes legis vterentur.

In veteri testamento Dominus præcepit Moysi, vt Aaron Sacerdoti iussus filij vestis sanctæ ad gloriam, & decorem, vt nonnisi sanctis, sacrisq; (vt puto erat indui) vestibus sua peragerentur, sicut Exodi 28. & 39. colligimus, vbi diligenter assumptum sacrarium vestium formam, ac numerum describitur, quod frij antiqui legislatoris officia, qui futurorum figuras tantum obscuris significationibus tradebant, tantummodo carnis spectabant, huiusmodi vestimentorum ritus necessario obseruandos, quibus maiorum vtuntur sacrificia, & carnis, ac spiritus perfectæ emendatio, hac faciendum imi, idem indicant, ea verba, quæ non longe à verbis præsentis nostræ distant, quæ sunt, vt velatus quoque reverentia, & mundiis opus est his, quibus ipsum mysterium scribit corpus nostrum tantam mundiciam, ac reverentiam habebant, ili qui parabolam umbram, & figuram, idem annotauit sua Carnotensis epistola 124. id autem, quod proximo sequitur nomen (ad quid Moysi gloriosi nostræ vestium materiarum pulchritudinem, nisi ut penitus significaretur virtutum animæ.) Indicat diuersitas huiusmodi ornamentis referta (se habere) quæ per harum diuersitatem designantur, quis qui sanctis ornatur vestibus, & honestis moribus induitur, quibus virtutibus apparet omnibus, tanto in dignior apud Deum redditur, itaque gloriam luminosorum vestimentorum assumit, sed splendor animarum, hæc Innocentius III. vbi de Myster. Missæ ca. 64. & D. Hyeron. in 44. ca. Ezechielis affirmat

4 Ideo sicut dixi per Prophetam veniam in indignatione, & tribulatione dabit eis intellectum.

Sic Isaiæ 63. inebriabo eos in indignatione mea, & alibi centies, hac loquendi formula vti sunt Prophetæ quando indicabant Deum homines punire velle, & ad eos grauissima flagella mittere, vt Treno rum 4. effundam iram indignationis, Ezech. 7. & 6. complebo indignationem meam in eis. Nahum 1. Sophon. 3. & 3. illud autem, & tribulatio dabit intellectum habetur Isaiæ 63.

5 Tu quippe dixisti in deprecatione tua antequam susceperis humanitatem de me, quod si decem viri iusti inuenirentur in ciuitate: misereri velles iusti ciuitati propter decem.

Sic legimus Genesis 18. quod si inuenissent decem, & diuina non irasci propter decem, adduxit autem Beatissima Virgo huiusmodi textum vt Christum induceret ad parcendum malis Sacerdotibus, quos supra iam dixerat grauiter punire vel reprobat autem, quia ipse Sodomis parcere promisserat, si Sodomis decem fuissent inuenti iusti cum ergo inquit Maria nunc plures reperiantur Sacerdotes, qui vitæ corporis obitione placant, ergo misereare propter eos pauci, qui parum boni sunt.

6 Secundo, quia hæc oblatio prodest omnibus à quocumque Sacerdote est oblata.

Quemadmodum in consecratione Christi corporis, et sanguinis nihil eborio magis, nec minus a malo Sacerdote perficitur, dummodo in ea forma sibi diuinitus data celebretur, non enim horum mysterium Sacerdotes conficiunt, sed diuina in verbis reposita virtus operatur, neque illud eorum vitæ sanctitas efficit, sed Christi Domini virtute, ac potestate geri credendum est, ex quibus consequens fit, vt Sacerdotum impietas nullatenus huius Sacramenti effectum impedire queat, sicut nec Medici infirmitas medicinæ effectum minime tollit, nec corrumpit, dicit enim D. Chrisost. Hom. 83. in Lucam, Aquam benedicimus, & per eam benedictiones spirituales largius est, multo magis per Sacerdotis etiam si prauissimi labia effectus vnda, vnde D. Greg. Magnus Hom. 17. illud Lucæ 10. designauit Dominus septuaginta duos, Sacerdotes malos æquæ Baptismatis comparans, quæ peccata Baptizatorum diluens ipsa in electos deseruit idem habet D. Augustin. tract. primo in Ioan. Si superbus, aut fuerit Minister, cum Diabolo computatur, sed donum Christi non contaminatur, hoc ipsum probat Hector Pintus in Ezechielem cap. 7. qui affirmat mali Sacerdotis sacrificium etiam alijs prodesse, si-eis docet hic B. Brigita, & quamuis inquit, in ſancto Miſſæ ſacrificio, ſi eam lethali peccato celebrat iudicium ſibi manducat, & bibit, impetrat tamen à Deo, quod pro offerentibus petit, ſimilis procuratori captiuorum, cui eorum contemplatione pro quibus petit, large datur eleemoſina, cum tamen ipſi pro ſe petenti nihil daretur, non tamen negarim, ſi in Miſſa orationes ſpectemus, illam conſiderando ex opere operantis, vt Theologi Scholaſtici loquuntur pluris eſſe valoris Miſſam boni ſacerdotis, quamquã dicendum ſit, fructu non carere ſacerdotis etiam mali orationes in perſona Eccleſiæ prolatæ, vt docet Doctor Angelicus 3 p. q. 82. ar. 6. & D. Bonau. in 4. ſent. diſt. 13.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam qualiter ſacerdos tenetur habere tria, primo corpus Chriſti conſecrare, ſecundo munditiam carnis, & ſpiritus habere, tertio Parochię ſuæ prouidere. Etiam tenetur habere librum, & oleum. Et quomodo ſacerdos angelus Dei eſt, immo, quod eius officium eſt maius quam Angeli-

CAP. LIX.

IESVS loquitur. Sacerdos tenetur habere tria; Primo, conſecrare corpus Dei. Secundo habere mundiciam carnis, & ſpiritus. Tertio, prouidere Parochiæ ſuæ. Sed potes quærere quid prodeſt habere eccleſiam, ſi non habet parochiam? Reſpondeo tibi, ſacerdos habens voluntatem omnibus prodeſſe, & prædicare propter amorem Dei, ille habet tam latam parochiam quaſi ſi haberet totum mundum, quia ſi poſſet loqui toti mundo minime parceret labori ſuo. Ideo voluntas bona reputatur ei pro opere. Nam Deus propter ingratitudinem audientium multoties partit electis ſuis à labore prædicandi, nec tamen fraudantur mercede propter affectum bonum. 1 Presbyter etiã tenetur habere librum, & oleum. Librum ad inſtruendum imperfectos, oleum ſanctum ad infirmos liniendum. Sicut enim in libro continetur doctrina corporalis, & ſpiritualis, ſic in ſacerdote ſit ſapientia ad ſe ipſum, moderando carnem, ne diſſoluatur intemperantia, qua ſcandalizantur parochiani, fugiendo cupiditatem mundi, qua vilipenditur decor eccleſiæ, deuitando mores ſecularium, quibus dignitas clericalis deho-honeſtatur. Spiritualis vero ſcientia eſt inſtruere inſipientes, corripere diſſolutos, accendere proficientes. In oleo vero notatur dulcedo orationis, & exempla bona. Sicut enim oleum pinguius eſt pane, ſic oratio charitatis, & exempla bonæ vitæ, efficaciora ſunt ad trahendum homines, & pinguiora ad placandum Deum. 2 1. Vere dico tibi filia, quod magnum eſt nomen ſacerdotis, quia angelus Domini eſt, & mediator. 3 3. Sed maius eſt officium eius, quia tractat incomprehenſibilem Deum, iamque celeſtibus in manu eius connunguntur.

NOTAE.

1 PResbyter etiam tenetur habere librum, & oleum.

Duo in primis, ſacerdotibus neceſſaria eſſe oſtendit Chriſtus in præſenti capite ſub ſimilitudine libri & olei: ſcientiam, ſcilicet, & vitæ ſanctitatem, & vt a primo ſumamus exordium nullũ dubium eſt per librum in preſenti nobis ſacrarum rerum ſcientiam deſignari, qua ſacerdos præditus eſſe debet, & de hoc libro Exodi 17. ſermo fit, vbi legimus Deum ſcribere vt in illo ſcriberetur ob monumentum, in eius capite de Chriſto ſcriptum eſt, vt pſal. 39 Dauid dixit, & hanc eſſe Scripturam ſacram, auctor eſt Arnobius in citatum pſalmum, is enim liber involutus, ac ſignatus dicitur Iſaiæ 29. & Ezech. 2. quandoquidem diuina myſteria ſpiritu involuta continet, intus quoque, & foris eum ſcriptum eſſe D. Ioannes Apocalipſ. 5. affirmat, quoniam ſacra ſcriptura præterita, & futura, literã & ſpiritum includit, vt annotarunt D. Hyeron. ſuper Iſaiam, cap. 8 & 29. & ſuper Ezech. cap. 2. Orig. ſuper eundem Hom. 14. Gregorius Magnus 27. moral. cap. 11. hic ergo liber eſt, quem mandat Chriſtus Dominus hoc loco, vt ſacerdos ſuum ſe habeat, vt ſacra ſcripturæ myſteria populis aperiat quomodo inquit 6. Iſidorus lib. 3. de ſummo bono, cap. 35. docere poterunt, quod ipſi non didicerunt deſinat locum docendi ſuſcipere, qui nequit docere ignorantia quippe præſulum vitæ non congruit ſuorum, hinc eſt, quod Oſeas Prophetarum ſuarum reuelationum prædixit, ſacerdotes ſi hunc ſibi comparare ſcientiam neglexerint, a ſacerdotij munere reiiciendos eſſe, quia inquit ſcientiam repuliſti repellam te, ne ſacerdotio fungaris mihi, præter ſcientiam debet etiam ſacerdos oleum habere viri autem nimirum misericordiæ, & charitatis, & bonorum operum executionem, hac enim per oleum deſignantur, vt Exodi 29. & Leuit. 2. legimus, & docent Origen. in Leuit. Homil. 4. 8. & 13. Di Hyeron. ſuper Iſaiam, cap. 10. D. Auguſt. in lib. 83. q. 59.

2 Vere dico tibi filia, quod magnum eſt nomen ſacerdotis, quia Angelus Domini eſt, & Mediator.

...dixerit hic locordigitus nominandus, dum eos Christos, & Angelos, & Mediatores appellat, etenim Angelus sacerdos, quoniam Angelorum exercet officium, quorum est proprium hominibus diuina reuelare secreta, eosque illuminare, quod ad sacerdotes spectat, vt superiori nata demonstrauimus, & ex Malachia Propheta colligi potest, capite 2. labia inquit sacerdotis custodient scientiam, & legem requirent ex ore eius, quia Angelus Domini est, vnde Apostolus 1. Corinth. 11. prohibuit, vt mulieres velatas super ingrederentur Ecclesias propter Angelos, hoc est, propter sacerdotes, sic bene locum interpretatur Lyranus, & Dionysius Carthusianus, qui sacerdotes Angelos vocandos esse asserit, Primo propter emptorem scientiae diuinorum, secundo propter annunciationem reuelatorum diuinorum, Tertio propter nimiam dignitatem, Quarto propter exhortationem Dominicam Gregorij, dicit enim sanctus D. Gregor. hom. 6. in Euang. vnusquisque ab illicitis, & prauitate prohibitus reuocat, & ad bonum exercitatur, si autem regnum, vel supplicium erranti denunciat profecto Angelus Domini est, secundo sacerdotes dici possunt etiam Angeli propter vitae Angelicae puritatem, quae exigitur ab illis.

Sed maius est officium eius, quia tractat incomprehensibilem Deum.

Superiori capite non longe ab initio idem probatur, quod bene loco innuit Christus Dominus nimirum, sacerdotes reprehendit consecrationis Corporis Christi dignitate excellere Angelos, vide plura cap. 58. huc eodem lib. nota 1. vbi haec de re late egimus.

VERBA SPONSAE AD Deum de grato modo effundendi preces coram Deo.

CAP. LX.

BENEDICTVS sis tu Creator, & redemptor meus. Ne indigneris, si loquor ad te, sicut vulneratus ad Medicum, sicut tribulatus ad consolatorem, sicut pauper ad diuitem, & abundantem. Vulneratus quippe dicit. O Medice noli abominari me saucium, quia frater es. O consolator optime, noli me despicere, quia anxius sum, sed da cordi meo requiem, sensibusque meis consolationem. Pauper vere dicit. O tu diues, & nullius egens, respice me, quia periclitor fame. Vide me quia nudus sum, & da mihi vestes quibus caleam, si ego dico. O Domine omnipotentissime, & optime, ego considero vulnera peccatorum meorum, quibus ab infantia vulnerata sum, & ingemisco, quia tempus consumptum est inutiliter. Vires nō sufficiunt ad labores, quia exhauste sunt in vanitatibus. Ideoque quia tu es fons totius bonitatis, & misericordiæ, rogo te miserere mei. Tange cor meum manu dilectionis tuæ, quia Medicus es optimus, consolare animā meam, quia consolator es bonus.

QVALITER DIABOLVS apparuit sponsæ in eleuatione corporis Christi loquens, & per rationes probans ei, quod illud, quod eleuabatur non esset corpus Christi. Cui Angelus Domini statim apparuit cōfortans eam, & dicens. Noli credere &c. Et qualiter Christus apparens coegit diabolum, vt diceret veritatem coram filia. Et qualiter corpus Christi sumitur, sic à bonis, & de remedio opportuno in tentationibus de corpore Christi.

sacerdos meus est, quem cum voluero, & iā in puncto auferam ad meipsum. Tunc statim bonus Angelus apparens dixit. O filia non respondeas stulto iuxta stultitiam suam, ipse enim qui apparuit tibi, est pater mendacij, sed esto parata, quia sponsus noster iam prope est. Qui sponsus Iesus veniens, ait ad diabolum. Cur inquit conturbas filiam meā, & sponsam? Ideo dico filiam, quia creaui eam. Ideo sponsam, quia redemi eam, & charitate mea copulaui eam mihi. Respondit dæmon. Ideo loquor, quia permissus sum, & vt ipsa refrigesceret in seruitio tuo. Et Dñs. NOTAE.

1 var. lect. APparuit Sponſę in eleuatione corporis Christi quidam deterimus, & aitinun quid credis tu fama,,quod hęc corcellia panis Deus eſt.

Hunc textum pluribus librariorum incuria refertum erroribus cum MS. Farneſiano ſic corrigendum eſſe arbitror. apparuit Sponſæ in eleuatione corporis Christi quidam tererrimus, & ait nunquid credis tu fama, quod ſub hac torta panis Deus ſit: torta autem panis carnem Christi paſſam indicat, & ideo non eſt mirum, ſi per eam Euchariſtia Sacramentum deſignetur, quod eſt paſſionis memoriale ſic Iſichius ſuper Leuiticum cap. 23. D. Greg. ſuper primum Regum, Clemens Alexandrinus, lib. 1. Pedagogi cap. 6. & pſal. 147. buccella etiam panis dicitur Euchariſtia, vt teſtis eſt D. Hylar. ibidem, & Glaſ. ſuper primum Regum, cap. 2, poſtrema etiam placentula panis vocatur, vt pſal. 71. erit firmamentum in terra in ſummis montium in hebreo habetur, erit placentula panis, vt interpretatur Paulus Burgenſis in additionibus ad poſtillam Nicolai de Lyra, vel vt alij vertunt erit pugillus, vel particula frumenti in terra in capite montium, Caldaica vero translatio habet erit panis ſuper montes, vbi per montes intelligunt ſacerdotes, & verius erit placentula frumenti in capitibus ſacerdotum, & Rabi Ionathas in libro collectionum habet placenta panis fiet ſacrificium in capitibus ſacerdotum, hinc eſt, quod crediderit aliqui legendum hic eſſe non firmamentum, ſed frumentum, vt habet translatio Hyeronimi; erit memoriale triticum, plura circa expoſitionē verborum horum habent Galatinus lib. 10. cap. 4. Genebrardus in hunc locum, Adrianus ſuus lib. 8. aduerſus Indeos, cap. 4.

2 var. lect. Et paulo poſt vbi in vulgatis habetur, quod Deus ab immundiſſimo ſacerdote qui cor habet canioum tangi dignatur.

Farneſianus codex legis qui cor habet carneum, quis stilicet, carni deditus eſt, & carnis voluptatibus immolatus.

3 var. lect. Scriptura dicit, quod pereunte populo erigebatur ſerpens æneus, quo viſo omnis percuſſus a ſerpentibus ſanabatur.

Numerorum cap. 21. habetur mandaſſe Deum Moyſi, vt serpentem aneum faceret poneretque eum pro ſigno, quem cum percuſſi aſpicerent ſanarentur, adduxit autem hunc textum Christus hic, vt probet à ſimili, conuerſionem panis in corpus Christi, non humana aliqua fieri virtute, ſed diuina ſicut enim inquit ſanitas, quæ ex ſerpentis manabat viſione nullatenus ex ipsomet serpente naturaliter, ſed diuinitus tantummodo procedebat, & quemadmodum conuerti nullo modo potuiſſet virga Moyſis in ſerpentem, niſi diuina vi, ac poteſtate ſibi quoque, nec panis conuertendus in corpus Christi, niſi verba diuina huiuſmodi conuerſionem efficerent, & ideirco legimus paulo ante medium præfatis capitis, ſic etiam nunc in Altari, ante enim verba conſecrationis panis poſitus in Altari panis eſt, dicto verbo, hoc eſt corpus meum, fit corpus Chriſti. MS. legit fit caro Chriſti, quod confirmans diuus Gregorius Nazianz. hom. 40. ad populum Antiochenum dicit, verum & tu laice, cum ſacerdotem videris offerentem, ne ta ſacerdotem putas eſſe, hoc facientem, ſed Chriſti manum inuiſibiliter extenſam.

4 Nam ſicut oſtendi me diſcipulis euntibus in Emaus in aliena forma, cum tamen eſſem verus Deus, & verus homo ingrediēs ad diſcipulos ianuis clauſis, ſic ſub aliena forma oſtendo me ſacerdotibus, vt fides habeat meritum.

Hoc loco Redemptor noſter Christus cauſam affert, quapropter voluerit ſe in Altaris Sacramento teſtum, & quodammodo velatum exibere, id qua ſimilitudine exprimit, quemadmodum enim ſe ſub aliena forma oſtenderat diſcipulis euntibus in Emaus, vt refert D. Lucas, cap. 24. ita inquit oſtendo me ſacerdotibus, quod vt palam fiat, & ſimilitudinis illius ratio melius innoteſcat breuiter à me his duo explicanda erunt, primum quidem modus quo Chriſtus à duobus illis diſcipulis ſe abſcondere voluerit, ſecundum, vero quare nobis ſub ſacramentalibus ſpecibus pertractandum, ac ſuperandum dederit, & quantum ad primum D. Hieron. in epiſtola ad Pamachium aduerſus errores Ioannis Hieroſolymitani, & D. Aug. de conſenſu Euangeliſtarum, lib. 3. cap. 25. arbitrantur hoc euenisse diſcipulis ob aliquam mutationem, quæ in eorum oculis facta ſit, vt probare videntur verba D. Luca loco citato, vbi dicit oculi eorum tenebantur, ne eum agnoſcerent, quod inquit Auguſtinus, Marcus ait, in alia effigie eis apparuiſſe dominum, hoc Lucas affirmat, quod eorum oculi tenebantur ne eum agnoſcerent, oculis quippe eorum aliquid acciderat, quod ita manere permiſſum eſt, vſque ad fractionem panis certi myſterij cauſa, vt eis in illo alia oſtenderetur effigies, ſed Theophilactus intelligit id ex lineamentorū corporis Chriſti mutatione fuiſſe factum, vt eum nō agnoſcerent diſcipuli, cui ſententiæ fauere etiam videtur D. Auguſtinus epiſtola 59. ad Paulinum in ſolutione octaua quæſtionis. Beda ſuper Matt. cap. 24. Poſtremo Cardinalis Caietanus in Ieiunatis. qu. 1. Ieiunatio ſeptima, putat impedimentum fuiſſe in oculis internis, conſtat inquit externos diſcipulorum oculos fuiſſe apertos, quia non oculis ibant clauſis, ſed quidquid ſit cum legimus Marci 16. cap. in alia effigie apparuiſſe Dominum, hoc intelligendum eſſe arbitror ſecundum eorum exiſtimationem, non vero ſecundum rei veritatem quandoquidem Chriſtus, tunc temporis immortalis, incorruptibilis, & immutabilis reſurrexerat, quod etiam annotauit Durand. in tertio ſent. d. 22. qu. 6. ex his, ergo Chriſtus Dominus hic infert, quod ſicut se sub aliena forma duobus illis discipulis ostenderat post resurrectionem, ita quoque se sacerdotibus, aliisque in sacramento Altaris, ostendit, quod egregie declarauit Algerus, qui disputans contra Berengarium lib. 2. cap. 5. ad Eucharistiæ Sacramentum, hunc Matthei locum accommodauit, quemadmodũ etiam in hoc capite fit, vt ex præsentis notæ verbis liquido constat: sicut inquit, Algerus in Emaus peregrinus in fide apparuit; sic nobis peregrinis in mundi exilio peregrina, & exterius sibi specie apparet in Sacramento, vt quia quod in nobis exterius apparet mortale est, mortalium ciborum ipse exterius videatur, cum tamen per ipsum, qui immortalitatis est alimonia, intus vere & inuisibiliter, mors æterna sanetur. exterius fide modo quo Christus est sub his speciebus firmo fide dicendum videtur, nullatenus à nobis videri, nisi per fidem: nec ab ipsis met Angelis secundum sua naturalia comprehendi posse, vt auctor est D. Thomas 3. part. quæst. 76. art. 7. & testatur concil. Trident. Sess. 13. cap. 1. Saluator noster, semper ad dexteram Patris in cœlis assidet, iuxta modum existendi Naturalem, & vt multis ab hominibus aliis in locis Sacramentaliter præsens sua substantia nobis adsit, ea existendi ratione quam, etsi verbis exprimere vix possumus, possibile tamen esse Deo ex cogitatione per fidem illuminata assequi possumus, & constantissime credere debemus: rectat modo causas afferamus cur Christus sub Sacramentalibus speciebus se nobis pertractandum dederit, cuius rei tres in vniuersum probabiles rationes reddi possunt, quarum prima habetur hoc loco nimirum, vt fides habeat meritum, est enim de rebus non visis, vnde egregius D. Greg. Magnus hom. 26. in Euang. fides autem non habet meritum, vbi humana ratio præbet experimentum, secunda causa est ad tollendam nauseam, quæ ex esu carnis sub propria specie oriri posset, & hac duas etiam attulit Magister sent. in 4. dist. 11. quibus etiam addendum esse censui, quia nimirum illius gloriosi corporis splendorem oculi nostri nequaquam sustinere potuissent, & ideirco se Dominus sub illis speciebus veluti sub velamine quodam abscondidit.

VERBA INCREPATIONIS Domini ad quendam sacerdotem sepelientem quendam qui in patientia mortuus est presente sponsa. Et qualiter cum septem plagis spiritualibus, & septem corporalibus, Christus venit ad minutos sacerdotes. Et qualiter illa omnia propter patientiam obtinuit gloriam.

CAP. LXII.

VIDIT QVIDAM SACERDOS sepeliret quendam mortuũ, qui crebras annis cum dimidio iacuit infirmus. Tunc audiuit sponsa qualiter dixit spiritus. Amice quid facis cur præsumis tangere mortuum cum manus tuæ sanguinolentæ sint? Garrulamus pro eo ad omnipotentem, cum vox tua est quasi ranarum? Cur præsumis pro eo placare medicem, cum gestus tui, & mores similiores sunt ioculatoris quam deuoto sacerdoti propterea virtus verborum meorum, & non opus tuum proficiet mortuo, fides que sua, & patientia longa, introducent ipsum ad cœlum. Item dixit spiritus sponsæ. Manus illius sunt sanguinolente, quia omnia opera eius sunt carnalia, quibus tangere non valet mortuum, quia iuuare eum non poterit meritis suis, sed dignitate Sacramenti. Nam boni sacerdotes prosunt duplicitèr animabus, scilicet, virtute corporis Dominici, & propria quia ardent charitate. Vox quoque eius est quasi ranarum, quia tota est de luxuriosis operibus, tota ad voluptatem carnis. Ideo non ascendit ad Deum, qui placari desiderat voce humilis confessionis, & contritionis. Mores etiam sui sunt quasi ioculatoris. Quid enim facit ioculator, nisi quod cõformat se moribus mundialium? Quid vero cantat, nisi comedamus, & bibamus frumentum quia in hac vita delicijs? Sic facit iste, conformat enim se veste, & actu cum omnibus, vt omnibus placeat, omnesque exemplo suo, & excessu ad superflua incitat dicendo. 1. Comedamus, & bibamus, quia gaudium domini est fortitudo nostra sufficiat nobis venire ad portam gloriæ, & si prohibear ab ingressu sufficiat mihi residere iuxta portam, nolo esse perfectus. Hæc vox, & vita grauis est, quia nemo veniet ad portam gloriæ, niſi perfectus aut perfecte purgatus, & nemo apprehendet gloriam, niſi perfecte deſiderando eam, aut perfecte cum poterit pro ea laborando. Attamen ego dominus omnium ingredior ad ſacerdotem iſtum, ſed non includor, & commaculor. Ingredior vt ſponſus, egredior vt iudex iudicaturus, contemptus à ſumente. Propterea ſicut dixi. Veniam ſacerdotibus cum ſeptem plagis. Priuabuntur enim omnibus, quæ dilexerunt, eijcientur a conſpectu Dei, & indicabuntur in ira eius, tradentur demonibus patientur abſque requie, contemnentur ab omnibus, egebunt bonis omnibus, maliſque omnibus abundabunt. Similiter etiam alijs ſeptem corporalibus malis, ſicut Iſrael flagellabuntur. Ideo non debes mirari ſi tolero malos, aut ſi aliqua indigna oſtenduntur in ſacramento meo, quia ad oſtendendam patientiam meam, & ingratitudinem hominum ſuffero, vſque in finem. Nec cogitare debes, quod talis indignitas, ſicut audiſti de vomitu, ſit in corpore meo, ſed ſpecies ille ſenſuales oſtendunt quod ſuum eſt, ſcilicet deficiendo, & tamen tranſparendo manifeſtant hominum ingratitudinem, & produnt homines ad tam ſanctam ſumptionem reos, & indignos. Item dixit ſpiritus ad animam mortui. O anima gaude, & exulta, quia fides tua ſeruauit te a diabolo, ſimplicitas tua abbreuiabit tibi longam viam purgatorij, patientia tua dixit te ad portam gloriæ. Miſericordia mea introducet te, & coronabit te.

QVALITER DIABOLVS apparuit ſponſe volens ipſam per rationes apparentes decipere in ſacramento corporis Chriſti, & qualiter Chriſtus in adiutorium affuit ſponſe diabolum cogendo, ad veritatem coram ſponſa dicendum. CAP. LXIII.

ITEM APPARVIT SPONSE quidam demon longo ventre, & ait. Quid credis tu mulier, & quid magna cogitas? ego etiã multa ſcio, & aperta ratione probare volo dicta mea, ſed conſolo tibi, dimitte cogitare increbilia, & crede ſenſibus tuis. Nonne tu vides oculis, & auribus carnis tuæ audiſſonum, fractionis hoſtiæ materialis panis, vidiſti eũ euomi, tangi, inhoneſte deijci in terram, pluraque indigna fieri, quæ ego in me non tolerarem. Et ſi Deum in ore iuſti poſsibile eſſet eſſe, quomodo deſcendet ad iniuſtos quorum auaritia eſt ſine fundo, & ſine modo? Reſpondit illa ad humanitatem Chriſti, quæ ſtatim poſt tentationes apparuit dicens. O Domine Ieſu Chriſte regratior tibi pro omnibus, & ſpecialiter pro tribus. Primo, quia veſtis animam meam, inſpirando ſcilicet penitentiam, & contritionem, qua omne diluitur peccatum quantũcumq; graue. Secundo cibas animam infundendo charitatem tuam, & memoriam paſsionis tuæ qua anima, quaſi cibo optimo delectatur. Tertio conſolaris omnes inuocantes te in tribulatione. Ergo domine miſerere mei, & adiuua fidem meam; quamuis enim digna ſim tradi illuſionibus diaboli, credo tamen quod ſine permiſsione tua ipſe nihil poteſt, nec permiſsio tua eſt ſine conſolatione. Tunc ait Chriſtus ad diabolum. Cur inquit loquetis ſponſæ meæ nouæ. Cui diabolus reſpondit, Quia inquit colligata erit mihi, & ſpero adhuc eam irretiendam reti meo. Tunc autem colligata erat mihi, quando conſentiendo mihi plus placuit, & placere ſtuduit conſilijs meis, quam ſibi Creatori ſuo. Nam cuſtodiui vias eius, & nondum exciderant a memoria mea. Reſpondit Dominus. Ergo negociator es tu, & omniũ viarum explorator. Cui diabolus

Vere explorator sum, sed in tenebris, quia tenebrosum me fecisti. Et Dominus, quando inquit vidisti, & quomodo tenebrosus factus es? Vidi inquit demon quando me creasti pulchrimum, sed quia incaute irrui in splendorem tuum, tanquam basiliscus excecatus sum à splendore. Vidi te cum desiderabam pulchritudinem tuam. Vidi te in conscientia mea, & noui quando dereliqui me. Noui etiam te in carne assumpta, & feci, quod permisisti me, & Noui, quando resurgendo, spoliasti à me captiuos tuos. Nosco quotidie potentiam tuam, qua me illudis, & confundis. Et Dominus. si inquit nosti, & scis de me veritatem cur mentiris electis meis, vbi scis veritatem de me? Nonne ego dixi, quod qui manducat carnem meam viuet in æternum? Et tu dicis, quod mendacium est, & quod nemo manducat meam carnem. Ergo populus meus plus idolatra est, quam qui colit lapides, & ligna. Veruntamen quia omnia scio. Respondemihi audiente, ista, quæ hic affaris, spiritualia nisi per simplitudines intelligere non valet. 4 Thomas, qui tetigit me post resurrectionem, verum erat corpus quod tangebat spirituale, an corporale, & si erat corporale quomodo intrabat ianuis? Si vero spirituale quomodo visibile fuit oculis corporeis. Respondit diabolus graue est ibi loqui, vbi loquens omnibus suspectus est, & inuitus cogeur loqui veritatem. Veruntamen compulsus loquar quod resurgendo, & spiritualis, & corporalis eras. Et ideo propter æternam deitatis virtutem, & propter spiritualem carnis glorificatæ prærogatiuam, vbique ingrederis, & vbique esse potes. Dixit iterum Deus. Virga Moysi, cum conuerteretur in serpentem, dic vtrum similitudo fuit serpentis, aut totum intus, & extra serpens, aut sportę illæ panum, seu fragmenta panum, dic vtrum verus panis fuit totus, an similitudo panum? Respondit diabolus. Totum erat in virga serpens, totum in sportis panis, & totum virtute tua, totum potentia tua facta est. Et Dominus Nunquid inquit difficilius est mihi nunc operari, quam tunc miraculum consimile, aut mirabilius si placet mihi, ab ex quo tunc caro glorificata, potuit ianuis clausis intrare ad apostolos, & quare nunc in manibus sacerdotum esse non valet. An forsan labor alsquis est deitati meæ, ima fodiari cæcitibus, terrenaq; summis. Nequaquam Sed vere pater mendacij, sic malitia tua maxima est, sic charitas mea est, & erit super omnes. Nam etiam si sacramentum illud vnus videretur comburere, alter terere sub pedibus, ego solus scio fidem omnium, & in mensura, & patientia dispono omnia. Qui de nihilo facio aliquid, & de visibili inuisibile, qui, & in signo, & forma aliquid visibile ostendo, quod tamen in signato aliud veraciter est, aliudque videtur. Respondit diabolus. Huius rei veritatem ego quotidie experior, quando homines amici mei elongant se à me, & fiunt amici tui. Sed quid dicam amplius seruus dimissus sibijpsi, satis ostendit voluntate, quid faceret actu si permitteretur. Tunc iterum loquitur filius Dei. Crede filia, quod ego Christus sum reparator vitæ, & non proditor. Veras & ipsa veritas, & non mendax, potestasque æterna, sine qua nihil fuit, & nihil erit. Nam si habueris fidem, quod ego sum in manibus sacerdotis, etiam si sacerdos dubitaret, tamen propter fidem credentium, & astantium, ter instrui, & dixi, ego veraciter sum in manibus, & propter verbum, quod ego ipse personaliter locutus sum. 5 Et omnis qui sumit me, sumit Deitatem, & humanitatem, & formam panis. Quid enim est Deus, nisi vita, & dulcedo lux illuminans, bonitas delectans, iustitia iudicans, & misericordia saluans, Quid vero est humanitas mea, nisi caro agillima, coniunctio Dei, & hominis, caput omnium Christianorum. Ergo omnis qui credit in Deum, & accipit corpus eius, ipse sumit deitatem, quia sumit vitam. Sumit, & humanitatem qua Deus homo coniungitur. Sumit, & formam panis, quia sub alia forma se tegitur ipse, qui latet sub forma sua propter fidei augumentum. Similiter, & malus suscipit eandem deitatem, sed iudicantem non demulcentem, sumit, & humanitatem, sed minus placabilem sibi. Sumit, & formam panis, quia sub forma visa recipit latentem veritatem, sed non dulcescentem, sibi suauitatem. Nam quando applicauerit me ad os suum, & dentes completo sacramento, ego recedo cum deitate, & humanitate, sola forma panis remanet sibi. Non quia non veraciter ibi sum, ita cum malis, sicut cum bonis, propter sacramenti institutionem, sed quia similem effectum non habent boni, & mali. Denique in sacrificio ipso offertur homini vita, ipse scilicet Deus, & ingreditur vita, sed non permanet cum malis, quia malum non relinquunt, & ideo remanet sensibus eorum sola forma panis. 6. Non tamen quod forma illa panis, quæ est sub substantia panis, aliquid sit eis effectiuum, sed quia de sumptione illa nihil recogitant, nisi quasi si viderẽt, & sentirent formam panis, atque vini, tanquam si dominus potens ingrederetur domum alicuius, & species eius quidem reminiscerentur, sed præsentia bonitatis eius obliuiscerentur, & negligeretur.

NO-

NOTAE.

1 ERgo negotiator es tu, & omnium viarum explorator, cui diabolus vere explorator ſum, ſed in tenebris, quia tenebroſum me feciſti. & Dominus, quando inquit vidiſti, & quomodo tenebroſus factus es, vidi inquit demon quando me creaſti pulcherrimum.

In præſenti capite demonem, & Negotiatorem, & exploratorem Chriſtus Dominus appellat, Negotiatorē quidem, quia quia Chriſtus ſua ſanguine lucratus eſt animas, demū eas ut perdat pro viribus ſtudet, explorator quoq; dicitur hic, & à Gloſſ. inter lineari ſuper Iudæ. cap. 10, quoniam ſagaciter, & quaſi occulte hominum ſtatum, & conſilia diligenter inquiris, ut eos ſuum ad inferos in æternum paſſuros tradas; peculiaris autem luciferi negotiatio fuit, cum ad cælum aſcendere voluit ſibique Dei æqualitatem vſurpare contendit, ut animaduerſit D. Hieronym. ſuper Ezech. cap. 28. & ſuper Iſaiam cap. 23. ob quam negotiationem factus eſt, ut ſcribitur hic tenebroſus à Deo, non quod Deus illius peccato cooperatus ſit, eumque ad peccandum induxerit, quia ipſe auctor peccati nullatenus eſſe poteſt, & inſtigator malorum eſt, ut affirmat D. Iacobus in ſua canonica cap. 1. ſed tenebroſus à Deo factus demon dicitur, quatenus eum peccare permiſit, illumque ob commiſſa peccata ad exteriores tenebras emandauit, vel quia à Deo gratia priuatus fuit, quæ lux eſt, per quam Chriſtus omnes homines venientem in hunc mundū illuminat Ioannis prima; quomodo verò, quæ immediate ſequūtur accipienda ſint, nimirum, vidi inquit demon quando me creaſti pulcherimum, explicauimus ſupra lib. 1. Reuelat. cap. 34. nota 1. 2. 3. & 4. vbi oſtendimus, quid viderit Demon, & quam cognitionem habuerit antequam in peccatum lapſus ſit quæ ue ſuæ ruinæ cauſa fuerit, & quod peccatum commiſerit.

2 Noui etiam te in carne aſſumpta, & feci, quod permiſiſti me.

A Demone Redemptorem noſtrum, vt verum Meſſiam, & filium Dei naturalē fuiſſe cognitum videtur indicare D. Marcus cap. 2. & D. Lucas ca. 4. qui narrant Chriſtum deſcendiſſe Capharnaum, & ſinagogam ingreſſum, obſeſſum à Demone liberaſſe, qui voce magna clamans dicebat, quid nobis, & tibi Iesu Nazarene, venisti perdere nos, ſcio te, quia ſis, ſanctus Dei, aut vt Græci codices habent ſcio te, qui ſis ſanctus Dei: ex his tamen euidenter non colligitur Demones nouiſſe Chriſtum, vt filium Dei, ſed quod coniecturis quibuſdam ſuſpicabantur, affirmabant, vt vel per commendationem, vel laudem à contrarietate Chriſtus deſiſteret eos expellere, aut potius ſicut docuit Ianſenius par. 1. ca. 27. ſuæ concordantiæ, vt experirentur an Chriſtus illatum titulum ſibi vſurparet, ſed quidquid ſit dicendum videtur Demones, & ſi aperte Chriſtum, vt Dei filium Naturalem, & Meſſiam in lege promiſſum non nouerint, & aliquando etiam de illius diuinitate dubitauerint probabiliſſimum tamen eſt, & ſanctorum Patrum doctrinis conſonum, eum qui multis teſtimonijs in veteri teſtamento de illo per propheras allatis mouerat, et intellexerat etiam Chriſtum, vt talem ex illis ſcripturis cognouiſſe id quæ pluribus, quoque coniecturis aſſequi potuiſſet, & primum per miracula ab ipſo nec Chriſto facta, & à Demone viſa, quæ ſufficienter probabant, & diuinitatem eius, ac etiam illum eſſe Meſſiam promiſſum. Secundo etiam, quia audierant a Chriſto teſtimonium huius rei, nam Ioan. 5. 8. & 10. ſcribitur dixiſſe ſe eſſe filium Dei, & ſecundum hunc ſenſum accipienda ſunt verba præſentis note cum legimus dicentem Demonem noui etiam te in carne aſſumpta, & hæc eſt ſententia, primum D. Hieron. Matt. 8. D. Nazianz. oratione 42. in qua de Chriſti Natiuitate agens hi (ait) eum à quo fugabantur, Deum agnouerunt, doloribus nimirum, quos ſentiebant ſedem ipſis facientibus, & hæc eſt ſententia D. Thomæ, qui affirmat poſtquam Chriſtus cœpit prædicare, antequam pateretur, permiſiſſe, ſeu non impediſſe, vt Demon Chriſtum agnoſceret ſic 1. p. q. 46. art. 1. ad 2. & q. 40. art. 4. ſequitur Lyranus Marci 1. & Lucæ 4. 4 Thomas, qui tetigit me poſt reſurrectionē var. lect. vtrum erat corpus, quod tangebat ſpirituale, an corporale, & ſi erat corporale quomodo intrabat ianuis, &c.

Omnino hic arbitror addendum eſſe verbum eluſit, & legendum cum M. S. Farneſiano quomodo

mutatæ sunt, & contemptæ, diligitur quippe pro confessione exculatio, & leuigatio culpæ pro castitate, scurrilium continuatio, pro labore salutis animæ, labor vtilitatis corporis. Pro honore & amore Dei, ambitio mundialium, & superbia. Pro parcitate laudabili superfluitas in omnibus. Pro timore Dei, præsumptio, & dijudicatio iudiciorum Dei. Pro dilectione Dei super omnia, ingratitudo
4 cleri super omnes. 4. Ideo sicut dixi per Prophetam veniam in indignatione, & tribulatio dabit eis intellectum. Tunc Mater misericordiæ astans. Respondit. Benedictus sis tu fili mi pro iustitia mea, loquor ad te, qui omnia scis propter sponsam istam, quam tu vis intelligere spiritualia, quæ tamen nisi per similitudines capere non valet spiritualia.
5 Tu quippe dixisti in deitate tua, antè quam susceperit humanitatem de me, quod si decem viri iusti inuenirentur in ciuitate misereri velles toti ciuitati propter decem. Nunc autem adhuc infiniti sunt sacerdotes, qui te oblatione corporis tui placant. Ergo miserere propter eos his, qui parum boni habent, hoc, quæ te secundum humanitatem genuit rogo, hoc omnes electi tui petunt mecum. Respondit filius. Benedicta sis tu, & benedictum verbum oris tui. Tu vides quod tripliciter parco propter triplex bonum, quod oblatio corporis mei habet. Sicut enim ex præsumptione Iudæ tria ostia fuerunt bona in me. Sic ex oblatione sacrificij huius tria veniunt animabus. Denique patientia mea laudatur, quod scient proditorem meum Iudam, non repuli conuersationem eius. Secundo, quod aliunde proditore cum suis, omnes ex vnico verbo meo ceciderunt in terram, vbi potentia mea ostendebatur. Tertio, quia omnem malitiam eius & diaboli, ad animarum conuerti salutem, vbi sapientia, & charitas diuina manifestabatur. Sic etiam ex oblatione sacerdotum tria veniũt bona. Primo, laudatur ab omni cœlesti exercitu patientia mea, quia idem sum in manibus boni, & mali sacerdotis, quia apud me non est personarum acceptio, nec merita hominum conficiunt hoc sacramẽtum, sed verba mea. 6 Secundo, quia hæc oblatio prodest
6 omnibus à quocunq; sacerdote sit oblata. Tertio, quia prodest etiam ipsis offerentibus quamcunque malis, quia sicut ex vno verbo quod dixi, scilicet, ego sum, corruerunt hostes mei corporaliter in terram, sic dicto verbo meo, videlicet, hoc est corpus meum, fugiunt dæmones à tentando animas offerentium, nec auderent redire ad eos cum tanta audacia si affectus peccandi non sequeretur. Itaque misericordia mea patet omnibus & omnes suffert, sed iustitia clamat vindictam, quia clamo quocidie, & quam multi respondent mihi satis tu vides. Veruntamen mittam adhuc verba oris mei, & qui audierint complebunt dies suos in letitia illa quæ nec dici nec cogitari potest pro dulcedine. Qui verò non audierint venient eis sicut scriptum est septem plagæ in anima, & septem in corpore, quas considerando, & legendo ea quæ gesta fuerant inuenient, ne experiendo contremiscant.

NOTAE.

1 SAcerdotes custodesque speciales eius, qui quodammodo etiam officio suo supra Angelos, quia quem ipsi Angeli timent contingere timore reuerentiæ, hunc sacerdotes tractant manibus, & ore.

Innuit hoc loco Redemptor noster, sacerdotes supereminere Angelis prout in Missæ Sacramento Ministri à Deo constituti sunt, vt sanè si de potestate ipsis collata Christi corpus conficiendi sermo sit: eos hac in re superiores esse fatendum est, quandoquidem ratione impressi Charactheris ipsi sacerdotes hanc obtinuerint facultatem, quæ Angelis non est concessa secundum ordinariam potestatem, vt egregie tradit D. Thomas 3. p. quæst. 64. art. 7. et nos animaduimus lib. 1. Reuelat. c. 48. num. 4. & probant Alexander Alens. 3. p. quæst. 20. membr. 4. Gabriel dist. 24. q. 2. Soto d. 1. quæst. 1. art. 3. Si verò loquamur de sumptione ipsius sacramenti de qua Christum Dominum loquitur in illis verbis colligitur, scilicet (sunt supra Angelos, quia quem Angeli timent contingere hunc sacerdotes mollibus manibus, &c. etc.) Dico in hoc quoque sacerdotes Angelis superiores esse, quia hominibus tribuitur quodammodo datum est Christum spiritualiter manducare, prout est sub speciebus huius sacramenti, in quantum etiam, quis credit in eum habere, desiderio hoc sacramentum sumendi, quod est Christum spiritualiter manducare, & spiritualiter hoc sacramentum sumere, vt probat D. Thomas 3. p. quæst. 80. art. 2. & patet ex D. Augustino ab eo citato tract. 25. in Ioannem paulo post medium, non tamen negandum est, si consideremus ipsum Christum in propria specie dici posse ipsos nos Angelos, sic eum spirituali manducatione sumere, quatenus in eodem perfecto charitatis vinculo cum illo vniuntur, ac perpetua visione fruuntur secundum illud Matth. 18. Angeli eorum semper vident faciem patris mei, sed hæc de re vide Durandum in 4. d. 1. q. 1. & Franciscum Suarez in comment. ad 3. p. D. Thomæ qu. 80. disput. 65. sect. 3.

2 Et in huiusmodi continentiæ signum capilli primo tondentur, ne voluptas animo, seu carni dominetur.

Inter cæteras, quas Patres de Clericorum Tonsura causas pluribus in locis attulerunt, hæc quam in præsenti nota legimus potissimà est, negari enim non potest per capillos, corporis superfluitates melintelligendo esse, & idcirco Clericos tondere, vt indicetur superflua, & praecipue carnis pravas cupiditates ab illis amputandas esse, eiusque rebelles motus arcendos, ne voluptas animae, seu carnis dominetur, vt scribitur hic, eandem quoque rationem reddiderunt S. Isidorus lib. 2. de diuinis officijs cap. 4. Hugo Victorinus lib. 2. de Sacramentis par. 3. cap. 1. Secundam rationem addens venerabilis Beda lib. 3. Hist. cap. 1. & cap. 22. & Guielmus Durantus in Rationali diuinorum lib. 2. cap. 4. vt scilicet in Clericis Christi Spina corona imago exprimatur, sicut enim Christiani omnes communi sanctissimae crucis signo ornantur, ita quoque expedire visum est, vt Clerici, qui Christum patientem imitari debent speciali signo honorentur. Tertiam affert causam D. Dionys. cap. 6. Ecclesiasticae hierarchiae, vt ea capitis nudatione significetur vnanimes, aperta, & pura, quam Religiosi, atque Deo specialiter dicati debent praeferre. Quarta, & nos addere possumus Clericos sic tondere debere, vt capillorum circulus relinquatur in formam coronae, et sic Regia demonstretur corona, ad quam electi sunt, & idcirco de his scripsit B. Petrus in sua prima Canonica cap. 2. Regale Sacerdotium, gens sancta, populus acquisitionis.

3 Ego quippe ostendi in monte Moysi vestes quibus Sacerdotes legis vterentur.

In veteri testamento Dominus praecepit Moysi, vt Aaron Sacerdoti suisque filijs vestes facerent sanctas, in gloriam, & decorem, vt nonnisi sanctis, sacrisq; (nisi puri eas induti) vestibus supra petrageretur, sicut Exodi 28. & 39. legimus, vbi diligentissime omnium sacerdotalium vestium forma, et numerus describitur, quod sine mysteria legis sacrificijs, quae futurorum figuram erant velata mysteriorum, quae vel emundationem tantummodo carnis spectabant, huiusmodi vestimentorum vsus erat necessario obseruandus, quando magnum erat secretum corporis, & sanguinis Dominici in quibus vera fuit est ratio sacrificij, & carnis, ac spiritus perfecta emendatio hoc faciendum erat, eidem indicant, ea verba, quae non longe à verbis praesentis nota distant, quae sunt, vt videatur quanta reverentia, & munditia opus est his, quibus est ipsam veritatem scilicet corpus mortuum tantam munditiam, ac reverentiam habebant, illi qui portabant vmbram, & figuram, idem annotauit Iuo Carnotensis epistola 124. id autem, quod proxime sequitur omnium (ad quid Moysi ostendi tantam vestium materiarum pulchritudinem, nisi cupiens significare eorum ornatus animae) Indicat sacerdotes hic omnium ornamentis refertos esse debere, quae per harum decorem vestium designantur, quos sacris ornatos vestibus, & honestis moribus esse indutos, quanto venerabiliores apparent hominibus, tanto indignior apud Deum redditur, itaque gloriam tam honoris non emendatae vestimenti, sed splendor animarum, hac Innocentius III. libro de Missae ca. 64. & D. Hyeron. in 44. ca. Ezechielis affirmat

4 Ideo sicut dixi per Prophetam veniam in indignatione, & tribulatio dabit eis intellectum.

Sic Isaie 63. inebriabo eos in indignatione mea, & alibi centies, hac loquendi formula vsi sunt Prophetae quando indicabant Deum homines punire velle, & ad eos grauissima flagella mittere, vt Trenorum 4. effundam iram indignationis. Ezech. 5. & 6. complebo indignationem meam in eis. Nahum 1. Sophon. 3. & 3. illud autem, & tribulatio dabit intellectum habetur Isaiae 6.

5 Tu quippe dixisti in deitate tua antequã susceperis humanitatem de me, quòd si decem viri iusti inuenirentur in ciuitate: misereri velles toti ciuitati propter decem.

Sic legimus Genesis 18. quod si inuenissem decem, & dixit non delebo propter decem, adduxit autem Beatissima Virgo huiusmodi textum vt Christum induceret ad parcendum malis Sacerdotibus, quos supra iam dixerat graviter punire vel le: probat autem, quia ipse Sodomis parcere promisserat, si Sodomis decem fuissent inuenti iusti cum ergo inquit Maria nunc plures reperiantur Sacerdotes, quotidie in corporis oblatione placant, ergo misereri propterea eis, qui parum boni sunt.

6 Secundo, quia haec oblatio prodest omnibus à quocumque Sacerdote est oblata.

Quemadmodum in consecratione Christi corporis, et sanguinis nihil obest magis, nec minus a malo Sacerdote perficitur diuinum iuxta formam sibi diuinitus datam celebretur, non quidem ex merito Sacerdotis conficium, sed diuina illi verbis re posita virtus operatur, neque illud horum vitae sanctitati, sed Christi Domini virtuti, ac potestati gerit tribuendum est, ex quibus consequens fit, vt Sacerdotum iniquitas nullatenus huius Sacramenti effectum impedire queat, sicut nec Medici infirmitas medicinae effectum minime tollit, nec corrumpit, ait etiam D. Chrysost. Hom. 83. in Lucam, A summo Deo aliquis est, ex per vatem benedictionis primordia largius est, multo magis per Sacerdotis etiam si praui sint datur effectus vnde Dalrig. Magnus Hom. 17. in illud Lucae 10. designauit Dominus septuaginta duos, Sacerdotes malos aqua Baptismatis comparat, aqua peccata Baptizatorum dum ipsa in eadem descendit habet D. Augustinus tract. quinto in Ioan. si superbus, ei furis Beinster, cum Diabolo conjungatur, sed donum Christi non contaminatur, hoc ipsum probat Hector Pintus in Ezechielem cap. 7. qui affirmat malis Sacerdotis sacrificium etiam aliis praeesse, sicut docet hic B. Brigitta, & quamuis inquit, in sancto Missæ sacrificio, si eam lethali peccato celebrat iudicium sibi manducat, & bibit, impetrat tamen à Deo, quod pro offerentibus petit, similis procuratori captiuorum, cui eorum contemplatione pro quibus petit, large datur eleemosina, cum tamen ipsi pro se petenti nihil daretur, non tamen negarim, si in Missa orationes spectemus, illam considerando ex opere operantis, vt Theologi Scholastici loquuntur plaris esse valoris Missam boni sacerdotis, quamquã dicendum sit, fructu non carere sacerdotis etiam mali orationes in persona Ecclesiæ prolatæ, vt docet Doctor Angelicus 3. p. q. 82. ar. 6. & D. Bonau. in 4. sent. dist. 13.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam qualiter sacerdos tenetur habere tria, primo corpus Christi consecrare, secundo munditiam carnis, & spiritus habere, tertio Parochię suæ prouidere. Etiam tenetur habere librum, & oleum. Et quomodo sacerdos angelus Dei est, immo, quod eius officium est maius quam Angeli-

CAP. LIX.

IESVS loquitur. Sacerdos tenetur habere tria; Primo, conficere corpus Dei. Secundo habere mundiciam carnis, & spiritus. Tertio, prouidere Parochiæ suæ. Sed potes quærere quid prodest habere ecclesiam, si non habet parochiam? Respondeo tibi, sacerdos habens voluntatem omnibus prodesse, & predicare propter amorem Dei, ille habet tam latam parochiam quasi si haberet totum mundum, quia si posset loqui toti mundo minime parceret labori suo. Ideo voluntas bona reputatur ei pro opere. Nam Deus propter ingratitudinem audientium multoties parcit electis suis à labore predicandi, nec tamen fraudantur mercede propter affectum bonum. 1 Presbyter etiã tenetur habere librum, & oleum. Librum ad instruendum imperfectos, oleum sanctum ad infirmos liniendum. Sicut enim in libro continetur doctrina corporalis, & spiritualis, sic in sacerdote sit sapientia ad seipsum, moderando carnem, ne dissoluatur intemperantia, qua scandalizantur parochiani, fugiendo cupiditatem mundi, qua vilipenditur decor ecclesiæ, deuitando mores secularium, quibus dignitas clericalis dehonestatur. Spiritualis vero scientia est instruere insipientes, corripere dissolutos, accendere proficientes. In oleo vero notatur dulcedo orationis, & exempla bona. Sicut enim oleum pinguius est pane, sic oratio charitatis, & exempla bonæ vitæ, efficaciora sunt ad trahendum homines, & pinguiora ad placandum Deum. 2. Vere dico tibi filia, quod magnum est nomen sacerdotis, quia angelus Domini est, & mediator. 3. Sed maius est officium eius, quia tractat incomprehensibilem Deum, iamque celestibus in manu eius coniunguntur.

NOTAE.

1 PResbyter etiam tenetur habere librum, & oleum.

Duo in primis, sacerdotibus necessaria esse ostendit Christus in præsenti capite sub similitudine libri & oleiscientiam, scilicet, & vitæ sanctitatem, & vt a primo summus exordium nulli dubium est per librum in presenti nunc sacrarum rerum scientia designari, qua sacerdos præditus esse debet, & de hoc libro Exodi 17. sermo fit, vbi legimus Deum præcepisse vt in illo scriberetur ob monumentum, in cuius capite de Christo scriptum est, vt psal. 39 Dauid dixit, & hunc esse Scripturam sacram auctor est Arnobius in citatum psalmum, is enim ibi per inuolutum, ac signatum dictum Isaiæ 29. & Ezech. 2. quandoquidem diuina mysteria figuris inuoluta continet, intus quoque, & foris eum scriptum esse D. Ioannes Apocalyp. 5. affirmat quoniam sacra scriptura preterita, & futura, litterã & spiritum includit, vt annotarunt D. Hyeron. super Isaiam, cap. 8 & 29. & super Ezech. cap. 2. Orig. super eundem Hom. 14. Gregorius Magnus 27. moral. cap. 11. hic ergo liber est, quem mandat Christus Dominus hoc loco, vt sacerdos penes se habeat, vt sacræ scripturæ mysteria populus perdiscat quomodo inquit Isidorus lib. 3. de summo bono, cap. 35. docere poterunt, quod ipsi non didicerunt desinat locum docendi suscipere, qui nescit docere ignorantia quippe præsulum vitæ non congruit subiectorum, hinc est, quod Oseas Propheta, sacræ sum reuelationum prædixit, sacerdotes si hanc sibi comparare scientiam neglexerint, a sacerdotij munere reiciendos esse, quia inquit scientiam repulisti repellam te, ne sacerdotio fungaris mihi. præter scientiam debet etiam sacerdos oleum habere, id autem nimirum misericordiæ, & charitatis, & bonorum operum executionem, hæc enim per oleum designatur, vt Exodi 29. & Leuit. 2. legimus, & docent Origen. in Leuit. Homil. 4. 8. & 13. Di Hyeron. super Isaiam, cap. 10. D. Augustl. in lib. 83. q. 59.

2 Vere dico tibi filia, quod magnum est nomen sacerdotis, quia Angelus Domini est, & Mediator.

Laudabilem hac loca dignitas commendatur, dum eos Christus, & Angelos, & Mediatores appellat. Est enim Angelorum sacerdos, quorum est proprium hominibus diuina reserare secreta, eosque illuminare, quod sacerdotes spectat, vt superiori nota demonstratum; & ex Malachia Propheta colligi potest cap. 2. labia inquit sacerdotis custodient scientiam, & legem requirent ex ore eius, quia Angelus Domini exercituum est, vnde Apostolus 1. Corinth. 11. prohibuit, vt mulieres velato capite ingrederentur Ecclesiam propter Angelos, hoc est, propter sacerdotes, sic hunc locum interpretantur Lyranus, & Dionysius Carthusianus, qui sacerdotes Angelos vocandos esse asserit, Primo propter amplorem scientiam diuinorum, secundo propter annunciationem mandatorum diuinorum, Tertio propter suam diuinam similitudinem, Quarto propter custodiam Dominici Gregis, idem insinuauit D. Gregor. hom. 6. in Euang. vnusquisque ab fidelis, siue prauitate proximum reuocat, & ad bonum exercetur, si aeternum regnum, vel supplicium erranti denunciat, profecto Angelus Domini est, secundo sacerdotes dici possunt etiam Angeli propter vitae Angelicae puritatem, quae exigitur ab illis.

Sed magis est officium eius, quia tractat incomprehensibilem Deum.

Superiori capite non longe ab initio idem probatur, quod hoc loco innuit Christus Dominus nimirum, sacerdotes respectu consecrationis Corporis Christi dignitate excellere Angelos. vide plura cap. 78. huc eodem lib. nota 1. vbi hac de re late egimus.

VERBA SPONSAE AD Deum de grato modo effundendi preces coram Deo.

CAP. LX.

BENEDICTVS sis tu Creator, & redemptor meus. Ne indigneris, si loquor ad te, sicut vulneratus ad Medicum, sicut tribulatus ad consolatorem, sicut pauper ad diuitem & abundantem. Vulneratus quippe dicit. O Medice noli abominari me saucium, quia frater es. O consolator optime, noli me despicere, quia anxius sum, sed da cordi meo requiem, sensibusque meis consolationem. Pauper vere dicit. O tu diues, & nullius egens, respice me, quia periclitor fame. Vide me quia nudus sum, & da mihi vestes quibus caleam, sic ego dico. O Domine omnipotentissime, & optime, ego considero vulnera peccatorum meorum, quibus ab insanie vulnerata sum, & ingemisco, quia tempus consumptum est inutiliter. Vires nō sufficiunt ad labores, quia exhauste sunt in vanitatibus. Ideoque quia tu es fons totius bonitatis, & misericordię, rogo te miserere mei. Tange cor meum manu dilectionis tuæ, quia Medicus es optimus, consolare animā meam, quia consolator es bonus.

QVALITER DIABOLVS apparuit sponsæ in eleuatione corporis Christi loquens, & per rationes probans ei, quod illud, quod eleuabatur non esset corpus Christi. Cui Angelus Domini statim apparuit cōfortans eam, & dicens. Noli credere &c. Et qualiter Christus apparens coegit diabolum, vt diceret veritatem coram filia. Et qualiter corpus Christi sumitur, sic à bonis, & de remedio opportuno in tentationibus de corpore Christi.

Et vt probes, quod dico. Iste 2 var. lect. sacerdos meus est, quem cum voluero, & illi in puncto auferam ad meipsum. Tunc statim bonus Angelus apparens dixit. O filia noli respondeas stulto iuxta stultitiam suam, ipse enim qui apparuit tibi, est pater mendacij, sed esto parata, quia sponsus noster iam prope est. Qui sponsus Iesus veniens, ait ad diabolum. Cur inquit conturbas filiam meā, & sponsam? Ideo dico filiam, quia creaui eam. Ideo sponsam, quia redemi eam, & charitate mea copulaui eam mihi. Respondit dæmon. Ideo loquor, quia permissus sum, & vt ipsa refrigesceret in seruitio tuo. Et Dñs. Farneſianus codex legit qui cor habet carneum, quia ſcilicet, carni deditus eſt, & carnis voluptatibus involutus.

Numerorum cap. 21. habetur mandaſſe Deum Moyſi, vt ſerpentem æneum faceret poneretque eum pro ſigno, quem cum pereuſſi aſpicerentur ſanarentur, adducit autem hunc textum Chriſtus hic, vt probet à ſimili, conuerſionem panis in corpus Chriſti, non humana aliqua fieri virtute, ſed diuina ſicut enim inquit ſanitas, quæ ex ſerpentis manebat viſione nullatenus ex ipſomet ſerpente naturaliter, ſed diuinitus tantummodo procedebat, & quemadmodum conuerti nullo modo potuiſſet virga Moyſi in ſerpentem, niſi diuina vi, ac poteſtate; ita quoque, nec panis conuerteretur in corpus Chriſti, niſi verba diuina huiuſmodi conuerſionem efficerent, & idcirco leginus paulo ante medium præſentis capitis, ſic etiam nunc in Altari, ante enim verba conſecrationis panis poſitus in Altari panis eſt, dicto verbo, hoc eſt corpus meum, fit corpus Chriſti. MS. legit fit caro Chriſti, quod confirmans diuus Gregorius Nazianz. hom. 60. ad populum Antiochenum dicit, verum & tu laice, cum ſacerdotem videris offerentem, ne tu ſacerdotem putes eſſe, hoc ſcientem, ſed Chriſti manum inuiſibiliter extenſam.

Hieron. in epiſtola ad Pamachium aduerſus errores Ioannis Hieroſolymitani, & D. Aug. de conſenſu Euangeliſtarum, lib. 3. cap. 25. arbitrantur hoc euenitiſſe diſcipulis ob aliquam mutationem, quæ in eorum oculis facta ſit, vt probare videntur verba D. Lucæ loco citato, vbi dicit oculi eorum tenebantur, ne eum agnoſcerent, quod inquit, Auguſtinus, Marcus ait, in alia effigie eis apparuiſſe dominum, hoc Lucas affirmat, quod eorum oculi tenebantur ne eum agnoſcerent, oculis quippe eorum aliquid acciderat, quod ita manere permiſſum eſt, vſque ad fractionem panis certi myſterij cauſa, vt eis in illo alia oſtenderetur effigies, ſed Theophilactus intelligit id ex lineamentorũ corporis Chriſti mutatione fuiſſe factum, vt eum nõ agnoſcerent diſcipuli, cui ſententiæ fauere etiam videtur D. VERBA INCREPATIONIS Domini ad quendam ſacerdotem ſepelientem quendam qui in patientia mortuus eſt præſente ſponſa. Et qualiter cum ſeptem plagis ſpiritualibus, & ſeptem corporalibus, Chriſtus venerat ad indoctos ſacerdotes. Et qualiter illa omnia propter patientiam obtinuit gloriam.

CAP. LXII.

QVIDAM ſacerdos ſepeliret quendam mortuũ, qui tribus annis cum diuidio facuit in lecto. Tunc audiuit ſponſa qualiter dixit ſpiritus. Amice quid præſumis tangere illum, cum manus tuæ ſanguinolentæ ſint? Cur clamas pro eo ad omnipotentem, cum vox tua eſt quaſi ranarum? Cur præſumis pro eo placare iudicem, cum geſtus tui, & mores ſimiliores ſunt ioculatoris, quam deuoto ſacerdoti? propterea virtus verborum meorum, & non opus tuum proficiet mortuo, fidesque ſua, & patientia longa introducent ipſum ad coronam. Item dixit ſpiritus ſponſæ, Manus illius ſunt ſanguinolente, quia omnia opera eius ſunt carnalia, quibus tangere non valet mortuum, quia iuuare eum non poteris meritis ſuis, ſed dignitate Sacramenti. Nam boni ſacerdotes profunt duplicíter animabus, ſcilicet, virtute corporis Dominici, & propria quæ ardent charitate. Vox quoque eius eſt quaſi ranarum, quia tota eſt de lutoſis operibus, tota ad voluptatem carnis. Idro non aſcendit ad Deum, qui placari deſiderat vocibus humilis confeſſionis, & contritionis. Mores etiam ſui ſunt quaſi ioculatoris. Quid enim facit ioculator, niſi quod cõformat ſe moribus mundialium? Quid vero cantat, niſi comedamus, & bibamus, ſtudet, quæ in hac vita delicijs? Sic facit iſte, conformat enim ſe veſte, & actu cum omnibus, vt omnibus placeat, omnesque exemplo ſuo, & exceſſu ad ſuperflua incitat dicendo. 1. Cor. 15. Comedamus, & bibamus, quia gaudium domini eſt fortitudo noſtra. ſufficeat nobis venire ad portam gloriæ, & ſi prohibear ab ingreſſu ſufficiat mihi reſidere iuxta portam, nolo eſſe perfectus. gloriæ, nisi perfectus aut perfecte purgatus, & nemo apprehendet gloriam, nisi perfecte desiderando eam, aut perfecte cum poterit pro ea laborando. Attamen ego dominus omnium ingredior ad sacerdotem istum, sed non includor, & commaculor. Ingredior vt sponsus, egredior vt iudex iudicaturus, contemptus à sumente. Propterea sicut dixi. Veniam sacerdotibus cum septem plagis. Priuabuntur enim omnibus, quæ dilexerunt, ejicientur a conspectu Dei, & indicabuntur in ira eius, tradentur demonibus patientur absque requie, contemnentur ab omnibus, egebunt bonis omnibus, malisque omnibus abundabunt. Similiter etiam alijs septem corporalibus malis, sicut Israel flagellabuntur. Ideo non debes mirari si tolero malos, aut si aliqua indigna ostenduntur in sacramento meo, quia ad ostendendam patientiam meam, & ingratitudinem hominum sustero, vsque in finem. Nec cogitare debes, quod talis indignitas, sicut audisti de vomitu, sic in corpore meo, sed species ille sensuales ostendunt quod suum est, scilicet deficiendo, & tamen transparendo manifestant hominum ingratitudinem, & produnt homines, ad tam sanctam sumptionem reos, & indignos. Item dixit spiritus ad animam mortui. O anima gaude, & exulta, quia fides tua saluauit te a diabolo, simplicitas tua abbreuiabit tibi longam viam purgatorij, patientia tua dixit te ad portam gloriæ. Misericordia mea introducet te, & coronabit te.

CAP. LXIII.

ITEM APPARVIT SPONSE quidam demon longo ventre, & ait. Quid credis tu mulier, & quid magna cogitas? ego etiã multa scio, & aperta raõe probare volo dicta mea, sed consolo tibi, dimitte cogitare incredibilia, & crede sensibus tuis. Nonne tu vides oculis, & auribus carnis tuæ audissonum, fractionis hostiæ materialis panis, vidisti eũ euomi, tangi, inhoneste deijci in terram, pluraque indigna fieri, quæ ego in me non tolerarem. Et si Deum in ore iusti possibile esset esse, quomodo descendet ad iniustos quorum auaritia est sine fundo, & sine modo? Respondit illa ad humanitatem Christi, quæ statim post tentationes apparuit dicens. O Domine Iesu Christe regratior tibi pro omnibus, & specialiter pro tribus. Primo, quia vestis animam meam, inspirando scilicet penitentiam, & contritionem, qua omne diluitur peccatum quantũcumq; graue. Secundo cibas animam infundendo charitatem tuam, & memoriam passionis tuæ qua anima, quasi cibo optimo delectatur. Tertio consolaris omnes inuocantes te in tribulatione. Ergo domine miserere mei, & adiuua fidem meam, quamuis ego indigna sim tradi illusionibus diaboli, credo tamen quod sine permissione tua ipse nihil potest, nec permissio tua est sine consolatione. Tunc ait Christus ad diabolum. Cur inquit loqueris sponsæ meæ nouæ. Cui diabolus respondit, Quia inquit colligata erit mihi, & spero adhuc eam irretiendam reti meo. Tunc autem colligata erat mihi, quando consentiendo mihi plus placuit, & placere studuit consilijs meis, quam tibi Creatori suo. Nam custodiui vias eius, & nondum exciderant a memoria mea. Respondit Dominus. 1. Ergo negociator es tu, & omnium viarum explorator. Cui diabolus

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM qualiter filius suus assimilatur pauperi rustico. Et qualiter tribulationes, & persecutiones bonis, & malis illatæ sunt, bonis ad purgationem, & coronam.

CAP. LXIV.

MATER Loquitur. Filius meus est quasi pauper rusticus, qui non habens bouem, nec asinum, personaliter ligna portabat de silua, & alia instrumenta ad opera sua necessaria perficienda. Qui inter alia instrumenta etiã virgulas apportabat, quæ ad duo sunt necessariæ, scilicet ad flagellandum filium inobedientem, & ad calefaciendum frigidos. Sic filius meus omnium Dominus, & Creator factus est pauperrimus; vt æternis non transitorijs diuitijs omnes ditaret, qui in dorso suo grauissimum pondus, scilicet amaram crucem portans, omnium peccata sanguine suo purgauit, & delevit. Qui etiam inter cætera opera sua, elegit instrumenta virtutum, ideò viros virtutum, per quos operante spiritu Dei, multorum corda ad charitatem Dei sunt inflammata, viaque veritatis manifestata. Elegit quoque virgulas, quales sunt amatores mundi, per quos filij, & amici Dei flagellantur ad eorum eruditionem, & purgationem, & maiorem cautelam & remunerationem. Virgulæ etiam calefaciunt filios frgidos, & Deus incalescit etiam ex eorum igne. Sed quomodo? Vtique, quando mundani tribulant amicos dei, & illos, qui solo timore pœnæ diligunt Deum, qui tribulati sunt ferventius conuertunt se ad deum, considerata vanitate mundi, quorum tribulationi compatiens deus, immittit eis consolationem, & charitatem. Sed quid fiet de virgulis filijs flagellatis. Vtique proijcientur in ignem comburendæ. Non enim despicit Deus populum suum, quando eum manibus impiorum tradit, Sed sicut Pater eaudit filium, sic Deus malicia impiorum vritur ad suorum coronationem.

VERBA MONITIONIS AD filiam per exemplum probantia, qualiter amici Dei nec attediari, nec cessare debent à labore prædicationis, & de magna talium remuneratione.

CAP. LXV.

MATER loquitur. Tu debes esse sicut vas vacuum aptum ad implendum, quod non sit sic latum, vt defluant imposita, nec sit ita profundum (vt careat fundo. Vas autem illud corpus tuum est, quod tunc vacuum est, cum ab appetitu voluptatis extraneum est. Tunc autem moderate est latum, quando caro discrete affligitur, vt anima habilis sit ad intelligẽda spiritualia, & corpus robustum ad laborandũ. Tunc vero vas est sine fundo, quando caro nulla coarctatur abstinentia, sed quicquid animus appetit hoc corpori non negatur. Sed audi quæ loquor, seruus meus protulit verbum impenitatum dicens: quid ad me loqui de his, quæ non tangunt statum meum? Verbum tale non decet seruum Dei. Nam omnis qui audit, & scit veritatem, si tacuerit eam reus est, nisi omnino contemnatur. Nam Dominus quidam erat habens castrũ forte, in quo erant quattuor bona, scilicet cibus imputribilis pellens omnem famem, aqua salutaris extinguens omnem sitim, odor odoriferus depellens omnia nocumenta, arma necessaria debilitantia omnem inimicum. Tandem Domino intendente alijs obsessum est castrum: Quod intelligens Dominus ait præconi famulo suo. Vade inquit, & clama alta voce militibus meis sic. Ego Dominus liberabo castrum meum, quicunque me sequitur bona voluntate, erit mecum in gloria, & honore consimilis. Qui vero in pugna ceciderit suscitabo eum ad vitam, quæ non habet defectum, nec anxietatem, daboque ei honorem permanentem, & abundantiam indeficientem. Serus itaque accepto mandato clamauit, sed minus solicitus fuit in clamando, In tantum, quod clamor ad ſrequissimum militem non peruenit. Et ideo miles desistit a labore. Quid ergo facturus est Dominus militi, qui voluit libenter laborare. sed non audiuit vocem præconis? Vtique remunerabitur pro voluntate:

Sed preco tepidus non erit immunis a correptione. Itaque caſtrum illud eſt ſancta Eccleſia, fundata ſanguine filij mei, in qua eſt corpus ſuum, quod depellit omnem famem, aqua ſapientiæ Euangelicæ, odor exemplorum ſanctorum eius, & arma paſſionis eius. MATER Loquitur. Quid nocet, ſi quis acu vel ferro pungitur in pallio, dummodo non læditur caro? Sic nec temporalia bona diſcrete poſſeſſa nocent, niſi affectus poſſidendi fuerit inordinatus. Ideo obſerua cor tuum, vt intentio bona ſit, quia per te verba Dei diffundi debent in alios. Nam ſicut retentaculum aquæ molendinariæ retinet aquam, & iterum diſcurrere facit quoties expedit, ſic tu influentibus cogitationibus varijs, & tentationibus ſollicite obſeruare debes, vt quæ vana ſunt, & ſecularia dimittantur. Quæ vero diuina ſunt continue rememorentur, ſicut ſcriptum eſt, quod aquæ inferiores defluebant, ſuperiores vero ſtabant quaſi murus. Aquæ inferiores ſunt cogitationes carnis, & cupiditates inutiles, quæ defluere debent, & non attendi. Superiores vero aquæ ſunt infuſiones Dei, & verba ſanctorum, quæ ſtabiles ſint in corde, ſicut murus, vt nullis tentationibus à corde diuellantur.

Ergo ſicut fœmina parit, & non homo, ſic anima bona vxor Dei parere debet auxilio Dei, quia anima ad hoc creata eſt, vt virtutibus proficiat, & ſemine virtutum fœcunda creſcat, vt veniat inter brachia diuinę charitatis. Sicut in delectatione diaboli, momẽtanea, & apparẽs eſt dulcedo, ſed plena eſt ſentibus, & tribulationibus. Quia quo plus quis implicatur mundo, tanto grauiori onere computationis oneratur. Itaque ſicut omnis arbor talem profert fructum, qualis eſt radix, & truncus. Sic omnis homo ex intentione operis ſui iudicatur. Tertio, omnia elementa ſtant in ordine ſuo, & motu, ſic vt ab æterno præuiſum eſt, & mouentur ſecundum factoris voluntatem. Cum autem facit contrarium, perſpicuum eſt, quod arbitrio libero abutitur, & vbi irrationalia cuſtodiunt metas ſuas, ibi rationalis homo degenerat, & aggrauat iudicium ſuum, quia non vtitur ratione. Itaque cuſtodienda eſt voluntas hominis, quia non maiorem iniuriam facio diabolo quam angelis meis, quia ſicut Deus exigit à ſponſa ſua caſta dulcedinem illam indicibilem, ſic diabolus quærit à ſponſa ſua ſpinas, & aculeos. VERBA MATRIS AD FILIAM de vulpe, & qualiter diabolus vulpi assimilatur, & qualiter diabolus subdolus tanquam vulpis vario, & multiplici modo tentationum decipit homines, & conatur decipere, quam maxime quos videt in bonis proficere.

CAP. LXVIII.

MATER loquitur. Est quoddam animal paruum, quod vulpis dicitur, sollicitum in procurandis omnibus necessitatibus suis, & subdolu. Quod fingit se quandoque dormire, & quasi mortuum, vt aues sedentes super se, eo liberius capiat, & deuoret, quo incautiores sunt in sedendo. Considerat quoque volatum auium, & quas præ lassitudine videt in terra quiescere, vel sub arbore illas rapit, & deuorat. Sed quæ duabus alis euolant, ille confundunt eum, & frustant in laborando. Vulpis ista diabolus est, qui amicos Dei semper insequitur, & maxime eos, qui scire malitiæ, & veneno nequitiæ eius carent. Qui fingit se quasi dormire, & mortuum, quia quandoq. dimittit hominem liberum a tentationibus grauioribus, vt incautum in minimis, eo liberius decipiat, & inuoluat. Quandoque etiam vitium facit videri virtutem, & e contra virtutem vitium, vt homo inuolutus incedat inuacuum, & nisi discretione subueniente pereat. Sicut per exemplum intelligere poteris. Nam misericordia quandoque vitium est, quando scilicet fit ad hominibus placendum. Iustitiæ vigor est iniustitia, quando scilicet exercetur propter cupiditatem, & propter impatientiam. Humilitas vero superbia est, quando fit propter ostentationem, & vt videatur ab hominibus. Patientiæ virtus ostenditur, & non est, quando se vindicaret, si posset de iniuria, sed tamen tolerat, quia aptum tempus non inuenit ad vindicandum. Quandoque etiam diabolus summittit tribulationes & tentationes, vt homo nimia resolutur tristitia, quandoq. etiã diabolus immittit anxietates, & sollicitudines in cor, vt homo tepescat in seruitio Dei. Aut dum homo incautus est in minimis ruat in maiora. Sic iste de quo loquor supplantatus est a vulpe. Cum enim in senectute omnia haberet ad votum, & iam diceret se esse felicem, optaretque viuere, raptus est absque sacramentis, & ratiocinijs operũ & rerum suarum. Quia quasi formica congregabat nocte, ac die, sed non in horreum Domini. Et cum peruenisset ad foramen tumuli, vbi introdpceret grana mortuus est, relinquens alijs labores suos. Quia qui non congregat tempore messis fructuose, de semine non gaudebit. Ideo felices sunt aues Domini, quæ non dormitant sub arboribus deliciarum mundi, sed in arboribus desideriorum cęlestium, quas si apprehenderit tentatio vulpis iniqui diaboli, citius duabus alis, scilicet humilitate confessionis, & spe cælestis auxilij euolabunt.

Declaratio.

Christus filius Dei loquitur. Iste præpositus est materia Episcopalis, Ideo qui arborem dulcis fructus ascendere voluerit capiendo fructus dulces, debet esse expeditus ab onere, præcinctus, & robustus ad colligendum, & vas habere mundum, in quo fructus deponatur. Sic iste studeat a modo decorare corpus suum virtutibus dando ei necessaria non superdua, fugiendo occasionem incommentiæ, & cupiditatis ostendendo se speculum mundum, & exemplum hominibus imperfectis. Alioquin veniet ei casus horribilis finis subitus, & plaga manus meæ. Ita omnia hæc euenerunt.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam. qualiter boni mores, & bona opera clericorũ per claras aquas, & mali mores, & mala opera per turpes, & turbidas aquas designantur.

CAP. LXIX.

FILIVS loquitur. Ex tribus perpendi potest, si aqua fontis non est bona. Primo si non habet debitum colorem. Secundo, si est lutosa. Tertio, si aqua est continue stans, & non in motu recipiens, sed non eiiciens omnes sordes aduenientes. Per istas aquas intelligo mores, & corda clericorum, qui tanquam fontes tenentur esse dulces ad potandũ, & suauitatem morum. Clausi contra omnes sordes vitiorum. Ergo proprius color clerici est vera humilitas, vt tanto plus humiliet se cogitatione, & opere, quanto obligationem se conspicit pro Deo debere laborare.

Vbi

Vbi enim ſuperbia eſt, ibi color eſt diaboli, qui ſicut manus leproſi hauriens aquam de fonte, quaſi abominabilem reddit aquam intuentibus, ſic ipſa ſuperbia opera clerici monſtrat maculoſa. Tunc vero eſt aqua lutoſa, quando clericus cupidus eſt, nec contentatur de neceſſarijs, qui ſicut ſibi ipſi inutilis eſt, & anxius, ſic alijs per exemplum cupiditatis ſuæ eſt nocuus. Tertio aqua immunda eſt, quæ recipit ſordes, & non ejicit, & hoc prouenit ex incluſo meam, & quia nõ habet motum. Sic clericus immundus eſt, qui voluptatem carnis amat in corde, & corpore, & non per veram contritionem ejicit a ſe quicquid immundum occurrerit. Nam ſicut macula in corpore vbique eſt deformis, ſed maxime in facie, ſic immunditia omnibus odioſa eſſe debet, ſed maxime his, qui ad excellentiora ſunt vocati. Ergo hi clerici ad opus meũ eligendi ſunt, qui non abundant verboſa ſcientia, ſed humilitate, & puritate, qui & ſibi ipſis viuunt, & alios eruditunt verbo, & exemplo, quia etiam manus leproſa ad opus meum eſt vtilis, dummodo mens bona ſit, & manus non deſit ſpiritualis.

VERBA MATRIS AD FILIVM paſſionem filij ſui Benedicti per ordinem narrantia. Et de forma, & pulchritudine corporis eiuſdem filij.

CAP. LXX.

MATER loquitur. Imminente paſſione filij mei lacrymæ erant in oculis eius, & ſudor in corpore præ timore paſſionis, & mox a conſpectu meo abſtractus eſt, nec eum vltra vidi, donec educeretur ad flagellandum. Tunc autem ad terram, ita trahitur, & impulſus proſternitur crudeliter, vt concuſſo capite dentes colliderentur, & ad collum, & maxillam percutitur ita fortiter, vt ſonus percuſſionis ad aures meas perueniret. Deinde iubente lictore ſeipſum veſtibus exuit, columnam ſponte amplectens, coſte ligatur, & flagellis aculeatis infixis aculeis, & retractis non euellendo, ſed ſulcando totum corpus eius lacerabatur. Ad primum igitur ictum. Ego quaſi corde percuſſa ſenſibus abducor, & poſt tempus euigilans, corpus eius laceratum video, a toto enim corpore nudus erat cum flagellaretur. Tunc vnus inimicorum eius aſſiſtentibus lictoribus dicebat, vultis hominem hunc ſine indicio occidere, & cauſam mortis eius veſtrã facere, & hæc dicens ſecuit ligamen. Et iam ſolutus filius meus a columna, primum ad veſtimenta ſua ſe conuertit, nec tamen ſpatiũ induendi ſe ei conceditur. Sed adhuc dum cingeretur, brachia ſua manicis inſeruit. Veſtigiaque eius, in quibus ad columnam ſteterit, plena erant ſanguine, taliter, quod ego bene poteram omnia veſtigia eius, quæ iuit, ſigno ſanguinis agnoſcere, qui tunc vultum ſuum manante ſanguine tunica deterſit.

Deinde iudicatus crucem portans educitur, ſed in via portans alius ſubſtituitur.

Peruento igitur ad locum crucifixionis, & ecce malleus, & quatuor claui acuti in prompto ſunt, & mox iuſſus veſtes ponit, paruumque linteum verẽdis prætexit, quod & ipſe inde quaſi conſolatus adiuuit ad ligandum. Erat autem crux fixa, & brachia eius elevata, ita vt nodus crucis inter ſcapulas eſſet, nec vllum capiti rechinatorium crux præbebat, & tabula tituli vtrique brachio ſuper caput eminenti affixa erat. Ad crucem igitur iuſſus dorſum vertit. Et manum puſtulatus primo dexteram extendit. Et inde alia manus, ad reliquum cornu non attingens diſtenditur. Et pedes ſimiliter ad foramina ſua diſtendũtur, cancellatique, & quaſi infra a tybijs diſtincti, duobus clauis ad crucis ſtipitem per ſolidum os, ſicut, & manus erant configuntur. Ad primum igitur ictum ferientis mallei, ego ex dolore in extaſi fio, & euigilans filium meum confixum video, colloquentes etiam homines alterum ad alterum audio, quid hic fecit, furtum rapinam vel mendacium? Alijs reſpondẽtibus quòd mendax eſſet. Et tunc corona ſpinea capiti eius arctiſsime impoſita fuit, quæ ad medium frontis deſcendebat, plurimis riuis ſanguinis ex aculeis infixis decurrentibus per faciem eius, & crines & oculos & barbam replentibus, vt quaſi mihi niſi ſanguis totum videretur, nec ipſe me aſtantem cruci videre potuit, niſi ſanguine expreſſo per ciliorum compreſſionem. Me igitur diſcipulo ſuo cõmendata per eũ, vocẽ ex imo pectoris erecto capite oculis in cœlũ directis, & lacrymantibus emiſit dicẽs Deus meus Deus meus vt quid me dereliquiſti? quã vocem, ego nunquam donec ad cælum veni obliuiſci potui, quam plus ex compaſsione mea, quàm ſua permotus protulit. Tunc color mortis in partibus, quibus præſanguine aſpici potuit, acceſsit, dentibus maxille inheſerunt. Coſtæ vero attenuate dinumerari poterant. Venter autem conſumptis iam humoribus dorſo applicatur, & iam naribus attenuatis cum cor prope ſciſsionem eſſet, totum corpus eius cotremuit, & tunc barba barba eius ſuper pectus eius cecidit. Tunc ego exinanita corrui in terram. Igitur ore aperto, ſicut iam expirauerat, lingua, dentes, & ſanguis in ore ab aſpicientibus poterant videri, & oculi ſemiclauſi deorſum verſi erant, & corpus iam mortuum dimiſſum pendebat, genibus autem in partem vnam inclinatis, pedes ad partem alteram ſuper clauos, quaſi cardines declinabant. Interim vero alij homines aſtantes quaſi inſultando dicebant. O Maria iam filius tuus mortuus eſt. Alij quibus altius ſenſus erat dicebant. O domina iam pœna filij tui ad æternam ſuam gloriam ſoluta eſt. Modico autem tempore poſt aperto latere, & extracta lancea, ſanguis in cuſpide, quaſi brunei coloris apparuit, vt ex hoc intelligeretur cor transfixum, quæ punctura cor meum penetrauit, & mirum fuit, quod, & ipſum non crepuit. Alij igitur recedentibus, ego recedere non potui. 7. Sed iam quaſi conſodata ſunt, quod corpus eius iam de cruce depoſitum contingere potui, & in ſinum recipere, vulnera explorare, & extergere ſanguinem. Deinde os eius digiti mei clauſerunt, & oculos pariter compoſui. Brachia vero rigentia flectere non potui, vt ſe ſupra pectus componerent, ſed ſuper ventrem. Genua quoque extendi non potuerunt, ſed eminebant, ſicut in cruce obrigueruntiterum loquitur Mater, Filium meum qualis eſt in cælo videre non poteris. Sed qualis erat ſecundum corpus in mundo cognoſce. Ipſe enim tam pulcher facie erat, quod nullus videbat eum facie, qui non conſolabatur in aſpectu eius, etiam ſi præcordialiter dolorem haberet. Iuſti vero ſpirituali conſolatione conſolabantur. Sed & mali à triſtitia ſæculi, tanto tempore quo eum videbant releuabantur. Vnde, & dolentes dicere conſueuerunt. Eamus, & filium Mariæ videamus, vt ſaltem tanto tempore releuemur. 8. Anno igitur vigeſimo ætatis ſuæ, in magnitudine, & fortitudine virili perfectus erat. Inter medios moderni temporis magnus, non carnoſus, ſed neruis, & oſſibus corpulentus. Capilli eius ſupercilia, & barba, crocea brunea erant, longitudo barbæ palmo per tranſuerſum manus. Frons vero non prominens, vel merſa, ſed recta. Naſus æqualis, non parvus, nec nimis magnus, oculi vero eius tam puri erant, quod etiam inimici eius delectabãtur eum aſpicere, labia non ſpiſſa, ſed clare rubentia. Mentum non erat prominens, nec nimis longum, ſed pulchro moderamine venuſtum. Maxillæ carnibus modeſte plenæ, color eius erat candidus, claro rubeo permixtus, ſtatura eius recta, & & in toto corpore ſuo nulla macula erat, ſicut, & illi teſtabantur, qui eum totaliter viderunt nudum, & ad columnam ligatum flagellabant, nunquam ſuper eum vermis permit, non perplexitas aut immunditia in capillis.

V. infirmitas §. 13. quæ hinc sit huius patientem in errata ruere, tum ob membrorum contractionem, tum ob sensuum perturbationem. Dico secundo, si forte sit de spasmo non proprie dicto, sed large sumpto, posse spasmum fieri absque vera cum contractione, vel convulsione, dolor tamen, ita potest augeri, vt eruciatum morbus patienti rationis deliquium vel tyrannicam inferat, & de spasmo in hoc sensu hic nunc loquimur, quandoquidem nullo pacto credendum est Mariam Virginem aliquando à ratione fuisse abductam; hoc enim notabile eius dignitati grauiterque inferret. per spasmum ergo hic hoc intelligendum esse arbitror, dolore quem tam ingentem, & acutum, qui, & si furorem non afferat, nec contorqueat neque rationis vsum interimat, sit tamen patientem cruciat, & vires corporis minuit, vt vix homo se sustinere possit, propterea necesse sit, vt in terram labatur, vt dictum est supra. His declaratis, sciendum est fere omnes Theologos recentiores negasse Mariam in passione sui filij viribus defecisse, nec spasmum passam fuisse: sic Iodocus Clictoueus in homilia de Passione Virg. iuxta crucem. Stabant autem noti eius à longe, & Ioan. 19. Stabat mater eius iuxta crucem; dicit enim quod primo fuerunt prope, vt Ioannes dicit, sed procedente passione propter turbam comprimentem, se retraxerunt secundum, quod dicit Lucas, & sic stabant à longe, vel forte personæ à Ioanne nominatæ tanquam magis feruentes in amore Christi propinquius stabant: ex quibus aperte constat, quod verbum stare sumatur pro manere, & morari, vel longe, vel prope? Verum, nec obstat si dicamus verbum stare hoc loco debere proprie sumi, nam cum Salmerone Societatis Iesu Theologo, & doctore insigni lib. 10 tract. 1. dici possit B. Ambros. de obitu Valentiniani. ex illis verbis, Mariam flentem lego, flentem non lego quod etiam insinuat epistola 42. & de inst. Virg. cap. 7. verum hoc testimonium parum probat, quia verissimum dicit Ambrosius apud Euangelistam legisse Mariam flentem, quia vere ipsa iuxta crucem in passione sui filij manebat, non tamen legisse, flentem, quia quod ipsa fleuerit tunc Euangelista non scripsit, præterquam quod argumentum ab authoritate negatiua parum probat: cui addendum est, quod non videtur negandum Mariam in passione filij sui flauisse, hoc enim, & patres tradunt, & D. Augustin. in serm de passione multoties repetit, vbi referens, quod Christus Matrem suam Ioanni commendauerit illis verbis ecce Mater tua, curam inquit illius habe, eam ubi commendo suscipe matrem tuam, immo magis suscipe matrem meam, dum hæc pauca diceret, illi duo dilecti lacrymas fundere non cessabant, tacebant ambo illi martires, & præ nimio dolore loqui non poterant, isti duo virgines Christum audiebant, & voce loquentem, & ipsum videbant paulatim morientem, amare flebãt, quia amare dolebant, nam gladius doloris Christi animas vtrorumque transibat hæc Augustin. de lachrymis Mariæ, quod etiam probat Salmeron, vbi supra, qui lachrymas Mariæ asseris fuisse cum ratione commendas, & cum indulgentia effusas. Idem quoque tradidit Ludolphus de vita Christi 2 par. cap 61. & alij, quos ibi ille citat. Confirmat 3. opinionem suam ex Anselmo de excellentia Virg. cap 5 quia inquit Anselmus Gladius mortis Christi penetrauit animam Virginis, & tanto dolore illam affecit, vt nisi specialis gratia confortaretur viribus prorsus defecisset, ex quibus verbis nullatenus deduci potest Anselmum negasse Beatissimã Virg. fuisse sub crucem in terram lapsam, & deliquium animæ passam, sed tantummodo indicat, quod nisi diuinus Maria roborata fuisset præ doloris magnitudine occubuisset. Postremo supra citati doctores probant, Mariam minime fuisse spasmum passam, tum ratione conformitatis suæ voluntatis cum diuina, per quam volebat filium suum pro humani generis redemptione mori, tum ratione constantiæ, & fortitudinis animi, qua ipsa prædita erat, tum etiam ratione decentiæ cuiusdam, quam decuit virginem seruare, non enim inquiunt Caietanus, Suarez, & Toletus conueniebat Matrem Dei corporales quosdam defectus habere aut aliquod dissonum, & indecorum in ratione esse, gratius enim erat, quod compateretur filio secundum rationem, quam secundum partem sensitiuã. Cæterũ hæc non vndequaque conueniunt, vt necessario dicendum sit Mariam non sic fuisse spasmum passam, sicut in præsenti capite scribitur: nam quantum spectat ad primum, & si voluntas Mariæ cum diuina voluntate in passione sui filij fuerit conformis, tamen non inde sequitur, quod de morte eius vehementer non doluerit, quod huiusmodi deliquium minime passa fuerit, sicut enim cum illa conformitate vehementissimus dolor esse poterat, ita quoque animi deliquium, quod esl effectus manens ab illa, vt supra probauimus, & patet etiam in Christo, cui ius voluntas perfecte conformis erat cum patre, & tamen Luc. 22. legimus ob instantem mortem, & doluisse, & à corpore illius præ ingenti tristitia sudorem sanguineum manasse, & multo minus etiã obstat hoc, & fortitudini, & constantiæ animi eius quandoquidem fortitudo, animique constantia virtutes sunt in animo collocatæ, spasmus vero affectio quedam est, & morbus corporis, ex doloris magnitudine ea usatus, quo quispiam à sensibus deliniatur, nemo autem dicit hominem sanctitatem, & integritatem perdere, animi sanctitate manente, etiam si corporis sanitas amittatur, sic habetur de sententijs decerptis ex Augustino sententia 3. vbi probat pudicitiam non perdi, etiam si corpori vis inferatur, cum tamen consensus non præstatur, quod latius confirmat in pluribus locis, vt lib. 1. de libero arbitrio cap. 5. & epistola 122. circa finem ad Victorianum, & 180. ad Honoratum, ita quoque dicendum Mariam, nec fortitudinem, neque animi constantiam perdidisse etiam si dicamus spasmum in morte sui filij passam fuisse. Postremò, nec vereor sententiam nostram scit, quod ipsi aduersarij obijciunt non licere in Virgine corporalem quandam defectus ponere, & maxime eos, qui inconuenientiã aliquam importare videntur, sicut est spasmus; tam cum hic non agamus de aliquo morali defectu, qui culpam aliquam importet, quæ nullo prorsus fuit in Virgine. Maxime cum spasmus fuit passio involuntaria, vt supra ex Galeno, & alijs probauimus, sed de naturali, qui ad dolorem ingentem sequitur, qualis fuit in Maria, nulla videtur esse ratio, quare in ea non sit ponendus eum præsertim, hoc plures grauissimi doctores tradiderint, quos infra citabimus, neque ob id indecentiam aliquam in Maria fuisse asseueramus, non enim tunc dicimus Mariam vulsisse comas, caput deformasse, pectus contudisse, alioquin, quod animi leuitatem possent ostendere fecisse, sed solummodo ingenti dolorem oppressam, sensum per aliquod breue temporis spatium amisisse, videndo filium suum, qui vt scripsit Dauid psal. 44. cum esset speciosus præ filijs hominum ob multitudinem cruciatuum, ac dolorum, ita deformis factus erat, vt ei non esset species, neque decor, sicut Esaiæ 53. legimus, & hanc sententiam de spasmo Virginis secuti sunt in primis Anselmus in dialogo de passione Domini, qui in persona Mariæ loquens cum venissent inquit ad locum Caluariæ nudauerunt Iesum filium meum totaliter vestibus suis, & ego exanimis facta sui, idem habet D. Bonauentura in lib. meditat. vitæ Christi cap. 77. ibi cernens eum ouerato ligno tam grandi, quod primo non viderat semimortua facta est præ angustia, idem repetit, cap. 79. & clarius hoc fatetur D. Bernardus in opusculo de lamentis Virginis iuxta crucem flebat mortua mater, quæ ipsum ex Spiritu sancto concepit, vox illi non erat, quia dolore attrita ita eius pallebat quasi mortua viuens, viuebat moriens moriebatur viuens, nec mori poterat, quia viuens, mortua erat; idem colligitur ex D. Augustino epistola 58. relato a Ludulpho de vita Christi 2. par. cap. 30. circa finem, verba Augustini, sunt hæc illa pia mater immani dolore ejulans, ita viscera faticauerat, & membra, vt iam senio defaiens, vix potuisses ad funus Christi peruenire. Fauent huic opinioni Laurentius Iustinianus de Triumphali Christi agone cap. 21. Dyonisius Cartusianus Ioan. 19. Ludolphus de vita Christi 2. par. cap. 64. & 70. Lanspergius in lib. elucidationum in Christi passione. Verulhimus in lib. Meditat. Frater Danael Mallonius in elucidationibus. Stigmatum sacræ sponsi impressarum cap. 17. ad finem, ex dictis euidenter constat reiciendum esse, quod affirmarunt Medina, vbi supra, & Ioannes Maldonatus in comment. in Lucam cap. 2. num. 35. ad ea verba, & tuam ipsius animam pertransibit gladius dicunt enim errori esse affine hoc asserere de Virgine idque nõ reperiri apud auctores aliquos graues nec id credendum est, tot citatos à nobis patres errasse, qui Mariam fuisse spasmum passam asseuerarunt eo quæ magis, quod iuxta Caluariæ Montem fuisse templum testantur hi, qui loca illa sanctã visitarunt, cuius ruinæ nunc extant, quod Sanctã Virgo de spasmo dicebatur, quo loco Mariam occurrisse filio crucem portanti, ibique præ dolore quasi animam in terram emisisse traditum: quibus hoc idem confirmatur, ex quibusdam picturis in quibus videmus sub cruce depictam Mariam velut mortuã in terra iacentem, postremo hoc quoque ratione fieri potest, quoniam sic Maria Mater dilectionis egregium signum erga filium exhibuit, quæ dilectio maxima fuit tum ratione ipsius Christi, qui summe diligendus erat, tum ratione ipsius Virginis Matris in qua non sicut in alijs filiorum amor partitus erat, inter patrem, & matrem, hic autem totus erat in matre, quippeque sola sine Patre Spiritus sancti virtute filium genuit, non ergo mirum est si in passione sui filij tantus dolor tanto amori responderit, vt spasmum in ea excitare potuerit.

4 Toto enim corpore nudus erat.

In præsenti capite Christum Dominum bis vestibus coram populo fuisse spoliatum, & nudum apparuisse legimus, quod primum factum est, cum Saluator ad Columnam verberibus affectus fuit, secundo vero cum cruci affixus: a doctoribus vero dubitari solet, an omnibus pannis vestibus fuerit denudatus Christus, ita vt nec aliquod velum haberet, quo verenda tegerentur, & quidem cum ad Columnam flagellatus est omnino fuisse nudus omnes fere asseuerarunt, & hanc esse communem omnium opinionem affirmat Franciscus Suarez in comment. ad 3. par. S. Thomæ tom. 2. quæst. 46. disp. 39. sect. 4. & hoc patet ex verbis præsentis notæ cum dicitur toto enim corpore nudus erat, & clarius habetur lib. 1. Reuelat. cap. 10. ibi alligatus autem nihil omnino opperimenti habebat. Tota ergo controuersia est, an penitus fuerit nudus absque velamine aliquo cum Crucifixus est, nudum vero omnino ascendisse crucem videtur affirmasse D. Athanasius orat. de passione, & cruce dicens exuebat vestimenta sua, decebat enim, cum hominem introduceret in paradisum, exuere tunicas, quas Adam accepit cum e Paradiso ejiceretur, idem insinuavit Ambrosius libr. 10. in Lucam. Nazianzenus in Christo patiente. Nudum tristani repositum ligno, Hieronymus in sua regula ad Eustochium cap. tertio. Augustinus lib. 16. de civitate cap. secundo, & libro duodecimo contra Faustum, D. Bernardus in serm. de passione Domini, & Divus Bonaventura in libro meditationum vitæ Christi cap. 78. & Lipsius de cruce libro secundo cap. septimo, in initio receptum inquit hoc in plerisque supplicis, velut naturæ suasu, quæ nudos induxit in vitam, & educis etiam in isto. Verum cum patres loquuntur de nuditate, non quis tum nudus esse dicitur, cum pallio, tunica, vel aliquo alio genere vestis proprie spoliatur, omnino namque vestis hæc proprie vocatur illud velum, quo genitalia contegunt, non nisi impropriè vestis appellatur, sed perizoma, aut succinctorium, ut docuit Divus Isidorus libro decimonono Etimolog. cap. vigesima secunda, & annotavit Gloss. interlinearis, & Lyranus Genesis 3. ibi, & fecerunt sibi perizomata, id est succinctoria circa lumbos, vel pudendorum velamina, sed vestis est illa, quæ usque ad vestigium protenditur teste Isidoro ubi supra, dicendum ergo videtur Christum fuisse cruci affixum non prorsus nudum, sed usque ictum, sic enim habetur in præsenti capite aliquanto post initium idque sumptis vestibus ponit, paruitque linteum verendis præduxit) idem legimus libro primo Revelationum, cap. decimo his verbis, (Flante filio meo sicut natum erat nudo corpore, unus tunc accurrens operuit sibi velamen, quo ipse exultans intime velabat verenda sua) hanc opinionem probant in primis omnes crucifixi imagines, quæ vestitæ fingunuur. Secundo, quia hoc spectare videtur ad decentiam quandam, & honestatem, Christus enim ea tantummodo passus est, quæ decrevit ac voluit, cum ergo in hujusmodi nuditate indecentia quadam honestati repugnans, esse potuisset, probabilissimum est, illam sic vitasse, eoque magis, quod natura hoc horreat factum, tum quod credendum maxime est, quod Christus coram castissima Matre, aliisque mulieribus sanctitate conspicuis, sic apparere noluerit, & ideo sunt qui pie existimaverunt Beatissimæ Virginem velamen illud suo filio dedisse, ut verenda tegeret, sic habetur in dialogo, qui inscribitur, Maria, & Anselmi de passione Domini, ubi Mariam sic loquentem legimus, Pannisculum capitis mei circumligani lumbis eius, quod etiam indicavit Lodolphus de vita Christi parte 2. cap. 58. & 63. Molanus de imaginibus libro quarto, cap. quarto, qui hanc opinionem magis piam, ac probabiliorem esse arbitratur, quo loco eandem confirmat ex visione quadam relata ex Gregorio Turonensi de gloria Martyrum cap. vigesimotertio, qui asseris quendam crucifixum aliquando Basilio cuidam presbytero apparuisse, eique imperasse, ut imaginem quandam crucifixi, quæ in Narbonensi urbe collocata erat, lineo tegeret: libet autem hoc loco breviter aliquas causas hujus nuditatis Christi afferre, quarum potissima est, ut inde homines discerent libenter pro Christi amore sufferre nuditatem, & paupertatem, alteram hujus nuditatis causam reddit Divus Athanasius, ubi supra, dicit enim primo id factum esse, ut Christus exueret Adamum tunicis pelliceis, quibus indutus fuerat propter peccatum, illis enim significabatur mortalitas, quam ipse incurrerat, secundo addit Athanasius Christum vestibus fuisse spoliatum, ut se se pararet ad pugnam, debebat enim tunc temporis luctari cum demone, & propterea Divus Gregorius dicit Homil. 42. in Evangelia, nudos cum nudis luctari debere, nam inquit si vestitus quisquam cum nudo luctatur, citius ad terram deicitur, quia habet unde teneatur hæ ergo causæ sunt, quæ proter Salustor noster Christus cum diabolo pugnaturus crucem nudus ascendit, ibique de eo triumphum reportavit.

5 Deinde judicatus Crucem portans educitur, sed in via portans alius substituitur.

8 Hujus notæ verba aperte indicant, sicut etiam ex Evangelistarum narratione manifeste colligitur, Christum Dominum prius portasse Crucem solum, & postea Symonem Cyrenæum in via fuisse substitutum ad eandem Crucem portandam, Joannes enim decimonono cap. scribit, & bajulans sibi crucem exiit, & Lucas 23. cum ducerent eum apprehenderunt Symonem quendam Cyrenensem venientem de Villa, & imposuerunt ei crucem portare post Jesum, ex quibus duo a nobis deducenda sunt, primum Symonem fuisse in via inventum, & crucem ei ab humeris Jesu fuisse impositam, hoc enim significat Evangelista illis verbis (venientem de villa.) Secundo infertur hunc Symonem cum Jesu Crucem minime gestasse quemadmodum Pictores male consueverunt frequenter exprimere, quod probari potest primo ex verbis citatis Lucæ ibi (portare post Jesum) quo loco (ly post) refertur ad tempus, ut sensus sit, postquam Christus crucem portavit, ad eandem portandam postmodum substitutus est Symon Cyrenæus, id quod etiam legenti constare poterit ex verbis præsentis notæ, quæ hoc aperte insinuant, legimus enim alium fuisse ad eam portandam in via substitutum, id ipsum testatur Beatissima Virgo B. Brigitta libro primo Revelationum cap. decimo: imposuerunt inquit filio meo crucem portandam, quam cum ad modicum portavisset veniens unus assumpsit eam portandam sibi, quod etiam animadvertit Natal: Anno Christi 34. dicit enim loco Tiberij, posuisse Claudium. Caterum quantum ad rem nostram attinet de corporis Christi magnitudine sic in ea epistola scribitur. Homo quidem pro ceteris statura mediocris. meminit etiam huius epistolæ Franciscus Samarinus 4. part. Sacerdotalis fol. 8. Fertur, & alia epistola Publij Lentuli in Iudæa Magistratum gerentis ad Senatum Romanum missa, de qua Sanctus Antoninus in Chronico, atque in ea legitur Christum fuisse statura quidem procera mediocriter, sed quid quid sit de harum epistolarum fide, Nicephorus probatissimus author hæc dum verba faciens tradidit Salvatoris nostri staturam corporis ad palmas prorsus septem esse comensurandam, libet autem hoc loco rem hanc ex Ludulpho propalare, qui in prologo vitæ Christi, circa finem hoc admodum diligenter ex alijs refert. Christus (inquit) statura fuit procera mediocris, & spectabilis, vultum habens venerabilem, quem possent intuentes, & diligere, & formidare: capillos habens ad modum nucis auellanæ præmaturæ, fere vsque ad aures, ab auribus circinnos crispos aliquantulum ceruleos, ab humeris pensillantes, discrimen habens in medio capitis iuxta morem Nazarenorum: frontem planam, & serenissimam, cum facie sine rugâ, & sine macula, quam rubor moderatus venustauit, nasi prorsus, & oris nulla fuit reprehensio: Barbam habens copiosam, & impubem, capillis concolorem, non longam, sed in mento bifurcatam: Aspectum simplicem, & maturum, oculis glaucis, varijs, & claris existentibus. In increpatione erat terribilis, in admiratione blandus, & amabilis: hilaris, seruata grauitate. Aliquando flenit, sed nunquam risit. In statura corporis, propagatus, & rectus, manus, & brachia visui delectabilia. In colloquio grauis, rationabilis, tarus, & modestus. Caterum de Christi domini corporis statura, pulchritudine, forma, traditur etiam libr. primo Reuelation. cap. 10. & lib. sexto cap. 1. & 58. & libr. septimo capit. decimo quinto.

CAP. LXXI.

ILIVS DEI loquitur sponsæ. Respondemihi ad quatuor, quæ quero. Si inquit aliquis daret amico suo palmitem fructiferum, quem tamen dator retineret prope domũ suam, eo quod haberet ex visu eius, & odore consolationem, quid respondere deberet dator, si is cui palmes datus esset peteret palmitem, ad transplantandum in aliũ locum vbi vberius fructificaret? Respondit illa. Si amicus dedit ex charitate, & esset sapiens, cuperetque amicum bonum permittere vtiq; amico facere de palmite quicquid vellet, dicendo ei. O amice licet ego ex vicinitate palmitis habeo gaudium, tamen quia non multum fructificat mihi, gaudeo, quod ipsum transferre possis si volueris in locum vberiorem. Quæsiuit dominus secundo. Si parentes dedissent alicui iuueni filiam suã virginem, virgineque contentiente in iuuenem, si puer interrogatus a parentibus vtrũ ipse vellet habere virginem vel non, & nihil responderet, vtrum esset virgo desponsata vel non. Respondit illa, vt mihi apparet, quia puer non expressit velle suum, virgo non est desponsata. Dixit Dominus tertio. Iuueni nobili, stãs inter tres virgines, proposuit eis, quod quecunque illarum trium tale verbum proferret, quod eum ad frequentiorem prouocaret charitatem, illa obtineret illud quod iuuenis feruentius adamaret. Tunc respondit prima. Ego sic feruenter diligo iuuenem hunc, quod antequam inquinari vellem cum alio, magis morerer. Secunda dixit. Antequam vnicum verbum proferrem contra velle suum, aut quod eum offenderet, magis paterer omnem pœnã. Respondit tertia. Priusquam viderem minimum eius contemptum, seu damnum, magis cuperem mihi omne damnum pœnamque amarã pati. Ergo inquit dominus, dic mihi, quæ istarum trium virginum plus dilexit iuuenem, & quæ præferenda est in amore rursũ

Reſpondit illa. Vt mihi videtur omnes equeſeruenter dilexerunt, quia omnes erant vnius cordis ad eum, & ideo omnes æque digne erant ad habendam eius charitatem. Dixit Dominus quarto. Amicus inquit erat, qui conſuluit alium, ego inquit habeo granum tritici valde fructiferum, ſi ſeminetur in terra fructificat in magnam ſegetem. Sed quia valde eſuriens ſum, quid tibi videtur conſultius, comedere illud an ſeminare in terram? Reſpondit amicus, per aliam occaſionem iſta poteſt extingui eſuriens, ſed eſt vtilius tibi, vt in terra ſeminetur. Tunc Dominus ſubiunxit. Nonne filia, & tibi apparet ſimiliter, vt fames patientis ſupportetur, & granum multis profuturum ſeminetur. Iterum dixit Dominus. Iſta quatuor dicta pertinent ad te, filia namque tua eſt, quaſi palmes, quam mihi vouiſti, & dediſti. Nunc autem, quia acceptiorem locum ſcio pro ea, transplantare eam volo vbi mihi placet, nec ex hoc tu turbari debes, quia in transplantatione conſenſiſti. Iterum dixit dominus. Tu dediſti mihi filiam tuam, ſed ego non oſtendi tibi, quid mihi acceptius eſſet, virginitas eius an coniugium, vel vtrum placeret mihi ſacrificium tuum an non. Ideo nunc cognita certitudine, ea quæ in certitudine facta ſunt corrigi poſſunt, & mutari. Item
1 dixit dominus. 1. Virginitas bona eſt, & ſumma, quia Angelis ſimilis eſt, ſi tamen rationabiliter obſeruetur honeſte. Si vero vnum ſine alio defuerit, ſcilicet virginitas carnis, & non virginitas mentis, deformata eſt virginitas.
2 2. Nam acceptior eſt mihi coniugata humilis, & deuota, quam
3 virgo ſuperba, & impudica, 3. equaliſque meriti eſſe poſſunt coniugata non laſciuiens, & iuxta regulam ſuam in timore Domini viuens, & virgo pudica, & humilis. Quia licet magnum eſt in igne probationis eſſe, & non ardere, tamen eque magnum eſt, extra ignem eſſe religionis, & in igne velle libentius eſſe, & maiori ardore ferue-re ad Deum extra ignem, quam qui eſt in igne. Ecce de tribus pono tibi exemplum. Tres quippe fuerunt Suſanna, Iudith, & Tecla virgo. Prima fuit coniugata. Secunda Vidua. Tertia virgo. Iſte inequalem vitam, & intentionem habuerunt, & tamen ex merito actionis ſuæ, in primo ſe conformant. Suſanna denique cum a ſacerdotibus falſe turbaretur; ex diuina charitate maluit mori quam contra regulam ſuam inquinari. Et quia me tanquam vbique præſentem timuit, ideo, & ſaluari meruit, & ex ſaluatione glorificari. Iudith vero cum inhonorationem meam videret, & populi ſui diſpendium, tantum turbabatur, quod nõ ſolũ opprobrio, & damno ſe expoſuit ex diuina charitate, ſed & parata erat pro me penam pati. Tecla vero quæ virgo fuit, hæc amaras paſſiones maluit pati, quam vnum verbum contra me loqui. He tres licet non habuerint vnam actionem, tamen in merito concordant. Ideo ſiue virgo, ſiue vidua, omnes mihi eque placere poterunt, dummodo deſiderium totum ad me fuerit, & vita bona. Item dixit dominus. Filia tua ſiue ſteterit in virginitate, ſiue in coniugio, eque acceptum eſt mihi, dummodo ad velle meum ordinetur. Quid enim prodeſt ei forte ſi includeretur
4 corpore, & foris eſſet mente. 4. Aut quid glorioſius eſt, ſibiipſi viuere, an alijs prodeſſe? Sed ego qui omnia ſcio, & præuideo, nihil facio ſine cauſa, ideo non veniet ad locum ſtatutum cum primo fructu, quia ex timore eſt, nec cum ſecundo, quia ex tepiditate eſt. Sed in medio veniet, quia habet medium calorem amoris, & fructum honeſtatis. Qui vero eam recepturus eſt habeat tria. Domum, veſtes, & cibum quo eam recipiat. Declaratio. Filius loquitur. Miraris quare virgo hæc non peruenit ad coniugium eo modo quo ſperabas. Reſpondeo tibi per ſimilitudinem. Quidam nobis diſpoſuit filiam ſuam dare in matrimonium cuidam pauperi, qui pauper cum ad deſponſationem virginis deberet venire, præuaricatus eſt leges ciuitatis, & ob hoc repulſus eſt cum dedecore a ciuibus, nec obtinuit virginem, quam concupiuit. Sic ego feci domino terræ huius, promiſi enim ei facere grandia, ſed ipſe magis inhæſit inimicis meis, & ideo non peruenit ad ea, quę promittebam.
5 Sed potes quærere, nunquid non promittebam futura? Vtique præuidit ſicut, & de var. lect. Moyſe, & populo eius legitur, ſed ideo oſtendi, & oſtendo multa, vt homines præparent ſe ad bona, & ſciant facienda, & patienter expectent. Veruntamen ſcias, quod ye vnum abijt, & alterum veniet ſuper ingratos regni huius, & poſt veniet benedictio mea ſuper humiles petentes miſericordiam meam. Scio etiam quod virgini hoc expediret quod ſtaret cõſilio meo, & ſapiẽtum. Iſta virgo creditur fuiſſe domina Cecilia filia S. Brigittæ de qua vide infra in vita ſua.

NO-

NOTAE.

1 VIrginitas bona eſt, & ſumma, quia Angelis ſimilis eſt, ſi tamen rationabiliter ob ſeruetur, & honeſte, ſi vero vnum, ſine alio defuerit, ſcilicet virginitas carnis non virginitas mentis, deformata eſt virginitas.

Quamquam ad virginitatem omnino carnis integritas ſpectare videatur, exigitur tamen ad perfectam eius naturam in virgine propoſitum perpetuo abſtinendi à venereis delectationibus, hoc enim illud eſt, quod huic tam excellenti virtuti formam tribuit, ſine quo parui aut nihili faciendа eſt, idque tradit Diuus Auguſtinus, qui deſſinciens eam lib. de Virginit. tomo 6. cap. 13. virginitas inquit eſt in carne corruptibili incorruptionis perpetuа meditatio, vbi per meditationem propoſitum rationis intelligendum eſſe arbitror de virginitate ſeruanda, ſed ad huius rei intelligentiam in memoriam reuocanda ſunt, quа tradit D. Thom. 2.2. quaſtion. 152. artic. 1. dicit enim in delectatione venereorum tria conſiderari debere, vnum quidem quod eſt ex parte corporis, ſcilicet violatio ſigilli virginalis: ſecundum eſt in quo coniungitur id quod eſt animа cum eo, quod eſt corporis, & hoc eſt feminis reſolutio, tertio id quod eſt ſolum ex parte animе, & eſt propoſitum perueniendi ad talem delectationem: ex his autem tribus, primum per accidens ſolum ſpectat ad actum moralem, ſecundum vero materialiter ad eum pertinet, quia ſenſibiles paſſiones ſunt materia malorum actuum, ſed tertium formaliter, & completiue ſe habet ad virginitatem, & ideirco hic recte ſcribitur, ſi vero vnum ſine alio deffuerit ſcilicet virginitas carnis, & non virginitas mentis deformata eſt virginitas, ſed hac de re latius egimus hoc eodem lib. cap. 4. nota ſexta.

2 Nam acceptior eſt mihi coniugata humilis, & deuota, quam virgo ſuperba.

Nulli dubium eſſe poteſt, quod virginitas ceteris paribus præſtantior eſt continentia coniugali, & ſtatus virginalis excellentior eſt ſtatu coniugali, & celibatu, vt diffinit Concil. Tridentin. Seſſ. 24. can. 10. & Diuus Auguſtinus libr. de virgin. cap. 19. tomo ſexto in fine. fieri tamen poteſt, vt coniugatus aut qui celibem vitam ducit, melior ſit, quam virgo, quia ille, qui virgo non eſt aliquam fortaſſe habet virtutem eamq; etiam excellentiorem, quam ille, qui virgo eſt, vt legimus hic de coniugate, humilitatem, & deuotionem habente, & de virgine ſuperba, vide Diuus Auguſtinus in pſalm. 29. quid prodeſt inquit integrа carо, mente corrupta, melius eſt humile coniugium quam ſuperba virginitas, imo nullum habituram eſſe in repromiſſione præmium, virginem tantum modo carne non mente tradidit Diuus Iſidorus lib. 2. de ſummo bono. Poſtremo dicere quoque poſſumus, quod ille qui coniugatus, aut celebs eſt, ſi ad ſeruandam caſtitatem promptior ſit eo, qui actu virgo eſt, & meliorem, & Deo gratiorem iudicandum eſſe; quod etiam annotauit D. Thom. 2.2. qu. 152. art. 4. ad ſecundum.

3 Aequaliſque meriti eſſe poſſunt coniugata non laſciuiens, & iuxta regulam ſuam in timore Domini viuens, & virgo pudica, & humilis.

Cum meritum non ex genere tantummodo penſetur actus, ſed ex animo operantis magis perpendatur, contingere de facili poterit coniugatam feruentiorem habere poſſe, animum caſtitatem ſeruandi, quam virginem ſicut, & aliquando etiam virtutem aliquam habet, quam virgo non habet, aut eandem forſitan habet, ſed in excellentiori, aut aequali gradu ratione cuius, vel aequale vtriuſque poterit eſſe meritum, & præmium, vt traditur hic, aut etiam poterit eſſe maius, vt ſuperiori nota probauimus, cæteris tamen paribus, ſicut virginitas præſtantior eſt, & ſtatu coniugali, & celibatu, ita quoque virgo maioris erit meriti, ſi in ſuo laudabili ſtatu recte, probeque ſe geſſerit, quam coniugatus aut celebs, vnde Apoſtolus 1. Cor. 7. virginitatem conſuluit, vt maius bonum.

4 Aut quid glorioſius eſt ſibi ipſi viuere, an alijs prodeſſe.

Si vitam contemplatiuam cum actiua conferamus dubitationem hoc loco propoſitam de facili ſoluemus, an ſcilicet glorioſius ſit ſibi viuere, an vero alijs prodeſſe, & licet ſecundum quid, & in aliquа re actiua vita contemplatiuam videatur excellere, quatenus ob præſentis vitæ noſtræ neceſſitates plus neceſſaria eſſe cenſetur, & ideo magis eligenda abſoluta tamen contemplatiua conſiderata præferenda eſſe videtur, quod Ariſt. multis argumentis probat lib. 10. Etic. cap. 7. & 8. D. Thom. 2.2. qu. 180. art. 1. vita namque contemplatiua conuenit homini ſecundum illud, quod eſt optimum in ipſo, nimirum ſecundum intellectum, & reſpectu propriorum obiectorum, ſcilicet intelligibilium, vita vero actiua occupatur circa exteriora, & hinc eſt quod Luce 10. Dominus dicit Mariam optimam partem elegiſſe, quа non auferetur abea, hoc eſt ſecuram magis, & digniorem elegit Mariа partem, vbi per Mariam ſignificatur vita contemplatiua; quod exponens D. Auguſt. non vt malam inquit, ſed illa meliorem, audi vnde meliorem, quia non auferetur ab ea: præſtantior ergo eſt, & dignior, quia Angelorum, ac Beatorum conuerſationi conformior, & vicinior, & quia ſecurior, & quietior, quia iocundior, & diuturnior: illa vero periculoſior, quia inter pericula agẽdo moratur, quippeque de rebus huius mundi pertractat, eſt etiam laborioſior, ob ſollicitudinem, ac occupationem, ſed tamen vtilior propter proximi edificationem, ac ſubuentionem, vt indicauimus ſupra in principio huius nota. Cæterum quoniam non defuerunt, qui existimauerint vitam actiuam præferendam esse contemplatiuæ, quo ad meritum, & dignitatem, vt facit Henricus Gandauensis in quodlibet. quodlibeto ij idcirco, vt hanc litem componamus duplex à nobis hic actio distinguenda est: prima, quæ consistit in exercitio virtutum moralium, secundum quod aliquis se exercet in illis, vt disponatur ad contemplationem, de qua Dominus Gregorius loquitur lib. 1. Reg. cap. 14. dum ait, qui contemplationis arcem tenere desiderat, necesse est, vt prius in actionis arce se probet, sedatis enim pusillanimum tumultibus per exercitium moralium virtutum disponitur anima, vt libere possit elevari in contemplationem veritatis: hinc euidenter patet huiusmodi actionem ordinari ad contemplationem, vt ad finem, finis vero, quia melior est, his, quæ sunt ad finem, ideo ij contemplationem potiorem, ac diuiniorem esse tali actione, alia autem actio est, quæ contemplationem sequitur, procedens ex perfectione, & plenitudine ipsius met contemplationis, quæ propria Episcopis alijsque S. R. E. Prælatis, & concionatoribus competit, vt est docere, & in animarum gubernatione laborare, & de hac plures doctores grauissimi admonent, quod melior est ipsa contemplatione, quippeque magis profcua proximorum ædificationi, & animarum saluti, & de hac loquuntur hi, qui vitam actiuam arbitrantur præferendam esse contemplatiuæ.

Manuscriptus Farnesianus non habet promittebam, sed præuidebam, neque ita esse legendum colligi potest ex sequentibus verbis, quæ cohærent cum antecedentibus nimirum vide- quæ præuidi.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponsam de sororibus, & Lazaro resuscitato. Et qualiter sponsa, & eius filia, per sorores, & anima per fratrem Lazarum, & inuidi per iudeos designantur. Et quomodo Deus fecit cum istis maiorem misericordiam, quam cum sororibus Lazari. Et qualiter scientes multa loqui, & pauca facere indignantur contra bene operantes.

CAP. LXXII.

ILIVS loquitur. Sponsæ Duæ erant sorores, Martha, & Maria, quæ habuerunt fratrem Lazarum quem eis a morte suscitaui, qui suscitatus plus mihi seruiuit postea quam antea. Sic, & sorores eius, quæ licet familiares, & sedule erant in ministrando mihi, ante fratris suscitationem, Multo tamen sollicitiores, & deuotiores postea inueniebantur. Consimili modo vobiscum nunc feci spiritualiter, quam suscitaui vobis fratrem vestrum, idest animam vestram, quæ per quatuor dies mortua fœtens alienauit ita me transgressionem mandatorum meorum, prauæ cupiditate, & dulcedine mundi, & peccatorum delectatione. 1. Sed quatuor erant, quæ me ad resuscitandum Lazarum mouebant. Primum quia amicus meus erat dum viueret. Secundum dilectio sororum. Tertium, quia humilitas Mariæ tantum meruit in lotione pedum meorum, vt sicut in conspectu conuiuantium se deiecit propter me, sic in conspectu multorum lacrymis, & humiliaretur. Quartum, vt gloria humanitatis meæ manifestaretur. Ita vere, quatuor non tantum in vobis, quia diligitis plus illis mihi dum. Ideo maior est misericordia mea in vobis, qui nullis meritis misericordiam mecum fistis, quam in illis sororibus 2. & tanto plane magis, quanto mors spiritualis periculosior est corporali morte. Et resurrectio animæ glorioſior resurrectione corporali. Ergo quia misericordia mea præcellit operibus vestris, colligite me sicut sorores illæ in domum mentis vestræ cum charitate feruentissima, nihil diligendo sicut me, totamque quam habendo in me, humiliando vosque Maria, quotidieque plorando peccata vestra, non erubescendo humiliter viuere in-ret ſuperbos. continentes cum incontinentibus, oſtendendo alijs exterius, quantum interius me amatis. Debetis quoque eſſe, ſicut ſorores ille cor vnum, & anima vna, fortes ad mundi contemptum, & prompte ad Dei laudem. Et ſi ſic feceritis, tunc ego qui reſuſcitaui vobis fratrem veſtrum, ideſt animam, defendam eam, ne a iudeis interficiatur. Quid enim profuiſſet Lazaro ſurrexiſſe a præſenti morte, niſi viuendo honeſtius in præſenti vita glorioſus reſurrexiſſet in ſecundam, & permanentem vitam. Sed qui ſunt iudei, qui Lazarum quærunt interficere, niſi illi qui ex eo indignantur, quod melius his viuitis, qui ſublimia didicerunt loqui, & modica facere, qui fauores hominum ſequentes tanto contemptibilius contemnunt facta prædeceſſorum ſuorum, quanto minus dignantur vera, & altiora intelligere. Tales ſunt multi, qui de virtutibus ſciunt diſputare, ſed non eas viuendo virtuoſe ſeruare. Ideo, & eorum animæ periclitantur, quia verba plurima ſunt, & facta non apparent. Nunquid ſic fecerunt prædicatores mei? nequaquam. Ipſi certe monebant peccatores, non verbis ſublimibus, ſed paucis, & charitatiuis, parati dare animas ſuas pro animabus eorum. Ideo propter charitatem eorum, alij obtinuerunt charitatem. Nam ardor doctoris plus quam verba animum audientis informabat. Nunc autem plerique loquuntur de me ardua, ſed nullus ſequitur fructus. Quia flamus ſolus non incendit ligna, niſi & igniculus ſcintillę cooperetur. Ergo ab illis iudeis protegam, & cuſtodiam vos, ne vel per verba, vel eorum facta a me diſcedatis, non tamen ita defendam vos, quod nihil patiamini, ſed ne per impatientiam ſuccumbatis. Vos enim habere voluntatem & ego cum charitate mea iocundam velle veſtrum.

VERBA VIRGINIS AD Sponſam qualiter non debet turbari de milite denunciato, & oſtenſo, quaſi mortuo.

CAP. LXXIII.

MILES quidam viuens nunciabatur mortuus, qui etiam in ſpirituali viſione oſtendebatur ſponſe quaſi mortuus petens au xilium, de cuius morte cum dicta domina turbaretur, dixit mater miſericordiæ ad eam

Filia vtrum miles iſte mortuus ſit, vel non, ſcies tempore ſuo, ſed nos volumus operari ad hoc, vt melius viuat.

VERBA CHRISTI AD Sponſam, & Ioannis Baptiſtę ad Chriſtum ipſum laudando, & in conſpectu ſui preces deuotas fundendo pro Chriſtianis. Et quam maxime pro quodam milite, cuius precibus ipſe miles per manus ipſius, & Virginis glorioſæ, & Petri, & Pauli eſt armaturis ſpiritualibus, id eſt, virtutibus armatus, & honoratus. Et quid per omnia arma corporalia ſigillatim deſignetur, & de bonis orationibus.

CAP. LXXIIII.

ILIVS DEI Loquebatur ſponſe dicens. Tu compoſuiſti hodie, quod melius eſſet prævenire quam præveniri. Sic ego prævenі te dulcedine gratiæ meæ, ne diabolus dominaretur animæ tuæ. Et ſtatim apparens Ioannes Baptiſta dixit. Benedictus ſis tu Deus, qui es ante omnia, cum quo nullus vnquam fuit Deus, & propter quem nullus, & poſt quem nullus erit. Quia tu es, & eras æternaliter vnus Deus. Tu es veritas promiſſa a prophetis, de quo ego nondum natus exultaui, & quem demonſtrando plenius agnoſcebam. Tu es gaudium noſtrum, & gloria. Tu deſiderabile noſtrum, & fruitio. Quia videre te, deificos nos faciet ineffabili quam nemo agnoſcit, niſi qui degustat. Tu quoque es ſola dilectio noſtra. Nec mirum, quod diligimus te, quia tu es ipſa charitas, non ſolum diligentes te diligis, ſed etiam, cum ſis creator omnium, etiam his facis charitatem, qui te dedignantur ſcire. Nunc ergo domine mi, quia diuites ſumus de te, & in te, cogamur te vendere de noſtris diuitijs ſpiritualibus his, qui nihil diuitiarum habent. Vt ſicut nos gaudemus in te, & non noſtris meritis, ſic plures participentur bonis noſtris. Reſpondit Chriſtus. Tu vere es ſummum membrum cum capite, & iuxta caput. Verumtamen fauces ſunt propinquiores & excellentiores. Sic ego omnium caput ſum. Mater vero, mea quaſi fauces deinde Angeli, tu vero, & Apoſtoli mei quaſi ſpondilia dorſi, quia non ſolum diligitis me, ſed & diligentes me promouendo

A Sanctissimus Dominus noster Papa Urbanus
Sextus, cum audisset de Revelationibus Sanctæ Brigittæ, quæ in Regno Angliæ fuerant examinatæ, & approbatæ, ac Sanctæ Matris Ecclesiæ Romanæ Sententia confirmatæ, ac de Canonizatione ejusdem conſpectu regum, & principum, non erubui veritatem loqui, & pro ſalute proximi mori paratus fui. Deinde apparuit Mater Dei, & dixit iſti militi. Quid inquit fili adhuc tibi deeſt? Et ille, caput inquit non habet galeam. Tunc Mater miſericordiæ dixit ad Angelum cuſtodem animę eius. Quid inquit profuit animæ cuſtodia tua, aut quid habes præſentare domino noſtro? Reſpondit Angelus, Habeo aliqua licet modica ſint. Nam quandoque fecit eleemoſynam, & legit aliquas orationes ex charitate Dei, quando que etiam dimiſit voluntatem propriam propter Deum. Rogans Deum ſyncere vt ei vileſceret mundus. Deus fieret ei ſuper omnia carus. Reſpondit Mater. Bonum eſt aliqua apportare. Ergo volumus facere ſicut bonus aurifaber facit, qui faciens opus grande de auro, ſi neceſſitatur, & deficit in auro, petit auxilium ab amicis habentibus, quem omnes habentes aurum iuuant, vt perficiatur opus eius. Qui vero facit opus luteum, quis dabit ei de auro ſuo? cum indignum ſit lutum miſceri auro. Ergo omnes ſancti diuites auro, promerebuntur tibi mecum galeam quam habiturus es. Iſta autem galea eſt voluntas placendi ſoli Deo. Sicut enim galea defendit caput à iaculis, & ictibus, ſic voluntas bona, & ſola ad Deum defendit animam, ne tentationes diabolicæ præualeant contra eam, Deumque in animam introducit. Hanc habuit ille bonus Georgius, & Mauricius, & plures alij, immo etiam latro pendens in cruce, ſine qua nemo fundamentum bonum iacet, nec perueniet ad coronam. In hac quoque galea debent eſſe duo foramina ante oculos, quibus præuideantur aduenientia, quæ ſunt diſcretio faciendorum, & cautio omittendorum, quia ſine diſcretione, & præmeditatione, multa ſunt in fine mala, quæ in principio videntur bona. Item loquitur Mater ad militem, quid adhuc tibi deeſt fili? Et ille reſpondit. Manus inquit nudę ſunt, & non habent armaturam. Cui Mater. Ego inquit iuuabo, vt manus non ſint nudę. Ergo ſicut duæ ſunt manus carnis, ſic duæ ſunt manus ſpirituales. Dextera autem manus, qua tenendus eſt gladius ſignificat opus iuſtitiæ, in qua debent eſſe quinque virtutes quaſi quinque digiti. Prima vt omnis iuſtus primo ſit iuſtus ſibijpſi, cauendo ſcilicet ne quid in locutione, ſeu operatione, aut exemplo appareat, quod proximum poſſit offendere. Ne, quod ex iuſtitia reprehendit vel docet in alijs deſtruat moribus inordinatis. Secunda eſt non facere iuſtitiam, ſeu iuſtitiæ opera propter fauorem hominum, ſeu cupiditatem mundi, ſed amore ſolius Dei. Tertia eſt, non timere aliquem contra iuſtitiam, nec diſſimulare propter amicitiam. Nec flecti à iuſtitia pro paupere, vel diuite, amico, ſeu inimico. Quarta eſt libenter etiam velle pro iuſtitia mori. Quinta eſt, non ſolum facere iuſtitiam, ſed etiam ſapienter diligere iuſtitiam, vt & in iuditio ſit miſericordia, & iuſtitia. Et vt aliter corrigatur qui minus peccat, & aliter qui grauius, aliterque, qui peccat ex ignorantia, & aliter qui peccat ex induſtria, ſeu malignitate. Quicunque autem iſtos digitos quinque habuerit, cauere debet ne gladium exacuet in impatientia. Nec delectatio mundana heberet, ne improuidentia excutiet, ne leuitas animi denigret. Siniſtra vero manus eſt oratio diuina, quæ etiam quinque digitos habebit. Primus eſt firmiter credere articulos fidei, de deitate, & humanitate, omniaque operando. Credere, quæ ſancta Eccleſia ſponſa Dei cõfitetur. Secundus eſt, nolle peccare ſcienter contra Deum, velleque commiſſa omnia contritione, & ſatisfactione emendare. Tertius orare Deum vt amor carnis conuertatur in amorem ſpiritualem. Quartus eſt, non ad aliud viuere in mundo, niſi vt Deo faciat honorem, & vt minuat peccata. Quintus eſt, nihil de ſeipſo præſumere, ſed ſemper timere Deum, mortemque omni hora expectare. Ecce fili, hæ ſunt duæ manus, quas habere debes dextra ſcilicet, qua vibrandus eſt gladius iuſtitiæ, contra tranſgreſſores iuſtitiæ, ſiniſtra vero orationis, qua petendum eſt auxilium a Deo, vt nunquam confidas de tua iuſtitia, nec inſoleſcas contra Deum tuum. Iterum apparuit Beata Maria, & dixit militi, quid adhuc tibi deeſt fili? Reſpondit ille. Armatura inquit pedum. Et illa. Audi inquit miles olim mundi, ſed iam nunc meus, omnia quecumque ſunt in cælo, & in terra creauit Deus, ſed inter omnia inferiora, dignior, & pulchrior creatura eſt anima, quæ ſimilis eſt in imaginationibus ſuis voluntati bonæ. Sicut enim de arbore multi procedunt palmites, ſic de animæ ſpirituali exercitatione, & operatione, omnis procedit tua perfectio, 5. ergo vt obtineatur ſpirirualis armatura pedum, voluntas bona mediante gratia Dei debet eſſe initiũ. In qua debet eſſe duplex conſideratio tanquam duo pedes ſuper baſes aureas. Primus itaque pes animæ perfectæ, eſt conſideratio huiuſmodi ſcilicet, quod nollet peccare contra Deum, etiam ſi non ſequeretur pena. Secundus pes eſt bona opera facere etiam ſi ſciret ſe damnandum, propter magnam patientiam, & charitatem Dei. Genua vero animæ ſunt hilaritas, & fortitudo bonæ voluntatis. Sicut enim genua incuruantur, & flectuntur ad vſum pedum, ſic volun-luntas animæ flecti, & refrenari debet secundum rationem ad velle Dei. Scriptum enim est, quod spiritus, & caro sibi ad invicem aduersantur. Ideo, & Paulus dicit. Non quod volo bonum hoc ago. Quasi diceret, Quedam bona volo, secundum animam, sed non prævaleo propter infirmitatem carnis, sed & si quandoque potero facere, sed non cum hilaritate, quid ergo? Nunquid ideo priuabatur Apostolus mercede, quia voluit & non potuit? Aut quia fecit bona, sed non cum hilaritate? Nequaquam, sed magis augebatur ei corona dupliciter. Primo ab exteriori homine, erat ei laboriosa operatio, propter carnem reluctantem bono. Secundo ab homine interiori, quia non erat ei consolatio semper spiritualis. Ideo multi seculares laborant temporaliter, sed non pro his coronantur, quia laborant motu carnis. Qui quidem labor si esset præceptum Dei, nequaquam sic feruerent in laborando. Isti itaque duo pedes animæ, scilicet nolle peccare contra Deum, & velle bona opera facere, etiam si sequeretur damnatio, armandi sunt duplici armatura, scilicet discreto vsu temporalium, & discreto desiderio ad cælestia appetenda. Discretus autem vsus temporalium est, habere bona ad moderatam suam sustentationem, non ad superfluitatem. Discretum vero desiderium cælestium est, cælestia bonis operibus, & labore velle promereri. Homo quippe per ingratitudinē, & desidiam aversus est à Deo, ideo per labores, & humilitatem ad Deum est redeundum. Ergo fili, quia ista non habuisti, rogemus sanctos Martyres, & confessores, qui talibus diuitijs abundabant, quod tibi auxilientur. Tunc statim sancti apparentes dixerunt. O domina benedicta, tu portasti dominum in te, & tu domina omnium es, quid est quod non poteris? Quod enim tu vis hoc factum est, voluntas tua semper est nostra, Tu merito Mater charitatis es, quia omnes visitas charitate. Iterum apparuit Mater, & dixit militi. Fili adhuc deficit clypeus vobis. Itaque ad clypeum duo pertinent, scilicet fortitudo, & signum domini sub quo militat. Ergo clypeus spiritualis significat considerationem amaræ passionis Dei, quæ debet esse in sinistro brachio iuxta cor. Vt quoties animum delectat voluptas carnis, considerentur liuores Iesu Christi. Quoties vero pungit, & contristat animum despectio, & aduersitas mundi, rememorentur paupertas, & opprobria Christi. Quoties vero delectat honor, & longa vita carnis, recogitetur amara mors, & passio Christi. Talis clypeus debet habere fortitudinem perseuerantiæ in bono, latitudinēque charitatis. Signum vero clypei, debet esse de duobus coloribus, quia nihil clarius, & longius prospicitur quam quod de duobus coloribus fulgentibus est compactum. Duo autem colores, quibus clypeus considerationis passionis diuinæ decoratur, sunt contemptus affectionum inordinatarum, puritasque, & refrenatio motuum carnis. A His enim duobus illuminatur caluta. Et Angeli videntes congratulando gaudent dicentes. Ecce signum puritatis, & societatis nostræ, adiuuare tenemur militem istū. Demones vero videntes militem his signis clypei decoratum clamabunt. Quid faciemus, ò socij? Iste miles terribilis est in congressione, decorus in armis. In lateribus eius sunt arma virtutum. In tergo castra Angelorum. A finistris vigilantissimum habet custodem scilicet Deum. In circuitu plenus est oculis, quibus inspicit malitias nostras. Impugnare eum quidem possumus, sed in confusionem nostram, quia nequaquam prævalemus. O quam felix est talis miles, quem Angeli honorant, & cuius timore demones contremiscunt. Verumtamen fili, quia iustum clypeum nondum obtinuisti, rogemus sanctos Angelos puritate spirituali nitentes, vt te iuuent. Iterum loquitur Mater. Fili adhuc deficit nobis gladius. Itaque ad gladium duo pertinent. Primo, quod habeat duas acies, secundo, quod sit bene exacuatus. Gladius vero spiritualis, est confidentia in Deo ad præliandum pro iustitia, hæc autem confidentia duas debet habere acies scilicet rectitudinem iustitiæ in prosperis tanquam à dextris, & gratiarum actionem in aduersis, tanquam à sinistris. Talem gladium habuit ille bonus Iob, qui in prosperis obtulit sacrificium pro filijs, qui pater erat pauperū, & ostium eius viatori patuit. Qui in vanitate non ambulauit, nec concupiuit aliena, sed timuit Deum, sicut sedens super fluctus maris. Habuit quoque gratiarum actionem in aduersis, quando perditis filijs, & bonis quando conuiciatus ab vxore, & percussus vlcere pessimo, sustinuit patienter dicens. Dominus dedit dominus abstulit, sit ipse benedictus, Hic quoque gladius debet esse bene exacuatus, conterendo impugnantes iustitiam, vt Moyses, & Dauid. Habendo zelum legis vt Phinees. Loquendo constanter vt Helias, & Ioannes. O quam multorum gladius nunc nimis hebetatus est qui si loquuntur verbo, digito non mouent. Quærentes amicitiam hominum, & gloriam Dei non attendunt. Ergo, quia gladium talem non habuisti, rogemus Patriarchas, & prophetas, qui talem confidentiam habuerunt, & dabitur nobis confidenter.

huc fili necessarium est tibi coopertorium super arma, quo arma defendantur a rubigine, & ne a pluuia maculentur. Hoc autem coopertorium est charitas, velle mori pro Deo. Et etiam si possibile esset sine Dei offensa, separari a Deo pro salute fratrum. Hæc charitas operit omnia peccata, conseruat virtutes, mitigat iram Dei, omnia facit possibilia, deterret dæmonia, gaudium est Angelorum. Hoc vero operimentum debet esse intus album, & ab extra fulgens, quasi aurum. Quia vbi zelus diuini amoris est, ibi vtraque mundicia non est neglecta. Hac itaque charitate abundabant Apostoli, ideoque rogandi sunt, vt tibi auxilientur. Iterum apparuit Mater dicens. Adhuc tibi fili necessarius est equus, & sella. Itaque per equum spiritualiter intelligitur baptisma. Sicut enim equus prouehit hominem ad aliquam perficiendam viam, habens quatuor pedes, sic baptisma, quod per equum intelligitur, prouehit hominem ante conspectũ Dei, habens quatuor effectus spirituales. Primus est, quod baptizati liberantur a diabolis, & obligantur ad mandata, & seruitia Dei. Secundus est, quod purgantur a peccato originali. Tertius est, quod filij Dei efficiuntur, & coheredes Dei. Quartus est, quod cælum eis aperitur. Sed heu multi sunt, qui cum ad annos discretionis perueniunt, imponunt equo baptismatis frenum, & abducunt eum per viam falsam. Tunc quippe via baptismatis recta est, & tenetur recte, quando homo infra annos discretionis instruitur, & conseruatur in bonis moribus. Et quando homo peruenit ad annos discretionis, & cogitat sedule, quid in fonte baptismatis promissum est, tenetque fidem, & charitatem Dei inuiolatam. Sed tunc abducitur a via recta, & imponitur frenum, quando mundus, & caro præponuntur Deo. Sella vero equi, idest baptismi, est effectus amaræ passionis, & mortis Iesu Christi, per quem baptismus obtinuit effectum. Quid enim est aqua, nisi elementum. Postquam vero effectus est sanguis Dei, venit ad elementum verbum Dei, & virtus effusi sanguinis Dei. Et sic aqua baptismi, per verbum Dei facta est reconciliatio hominis, & Dei. Porta misericordiæ, expulsio dæmonum. Via cæli, venias peccatorum. Ergo, qui in virtute baptismi gloriari voluerit, cogitet primo amaritudinẽ institutionis baptismalis effectus. Vt cum mens humana contra Deum intumuerit, cogitet quam amare redemptus sit. Quoties etiam votum baptismi transgressus est. Quid ve pro tanta reciduatione promeretur. Item, vt homo firmiter in sella baptismalis effectus sedeat, necessariæ sunt duæ strigiles, scilicet duplex consideratio in oratione. Primo orare debet taliter. O domine Deus omnipotens, benedictus sis tu, quia me creasti, & redemisti. Et dum damnatione dignus essem, in peccatis toleraſti, & ad pœnitentiam reduxisti. Recognosco Domine coram maiestate tua, omnia quecumque dedisti mihi ad salutem inutiliter, & damnabiliter me expendisse, videlicet tempus pœnitentiæ meæ in vanitatibus, corpus in superfluitatibus, gratiam baptismi in superbijs, Et omnia dilexi plus quam te creatorem, redemptorem, nutritorem, & conseruatorẽ meum. Et ideo misericordiam tuam peto, quia miser sum ex me, & quia non agnoui benignam patientiam tuã in me. Non timui horrendam equitatem tuam. Non attẽdebã quid tibi pro innumerabilibus bonis tuis respõderem, sed contra me de die in diem, te malis meis prouocabam propterea non habeo, nisi vnicum verbum ad te, scilicet. Miserere mei Deus secundum magnam misericordiam tuam. Item secunda oratio sic talis. O Domine Deus omnipotens, scio me omnia habere a te, nihil esse a me, nec posse, nisi solummodo hoc, quod ego ipse feci secundum peccatum. Ideo deprecor humiliter pietatem tuam, vt non secundum peccata mea facias mihi, sed secundum magnam misericordiam tuam. Et mitte mihi spiritum tuum sanctum, qui illuminet cor meũ, & confirmet in viam mandatorum tuorum, vt in his quæ te inspirante cognoui, perseuerare valeam nullisque tentationibus a te separari. Ergo fili, quia ista deficiunt tibi rogemus illos, qui passionem Dei amarius fixerunt in corde suo, vt tibi tribuant de charitate sua. Quibus dictis, statim apparuit, quasi vnus equus paratus cum ornamentis deauratis. Et respondit Mater. Iste inquit ornatus equi significat dona Sancti spiritus 8 quæ in baptismo largiuntur. 8. In baptismo quippe, siue per bonum, siue per malum ministretur ministrum, remittitur paternũ delictum. Augetur gratia. Dimittur quodcunque peccatum. Datur Spiritus sanctus in pignus. Angeli in custodiam, cœlum in hæreditatem. Ecce fili hæc sunt ornamenta spiritualis militis. Quibus, qui indutus fuerit, accipiet stipendium illud indicibile, quo emitur delectabile perpetuum, honor quietissimus, æternalis abundantia, vita sine fine.

Iste miles fuit Dominus Karolus filius sanctæ Brigittæ.

Dicendum ergo nobis eſt, voluntatem noſtram ad bona opera relatam hic dici quoquomodo initium, quatenus ſæpe contingit, aliquod ſupernaturale auxilium ex operibus dari, hoc eſt ex merito vel de condigno, vt cum iuſtus bene vtendo donis obtentis, ex priuilegio iam gratia meretur ſubſequentia, vel de congruo, vt cum peccator bene, & ſupernaturaliter operãs, ex priori auxilio meretur ſubſequãs, & id inſinuant nobis illa verba, voluntas bona mediante gratia debet eſſe initium, quod colligi poteſt ex D. Auguſt. epiſt. 105. ad Sixtum & epiſt. 106. ad Bonifatium tom. 2. & hinc ſit voluntatem nullatenus dici poſſe, nec eſſe initium reſpectu primæ gratiæ, ſed in ordine tantummodo ad ſubſequentia bona, quæ homo ſibi poteſt præmereri mediante gratia bene vtendo ſupernaturalibus auxiliis, & bonis à Deo datis, ex quo recte poſſumus intelligere celebre illud eiuſdem Auguſtini dictum epiſtola ſuperius citata 105. aliquando poſſe initium in homine opera bona ab homine fieri ſibi vero produci, ſine qua illa à nullo fiunt homine.

6 Adhæc filij neceſſarium eſt tibi cooperatorium ſuper arma, quo arma defenduntur a Rubigine.

Charitatem hoc loco Chriſtus Dominus cooperatorium appellat, quo arma ſpiritualia maxime neceſſaria à rubigine defenduntur, cum enim, vt ex antecedentibus colligitur, peculiaris arma ad ſpiritualem vitam optime tranſcendam virtutis ſint, & fuga vitiorum, cumque charitas, vt ſcribit Apoſtolorum princeps Petrus in ſua primæ canonicæ capite quarto, & Salomon Proverb. 10. operiat multitudinem peccatorum, ſitque ceterarum virtutum forma, & dutrix, ſine qua, vt admonuit Auguſtinus epiſtola 105. ad Sixtum Presbyterum nullus veram virtutem, nec caſtum timorem, nec veram ſapientiam, nec religioſam continentiam habere poteſt. Inde fit, eam recte hoc loco cooperatorium appellari, qua arma ſpiritualia a rubigine defenduntur, id autem, quod immediate ſequitur, minime (etiam ſi poſſibile eſſet ſine Dei offenſa ſeparari à Deo pro ſalute fratrum) hoc idem eſſe cenſeo, quod aliquando Apoſtolum Paulum dixiſſe legimus Rom. 9. optabam enim ego ipſe anathema eſſe à Chriſto pro fratribus meis, quod ſane nullo pacto intelligendum eſt de ſeparatione, quæ per peccatum mortale à Deo fit, neque etiam Paulus propter Iudæorum converſionem deleri de libro vitæ, ſed vt tradunt Origenes in commentar. epiſtolæ ad Romanos, & Divus Hieronymus quæſt. 9. ad Algaſiam, ex charitate deſideraſſe non ſpiritu, ſed carne, hoc eſt per corporalem mortem à fratribus ſeparari, ſeu pro illis mori, & mortificari, hanc tamen interpretationem Divus Chryſoſt. hom. 16. in epiſtola ad Romanos, & lib. 3. de prouidentia Dei reiicit exiſtimans, hunc textum, non de corporali morte eſſe ſimpliciter intelligendum, quomodo inquis optaſſet Paulus à Chriſto anathema fieri, hoc eſt ſeparari ab eo per mortem carnis, cum mors ipſa magis ad eum eberum, qui cum Chriſto eſt coniungat. Et ipſius gloria potiri faciat vermiculorum eſt itaque in lato latitantium illa ſuſpicio, vterque enim tam Moyſes quam Paulus, cum hoc dicerent, non ſolum cogitatione tranſcenderunt omnes præſentis vitæ agones, ac mortem, ſed etiam pro Dei, quem magis, quam ſe ipſos diligebant, cœlos, & Angelos ſuper gredientes omnia inuiſibilia prementes, ac pro Dei amore ab ipſa Dei fruitione, & ineffabili gloria excidere, non tamen petierunt, ſed quod magis eſt etiam optarunt, hactenus D. Chryſoſt. quæ de re legendi ſunt Theodoretus, Dyoniſius Carthuſianus, Lyranus, & Benedictus Pererius ibidem, qui plura ad huius loci intelligentiã afferunt quantum vero ſpectat ad præſentis notæ interpretationem ego verba, hæc (ſilicet ſi poſſibile eſſet ſine offenſa Dei ſeparari à Deo pro ſalute fratrum) ſcripta eſſe hoc, per quandam exaggerationem, & emphaſim, vt ſic commode exprimatur, quanta ſua debeat eſſe amor noſter, ac dilectio proximi, vt etiam nobis pro eius ſalute ſeparari optandum ſit à Deo, ſi abſque illius offenſa fieri poſſet, quod ſane, & corporalis morte, & quauis alia pœna execrabilius eſt. & Chriſtiano homini maxime fugiendum, ac timendum, Vt in hunc quoque ſenſum accipi poſſe verba Pauli Apoſtoli loco ſupracitato crediderim, cum enim Romanorum 8. dixiſſet, quis ſeparabit nos a charitate Chriſti tribulatio, an angustia, an fames, an nuditas, an periculum, an perſecutio, an gladius, modo in ſequenti capite fratrum conuerſionis anxius, vt illi ſalutem conſequantur etiam pro his a Chriſto ſeparari optat, non quidem quin eos ſeruatori Chriſto præferat, ſed vt maximum in eos amoris ſui ſenſum ſic exprimat.

7 Quid enim eſt aqua niſi elementum, poſtquam vero effuſus eſt ſanguis Dei, venit ad elementum verbum Dei, & virtus efficitur ſanguis Dei.

Quoniam noua legis ſacramenta a Chriſto Domino inſtituta ſunt, & eorum vis, ac efficacia ab eius paſſione principaliter pendet, propterea hoc loco legimus, non niſi poſt Chriſti ſanguinis effuſionem acceſſiſſe ad elementum verbum Dei, & tunc vere ſacramentum factum eſſe, quod etiam animaduertit D. Auguſtinus tract. 80. in Ioannem cum dixit, accedit verbum ad elementum, & fit ſacramentum.

8 In Baptiſmo quippe ſiue per bonum ſiue per malum miniſtrum confertur paternum delictum.

Omnino credendum eſt, quod ſancti Patres ſuis ſcriptis affirmarunt, Sacramentum Baptiſmi a quolibet miniſtris collatum formam ratumque eſſe, nec gratiæ fructum nullatenus impedire, niſi is, qui ſuſcepit, Spiritui ſancto actu per peccatum obſiſtere, ſequitur ergo bono fraudare: modo huiuſmodi miniſtri, & forma, & materia vtantur, quam ex Chriſti inſtitutione ſemper catholica ſeruauit Eccleſia, idque facere intendant, quod ipſa in his adminiſtrandis facere conſueuit, tunc enim vere patrum remittitur delictum, vt ſcribitur hic: originale videlicet peccatum, quod ad nos a primis noſtris parentibus tranſiit, augetur etiam gratia, & quodlibet aliud condonatur peccatum; idque ex eo, vel maxime conſtat, quoniam hi quidem miniſtri in illa ſacra functione non ſuâ, ſed Chriſti perſonâ gerunt, Propterea D. Auguſt. tract. 5. in Ioannem, ſiquis ſuperbus fuerit miniſter eum diabolo computatur, ſed non contaminatur donum Chriſti, quod per illum fluit, apume ergo ſancti patres ex D. Ioannis Euangelio colligunt, Iudam Iſcariotem Baptizaſſe plurimos, ex quibus tamen neminem iterum Baptizatum fuiſſe inuenimus, vt mirum non ſit ſi D. Auguſtinus loco ſupracitato ſcriptum reliquerit, dedit Baptiſmum Iudas, & non Baptizatus eſt, poſt Iudam dedit Ioannes, & Baptizatus eſt poſt Ioannem, quia ſi datum eſt a Iuda Baptiſma erat, quod datum a Ioanne datum eſt Ioannis erat, idem probauit contra epiſtolam Parmeniani 3. & ſi in his Baptiſmus nulla neceſſitate vſurpetur, & a quolibet miniſtris detur, quod datum ſuit non poteſt dici non datum, quamuis recte dici poſſit illicite datum. conſtat hoc etiam ex cap. A quodam Iudæo de conſecr. diſt. 4. vbi Nicolaus Papa definit, verum eſſe Baptiſmum datum a Iudæo ſub debita forma. & clarius habetur in cap. Romanus eadem diſt. vbi legimus Romanus Pontifex non hominem iudicat, qui baptizat, ſed Spiritum Dei. Subuenire gratiam Baptiſmi eius ſegnem ſit, qui baptizat. adde hæc etiam D. Thom. 3. par. qu. 67. ar. 3. ad primum. & affirmat Conc. Trid. Seſſ. 7. can. 4. vbi definit Baptiſmum datum ab hæreticis, cum debita intentione, & forma eſſe verum Baptiſmum.

VERBA SPONSAE PRAECANTIA AD CHRISTVM, & AD VIRGINEM laudes optimas inducendo. Et reſponſio Virginis conſolatoria ad filiam; probans per exempla expoſita, quod Deus iuſto iudicio frequenter de mendacio diabolo permittit, vt virtus Dei fiat manifeſtior, & quomodo tribulationes inductiue ſunt ad ſpiritualia bona.

CAP. LXXV.

BENEDICTVS ſis tu Deus meus, Creator, & Redemptor meus. Tu es ille ſtipendium illud, quo a captiuitate redempti ſumus, quo ad ſalutaria cuncta dirigimur, quo vnitati, & ſpiritati ſociamur. Propterea, & ſi de fœditate mea erubeſco, gaudeo tamen, quod tu qui ſemel pro ſalute noſtra mortuus es, nunquam amplius morieris. Tu enim vere ille es, qui etiam ante ſæcula eras. Tu es qui poteſtatem habes, & vitæ, & mortis. Tu ſolus es bonus, & iuſtus. Tu ſolus omnipotens, & metuendus. Ideo tu ſis benedictus in æternum. Sed quid de te dicam? ô benedicta Maria mundi tota ſalus. Tu es illi ſimilis, qui amico dolenti de perdita re, ſubito fecit videri, quod perditum erat, quo mitigabatur dolor, creuit gaudium, & mens tota reaccendebatur lætitia. Sic tu dulciſſima Mater, oſtendiſti mundo Deum ſuum quem homines perdiderant, genuiſtique eum in tempore, qui ante tempora genitus eſt, ex cuius natiuitate cœleſtia, & terreſtria restris sunt gaudia. Ideo dulcissima Mater rogo te adiuua me, ne gaudeat inimicus meus de me, nec prævaleat aduersum me fraudibus suis. Respondit Mater. Ego iuuabo te; sed cur turbaris, quod aliud ostendebatur tibi spiritualiter, & aliud audiebatur corporaliter, in eo scilicet, quod ille miles, qui viuit corporaliter, ostendebatur tibi mortuus spiritualiter, & spirituali auxilio indigere. Sed audi nunc certitud nem. Omnis namque veritas de Deo est, omneque mendacium à diabolo, quia pater mendacij est. Ideo quamuis veritas ex Deo est tamen de malitia diaboli, & mendacio, quod Deus quandoque permittit occulto iudicio, virtus Dei fit manifestior. Sicut per exemplum indicabo tibi. Virgo quedam fuit, quæ sponsum suum tenerrime diligebat, & similiter sponsus virginem, ex quorum dilectione Deus glorificabatur, & parentes amborum lætabantur. Quod inimicus eorum considerans, cogitauit taliter. Scio inquiens, quod sponsus, & sponsa per tria conueniunt scilicet per litteras, per mutua colloquia, aut per corporum vnionem. Ergo ne nuncij, & portatores litterarum aditum obtineant, implebo vias omnes stipitibus, spinis, & vncinis. Ne ergo appropinquent ad mutua colloquia, faciam clamores, & strepitus, quibus distrahantur in colloquendo. Ne vero nudi conueniant in lecto statuam custodes tales, qui quamliberrimam obseruabunt, ne aliquam occasionem obtineant conueniendi. Sponsus itaque astutior hoste intelligens illa, dixit seruis suis. Hostis meus ponit mihi insidias in talibus, & vos illis locis attendite, quod si ita inueneritis finito cum laborare donec pulueris vncus, & postea consurgentes, non impedietis eum, sed deludendo inclamate eum. Vt conserui vestri videntes astutias hostis, efficiantur solliciciores in vigilando, & custodiendo. Simili modo est etiam in spiritualibus. Nam litteræ, quibus sponsus, & sponsa, id est Deus, & bona anima conueniunt nihil aliud sunt, nisi orationes, & desideria bonorum, sicut enim litteræ corporales, indicant affectum, & voluntatem mittentis eas, sic orationes bonorum ingrediuntur ad cor Dei, & coniungunt animam Deo in vnum vinculum charitatis. Sed diabolus quandoque impedit corda hominum ne rogent ea, quæ salutis animæ sunt, aut quod carnali voluptati contrarium est. Impedit quoque, ne rogantes pro aliis peccatoribus gaudeant, qui penitentiam pro se vtilem animæ non petunt, nec rogant ea, quæ sunt ad vtilitatem sempiternam. Quid vero sunt muta colloquia, quibus sponsus, & sponsa efficiuntur vnum cor, & vna anima, nisi pœnitentia, & contritio. In quibus quandoque diabolus tantum facit clamorem, quod ad inuicem non audiuntur. Quid autem est clamor eius, nisi suggestio eius prava, suggerens cordi fructuose uolenti pœnitere, dicendo inspirationibus suis. O anima inquiens delicata, durum est aggredi inconsueta, & insolita, nunquid omnes possunt esse perfecti, sufficit tibi vnum esse de multis, quid maiora attentas? Cur facis, quod nemo facit? perseuerare. n. non poteris. Dum videris quidem ab omnibus, si te nimis humilias, & submittis. Talibus igitur anima delusa inspirationibus, cogitat se grauc inquit est consueta relinquere, ideo faciam cõfessionẽ de præteritis, sufficit. n. mihi sequi viam plurium, non valeo esse perfecta, Deus quippe est misericors. Nec redemisset nos si perire nos voluisset. Talibus clamoribus impedit diabolus animam, ne audiat Deus. Non quod Deus non audit omnia, sed quia in audiendo talia non delectatur Deus, quando anima magis consentit tentationi suæ, quam propriæ rationi. Quid vero est, quod Deus, & anima coniungantur nudi, nisi desiderium cœleste, & charitas pura, quibus anima flagrare debet omni hora. Sed hæc charitas impeditur quadrupliciter. Primo instigat diabolus animæ aliquid facere contra Deum, quod licet non reputatur graue, tamen delectat animum, & huiusmodi delectatio, quia denegatur, nec curatur, odiosa est apud Deum. Secundo inspirat diabolus animæ aliqua bona facere propter cõplacentiã hominũ, & omittere quandoque bona, quæ posset facere, propter honorem, & timorem mundi. Tertio diabolus immittit obliuionem faciendorum bonorum animæ, & tedium, per quæ animus absorptus, tardatur in faciendo bona. Quarto diabolus sollicitat animam, aut in curis mundialium, aut in gaudio, & dolore superuacuo, seu in negotio dispendioso. Per talia itaque impediuntur litteræ, & orationes inflorum, & mutua colloquia sponsi, & sponsæ. Sed licet diabolus astutus sit, tamen Deus sapientior, atque fortior est, comminuens laqueos hostis, vt litteræ missæ peruenire valeant ad sponsum. Tunc autem frangunt laquei, quando Deus immittit cogitare, quæ bona sunt, & cor desiderat, vt obtineat voluntatem fugiendi, quæ prava sunt, & faciendi, quæ placita sunt Deo. Dissipatur etiam clamor hostis, quando animã discrete penitet, habens velle confessa non iterandi. Scito etiam, quod diabolus non sodominiti ſui plus quærit, quam propriam, vt Ioab, qui zelum legis, & commodum proximorum diligit, vt Iudas Machabeus.

Talis dux ſimilis eſt vnicorni, qui acutum habet cornu in fronte, & ſub cornu lapidem præciosũ. Quid aũt eſt cornu Ducis niſi cor virile Ducis, quomodo pugnãdũ eſt fortiter, Hoſteſq; fidei terẽdi. Lapis vero ſub cornu Ducis eſt charitas diuina, quę iugiter in corde manẽs, reddit eũ ad oĩa agilẽ, & inuictũ. Sed tunc Duces ſimiliores ſunt hedis laſciuis, quam vnicornibus, quia vbique pugnant pro carne, non pro anima, nec pro Deo. Inquiramus ergo in regibus, quis eorum non grauat ſubditos ſuos propter ſuperbiam ſuam. Quis tenet ſtatum ſuum iuxta redditus coronæ, quis reſtituit eas, quæ corona detinet iniuſte? Quis eſt, qui exoccupat ſe ad faciendam iuſtitiam propter Deum, vtinam filia in mundo reges tales appareant, vt glorificetur Deus. Inquiramus inſuper in clero, quorum eſt diligere continentiam, paupertatem, & deuotionem, & certe hi etiam à via receſſerunt. Quid autem ſunt clerici, niſi pauperes, & eleemoſinarij Dei? vt viuentes de oblatione Dei, tanto eſſent humiliores, & ad Deum feruentiores, quanto à curis mundi plus debent eſſe ſegregati. Ideo, & à tribulatione, & paupertate primum ſurrexit Eccleſia, vt Deus eſſet hæreditas eorum, & nõ in mundo, nec in carne, ſed in Deo gloriarentur. 1. Sed nunquid filia non potuiſſet Deus elegiſſe Reges, & Duces in Apoſtolos, & tunc per eos hæreditate terrena ditata fuiſſet Eccleſia? Potuiſſet quidem, ſed diues Deus venit in mundum pauper, exemplo, vt terrena oſtenderet tranſitoria eſſe, & vt homo domini ſui, addiſceret, nec erubeſceret paupertatem, ſed ad veras diuitias, & cęleſtes feſtinaret. Ideo cum paupere piſcatore, inchoabat pulcherrimam diſpoſitionem Eccleſiæ, & poſuit eum in locum ſuum, vt de ſorte domini, non de hæreditate, viueret in hoc mundo. Itaque à tribus bonis cepit Eccleſia. Primo à feruore fidei. Secundo a paupertate. Tertio ab effectu virtutum, & miraculorum. Hæc quoque tria fuerunt in beato Petro. Nam habuit feruorem fidei, quando libera voce Deum ſuum confeſſus eſt, & pro eo mori non dubitauit. Habuit etiam paupertatem, quando circumeundo mendicabat, & laborando manibus ſe paſcebat. Veruntamen in ſpiritualibus erat diues, quod maiũs eſt, quando ſcilicet claudo dedit greſſum, quod nullus principum potuit, cui aurum, & argentum dare non habebat. Sed nunquid Petrus non obtinuiſſet aurum, qui ſuſcitauit mortuum ſi voluiſſet? vtique, ſed exoneranit ſe ab one re diuitiarum, vt expeditus intraret cœlum, & vt magiſter ouium, humilitatis exẽplum daret ouibus, quia humilitas, & paupertas aut ſpiritualis aut corporalis, ingreſſus eſt in cœlum. 2. Tertio fuit in eo effectus miraculorũ, quia prętermiſſis altioribus miraculis, etiam ad vmbram Petri infirmi ſunt ſanati. Ergo, quia habuit ſecum perfectionem virtutum, quæ eſt contentari de neceſſarijs, & ideo lingua eius clauis cœli facta eſt, & nomen eius in benedictione eſt in cœlis, & in terris, Qui vero nomina ſua vocauerunt in terris, & ſtercora, ideſt terrena dilexerunt, neglecti ſunt in terris, & in libro iuſtitię diuinæ horribiliter ſunt deſcripti. Veruntamen Deus oſtendere volens, quod non paupertas Petri, nec aliorum ſanctorum coacta erat, ſed ſpontanea, ideo incitabat animos multorum ad largiendum eis. Sed ipſi plus in paupertate quam in ſentibus diuitiarum gloriabantur, propterea, & quo plus abundabat in eis paupertas, tanto deuotio cumulatius augebatur. Et quidem mirum, qui enim partem ſuam, & gaudium poſuerunt Deum, quomodo poterit Deus abeſſe eis? Qui vero delicias mundi appetebant, quomodo potuit eis dulceſcere Deus? immo peregrinus erat in oculis eorum. 3. Proceſſu vero temporis, vt amici Dei feruentiores, & expeditiores eſſent ad prædicandum verbum Dei, & vt ſciretur, quod non diuitiæ malæ ſunt, ſed abuſus earum; ideo ſub Silueſtro, & alijs, bona temporalia Eccleſiæ data ſunt, quas viri ſancti longo tempore, ad ſolam neceſſitatem ſuam & amicorum Dei, pauperum ſuſtentationem diſpenſabant. Ergo tales ſcito amicos Dei, qui contentantur de diſpoſitione Dei, qui & ſi tibi non ſunt cogniti, filius meus ſubtilius videt eos; quia in duro metallo multoties inuenitur aurum, & de duro ſilice extrahitur ſcintilla ignis. Vade itaque ſecura, quia prius clamandum eſt, & poſtea faciendũ, quia nec filius meus in carne manens omnem ſimul iudeam conuertit. Nec Apoſtoli ſimul, & ſemel gentilitatem, ſed tempora longiora habenda ſunt ad perficiendum opera Dei.

NOTAE.

1 SEd nunquid filia non potuisset Deus elegisse Reges, & Duces in Apostolos, & tunc per eos hæreditate terrena, ditata fuisset Ecclesia.

Beatissima Virgo hoc loco Brigittam certiorem facit, quare Deus Apostolos non potentes, & divites, sed pauperes, & impotentes elegerit, cuius rei duas hic legimus causas, quarum prima est, vt homines sui exemplo magistri adiscerent terrena negligere, quæ caduca, & mobilia sunt: secunda ne paupertatem erubescerent, sed temporalibus diuitijs posthabitis cælestia sibi comparare studerent, cæterum sancti patres propositæ dubitationis causas inuestigantes affirmarunt, idcirco Christum humiles, nec sapientes, aut doctos, vel nobiles ad Apostolatus officium assumpsisse, ne diuitiarum, aut nobilitatis inuitu ad suam gratiã eos trax.sse videretur, neque Euangelij fructus humanis viribus, aut scientiæ, aut prudentiæ hominum ascriberetur, sed veritati tantummodo passionis suæ, & efficaciæ, ac etiam prædicationi tribueretur, vique per ea, quæ stulta, ac infirma mũdi sunt, fortes, & sapientes confunderet: hinc Paulus 1. Corint. 1. dicebat videte vocationem vestrã fratres, quia non multi sapientes secundum carnem, non multi potentes non multi nobiles, sed stulta mundi elegit Deus, vt fortia confundat, addit, & aliam causam D. Augustinus in expositione psalmi 65. ad illa verba date gloriam laudi eius: si doctos inquit primos elegisset doctrinæ suæ merito se electos putarent, & ita illorum scientia laudaretur, & haus Christi gratiæ minueretur, & ferm. de Apostolis de hac electione verba faciens, non inquit de foro Iustiniani, sed de simplicitate piscatoria Apostolos assumpsit, inflat enim sapientia huius mũdi. & legum ventosa loquacitas, elegit non Reges, non Senatores, non Philosophos, sed plebeios, pauperes, indoctos, piscatores, inerudi tos liberalibus disciplinis, non peritos grammatica non armatos dialectica, non Rethorica inflatos, hoc ipsum latius explicat D. Chrisost. sive quisquis fuerit auctor operis imperfecti hom. 7. similitudine quadam artificis, qui gemmas videns pretiosas, & non dolatas eligit eas non quod sint, sed quod fieri possint habens enim artis scientiam bonum in compositum non contemnit sic Dominus videns Apostolos non eorum elegit opera, sed corda, nec quasi Apostolos eligit eos, sed quia fieri poterant Apostoli, idem habet Clemens Alexandrinus libr. 6. Stromatum.

2 Tertio fuit in eo effectus miraculorum, quia prætermissis altioribus miraculis etiã ad vmbram Petri, infirmi sanati sunt.

Tanta Apostolorum Principi edendi miracula virtus à Christo concessa est, vt & ægro tãtum morbos sui tantummodo corporis vmbræ contactu sentiret, & idcirco actorum quinto scripsit D. Lucas Euangelista, quod in plateas eiciebant infirmos, & in lectulis, & in grabatis ponebant, vt veniente Petro saltem obumbraret quemquam illorum, & liberarentur omnes ab infirmitatibus suis, qua in re non defuerunt, qui dixerint Petri miracula insigniora, ac præstantiora fuisse miraculis Christi Domini, sic D. Dyonisius Cartusianus actorum quinto, & ibidem Theodorus heraclensis, Rupertus, Beda, & D Augustinus in Ioan. tract. 71. & 72. mains inquit fuit vmbra sua trãsitu quod discipuli fecerunt, quam fimbriæ suæ tactu, quod ipse omnes fecit sanari languentes, & hoc illud est, quod Dominus illis pollicitus fuerat Ioan. 14. Amen Amen dico vobis, qui credit in me opera, quæ ego facio, & ipse faciet, & maiora horum faciet, neque tamen censendum est hoc Christo derogasse, quia non sua Petrus, sed Christi virtute ea fecit, quod etiam, & nos annotauimus supra hoc eodem lib. cap. 74. nota secunda, & observarunt in locum D. Ioan. citatum, Beda, Eutimius, & Theophilatus. Theodorus vero heracleotes tribus rebus Apostolorum miracula Christi miraculis censuit excelluisse primũ, quod ipsa per se maiora fuerint, vt de vmbra Petri dictum est, secundo, quod Christus nullum nisi beneficij loco miraculum fecerit, quale est mortuos suscitare, ægrotos curare, Apostolos vero multa miracula non ea solum, quæ ad hominum beneficentiam, sed etiam quæ spectarent ad pœnam fecisse, vt actorum quinto, & nono legimus Petrum Ananiam et Sapphiram solo verbo interemisse, & Paulum Elymam magum excecasse actorum 13. & Corinthum illum sathanæ vexandum tradidisse 1. Corint. 5. Tertio Christum tantummodo in iudea, Apostolos vero per totum terrarum orbem miracula patrasse, addit Rupertus Christum non nisi vna locutum lingua, Apostolos omnibus, quod & si non ad magnitudinem miraculorum ad celebritatem tamen spectare affirmauit.

3 Processu vero temporis, vt amici Dei fierent tutiores, & expeditiores essent ad prædicandum verbum Dei, & vt fieret, quod non diuitiæ malæ sunt, sed abusus earum, ideò sub Siluestro, & alijs bona temporalia ecclesiæ data sunt.

Ex verbis præsentis nota duplex deducitur causa quapropter Ecclesiæ bona temporalia collata sint, primò quidem ne amici Dei in sibi comparandis ad victum, & vestitum necessarijs solliciti fierent, & inde a verbi Dei prædicatione impedirentur, & tepidi, ac negligentes exaderent: ideo legimus Matthæo. Marci 6. & Lucæ 9. Christum Dominum Apostolis præcepisse, vt de pedibus pulueres excuterent in signum excussionis diuitiarum appetitus, ac sollicitudinis, a quibus abstinere penitus debuerant, promisit ergo Deus ad hanc tollendã sollicitudinẽ ecclesiã diuitijs abundare vt

etiã palam fieret diuitias minime malas esse, sed illarũ tantummodo abusum. Caterum hoc loco legimus sub Silvestro Pontifice sanctissimo, plura illi fuisse donata ab Imperatore Constantino, quem non nisi diuinitus inspiratum id fecisse credimus, ad maiorem totius Ecclesiæ, ac Fidei Catholicæ amplitudinem, & maiestatem, præterquam quod ab eo quasi in remunerationem pro salute, victoriis caluus comparatis, cæterisque beneficijs acceptis factam esse credendum est, sicque a Pontifice Silvestro huiusmodi donationem approbatam fuisse, in eaque Summos Pontifices hactenus perseuerasse, vt constat distinct. 96. cap. Constantinus 1. & 2. & tradit Albertus Pighius lib. 5. Hierarch. Ecclesiastica cap. 16. & Maior in 4. dist. 15. q. 10. part. 2. & inter Iuris peritos Bartolus, Panormitanus, & alij plures, quos citat Ludouicus Molina de iustitia & Iure tract. 2. disp. 25. Silvester in verbo Papa quæst. 10. Cardinalis Baronius Tomo 3. Annalium anno Christi 324. cap. 127.

VERBA SPONSAE AD Christum, magnificam misericordiam quam Christus cum ea fecit manifestantia, & verba Christi ad Sponsam, eandem misericordiã dulciter in Sponsa conformantia. Et qualiter ipsam elegit in vas implendum vino, & per ipsam seruitoribus Dei propinando, & de grata interrogatione, & humili Sponsæ ad Christum.

CAP. LXXVII.

HONOR SIT omnipotenti Deo pro omnibus quæ creata sunt, laus sit ei pro omnibus suis virtutibus. Deus & seruitium reddatur ei pro omni charitate sua. Ego indigna persona, quæ a iuuentute mea multa contra te Deum meum deliqueram, regratior tibi dulcissime Deus meus. Et pro hoc maxime, quod nullus ita criminosus est, quod ei misericordiam tuã denegas, qui cum charitate, & vera humilitate misericordiam a te postulat, cum propolito emendandi. O charissime Deus, & omnium dulcissime, mirabile omnibus audientibus est illud quod tu mecum fecisti.

Nam quando placet tibi tunc sopis corpus meum, non tamen sopore corporali, sed quiete spirituali. Animam autem meam tunc quasi a somno excitas ad videndum, & audiendum, atque sentiendum spiritualiter. O Domine Deus, o quam dulcia sunt oris tui verba! Videtur vero mihi quoties verba spiritus tui audio, quod anima mea in se illa deglutiat cum quodam sentimento ineffabilis dulcedinis, sicut suauissimum cibum, qui cadere videtur in cor corporis mei, cum magno gaudio, & ineffabili consolatione. Mirabile tamen hoc esse videtur, quod dum verba tua audio, tunc vtrumque efficior, scilicet satiata & famelica, propter hoc autem satiata, quia tunc nihil aliud mihi libet nisi illa, propter hoc vero famelica, quia semper augetur appetitus meus ad illa. Benedictus igitur sis tu, Deus meus Iesu Christe, da ergo mihi Domine auxilium tuum, vt omnibus diebus vitæ meæ, quæ tibi placita sunt, perficere valeam. Christus autem respondit, dicens: Ego sum sine principio, & sine fine, & omnia creata sunt ex potentia mea, & ordinata ex sapiẽtia mea, omnia etiam reguntur ex meo iudicio, nihilque mihi impossibile est, & vere omnia opera mea cũ charitate sunt dispolita. Et ideo nimis durum est illud cor, quod non vult diligere me, nec me timere, cum sim vtrũque, scilicet omnium hominũ nutritor & iudex; Diaboli autem, qui victor meus est, & ipsorũ hominum proditor, voluntatem faciunt. Ipsoque denique tam pestiferum virus in mundo propinauit, quòd viuere non potest anima, illud delectabiliter prægustans, sed mortua in infernum cadit, in miserijs tamen æternaliter victura. Hoc autem virus peccatum est, quod licet multis dulciter sapit, in fine tamen horribiliter amarescit. Hoc certissime venenum, de manu diaboli bibitur cum delectatione omni hora, & quis talia audiuit vnquam, aut maius mirum? Præbetur enim hominibus vita, & ipsi mortem eligunt, & voluntarie amplectuntur. Ego autem qui potẽs sum super omnia, compatior eorũ miseriæ, & angustiæ magnæ. Ego enim feci sicut rex diues & charitatiuus, qui mittens familiaribus seruitoribus suis preciosũ vinum, diceret, ita propinate pluribus vinũ quàm vobis solis, quoniam valde salubre est. Hoc enim egris sanitatem reddit, mestis consolationem, & sanis hominibus cor virile. Vinum etiã non mittitur sine vase. Vere sic ego feci in regno hoc. Ego quidem seruitoribus meis misi verba mea, quæ vino optimo comparantur, & ipsi alijs ea dabunt, quoniam salubria sunt. Per vas autem te intelligo, quæ verba mea audis. Nam tu vtrumque fecisti, quia verba audisti, & protulisti, quia tu es vas meum proprium, quod implebo dum volucro, & ex quo, frequentes dormientes coram, quæ viderunt, quæve in somnijs dixerunt non recordantur, & multoties inscij sunt, secus vero patientibus ecstasim accidit, qui cum sensibus restituuntur, tunc magis suas mentes supernaturali lumine illustratas esse sentiunt, quod etiam euidenter probatur ex verbis præsentis capitis, quæ sunt: O Domine Deus, ō quam dulcis sunt oris tui verba, & alia quæ sequuntur, quæ omnia a B. Brigitta dicebantur post ecstasim, quando Deo de sibi reuelatis gratias agebat.

3 Præbetur enim hominibus vita, & ipſi mortem eligunt.

Præsentis notæ verba de spirituali vita, & spirituali morte intelligenda esse arbitror, quod manifeste deducitur, tum ex antecedentibus, tum etiam consequentibus: agitur namque de his, qui peccantes dicuntur voluntariam mortem eligere, quoniam excludunt a se gratiam, quæ vera est vita animæ, & peccatum mortale committunt, per quod occiditur anima, vt Sapient. 16. dicitur: Homo per malitiam occidit animam suam, & hæc proprie mors spiritualis appellatur, vt annotauimus supra hoc eodem lib. cap. 71. nota secunda.

VERBA SPONSAE DIVINITUS reuelata, immo ab ore dulcissimo Virginis gloriosæ clare, & absque antipendio Sponsæ directa, & promulgata, &c.

CAP. LXXVIII.

VERE ESTRAE honorandæ Paternitati. Ego vidua quædam significo, quod mulieri cuidam in sua patria existenti multa valde miraculosa sint reuelata, quæ diligenti examine Episcoporum, ac magistrorum claustralium, & secularium Clericorum probata sunt, ex pia & mirifica sancti Spiritus illustratione, & non aliunde processisse, quod etiam illius regni Rex, & Regina nouerunt probabili ratione. 1 Eadem itaque mulier ad vrbem Romanam peregre profecta est, quæ die quadam in Ecclesia maiori beatæ Virginis orationi vacans, rapta est in spiritualem visionem, corpore tanquam in grauedinem ducto, sed non tamen in somni grauedinem. In illa denique hora apparuit ei quædam reuerendissima Virgo. Mulier autem prædicta admiratione visionis turbata, fragilitatem suam recognoscens, diabolicam timebat fraudulentiam, diuinæ pietati instanter supplicans, ne permitteret eam in diabolica cadere tentamenta. Virgo igitur quæ ei apparebat, ait: Ne timeas ea, quæ nunc videris, seu audieris, a spiritu maligno fore existimans. 2 Quemadmodum enim cum solis appropinquatione duo veniunt, lux videlicet & calor, hæc autem caliginosam vmbram non sequuntur. Simili modo cum Spiritus sancti aduentu, in cor hominis, hæc duo veniunt, ardor videlicet diuinæ charitatis, & Catholicæ Fidei perfecta illuminatio. Hæc autem duo in teipsa nunc sentis, ita quod nihil diligis sicut Deū, & in Catholicæ Fidei integritate, tibi non deficit vnus punctus. Sed hæc duo malignū spiritum, qui vmbræ caliginosæ comparatur, non sequuntur. Deinde eadem Virgo subiunxit, dicens eidem mulieri: Tu debes verba mea mittere tali Prælato ex parte mea. Cui cum magno mœrore mulier respondit, dicens: O mea Renerenda Virgo, non credet mihi, sed magis sicut existimo, habebit verba pro derisu, quam pro diuina veritate. Cui Virgo respondit, dicens: Quāuis ego cordis eius dispositionē, ac responsionis prolationem, suæque vitæ terminationem tam bene nouerim, nihilominus tamen ei verba mea mittere debes.

3 3 Ego quidem ei notum facio, quod in parte dextra sanctæ Ecclesiæ fundamentum vehementer dilapsum est, in tantum quod summa testudo plures in se rupturas habet, dans ex se casus tam periculosos, quod multi ex se subeuntibus perdunt vitam. Plerique eius columnæ, quæ in altum tendere deberent, vsque ad terram se iam inclinant, totumque pauimentum eius tam fossum est, quod cæci introeuntes periculosa cadunt, & adhuc interdum contingit clare videntes, vna cum cæcis grauiter cadere, causa periculosarum fossarum eiusdem pauimenti. Et propter has causas stat nimis periculose Ecclesia Dei. Et quid sibi ex hoc eueniet, statim propinquius esse dignoscitur. Nam ruinam certissimæ patietur, nisi reparationis inuamen habuerit. Et ipsius ruina tam grandis erit, quod per totam Christianitatem audietur, & hæc debent spiritualiter intelligi. Ego autem illa Virgo sum, in cuius vterum Dei Filius venire dignatus est, cum Deitate, & Spiritu sancto, exclusa quacumque contagiosa corporis delectatione. Et illæ idem Dei Filius de meo clauso vtero natus est cum deitate, & humanitate, & Spiritu sancto, cum maxima consolatione mei, & sine pœna. Ego etiam iuxta crucem eius steti, quando ipse cum vera patientia interdum victor ose deuincebat, ac sui cordis sanguine cælum aperiebat. Ego quippe in monte eram, dum idem Dei Filius, qui ius capitis plerique columnæ sunt, quæ in altum tendere dicerem, se ad terram usque inclinassent, cuiusque gemmentum effossum est: eorum præsidio quod Beatissima Virgo pro Ecclesia perpetuo Deum rogare consueuerat, & hæc sub similitudine valetis audire, cui Maria hoc dicto similis esse perhibetur, cum dicitur: Ego itaque sto super mundum cum oratione mea assidue ad meum carissimum, & solem, sicut arcus super nubes: tale. Hinc autem similitudinis sensus aliquot reddidimus lib. 3. Reuelat. cap. 10. num. 1.

3 Quemadmodum enim soles appropinquatione duo veniunt. Ex duobus his colligimus signum S. Brigittæ Reuelat. cuiusdam frossi spiritus, & nullo pacto duo eiusmodi ministerio dantur: hæc namque duo signa sunt, & mentis illustratæ, & veritatem diuinarum scripturarum, quæ sane a dæmone nullatenus possunt prouenire, vt hæc loquamur ad propositum verbi præsentis notæ, vbi legimus: Sed hæc duo maligni spiritus, qui imbecilla corpora comparantur, non sequuntur, quod etiam affirmauit Dr. Bernardus Serm. 8. in Cantica, quem supra etiamnum libro 1. Reuelat. cap. 4. num. 2. vbi de eadem re fusius egimus.

3 Ego quidem ei notum facio, quod in parte dextera S. Ecclesiæ fundamentum vehementer dilapsum est. A verbis præsentis notæ, vsque ad finem capitis omnia reperiuntur ad verbum lib. 3. Reuelat. cap. 10. quæ ergo ad horum intelligentiam faciunt, lector explicata inuenies.

CAP. LXXIX.

LAVS, ET GLORIA sit omnipotenti Deo pro omnibus suis operibus. Sit & ipsi honor perpetuus, qui tecum inchoauit gratiam facere. Nos videmus, quod dum terra cooperta fuerit niue & frigore, quæcumque semina in eam sparsa fuerint, certum est, quod germinare non possunt nisi in locis paucissimis, quæ ex radijs solaribus calefiunt, vbi ex benefitio solis, gramina, & flosculi oriuntur. Ex quibus cognosci potest cuius generis sint, aut cuius virtutis.

Vere similimodo totus mundus videtur mihi superbiæ, & cupiditatis, atque luxuriæ frigore tam dorniter iam cooperitus existere, quod heu pauciſſimi sunt, qui horum verbis, atque operibus intelligi possit Dei per dilectam charitatem in ipsorum cordibus habitare. Vnde sciendum est, quod sicut Dei amici inde gauisi sunt, quod Lazarum a mortuis viderunt resuscitatum ad Dei gloriam, ita & nunc Dei amici gaudere possunt, quando aliquem resurgere viderint a prædictis vitijs, quæ sunt verissime mors æterna. Ideo notandum, quod sicut Lazarus resuscitatus, post resurrectionem suam duplex odium incurrit. Nam quosdam hostes corporales habebat, scilicet homines, qui erant inimici Dei, & hi Lazarum corporaliter oderunt. Quosdam etiam hostes habebat spirituales, scilicet dæmones, qui nunquam desiderant amici Dei fieri, & illi eum oderunt spiritualiter. Ita etiam quicumque nunc a vitijs mortalibus resurrexerint seruare volentes castitatem, & fugere superbiam, & cupiditatem duplex odium incurrunt. Nam dupliciter homines, qui Dei inimici sunt, eis nocere volunt corporaliter. Et diabolus etiam duplici modo eos damnare, seu nocere conatur spiritualiter. Primo namque homines mundani verbis suis vituperant eos. Secundo etiam si possunt libenter eos operibus suis molestant, vt sic eos sibi in vita, & actibus similes faciant, retrahendo eos a bonis inceptis. Sed homo Dei sic nouiter conuersus ad vitam spiritualem, istos tales malignos homines optime vincere potest, si contra verba sibi contraria patientiam habuerit, & si quis frequentius, & feruentius bona opera spiritualia & diuina ipsis videntibus exercuerit. Dæmones etiam alijs duobus modis decipere nituntur. Primo, quia summe desiderant, vt ipsum nouum seruum Dei recidiuum faciant ad peccata. Qui si hoc nequiuerint, tunc ipsi dæmones ad hoc sollicite laborant, vt irrationabiliter & indiscrete ille, sua bona opera perficiat, scilicet in vigilando, vel abstinentias indiscretas vltra debitum modum indiscrete faciendo, vt sic eius vires citius euacuentur, & in diuinis laboribus fit infirmior. Contra primum est optimum remedium ipsa frequens, & pura suorum peccatorum confessio, & pro delictis vera cordis interna contritio. Contra secundum optimum remedium est talis humiliatio, videlicet vt magis velit alicui seniori spirituali obedire, quam se personaliter regere in suis operibus, & pœnitentijs faciendis. Et vere hæc medicina est valde proficua, & optima in tantum, quod etiam si adhuc indignior esset dator consilij quam acceptor, & tunc certissime sperandum est, quod ipsa diuina Sapientia, quæ est Deus, per suum adiutorium cooperabitur datori consilij, ad illa conferenda consilia, quæ vtilissima fierent acceptori, si ambo ad Dei honorem & gloriam perfectam voluntatem habuerint. Nunc autem amice dilecte, quoniam ambo, scilicet tu & ego de peccatis surreximus, deprecemur Deum, vt nobis ambobus diuinum adiutorium donare dignetur, mihi in dicendo, & tibi in obediendo. Et tanto magis super hoc Deus rogandus est, ex eo quod vos qui estis diues, sapiens, & nobilis, dignatus fuistis me indignam, & modicum intelligentem, atque ignotam consulere. Et vere spero, quod Deus vestram humilitatem velit respicere, & ad corpus, & ad animam vobis vtile facere, quod ad suum honorem vobis scribo.

INFORMATIO DIVINITVS reuelata Sponsæ valde discreta, & vtilis ad quendam Clericum, de modo viuendi tam spiritualiter, quam corporaliter.

CAP. LXXX.

PRIMO IGITVR consulo tibi, vt maneas in hospitio tuo prope Ecclesiam tuam sanctæ Mariæ virginis, vnum famulum tantum tecum habeas, vt totum illud quòd deductis necessarijs expensis de tuis redditibus superfuerit, statim reddas tuis creditoribus eisdem de debitis plenarie satisfaciendo. Quoniam non est licitum, nec rationabile multas pecunias pauperibus, seu diuitibus amicis & parentibus dare, priusquã omnia debita plene fuerint persoluta, tunc omnia, quæ tibi & famulo tuo deductis expensis superfuerint, ad Dei honorem distribue pauperibus & indigentibus. Clericalem habens habitum honestum, & vtilem diligenter attendendo, ne in qualitate panni, seu in forma vestimentorum tuorum aliqua põpa, seu vanitas notari possit, sed sola honesta necessitas, & vtilitas corporalis. Duobus enim paribus vestimentorum tantummodo sis contentus, vnum scilicet pro diebus festiuis, & alterum pro reliquis diebus quotidianis. Nec etiam plura, quam duo paria caligarum, seu calceorum habeas, & quicquid de vestimentis tuis superest, conuertes in alios tuos vsus, aut in solutionem debitorum tuorum. Vestimenta lintea omnino deponas, tam noctibus quam diebus per hunc annum. Ecclesiam tuam, scilicet beatæ Mariæ per hunc annum habeas pro Ecclesia claustrali propter tria. Primo pro eo, scilicet quod si forte prius in ea vnquam fuisti propter aliquam superbiam, sic deinceps in ea resideas, in honorem humillimæ Virginis Mariæ, per diuinam obedientiam. Et si forte per Canonicos & Beneficiatos illius Ecclesiæ a seruitio Dei in honestis verbis trahebaris ad malam concupiscentiam, sic conare modo per Dei adiutorium, diuinis & spiritualibus verbis tui alium quem a mala concupiscentia trahere ad delectationem amoris Dei. Et si forte aliquibus te videntibus per aliquos tuos illicitos mores malum exemplum dedisti, sic amodo cures per bona opera tua, & honestos mores tuos, animabus eorum dare profectum, & virtuosum exemplum. Deinde amice dilecte oportet, quod nocturna tempora, & diurna ad Dei laudem rationabiliter ordines, & discrete. Ego enim video, quod campanæ vestræ Ecclesiæ satis ad certis temporibus pulsantur. Et ideo consulo, vt statim cum ipsas de nocte audieris, a lecto tuo surgas, & cum quinque genuflexionibus, & quinque vicibus Pater noster, & Aue Maria, recorderis quinque vulnerum Iesu Christi, & dolorum sanctæ dignissimæ matris.

Post hæc autem incipias Matutinum de Beata Virgine, & alias deuotiones tibi placitas dicas, donec conueniunt Canonici in Choro ad psallendum. Et melius est, quod tu cum primis ad Ecclesiam venias, quam cum vltimis. Deuote igitur cantando Matutinum de tempore & honeste, vsque ad finem stare debes, & interdum sedere, sicut decens est. Sed minime loquendo, nisi aliquid interrogatum a te fuerit, & tunc cum paucissimis verbis respondeas, & non clamorosis, excluso quolibet iracundiæ, atque impatientiæ signo, si fieri poterit. Multum enim te ordinares honeste, si esses in præsentia alicuius domini temporalis, & terreni, & idcirco multo magis debes cum omni honestate, & modestia, & humili reuerentia interna, & etiam exteriori, stare in præsentia, & seruitio æterni Regis cælorum, semper & vbique præsentis, & omnia videntis. Et si forte necessitate compulsus fueris super magnis rebus te, vel aliũ tangentibus ad loquendum in ipsis mediis horis, tunc de choro exeas, & quod tibi videtur paucis verbis extra chorum sine clamore respondeas, sine mora in tuum stallum chori redeundo. Et si poteris, ordina vt

illud negocium ad expediendum in alio loco & tempore suspendatur, ne cultus diuinus, vel honor Dei diminuatur, vel impedatur. Caue etiam ne vadas girouagando per Ecclesiam quasi spatiando, huc illuc ambulando cum cantantur horæ, hoc enim est inconstantis, & girouagantis animi, & vepidi spiritus, & modicæ charitatis & deuotionis. Tempora autem interualli, scilicet inter horas, tunc ora, vel lege aliqua vtilia animæ, & deuota, vel alijs proficua, hoc iugiter obseruando, quod ab hora qua surgis a lecto tuo ad matutinum, nullis te libenter operibus implices, nisi cantui lecturæ orationi, vel studio, donec summa missa fuerit finita, nisi forte in capitulo vestro inter vos de aliquibus sit tractandum, super rebus Ecclesiæ, seu meliori statu & ordinatione faciendum. Deinde celebrata summa Missa, de corporalibus vtilitatibus, & commodis, atque honestis consolationibus virtuosis loqui, & confabulari bene conuenit. Quando autem intras ad mensam, legantur benedictiones mensæ. Et sine tu fueris hospes alterius, siue tu hospites habueris, incipias inter tercula primum in mensa loqui de Deo, vel de sua dignissima Matre, aut de aliquo sancto, pro ædificatione & vtilitate commensalium, & etiam seipsorum mensæ, ad minus vnum verbum, vel duo, aut etiam aliqua de Deo, vel de sua Matre, aut de sanctis Dei ab alijs interroga. Et adhuc dum solus fueris in mensa astante tuo famulo, similiter facias, & hoc habeas pro lectione, quæ conuiuantibus fratribus in monasterijs solent legi. Facta autem comestione, & gratijs Deo redditis, & benefactoribus. Et tunc de rebus, seu de negocijs te tangentibus, cum quibuscunque personis honestis tibi placet, per aliquam breuem horam loquere. Et postea statim ingredere cubiculum tuum, & flexis quinquies genibus, legas quinquies Pater noster, & quinque vicibus Aue Maria, propter vulnera Domini nostri Iesu Christi, & propter dolores suæ Matris. Deinde medietatem temporis, quod est vsque ad vesperas, studendum vel legendum, atque ad quietem aliquantulum habeas, nisi forsan tuorum tuis prouor aliqua eos tangencia facta impedimus, & aliam medietatem temporis prædicti ad spatiandum habeas pro honesta consolatione corporali, vt fortior effluaris ad laudem Dei. Deinde cum pulsatur ad vesperas, statim ad officium decantandum ad chorum Ecclesiæ intres. Ita te habendo in choro, sicut prius supra dictum est. Et dicto Completorio, omni die pro mortuis vigilias legas cum tribus lectionibus ante cœnam. Facta autem cœna exercitare in talibus moribus, sicut dictum est de prandio. Post gratias vero ad spatiandum vadas, loquendo vtilia, & consolatoria verba, donec dormitum ire volueris. Et tunc etiam antequam ad lectum vadas, pone te ante lectum, & ibi deuote dicas quinque vicibus Pater noster, & quinque Aue Maria pro passione Iesu Christi, & postea intra lectum tuum, & corpori tuo de somno, & quiete tantum tribue, quod non vrgearis vigiliæ temporibus, propter quietis & somni breuitatem dormitare. Omni autem sexta feria legas deuote septem Psalmos cum Litanijs. Et illo die quinque denarios tribue quinque pauperibus indigentibus pro reuerentia quinque vulnerum Iesu Christi. Præterea frater, & amice charissime consulo tibi, vt infra scriptam abstinentiam habere velis per hunc annum pro peccatis propriis. Primo tocam Quadragesimam ieiunes omni die ad vnam comestionem in piscibus. Et similiter in Aduentu Domini. Omnes vigilias beatæ Mariæ in pane & aqua, vigilias Apostolorum in piscibus. Omnes quartas ferias ad comestionem in caseo, ouis, & piscibus. Omni sexta feria in pane & vino tantum, & si forte magis libuerit aquæ quam vinum cum pane habere, hoc tibi non dissuadeo. Omni die Sabbati in piscibus, & oleo ad vnum prandium. Dominico autem die, & in die Lunæ, & Martis, & in die Iouis bis in die comede de carnibus, dum tamen ab Ecclesia non præcipiatur ieiunare.

Nota frater dilecte, quod propter tria hæc tibi scribere, & consulere decreui. Primo vt inuidia diaboli, & eius astutia te ad hoc non traheret, quod teipsum ita subito tota consumeres, quod sensus tui, atque virescizo deficerent, & postea in tota vita tua Deo minus seruires, quam oporteret. Secundo, quod si mundani homines in tuis sensibus, aut viribus ex nimio labore defectum aliquem in te nocauerint, aut in laboribus inceptis te attediari conspexerint, abhorrerent, & pertimescerent diuinis laboribus se subijcere. Tertio, quia spero opera tua ex eo, Deo magis placere, quia potius eligis alterius cõsilio humiliter acquiescere, quam teipsum personaliter tuo proprio iudicio regere.

CAP. LXXXI.

SIC ILLE humanus, qui de se ipsum nihil scit, vt in se ipso cognoscitur in alio, & qui in se ipso cognoscit se in alio, ego sum, qui sum. Et dixerunt mihi prima humana creatura, & secunda humana creatura: Domine, quomodo possumus ad te accedere, quia nihil possidemus, præter peccata? Et dixi eis: Quia vos estis humana creatura, propterea vos estis similes Deo, sed voluntas hominis non est similis voluntati Dei. Quia homo non habet voluntatem, nisi quæ sibi placet, & Deus habet voluntatem, quæ omnibus placet. Propterea quod vestra vita & voluntas non est similis Deo, ideo non potestis ad Deum accedere, nisi per humanam creaturam. De secunda quæritis, quomodo ad me accedere possit, quia nihil habet, præter peccata? Dico vobis, quod ipsa habet vitam & voluntatem similem Deo, quia ipsa habet voluntatem, quæ omnibus placet, & vitam, quæ omnibus placet. Et ideo ipsa potest ad me accedere, quia ipsa habet vitam & voluntatem similem Deo. Et ideo ipsa habet fiduciam ad me accedendi ad obtinendam charitatem. Sicut per similitudinem intelligere poteris, quasi esset vnus aurifaber, imponens aurum mundum strateris, ad quem veniens carbonarius dixit, Domine carbones ad opus tuum habeo, da mihi pretium quantum valent. Respondit ille: Carbones taxati sunt quantum valent, & dato illi auro pro pretio, aurifaber disposuit carbones ad opus suũ, aurum vero ille ad victum suum. Sic est

2 enim in spiritualibus. 2 Nam opera facta sine charitate, similantur carbonibus, charitas vero auro. Ideo omnis, qui facit opera bona ex timore, habens tamen desiderium acquirendi sibi ad salutem animæ cum eis, iste licet non desideret Deum in cælis, sed timet hospitari in inferno, nihilominus tamen habet bona opera, sed frigida, & apparent quasi carbones in conspectu Dei. Deus vero comparatur aurifabro, qui scit in spirituali iustitia, quibus modis bona opera remuneranda sunt, vel quali iustitia charitas Dei acquiratur. Ipse etiam in prouidentia sua sic ordinat, quod propter bona opera ex timore facta, homini datur charitas, quam postea ho-
3 mo disponit ad salutem animæ suæ. 3 Ergo sicut charitatiuus aurifaber vtitur carbonibus ad opus suum, sic Deus frigidis operibus vtitur ad honorem suum. Secundo bonum est timere, quia quot peccata homo dimittit ex timore, a tot peccati pœnis liberabitur in inferno. Attamen quia charitatem non habuit, ideo nec iustitiam habet ad ascendendum in cælum. Nam cuius voluntas est talis, quod si posset vellet æternaliter viuere in mundo, in eius corde charitas Dei nequaquam est, & facta Dei quasi cæca sunt ante ipsum, ideo mortaliter peccat, & iudicabitur ad infernum. Attamen ardere non tenetur in pœnis, sed sedere in tenebris, qui omisit peccatum ex timore, sed non sentiet gaudium cœli, quia non desiderabat illud quamdiu vixit. Propterea sedebit sicut cæcus, & mutus, & sicut homo sine manibus & pedibus, quia eius anima intelligit malum inferni, & modicum de gaudio quod est in cælo.

Reuelatio.

Hæc reuelatio est de tribus militibus. Primus fuit de Scania, de quo facta est reuelatio talis. Domina Brigitta vidit animam vestitam quasi cocco bis tincto, sed paucis guttis, quasi nigris respersam, & cum vidisset eam statim euanuit a cõspectu eius. Item post tres dies vidit eandem animam totam rubeam, sed quibusdam gẽmis quasi aureis interlucentibus effulgentem. Cumque miraretur Domina ad hæc, dixit Spiritus Dei: Hæc, inquit, anima detenta fuit curis mundi, sed habens veram fidem venit ad indulgentias Romæ, ea intentione vt obtineret charitatem, & diuinam dilectionem, & voluntatem amplius scienter non peccandi. Ideo quia vidisti animam vestitam cocco bis tincto, significat quod ante mortem corporis obtinuit diuinam dilectionem, licet imperfectam. Quod vero vidisti eam respersam guttis nigris, significat, quod ipsa quadam affectione carnali mouebatur ad parentes carnales, & videre patriam suam. Attamen omnem voluntatem suam commisit mihi. Ideo meruit purgari, & ad sublimiora præparari. Quod vero vidisti interlucentes gemmas in rubeo colore, significat, quod propter bonam voluntatem, & effectum indulgentiarum istarum, appropinquabat coronæ desideratæ. Vide ergo filia, & considera quæ bona faciunt indulgentiæ huius Vrbis, hominibus illis, qui veniunt intentione sancta huc propter eas. Nam si donarentur alicui mille millia annorum, sicut & donantur propter fidem, & deuotionem venientium, adhuc non esset digna ponderatio ad obtinendam diuinam charitatem sine gratia Dei, quæ quidem charitas veraciter donatur, & promeretur propter indulgentias istas, quas Sancti mei promeruerunt sanguine suo.
De secundo milite in eadem reuelatione, qui fuit de Hallandia, Filius Dei loquitur. Quid tibi dixit ille magniloquus, & flabellum ventorum. Nonne quod multi dubitant de Sudario meo, vtrum sit verum, an non. Dic ergo ei constanter quatuor, quæ dico. Primum est, quod multi thesaurizant, & nesciunt quibus. Secundum est, quod omnis, qui talentum Domini commissum non expendit hilariter, sed custodit inutiliter, incurrit iudicium. Tertium est, quod ille, qui plus diligit terram, & carnem, quam Deum, non erit in consortio eorum, qui esuriunt, & sitiunt iustitiam. Quartum est, quod omnis qui clamantes non exaudit, clamabit ipse, & non exaudietur. De Sudario meo sciat, quod sicut sudor sanguinis mei de corpore meo fluxit, imminente passione mea, quando rogaui Patrem. Sic iste sudor exiuit de facie mea propter qualitatem rogantis me, ad consolationem futurorum. Tertius miles eiusdem reuelationis fuit de Suecia, de quo est ista reuelatio. Filius Dei loquitur: Scriptum est, quod vir saluatur per fidelem mulierem. Sic vxor huius viri cucurrit, & rapuit virum suum de faucibus diaboli, ambabus manibus. Nam vna manu eripuit eum de manu diaboli, cum lacrymis scilicet, & orationibus, & operibus charitatis. Alia manu eripuit eũ admonitionibus suis, & exemplo, & informatione, ita quod iam appropinquat viæ salutis. Propterea sunt & tria consideranda, quæ scribuntur in lege vulgari. In illa enim sunt tria membra, vnum quod intitulatur possidere, aliud vocatur vendere, tertium est emere. In primo membro, quod est possidere dicitur, quod nihil iuste possidetur, nisi quod iuste acquiritur; quicquid enim acquiritur per subdolas adinuentiones, per occasiones malitiæ, per minora pretia. Talis acquisitio non est Deo grata. Secundum membrum vocatur vendere, quandoque aliquã res venditur propter inopiam, & timorem, quandoque propter violentiam, & iudicia iniusta. Talis conscientia est scrutanda, si compassio, & charitas est in mente. Tertium membrum vocatur emere, qui enim aliquã rem emere voluerit, scrutari debet si res illa, qua aliquid emitur, iuste quæsita est. Nam in lege non fuit acceptum, quicquid iniqua exactione fuit acquisitum. Ideo iste, ista tria prædicta scrutetur diligenter in animo suo, & sciat pro certissimo, quod redditurus est mihi rationem de omnibus, & etiã de his, quę parentes sui reliquerunt sibi, si ea plus propter mundum, & vitra debitam vtilitatem expenderit, quam propter Deũ. Ille etiam sciat, quod redditurus est mihi rationem de militia sua, qua intentione eam recepit, & quomodo eam tenuerit, & quomodo votum suum, quod mihi vouit, adimpleuit.

NOTAE.

1 VEruntamen bonum est timere propter duo, primo, quia tanta possunt esse bona opera facta ex timore, quod trahãt postea aliquam scintillam gratię in cor ad obtinendam charitatem.

Ad horum intelligentiam notandum breuiter est cum Magistro in 3. dist. 34. & D. Thom. 2. 2. quæst. 19. art. 2. timorem multipliciter posse diuidi, primo quidem alius humanus dicitur, quo quis declinat a bono ad malum, vt corporale vitæ periculum, sicut Petrus, qui ne corporalem mortem incurreret, vitam negauit, alius vero mundanus est, quo quis a bono tendit ad malum, vt temporale fugiat incommodum, vt fecit Herodes, qui ne regnum perderet, pueros innocentes occidit, atque duos hos timores, secundum substantiam idem esse probabiliter existimandum est. Tertius timor naturalis vocatur, estque quo quilibet homo naturaliter pœnas, ac flagella horret, quod fecit Christus Saluator noster, qui mortem timuit, de quo Marci 14. scribitur: Cœpit pauere, tædere, & mœstus esse. Quartus timor seruilis appellatur, & est, quo aliquis peccare timet Formidine pœnæ, cuius meminit D. Ioan in sua 1. Can. cap. 4. cum dicit: Timor non est in charitate, sed perfecta charitas foras mittit timorem, quinto alius reperitur, quem initialem vocant, quo quis gehẽnam quidem timet, sed cum illo offendam etiam Dei, & declinat a malo, partim amore iustitiæ, partim timore pœnæ, de quo Eccles. 1. legimus: Initium sapientiæ est timor Domini, quem secundum substantiam idem esse cum filiali, probat D. Thom. 2. 2. q. 19. art. 8. & ibi Card. Caietanus contra Durandum in 3. d. 34. q. 3. Postremus vero timor, qui perfectus est, quẽ Theologi filialem, & castum nominant, ille censendus est, quo quis amore tantummodo boni timet Deum offendere, & ab eo separari, & amore solum iustitiæ declinat à malo, qui per charitatem tantum abest vt expellatur, vt ea crescente ipse crescat, vt auctor est D. Thomas quæst. supra citata art. 10. His positis. Dico primo hoc loco, nec de humano timore, nec de mundano verba fieri, quoniam hi duo cum mali sint, non possunt esse meritorij, vt supponitur hic: idem quoque dicendum videtur de naturali, qui de se, nec bonus, nec malus est, sed indifferens, aut etiam de casto, aut filiali, quandoquidem cum eo indicauimus supra, simul charitas sit, quæ crescente & ipse crescit, hic vero de timore agitur, qui esse potest congrua dispositio ad charitatem adipiscendam. Relinquum est ergo, vt dicamus hunc locum intelligendum esse de initiali timore, aut etiam seruili, quem quidem a Spiritu sancto esse deduxit. Gloss. Ordinaria ex illis verbis Apostoli Rom. 8. Non accepistis spiritum seruitutis iterum in timore, & declarauit apertius Cõc. Trid. sess. 14. cap. 4. vbi habet, dolorem conceptum etiam consideratione pœnarum, & gehennæ esse donum Dei, & Spiritus sancti impulsum, non adhuc quidem inhabitantis, sed tantum mouentis, quo pœnitens adiutus viam sibi ad iustitiam parat, & hoc est, quod scribitur hic, bona opera ex timore facta, charitatis scintillam trahere.

2 Nam opera sine charitate facta similantur carbonibus, charitas vero auro.

Merito hic opera absque charitate facta carbonibus comparentur, quippe qui sicut exincti nullum calorem, nec lucem habent, sic actiones nostræ a charitate seiunctæ, nullum caloris, aut luminis gradum obtinent, quandoquidem nec nos, neque proximum in dilectione Dei, ut per eſſet feruentes reddens, eamque homine gratia priuata ſint, reclamabis nobis viam minime oſtendum, & ideirco paulo infra, & opera frigida eſſe legimus, cum dicitur nihilominus tamen habent bona opera, ſed frigida, & apparent quaſi carbones in conſpectu Dei, atque deſalatorios carbones huiuſmodi opera eſſe vocando cum Dauide Pſalm. 119. crediderim: Quoniam & extincta ſunt, & valore, ac lumine orbata: Similis etiam auro hoc loco charitas eſſe dicitur, quod ſicut inter metalla eſt pretioſiſſimum, ſuaque natura conſtantiſſimum, & in tenuiſſimam, ac ſubtiliſſimam lamina extenſum minime frangitur, & ſapiſſime in ignem coniectum non ſolum non conſumitur, verum & puriſſimum redditur: ſic quoque Charitas inter virtutes præſtantiſſima eſt, & omnibus ſupereminet, vt ait Apoſtolus 1. Corinth. 13. nec ipſa per tribulationes frangitur, ſed quo magis angustijs coarctatur premiturque, eo purior ac firmior fit, qua de re legendi ſunt, qui hac eadem vtuntur ſimilitudine, D. Auguſt. in Pſal. 64. in expoſitione illius verſiculi, & poſteriora dorſi eius in pallore auri, & ibidem D. Hilar. D. Greg. ſuper Ezech. hom. 15. Ricard. Victorinus de ſomnio Nabuchodonoſor, 23.

3 Ergo ſicut charitatiuus Anrifaber vtitur carbonibus ad opus ſuum, ſic Deus frigidis operibus ad honorem ſuum.

Congrua ſane ſimilitudine exponitur hic, Deum Opt. Max. operibus moraliter bonis a charitate ſeiunctis vti ad honorem ſuum, dicitur namque facere ſicut artifex, qui ad conficiendum opus ſuum carbonibus vtitur. Quod vt explicemus apertius, animaduertendum eſt, huiuſmodi opera a charitate ſeiuncta, quæ hic carbones dicuntur poſſe diſponere ad conſequendam gratiam, non quidem primam, quam nullus mereri poteſt, vt docuimus ſupra hoc eodem lib. cap. 74. nota 3. initio, & multo minus poſſunt eſſe immediate diſpoſitiones ad gloriam obtinendam, quoniam non exiſtens in gratia nequaquam poteſt opera vitæ æternæ meritoria agere, ſupereſt ergo vt diſponere aliquo modo queant, ad gratiam, vt explicat Durandus in 4. diſtinctione 15. quæſt. 3. id autem, quod innitur ſupra non longe a verbis præſentis, nota, ibiipſe etiam in prouidentia ſua ſic ordinat, quod propter bona ex timore facta homini datur charitas, intellige non de humana, vel mundano timore, ſed de initiali, qui bonus eſt, vt hoc eodem capite nota prima ſuſe tradidimus. Ceduntetiam hæc opera in Dei honorem, quia cum ipſe iuſtiſſimus ſit, nullumque bonum irremuneratum relinquat: ſic operantibus retributionem ſaltem temporalem confert, per quam ab omnibus, veluti humanarum actionum equiſſimus Iudex laudatur. Poſtremo quoque iuſti eorum exemplo, qui ita operantur adducti, eadem etiam facimus, quamuis tunc illa nec frigida, nec mortua ſint, quæ cum charitate coniuncta ſunt: neque operibus tantummodo moraliter bonis, ſed etiam malis, quandoque Deus ad honorem ſuum, & ad bonorum etiam commodum vtitur, teſte D. Gregorio Magno 34. Moralium cap. 7. Deus, inquit, ſcit ad bonorum cuſtodiam, etiam bene, vti mala actione reproborem, lapſum cadenti vertit in profectum manentium, idem habet Auguſtinus epiſtola 121. & de gratia, & libero arbitrio ſapiſſime, quibus locis explicat illud Apoſtoli Rom. 8. Diligentibus Deum omnia cooperantur in bonum; idem admonuit Ambroſius in hunc locum Pauli, & Carthuſianus ibidem.

CHRISTVS LOQVENS Sponſæ dicit ei, quòd deuota anima debet habere ſicut Sponſa os delectabile, aures mundas, oculos pudicos, & cor ſtabile, exponens omnia dicta membra ſpiritualiter valde pulchre.

CAP. LXXXII.

ILIVS loquitur: Tu debes habere ſicut Sponſa os delectabile, aures mundas, oculos pudicos, & ſtabile cor. Sic & anima debet eſſe diſpoſita, eius enim os eſt mens munda, vt ibi nihil intret, niſi quod mihi placet. Sit quoque os, ideſt, mens delectabilis ex odore bonæ cogitationis, ex ſedula memoria meæ paſſionis. Sit etiam mens ſicut os, rubicunda, ideſt feruens diuina charitate, vt qui intelligit operetur. Nam ſicut pallidum os nullus oſculari deſiderat, ſic nec anima, niſi faciat bona opera ex bona voluntate, nequaquam mihi placet. Mens etiam ſicut os habere debet duo labia, ideſt duas affectiones, vnam qua deſiderat cæleſtia, aliam qua contemnit omnia terrena. Palatum vero animæ inferius, debet eſſe timor mortis, qua ſeparatur anima a corpore, & qualis tunc tenetur eſſe conſtituta. Palatum autem ſuperius ſit timor iudicij terribilis. Inter hæc duo lingua animæ verſari debet, quæ vero eſt lingua animæ, niſi frequens conſideratio miſericordiæ meæ? Ergo conſidera miſericordiam meam, quomodo te creaui, & redemi, quomodo te paſcor. Cogita etiam quam diſtrictus iudex ſum, qui nihil dimitto impunitum, & cogita quam incerta eſt hora mortis. Oculi animæ ſint ſimplices, ſicut columbæ, quæ circa aquas conſpicit accipitrem, ideſt, cogitatio tua semper sit circa charitatem, & passionem meam, & circa opera, & verba electorum meorum, in quibus intelliges, quomodo te diabolus decipere poterit, vt num quam de te sis secura. Aures tuæ sint mundæ, vt scilicet non affectes audire scurrilia, seu risu digna. Cor vero sit stabile, vt non timeas mortem seruando fidem, non erubescas de opprobrio mundi. Non turberis de damno corporali propter me Deum tuum.

CHRISTVS LOQVENS Sponsæ dicit, quod ipsa debet diligere eum, sicut seruus bonus dominum suum, sicut filius bonus patrem, & sicut fidelis vxor maritum suum, quæ numquam debet ab eo separari. Et exponit omnia supradicta spiritualiter, & vtiliter.

CAP. LXXXIII.

ILIVS LOQVITVR: Ego diligo te, sicut bonus Dominus seruum suum, & sicut pater filium, & sicut vir vxorem. Dominus enim dicit seruo: Dabo tibi vestes, victum congruum, & laborem moderatum. Ad filium autem dicit pater, omnia mea tua sunt. Vxori vero dicit vir, requies mea, requies tua, & consolatio mea, consolatio tua est. Quid igitur isti tres respondebunt pro tanta dilectione? vtique seruus, si bonus est, dicturus est domino, quia seruilis sum conditionis, magis tibi seruiam, quam alteri. Filius vero dicturus est patri, quia omne bonum habeo a te, ideo a te separari nolo. Vxor autem dicet marito, quia de labore tuo sustentor, calorem de pectore tuo habeo, & dulcedinem in verbis, ideo magis mori volo, quam a te separari. Ego autem Dominus sum vir iste: Anima vero est sponsa mea, quæ consolari debet in requie mea, reficiendo cibo Deitatis meæ, ad quam pertinet omnia tormenta magis sustinere, quia se a me separare, quia sine me non habet consolationem, nec honorem. Sed ad coniugium duo pertinent: Primo bona, vnde coniuges sustententur: Secundo filios, qui recipiat eorum hæreditatem. Seruus vero sit ad obsequium faciendum, sicut legitur de Abraham, qui ex eo, quod non habuit filio turbebatur. Itaque anima tunc habet bona sustentationis, quando virtutibus plena est. Habet etiam filium, quando habet ratione discretionis, scilicet discernendi virtutes a vitijs, & quando discernit secundum Deum. Habet & seruum, idest carnalem affectum, qui non vivit secundum concupiscentiam carnis, sed prout expedit corpori, & secundum quod anima perficiatur, igitur ego diligo te sicut vir vxorem, quia requies mea requies tua. Ideo tuum est omnem tribulationem magis libenter sustinere, quam me ad iram prouocare. Diligo quoque te sicut pater filium, qua tibi dedi discretionem, & liberam voluntatem. Diligo etiam te sicut dominus seruum, cui præcepi habere necessaria moderata, & laborem temperatum. Sed hic seruus, idest corpus ita insensatum est, quod magis velit seruire diabolo, quam mihi, quia diabolus numquam dat requiē a solicitudinibus mundi.

CHRISTVS LOQVENS Sponsæ dicit, quod sunt tres supplantati per mulieres, quorum vnus assimilatur asino coronato, alius habet cor leporinum, & tertius assimilatur basiliſco. Et ideo debet mulier semper subdita esse viro.

CAP. LXXXIIII.

ILIVS loquitur: Tres leguntur supplãtari propter mulieres. Primus erat rex, quem amasia sua percussit in faciem, quando non arrisit sibi, quia fatuus erat, & non retrenabat eam, nec curabat de honore suo. Iste erat similis asino coronato, asino propter fatuitatem, coronato propter dignitatem. Secundus erat Sampson, qui licet esset fortissimus, tamen a muliere victus est. Iste habuit cor leporinum, quia non potuit domare vnam mulierem. Tertius erat Salomon, qui fuit quasi basiliscus, qui visu interficit, & speculo interficitur. Sic Salomonis sapientia omnes excedebat, attamen facies mulieris occidit ipsum. Ideo oportet quod mulier subdita sit viro.

CHRI-

CHRISTVS LOQVENS
Sponsæ dicit ei, quod ante eum sunt duo folia libri, In vno scripta est triplex misericordia, & in alio iustitia, monens eam, quod dum tẽpus habet conuertatur ad misericordiam, ne postea puniatur a iustitia.

CAP. LXXV.

FILIVS LOQVITVR ad Sponsam. Ego sum creator omnium. Ante me sunt quasi duo folia: In vno scripta est misericordia, in alio iustitia. Itaque quicumque conteritur de peccatis, & proponit vltra non facere huic dicit misericordia, quod spiritus meus accendet eum ad faciendum bona opera. Quicumque vero se vellet libenter separare ab istis vanitatibus mundi, hunc Spiritus meus feruentiorem facit. Cum vero qui paratus est etiam mori pro me, hunc Spiritus meus in tantum inflammabit, quod totus sit in me, & ego in eo. In alio autem folio scripta est iustitia, quæ dicit: Quicumque se nõ emendat cum tempus habet, & scienter se quærit a Deo, hunc Pater non defendet, nec propitiabitur ei Filius, nec inflammabit Spiritus sanctus. Ideo cum tempus est, diligenter considera folium misericordiæ, quia aut aqua, aut igne purgabitur omnis qui saluabitur, id est, aut modico pœnitentiæ labore in præsenti tempore, aut igne purgatorio in futuro, donec purgatus fuerit. Scias etiam, quod ostendi vni homini quem tu nosti, illa duo folia libri misericordiæ, & iustitiæ, sed ipse iam deridet folium misericordiæ meæ, & quod finistrum est, reputat esse dexterum. Et sicut herodius super aues, sic ipse ascendere quærit super omnes, & ideo timendum est sibi, nisi cauerit diligẽter, quod ridendo morietur, & ludenti bus de mundo auferetur. Sic etiam possunt hoc cuenit, ferre xit enim a nausa lætus, & nocte ab inimicis interfectus est.

MATER DEI LOQVITVR
dicens, quod ipsa est similis flori, a quo apes trahunt dulcedinem. Apes enim sunt serui, & electi Dei, qui quotidie ab ea trahunt dulcedinem gratiæ, & habent spirituales alas, & pedes.

CAP. LXXXVI.

MATER LOQVITVR. Ego sum regina, & mater misericordiæ. Filius meus creator omnium, tanta circa me dulcedine affectus est, quod omniũ quę creata sunt, spiritualem dedit mihi intelligentiam. Ideo ego similima sum flori, de quo apes maxime trahunt dulcedinem. A quo quantumcumque colligitur, nihilominus ei dulcedo remanet. Sic ego omnibus gratiã impetrare possum, & ego superabundo. Verumetiam electi mei similes sunt apibus, qui tota deuotione circa honorem meum afficiuntur. Ipsi enim quasi apes habent duos pedes, scilicet continuum desiderium augendi honorem meũ, secundo laborant in hoc sollicite, operando quæ possunt. Habent etiam duas alas, scilicet reputando se indignos laudare me, secundo obediendo omnibus, quæ sunt ad honorem meum. Habent etiam aculeum, qui si defecerit eis moriuntur. Sic amici Dei, habent tribulationes mundi, quæ ante finem vitæ propter virtutum custodiam non auferuntur ab eis, sed ego abundans consolatione consolabor eos.

CHRISTVS LOQVITVR
Sponsę dicens, quod ipsa debet habere mẽbra pulchra, & sine macula, comparans omnia membra spiritualiter perfectæ dilectioni Dei, & proximorum, & præsertim amicorũ Dei. Concludit etiam quod debeat facere spiritualiter sicut Fenix facit corporaliter, quæ colligit ligna, & ibidem seipsam comburit.

CAP. LXXXVII.

FILIVS loquitur Sponsæ. Dixi tibi prius, quod debes habere oculos serenos, vt videas mala quæ fecisti, dicit quod amici eius sunt, quasi brachium eius ex eo, quod ipse, sicut bonus medicus abscidit ab eis carnem putridam, & omnia nociua, & coniungit carnem bonam eius transformando eos in se.

CAP. XC.

ILIVS. Loquitur. Amici mei sunt, quasi brachium meum. In brachio sunt quinque scilicet pellis, seu cutis sanguis, ossa, caro, & medulla. Sed ego sum sicut sapiens medicus, qui primo abscindit omnia inutilia, postea vnit carnem carni, & os ossi, inde apponit medicamentum sanitatis. Sic ego feci eisdem amicis meis. Primo absoluli ab eis omnem cupiditatem mundi, & illicita carnis desideria. Inde coniunxi medullam meam medullæ eorum. Quæ est medulla mea, nisi potentia Deitatis meæ? Sicut enim sine medulla omnis homo mortuus est, sic qui non communicat Deitati meæ moritur. Nunc igitur ego tunc coniunxi infirmitati eorum quando sapientia mea sapit eis, & frochificat in eis, quando anima eorum intelligit facienda, & omittenda. Ossa vero significant fortitudinem meam, hanc ego coniunxi fortitudini eorum, quando facio eos fortes ad faciendum bona. Sanguis vero significat voluntatem, hanc ego coniunxi voluntati eorum quando voluntas eorum est secundū velle meum, & quando nihil desiderant nec quærunt, nisi me solum. Caro significat patientiam meam, hanc ego coniunxi patientiæ eorum, quando patientes sunt, sicut ego fui, quando à planta pedis vsque ad verticem non habui sanitatem. Pellis vero significat dilectionem, hanc ego mihi coniunxi, quando nihil tantum diligunt, sicut me, & libenter cum adiutorio meo etiam volunt mori pro me.

Sponsam, quòd debeat se humiliare quadruplicater, vt patet coram potentibus mundi, & coram peccatoribus, ac etiam coram amicis Dei spiritualibus, & coram pauperibus mundi.

CAP. XCI.

ILIVS Loquitur ad sponsam. Tu debes quadruplicitèr te humiliare. Primo coram potentibus mundi, quia ex quo homo contempsit obedire Deo, dignum est, vt obediat homini. Et quia sine rectoribus homo stare non potest. Ideo deferendum est potestati. Secundo coram spiritualibus pauperibus, idest coram peccatoribus, orando pro eis, & regratiando Deo, quia forte non fuisti, nec es talis. Tertio coram spiritualibus diuitibus, id est, coram amicis Dei, cogitando te indignam seruire eis, & conuersari cum eis. Quarto coram pauperibus mundi, iuuando, & vestiendo eos, & lauando pedes eorum.

Sponsam, quod progrediatur, & perseueret in virtutibus, imitando vitam sanctorum, vt efficiatur brachium eius, probat enim quod sancti transformatiue efficiuntur brachium Christi.

CAP. XCII.

ILIVS LOQVITVR.

1 a Dixi tibi prius, quod amici mei sunt brachiū meum. Vere sic est in eis. Est enim Pater, & Filius, & Spiritus sanctus, & Mater mea cum omni cælesti exercitu.

2 a. Deitas quippe est, sicut medulla, sine qua nemo viuit. Ossa sunt humanitas mea, quæ fortis fuit ad passionē. Spiritus sanctus vero est, sicut sanguis, quia implet, & lætificat vniuersa. Mater vero mea est, sicut caro, in qua fuit deitas, & humanitas, & Spiritus sanctus. Pellis autem, aut

3 aut cutis, eſt omnis cæleſtis exercitus. 3. Sicut enim pellis tegit carnem, ſic Mater mea omnes ſanctos præcellit virtute: Nam licet Angeli mundi ſunt, mundior eſt tamen ipſa, & licet prophetæ impleti fuerũt ſpiritu Dei. Martyres quoque multa paſſi, plenior tamen, & feruentior fuit in Matre mea ſpiritus, ipſaque pluſquam martyr fuit. Confeſſores etiã, & ſi ſe ab omnibus fuiſſi mouerunt, perfectiorem tamen abſtinentiã habuit Mater mea, quia in ipſa fuit deitas mea cum humanitate. Ergo amici mei ſũ me habent, in eis eſt deitas qua anima viuit. Et fortitudo humanitatis meæ, qua fortes fiunt, vſque ad mortem. Et ſanguinis ſpiritus mei, quo voluntas eorum fit mobilis ad omne bonum. Caro quoque eorum tunc impleta eſt ſanguine meo, & carne mea, quando noluut inquinari, ſeruantes ſe in caſtitate cooperante gratia mea. Pellis quoque mea eſt coniuncta pelli eorum, quando vitam, & mores ſanctorum meorum imitantur. Sic ergo ſancti mei bene vocantur brachium meum, quorum, & tu eſſici debes membrum per voluntatem progrediendi in bono, & eos inquantum poteris imitando. Sicut enim coniungo eos mihi per corporis mei coniunctionem, ſic tu eis coniungi debes, & mihi, per idem corpus meum.

1 DIxi tibi prius, quod amici mei ſunt brachium meum.

Merito in præſenti capite amici Dei brachia Domini dicuntur, quoniam ſicut cum eorum exterminatione mãus colligũntur, quibus velut inſtrumentis quibuſdam opera noſtra perficimus, ſic ſancti ſunt, quorum miniſterio Deus ad faciendum quid quid humanam ſaluti prodeſſe poteſt vtitur, ab his vero brachia ſpicas eſſe quærendas, ac colligendas tradit Iſaias Propheta cap. 17. quod nõ aliud ſignificare docent D. Hieron. ibi, & Theodoretus de verus & falſis oraculis lib. 10. non longe a fine quam per Apoſtolos, & concionatores, Inuitos, ac Gentes ipſa ſancti erudios. ab his quoque brachia populorum iudicandos eſſe idem propheta aſſeruit ca. 5. Ioannis Reuelat. quandoquidem cum ſanctis in vltimo iudicio Deus iudicaturus eſt mundum, vt aſſerat Paulus Apoſtolus 1. Corint. 6. an ſcitis quoniam ſancti de hoc mundo iudicabunt? & Matth. 19. & Luce 22. vos qui ſecuti eſtis me ſedebitis ſuper ſedes duodecim iudicantes duodecim tribus Iſrael, & cap. 3. iudicabunt iuſti nationes, quod eſſe intelligendum arbitror, vel de vitio approbationis: vel quod in locis citatis verbum iudicare ſumitur pro condemnare ſic Hieron. Matth. 19. vel quod ſancti iudicare dicuntur non aliter, quam per compunctionem, quia illis credentibus eorum errata noluerunt, ſic Hieron. & Auctor operis imperfecti. Aut poſſumus iudices futuri ſint, inquam Chriſti miniſtri, & præcones, eius ſententiam promulgantes.

2 Deitas quippe eſt, ſicut medulla, ſine qua nemo viuit, oſſa ſunt humanitas mea, quæ fortis fuit ad paſſionem.

Optime hoc loco Deitas medullæ comparatur, oſſa vero humanitati Chriſti, quoniam ſicut medulla intra oſſa continetur, ſic quoque tota diuinitas in Chriſti humanitate includebatur, iuxta illud Apoſtoli ad Coloſſ. 2. in quo habitat omnis plenitudo diuinitatis corporaliter: dicitur autem ſeruatoris noſtri humanitas os, quòniam per eam ſic ſe contra dæmonem, & Iudæorum, ac aliorum perſequentium ictus oppoſuit, vt nullo vnquam tempore frangi potuerit, immo de illis per patientiã triumphum retulerit, tum quia hac fortitudine tantum ſanctæ Matri Eccleſiæ robur promeruit, vt portæ inferi contra eam deinceps prævalere nunquam poſſint, ſicut ſcribitur Matth. 16. de hac ergo fortitudine circa finem præſentis capitis ſermo fit, cum dicitur tenta eſt fortitudo humanitatis mea, vt amici mei fortes fiant vſque ad mortem.

3 Sicut enim pellis tegit carnẽ, ſic Mater mea omnes præcellit virtute, nam licet Angeli mundi ſint, mundior tamen eſt ipſa, &c.

Ex verbis huius notæ euidenter colligitur, Mariam Virginem Angelos puritate, prophetas Spiritus ſancti plenitudine, Martyres fortitudine, confeſſores abſtinentia, cæteroſque ſanctas virtute præcellere cuius ratio reddi poteſt, quoniam cum Chriſtus ſit totius gratiæ principium, vt Ioan. 1. ſcribitur, gratia & veritas per Ieſum Chriſtum facta eſt, ipſa vero ei vicinior Chriſto fuerit, quippe quæ eum geſtauit in vtero, vbi ille humanã accepit naturam, ex quo deinde factum eſt, quod præ cæteris Maria gratiæ plenitudinem obtinuerit: verum eſt enim celebratum illud Axioma, quod quanto magis aliquid ſub approximante principio, tanto magis effectum eius particeps ſit, & hoc eſt quod dicitur hic paulo poſt verba huius notæ (nemo enim perfectiorem habuit abſtinentiam Matre mea, quia in ipſa fuit deitas mea cum humanitate) quod egregie explanauit Petrus Damianus in ſerm. ſuper illud Matth. Liber generationis Ieſu Chriſti quid mirum inquit ſi hac inſtatuit Virgo in ſuis laudibus humana vocis modum exuperat, cum & ipſam humani generis naturam excellentium ciuium dignitates tranſcendat, non enim excellentiſſimus ille patriarcharum chorus, non præcipuus prophetarum numerus, non ſacer Apoſtolorum ſenatus, non Martyrum victor exercitus, non aliquis aliquorum, non quiſquam ſequentium Patrum huic beatiſſimæ Virgini deeſſe potuit, quæ totius diuinæ gratiæ charismate plena fuit, & paulo poſt dicit, nec mirum ſi cunctorum merita tranſcendit mortalium quoniam & ipſa ſuper excedit celſitudinem Angelorum: idem habet S. Idelphonſus ſerm. 7. de Aſſumpt. qui Mariam honoratiorem Cherubin, & Seraphin eſſe tradit tradit: hoc etiam confirmant Anſelmus de excellentia Virg. cap. 2. Epiphanius Serm. de Laudibus Mariæ, Bernard. Serm. de Aſſumpt. Greg. Nazianz. in tragedia Chriſtus patiens, Caniſius de B. Virg lib. 5. cap. 4.

CHRISTVS LOQVITVR

Sponſæ; præcipiens ei tria, ſcilicet quod nihil deſideret, niſi victum & veſtitum, quod ſpiritualia non cupiat habere, niſi ad voluntatem Dei. Et de nullis cõtriſtetur, niſi de peccatis ſuis & aliorum, dicit etiã quod illi, qui in hac vita peccata ſua per auſteritatem pœnitentiæ purgare, & emendare noluerint, in diuino iudicio grauiſſime punientur.

CAP. XCIII.

ILIVS loquitur: Tria præcipio tibi, ſcilicet nihil deſiderare, præter victum, & veſtitum. Secundo ſpiritualia non concupiſcere, niſi ad voluntatẽ meam. Tertio de nullis contriſtari, niſi de peccatis tuis, & aliorum. Si enim dolere volueris, conſidera diſtrictionem iudicij mei, quam perpendere, & timere poteris in quodam homine iam iudicato, qui ingreſſus monaſterium tria habuit in animo, ſcilicet, vt eſſet ſine labore, & vt haberet victualia ſine ſollicitudine: tertiõ cogitauit, ſi apprehendit me tentatio carnis, euadere potero per aliquam occaſionẽ ſine commixtione. Propterea tripliciter afflictus eſt. Quia enim voluit eſſe ſine labore, ideo verbis, & verberibus coactus eſt ad laborem. Pro ſecundo patiebatur defectum in victualibus & nuditatem: tertio fuit deſpectus ab omnibus, intantum quod non potuit in luxuria delectari. Inſtante vero tempore profeſſionis, cogitauit ſecum ſic: Quia, inquit, non potero eſſe in mundo ſine labore, ideo melius eſt mihi eſſe in monaſterio, & laborare pro Deo. Propterea cooperante tali voluntate, venit ad eum miſericordia mea, cum iuſtitia, vt purgatus veniret ad gloriam ſempiternam. Nam facta profeſſione, ſtatim infirmitate graui percuſſus eſt, & intantum tribulatus eſt, quod oculi præ dolore exierunt. Aures nihil audierunt, & in omnibus membris deſtitutus eſt, quia voluit ſine labore eſſe. Patiebatur & nuditatem maiorem quam in ſæculo, & cum haberet delicatiora non potuit ea comedere, & cum natura requirebat non habebat illa. Sic quoque natura eius conſumpta fuit ante mortem, quod factus eſt quaſi inhabilis truncus. Mortuus vero venit ad iudicium quaſi fur, quia voluit eſſe in religione ad voluntatem ſuam, non ad melius viuendum, ſed tamen non debuit iudicari vt fur, quia licet puer, & fatuus fuit in ratione, & conſcientia, attamen fidem & ſpem habebat in me Deum ſuum, & ideo ad miſericordiã iudicatus fuit. Cuius peccatum, quia in pœna corporali ad plenum purgari non potuit, ideo anima eius adhuc ita grauiter punitur in purgatorio, ac ſi cutis extracto oſſe in prælo poneretur, vt medulla melius extorqueretur. Quid igitur paſſuri ſunt illi, qui omnem proceſſum vitæ ſuæ in peccato habent, & nihil contrarij habent, nec habere volunt? Væ eis, quia ipſi mihi dicunt, quare mortuus eſt Deus, aut quæ vtilitas eſt in morte eius? Hæc mihi repẽdunt, quia redemi eos, quia ſeruo eos, quia do eis ſanitatem, & neceſſaria eorum. Et ideo exquirã ab eis iudicium, ex eo quod fregerunt fidem quam vouerunt in baptiſmo. Et ex eo, quod quotidie delinquunt, contemnendo mandata mea. Nec aliquod minimum ad quod obligantur in religione, dimittam impunitum.

Declaratio.

Hic frater occultum habuit peccatum, quod nunquam voluit confiteri. Ad quem ex mandato Chriſti beata Birgitta acceſſit dicens: pœnitere attentius, eſt tibi aliquid occultum in corde, quod quamdiu clauſum tenueris, mori non poteris. Cui reſpondit ille, ſe nihil habere quod in pœnitentia non eſſet publicatum. Et illa: Inquire, inquit, qua intentione hucuſque vixiſti, & inuenies in corde tuo veritatem. Tunc reſolutus in lacrymas ait: Benedictus Deus, qui te miſit ad me. Iam enim ex quo tu ex ſecreto meo locuta es, dicere volo audientibus veritatem. Ego enim quoddam occultum habeo in corde, quod prodere numquam audebam nec poteram, quia quoties pœnitui de alijs peccatis, de iſto quaſi ſemper lingua mea erat ligata, & nimius etiam pudor inuaſit me, ne confiterer abſconditũ remorſum cordis mei. Ideo quoties confeſſionem cordis mei feci, inueni mihi nouam concluſionem verborum meorum, dicens: O pater, confiteor vobis culpam meam de omnibus quæ vobis dixi, & etiam de alijs, quæ non dixi, credens per hãc concluſionem omnia ſecreta mea dimitti. Sed nunc Domina mea, ſi placeret Deo, libenter dicerem toti mundo, ea quæ in corde meo, plene tanto tempore occultaui igitur Confeſſori. Vocato cum lacrymis omnia peccata illa explicauit, & & eadem nocte mortuus eſt.

CHRISTVS DOCET Sponſam pulchras orationes, quas debet dicere quando induitur, & quã do vadit ad menſam, & ad dormiendum, monens eam, quod in omnibus veſtimentis ſuis ſit humilis, & in mẽbris ſuis honeſta, & moderata.

CAP. XCIIII.

ILIVS Dei loquitur ad Sponſam, dicens: Pulchritudo exterior, ſignificat pulchritudinem interiorem, quam homo debet habere. Ideo cum imponis tibi victam, ſeu velum capitis, qua ſtringuntur capilli. Dicito: O Domine Deus gratias ago tibi, quia ſuppor taſti me in peccato meo, & quia per incontinentiam meam non ſum digna videre te, ideo velo capillos meos. Et adiunxit Dominus: In tantum eſt abominabilis mihi incontinentia, quod etiam quæcumque virgo ſi volũtatem habet luxuriandi, non eſt apud me virgo munda, niſi pœnitentia correxerit illam voluntatem. Quando vero velas frontem, dicito: O Domine Deus, qui omnia bene creaſti, & hominem excellentius præ omnibus ad imaginem tuam creaſti, miſerere mei. Et quia non ſeruaui pulchritudinem faciei meæ ad honorem tuũ, ideo velo frontem meam. Cum vero attrahis calceos dicito: Benedictus ſis tu Deus mens, qui præcipis mihi habere calceos, vt ſim fortis, & non tepida in ſeruitio tuo, confor ta igitur me, vt in mandatis tuis poſſim ambulare. In cęteris etiam veſtimentis tuis omnibus humilitas ſit, & in omnibus membris tuis honeſtas moderata. Cum vero ad mẽſam accedis, dicito: O Domine Deus, ſi velles ſicut potes me ſine cibo ſubſiſtere, libenter rogarem te, nunc autem quia præcipis nos cibum ſumere cum diſcretione, rogo te da mihi cõtinentiam in cibo, vt per gratiam tuam poſſim comedere ſecundum naturæ neceſſitatem, & non ſicut cupiditas carnis petit. Cum autem accedis ad ſomnum, dicito: Benedictus ſis tu Deus, qui temporum viciſſitudines diſponis nobis ad alleuiationem, & ſolatium animæ & corporis, rogo te da corpori meo requiem in hac nocte, & ſerua me illæſam a poteſtate, & illuſione inimici.

CHRISTVS LOQVENS Sponſæ, declarat ei, quæ, & qualia ſunt arma iniquorũ, qui ſi glorificauerint ſe in peccato cum volũtate in eo perſeuerandi, gladio ſeueritatis diuinę iuſtitię terribiliter conſumentur.

CAP. XCV.

ILIVS Dei loquitur: Ego ſto quaſi rex prouocatus ad pugnam. Diabolus autem ſtat contra me cum exercitu ſuo. Verum intentio, & ſtabilitas propoſiti mei eſt talis, quod antequam a iuſtitia diſcederem ad vnum punctum, prius cælum & terra, & omnia quæ in eis ſunt, caderent.
1 Diaboli vero intẽtio talis eſt, quod priuſ quã ſe humiliaret, prius vellet vt eſſent toc inferni quot ſunt athomi in ſole, & vnũ cum alio ſine fine ſuſtinere. Itaque inimici mei aliqui appropinquant ad iudicium, & non eſt diſtantia inter nos pluſquam ad duos pedes. Vexillum eorum erectum eſt, clypeus eſt in brachio, manus ad gladium, ſed nondum extractus eſt.
2 Tantaque eſt patientia mea, quod niſi ipſi prius percutiant intõ percutiam ego. In vexillo autem inimicitria ſunt, gula, cupiditas, & luxuria. Quorum galea eſt duritia cordis eorum, quia non attendunt pœnam inferni, nec attendunt quam abominabile eſt peccatum. Foramina galeæ ſunt voluptas carnis, & volũtas placere mundo. Per talia enim diſcurrunt circumquaque, & vident non videnda.
Clypeus vero eorum eſt perfidia, qua excuſant peccatum, & imputant fragilitati carnis, ideo pro nihilo ducunt petere veniã pro peccatis. Gladius vero eorum eſt voluntas perſeuerandi in peccato, qui nondum extractus eſt, quia nondũ completa eſt malitia eorum. Tunc vero extrahitur gladius, quando volunt tamdiu peccare, quanto tempore viuere poſſent. Tunc vero percutiunt quando gloriantur de peccato, & optant in ſtatu peccati permanere. Cũ igitur ſic completa fuerit eorum malitia, tunc vox in exercitu meo clamabit, dicens, percute nunc. Et tunc gladius ſeueritatis meæ conſumet eos, & quilibet ſicut armatus eſt, ſuſtinebit pœnam. Quorum animas rapient dæmones, qui ſicut rapaces aues non quærunt bonum temporale, ſed animas, quas ſine ceſſatione laniabunt.

NO-

NOTAE.

1 DIaboli vero intentio talis eſt, quod priuſquam ſe humiliaret prius vellet eſſet tot infernos quot ſunt athomi in Sole.

Diabolum nullo vnquam ſui delicti pœnitere poſſe legimus. etiam ſupra lib. 1. Reuelat. cap. 34. & ibi nota ſeptima reiecimus ſententiam Origenis, qui lib. 1. Periarchon cap. 6. contrariam ſententiam ſequitur, vnde autem huiuſmodi obſtinatio oriatur declaranimus ex mente S. Thomæ, & Scoti nota ſupra citata.

1 Tantaque eſt patientia mea, quod niſi prius percuſſerint non percutiam eos.

Cum Dei proprium ſit miſereri potius, & parcere, quam flagellis homines cædere, mirum non eſt, quod ipſe nobis minime inferat pœnas, niſi eum prius peccatis noſtris prouocauerimus ad iram: pœnitentiam inquit D. Hilarius in pſalm. 2. memorat Deus ad pœnam, quia puniri deſinerent, qui eſſe impij deſtiterunt, & hoc eſt quod legimus hic, quod niſi ipſi prius percuſſerint, non percutiam ego, ſignanter autem verbum percuſſerint apponitur, quoniam ſic Deus odio habet peccata, vt cum ea homines committunt, exiſtimet ab his ſe eſſe percuſſum, ſecundum illud Apoſtoli hebreorum 6. rurſus crucifigentes ſibi met ipſis filium Dei, idem habetur lib. 1. Reuelat. c. 37. non longe ab initio ibi, nam licet deitas impaſſibilis ſit, nec mori poſſet tamen cum propria manu crucifigunt eum. Hoc ipſum ſatis aperte explicat Ludulphus de vita Chriſti 2. pa. ca 63. his verbis, ſed caue ne tu clauos Crucis Chriſti fabricet, vel manus, aut pedes Domini eius vulneres, aut configas, clauos enim Crucis Chriſti fabricat, qui inter proximos diſcordias ſeminat, manus vero Domini videtur clauis vulnerare, & configere, qui de bonis a Deo datis nõ vult eleemoſinas erogare. pedes autem Chriſti clauis ferreis perforat, qui theatra ſeu ſpectacula, & tabernas magis quam Eccleſias viſitat, ſed hac de re etiam agimus libr. 6. cap. 18. nota ſecunda.

DECLARAT SPONSVS Sponſę quid ſignificat diſtantia duorum pedum, & extractio gladii, de quibus dixerat ſupra in proximo capitulo.

CAP. XCVI.

ILIVS Loquitur. Dixi tibi prius, quod inter inimicos, & me non eſt, niſi diſtantia duorum pedum. Iam enim modo ipſi ad iudicium alio pede appropinquant. Vnus iſtorum pedum eſt remuneratio illorum bonorum operum, quę pro me fecerunt, ideo ab iſto die augebitur infamia, amareſcet delectatio eorum, auferetur gaudium, augmentabitur tribulatio, atque dolor. Secundus vero pes eſt malitia eorum, quæ nondum completa eſt, ſed ſicut dici ſolet, quod quando aliqua res plena eſt, tuno crepat ſic quando anima, & corpus ſeparantur, diiudicatore. Gladius vero eſt voluntas peccandi, qui ad dimidietatem extractus eſt, quia decreſcente honore, & contrariis ſuccedentibus plus anguſtiantur, & inardeſcunt iam ad peccatum. Proſperitas enim, & honor non multum ſinebant eos cogitare de peccato. Nunc autem vt voluptatem ſuam perficiant, optant diutius viuere, & licentius iam apponunt peccare. Ve eis quia niſi ſe emendauerint perditio eorum, iam appropinquat.

CHRISTVS LOQVENS Sponſę de quodam prælato dicit ei, quod anima deuotą, quę perdidit deuotionis, & ſanctæ meditationis calorem, propter ſuperbiam, & cupiditatem ſuam, & propter implicationes mundi humiliando ſe perfectę Deo, & proximo recuperabit diuinum calorem, & lumen, vt ſentiat diuinam dulcedinem.

CAP. XCVII.

ILIVS LOQVITVR per ſponſam cuidam prælato dicens ei. Tu es ſimilis rotæ molendini, quæ immobilis eſt, quæ cum ſtat fixa ſe non mouens, tunc grana in molendino non conterumtur. Rota itaque hęc significat voluntatem tuam, quę deberet ęsse mobilis non ad voluntatem, & desiderium tuum, sed ad meum, totumque relinquere te debes in manus meas. Sed hæc rota nimis immobilis est secundum velle meum, quia aqua terrenæ cogitationis nimis sollicitat mentem tuam. Consideratio vero operum tuorum, & passio mea, quasi mortua est in corde tuo, propter quod cibus animę nō sapit tibi, nec sentitur. Et ideo tu irrumpe trāsitum aquæ obstructum, vt defluat aqua, qua transeunte rota fiat mobilis, & grana faciliter conterentur. Obstaculum autem, quod retentat aquam, superbia mentis, & ambitio est, qua gratia Spiritus sancti obstruitur, & omne bonum quo anima fructificare debet impeditur. Ideo assume veram humilitatem in mente tua, per hanc enim influet dulcedo spiritus mei in animam tuā, & defluet terrena cogitatio. Et hanc etiā voluntas tua mobilis, & perfecta erit ad velle meum. Et tunc incipies opera tua tanquam grana diiudicare, & opera mea pro magno reputare. Quæ autem est vera humilitas, certe non curare fauores, & obloquutiones hominum, viam meam, quæ oblita, & neglecta est incedere, superflua non quærere, simplicioribus te conformare, si hanc viam diligis, tunc sapiunt tibi spiritualia, tunc passio mea, & via sanctorum meorum dulcis erit mente tuæ. Tunc intelliges quantum debitor es animabus quas regere suscepisti. Ergo quia iam in summitate rotę ascendisti duobus pedibus, potentia scilicet & honore. Ideo ex potentia tibi cupiditas, & ex honore est tibi superbia. Propterea descende nunc humiliando te ipsum mē te, & humiles rogando pro te orare. Nam mittam tibi multitudinem meam, quæ spurium rapidissimum, & exigam à te nouissimum quadrantem, rationem scilicet pro affectu, pro cogitatu, pro locutione, & opere. Exigam quoq; animas quas prouidentiæ tuæ commisi, quas ego ipse sanguine meo redemi.

CHRISTVS LOQVENS

Sponsę dicit, quod quatuor iaculis, idest quatuor increpationibus hic contentis, sagittandi sunt peccatores. Et tepidi, vt compungantur, & ad emendationem vitę humiliter reducantur.

CAP. XCVIII.

ILLVS loquitur. Ego dabo amicis meis quatuor iacula. Primo sagittandus ē ille, qui altero oculo cecus est. Secundo, qui altero pede claudus est. Tertio qui alia aure surdus est. Quarto, qui prostratus iacet in terra. Ille igitur alio oculo cecus est, qui mandata Dei, & opera sanctorum meorum videt, & non attendit. Videt vero delectabilia Mūdi, & cōcupiscit. Hic talis sagittādus est isto modo dicēdo ei sic. 1 Tu similis es lucifero, qui vidit summā pulchritudinē Dei, sed quia iniuste desiderauit, quod non debuit, ideo descendit in infernum, ad quem, & tu descendes, nisi resipueris. ex eo quod intelligis præcepta Dei, & quod omnia transitoria sunt in mundo. Ideo consultissimum est tibi tenere certum, & dimittere trāsitorium, ne descendas in infernum. Ille vero alio pede claudus est, qui pœnitet, & conteritur de peccatis cōmissis, sed laborat ad acquirendum terrena cōmoda, & lucra, quę mūdi sunt, hic sagittandus est taliter. Tu laboras pro commodo corporis, quod vermes comesturi sūt citius. Ideo labora fructuose pro anima tua, quæ in æternum est victura. Ille vero alia aure surdus est, qui audire desiderat verba mea, & sanctorum meorum, sed aliam aurē habet apertam ad scurrilia, & ad ea quæ sūt mundi, ideo dicatur ei. Tu es similis Iudæ, qui audiuit vna aure verba Dei, & per aliā exierunt: ideo non profuit sibi sermo auditus. Propterea claude aures tuas à vano auditu, vt ad Angelicos cantus possis peruenire. Ille vero iacet totus in terra, qui terrenis implicatur, sed tamen cogitat, & vellet scire viam, per quam se emendare posset. isti dicatur taliter. Tempus istud breue est, quasi punctus, pœna gero interni eterna, & gloria sanctorum perpetua. Ideo vt ad vitā veram peruenias nō sit tibi molestum aliquid assumere graue, & amarum, quia sicut Deus pius est, sic est, & iustus. Quicunque igitur sic sagittatus fuerit, si sagitta de corde eius exierit sanguinea, idest quod iste vere compungatur, & proponat se emēdare, huic ego immittam oleum gratiæ meæ, qua omnia membra eius conualescent.

1 TV similis es lucifero, qui vidit summã pulchritudinem Dei.

Quomodo intelligendum sit, quod legimus hic luciferum vidisse pulchritudinem Dei tradidimus lib. 1. Reuelat. cap. 14. nota 3. & cap. 41. nota 3. quibus locis docuimus dæmones ante lapsum nullã tenus habuisse matutinam cognitionem & beatificã visionem, qua per lumen gloriæ sancti in Patria diuinam essentiam intuentur, sed hoc diximus esse interpretandum de visione diuina quam diabolus habuit reflectendo se ad considerandam nobilitatẽ, & pulchritudinem suæ naturæ per quam manuducebatur ad cognitionem Dei prout est omnium creaturarum auctor, & moderator.

Sponsæ conqueritur de Iudæis crucifixoribus, & conqueritur etiam de Christianis contemnentibus eum, & eius charitatem, & iustitiam, peccando præsumptuose, & scienter contra mandata eius, & spernẽtes sententias excommunicationis Ecclesiæ sub prætextu misericordiæ eius propter, quod comminatur eis cum ira, & furore iustitiæ suæ.

CAP. XCIX.

MATER Loquitur. Isto tempore patiebatur filius meus, qui appropinquante Iuda traditore suo inclinauit se ad eum, quia Iudas breuis staturæ erat, dans ei osculum dicens. Amice ad quid venisti? Et statim alij rapuerunt eum, alij traxerunt eum per crines, alij spuris detorpabant eum. Deinde
1 loquebatur filius dicens. 1. Ego reputor, quasi vermis qui quasi mortuus in hyeme iacet, in quẽ transeũtes expuunt, & calcant in dorso eius. Sic fecerũt mihi Iudæi hodie quasi vermi, quia abiectissimus, & indignissimus ab eis iudicatus sum. Sic. & Christiani contẽnunt me, quia omnia illa, quæ pro charitate eis feci, & pertuli, reputant pro vanitate. Calcant quoque quasi in dorso meo, quando plus timent, & venerãtur hominem quã me Deum suum, quando iustitiam meam reputant pro nihilo, & in arbitrio suo constituunt tempus, & modum miserationis meæ. Percutiunt quoque me, quasi in dentes quãdo auditis præceptis meis, & passione mea dicunt. Faciamus in præsenti quicquid delectat nos, & nihilominus habebimus cælestia. Si enim perdere aut in æternum punire nos vellet Deus, non creasset nos, & nõ redemisset nos tam amare. Ideo sentient iustitiam meam, quia sicut nec minimum
2 bonum erit irremuneratum, sic nec minimũ malum erit impunitum. 2. Contemnunt etiam me, quasi conculcantes me, quando non attendunt iuditia Ecclesiæ, scilicet excõmunicationem, ideo sicut excommunicati publice ab alijs deuitatur, sic ipsi separabuntur à me, quia excommunicatio quando scitur, & contemnitur, grauius nocet quam gladius corporalis, ideo ego, qui quasi vermis videor nunc reuiuiscere volo, per 3 terribile iuditium meum. 3. & veniam sic terribilis quam videntes dicent montibus. Cadite super nos à facie iræ Dei.

NOTAE.

1 EGo reputor, quasi vermis, qui quasi mortuus in hyeme iacet.

Hoc loco Christus Saluator noster conqueritur tum de Iudæis, tum etiam malis Christianis, qui illum contemnentes eiusque iustitiã, & charitatem flocci facientes eum vermi similes faciunt: qua similitudine plures etiam ex sanctis Patribus vsi sunt D. Augustinus in exposit. psal. 21. ad eum versum ego sum vermis, & non homo, & epistola 120. latissime ad Honoratum in qua plurima, quæ ad huius psalmi interpretationem faciunt affert, idem habet Origen. hom. 14. super Lucam D. Dyonisius de cælesti hierarch. cap. 2. D. Hieron. & alij plures super citatum psal. idem quoque nos annotauimus supra lib. 2. Reuelat. cap. 26. nota 4.

2 Contemnunt etiam me, quasi conculcantes me, quando non attendunt iuditia Ecclesiæ scilicet excommunicationem: Ideo sicut excommunicati publice ab alijs deuitantur, sic ipsi separabuntur a me.

In præsenti nota de his agitur, qui ecclesiasticas censuras negligunt, duo autẽ Christus Dominus dicit; primum qui dẽ eos, qui excõmunicationẽ contẽnunt, ipsum met Deũ cõtemnere, quandoquidẽ ille ab eo manat qui ab ipso Deo potestatẽ excõmunicãdi habet. Postremo affirmat peccatores à Christo separari, sicut publice excommunicati ab alijs separantur, & deuitantur, quod intelligendum esse arbitror de nominatim excommunicatis, ac denunciatis iuxta Constitutionem Concilij Constantiensis sub Martino Quinto, vt probat Conanuius in cap. Alma Mater §. 22. numero nono, & Sotus in 4. distinctione 22. quæstione prima, articulo 4. col prima. Siluester Verb. Excommunic. 5. numero 7. & alij plures, vel etiam de notorijs Clericorum percussoribus.

3 var. lect. Et veniam sic terribilis, quam videntes dicent montibus, cadite super nos a facie iræ Dei.

Hunc textum cum manuscripto Faræsiano sic restituendum esse censeo, Et veniam sic terribilis, vt videntes dicturi sint Montibus, Cadite super nos a facie iræ Dei. Hæc autem eadem verba dicta fuisse à Christo Domino, patet Lucæ 23. quo loco Saluator noster insinuare volut, Iudæos, qui illi mortem intulerant, præ calamitatum multitudine, ac magnitudine, quæsturos aliquando abditissima terræ loca, in quibus sese absconderent, & imminentia pericula vitarent, & quid tunc dicturos esse montibus, Cadite super nos. Quod factum esse arbitror, quando a Tito, & Vespasiano Imperatoribus ciuitas Hierosolymitana funditus est euersa, totque Iudæorum millia ab illis exquisitis tormentorum generibus fuere trucidati, & quoniam vt annotauit Gloss. Lucæ 23. illa miseria Iudæorum figura fuit miseriæ super incredulos venturæ in vniuersali iudicio: ideo Christus eadem verba repetit, idem hoc loco significare volens, quamæ nimirum in pijs calamitates, nouissimis temporibus superuenturæ sint, & quam terribile vniuersale iudicium futurum sit, vt mirum cuique videri non debeat si dicat hic, quod reuiniscere velit per terribile iudicium, quodque venturus sit sic terribilis, vt videntes dicturi sint montibus, Cadite super nos a facie iræ Dei.

Sponsæ dicit ei, quod ipsa est quasi fistula Spiritus sancti, per quam ipse dulcem sonum faciet in mundo ad honorem suum, & vtilitatem gentium, propter quod ipse vult eam extra deargentare bonis moribus & sapientia; intus vero deaurare vera humilitate, & cordis munditia.

CAP. C.

ILIVS loquitur ad Sponsam: Tu debes esse quasi fistula, per quam fistulator dulcem facit sonum. Qui autem possessor fistulæ est, deargentat eam exterius, vt videatur pretiosior, intus vero deaurat auro perfecto rantii. Sic & tu deargentata debes esse bonis moribus, & humana sapientia, vt intelligas quid debeas Deo, quidve proximo tuo, quid vero expedit animæ tuæ, & quid corpori ad æternam salutem. Intus autem debes esse deaurata per humilitatem, vt scilicet nulli placere appetas nisi mihi, nec displicere timeas hominibus propter me.

Deinde fistulator tria facit fistulæ suæ. Primo inuoluit eam syndone ne maculetur. Secundo facit ei coopertorium in quo custodiatur. Tertio facit coopertorio seram, ne a fure auferatur. Sic tu inuolui debes mundicia, vt nec affectu, nec delectatione veiis amplius inquinari, sed labora libenter, vt possis esse sola, quia corrumpit bonos mores conuersatio malorum. Sera vero est diligens custodia sensuum tuorum, & interiorum omnium, vt in omnibus actibus tuis attēdas, ne astutia diaboli decipiaris. Clauis vero est Spiritus sanctus, qui cor tuum aperiat, prout mihi placuerit, ad honorem meum, & hominum vtilitatem.

MATER DEI LOQVITVR diceas, quod cor filij tui est suauissimum, mundissimum, & dulcissimum, & in tantum abundans charitate, quod etiam si peccator staret ad portas perditionis, si clamaret ad eum voluntate se emendandi, statim liberaretur, perueniatur ad cor Dei per humilitatem veræ contritionis, & per deuotam, & frequentem considerationem eiusdem passionis.

CAP. CI.

MATER Dei loquitur: Cor filij mei est suauissimum, quasi mel, & mundissimum quasi fons purissimus, quia ab ipso quicquid est virtutis & bonitatis quasi a fonte procedit. Ipse etiam est dulcissimus. Quid enim est dulcius homini sensato, quam considerare charitatem eius in creatione, & redemptione, in labore, & doctrina, in gratia eius & patientia. Eius quippe charitas non est fluida sicut aqua, sed extensa & durabilis, quia charitas eius vsque ad nouissimum manet cum homine, in tantum quod si peccator staret ad fores perditionis, adhuc si inde clamaret cum voluntate emendandi se, eriperetur. Item ad perueniendum ad cor Dei sunt duæ viæ. Prima est humilitas veræ contritionis, & hæc inducit hominem in cor Dei, & in colloquium spirituale. Secunda via est considératio passionis filij mei, quæ remouet duritiam a corde hominis, & facit currere gaudenter ad cor Dei.

OSTENDITVR SPONSAE in visione iudicium vnius animæ cuiusdam religiosi coram Christo iudicante, pro quo beata virgo interpellat, quem diabolus de grauibus peccatis crudeliter accusat.

CAP. CII.

MATER Dei loquitur filio dicens: Quærimonia mea magna est, licet omnia taceas, sed propter iram quę aliter proferam. Respondit filius: Mihi omne iudicium datum est, & oportet me de singulis iudicare. Verum ad iudicem iustum nouem bona pertinent. Primo attente audire. Secundo discernere proposita. Tertio voluntas velle iudicare iuste. Quarto inquirere, qua de causa litigatur. Quinto inquirere quanto tempore lis duraverat, quia grauius damnum est de iudicij dilatione. Sexto inquirere quales testes, si probati, si affirmatiue coniuncti, aut si alter litigantium habet plures testes. Septimo non esse præceps, nec timidus in iudicio, nec timere potestatem, aut damnum, seu dehonestationem propter veritatem. Octauo non curare preces, seu dona aliquorum. Nono esse æquum in iudicando, sic iudicare pauperi sicut diuiti. Ita fratri & filio, sicut extraneo, non facere contra veritatem propter aliquod delectabile mundi. Ergo mater charissima dicito quę vis. Respondit Mater. Duo certant inter se, & in eis sunt duo spiritus, in vno bonus, & in alio malus. Certant vero de emptione sanguinis tui, alter ad occidendum, alius ad vinificandum. In vno est dilectio, & obedientia, in secundo odium & superbia. Fac igitur iudicium. Respondit filius: quot sunt testes cum amico tuo, & quot cum altero? Respondit Mater: Amicus meus habet paucos, alter vero multos habet, qui sciunt veritatem, & audire contemnunt. Respondit filius: Faciam iudicium iustum. Et Mater ait: Amicus meus non conqueritur, sufficit enim sibi sola sui corporis substantia, sed ego quæ Domina sua sum conquæror, ne malitia prævaleat. Respondit Filius: Faciam quæ vis. Sed sicut scis, iudicium corporale præcedere debet spirituale, & nisi fuerit consumatum peccatum, non debet aliquis iudicari. Et Mater: O fili, licet nos omnia sciamus, mus, tamen propter aſtantem quæro, quod & quale in iſto ſit iudicium corporale, quid vero ſpirituale? Et filius: 2 Iudicium, inquit, corporale eſt, vt anima eius celeriter diſcedat a corpore, & manus eius fiat mors eius. Iudicium vero ſpirituale eſt, vt anima eius ſuſpendatur in patibulo inferni, quod non eſt ex funibus, ſed ex igne ardentiſſimo, quia ouis degenerans eſt a grege ſuo. Tunc vnus de religioſis ſancti Auguſtini loquebatur ad iudicem dicens: Domine nihil tibi cum iſto, tu vocaſti eum ad quietem, & ipſe eius oblitus eſt, obedientia ſua fracta eſt, nomen eius ablatum eſt, & opera eius nulla. Reſpondit iudex: Anima eius non eſt præſens in iudicio ad reſpondendum. Cui diabolus dixit: Ego volo reſpondere, ſi tu vocaſti eum a procellis mundi ad quietem, ego vocaui eum de altiſſimo vertice, ſeu cacumine, in profundiſſimam foſſam. Obedientia eius promptiſſima eſt ad me. Nomen eius apud me eſt glorioſum. Cui iudex: Expone, inquit, quid notas. Et dæmon dixit: faciam, licet invitus. Tu vocaſti eum de procellis curarum mundi, ad requiem vitæ ſpiritualis, quaſi ad portum bonum, ſed ipſe reputat hoc quaſi pro nihilo, quia magis appetit ſollicitudines mundi. 3 Altiſſimus vero vertex eſt contritio bona & confeſſio, hanc qui perfecte tenet, ipſe loquitur tecum, qui es potentiſſimus, & attingit ad tuam maieſtatem. De hoc vertice, ſeu cacumine altiſſimo ego præcipitaui eum, quando ipſe peccare proponit vſque in finem, quando peccata reputat pro nihilo, & iuſtitiam tuam pro vanitate. Profundiſſima vero foſſa eſt gula & cupiditas, quia ſicut foſſa profundiſſima non de facili impletur, ſic inſatiabilis 4 eſt cupiditas ſua. 4 Nomen autem eius erat monachus, & nomen monachi eſt cuſtodia ſui, & abſtinentia etiam a licitis. ſed hæc in eo abolita ſunt, & iam vocatur Saul. Sicut enim Saul receſſit ab obedientia, nam obedientia ſua fracta eſt, quia ſicut duæ extremitates ligni fracti non conueniunt propter putredinem eius, ſic nec deſiderium cæleſte, nec diuina charitas, quæ ſunt tamquã duę extremitates, & vniones obedientiæ, conuenire poſſunt in obedientia ſua, quia non obedit niſi ad mundanam vtilitatem, & voluntatem ſuam propriam, & opera ſua ſunt ſecundum opera mea. Quia licet ego non legam Miſſam, nec cantem, nec faciam reliqua ſicut ipſe, tamen quando omnia iſta facit ſecundum velle meum, tunc facit opera mea, & dici poſſunt opera mea. Nam cũ celebrat Miſſas ex preſumptione accedit ad te, & ex præſumptione illa impletur maiori malitia mea. Cantat etiã pro laude hominũ, & cũ ego oſtendo ei dorsũ meũ, ipſe dorſum ſuũ vertit ad me. Et quando ego volo, vertit ventrem ſuum ad ventrem meum, id eſt omnem voluptatem ſuam perficit ſecundum voluntatem meam, & omnia quę facit cauda præſentis vitæ, & propriæ voluntatis facit. Ideo opera eius ſunt opera mea.

Addit. Item anima eadem apparuit cęca, & tremẽs, quam Aethiops quidam inſequebatur, vſquequo veniret ad iudicem, qui reſidere videbatur in throno, grãdi multitudine aſtante. Et dixit Aethiops. O iudex, iudica mihi animam iſtam. Iam ipſa enim perſonaliter eſt præſens, & iam præceſſit iudicium eius corporale. Et addidit Aethiops. Tu, inquit, dixiſti, quod manus eius fieret mors eius, hoc iam factum eſt. Et iudex, hoc dupliciter poteſt intelligi, aut quia operatio mala fuit occaſio mortis eius, aut quia manus eius corporalis abbreuiabat vitam corporis eius. Reſpondit Aethiops, vtrumque verum eſt. Nam vita impudica occidit animam eius, & impatientia aperuit vulnus carnis eius, quo mortuus eſt. Cui iudex: Tu, inquit, accuſaſti animã iſtam prius, quia ſequebatur in omnibus velle tuum, & quia præcipitabas eam de vertice altiſſimo, & quia ventrem ſuum vertebat ad te. Ideo audiamus, quid dicit ipſa anima. Et iudex quaſi vereens ſe ad animã dixit: O anima, tu habuiſti rationem diſcernendi inter bonum & malum. Cur nomen ſacerdotij honorificum ſtraueiſti ſub pedibus tuis? Reſpondit illa: Habui quidem rationem, ſed magis ſequebar velle meum, diſcredens quod ſub ſpecie tam modica, tanta magnitudo occultaretur. Dixit iudex ſecundo: Tu ſciuiſti quod religionis perfectio eſt humilitas, & obedientia, cur ſub ſpecie ouis ingreſſus es lupus? Cui anima, inquit, vt effugerem opprobrium mundi, & quietiorem ducerem vitam. Reſpondit iudex tertio: O frater ſed non meus. Si vidiſti exempla ſanctorum fratrum, & audiſti verba ſanctorum, cur non es illa ſecutus? Reſpondit illa: Omnia illa bona, quæ ego audiui, & vidi, erant mihi odioſa, & oneroſa, quia ſtatui in corde meo magis ſequi volũtatem meam, & mores meos, quam mores Sanctorum. Item iudex dixit quarto: Numquid non frequentabas ieiunia, & orationes, & confeſſiones? Cui anima: Frequentabam, ait, ieiunia & orationes, ſed feci ſicut ille qui dixit, minima vt placeat, ſed ne diſpliceat, abſcondit maiora. Cui iudex, inquit: Numquid non legiſti, quod quilibet homo debet reddere rationem etiam de quadrante, hoc eſt de minimis? Tunc anima quaſi cum maximo eiulatu, ait: Vere Domine legi, & ſciui in conſcientia mea, ſed putaui miſericordiam tuam eſſe ita magnam, quod nolles æternaliter punire. Ideo habui velle pœnitere in ſenectute, ſed dolor & mors ita venerunt ſubito mihi, quod cũ vellem confiteri, perdidi memoriam, ſed & quaſi vinculo quodam erat mea lingua ligata. Tunc clamauit diabolus: O iudex, ecce mirabile video, anima iudicat ſeipſam. Confitetur nunc infructuoſe malum ſuum, & tamen ego non audeo apponere ad eam manum meam ſine iudicio tuo. Reſpondit iudex: Factum eſt, & conſummatum. Quibus dictis, Aethiops & anima quaſi colligati diſparuerunt, & quaſi cũ maximo tonitruo deſcenderunt. Item dixit iudex: Hæc omnia in vno puncto facta ſunt, ſed propter te, vt intelligas, videntur in tempore facta, vt videas, & ſcias, & timeas iuſtitiam Dei.

NOTAE.

1 ET niſi fuerit conſummatum peccatum non debet aliquis iudicari.

Sermo ſit in præſenti Nota de conſummatione peccati in ordine ad conſenſum internum, non vero in ordine ad externum actum, quod vt palam ſit ſciendum eſt, quod licet peccatum illud prorſus conſummatum dicendum videatur, quod ex interna cogitatione ad effectum foris perducitur, & quo ex confeſſo in opus iuxta vt ex illo Iacobi 1. colligi poteſt, vbi ſcribitur, peccatum cum conſummatum fuerit generat mortem, nihilominus ex verbis præſentis Notæ deduci minime debet, externum tantummodo actum malum iudicandum eſſe, quoniam ſi operationes quoque bonæ diſcutiendæ ſunt, ac de his quærendum diligenter, quo fine, quibuſve circumſtantijs facta, ſunt, vt Dauid Pſalm. 74. legitur, cum dicit in perſona Chriſti: Cum accepero tempus ego iuſtitias iudicabo, eumque nobis de ſingulis vſque ad minimum quadrantem reddenda ratio ſit, quanto magis de actibus etiam internis malis iudicium habendum erit. Dicendum ergo nobis eſſe huius Notæ verba intelligi debere de conſummatione peccati in ordine ad ſolum conſenſum, qui foris ad effectum, & actum externum non ſint perducti, qui conſenſus niſi fuerit plenus & conſummatus, & ex deliberato rationis motu, poſita ſufficiente aduertentia huiuſmodi peccatum, nullatenus iudicandum eſſe hoc loco legimus, inferni ſcilicet pœna dignum, quoniam tunc veniale peccatũ eſſe putatur, quod pœna tantummodo temporali non æterna punitur.

2 Iudicium, inquit, corporale eſt, vt anima eius celeriter diſcedat a corpore, & manus eius ſiat mors eius.

In hoc capite Chriſtus Dominus verba facit de quodam Monacho Auguſtinianæ familiæ, vt creditur, profeſſo, ſicut colligi poteſt ex verbis infra non longe ab his poſitis, quæ ſunt: Tunc vnus de Religioſis S. Auguſtini loquebatur ad Iudicem, dicens: Domine nihil tibi cum iſto, tu vocaſti eum ad quietem, & ipſe eius oblitus eſt, obedientia ſua facta eſt, nomen eius ablatum eſt, & opera eius nulla. De hoc ergo ſcribitur hic, quod manus eius ſit mors eius, quod eſſe intelligendum arbitror, aut quod propter peccata ſua mortem ſibi accelleraverit, prout innuitur, cum dicitur aliquanto poſt, medium capitis, quia operatio mala fuit occaſio mortis eius, & hoc congruit cum eo verſiculo Pſalmi 54. Viri ſanguinum, & doloſi non dimidiabunt dies ſuos, aut etiam dicendum eſt, quod huius Religioſi manus facta ſit mors eius, quoniam ex deſperatione ſibi forſitan mortem intulit, vt videtur inſinuari infra circa finem capitis, vbi legimus, aut quia manus eius corporalis abbreuiabat vitam corporis eius.

3 Altiſſimus vero vertex eſt cõtritio bona, & confeſſio, hanc qui perfecte tenet, ipſe loquitur tecum, qui es potentiſſimus, & attingit ad tuam maieſtatem.

Hoc loco nobis explicandum eſſet, quænam perfecta contritio ſit, quas ve partes eſſentiales requirat, ſed quoniam hac de re late egimus ſupra lib. 3. Reuelat. cap. 26. Nota 4. idco placet quædã tantummodo hic breuiter annotare, quæ ad horum cognitionem ſpectare videntur. Sciendum eſt ergo ad veram contritionem quatuor principaliter requiri: primo quidem dolorem maximũ peccatorum, vt ipſa peccata ſunt offenſa Dei, & ille dolor debet eſſe maximus, ſaltem extenſiue, vel appretiatiue, vt declarauimus ibi: ſecundo requiritur propoſitum amplius de cætero, non peccandi: tertio ſacramentum Confeſſionis, vt nota: quarto voluntas ſuſtinendi; ille ergo qui huiuſmodi contritionem omnibus his circumſtantijs abſolutam obtinet, dicitur hic cum Deo loqui, eiuſque maieſtatem attingere, quia remiſſa lethali culpa reſtituitur in priſtinum amicitiam Dei, ſicque, vt orationes eius ad eum perueniant, & ab illo exaudiantur, & hoc eſt Deum alloqui, eiuſque maieſtatem attingere.

4 Nomen autem eius erat Monachus, & nomen Monachi eſt cuſtodia ſui, & abſtinentia etiam a licitis, ſed hæc in eo abolita ſunt, & iam vocatur Saul.

Optime hoc loco Monachus ille, cuius in præſenti cap. Nota 2. mentionem fecimus, non amplius Monachus, ſed Saul eſt appellatus, quoniam ſicut Saul præcepta Domini tranſgreſſus eſt, vt ſcribitur primo Regum cap. 15. qui contra eius mandatum pepercit Agag, & optimis gregibus ouium, & bus beſtijs intelliguntur duo Reges, ſcilicet Franciæ, & Angliæ. Rex alter non ſatiatur, quia bellum ſuum eſt ex cupiditate. Rex alius nititur aſcendere, ideo ambæ plenæ ſunt igne iræ, & cupiditatis. Vox beſtiarum eſt talis: Recipe aurum, & diuitias mundi, vt non parcas ſanguini Chriſtianorum. Quælibet iſtarum beſtiarum deſiderat alterius mortem, & ideo quælibet quærit alterius locum ad nocendum. Illæ vero quærit in dorſo nocere, qui iniuſtitiam ſuã deſiderat audiri eſſe iuſtitiam, & vt alterius iuſtitia diceretur eſſe iniuſtitia. Alius autem quærit in pectore nocere cordi, qui ſcit ſe habere iuſtitiam, & ideo facit multum damnum, non curans de perditione, & miſeria aliorum, nec in ſua iuſtitia habet diuinam charitatem. Ideo ergo quærit in pectore ingreſſum, quia ipſe maiorem habet iuſtitiam ad regnum, & cum ipſa iuſtitia habet ſuperbiam, atque iram. Alius vero habet minorem iuſtitiam, ideo ardet cupiditate. Beſtiæ quoque aliæ, quæ aperto ore veniunt, hi ſunt qui propter cupiditatem veniunt ad eos. Horum ora aperta implẽt hi, qui vocantur reges, ſed ſunt veri proditores. Proijciunt namque pecunias abundanter, & dona in ora ipſorum, & ſic faciũt eos ardere ad bellum, vt cadant in mortem. Quorum bona remanent, & corpora recipiuntur in terra, & cor rodunt vermes, diaboli eorum animas. Et ſic iſti duo Reges produnt multas animas de filio meo, qui eas redemit ſanguine ſuo. Illæ vero beſtiæ, quæ priuantur vellere, ſunt homines ſimplices, & qui contentantur de bonis ſuis. Qui hac intentione procedunt ad bellum, quia credunt ſe habere iuſtitiam, & bellum eſſe iuſtum, ideo priuantur velleribus, ideſt, corporibus per mortem. Animæ vero eorum recipiuntur in cælum, ideo fili mi miſerere.

Reſpondit filius: Quia omnia fides in me, dic iſta audiente quæ aſtat, quæ eſt iuſtitia, vt reges iſti exaudiantur? Et Mater reſpondit: Ego, inquit, audio tres voces. Prima eſt iſtorum regum, quorum vnus cogitat ſic: Si haberem mea, non curarem habere alia, & timeo carere omnibus. Et ex iſto timore, ſcilicet, quod timet opprobrium mundi conuertit ſe ad me, dicens: O Maria roga pro me. Alter vero Rex aliter cogitat: Vtinam eſſem in ſtatu priori, feſſus ſum. Ideo & ipſe ſe etiam conuertit ad me. Secunda vox eſt communitatis, quæ quotidie rogat me pro pace. Tertia vox eſt electorum tuorum, qui clamant, dicentes: Non ploramus corpora mortuorum, non damna, non paupertatem, ſed animarum caſum, quæ quotidie periclitantur. Ideo o Domina roga filium tuum, vt animæ ſaluentur, propterea o fili mi miſerere eis. Reſpondit filius: Scriptum eſt, quod pulſanti aperietur, vocanti reſpondendum eſt, & petenti dabitur. Sed ſicut omnis qui pulſat extra oſtium eſt, ſic & iſti reges extra oſtiũ ſunt, quia me non habent in ſe. Tamen propter te petentibus eſt aperiendum.

CHRISTVS LOQVENS Sponſæ, dicit ei modum per quem debeat fieri pax inter Reges Franciç, & Angliæ. Quod ſi ipſi Reges non obedierint grauiſſime punirentur.

CAP. CV.

ILIVS loquitur: Ego ſum rex metuendus, & honorandus, ideo propter preces Matris meæ, mittam eis verba mea, ego ſum pax vera, & vbi pax eſt, ibi pro certo ego sũ.

1 Sic igitur iſti duo reges Franciæ & Angliæ, ſi habere voluerint pacem, ego dabo eis perpetuam pacem. Sed pax vera haberi non poterit, niſi veritas & iuſtitia diligantur. Ideo quia alter regum habet iuſtitiã, placet mihi, vt per matrimonium fiat pax, & ſic regnum ad legitimum hæredem peruenire poterit. Secundo volo, quod ſint cor vnum, & anima vna in augendo fidem ſanctam Chriſtianam, vbi commodius fieri poterit ad honorem meum. Tertio deponant intolerabiles exactiones, & fraudolentas adinuentiones ſuas, & diligant animas ſubditorum ſuorum. Si autem ille rex, qui nunc tenet regnum obedire noluerit, ſciat pro certiſſimo, quod non proſperabitur in factis ſuis. Sed in dolore finiet vitam, & regnum dimittet in tribulationibus. Et filius, & generatio ſua erit in ira, & opprobrio & confuſione, ita quod omnes admirabuntur. Si autem rex ille, qui iuſtitiam habet obedire voluerit, adiuuabo eum, & pugnabo pro eo. Si vero non obedierit, nec ipſe perueniet ad deſiderium ſuum, ſed priuabitur obtentis. Et principium gaudioſum, doloroſus exitus obſcurabit. Veruntamen quando homines regni Franciæ aſſumpſerint veram humilitatem, regnum perueniet ad legitimum hæredem, & bonam pacem.

NOTAE.

1 SIc igitur isti duo Reges Franciæ,& Angliæ si habere voluerint pacem. &c.

In toto hoc capite de pacis ineundæ conditionibus inter Angliæ, & Galliæ Reges Christus Dominus cum B. Brigitta agit, hi tamen qui in specie fuerint hoc loco minime traditur, eorumque nomina reticentur, sed quantum coniecturis assequi possumus, ex his quæ hic afferuntur probabiliter credimus hos fuisse Odoardum huius nominis tertium Angliæ Regem, & Philippum Valesium, qui de hæreditario iure Franciæ, deque imperio multos annos decertarunt, quod satis aperte deduci potest ex verbis superioris capitis, in quo de eorumdem Regum bellis Maria Virgo cũ B. Brigitta tractat, ex quibus constat hos Reges, quorum ibi mentio fit, de Regni successione pugnasse, Sic enim legimus circa medium: in istis duabus hostijs intelliguntur duo Reges, Francia scilicet & Anglia. Alter Rex non satiatur, quia bellum suum est ex cupiditate, Rex alius nititur ascendere. Rex autem Angliæ Odoardus ad regnum Galliæ nitebatur ascendere, existimans iure hereditario illud sibi competere, sed hoc clarius habetur paulo post cum dicitur Sitio ergo quarit in pectore ingressum, quia habet maiorem instinctum ad Regnum, constat igitur euidenter controuersiã de iure hæreditario Regni, & successione fuisse & tunc temporis, quo isti duo Reges adinuicem disceptabant B. Brigitta sanctitate floruit, fuit autem initium belli circa annum Domini 1336. & duravit per annos plurimos, ex quo probabiliter coniici potest in præsenti capite de his duobus Regibus Odoardo scilicet, & Philippo Valesio agi, horum autem res gestas, & bellorum exitus si quis scire desiderat, legat in primis Forsartum Gallum, qui horum bellorum historias copioso volumine scripsit, sed Latius etiam de eadem re egit Polidorus Virgilius Tomo secundo historiarum Angliæ lib. 19. & Platina in vita Benedicti xij. qui affirmat Philippum sæpe tentasse per Legatos inter hos duos Reges pacem componere, neque tamen id assequi potuisse. Dicit autem ibi, Odoardum aliquando tanta vi cum Gallis dimicasse, vt triginta tria millia Gallorum vna pugna interfecerit, quod fuit anno 1346. sicut testatur Georgius Lilius Brittannus in Epitome Chronicorum Regum Anglorum, & Polidorus Virgilius vbi supra.

CHRISTVS DICIT Sponsæ, quod non timeat frangere abstinentiam per obedientiam patris spiritualis, quia non est peccatum. Et etiam monet eam, quod stet stabilis, & resistat tentationibus continue, & quod habeat voluntatem firmam perseuernadi in bono exemplo Virginis Mariæ, & Dauid, & Abrahæ.

CAP. CVI.

ILIVS loquitur: Curtimes. Nam etiam si quater in die comederes, non tibi imputabitur ad peccatum, si permissione eius feceris, cui teneris obedire. Sta ergo stabilis. Ita debes esse sicut miles, qui percussus in bello diuersis vulneribus, reddit inimicis vulnera multa acriora. Et eo ad pugnandum est feruentior quo plus ab hostibus appetitur. Sic & tu inimicum tuum debes repercutere, & esse stabilis, & voluntatem rationabilem debes habere in bono perseuerandi. Tunc autem repercutis diabolum, quando tentationi non consentis, sed viriliter resistis, vtputa, opponendo humilitatem contra superbiam, continentiam contra gulam. Tunc vero es stabilis, cum in tentatione cõtra Deum non murmuras, sed cum hilaritate omnia sufferendo, & peccatis tuis omnia imputando, regratiaris Deo. Tunc vero voluntas tua est rationabilis, cum non desideras præmium, nisi ad voluntatem meam, cum te totam relinquis in manus meas. 1 Primum itaque bonum, scilicet repercutere hostem, non habuit lucifer, qui 2 statim consensit cogitationi suæ, 2 ideo cecidit irrecuperabiliter, quia sicut nullum malitiæ suæ habuit instigatorem, ita etiam nullum habebit recuperatorem, Secundum bonum, scilicet stabilitatem non habuit Iudas, sed factus desperatus, seipsum suspendit. Tertium bonum scilicet voluntatem bonam non habuit Pilatus, quia feruentiorem voluntatem habuit ad placendum Iudæis, & ad honorem suum, quam ad me liberandum. Sed primum bonum, scilicet repercutere hostem habuit Mater mea, quæ quot habuit tentamenta, tot reddidit, & reoppositit contraria. Secundum vero bonum habuit Dauid, qui in aduersitate fuit patiens, & in casu suo non desperans. Tertium bonum bonum, scilicet voluntatem perfectam habuit Abraham, qui relicta patria, etiam filium vnicum immolabat. Hos igitur, & tu iuxta vires tuas imitare.

NOTAE.

1. PRimum itaque bonum non habuit Lucifer, qui statim consensit cogitationi suae.

Quoniam caeterorum daemonum princeps Lucifer praemium, quod ei ab aeterno paratum erat, non ex Dei voluntate, sed à propria dependenter voluit, existimans illud sibi competere per naturam, quod illi debebatur per gratiam, eumque huiusmodi motus irrationabilis esset, atque huic cogitationi statim, vt scribitur hic consensum praestitisset eo praemio iure priuatus remansit, illud autē quod legimus hic nimirum, quod statim consenserit non arbitror intelligendum esse in primo suae creationis instanti, sed post primum instans, quoniam tunc peccasset, nullum vero Angelum in primo instanti creationis suae peccasse, ita certum est vt oppositum damnetur tanquam error à D. Thoma p.p. q. 63. art. 5. & de malo art. 4. & tradit D. Bonauent. in 2. d. 2. q. 2. vbi dicit hoc fuisse damnatum, vt erroneum à Magistris Parisiensibus, in hac etiam sententia communiter omnes fere Scholastici in 2. sent. d. 4. & 5. & probat Magister in 2. d. 3. vbi dicit Angelos esse bonos; quia non potuit optimus creator auctor esse malitiae, idem patet ex illo Ezech. 28. fuisti in deliciis paradisi fuisti, & Isaiae 14. quomodo cecidisti de caelo Lucifer, qui mane oriebaris? & Ioan. 8. in veritate non stetit, ergo si primo fuit in veritate, eandem sententiam sequitur D. Aug. lib. 11. de Ciuit. cap. 13. & Conc. Bracharense primum canonem quo damnatur vaticinantes asserentes, quod Angeli non prius facti sint boni, quam caderent: in vero de possibili in primo suae creationis instanti daemon peccare potuerit, affirmant Scotus in 1. d. 5. q. 1. Greg. Arimin. ibid. q. 1. art. 2. Gabriel in 2. d. 4. q. vnica art. 3. Marsilius d. 4. q. 3. art. 3. contrariā tamen sententiam tuetur D. 1. Ideo cecidit irrecuperabiliter, quia sicut nullum malitiae suae habuit instigatorem, ita etiam nullum habebit recuperatorem.

Ex vtriusque huius notae aperte colligitur damnatum lapsum irrecuperabilem esse, eorumque supplicia aeterna fore, contra id quod senuit Origenes lib. 1. Periarchon. cap. sexto, vbi ait: hi vero qui de statu primae beatitudinis moti sunt, non tamen irremediabiliter moti sunt, id ipsum affirmasse in expositione primi, & secundi capitis Epistolae ad Ephesios testatur D. Hieron. in commem. eiusdem Epistolae, & eundē errorem in Orig. detestantur D. Aug. lib. 11. de Ciuitate Dei cap. 17. de haeresibus ad Quodvultdeum haeresi 43. Epiphanius Epistola ad Ioannem Hierosolymitanum Episcopum, & Theophilus Alexandrinus lib. 2. Paschalis, Lindanus lib. 2. & Orosius de haeresibus nostri temporis lib. 2. non tamen defuerunt qui Origenem ab huiusmodi errore vendicauerint asserentes eum fuisse insertum ab Haereticis in libris Origenis, vt gloriari possent sui erroris tantum habuisse patronum, vt Sotus in 4. dist. 54. q. 2. art. 2. & d. 50. q. vnica, art. 1. Picus Mirandulanus, & Iacobus Merlinus in Apolog. pro Origene, his ergo reiectis, quia ex sacris literis euidenter cōstat daemonum supplicia aeterna, fore Matth. 25. nec eos fuisse de facto habuisse, neque habituros esse poenitentiam, vt probat D. Chrysost homilia de Adam, & Eua. Gregorius Nissenus lib. 1. de Epiphania cap. 3. Damasc. lib. 3. cap. 1. & 2. D. Greg. Magnus, lib. 3. Expos. in primum Regum cap. 4. & 5. moral. cap. 4. & 4. moral. cap. 9. Augustinus in Enchiridion cap. 29. Ergo si hoc ab omnibus admittitur, sic in assignanda ratione quapropter eorum lapsus irrecuperabilis sit, & quare redempti minime sint mira inter Doctores est discrepantia: hoc autem loco vna satis probabilis redditur nimirum, quia sicut daemon nullo auctore, & suasore peccauit, ita quoque à nullo debuerat redimi homo vero eo suadente lapsus est hac eadem ratione vsi sunt D. Greg. lib. 4. moral. cap. 9. D. August. lib. 3. de libero arbitrio c. 10. D. Irenaeus lib. 4. cap. 38. sed haec aliqui forsitan non undequaq; satisfaciet, nisi vtcunq; admitti potest de primo illo Angelo, qui sua sponte peccauit, non vero de caeteris minoribus, quoniam hi habuisse videntur suasorem primum Angelum, & idcirco in praesenti nota, haec de Lucifero tantummodo scripta esse legimus, tum etiam quia, hoc ex D. Ioan. colligi potest, qui Apocalyp. 12. dicit, Luciferum traxisse tertiam partem stellarum secum, & tractus iste fuit moralis illo nimirum suadente, & instigante inferiores Angelos, propterea Sancti Patres, quam plures alias rationes attulerunt, vt D. Anselmus lib. 2. cur Deus homo cap. 22. D. Augustinus in Enchiridion cap. 29. D. Gregorius in homilia de Adam, & Eua, dicunt ideo eos non fuisse redemptos, quia eorum peccato non fuit vniuersa natura Angelica damnata, peccato vero Adae totam humanam naturam periisse, sed aliam addit D. Ansel. loco supra citato, dicit enim Angelos non potuisse redimi à seipsis, quia aeger nō potest sibi afferre medicinam, ab alijs autem neque redimi debuerunt, quia cum singulis obijcitur propria, & priuata malitia, non debuit pro-fui, non faciam, inquit, quia durus est pro-fatus, & non charitatiuus, & ideo non valeo ei obedire hilari voluntate. Ostendi etiam ei secundam viam, scilicet, fugere voluptatem carnis, & sequi meam voluntatem Diuinam, fugere crapulam, & sequi abstinentiam. Hæ enim viæ sunt quæ ducunt ad obedientiam veram, sed ipse respondit mihi aequanimis? Natura quippe mea est infirma, ideo comedam, & dormiam ad securitatem, loquar ad habendum gaudium, vt rideam propter solatium mundi. Ostendi etiam ei tertiam viam, scilicet, habere patientiam bonam propter me Deum suum; quia hæc est quæ ducit ad abstinentiam, & inducit ad obedientiam sanctam, sed ipse respondit mihi, non faciam. Si enim illa contumeliosa mihi fuero, arguar quod sum fatuus, si despector ceteris fuero in habitu, confundar ab omnibus. Et si in membris meis est deformitas, necesse est, vt opus meum aliquid placidum hominibus hoc supplicat, & recompenset. Sic igitur ait Dominus: ego, & conscientia sua certabamus, vtique quo elongans se à me, vertebat occiput ad me, & non faciem. Sed quomodo vertebat? scilicet, quando voluit obedire in his tantum quæ sibi placuerunt. Et sic voluit esse patiens, vt nihil minueretur de amicitia mundi. Nunc autem diabolus laborat, vt faciat eum totum cecum, & mutum, proponens ligare manus eius, & pedes inuoluere, & ducere ad tenebras inferni. 2 Tunc autem facit ipsum cecum, quando cogitat sic. Deus redemit me passione sua, non perdet me, quia miles sicut est, nec sic diuitibus Deus examinat peccatum, sicut homo offendit omni hora. Ex istis probatur, quod fides sua non est stabilis. Ideo inquirat in Euangelio meo, quod ego rationem quæram de verbis quanto magis de operibus. Inquirat etiam, quod diues non pro rapina sepultus est in inferno, sed quia abutebatur conceſſis. Tunc vero facit eum diabolus mutum, quando audiens exempla amicorum meorum, & verba dicit, nemo poterit nunc sic viuere. Ex isto probatur, quod habet modicam spem. Ego enim qui dedi amicis meis sic apte, & caste viuere, ego & potens sum isti dare similia, si in me spem haberet. Tunc vero ligat ei diabolus manus, quando aliqua plus quam me diligit, quando ferentius implicatur mundo, quam honori meo. Ideo attendat ne dum mundo videtur intendere, supplantetur per diabolum, quia ibi diabolus ponit hamum, vbi animus præcaptus. Tunc etiam innectit pedes quando cogitationes, & affectiones suas non attendit, quando modum tentationum suarum non considerat. Quando sic voluntati proximi, & carnis intendit, quod de salute animæ suæ non intendit. Propterea cogitet, quid ego dixi in Euangelio? Qui homo ponens manum ad aratrum, non respiciat retro, & qui magis vtilia inchoauerit non retrocedat. Tunc quandoque diabolus vinculum ponit super cor eius, quando voluntatem eius sic ad mala inclinat, vt cogitat, & velit in seculi honore esse, & in tali dispositione perseuerare. Ducit etiam eum ad tenebras quando cogitat taliter: Verum gloriam habeam, vel supplicium, modicum est mihi cura. Vae istis tales tenebras incurrit. Verumtamen si conuertere se voluerit ad me, occurram ei quasi pater, sed quomodo? habendo, scilicet, voluntatem facere quantumcumq. poterit. Sicut enim non licet filio hominis recipere aliquam in coniugium contra voluntatem propriam, sic 1 nec Filio Virginis licet. Voluntas enim est quoddam instrumentum, per quod charitas Diuina introducitur in animam. Sicut enim molendinarius volens præscindere lapides, primo inquirit rimas, vbi primo imponit graciliora instrumenta, inde grossiora, do-3 nec lapis dissoluitur. 3 Sic ego quæro voluntatem bonam, in quam gratiam meam infundo, deinde crescente opere, & voluntate proficiente, accrescit & maior gratia, donec cor lapideum conuertitur, & crescit in cor carneum, & cor carneum in cor spirituale.

Additio.

Filius Dei loquitur: Frater iste miratur quare Apostoli mei Petrus, & Paulus, in isto loco catacumbas tanto tempore iacuerũt, & quasi neglecti? Respondeo tibi. Scriptura aurea dicit, quod Israel diu stetit in heremo, quia malitia gentiũ quarum terras possessuri erant, nondum completa fuit. Sic etiã erat de Apostolis meis: Nondum erat tempus gratiæ, quo corpora Apostolorum meorum exaltanda erant, quia prius debuit esse tempus probationis, & postea coronationis, & quia nõdum erant illi nati, quibus honor ille exaltationis Apostolorum debebatur. Nunc autem potes quærere, si aliquem honorem corpora eorum habebant eo tempo- 2 re, quo corpora eorum in puteo iacuerunt? Respondeo tibi, quod Angeli mei custodiebant, & honorabant corpora illa beata, quia sicut locus ille diligenter excolitur, vbi rosæ & plantæ seminandæ sunt. Sic iste locus catacumbas, diu antea præparabatur, & honorabatur, de quo Angeli, & homines lætarentur. Ideo dico tibi, quod in mundo multa loca sunt vbi corpora Sanctorum requieſcunt, sed non similia huic loco. Nam si soli

Sed & nos si procedimus contra eam cum omnibus laqueis nostris, omnes ipsa dissoluit, & sicut stuppæ rumpuntur, & sicut funes veteres dissoluuntur. Si vero venimus contra eam cum omni malitia nostra, & immunditia nostra, omnia rescindit sicut fœnum rescinditur à falcastro. Si autem immittimus ei voluptatem, & mundi delectationem, facilius omnia extinguuntur quam icuncilla à torrente aquarum. Nato vero Ioanne Baptista, ipse etiam displicuit dæmonibus, in tantum quod quasi vox quædam fonuit, tunc de inferno dicens: Natus est Puer mirabilis. Quid faciemus si procedimus contra eum cum superbia, cõtemnit audire nos, & minus vult suggestioni nostræ obedire. Si prætendimus ei diuitias, vertit ad nos occiput, & renuit videre, si voluptatem, quasi mortuus est, & non potest sentire. 2 Quando vero Maria Magdalena conuersa est dixerunt dæmones, quomodo reducemus eam pinguem enim prædam perdidimus, ipsa quippe in tantum se aquis lacrymarum lauat, quod non audemus aspectum nostrum in eam infigere. Sic tegit se bonis operibus, quod nihil accedit ad eam de macula. Sic feruens est, & calida in Dei seruitio, & sanctitate, quod non audemus ei appropinquare. Itaque isti tres, sic habuerunt animam suam quasi dominum, corpus vero quasi seruum, quorum anima tria habuit. Primo, nihil dixit sicut me Deum suum. Secundo, nihil facere voluit contra me. Tertio, nihil omittere voluerunt, quæ erant Dei. Ergo quamuis illi talem habuerunt animam, non tamen sprouerunt corpus suum, nec dederunt ei venenum pro cibo, nec spinas pro indumento, nec iacuerunt in tumulo formicarum, sed habuerunt moderatam refectionem ad honorem mei, & ad animæ vtilitatem. Vestimentumq. ad corporis operimentum, nõ ad superbiam! Somnum vero ad quietem, & lectum ad alleuiationem. Veruntamen si ipsi scissent mihi placuisse, & ego dedissem eis gratiam, libenter omnia amarissima recepissent in cibum, & spinas pro veste, & in tumulo formicarum iacuissent. Sed quia considerabant me in omnibus iustum, & misericordem, ideo sicut ad corpus fuerunt iusti, per refrenationem motuum illicitorum, sic, & misericordes, & rationabiles fuerunt ad indulgendum corpori, ne violentia laboris corpus raperet, & ne laboris vehementia solueretur. 3 Nunc igitur poteris quærere, cum sancti heremitæ, & antiqui illi Patres rarum habuerint, qui quidam illorum non comederunt nisi semel in septimana, alij vsi sunt cibo ministerio Angelorum, quare illis non dedit talem gratiam? Respondeo tibi, illi sancti Patres tale ieiunium obtinuerunt triplici de causa. Primo ad manifestandum gratiam, & potentiam meam, vt sciant homines, quod sicut animam sine corporali cibo sustento, sic etiam corpus sine cibo si mihi placeret, valeo sustentare. Secundo propter exemplum ostendendum, vt ex eorum exemplo discãt homines, quod corporalis labor, & tribulatio trahit animam in cælum. Tertio propter peccati vitationem, quia voluptas carnis non refrænata trahit hominem ad pœnam. Ergo vt homines addiscerent continentiam, & modum viuendi, ego ipse Deus, & homo quamuis sine cibo viuere potuissẽ in mundo, tamen cibo, & necessarijs corporalibus vsus sum, vt homo in omnibus regratietur mihi Deo suo, & solatium moderatum habeat in mundo, & perfectam libertatem cum Sanctis in cælo.

In præsenti capite legimus, Deum præ cæteris tres Sanctos vnice diligere, Mariam, Ioannem Baptistam, & Magdalenam; & de Beatissima Virgine in specie scribitur hic, quod tota pulchra erat, quia nullam peccati contraxerat maculam, non solum originalem, sed nec mortalem, aut venialem. vt fuse supra à nobis probatum est lib. 6. Poſtremo à ratione naturali, neque id videtur eſſe alienum, nam ſi quibuſdam animatibus accidit, quæ ſe in cauernis hyeme abſcondunt, ibique ſine cibo per menſes aliquot dormiunt, vt de ghiris, abſque proditum eſt, quæ animalia cum intus magna abundent humorum copia, ſicque pinguia dormitum eunt, poſtea vere eſtate macilenta prodeunt, ita quoq. hominibus hoc poſſet contingere, ſi magna humorum copia eſſent referti, vt per paucos dies ſine cibo in vita conſeruarentur, & duraſſe vltra vndecimum diem plerosque certum eſt inquit Plinius lib. 11. cap. 54. dum tamen id nequaquam fieri poſſe crediderim, niſi peculiari Dei beneficio, ac munere, quod fuiſſe conceſſum hæremitis aliquibus in præſenti capite scribitur, vt ſic ieiunio dediti, eorum exemplo cæteros homines ad ieiunium adducerent, ac etiam addiſcerent, quod corporalis labor trahit animam ad cælum, vique voluptas, carnis inedia non compreſſa eos trahit ad æternas pœnas.

MARIA LOQVITVR

Dicens, quod homo ſpiritualis poſtquam conuertitur labore pœnitentiæ charitatis, & contritionis, & patientiæ redimere debet priora tempora perdita ad hoc, vt vacuas nuces non offerat Deo.

CAP. CIX.

MARIA loquitur. Vbi præſentantur Domino nuces, quandoque aliqui inter eas inueniuntur vacuæ, quæ vt acceptabiliores fiant Domino impleri debent, ſic etiam in ſpiritualibus operibus eſt. Multi faciunt plura bona opera propter quæ diminuitur peccatum, vt nõ incurrant infernum. Attamen ante illa bona opera, & inter ea fuerunt multa vacua tempora, quæ neceſſe eſt, vt omnia impleãtur, ſi tempus laborandi fuerat. Sin autem contritio, & charitas omnia ſupplent.

Sic Maria Magdalena obtulit nuces Deo, ideſt opera bona, inter quas nuces, quædam erant vacuæ, quia longa tempora habuit ad peccandum, ſed omnia illa ſupplebat iuuante tempore patientia, & labore.

Sed & Ioannes Baptiſta obtulit nuces Deo, quaſi plenas, qui à iuuentute ſeruiuit Deo offerens ei totum tempus ſuum. Apoſtoli vero obtulerunt Deo nuces quaſi ſemiplenas lect. mei, ſatisfeci pro dulcedine pomi per mortem meam.

Farneſianus Codex M. S. aliter legit, ſic enim habet: Ego obediendo Patri deleui chirographum decreti per amaritudinẽ cordis mei, &c. quæ lectio probatur magis, quandoquidem Paulus Apoſt. ad Coloſſ. 2. de eodẽ deleto à Chriſto chirographo, verba faciens ſcriptum reliquit, delens quod aduerſum nos erat chirographum decreti, quod erat contrariũ nobis, & ipſum tulit de medio affigens illud cruci, vt autem quid ſit delere chirographum decreti intelligamus ſciendum eſt chirographum, eſſe ſcripturam manu propria confectũ, qua quis ſe ad aliquid conſtituit obligatum, vnde D. Iſodorus lib. 5. Ethimol. c. 24. dicit eſſe cautionem, vel conſcriptionem duarum inſtar cartarum, græce enim M. S. cautio dicitur, idẽ habet Eucherius de ſpiritualibus formulis c. 10. ſed quidquid ſit de Ethimologia nominis hoc loco dicimus chirographũ importare peccati obligationem quandam, quam homo pro peccato propriæ voluntate incurrit, eſt ergo memoriale trãſgreſſionis; ſecundum, quod homo non obſeruauit in Paradiſo decretum, hoc eſt præceptum Dei, & ideo appellatur chirographum præcepti, vnde Gloſſ. ad Coloſſ. 2. vocat chirographum memoriã tranſgreſſionis, quæ erat ex decreto id eſt ex lege: habebat ergo dæmon, vt inquit Dionyſius Cartuſ. ſuper Epiſt. ad Coloſſen. c. 2. teſtimonialem litterem reatus, quem homo, & tota primi parentis poſteritas incurrit, tranſgrediendo Diuinum præceptum, verum, Gloſſ. vbi ſupra pro chirographum aſſerit etiam intelligi poſſe peccatum Adæ, quod Chriſtus tulit, & cruci affixit. Lyranus vero ibi idem chirographum aſſerit, eſſe obligationẽ legis veteris, quantum ad cæremonialia, & iudicialia, ex quibus nobis inferẽdum eſt, quod vt Deus genus liberaret humanum, ab huiuſmodi obligatione oportuit mittere Filium ſuum, qui pro peccatis noſtris Diuinæ iuſtitiæ ſatisfaceret, & hoc eſt quod legimus hic delere chirographi decretum, ſed Theodoretus ſuper Epiſtolam ad Coloſſ. 1 c. per chirographum miſtice intelligit corpus noſtrum, quo, inquit, omnes ſceleratas, ac nefandas actiones ſuſcipimus per oculos, quidem laſciue aſpiciemes, ac impudice, per linguam ea quæ non decet loquentes: per aures pernicioſam doctrinam ſuſcipientes, per manus, ſuum, inuaſionem, & cædem admittentes: Deus ergo noſtra ſuſcepta natura eam ab omni peccato liberam cuſtodit, & delenit, quæ mala à nobis facta ſunt ſcripta debitorum, cum autem conceſſiſſet, vt ea cruci affigeretur exoluit omnium noſtrum debitum.

CHRISTVS LOQVITVR Sponſæ dicens, quod caueat diligenter à vitio ſuperbiæ, ne extollatur de pulchritudine membrorum, aut de bonis, ſeu de progenie. Nam ſuperbus comparatur papilioni, qui habet alas latas, & modicum corpus.

CAP. CXII.

ILIVS loquitur ad Sponſam: Noli turbari de ſuperbia iſtorum, quæ cito tranſiet. Eſt enim quoddam genus muſcarum, quod vocatur papilio, hoc habet latas alas, & modicum corpus. Secundo, multiplices colores. Tertio volat alte propter ſubtilitatem ſuam, & leuitatem, ſed aſcendens in aerem, quia modicum habet fortitudinis in corpore, cadit citius in quodcumque eſt vicinius, ſiue ad lapides, ſiue ad ligna. Iſtud genus muſcarum ſignificat ſuperbos, qui habent latas alas, & modicum corpus, quia mens eorum intumeſcit ſuperbia quaſi pellis in flato vento. Creduntque ſe omnia habere pro meritis ſuis, & præterunt ſe cæteris, arbitrantes ſe cæteris digniores, qui & nomen ſuum extenderent per totum mundum ſi poſſent. Sed quia vita eorum breuis eſt quaſi vnus punctus, ideo cum non recogitant, cadunt. Secundo, ſuperbi habent multiplices colores ſicut papilio, quia ſuperbiunt de pulchritudine membrorum de bonis, & de progenie, & iuxta omnem ſuperbiæ ſuæ ad inuentionem mutant ſtatum ſuũ, ſed cum moriuntur non ſunt niſi terra. Tertio, ſuperbi cum in altiſſimum gradum ſuperbiæ aſcenderint, periculoſe, & in momento cadunt in mortem. Ideo caue tibi à ſuperbia, quia ipſa ſubtrahit faciem Dei ab homine, nec gratia mea ingreditur ad eum quem ipſa poſſidet.

CHRI-

CHRISTVS MONET Sponſam, quod humiliter viuat, nec curat de magna fama, & nomine, quia ipſe ad prædicandum Euangelium non elegit magnos doctores, ſed humiles piſcatores, qui enim laborant ad acquirendum ſibi in hoc mundo magnum nomen in inferno grauiter punientur.

CAP. CXIII.

1 ILIVS loquitur. Legat ſcripturas, qui voluerit, & inueniet, quod de paſtore feci prophetam, & ſpiritu prophetiæ repleui iuuenes, & idiotas. Verum, quamuis non omnes recepterint verba mea ſalutis, tamen vt innoteſceret charitas mea ad pleroſque verba mea peruenerunt? a. Similiter ad prædicandum Euangelium non elegi doctores, ſed piſcatores, ne gloriarentur de ſapientia ſua, & vt intelligant omnes, ſicut Deus in ſe eſt mirabilis, & inexcogitabilis, ſic, & opera eius inſcrutabilia ſunt, & in minimis maxima operatur. Omnis itaque homo, qui vadit poſt mundum ad habendum gloriam eius, & voluptatem ſuam perficiendam, hic talis magnum onus impoſuit ſibi. Ecce dico tibi exemplum de vno viro. Ipſe toto deſiderio ibat poſt mundum, qui magnum nomen acquiſiuit ſibi a mundo, & maximum onus peccati impoſuit dorſo ſuo. Ideo magnum nomen nunc habet in inferno, maximum vero onus pro premio; excellentioremque locum in ſupplicio. Nam in locum illum quidam deſcenderunt ante illum, aliqui cum illo, aliqui poſt eum. Illi vero ante eum deſcenderunt, qui eum ad malitiam ſuam dilatandam confortabant, auxilijs, & conſilijs ſuis. Cum ipſo vero deſcenderunt retributiones operum ſuorum. Sed illi deſcendent poſt eum, qui exempla eius imitabuntur. Ideo primi clamant ad eum, quaſi de prælio, & dicunt, quia obediſti conſilijs noſtris, ideo ardentius ardemus de præſentia tua. Propterea maledictus ſis tu ſuſpendio illo dignus, vbi funis non rumpitur, ſed ignis manet perpetuus. Confuſio quoque ſit tibi peſſima pro ſuperbia, & ambitione tua. Opera re-ro eius clamant, & dicunt. O miſer, non potuit terra paſcere te cum fructu ſuo. Ideo cõcupiuiſti omnia, aurum, & argentum non valuerunt implere deſiderium tuum. Ideo vacuus relictus es ab omnibus. Propterea viuentes corui dilaniabunt animam tuam, quæ diſcerpetur, & nunquam minuetur, liqueſcet, & tamen viuet. Illi vero, qui poſt eum deſcenderunt clamant. Ve tibi, quia natus es, voluptas tua vertetur tibi in odium Dei, intantum, quod nolis vnum verbum loqui, quo Deus poſſit conſolari. Itaque ſicut in amore, & honore Dei, eſt omnis conſolatio, & delectatio bonum, & gaudium ineffabile, quo & nos propter tui imitationem ſumus indigni. Sic ſit tibi triſtitia, & diſcordia de dæmonum ſocietate, deformitas pro honore, ardor pro libidine, frigus pro tui amore, nulla requies pro carnis conſolatione. Inſuper & pro magno nomine, quod indigna portaſti ſit tibi maledictio, pro ſede vero gloriosa ſit tibi deſpectiſſimus locus. Ecce per ſimilitudinem loquendo talia merentur, qui talibus vltra conſtitutionem Dei implicantur.

Additio.

Quidam miles ſemper ſtudebat inuenire nouos modos, & multos, verbis, & exemplis traxit ad perditionem. Hic idem inuidens dominæ Brigittæ, cum non auderet iniuriã loqui ſibi, per ſeipſum, incitauit quendam, qui ſe fingebat ebrium, vt eidem dominæ Brigittæ verba contumelioſa loqueretur. Qui quidem domine ſedenti in menſa, dixit audientibus magnatibus. O domina nimis ſomnias, nimis vigilas, expedit tibi bibere, & plus dormire. Nunquid Deus reliquit religioſos, & cum ſuperbis mundi loquitur? Vanum eſt verbis tuis dare fidem. Illo itaque loquente, circumſtantes volebant vindicare in eum, ſed domina Brigitta prohibuit dicens, permittite eum loqui, quia Deus miſit eum. Ego enim quæ in tota vita mea quæſiui laudem meam, & blaſphemaui Deũ, 3 3. quare non audiam iuſtitiam meam? Iſte enim dicit mihi veritatem.

var. lect. Quod audiens Dominus ille compunctus eſt, & reconciliatus eſt domine, venit Romam, & ibi laudabili fine quieuit.

NO-

NOTAE.

1 LEgat scripturas, qui voluerit, & inueniet, quod de pastore feci prophetam & spiritu prophetiæ repleui iuuenes, & idiotas.

In principio præsentis capitis affirmat Christus Dominus prophetiæ donum pluribus collatum esse a Deo, prout ipse fuerat pollicitus, per Ioelem Prophetam cap. 2. effundam spiritum meum super omnem carnem, & prophetabunt filij vestri, & filiæ vestræ, & senes vestri somnia somniabunt, & iuuenes vestri visiones videbunt, cum autem legimus quendã de pastore prophetã Deũ fecisse, merito quis quam posset hic quærere, qui nam iste in specie fuerit, cum eius nomen hoc loco non asseratur, & sane non alium extitisse arbitror quam Danidem, qui ex pastor esset vt dicitur 1. Regum cap. 17. propheta factus est, & librum propheticum Psalterium scilicet conscripsit, in quo multa, quæ ad Christum Apostolos, & legen. Euangelicam spectant prædixit, sed quoniam nõ defuerunt, qui negauerint psalterium, nec esse à Dauide conscriptum, & absque vllo prophetico spiritu conditum, eumque nec fuisse prophetam, qui error, vt refert Philastrius in catalogo hæreticorum cap. 127, attribuitur Gnosticis, & Manichæis, & Paulo etiam Samosateno, vt habetur in quadam epistola Concilij Antiochæni cuius meminit Eusebius lib. 7 hist. Ecclesiast. ca. 25. quam etiã hæresim renouarunt Arrianistæ, idcirco hic suppo nendum vobis est tanquam certum cum D. August. lib. 17 de ciuit. Dei cap. 14 & communi sen. Patrum, & Scholasticorum omnium, & præcipue Origenis, Ambrosij, Cassiodori, & Hilarij. Danidem fuisse Psalmorum auctorem, qua de re etiam agit D. Hieronymus ad Sophronium, & D. Cyprianus de auctoribus psalmorum, & alij plures interpretes, qui id ipsum constanter asseuerarunt, an vero omnes, vel aliquot tantummodo conscripserit nostrum non est hac de re in præsentia disputare, satis nobis erit demonstrare eum fuisse prophetam, prout in præsenti capite asseritur, & probari potest ex pluribus sacrarum literarum locis in quibus ipse met Dauid aperta voce fatetur se Spiritu sancto afflatum, vt venturum Christum prædiceret sic 2. Reg. 23. dixit vir cui constitutum est de Christo egregius psaltes Israel. spiritus Domini locutus est per me, & sermo eius per linguam meam dixit, Israel mihi locutus fortis Israel dominator hominum, iustus dominator in timore Dei, idem confirmat Saluator noster Christus inquiens Matt. 22. quomodo ergo Dauid vocat eum in spiritu Dominum dicens. Dixit Dominus Domino meo, quo argumento vtitur D. Augustinus ad idem probandum loco à nobis superius citato, & post resurrectionem suam Christus, cum scripturarũ intelligentiam suis conferret discipulis Lucæ 24. in libro psalmorum testatus est Spiritum sanctum fuisse locutum de passione, in morte, & Resurrectione sua, ac etiam de prædicatione Euangelij: Apostoli quoque ipsum Dauidem psalterij auctorem, Prophetam in actibus eorum appellant, vt act. 2. 4. & 13. Domine qui Spiritu sancto per os pueri tui Dauid locutus es, & Paulus, dabo vobis sancta Dauid fidelia, hoc est dabo vobis, vt agnoscatis sancta Dauidis Patrem fuisse fidelia, hæc, & alia sacræ Scripturæ testimonia admodum aperte indicant, librum psalmorum à Dauide fuisse conscriptum, & propheticо spiritu conditum, & per consequens eum inter prophetas annumerandum esse, vt verum sit quod in præsenti capite scribitur Christum de pastore Dauidem fecisse prophetam.

2 Similiter ad prædicandum non elegi doctores, sed piscatores.

Quare ad Apostolatus officium non doctores, aut diuites, sed Rudes, & pauperes Dominus elegerit fuse tradidimus supra hoc eodem lib. cap. 76. nota prima.

3 In additione ad finem capitis, vbi in impressis codicibus legitur, quare non audiam iustitiam meam.

var. lect.

Corrigendum arbitror cum M. S. Farnesiano, quare non audiam iustitias meas, sunt enim hæc verba B. Brigittæ, quæ impetrabat affantibus, vt illum loqui sinerent qui contumeliosis verbis eam vexabat, & licet quæ obiciebat, vera minime essent, volebat tamen, vt ea audirentur ad sui humiliationem, & ideo de se ipsa, vt legimus hoc sic loquebatur, ego enim, quæ in tota vita mea, quæsiui laudem meam, & blasphemaui Deum, quare non audiam iniustitias meas.

CHRISTVS MONET

Sponsam, quod caueat à conuersatione mundialium, quæ est quasi affatura diaboli, virgo Maria etiam instruit eam, quod in omnibus operibus suis virtuosis, habeat intentionem rectam, vt scilicet honor Dei augeatur, quia multi seruiunt Deo opere, sed intentio eorum corrupta obtuscat omne bonum.

CAP. CXIIII.

ILIVS loquitur. Attende tibi affaturæ diaboli quam diabolus igne luxuriæ, & cupiditatis decoquit. Vbi enim pinguedo applicatur igni, necesse est, vt inde aliquid distillet. Sic ex conuersatione, & societate mundialium procedunt peccata quamuis autem ignoras

Verus conditor & vita, Christus est, qui ut homo assumpto imperfecto Lutto & vitiato humano corpore, quod ex Adamo traxerat, ut ipse nunc nobis testatur, quod ex Maria Virgine sanctissima, quod ex Spiritu sancto pulsi, vitaeque facti ac restituti, ut non modo ipse, sed & omnes, qui in eum credunt, ex Spiritu sancto nascantur, & vitam aeternam habeant & resurrectionem ex mortuis. Ita Christus Iesus, qui ut ipse ait, Ego sum via, veritas & vita, nemo venit ad Patrem nisi per me, qui ut ipse ait, Ego sum resurrectio & vita, qui credit in me, etiam si mortuus fuerit, vivet, & omnis qui vivit & credit in me, non morietur in aeternum. Ita Christus Iesus, qui ut ipse ait, Ego sum panis vitae, qui manducat ex hoc pane, non morietur, sed vivet in aeternum.
Ita Christus Iesus, qui ut ipse ait, Ego sum panis vivus, qui de coelo descendi, si quis ex hoc pane manducaverit, vivet in aeternum.

CHRISTVS LOQVENS

Ioannis de modo Christi, quo ipse dare consueverat dicit vt, quod haud dubium sit, ipsum Christum Iesum verbis & actionibus suis, quae ad hoc tenus leguntur, & audiuntur, hic Christus nullo pacto.

CAP. CXV.

CHRISTVS loquitur. Ita ut ego dixi, & dico, & dicam quotidiano tempore, ita in veritatem dicam & dico, ut ego ipse sum panis vitae, qui de coelo descendi, & qui ex me manducat, vivet in aeternum.
Ita ego, ut non modo ostendam exemplo, sed & verbo, ut ego ipse sum panis vitae, qui de coelo descendi, & qui ex me manducat, vivet in aeternum. Ita ego, ut ipse sum panis vitae, qui de coelo descendi, & qui ex me manducat, vivet in aeternum, ita & ipse panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est, quam ego dabo pro mundi vita.
Ita ego, ut ipse panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est, quam ego dabo pro mundi vita, ita & ipse panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est, quam ego dabo pro mundi vita. Ita ego, ut
ipse panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est, quam ego dabo pro mundi vita, ita & ipse panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est, quam ego dabo pro mundi vita. Ita ego, ut ipse panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est, quam ego dabo pro mundi vita, ita & ipse panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est, quam ego dabo pro mundi vita. Ita ego, ut ipse panis, quem ego dabo, caro mea est, quam ego dabo pro mundi vita

Manus vero animæ significant fidem. Sicut enim in manu plures sunt digiti, sic sunt in fide multi articuli, quamuis sit vna fides. Itaque per fidem omnis Diuina voluntas perficitur, & omni operi bono ipsa cooperari debet. Sicut enim per manus opus fit ab extra, sic per fidem spiritus sanctus operatur intus. 1 Ipsa quippe fides est sustentamentum omnium virtutum, quia vbi fides non est, adnihilatur charitas, & bonũ opus. Pedes vero animæ sunt spes, per hanc enim anima procedit ad Deum. Sicut enim corpus procedit pedibus, sic anima diuini desiderij passibus, & spei, appropinquat Deo. Cutis vero quæ est supra omnia membra significat consolationem diuinam, 2 quæ animam imperturbabilem consola- var. tur. Et quamuis diabolo permittatur quan- lect. doque perturbare memoriam, quandoque manus, & pedes, tamen Deus defendit semper animam quasi pugil, & consolatur eum quasi pius pater, & quasi medicus medetur, ne moriatur. Itaque anima illius hominis, de quo tibi dixi tunc captiuata fuit, quando digna fuit priuari manibus propter fidei instabilitatem, quia non habuit fidem rectã, sed quia iam est tempus miserendi duplici de causa. Primo propter charitatem meam. Secundo propter preces electorum meorũ. Ideo amicus meus legat super eum prius dicta verba, tria vero ille facturus est. Primo restituat male acquisita. Secundo procuret sibi absolutionem de Romana curia, de inobedientia sua. Tertio, quod ante absolutionem non recipiet corpus meum in sacramento Communionis.

var. hactenus codicibus legitur, quæ animam lect. imperturbabilem consolatur.

M.S. Farnesianus corrigit, quæ animam à perturbatione consolatur.

CHRISTVS CONQVEritur Sponsę de gentibus, & iudęis, & per maxime de malis Christianis, ex eo quod sancta Sacramenta non recipiunt deuote, & munde sicut decet, & ex eo quod negligunt creationem & redemptionem, & Diuinam consolationem.

CAP. CXVI.

EILIVS loquitur. Ego loquor tibi per similitudinem, quasi essent tres homines. Primus diceret: Ego nec credo te esse Deum, nec hominem, & hic talis est Gentilis. Secundus, ideſt, Iudæus, credit me esse Deum, sed non hominem. Tertius, ideſt, Christianus, credit me Deum esse & hominem, sed non credit verbis meis. Ego sum ille super quem vox patris audiebatur. Hic est Filius meus dilectus, &c. Ideo conqueror ex parte Deitatis meæ, quod homines nolunt me audire. Ego clamabam, & dixi. Ego sum principium, si credidis mihi habebitis vitam æternam, sed contempserunt. Ipsi viderunt potentiam Deitatis meæ, quando suscitabam mortuos, & multa alia, & tamen non attenderunt. Conqueror etiam ex parte humanitatis, quia ea quæ in sancta Ecclesia instituì nullus curat. Ego quippe posui in Ecclesia quasi septem vasa, quibus omnes purificarentur. Instituì enim baptisma in purgationem originalium peccatorum. Chrisma in signum diuinæ reconciliationis. Oleum sanctum in robur contra mortem. Pœnitentiam in remissionem omnium peccatorum. Verba sancta, quibus sacramenta sanctificarentur, & instituerentur. Sacerdotium in dignitatem, & cognitionem, & rememorationem diuinæ charitatis. Coniugium in cordium vnionem. Hæc recipi debent cum humilitate, custodiri cum puritate, erogari sine cupiditate. Sed iam suscipiuntur cum superbia, custodiuntur in vasis immundis, erogantur cum cupiditate.

NOTAE.

1 IPsa quippe fides est sustentamentum omnium virtutum.

Hoc loco omnium fides appellatur sustentamentum virtutum, imo, & totius spiritualis ædificij fundamentum est, quandoquidem, vt ait Paulus Hebræorum vndecimo: impossibile est sine fide placere Deo, & in hoc sensu accipiendum est, quod dixit Apostolus ibidem de fine ne fidem, quod ipsa est sperandarum substantia rerum argumentum non apparentium, vbi substantia significat non prout est de praedicamento substantiæ, sed pro fundamento, & quia omnis substantia est accidentis fundamentum; & sine ipsa accidens nullatenus naturaliter perficere potest, ita quoque sine fide nec virtus aliqua, neque spiritualis ædificium stare potest.

2 Circa finem capitis, vbi ait impossibile

Conqueror etiam, quod pro ſalute hominum natus, & mortuus ſui, vt ſi homo nollet me diligere, quia creaui eum, ſaltem diligeret me, quia redemi eum. Sed nunc homines eijciunt me de corde ſuo quaſi leproſum, & abominantur me quaſi pannum immundum. Conqueror etiam ex parte deitatis, quod conſolationem eiuſdem deitatis homines nolunt, & charitatem eius non attendunt.

AVDIVIT SPONSA QVOD vere deſiderantibus Deum, ipſe ſtatim occurrit: & conſolatur eos quaſi pius pater, & difficilia facit eis facilia.

CAP. CXVII.

QVODAM legente Pater noſter, audiuit Sponſa quomodo tunc ait ſpiritus. Amice, reſpondeo tibi ex parte Deitatis, quod habebis hæreditatẽ cum Patre tuo. Secundo ex parte humanitatis, quòd eris templum meum. Tertio ex parte Spiritus, quod non habebis tentationes ſupra id, quod ferre poſsis. Pater enim defendet te, Humanitas aſtabit tibi, Spiritus inflammabit te. Sicut enim mater, quando audit filij ſui vocem, occurrit ei gaudenter; & ſicut pater videns filium operantem, occurrit ei in media via, & ſubleuat cum eo onus: Sic ego amicis meis occurro, & omnia difficilia facio eis facilia, & portare cum hilaritate. Et ſicut aliquis videns aliquid delectabile, non conſolatur, niſi vicinius appropinquet. Sic ego deſiderantibus me appropinquo.

CHRISTVS LOQITVR Sponſę dicens, quòd illos trahit pater ad ſe e orum bonam voluntatem perficiẽdo in bono, quos videt voluntatem malam commutare libenter in bonam, cum deſiderio emendandi commiſſa.

CAP. CXVIII.

ILIVS loquitur. Qui mihi ſociari voluerit, debet voluntatem ſuam conuertere ad me, & pœnitere de commiſsis, & tunc trahitur ad perfectionem a Patre meo. Illum quippe trahit Pater, qui voluntatem malam mutans in bonam, libenter deſiderat emendare commiſſa. Sed quomodo trahit Pater? certe voluntatem bonam perficiendo in bono, niſi enim affectus eſſet bonus, pater non haberet quid traheret. Sed quibuſdam ſum ita frigidus, quod nullo modo via mea placet eis. Alijs vero ſum ita cálidus, quod ſi aliqua bona debent facere, videntur quod quaſi ſint in igne. Alijs ſum ita dulcis, quod nihil niſi me deſiderant. His ego dabo lętitiam nunquam finituram.

MATER NARRAT HIC ſeptem bona quæ ſunt in Chriſto, & ſeptem contraria quæ reprehendebantur ei ab hominibus.

CAP. CXIX.

MATER loquitur. Filius meus habet ſeptem bona. Eſt enim potẽtiſsimus quaſi ignis omnia conſumens. Secundo ſapientiſsimus, cuius ſapientiam nullus valet comprehendere, ſicut nec hauire mare. Tertio fortiſsimus quaſi mons immobilis. Quarto virtuoſiſsimus ſicut herba apiaria. Quinto eſt pulcherrimus quaſi ſol ſplendens. Sexto iuſtiſsimus, quaſi rex nulli parcens contra iuſtitiam. Septimus pijſsimus, ſicut Dominus dans ſeipſum pro vita ſerui ſui. & contra, ipſe, pertuliſ alia ſeptem

NOTAE.

ECce auolauit Monachus, & sola remanet effigies.

De hoc Monacho, cuius in præsenti nota memoria fit agitur in Reuelat. Extraneg. cap. 55.

QVOD VITA HOMINIS dissoluti, & tepidi est quasi pons arctus, & periculosus, de quo si non vertit se cito saltando in nauem pœnitentiæ, & virtutum, præcipitabitur ab inimico dæmone in chaos profundum.

CAP. CXXII.

ILE est meus capitalis inimicus, quia deridet me in loco. Omnem voluntatem suam, & cupiditatem suam implet, prout potest. Ipse est sicut ille qui iacet in ponte arcto. In cuius parte sinistra est chaos maximum, vbi qui descendit non resurget. In dextera vero parte est nauis, in qua si saltauerit laborioſe euadet, attamen spes est vitæ. Iste pons vita sua est lamentabilis, & breuis, in qua non stat vt homo viriliter decertans, nec sicut homo peregrinus, progrediens quotidie, & proficiens in via, sed stat iacens vt accidiosus, desiderans bibere aquas voluptatis. Duo itaque instant ei. Si enim surrexit de ponte, aut veniet in abissum, idest, ad infernū profunda, si vertit se ad sinistram, id est, ad opera carnis: Aut si saltauerit in nauem laborioſé euadet, quia si assumpserit Ecclesiæ sanctæ rigorem, & institutionem, laboriosum est sibi. Attamen per hæc saluabitur. Ergo vertat se citius ne inimicus præcipitet eum de ponte, quia tunc clamabit, & non audietur, sed in æternum punietur.

Addita.

Hic videns regem immutatum, nec se more solito apud eum audiri, inuidens Domine Birgittę. Cum pertransisset per quandam angustam plateam, effudit ab alto aquā de fenestra super eam, quæ dixit astantibus. Pareat ei Deus, & non reddat ei in seculo futuro. Tunc Christus apparuit Dominę in Missa, dicens: Ille homo qui effudit super te aquam de fenestra ex inuidia, sanguinem sitit, sanguinē fudit, terram desiderat, & non me. Audacter loqoitur contra me, carnem suam colit pro me Deo suo, me à se, & corde suo excludit. Caueat sibi ne in sanguine suo moriatur, postea hic homo modico tempore vixit, & fluxu sanguinis fluente de naribus eius mortuus est, sicut ipsa prædixit.

CHRISTVS DEFENDIT Sponsam suam Birgittam, idest, animam conuersam de mundo ad vitam spiritualem, quam pater, & mater, soror, & frater conabantur reuocare ab amore eius, & casto matrimonio.

CAP. CXXIII.

ILIVS loquitur Sponsæ. Ego sum quasi Sponsus, qui desponsauit sibi Sponsam quam pater & mater, soror & frater repetunt. Pater enim dicit: redde mihi filiam meam, quia de sanguine meo nata est. Mater dicit: redde mihi filiam, quia de lacte meo nutrita est. Soror dicit: redde sororem, quia mecum educata est. Frater dicit: redde mihi sororem, quia meum est regere eam. Quibus respondit Sponsus. O pater, si de sanguine tuo nata est, nunc de sanguine meo repleri debet. O mater, si eu pauisti eam lacte tuo, sic nunc ego pascam eam delectatione mea. O soror, si secundum consuetudinem tuam educata es, sic nunc tenebis consuetudinem meam. O frater: si eu rexisti eam vsque modo, ita nunc meum est regere eam. Sic tecum factum est, nam si pater, idest, voluptas carnis repetit te, meum est replere te charitate mea. Si mater, idest, cura mundi repetit te, meum est pascere te lacte consolationis meæ. Si soror, idest, consuetudo mundanæ conuersationis repetit te, potius teneris facere consuetudinem meam. Si frater te repetit, idest, voluntas propria, tu obligaris facere voluntatem meam.

QVOMODO BEATA AGNES imponebat Sponſæ Chriſti coronam de ſeptem lapidibus pretioſis, ſcilicet patientię in tribulationibus, &c.

CAP. CXXIV.

AGNES loquitur ad Sponſam dicens: Veni filia, & impone tibi coronam factam ex ſeptem lapidibus pretioſis. Quid vero eſt corona niſi probatio patientiæ, quę ex tribulationibus conflatur, & à Deo coronis adornatur. 1 Primus igitur lapis coronę eſt iaſpis quem appoſuit tibi ille, qui contumelioſe tibi dixit, ſe neſcire, quo ſpiritu loquebaris, & eſſe tibi vtilius mulierum morę ſubtiliter filare, quam de ſcripturis diſputare. Ideo ſicut iaſpis acuit viſum, & accendit gaudium animi, ſic Deus ex tribulatione accendit gaudium in animo, intellectum illuminat ad ſpiritualia, mortificat animam à motibus inordinatis. 2 Secundus lapis eſt ſaphyrus, & hunc appoſuit tibi ille, qui fauorabilia loquebatur in facie tua, & in dorſo detrahebat de te. Sicut igitur ſaphyrus eſt cæleſtis coloris, & ſeruat membra in ſanitate, ſic hominum malitia probat iuſtum, vt fiat cæleſtis, & ſeruat membra animæ, ne ſuperbia eleuetur. 3 Tertius lapis eſt ſmaragdus, hunc appoſuit tibi ille, qui dixit te dixiſſe ea, quę nec cogitabas, nec loquebaris, ideo ſicut ſmaragdus eſt fragilis ex ſe, ſed tamen pulcher, & viridis coloris, ſic mendacium citius adnihilatur, ſed tamē pulchram facit animam, propter patientię remunerationem. 4 Quartus lapis eſt margarita, hunc appoſuit tibi ille, qui amicum Dei te præſente vituperauit, ex cuius vitu perlō plus turbabaris, quam de tuo. Ideo ſicut margaritæ eſt alba, & pulchra, & alleviat cordis paſſionem; ſic dolor charitatis introducit Deum in animam; compeſcitque paſſiones iræ, & impatientiæ. 5 Quintus lapis eſt topatius, hunc appoſuit tibi ille, qui amarā loquebatur tibi, cui tu è contrario benedixiſti, ideo ſicut topatius eſt aurei coloris, & ſeruat caſtitatem, & pulchritudinem, ſic nihil pulchrius, & acceptius eſt Deo, quam ledentem ſe diligere, & pro perſequentibus exorare. 6 Sextus lapis eſt adamas, hunc appoſuit tibi ille qui fecit tibi corporale damnū, quod patienter toleraſti, & noluiſti eum dehoneſtare. Ideo ſicut adamas non frangitur tunſionibus, ſed ſanguine hirci ſic placet Deo hominem obliuiſci, & negligere propter Deum damnū corporale, & cogitare ſemper ea, quæ Deus propter hominem fecit. 7 Septimus lapis eſt carbunculus, hunc appoſuit tibi ille, qui falſa annunciauit tibi, ſcilicet, filium tuum Carolum eſſe mortuum, & patienter tuliſti, committens voluntatem tuam Deo. Ideo ſicut carbunculus lucet in domo, & in anulo eſt pulcherrimus: ſic homo, qui patiens eſt in amiſſione alicuius rei chariſſimæ ſibi prouocat Deum ad dilectionem ſui, & in conſpectu Sanctorum lucet, & placet ſicut lapis pretioſius. Ideo filia ſta ſtabilis, quia pro amplianda corona tua, adhuc aliqui lapides ſunt neceſſarij. Nam Abraham & Iob, meliores, & magis noti, ſeu famoſiores facti ſunt ex probatione, & Ioannes ſanctior ex teſtimonio veritatis.

NOTAE.

1 PRimus igitur lapis coronę eſt iaſpis, quem appoſuit tibi ille, qui contumelioſe tibi dixit ſe neſcire, quo ſpiritu loquebaris.

Speciosam admodū Beatiſsimæ Agnes, coronam ex ſeptem lapidibus pretioſis conſtare, eamque capiti Sanctæ Brigittæ aptat, & hæc illius virtutes ſeptem, quibus illam refertam, ornatamque eſſe in præſenti capite narrat, ſumit autem Dionidis ex iaſpide, cuius eſſe proprium affirmat, oculorum aciei prodeſſe, vt autem huius lapidis pretioſi natura eatenus innotescat, quatenus verborū præſentis nostræ ſenſus legentibus pateat: ſciendū eſt ex D. Iſidoro lib. 16. Etimolog. c. 7. quod iaſpis ex græco in latinum viridis gemma interpretatur, iaſpis quippe viride, pinnaſim gemma dicitur, ſpecies eius decem, & ſeptem, volūt autem quidam iaſpidem gemmam, & gratia, & inſtela eſſe geſtantibus, quod credere non fidei, ſed ſuperſtitionis eſt, cæterum de eo ſuſius tractant Plinius lib. 37. nat. hiſt. c. 9. & D. Hieron. ſuper Iſaiam c. 54. huius autem effectus dicit aliquis eſſe, & ſanguinis fluxum ſtringere, hominem caſtum reddere, & ex animo varia phantaſmata, & triſtitiam pellere, vnde Glaſſ. interlinearis ſuper Exodum c. 28. & Liranus ſuper Exodum c. 39. Iaſpidem in ſecundo ordine Rationalis Pontificis poſitum exiſtimarūt miſtice, ſignificare virtutem eam, quæ vana phantaſmata pellit ab animo, & ſeruare in omnibus moderationem debitam docet, ſpectat namque ad hanc virtutem, aliquid moderari, licet enim directe referatur ad moderantiam obſcenitatis verborum legis, vt probat D. Thom. 2. 2. q. 150. art. 1. & 2. tamen etiam ſecundum gradum, vt in hoc ſecundo ancta civitate ab ecclesia triumphante, ab ea dicta Ecclesia triumphans, ad omnes electionum, quæ in ea fiunt, ad omnes electiones Pontificum, & Regum, ac ad omnes alias electiones quæ fiunt, ad omnes Reges, Principes, & Dominos, qui in ea regnant, ad omnes Archiepiscopos, & Episcopos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Abbates, & Abbatissas, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Ecclesias, quæ in ea sunt, ad omnes Prælatos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Sacerdotes, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Religiosos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Virgines, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Continentes, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Conjugatos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Viduas, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Pauperes, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Divites, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Infirmos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Sanctos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Peccatores, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Justos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Malos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Bonos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Mundos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Immundos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Fideles, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Infideles, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Hæreticos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Catholicos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Christianos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Judæos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Gentiles, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Homines, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Animas, quæ in ea sunt, ad omnes Angelos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Archangelos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Virtutes, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Principatus, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Potestates, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Dominationes, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Thronos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Cherubin, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Seraphin, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Trinitatem, quæ in ea est, ad omnes Deum, qui in ea est, ad omnes Creaturas, quæ in ea sunt, ad omnes Creatores, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Creatos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Increatos, qui in ea sunt, ad omnes Increatum, qui in ea est, ad omnes Creatum, qui in ea est, ad omnes Creatorem, qui in ea est, ad omnes Creatricem, quæ in ea est, ad omnes Creatricem, quæ in ea est, ad omnes Creatricem, quæ eam obtinet, vt dicit Apoſtolus 1. Corin. 13. nunc autem manent fides, ſpes, charitas, tria hæc maior autem horum eſt charitas, vnde ſicut Margarita cordis paſſiones alleniat, & ob albedinem pulcherrima eſt, & propterea amoris, & puritat is ſimbolum eſſe cenſetur, ſic quoque charitas impatientiæ, & iræ acerbe compeſcit motus, eſt namq; ira accenſio ſanguinis circa cor, & ideo de ea ſcribit Paulus loco ſupra citato, quod patiens eſt, benigna eſt, non æmulatur, merito ergo coronæ B. Brigittæ Margarita poſita eſt, quoniam de ea legimus hic, quod plus de amici doluerit vituperio quam de ſuo.

3 Quintus lapis eſt topatius.

Ex proprietatibus, ac virtutibus topatij admodũ aperte colligi poteſt, quapropter etiam coronæ B. Brigittæ topatius debitus fuerit, quod vt ex eius natura manifeſtum fiat, ſciendum eſt ex Plinio lib. 37. hiſt. natural. cap. 8. & indicant etiam D. Hilar. & Ambroſ. in pſal. 118. in expoſit. eius ver ſiculi ſuper aurum, & topation, topatium eſſe viridis coloris, aut etiam aurei, vel vt habet D. Iſidorus lib. 16. Etimolog. cap. 7. Dionyſius Carthuſianus, in Apocal. cap. 21. ex virenti genere eſſe, omnique colore ſplendentem, quem ferunt in feruidam immiſſum aquam, & tepidam reddere, iram temperare, dolorem oculorum leuare, alioſque corporales morbos curare, quæ ſi vera ſunt, quis ambigat pretioſum hunc lapidem B. Brigittæ fuiſſe debitũ, cum maledicentis ſibi feruentem ſedauerit iram, impatientiæ etiam ſedatrix humor, & pro maledictionibus benedictiones reddiderit, & ideo inuidia tepeſt verba in præſenti vita cuius legimus de ea B. Agneten dixiſſe, ſic hunc appetens tibi ille, qui amara loquebatur tibi eadem contraria benedixiſti. Arethas vero, & Lyranus in locum citatum pſal. arbitrantur per topatium miſtice ſignificari intelligentiam verum cœleſtium, & ſpiritualium, quæ ratione Hæc etiam pretioſa gemma gloriosæ Brigittæ coronæ debita eſt.

6 Sextus lapis eſt Adamas.

Sextum lapidem pretioſum B. Brigittæ coronæ appoſitum fuiſſe Adamantem legimus hic, cuius natura, vt nobis quantum ad rẽ noſtrã attinet inuestigare, notandum ex Plinio lib. 38. Nat. hiſt. cap. 4. Adamantem, eo quod nulli cedat materiæ, nec ferro, nec igni indomitum lapidem appellari poſſe, qui ob ſuã duritiam creditur hircorum tantummodo ſanguine ſolui, miſſumque in calidum ſanguinẽ macerari ſæpeque poſtea pluribus ictibus ferri frangi eum ferunt, ferrugineum habere colorem, & chriſtalli ſplendorem, inuentum vtra ingentis magnitudinem fuiſſe repertum, docuit Iſidorus vbi ſupra ſicque cum magnete lapide diſidere, vt in ea poſitus ferrũ non patiatur abire ab magnete addendum quoque eſt, in electri ſimilitudine venena deprehendere, metus vacuos pellere. Maleficis reſiſtere artibus, hic ergo pretioſus lapis merito ad conficiendam B. Brigittæ coronam additus eſt, quam quidem illa vt ſcribitur hic, nec corporali aliquo damno, nec contumelioſis verbis moueri vnquam potuit, vt Deum offenderet, vtque pro eo iniurias proximo redderet, ſed armis munita patientiæ, veluti Adamas nullis frangebatur ictibus iræ, eoque ſebat fortior, quo magis tentationibus premebatur, & pro Chriſti nomine inter flagella latabatur, ideoque meruit in ſua corona Adamantem habere, patientiæ namque quæ in arduis, ac difficilioribus rebus fortitudinem præſtat Adamas figuram gerit.

7 Septimus lapis eſt Carbunculus.

Poſtremus lapis pretioſus, cuius hoc loco B. Agnes meminit Carbunculus eſt, hunc gemmarum ardentium primum tenere locum teſtis eſt D. Iſidorus libr. ſuperioribus notis citato c. 13. & Plinius lib. 37. hiſt. nat. cap. 7. quem ita appellatum eſſe cenſent, quod ignitus ſit, vt carbo, cuius fulgor, nec nocte vincitur, nec tenebris ſuperatur, ſicque lucet in nocte, vt flamas vibret ad oculos: ex huius ergo pretioſi lapidis præſtantia colligendum eſt quare ille B. Brigittæ coronæ inſertus fuerit quoniam, vt diximus, ſicut carbo magis lucet in nocte, quam die ſic illa in tribulationis nocte poſita reſplenduit magis, quam in die proſperitatis, imo noctem aduerſitatis vertit in diem letitiæ, quando de ſui filij Caroli morte eatior facta ſe patientem exhibuit, ſuamque voluntatem penitus Deo commiſſit, vt mirum non ſit ſi ad diligendum ſe Deum prouocauerit, & hoc eſt quod ſcribitur hic, ideo ſicut carbunculus lucet in domo, & in annullo pulcherrimus eſt, ſic homo, qui patiens eſt in amiſſione alicuius rei charißimæ ſibi prouocat Deum ad dilectionem ſui, & in conſpectu ſanctorum lucet.

bulationem mundi. Qui autem onus alterius imponit dorso suo, peccat grauius, quia nec timorem habet, nec quærit salutem animæ. O quanta præsumptio. O quantus defectus charitatis est, habere claues iuriũ in manu, & propter modicum corruptibile, conari contra claues, & iura. Ideo placare studeat ipse Deum, & inducat coniugium illud ad fructuosam pœnitentiam, & absolutionem debitam. Alioquin dies eius breuiabuntur, & venient in iudicium meum. Et ruina Ecclesiæ eius erit tam magna, quod vix reædificabitur, & desiderabilia eorum erunt in ruinas, & ipsi in contemptum. Tu vero filia scribe coniugi tibi noto, quod nisi se emendauerint, & absolutionem meruerint, non facient fructum longeuum, & filij eorum non habebũt longos annos, & quem congregata sunt venient ad alienos. Item de eodem Episcopo. Ille Episcopus venit ad me humilis, sicut ille, qui consumpta hæreditate, comedit siliquas, & reuersus est humilis ad patrem. Vere filia hæc mundialia sunt quasi siliquæ, quando medulla frumẽti, ideſt, Deus expulsus est à corde, & labor superuacuus, & sine fructu desideratur. Mundusque diligitur plusquam Deus. Sed quia iam iste Episcopus incipit cognoscere me, & seipsũ. Ideo faciam ei sicut pius pater, obliuiscens priorum, & occurram ei in media via, dando anulum in manu, & calciamẽta in pedes, & vitulum ad comedendum. Nam ab isto die charitas mea erit feruentior in operibus eius, Diuina patientia, & sapientia erit cum eo perfectior ad trahendum secum proximos suos, frequentior quandoq. erit, & sollicitior ad sumendum, & honorandum corpus meum, hoc donum promeruit ei Mater mea charissima, quæ patrona Ecclesiæ eius est. Item de eodem Episcopo habetur in principio c. 130. Quartum animal, ideſt Episcopus, qui in lepra sua perseuerabat, vt cæcus est subito sine Sacramento. De isto require 6. lib. cap. 97. Quintum animal fuit sicut lapis quadratus homo in omnibus temperatus, & discretus. De quo require 3. lib. cap. 33. Sextum est animal, id sextus Episcopus fuit homo timoratus, & cordis Dei seruator, qui Ecclesiam suam sapienter gubernans, à multis obligationibus liberauit. De isto mortuo dixit Christus. Scriptura aurea dicit, quod principium sapientiæ est timor Dei, illud est verum, sed ego dico quod finis perfectionis est etiam timor Dei, quem quia iste Episcopus habuit, peroenit per cõpendium salubre ad viam salutis. Septimum animal, ideſt septimus Episcopus, maximæ abstinentiæ fuit, pelum Dei habens, nec metu, nec amore, nec dãno reticuit veritatem, hic cum se posuisset ad orationem, reddidit spiritum. De isto Episcopo sunt plures reuelationes in vita Dominæ Brigittæ. Qui fuit dominus Hemingus Episcopus Abosnensis, & amicus Beatæ Virginis Mariæ. Sicut patet extra cap. 104. Item reuelatio de Episcopo, qui fuit successor animalis secundi. Filius Dei loquitur: Scribe Episcopo, quod aues rapacissime intrauerunt terram, vt ponant in ea sibi nidos suos. Ideo laboret Episcopus ipse cum amicis suis, vt vngulæ earum præscindantur, & non obtineant caccumina terrarum, nec dilatent alas suas in communitatem. Alio quin rostris suis, & vngulis, extirpabunt fructifera terræ, & volabunt super excelsa, & montes, & terram redigent in solitudinem, & ruinam.

VIRGO MARIA LOQVEBATVR cum Sponsa filij sui, de quodam Episcopo, pro quo ipsa deuote orabat. Et dat hic notabilem doctrinam, & formam virtuosissimam, secundum quam Episcopi viuere, & se, ac subditos suos regere debeant spiritualiter, & deuote.

CAP. CXXVI.

MATER Misericordiæ loquebatur Sponsæ Christi, dicens. Quid faciemus isti cæco Episcopo. Ipse enim tria habet, laborat quippe, vt placeat hominibus plusquã Deo, diligit thesaurum, non quem Angeli custodiunt, sed quem fures furari possunt, diligit etiam se plusquam proximum suum, & plusquam Deum suum. Et ecce in eodem momento vidit Sponsa quasi sex stateras, quarum res ponderosæ erant, quia deprimenatural Emblem: Affliction, one has a Pain, Sorrow, Grief in the Mind, and one is afflicted in Body, Sickness, Weakness, Infirmity, Affliction of Body, Pain, &c. Grief is the Affliction of the Mind, and Sorrow is the Affliction of the Heart, and Pain is the Affliction of the Body, and Sickness is the Affliction of the Body, and Weakness is the Affliction of the Body, and Infirmity is the Affliction of the Body, and Affliction of Body is the Affliction of the Body

est ligatum nihil iuuare potest trahentem, nec se ipsum si cesiderit. Si vero immundū fuerit, abominabile est ad trahendum. Propterea qui trahi debet, & trahi desiderat, necesse est vt mundetur prius, & præparetur decenter, donec trahibilis, & delectabilis fiat ad trahendum manibus. Verumtamen propter preces matris meæ, cum iste Episcopus quæsierit viam, demonstrabitur ei via recta. Deinde subiunxit Mater dicens Sponsæ: Audi tu cui datum est audire spiritualia. Dixi tibi prius, quod quando Episcopus quæsierit viam, demonstrabitur ei. Ideo nunc dico tibi viam. Si Episcopus iste voluerit ire per viam quam Euangelium loquitur, & esse vnus de paucis, debet habere tria ante aggressionem viæ. Debet primo deponere pondus circumstans, & onerans eum, hoc est mundi cupiditatem, & saccum pecuniæ, non diligendo mundum ad aliquā superfluitatem, & superbiam, sed habendo ab eo necessaria sua, iuxta episcopalem modestiam, & humilem exigentiam. Omnia vero alia disponendo ad honorem Dei. Sic enim fecit ille bonus Matthæus, deposuit enim pondus graue cupiditatis, quod tamen non intellexerat esse onerosum, antequam assumpsit onus Dei leue, & suaue. Secundo debet esse præcinctus, & paratus ad ambulandum, sicut dicit Scriptura, quod cum Thobias mitteretur à patre pro pecunia, inuenit Angelum succinctum ad viam. Quem significat Angelus iste, nisi sacerdotem Domini, & Episcopum, qui tenetur esse mundus in carne, & affectione? quia iuxta propheciam sacerdos est Angelus Domini exercituum, quia eundem Deum recipit, & conficerat, quem Angeli vident, & adorant? Cur vero Angelus apparuit Thobiæ præcinctus ad viam, nisi quod omnis sacerdos, & Episcopus, præcinctus debet esse cingulo diuinæ iustitiæ, paratus dare animam suam pro ouibus suis, paratus in verbis loquendo veritatem? Paratus in operibus ostendendo in seipso viam iustitiæ? Paratus ad patiendum pro iustitia, & veritate, non diminuendo eam propter minas, & opprobria, non tacendo propter falsam amicitiā, non dissimulando propter aliquorum diffuasionem? Omnis ergo Episcopus, qui talitur inductus est iustitia, non confidens in se, sed in Deo, ad eum veniet Thobias, idest homo iustus, & homines iusti sequentur eum, quia plus proficiunt exempla bona, & opera, quam verba nuda. Tertio debet comedere panem, & aquam, sicut legitur de Helia, quod inuenit ad caput suum panem, & monebatur per Angelum comedere, quia grandis restabat via. Quis est panis quem comedit Helias, unde tantum confortatus est, nisi bonum corporale, & spirituale, quod dabatur ei? Nam præparabatur panis corporalis, propter exemplum aliorum, vt sciretur placitum esse Deo habere moderata necessaria ad refectionem carnis. Dabatur etiam prophetiæ infusio, & fortitudo spiritualis, quadraginta diebus laborauit, vt sciretur, quod nō in solo pane viuit homo, sed in omni verbo Dei. Nisi enim Deus infudisset prophetiæ consolationem, certe defecisset ipse ex infirmitate propria, quia homo erat infirmus ex se, sed fortis ex Deo. Quia omnis qui stat, & fortis est, ex Deo est fortis, & virilis. Propterea, quia Episcopus iste infirmus est, disponimus ei buccellam panis, hoc est diligere Deum super omnia, ordinate, pure, veraciter, & perfecte. Ordinate vt mundum diligat ad nullam superfluitatem. Pure, vt nullum peccatum in se, nec in proximo diligat, nec consuetudinem prauam velit imitari. Veraciter, vt nullum peccatum ex confidentia bonorum operū tuorum admittat, sed sapienter temperet seipsum in seipso, ne succumbat ex nimio feruore, aut forte declinet ad peccatum ex pusillanimitate, & ex prauorum imitatione, & leuigatione culpæ. Perfecte, vt nil dulcescat tantum ei sicut Deus. Monemus etiam eum habere aquam cum pane charitatis. Quæ est ista aqua, nisi cogitare continue amaritudinem passionis Iesu Christi. Quis enim digne posset cogitare angustias humanitatis Christi, quas nunc patiebatur, quando rogauit transferri à se calicem passionis, & quando gutte sanguinis exierunt de corpore eius? Bene quippe sudor ille sanguineus erat, quia sanguis humanitatis Dei, consumebatur ex naturali timore quē patiebatur, vt ostenderet se esse verum hominem non fantasticum, nec immunē a passione. Ergo bibat Episcopus aquam istā cogitando, scilicet qualiter Deus stetit ante Herodem, & Pilatum, quām doloroſus, & contemptibilis in cruce, & quomodo latus eius lancea aperiebatur, de quo exiuit sanguis, & aqua. Cumque Episcopus habuerit ista tria iam dicta, tunc est ei vtile scire dispositionem temporū suorum, a principio diei vsq. ad noctē. Nam cum primo Episcopus euigilauerit de nocte, statim debet regratiari Deo pro charitate eius in creatione. Pro passione eius in redēptione. Pro patientia, qua supportauit diu peccata, & mores eius. Deinde cū surgit de lecto, & induit vestes, dicat sic. Terra tenetur vestiri terra sua, & cinis esse cum cinere suo. Veruntamē quia ex prouidētia Dei episcopale habeo officium, in spectulum aliorum. Ideo induo me asinum, qui es corpus meum in cinere, & terra, non propter superbiam, sed in operimentebeat decem digitos ante oculos, inter quos respiciat tanquam per cancellos, ne ipius subito, & faciliter penetrent oculos nudos. Tertio est, quod ponat caute pedes in terram, & in quolibet vestigio sollicite tentet, si pes subsistit solidæ, nec nimis præcipitanter ponat ambos pedes simul, nisi prius fuerit certus de via, verum lubrica sit an æqualis. Quid ergo significat, quod via est arcta, nisi malitiam malorum, & aduersitatem mundi, quæ impedit, & sollicitat iustum in via iustitiæ. Ideo contra ista induat se Episcopus vestibus patiétiæ, & constantiæ, quia gloria magna est, pati opprobria pro iustitia, & veritate. Quid vero significant decem digiti habendi ante oculos, nisi decem præcepta, in quibus iustus homo speculari debet quotidie. Vt quoties pungit spina opprobrij, respiciatur dilectio Dei. Quoties pungit spina malitiæ, apponatur dilectio proximi. Quoties vero delectat amor mundi, & carnis, respiciatur quod scriptum est. Non concupisces, sed concupiscentiæ tuæ pone frænum, atque modum. Vbi enim charitas est Domina, ibi est patientia in tribulationibus, gaudium in infirmitatibus, dolor de superfluitatibus, timor de honore, humilitas in potestate, & desiderium ad relinquendum mundum. Quid vero significat, quod in quolibet vestigio debes tentare, si pedes stat solidæ, nisi quod vbique tenetur timere rationabiliter? Nam iustus debet habere duos pedes spirituales, desiderium, scilicet æternorum, & fastidium mundanorum. In primo debet esse dilectio, ne desiderat æterna ad honorem suum solum plus quam Dei. Ideo totum desiderium eorum ponas ad voluntatem, & honorem Dei. In secundo debet esse cautio, ne fastidium mundi sit irrationabile, vel propter impatientiam vitæ, & casus aduersos, vel propter accidiam Diuini laboris. Ideo in illo sit cautio, vt fastidium mundi sit propter desiderium melioris vitæ, & propter abominationem peccatorum. Ergo si Episcopus habuerit istos duos pedes, tunc debet iam, quod illa quæ emendauit, quod forte non sunt bene emendata, & processerit in via ista arcta, respiciat, tunc præcaueo eum iterum de tribus inimicis, qui sunt in via. Primus quippe hostis sibilat in aures eius. Secundus stat ante eum, paratus pungere in oculos eius. Tertius iacet ante pedes eius, clamans alte, habens laqueum, vt illaqueet pedes eius, si ad clamorem ipsius in aliquem eleuentur. Primus itaque hostis sunt homines illi, vel inspirationes illæ diabolicæ, quæ suggerunt Episcopo taliter. Cur sic vadis humiliter, & arcte? Cur tantum assumis tibi laboris? Nunquid vis tu sanctior esse aliis, vt facias illa quæ nemo facit, diuerte potius in viam floridam, per quam ambulant plures, ne forte contemptibiliter deficias. Quid ad te si homines viuunt bene, vel male? Quid prodest tibi offendere illos à quibus honorem consequi poteris, & amorem, si non offendunt te neque tuos? Quid ad te si offendunt Deum? Da potius eis dona, & accipe, vtere honore tuo, & amicitia hominum, vt æque possis honores hominum habere, & cœlestia obtinere. Ecce talis hostis sibilat, & sibilauit in aures multorum. Et ideo lucernæ multæ, quæ lucere deberent in tenebris, factæ sunt ipsæ tenebræ, & aurum optimum mutatum est in lutum. Secundus hostis, qui pungit oculos, est pulchritudo mundi, & possessiones terræ, apparatus rerum, & vestium, fauores hominum, & honores. Cum enim omnia ista appetuntur, & offeruntur, sic excæcant oculos animæ, & rationis, quod dulcius videatur stare cum Samsone ad molam curæ mundialis, quam cum Sponsa Ecclesia ad dispensationem curæ pastoralis? Intuper, & charitas Dei, si qua fuit tunc magis tepescit, peccatum committitur fiducialiter, & commissum ex potestatis fiducia leuigatur. Propterea cum Episcopus habet necessaria sua, constituto familiæ suæ numero, quo honestatem suam, & auctoritatem seruare possit contenteatur, sicut scriptum est. Sint mores vestri sine auaritia, contenti modo præsentibus rebus, quia nemo militans Deo roto corde, implicat se negotiis secularibus, nisi contra voluntatem suam, ad honorem Dei. Tertius hostis habet laqueum, qui clamat taliter. Cur sic humiliaris, qui præ alijs honorari poteris? Labora ergo, vt ascendas superius, tunc abundare, & dare poteris amplius. Est igitur sacerdos, vt sedeas cum primis. Esto Episcopus, & postea Archiepiscopus, vel altior, vt maiorem obtineas quietem, maius seruitium, & maiorem honorem. Tunc alios adiuuare poteris, & ab astis plus timeri, & à pluribus consolari. Cuique animus talibus illuditur suggestionibus, mox incauto extenditur pes ad cupiditatem, & inquiritur modus ascensionis, ad sublimiorem statum. Et tunc animus sic innectitur laqueis cupiditatis, & sollicitudinis temporalis, quod vix consurgit. Nec mirum. Scriptura enim dicit, quod qui Episcopatum desiderat, vel sacerdotium, bonum opus desiderat. Quid est illud bonum? certe laborare pro anima, & pro honore Dei, laborare pro æternalibus, & non pro caduris. Nunc autem omnes desiderant honorē, sed non laborem, qui tamen non est honor, sed afflictio. Vbi enim nō est onus laboris Diuini, ibi non subsequitur ho-nec aliam regulam, nisi regulam Salvatoris nostri, quam ego & mei ab initio fundationis meæ professi sumus, & quam ego Deo & beatæ Mariæ Virgini promisi. Et hoc non ob aliud, nisi quia talem, sicut ipse placuit, eam inspiravit Spiritus sanctus, & ita eam ordinavit & confirmavit Deus. Quod si aliquis aliter dixerit, anathema sit. Hæc autem dicens subjunxit: Ego sum Alpha & Omega, principium & finis. Ego vidua fortis, quæ nunquam habui virum, & tamen habui filios multiplicatos, & habeo nunc filios & filias, quos & quas genui sine virili semine. Ego sum Virgo te propter charitatem tuam. Tunc quoque dicturæ sunt animæ sanctæ in cœlo existentes. Ecce Domine Deus, gaudium nostrum est in te. Attamen gaudemus etiam de isto Episcopo. Nam florem portauit in ore, quo vocabat plures oues, florem portabat in manibus, quo reficiebat aduenientes oues, flores transmittebat habitantibus de longe, quibus excitabat dormientes oues. Et ideo quia floribus verborum suorum augmentauit chorum nostrum, gaudemus in eo. Gaude, & tu Domine Deus in homine isto, & de honore eius, quia super omnia desideranit te. Tunc quoque dicturus est Episcopo, Dominus dator gloriæ. O amice, venisti præsentare mihi vas cordis tui vacuũ à te, & desideraſti impleri de me. Ideo veni, & ego implebo te meipso. Tu esto in me, & ego in te, gloria enim tua, & lætitia tua quam habebit finem.

NOTAE.

OMnia seneque in hoc capite traduntur ad verbum supra legimus, lib. 3. cap. 1. vbi annotauimus plura, quæ ad horum cognitionem spectare arbitrati sumus.

VIRGO MARIA NOTIFICAT Sponsæ oranti pro quodam heremita amico suo tunc mortuo, quod antequam corpus illius sepeliatur sub terra, anima eius introducetur in gloria.

CAP. CXXVII.

RANTE Sponsa pro quodam sene presbytero heremita præclare vitæ, & magnæ virtutis amico suo, qui tunc migrauerat de hac vita, & iam positus erat in feretro in ecclesia, vt sepeliretur. Tunc ibidem personæ apparuit Virgo Maria sic dicens. Attende filia, & scias, quod anima illius heremitæ amici mei, statim cum egressa fuit de corpore eius intrasset in cælum, nisi quia non habuit in morte perfectum desiderium, perueniendi ad præsentiam Dei, & eius visionem. Et ideo detinetur nunc in illo purgatorio desiderij, vbi nulla pœna est, nisi solum desiderium perueniendi ad Deũ. Sed tamẽ scias, quod antequam corpus eius intret sub terra, anima eius introducetur in gloria.

Additio.

Dic iterum illi seni religioso, diu stetisti in heremo, & fecisti fructum, qui mihi placuit, conuertens bestias in oues, & leones in agnos. Nunc sta constanter in vrbe in quaplateæ, stratę sunt sanguine Sanctorum meorum, quia auditurus es iudicium, & retributionem tuam videbis. Quibus auditis, statim infirmatus est, & non longe post in pace quieuit. Hic frater quidem Benedictinus, rogauit Dominam, vt requireret Deum, quatenus certificari posset de habitu suo, quia multum tribulabatur de multitudine abusiuum habitus, religionis sancti Benedicti. Igitur cum Domina fuisset in Spiritu, dixit ei Filius Dei. Dixi tibi prius, scilicet 3. lib. 20. & 21. cap. quod Benedictus famulus meus habuit corpus suũ quasi saccum, qui habait quintuplicem vestem. Prima fuit tunica aspera, qua domuit carnem & motus inordinatos, ne lasciuirent, & non excederent metas suas. Secunda vestis fuit cuculla simplex, non accurata, nec rugosa, quæ tegeret, & ornaret, & calefaceret carnem, ne videntibus horror esset. Tertia fuit scapulare, quo ad laborem manuum promptior, & expeditior inueniretur. Quarta vestis fuit munimentum pedum, vt esset agilior, & humilior ad ambulãdum in via Dei. Quinta fuit cingulum humilitatis quo præcinctus restringeret superflua, & expeditius laboraret confuetum, & innectum laborẽ. Nunc autem fratres sui quærunt vestes, quę excitant luxuriam, & abominantur asperitatem quærunt indumenta, quæ placent hominibus, & quæ carnẽ excitant ad carnale. Nam pro cuculla assumunt cappam ita rugosam, ita latam, & longam, vt potius videantur superbi elẽtatores, quam religiosi homines humiles. Pro scapulari vero habent breuem panniculum ante, & retro, & caput muniunt cum caputio secularium, vt sæcularibus se conformẽt. Et sic nec similes sunt hominibus mundi, nec laborant cũ humilibus seruis Dei. Pedes vero sic muniunt, & sic præcingunt de cingulo, sicut qui parati sunt ad nuptias, non ad decertandũ in stadio laboris. Propterea monachus qui saluari desiderat, attendat quod regula Benedicti mei, permittit habere necessaria cum mõderantia, vtilia non superflua, honesta, & expedientia, omnia humilia, nullaque superba. Quid enim significat cuculla, niſi habere maiorem præ cæteris humilitatem? Quid vero ſignificat caputium contemptibile cucullę, niſi quandam abiectionem habere contra mores mundiales? Sed cur nunc à religioſis aſſumitur caputium mundiale, niſi quia erubeſcunt humilia, & vt mundialius ſe concordent? Quid vero ornamẽti habet cauda caputij, quidve vtilitatis, niſi quandam oſtentationem, & quandam contra religiones pulchritudinem curioſitatem? Quid vero faciat cappa rugoſa plusquam cuculla, niſi vt monachus girouagus, expeditior, & glorioſior credatur, & videatur. Attamen etiam ſi cappa humilis, & pura portaretur propter aliquem commendabilem neceſſitatem, non obeſſet moribus bonis, ſed decentior eſſet cuculla humilitatis, vt vnuſquiſque de habitu ſuo cognoſceretur, cuius ordinis eſſet profeſſor. Si vero monachus infirmaretur in capite, aut affligeretur frigore non peccaret, ſi haberet conueniens, & humile cooperimentũ ſubtus caputium cucullæ, non ab extra, quia hoc arguitur leuitatis, & vanitatis. Reſpondit Domina: O Domine, ne indigneris ſi quæro. Nunquid illi fratres peccant, qui portant talem habitum ex licentia Prælatorum, & conſuetudine inſtitutiõnum prædeceſſorum? Cui Deus. Diſpenſatio, inquit, rata eſt, ſi ex bona intentione procedit. Nam quidam diſpenſant ex zelo iuſtitiæ. Alij ex falſa compaſſione, & indiſcreta permiſſione. Alij ex leuitate amorum ſuorum, & affectu placendi hominibus. Alij diſſimulant iſta, quia vacui diuina charitate ſunt. Sed apud me eſt illa diſpenſatio grata, quæ non contrariatur humilitati. Et illa permiſſio rata eſt, quæ neceſſaria diſcrete permittit, ſuperfluaque etiam in minimis damnat. Item quæſiuit Domina. O Domine Deus meus, quid ſi aliqui ignorant, quid melius aut decentius ſit in regula, nunquid etiam illi peccant? Reſpondit Chriſtus. Quomodo poteſt profeſſor regulæ ignorare regulam, quæ quotidie legitur, & auditur? In qua inſtituitur monachus, humiliari, & obedire, & habitum habere de vilioribus, non de mollioribus, & habitum portare exemplarem, non pompoſum. Aut cuius conſcientia ſic obtuſa eſt, quod non intelligat ſe profeſſorem humilitatis, & totius paupertatis? Ergo ille eſt monachus Benedicti, qui plus obedit regulę quam carni, qui nec in habitu, nec in moribus alicui placere deſiderat niſi Deo, qui quotidie deſiderat mori, & parat ſe ad exitum de hoc mundo, ſollicitus eſt quomodo reddat rationem de Regula Benedicti.

NOTAE.

1 ET ideo detinetur nunc in illo purgatorio deſiderii, vbi nulla pœna eſt, niſi ſolum deſiderium perueniendi ad Deum.

De hoc loco cuius hic mentio fit, egimus ſupra hoc eodem lib. cap. 7. nota ſeptima, vbi probauimus ex D. Greg. & Venerabili Beda, aliiſque pluribus, hunc locum probabiliter reperiri, quem etiam Illuſtriſſimus Cardinalis Bellarminus, lib. 2. de Purgatorio, cap. 7. controuerſia ſexta, mitiſſimum purgatorium appellat, quippe in quo nulla eſt pœna ſenſus, ſed tantummodo damni, quæ debetur animæ nondum plene purgatæ, & ad hunc locum peruenisſe haremitam illum ſcribitur hic, pro quo orauit B. Brigitta, & hunc locum ſpectare, ad Purgatorium tradidimus lib. 4. c. 7. nota ſeptima. & de illo quoque legimus in præſenti capite, quod animæ ibi exiſtentes, nullam ſenſus pœnam patiuntur, niſi quod habent deſiderium quoddam intenſum perueniendi ad Deum.

RESPONSIO MATRIS Virginis ad Sponſam Filii, orantem pro quodam Sene heremita in dubitatione poſito. An acceptius eſſet Deo, quod ipſe frueretur mentalis conſolationis dulcedine, non recedendo vnquam de heremo, an quod deſcenderet aliquando ad ædificandum animas proximiorum.

CAP. CXXVIII.

MATER loquitur: Die illi presbytero Seni heremitę amico meo, qui quaſi contra voluntatem ſuam, & pacem animæ ſuæ, conſtrictus fide, & deuotione proximorum, Aliquando relicta cella ſolitudinis, & ſua contemplationis quiete, ex charitate deſcẽdit de heremo inter gentes, ad dandum conſilia ſpiritualia eiſdem proximis. Cuius exemplo, & conſilio ſalutari, multę animę ad Deum conuertuntur, & iam conuerſi ad altiora virtutum proficiunt. Qui humiliter dubitans de calliditate, & deceptione fraudolẽte diaboli, te requiſiuit de conſilio cum humilihumiliter, & rogauit, vt orares pro eo. Super hoc, videlicet, vtrum Deo magis placeret, quod ipse vacaret suæ soli contemplationis dulcedini, an Deo acceptior esset talis charitas proximorum. Dic ergo ei sic ex parte mea, quod omnino Deo magis placet, quod sicut dictum est, aliquando ipse descendat de heremo, & vadat ad exercenda in proximis talia opera charitatis, participando cum eis, virtutes, & gratias quas ipse habet Deo, vt ex hoc ipsi conuertantur, & adhæreant feruentius Deo, & participes fiant gloriæ eius, quam si in cella solitudinis, idem heremita suæ soli consolationi mentali vacaret. Et dic ei, quod de tali charitate maius meritum retributionis ipse habebit in cœlis. Dum tamen ad talem charitatem exercendam, ipse vadat cum consilio semper, & voluntate sui senioris patris spiritualis. Item dic ei, quod ego volo, quod ipse recipiat in filios suos spirituales, sub consilio suo regendos omnes heremitas, & etiam omnes monachales, & reclusas, alios filios spirituales illius amici mei heremitæ, qui mortuus est. Et dirigat eos omnes suo charitatiuo consilio spiritualiter, & virtuose, sicut ille in vita sua gubernauit, & direxit eos, quia sic placet Deo. Et si ipsi eum in patrē receperint, & ei humiliter obedierint in vita heremitica, & spirituali, tunc ipse erit eis pater, & ego ero eis mater. Si vero aliquis eorum noluerit eum in patrem spiritualem recipere, aut ei obedire, tunc melius erit tali inobedienti, quod statim recedat ab eis, quam quod amplius permaneat cum eis. Vadat tamen idem amicus meus supradictus ad eos, & reuertatur ad cellam suam, quotiens ei videbitur, semper tamen cum consilio, & voluntate sui patris senioris.

POST DVOS ANNOS à tempore quo Sponsa habuit illam visionem de animali, & pisce, quæ continetur supra in isto quarto libro secundo capitulo, Christus apparens ei, exponit dictam visionem obscurissimam, valde clare, & notabiliter, dicens quod animal, & piscis, per peccatores, & Gentiles. Cupientes vero per iustos, & virtuosos homines designantur.

CAP. CXXIX.

ILIVS loquitur ad Sponsam. Dixi prius, quod desidero cor animalis, & sanguinem piscis. Quid autem est cor animalis, nisi illa anima dilecta, & immortalis Christianorum, quæ plus placet mihi, quã omne quod in mundo desiderabile videtur? Quid vero est sanguis piscis, nisi charitas perfecta ad Deum? Ideo cor præsentari debet mihi mũdissimis manibus. Sanguis vero in vase ornato, quia munditia Deo, & Angelis placita est. Et sicut gemma in anulo, puritas conuenientissima est omni operi spirituali. Charitas vero Diuina præsentari debet in vase adornato, quia anima gentilium quasi vas relucere & ardere debet, ardentissima dilectione ad Deum, per quam fideles, & infideles tanquam vnum corpus vniuntur capiti suo Deo. Ergo qui præsentare mihi desiderat cor Christiani indurati in peccato, qui est quasi animal absque iugo obedientiæ, discurrens per vitia, & in desideriis suis viuens, debet manus suas perforare cerebro acuto, quæ tunc nec gladii, nec sagittę prævalebunt. Quid vero sunt manus hominis iusti, nisi operationes eius corporales, scilicet, & spirituales. Corporalis enim manus, idest, laborare, & sustentare corpus necessaria est. Spiritualis vero manus est ieiunare, & orare, & similia. Ergo, vt omnis operatio hominis sit moderata, & discreta debet perforari timore Dei. Nam omni hora cogitare tenetur homo, quod Deus est semper præsens, & timere debet ne auferatur gratia sibi data, quia sine adiutorio Dei, homo nihil potest, & cũ eius charitate omnia potest. Sicut ergo cerebrũ præparat foramina rei imponendę, sic ti-sic timor Dei omnia opera solidat, & præparat viam charitati diuinæ, & allicit Deũ ad iuuandum. Propterea sit homo timorosus in omnibus actibus suis,& discretus, quia licet vterque labor spiritualis,scilicet & corporalis necessarius est, tamen sine timore, & discretione vtilis non est, quia indiscretio, & præsumptio omnia corrumpunt, & confundunt, & bonam perseuerantiæ tollunt. Qui ergo desiderat vincere duritiam animalis, sit inflexibilis in operibus discretionis, & constans in timore, & spe adiutorij diuini, & conetur quantum potest, & Deus adiutorium administrabit, confringendo cor infuratum. Debet etiã amicus meus munire oculos suos palperis cetæ, cum forcissimo bitumine, ne ex visu Basilisci moriatur. Quid autem sunt oculi viri iusti, nisi duplex consideratio eius quotidie habenda, scilicet consideratio beneficiorum Dei, & cognitio sui ipsius? Cogitans enim beneficia Dei, & misericordiam eius attendat vtilitatem propriam,& ingratitudinem suam, ad beneficia Dei. Et cum animis sentit se meteri iudicium, muniat oculos considerationis suæ palpebris cete, idest fide, & spe diuinæ bonitatis, vt non dissoluatur cogitando misericordiam, nec diffidat cogitando iudicium Dei. Sicut enim palpebræ cetę, nec molles sunt, vt caro, nec dure, vt ossa, sic homo inter misericordiam Dei, & eius iudicium moderatus sit, sperando constanter misericordiam, & timendo prudenter iuditium. Gaudeat quoque de misericordia, & propter iustitiam proficiat de virtute in virtutem. Ergo qui sic quotidie stat inter misericordiam, & iustitiam, spe, & timore,non habet timere oculos animalis. Quid autem sunt oculi animalis, nisi sapientia mundana, & prosperitas temporalis? Sapientia enim mundi,quæ primo oculo animalis comparatur, est quasi visus Basilisci, quia sperat illa, quæ videt, & remuneratio eius est in prompto, quia desiderat peritura. Sapientia vero diuina sperat illa, quæ non videt, prosperitatem mundi non attendit, humilitatem, & patientiam diligit, remunerationem non quęrit, nisi æternam. Secundus oculus animalis est prosperitas mũdi, quam nati appetentes cælestia obliuiscuntur, & persequuntur, & contra Deum indurantur. Ergo omnis homo, qui desiderat salutem proximi, coniungat oculos suos cum discretione, oculis animalis, id est proximi, proponendo ei beneficia misericordiæ Dei,& iuditia eius apponendo verbis mundialibus verba sapientiæ Dei,ostendendo perseuerantem vitam continentiæ, hominibus incontinentibus, contęmnendo diuitias, & honores præsentes propter charitatem Dei, prædicando iugiter, & prædicata implendo. Quia vita spiritualis approbat verba, & exempla sancta plus proficiunt, quam verbosa eloquentia sine operum effectu. Nam qui beneficia Dei,& iudicia eius semper habent in mente,qui verba Dei continue habent in ore, & illa opere implent, & firmiter sperant in bonitate Dei, non lædentur cuspidibus gladiorum inimici, idest fallacibus admonitionibus hominum mundialium, sed proficient, & propter charitatem conuertent errantes ad veram charitatem Dei. Qui vero de gratia superbiunt,& de eloquentia quærunt lucrum, viuentes moriuntur. Lamina quoque calibis alligari debet cordi,quia charitas Dei semper ponenda est ante oculos, cogitando scilicet, quomodo Deus factus homo humiliauit se. Quomodo prædicando tolerabat famem, & sitim,& laborem. Quomodo suspensus in cruce,& mortuus, surrexit, & ascendit in cælum. Hæc lamina, id est charitas habet latitudinem, & planiciem quando mens parata est patienter contraria aduersantia, quando de nullis iudicijs Dei murmurat, nec angustiatur de tribulationibus, se voluntatem propriam, & totum corpus posit in voluntate, & dispositione Dei. O filia, ego fui calibs fortissimus quando in cruce extensus, & quasi oblitus passionis meæ, & vulnerum meorum orani pro inimicis. Claudenda quoque sunt interstitia narium, & clausura currendũ est ad animal. Quia sicut per interstitia narium intrat,& exit flatus, sic per desideria hominis intrat vita, & mors in animam. Et ideo sicut a morte, sic a desiderijs malis cauendum est ne intrent in animam, vel ne ingressa immorentur.Ergo qui ardua vincere proponit, attendat ad tẽtationes suas,& caueat ne per inordinata desideria minuatur Dei zelus, quia toto desiderio, & zelo diuino, & cum omni patientia currendum est ad peccatorem, oportune, & importune, vt conuertatur,& vbi iustus nihil proficit loquendo, vel admonendo, ibi zelus est exercendus, orationumq; instantia continuanda. Insuper animal ambabus manibus apprehendendum est. Nam animal habet duas aures, vnam qua libenter audit delectabilia sua,aliam quam obstruit ne audiat proficua animæ suæ. Sic etiam amico Dei est vtile habere duas manus spirituales, sicut prius habuit corporales, sed habeat eas perforatas. Vna manus sit sapientia diuina, qua ostendat peccatori omnia esse caduca mundi huius, & labilia,& qui delectatur in eis seducitur,& non soluatur, quia omnia ad necessitatem con-conceſſa ſunt, & non ad ſuperfluitatem. Secunda manus ſit exemplum bonum, & bona operatio, quia bonus homo facere debet, quæ docet, vt audientes exemplo eius roborentur. Nam multi docent, & non exemplificant, hi ſunt qui ſine cemento erigunt lapides in frigore mentis ſuæ, qui irruente tempeſtate ſtatim diſſoluuntur. Pellis quoque animalis, quę eſt quaſi filex malleo, & igne aggredienda eſt. Nam in pelle notatur oſtenſio, & ſimulatio iuſtitię. Mali quippe, quia boni eſſe nolunt, appetunt videri quod non ſunt. Et quia laudabiles vocari deſiderant, ſed non laudabiliter viuere, oſtendunt foris ſanctitatem, & ſimulant iuſtitiam quam nequaquã habent in mente, & ideo in apparentia ſimulate ſanctitatis, ſic ſuperbiunt, & indurantur, quaſi filex, quod nec increpationibus, nec ratione aperta molleſcunt. Propterea ſeruus Dei vtatur in talibus malleo dure increpationis, & igne diuinæ orationis, vt mali verbo veritatis conuincantur, & molliores fiant paulatim a duritia ſua, & priuata oratione, incaleſcant, & ſuccendantur ad Dei, & ſui cognitionem, ſicut fecit Stephanus. Ipſe enim loquebatur non placentia, ſed vera non mollia, ſed aſpera. Inſuper orauit Deum pro eis, & ideo profecit, & multi meliorati ſunt propter eum. Ergo quicunque timore Dei perforat opera manuum ſuarum, & munit oculos conſiderationis temperantia, lamina quoque calibis protegit cor ſuum, claudens interſtitia narium, & ſic præſentat mihi cor animalis ego Deus dabo ei theſaurum delectabiliſſimum, cuius delectatione viſus non fatigatur. Cuius dulcedine auris non langueſcit, cuius fruitione non ſatiatur guſtus, cuius tactu nunquam ſentitur dolor, ſed anima perfruetur gaudio, & abundantia ſempiterna. Piſcis autem ſignificat gentiles, quorum ſquame ſunt fortiſſime, quia peccatis, & malitijs indurati. Nam ſicut ſquame compacte muniunt, & obſtant, ne ingrediatur ventus. Sic gentiles in peccatis gloriantes, & vana ſpe viuentes, muniunt ſe defenſionibus contra amicos meos ſectas enim præferunt, multiplicant terrores, ſupplicia comminantur. Et ideo, qui præſentare mihi deſiderat ſanguinem piſcis, extendat ſuper eum rete, ideſt prædicationem ſuam, quæ non ſit de putridis fabis philoſophorum, & rethoricorum curioſe cioquentium, ſed de ſimplicitate verborum, & humilitate operum, quia ſimplex predicatio verbi Dei eſt ſonora, quaſi ex conſpectu Dei, & fortis ad trahendum eos peccatores. Et ideo non per eloquentes magiſtros, ſed per humiles, & idiotas eccleſia mea initium habuit, & profecit. Caueat etiam prædicator, ne ingrediatur aquam, niſi vſque ad genua, ſed nec alibi niſi vbi ſit arena ſolida figat pedem, ne forte ſi procelle aſcendant ſuper genua pedes moueantur. Quid autem eſt vita præſens, niſi quaſi aqua mobilis, & inſtabilis? Ad quam non eſt curuandum genu fortitudinis ſpiritualis, niſi ad ſolam neceſſitatem. Et ideo figatur pes affectionis hominis in arena ſolida, ideſt in ſoliditate diuinę charitatis, & conſideratione futurorum. Nam illi qui diſtendunt pedes affectionum ſuarum, & fortitudinem ſuam ad temporalia, non ſunt ſtabiles ad lucrandas animas, ſed à procellis ſollicitudinum temporalium demerguntur. Debet etiam iuſtus excecare oculum ſuum quem vertit ad piſcem, quia duplex eſt oculus humanus ſcilicet, & ſpiritualis. Humanus quidem oculus incutit timorem quando vi ſa potentia, & crudelitate Tyrannorum animus conſiderans infirmitatem ſuam, loqui expaueſcit. Hic enim timoris oculus excecari debet, & auelli ab animo per conſiderationem diuinæ bonitatis, conſiderando, & credendo firmiter, quod omnis homo qui ſpem ſuam ponit in Deo, & peccatorem lucrari quærit propter Deum, habebit ipſum Deum protectorem. Spirituali vero oculo intelligentiæ, reſpiciendus eſt peccator, vel aliquis conuerſus ad Deum, ſcilicet attendendo ſollicite qualiter poteſt, quomodo ſtet in tribulationibus, ne forte in conſuetã aſſumens ſuccumbat laboribus, aut ne pœniteat eũm auſteriora aſſumpſiſſe propter tribulationes. Conſideret etiam iuſtus quicunque ſit, quomodo homo infidelis conuerſus ad fidem ſubſiſtat corporaliter, ne vel mendicet, vel ſeruitute opprimatur, aut priuetur laudabilibus libertatibus ſuis, & ſollicite prouideatur, vt talis conuerſus inſtruatur continue ſancta fide catholica, & ſanctis virtutum exẽplis. Hoc enim placitum eſt mihi, vt pagani conuerſi videant mores ſanctos, & audiant verba charitatis. Nam multi Chriſtiani venientes ad paganos, incompoſiti moribus, & indiſciplinati, gloriantur, quod occidunt eorum corpora, & quod lucrantur eorum bona temporalia. Hoc enim mihi ſic placitum eſt, ſicut in, qui in deſerto immolabant vitulo conflatili. Et ideo, qui placere mihi deſiderat eundo ad paganos, eruat ſibi primo oculum cupiditatis, & timoris mundani habendo apertum oculum compaſſionis, & intellectus ad lucrandas eorum animas, nihil deſiderando, niſi vel mori pro Deo, vel viuere ad Deum. Inſuper iuſtus debet habere clypeum de ca

libe, hoc eſt patientiam veram, & perſeuerantiam, vt nec verbis moueatur à charitate Dei, nec etiam operibus, ſed nec attediatur propter diuerſos caſus, murmuret quoquo modo de iudicijs Dei. Nam ſicut clypeus protegit recipit ictus ferientium, ſic patientia vera defendit in tentationibus. Lenit etiam tribulationes, & reddit hominem expeditum ad omnia bona. Hoc vero clypeus patientiæ non ſit formatus de putridis rebus, ſed de fortiſſimo ere, quia vera patientia formari, & probari debet, ex conſideratione patientiæ meæ, quia ego fui quaſi calibs fortiſſimus, quando magis volui pati mortem quam amittere animas, & magis volui omnia opprobria audire, quam deſcendere de cruce. Ergo qui patientiam deſiderat imitetur constantiam meam, quia ſi ego innocens paſſus ſum, quid mirum ſi homo dignus iudicio patiatur? Itaque quicumque ſic munitus patientia, expandit rete ſuper piſcem, & tenuerit eum per decem horas ſuper aquas habebit ſanguinem piſcis. Quid autem ſunt iſte decem horæ, niſi decem conſilia, quæ homini conuerſo ſunt facienda? Primum eſt credere decem mandatis meis, quæ populo Iſraeli præcepi. Secundum eſt, quod ſuſcipiat, & honoret ſacramenta eccleſiæ meæ. Tertium eſt dolere de peccatis commiſſis, & habere perfectam voluntatem vltra non faciendi ea. Quartum eſt, quod tenetur obedire amicis meis, quancunque præceperint ei aliquid quod eſt contra voluntatem ſuam. Quintum eſt contemnere omnes conſuetudines ſuas prauas, quæ ſunt contra Deum, & bonos mores. Sextum eſt, quod habeat deſiderium attrahendi omnes ad Deum quos poterit. Septimum eſt, quod offendat veram humilitatem in operibus ſuis, fugiendo prauas exemplas. Octauum eſt, quod habeat patientiam in aduerſis non murmurando contra iuditia Dei. Nonum eſt, quod non audiat, vel habeat ſecum eos, qui aduerſantur fidei ſanctæ Chriſtianæ. Decimum eſt, quod roget Deum, & perſeueraliter conuerſi, & perſeuerare valeat in amore Dei. Quicunque ergo conuerſus a malo, hæc decem conſilia tenuerit, & ſeruauerit, morietur ab amore mundi, & viuificabitur ab amore Dei. Cum autem piſcis, dett peccator extractus ab aquis voluptatis, ſemper præponuerit hæc decem conſilia, aperietur os eius in dorſo, vbi abundantia eſt ſanguinis. Quid autem ſignificat dorſum, niſi operationem bonam cum voluntate bona? Hæc dicti debet ſecundum placitum Dei, quia multoties videtur actio bona hominibus, ſed intentio, & voluntas actoris non eſt bona. Ergo iuſtus, quia peccato conuertere appetit, inquirere debet qua intentione opus bouum aggreditur, & qua intentione perſeuerare diſponit. Et ſi inuenerit in opere ſpirituali affectum carnalem, vel ad parentes, vel ad lucranda temporalia, feſtinet eum ad corde abſcindere, quia ſicut ſanguis malus inducit morbum, impedit gratium, ſtringit cordis aditum, & obſtruit cibi appetitum. ſic mala voluntas, & intentio corrupta obruit amorem Dei, prouocat accidiam, claudit cordis aditum Deo, & omne ſpirituale bonum abominabile facit Deo. Sed ſanguis quem ego deſidero recens eſt, & vitam miniſtrat membris. Hæc eſt voluntas bona, & charitas ordinata ad Deum, quæ præparat aditum ad fidem, ſenſus ad intelligentiam, membra ad operationem, Deumque allicit ad iuuandum. Hæc voluntas præuenitur, & infunditur gratia mea, augetur orationibus, & bonitate mea perficitur operatione bona, & dulcedine mea. Ecce iſto modo præſentandus eſt mihi anguis piſcis. Qui autem ſic præſentat eum mihi, habebit mercedem optimam. Nam torrens totius dulcedinis fluet in os eius animam vero illuſtrabit fulgor perpetuus, & ſalus eius innouabitur ſine fine.

Declaratio.

Nota, quod in quarto libro reuelationum 4. ca. Chriſtus incipit loqui mirabilia de piſce, & animali, & hoc huc in cap. 122. exponit quid illa ſignant.

Additio.

Hæc ſequens reuelatio facta fuit in Malpha, vbi quieſcit Sanctus Matthæus. Benedictus ſit Sanctæ Matthæ Apoſtolo, quia fuiſti optimus commutator. Mutaſti enim terrenum, & nouiſti æternum. Spreuiſti ipſum, & obtinuiſti Deum, diuiſiſti vanã prudentiam, contempſiſti quietem carnis, & aſſumpſiſti laborem durum. Ideo nunc digne glorioſus es in conſpectu Dei. Reſpondit Sanctus Matthæus. Benedictus ſit Deus qui hanc tibi inſpirauit ſalutationem. Verum, quia ſic placet Deo, oſtendere tibi volo qualis eram ante conuerſionẽ meam, qualis in deſcriptione euangelij, qualis nunc ſum in remuneratione. Ego quippe habui publicum officium, quod ſine publico lucro exequi non potui. Attamen voluntas mea talis fuit eo tempore, quod neminẽ defraudare volui, ſed deſiderabam inuenire viam qua ſepararem me ab officio iſto, & toto corde adhererem Deo ſoli.

Præ-

Prędicante igitur amatore meo Iesu Christo, tunc inflammabatur ſicut ignis verbum vocationis ſuæ in corde meo, & ſic dulciter ſapuerunt verba ſua mihi, quod de diuitijs, & honoribus non plus cogitabam, quam de palleis: imo mihi magis flere placuit, & gaudere, quod Deus meus tantillum, & tantum peccatorem vocare voluit ad gratiam. Adhærés quoque Domino meo, verba eius ardentius cœpi infigere cordi meo, quæ nocte, & die quaſi cibum ſuauiſſimum guſtando cogitabam. Conſummata vero paſſione Domini mei, ſcripſi Euãgelium, iuxta quod vidi, & audiui, & interfui, non propter laudem meam, ſed ad gloriam redemptoris mei, & profectum animarum. Cumque illud ſcriberem, tantus diuinę inflammationis ardor perſeuerabat mecum, quod ſi tacere voluiſſem, nullatenus præ ardore intenſo potuiſſem. Nunc autem, quod ego ex charitate, & humilitate ſcripſi, multi conantur ſubuertere, & interpretantur ad inuidiam, gloriantes ſublimia, & cæleſtia ſcire ſi contraria inueniant, volentes magis de Euangelio diſputare, quam ſecundum voluntatẽ eius viuere. Ideo parui, & humiles intrabunt cælum, ſuperbi, & prudentes ſtabunt foris. Quid enim credit homo præſumptor & ſuperbus, quod Deus totius ſapientiæ non potuiſſet, ſic verba ſua temperaſſe, vt non ſcandalizarentur ex verbis eius homines? Sed iuſtum eſt, vt veniant ſcandala, & qui faſtidiunt cæleſtia infigantur terrenis. De retributione vero mea ſcias, quod vere eſt, ſicut ſcriptum eſt, quod cor capere non poteſt, nec lingua proferre.

1 EXponit Chriſtus Dominus in præſenti capite viſionem quandam B. Brigittæ, ſupra hoc eodem lib. 4. cap. 2. traditam, & ideo nihil ex tarris annotandum: diligenter tamen eius doctrina perpendenda eſt, ac etiam memoriæ mandanda, quoniam admodum vtilis eſt volentibus in ſpirituali vita proficere; traduntur enim hoc loco regalis multæ, quibus quiſpiam poſſet ad eum vitæ ſtatum breui temporis ſpatio peruenire, ſuaſque actiones ad illum viuendi normam reuocare, vt deinceps facilem ſibi ad cælum viam pararet, continet præterea moralitates plures, quæ ſane dignæ ſunt, vt a cunctis viris, aliiſque viris docilibus ſcitentur.

POST MVLTOS ANNOS poſtquam Sponſa habuit illam viſionem de ſeptem animalibus, quæ continentur ſupra eodem libro, 125. cap. Chriſtus apparens exponit aliqua quæ deficiebant exponenda in dicta viſione vt ſequitur.

CAP. CXXX.

1 ILIVS loquitur: 1 Dixi tibi prius de ſeptem animalibus, quod vnum erat quaſi elephas, quod adhuc ſtat ad arborem inclinatum, non attendens arboris putredinẽ, nec temporis breuitatem, & ideo ruet cum 2 arbore cum ſe ſtare putat. 2 Muri enim Eccleſiæ eius diſſoluentur calore, & aquis, ita vt non ſit qui ædificet, quia de iniquis ędificati ſunt, terra diripietur, inhabitantes optabunt mortem, & fugiet ab eis, & impij dominabuntur iuſtis, quę omnia ſic euene- 3 runt. 3 Scias etiam, quod aliud animal quod de lapide caſtitatis ſuperbiebat, iam aſſumpſit ſibi cornua agni. Et ideo docebo eum quomodo ſaltare debeat muros, & quomodo debeat ſtare in honore. Placet enim mihi iſtius animalis humilitas, & ideo dico ei, quod Eccleſia ſua iam ad ſummum gradum aſcenderat, & diu in ſuperbia ſtetit. Et ideo laboret ipſe, vt clerus continentius viuat, intemperantiam potus minuat, auaritiam deponat, humilitatem, & timorem aſſumat, alioquin tribulationibus humiliabitur, & ruina eius tam grauis, & magna erit, quod etiam in terris alijs audietur. 4 Poſt mortem autem dicti Epiſcopi, & creationem ſucceſſoris loquebatur Dominus ad me dicens. Scias quod iſte Epiſcopus ſucceſſor ſupra proximi dicti Epiſcopi, qui nunc aſcendit ad gradum Epiſcopalẽ, erat vnus de quinque ſeruis, quos rex non audiret, niſi clariores oculos obtinerent. Qui Epiſcopus iam aſcendit, ſed attendat ipſe bene, & videbit in iudicio meo quomodo ipſe aſcendit: Verumtamen prȩcaueo eum de caſu Ioab. Ipſe enim inuidit ſe melioribus, propriis innitebatur conſiliis, audacia ſua erat magna, & ideo præſumpſit ſupra vires, & electum ſuum prætulit illi quem elegerat Deus. 5 Sed vnum conſilium vile eſt iſti Epiſcopo, ſcilicet quod prudẽ- dationes solere indicant, D. Hier. super Ezechiel cap. 47. D. Augustin. in psal. 32. & aquæ Maris obsessionem molestiæ appellantur, hoc ipsum docuerunt Origenes super Matt. cap. 14. & super Exodum hom. 7. Tertullianus contra Iudæos. & D. Hilar. in Matt. cap. 17. D. Greg. 19. Moral. cap. quinto ad ea verba Iob. cap. 28. & aquas appendit in mensura, quia sancti inquit, qui sancto subleuante spiritu ad summa rapiuntur, quamdiu in hac vita sunt ne aliqua elatione superbiant tentationibus reprimuntur, quod Apostoli Pauli exemplo probans, ait, Paulum video fluminum, & latronum, ciuitatis, & solitudinis, maris, & terræ pericula sustinentem frenantem leiunijs, vigiliisq; corpus, sustinentem, frigoris, & nuditatis erumnam ad Ecclesiarum custodiam vigilanter se, ac pastoraliter exercentem, ad tertium cælum raptum, rursumque enim in paradisum raptum, & audiuisse arcana verba, quæ non licet homini loqui, & tamen satanæ Angelo ad tentandum conceditur.

REVELATIONVM

3 Scias etiam, quod aliud animal, quod de lapide castitatis superbiebat iam assumpsit sibi cornua agni.

In præsenti nota duo afferuntur, primum quidem mentio sit cuiusdam animalis, in specie tamen, quod nam illud sit minime scribitur, secundo vero legimus hoc animal assumpsisse cornua Agni, quæ vt manifesta fiant videndum est primo, quod nam sit illud animal, quod castitatis symbolum esse dicitur, atque hoc aliud non esse censeo, quam vnicornium, quod inde dictum esse putat D. Isidorus libr. 12. Etimolog. cap. 2. & Eutimius in psal. 77. eo quod vnum cornu in media fronte habeat, idque tantæ esse fortitudinis docent, vt nulla venantium virtute capiatur, sed sicuti asserunt, qui in animalium proprietatibus inuestigandis laborarunt, virgo puella proponitur, quæ venienti sinum aperit, in quo ille omni feritate deposita, caput deponit, sicque soporatus velut inermis capitur, idem habet D. Greg. lib. 30. moral. cap. 10. qui rem hanc ijsdem plane verbis narrat, quibus D. Isidorus, fauet huic opinioni venerabilis Beda, qui symbolum esse castitatis vnicornium dicit, exponens eũ versiculũ psal. 77. & ædificauit, sicut vnicornis sanctificium suum, ædificauit inquit templum suum, ita mundum sicuti est habitaculum vnicornium, vnicornis enim est animal castissimum, vnde etiam non capitur, nisi per veras virgines, quia ad eas venit & caput, in earum gremium ponit, & obdormit, & dicitur habere habitaculum mundissimum, sed quidquid sit, vt sensus verborum præsentis notæ palam fiat, sciendum est Christum Dominum hic indicasse B. Brigittæ sub similitudine vnicornis, quendam Episcopum ob castitatis donum in superbiam incidisse, de quo scribitur lib. 3. rev. cap. 14. quod humilis in verbis, ac vestibus apparebat, sed intus superbus erat, & in conspectu sui magnus, & de honore timidus, ac ambitiosus, & aliquanto post eodem capite dicit Beatissima Virgo, quod duabus papilionis alis volabat, per humilitatem, scilicet apparentem coram hominibus, vt singulis placeret, & esset in ore omnium per superbiam vero sibi ipsi, quasi se multis sanctiorem existimabat, & de eodem ibidem legitur, quod duo Papilionis cornua assumpserat, desiderium nimirum habendi vitam sine incommodis in hoc mundo, post vero mortem vitam æternam, hunc ergo Episcopum depositisse Papilionis cornua legimus hic, eaque Agni assumpsisse, vitio namque superbiæ relicto, se se humilitati dederat, & inde Spiritus sancti dona obtinere meruit, quæ per Agni cornua designantur, vt annotarunt Lyranus in Apoc. c. 5. & Haymon explicantes ea verba vidi Agnũ stantem tanquam occisum habentem cornua septem, imo, & per ipsum mei cornu totam Episcopi vitam designari auctor est D. Greg. super primum Reg. cap. 16. exponens illud tulit igitur Samuel cornu Olei, cornu inquit Olei tollitur, vt tota Pontificis vita spiritualis esse doceatur, cornu olei tollitur, vt in excellenti liquore Magister Ecclesiæ vir esse studeat magnæ misericordiæ, oleo ungitur caput Regis, quia iacere super candelabrum debet, per flammam verbi cornu oleum recipit, vt increpando purget, & miserando per blandimentum trahat, cornu etiam recipit in sublimitate ordinis, oleum ad fomenta virtutis. 1

Veruntamen præcaueo eum de casu Ioab ipse enim incidit se melioribus. 4

Hoc loco Christus Dominus verba facit de quodam Episcopo qui in Episcopatu successerat ei, de quo superiori nota imediate egimus, dicitque quod animaduertat, ne sibi illud accidat, quod Ioab contigit, quod, vt palam fiat, sciendũ est Ioab Imperante Salomone in templo fuisse occisum a Banaia, eo quod duos viros meliores se, ac sanctiores inuidia ductus, occiderit Abner scilicet filiũ Ner Principẽ militiæ Israel, & Amasam filium Iether Principem exercitus Iuda, sic enim habetur 3. Reg. tertio, & 2. Regum tertio, quo autem consilio, quaue causa duos hos exercitus Principes interfecerint tradit Teodoretus quæst. 12. super secundum lib. Reg. cap. tertio Ioab inquit prætextum quidem habebat cædem Aselis, causam autem inuidiam, sciebat enim fore, vt ille præesset exercitui, qui vniuersum Israelem adducebat ad Regem, imperandi ergo desiderium eum ad faciendam cædem armauit, idem habet Iosephus antiquitatum iudaicarum libr. 7. cap. 1. Ioab sit metuens, ne Dauid in honore primi ordinis constitueret Abner, ipse vero decresceret, & militia amitteret principatum, viam pessimam, & malignam cogitauit, vt ei detraheret apud Regem, sed cum his verbis, non potuisset persuadere Regi deteriorem ruinam agressus, eum occidit, ex hoc ergo casu Ioab, qui ob hoc homicidium violenta morte ipse quoque est inter remptus, admonetur Episcopus, de quo hoc loco fermo fit, quod nisi invidia depositio vitio, innocentes, ac iustos viros persequi desistat, etiam ipse quam citissime violenta morte casurus est, & hoc est quod scribitur hic, verumtamen præcanco eum de casu Ioab.

ITEM REVELATIO QVAE facta fuit in monte Gargano de excellentia Angelorum.

CAP. CXXXI.

1 VIDIT Domina Birgitta multitudinem Angelorum psallentium in monte Gargano, & dicentium: Benedictus sis tu Deus noster, qui es, & eris, & fuisti sine principio, & sine fine. Tu creasti nos spiritus in ministerium tuũ, & etiam ad consolationem hominum, & custodiam qui ita mittimur ad profectum hominum, quod nunquam priuamur dulcedine, & consolatione, & visione tua. Sed quia quasi incogniti videbamur hominibus, voluisti in isto loco ostendere benedictionem tuam, & nostram dignitatem a te nobis datam, vt homo addisceret diligere te, & etiam auxilium nostrum desiderare. Nunc autem longo tempore locus est in dignitate habitus, à multis contemptus est, & habitatores terræ plus appropinquãt spiritibus immundis quam nobis, quia suggestiones eorum ardentius sequuntur. Respondit Domina: O Domine creator meus, & redemptor meus, da eis auxilium desistere à peccatis, & desiderare te toto corde. Cui Deus: Assueti, inquit, sunt sordibus, & nisi verberibus non erudiuntur, & vtinã in disciplina se cognoscant, & resipiscant.

NOTAE.

1 VIDIT Domina Brigitta multitudinem Angelorum psallentium in monte Gargano.

INCIPIT TRACTATVS Reuelationum B. Brigittæ ad sacerdotes, & ad summos Pontifices.

CHRISTVS LOQVITVR de quinque bonis datis sacerdotibus, & de quinque contrarijs, quę faciunt mali sacerdotes.

CAP. CXXXII.

EGO sum quasi homo discessurus de mundo. Qui committit optuma quę habet amicis suis charissimis. Sic ego sacerdotibus quos præ omnibus Angelis, & hominibus elegi, commisi charissimum mihi, scilicet corpus meum, cum discederem de mundo, 2 & dedi eis quinque dona. 1 Primo, fi- 2 dem meam. 2 Secundo, duas claues ad 3 infernum, & cælum. 3 Tertio, vt de inimico facerent Angelum. 4 Quarto, vt 4 consecrarent corpus meum, quod nullus Angelorum potest facere. Quinto, vt manibus tractarent corpus meum mundissimum. Nunc autem faciunt mihi sicut Iudæi, qui negabant me suscitasse Lazarum, & alia mirabilia feciisse, sed diffamauerunt me voluisse regem fieri, prohibuisse tributum, & templum tribus diebus reædificaturum. Sic sacerdotes non loquuntur mirabilia mea, nec docent doctrinam meã, sed mundi amorem, suam voluptatem prædicant, & nihil 5 esse reputant, quod pro eis feci. 5 Secundo perdiderunt clauem qua miseris deberent aperire cęlum. Illam autem qua aperitur infernus diligunt, & reconditam habent in syndone munda. Tertio de iusto faciunt iniquum, de simplice diabolum, de sano sauciatum, quia omnis qui accedit ad eos cum tribus vulneribus, ab eis habebit quartum. Si cum quatuor venerit ad eos, recedit ab eis cum quinque, quando viso exemplo prauo sacerdotum, peccator fiduciam peccandi sumit, & incipit de peccato, quod prius reputabat erubescibile gloriari. Ideo ipsis erit amplior maledictio præalijs, quia se vita sua perdunt, & alios exẽplo suo lædunt. Quarto, quia me sanctificare deberẽt ore suo vendunt me. Ipsi sunt deteriores Iuda. Iudas enim peccatum suũ recognouit, & pœnituit, licet infructuose. Isti se iu- 6 stos dicunt, & ostẽdunt. 6 Iudas retulit peccatum ad emptores, isti autẽ obseruant suis vsibus.

vsibus, Iudas vendidit me antequam redemissem mundum. Isti postquam redemi mundum, & non compatiuntur super sanguine meo, qui plus clamat vindictam quã sanguis Abel. Iudas vendidit me pro solis denariis. Isti autem omni mercimonio, quia non accedunt ad me, nisi sperent sibi fructum. Quinto tractant me sicut iudex. Quid fecerunt ipsi? posuerunt me super lignum. Isti autem in prælo ponunt me, & præmunt fortiter. Sed potes quærere quomodo, cum deitas mea impassibilis est, nec in Deo aliquid contrarium, vel dolor cadere potest, tamen propter voluntatem morandi in peccato, quam sacerdotes habent, fit mihi amarum, & contrarium faciunt, ac si in prælo si possibile esset ponerer. Ipsi denique sacerdotes duo peccata habent, luxuriam scilicet, & cupiditatem, inter hæc me ponunt. Sed forte peracta pœnitentia de his, cum post peractum officium iterum habent firmam voluntatem peccandi, quasi in prælo fortiter præmunt me. Pascunt quippe maledictas mulieres, & meo loco ponunt, vt voluptatem suam perficiant, & me repellant. His blandiuntur, & delectantur in eis, me autem a quo sunt nolunt videre. Ecce amici mei quales sacerdotes sunt. Ecce Angeli mei, quibus seruitis? Si iacerem ante vos, sicut in altari iaceo ante eos, nullus vestrum auderet me contingere, sed terreremini. Ipsi autem quasi fures, & proditores produnt me. Ipsi quasi meretrices contingunt me. Ipsi quoque immundiores picc[illegible] non erubescunt appropinquare [illegible] mihi, qui Deus sum, & Dominus gloriæ. Propterea, sicut dictum est Israeli. Septem plagæ venient super vos. Vere ille septem plagæ venient super sacerdotes.

NOTAE.

1 DEdi eis quinque dona: primo fidem meam.

Hoc loco dona quinque sacerdotibus diuinitus collata enumerantur, quorum primum fidei esse scribitur, quod intelligendum arbitror, non quod ipsi tantummodo fideles sint, quoniam hoc quoque laicis concessum est, sed dicitur peculiariter illis data fides, quoniam spectat ad eorum præcipue, & præceteris profiteri, est namque proprium sacerdotum munus, ac functio, verbis, & operibus fidem propagare, & idcirco hoc eodem cap. paulo post conqueritur de his Saluator noster, cum dicit sic sacerdotes non loquuntur mirabilia mea, nec docent doctrinam meam, sed mundi amorem, suam voluptatem prædicant, & nihil esse reputant, quod pro eis feci.

2 Secundo duas claues ad infernum, & cœlum.

In præsenti nota duo nobis breuiter discutienda sunt, primum quidem, quid per claues intelligendum sit. secundo, an vere duæ sint, vel tantummodo vna, & quidem per claues hic nullatenus intelligi possint materiales claues, sed metaphorice, sic enim interpretantur illa verba sancti Patres, Matt. 16. & tibi dabo claues regni cœlorum. vbi per claues intelligunt potestatem ligandi, soluendique peccata, sic Chrisost. hom. 83. in Matt. Beda Ioan. 21. circa finem, Fulgentius de fide ad Petrum circa medium, Maximus hom. 5. de sanctis Petro, & Paulo, Augustin. tract. 50 in Ioan. & libr. 20. de ciuit. cap. 9. & lib. 1. contra aduersarium legis, & prophetarum cap. 17. Conc. Trid. Sess. 14. can. 3. hæc autem metaphora in eo posita est, vt per claues intelligamus facultatem aperiendum, & claudendum, sicut claues materialiter ea est, qua claudimus, vel aperimus ostium, cum autem hæc potestas missa sit, quæ in se habet hos duos actus, ligare, & soluere, ideo nomine plurium clauium significatur, & hoc loco Christus dicit dedisse duas claues, verum Theophilatus explicans locũ citatum Matt. per clauem soluendi, ait intelligi debere potestatem soluendi, per clauem vero ligandi potestatem ligandi. Claues inquit intelligas, quæ ligant, & soluunt, hoc est delictorum indulgentias, vel pœnas eadem sententiam sequitur Augustl. de fide ad Petrum cap. 3. & sane hæc Theophilati interpretatio quadrare huic reuelationi B. Brigittæ videtur, quandoquidem in præsenti capite legimus duas sacerdotibus fuisse traditas claues, vnam scilicet ad infernum, & ea est, per quam ligant, & peccatorum debitas pœnas luendas pœnitentibus imponunt, altera vero quæ est ad cœlum, per quam delictis absolutos cœli ianuas peccatoribus pandunt, cæterum Franciscus Suarez in commentar. super 3. p. S. Thom. disp. 16. sect. 4. assert. 1. n. 4. affirmat hanc potestatem soluendi, & ligandi non posse dici claue inferni, ſicut dicitur clauis regni cœlorum, licet enim inquit in metaphoricis locutionibus non ſit inconueniens, vt voces ſub diuerſis locutionibus eidem rei accõmodentur, ſicut iidem Chriſtus, Leo, et Agnus appellatur: tamen, quod per ſuam intenditur per hãc poteſtatem eſt aperitio regni cœlorum, quod tantum ſit directe per ſe, ac poſitiue per illam, claudere autem regnum ſit tantum priuatiue non aperiendo ad id cogente malitia peccatorum, quod, & ſi verißimum ſit, non tamen negandum eſt in Eccleſia etiam claudendi eſſe poteſtatem, quæ in præſenti nota deſignatur per illam primam clauem, qua appellatur hic metaphorice clauis inferni, quatenus cum vni cœlum clauditur, eidem infernus aperitur, ſed quidquid ſit de nomine: communis Theologorum præſertim recentiorum ſententia habet, vt per vnam clauem diſcernendi poteſtas inter lepram, & lepram intelligatur, quam clauem ſcientiæ appellant, per alteram vero poteſtas ligandi, atque ſoluendi, & hanc clauem poteſtatis vocant, hic autem loquendi modus à Rabano ſortaſſe deſumptus eſt, claues inquit Regni cœlorum ipſam D. Matis diſcretionem, & potentiam nominat, potentiam, qua ligat, & ſoluat, diſcretionem, qua dignos, vel indignos diſcernat, fauet huic opinioni D. Bernardus ſer. 69. in Cant. Lyranus in Matt. loco citato, & Gratianus diſt. 20. hos tamen crediderim doctores huiuſmodi loquendi formulas mutuatos fuiſſe à D. Hier. qui hunc Matthæi locũ ediſſerens, Epiſcopus inquit vel præsbyter pro ſuo officio, cum peccatorum audierit varietates, ſcit, qui ligandus ſit, quinam ſoluendus, quæue requirunt ad rectum poteſtatis vſum ligandi, & ſoluendi ſcientia, ſecundum autẽ hunc modum intelligendum eſt, quod dicitur de clauibus regni cœlorum, & illud quodcunque ligaueris idem etiam tradunt Origenes in Matt. hom. 5. & D. Ambroſ. ſer. 66. ſed an vna tantummodo clauis ſit an duæ diſtinctæ non conuenit inter doctores, quidam ex recentioribus aſſerunt illas ſe habere tanquam duas vnius olim clauis quarum vna, quidem oſtium aperire non poteſt, ſed ſolum viam parat, & hæc eſt clauis ſcientiæ, altera vero eſt, qua aperitur oſtium, & dicitur clauis poteſtatis, ſed Ludolphus de vita Chriſti par. 2. c. 1. vnam eſſe clauẽ exiſtimat in radice, duplicem vero in effectibus, ſicut enim inquit vna eademque potentia eſt in ſole, liquefaciendi, & indurandi, ſic vnica tantummodo clauis in radice reperitur, multiplex tamẽ in effectibus.

3 Vt de inimico facerent Angelum.

Inter dona ſacerdotibus collata illud præcipue hoc loco recenſetur, quod ſpectat ad eos de inimico Angelum facere, cum enim, vt ſuperiori nota probauimus, duplicem diuinitus obtinuerint clauẽ per quam de peccatis indicantes pœnitentes a peccatis abſoluerent, inde neceſſario ſit conſequens, vt de inimico Angelum faciant, quatenus per illam abſolutionem mediante gratia Dei iuſtificamur vel, vt de poſtea ex inimicis Dei, fiant amici, & ex impijs pij.

4 Vt conſecrarent corpus meum, quod nullus Angelorum poteſt facere.

Poteſtas conſecrandi corpus Chriſti, quare non fuerit Angelis collata, & an ſi de facto Angeli conſecrarent verè corpus Chriſti ſub ſpecibus panis præſens adeſſet, tradidimus ſupra libr. 1. Reuel. ca. 47. nota 4. & libr. 4. cap. 58. nota 1. vbi etiam quæſiuimus an hac in re ſacerdotes cenſendi ſint Angelis eminentiores.

5 Perdiderunt clauem, qua miſeris deberẽt aperire cœlum.

Verba præſentis notæ nullatenus indicant ſacerdotes ob propria peccata poteſtatem abſoluendi, aut conſecrandi Chriſti Domini corpus amitteré, habent enim characterẽ impreſſum in anima, ſignum videlicet indelebile, quod nullo pacto deleri, aut auferri poteſt, vt probat Conc. Trid. Seſſ. 14. ca. 6. his verbis, docet quoque etiam ſacerdotes, qui peccato mortali tenentur, per virtutem Spiritus ſancti in ordinatione collocatam, tanquam Chriſti miniſtros ſuas ſtiones remittendi peccata exercere, eosque prauæ ſentire, qui in malis ſacerdotibus hanc poteſtatem non eſſe contendunt, idem habet D. Auguſt. tra. 5. in Ioannem, explicans illa verba cap. 1. ſed ego neſciebam eum & contra epiſtolas Parmeniani lib. 2. cap. 20 & 21. & de fide ad Petrum cap. 3. circa medium D. Iſidorus lib. 6. Etimol. c. 19. Paſchaſius de corpore & ſanguine Chriſti ca. 12. D. Thom. 3. p. qu. 82. ar. 5. & in 4. d. 13. Innocentius Tertius lib. 3 myſteriorum Miſſæ ca. 5. ad fin. Magiſter in 4. d. 5. & 13. Ivo Carnotenſis epiſt. 224. & alij plures, dicendum ergo nobis eſt ſacerdotes claues amittere, non quidem quoad acceptam poteſtatem, quam diuinitus obtinuerunt quaſi de facto vtuntur vere conficiuni, debita intentione, ac materia intercedente, ſed perdere clauem hoc loco dicuntur quatenus adminiſtratio Sacramentorum malis ſacerdotibus de iure prohibetur, vt nos probauimus lib. 7. Reuel. cap. 7. nota 4. aut etiam eos clauem amittere ſcribitur hic, quoad fructum, qui manaret ex ea, ſi Sacramenta adminiſtrarent, cum enim mali ſint illa alijs adminiſtrare negligunt, ſicque, & ipſe, & Laici eorum fructum perdunt, vnde egregie aſſeruit D. Chriſt. ſiue quilibet alius auctor operis imperfecti hom. 44. iſte inquit claudit hoc regnum alteri, qui clauem portat, & non aperit, ſcilicet, qui habet ſcientiam, & docere contemnit, iſte vero ob ſtaculum ponit, qui per malum exemplum alios impedit, ne intrent, vel intrare velint, quod quidẽ frequenter accidit laicos videlicet prauo ſacerdotum exemplo adductos Sacramenta non ſolum accipere minime velle, ſed quod deterius eſt ab ipſis met malis ſacerdotibus peccãdi anſam ſumere, & poſtea vna cum ipſis ad æternas pœnas deduci, & ideo mirum non eſt ſi in præſenti capite ſcriptum ſit, quod illam clauem, qua inferius aperitur diligunt.

6 Iudas

6 Iudas retulit peccatum ad emptores.

Sic habent omnes impreſſi codices, ſed hunc textum corrigendum eſſe arbitror cum Farneſiano codice M.S. Iudas retulit pretium ad emptores, quæ lectio ſatis aperte probari poteſt ex illo, quod ſcripſit Matth. 27. cap. ſui Euangelij, tunc inquit videns Iudas quod tradidit eum, quod damnatus eſſet, pœnitentia ductus, retulit triginta argenteos Principibus ſacerdotum, & ſenioribus.

CHRISTVS COMPARAT ſe Moyſi educenti Iſrael per mare rubrum, vbi aquæ ſtabant a dextris, & ſiniſtris, quaſi murus, & quod Iſrael, ideſt mali ſacerdotes, negligunt Chriſtum, & diligunt vitulum aureũ ideſt mundum. Et quod Chriſtus honorauit ſacerdotes ſeptem ordinibus a quibus ſeptempliciter ſunt auerſi.

CAP. CXXXIII.

MATER loquebatur. Sic auidi fuerunt inimici filij mei in ſanguinem eius, vt & eo mortuo vulnerauerũt eum. Præpara ergo te quia filius meus cum exercitu magno venit loqui tibi. Inde veniens ipſe ait. Ego ſimilaui me prius Moyſi in figura, qui cum educeret populum, ſtabat aqua quaſi mu-
1 rus a dextris & a ſiniſtris. 1. Ego certe ſum ille Moyſes in figura qui eduxi populum Chriſtianũ, id eſt aperui eis cœlum & oſtendi eis viam quam incederent, liberans eos a Pharaone, id eſt diabolo qui eos oppreſ-
2 ſerat. 2. Ibant autem quaſi inter duos muros maris a dextris, & ſiniſtris quorum vnus non vlterius procederet, alter non retrocederet, ſed ſic ambo firmiter ſtarent. Hi duo muri erant duę leges. Primus erat vetus lex, quæ vlterius non procederet. Secundus erat noua lex, quę non retrocederet. Inter hos duos muros ſcilicet leges firmiter ſtantes, ego ibam ad crucem quaſi per mare rubrum quia ſanguine meo rubricatum eſt totum corpus meum: Rubricatum eſt lignum prius album, rubricata eſt lancea, & redemi populum meũ captiuatum, vt me diligeret. Nunc autem negligit me Iſrael, ideſt ſacerdotes, 3 diligunt alium Deum. 3 Diligunt enim ſicut prius dixi vitulum aureum per affectum mundi, qui eſt dulcis per voluptatem, & ardet in eis per affectionem. Stat fortis cum pedibus, & capite, & gutture gulæ. Habent me inſuper pro idolo, & claudunt ſuper me ne ingrediar. Offerunt mihi thus, ſed non placet mihi, quia non pro me, ſed pro ſe faciunt. Curuant mihi genu obedientiæ, & voluntatis ſuæ, ſed ad deſiderium ſuum, vt eius aliquid temporale impendam. Clamant, ſed aures meę non audiunt, quia non ex deuotione, nec intentione. Audite o exercitus meus, 4 & omnes Angeli. 4 Elegi ſacerdotes præ omnibus Angelis, & iuſtis, & dedi eis poteſtatem, vt corpus meum tractarent. Si enim voluiſſem potuiſſem bene elegiſſe Angelum aliquem ad tale officium, ſed tantum dilexi ſacerdotes, vt eis tantum honorem concederem, & conſtituí eos, vt ſtarent ante me quaſi in ſeptem ordinibus, deberent enim eſſe patientes quaſi oues, ſtabiles quaſi murus boni fundamenti. Animoſi quaſi milites. Sapientes quaſi ſerpentes. Pudici quaſi virgo. Mundi quaſi Angelus. Ardentes amore quaſi ſponſa ad cubile viri ſui. Nunc autem auerterunt ſe peſſime, ſunt enim feri quaſi lupi rapaces, qui infame, & cupiditate ſua nulli cedunt, nulli deferunt honorem, nihil erubeſcunt. Secundo inſtabiles quaſi lapis in muro infirmo, quia diffidunt de fundamento, ideſt, de Deo, quod non poſſit eis dare neceſſaria, vel non velit ſuſtentare eos. Tertio ſunt in tenebris quaſi fures, ambulantes in tenebris vitiorum, nec ſunt audaces quaſi milites ad pugnandum pro honore Dei, vel ad aggrediendum opus virile. Quarto ſtant quaſi aſinus, qui caput inclinat ad terram. Sic ipſi ſtolidi, & inſipientes, ſemper terrena meditantur, & præſentia, nunquam futura. Quinto impudici ſunt quaſi meretrices, procedunt ad me in habitu meretricio, omnia membra habent ad luxuriandum. Sexto ſunt quaſi pice deformiter maculati, omnes qui accedunt ad eos deturpantur. Septimo ſunt abominabiles quaſi vomitus; & leuius, & melius eſſet mihi accedere ad vomitum, quam ad delectationem habendam cum eis. Ita autem abominabiles ſunt, vt omnis exercitus cœli abominetur eos. Quid autem turpius eſſet, quam quod aliquis nudus os ſuum in inferiora membra mitteret, & comederet ſtercora ſua, & biberet vrinam ſuam? Sic ſunt iſti turpes in conſpectu meo. Cum autem induunt ſe veſtibus stibus sacerdotum, quæ sunt vestes animæ in figura, quia vestes ille designant talem debere animam esse. Induut se quasi veri proditores. Sicut enim ille qui fidem dederat inimico domini sui si pugnare debet cum domino suo contra eum, ebetat omnia arma sua ne noceant inimico. Sic isti cum induut vestes sacerdotum, quæ sunt vestes animæ in figura quibus contra diabolum muniri deberent omnia ebetata sunt, ne noceat diabolo, & ne timeat ea. Sed quæritur quomodo? Vtique cum induunt se armis continentię, ebetata sunt per luxuriam. Ideo non pungunt diabolum. Cum autem induunt se armis charitatis nihil nocent, quia ebetata sunt per malitiam. Arma itaque illa, idest vestes quibus induuntur, non sunt ad defensionem domini, sed ad visionem solam, sicut solent proditores aliud facere, & aliud ostendere. Sic itaque o amici mei, isti maledicti sacerdotes simulatoriæ accedunt ad me, quasi proditores. Attamen ego idem, qui sum Deus, & Dominus vester, & totius creaturæ in cœlo, & in terra, venio ad eos, & iaceo ante eos in altari, verus Deus, & verus homo postquam dixerint illa verba. Hoc est corpus meum. Venio ad eos vt sponsus, vt voluptatem deitatis cum eis habeã, 3 sed inuenio in eis diabolum. 3 Ideo cum applicant me ad os suum, recedo ab eis cum deitate, & humanitate mea, & diabolus qui in præsentia domini fugit per territus lætus reddit. Audite insuper amici mei, quale dignitatem contuli sacerdotibus præ omnibus Angelis, & hominibus. Ego dedi eis quinque. Primo, Paternitatem ligandi, & soluendi in cœlo, & in terra. Secundo dedi eis, vt de inimico pessimo facerent amicum de diabolo Angelum meum. Tertio dedi eis potestatem prædicandi verba mea. Quarto, potestatem consecrandi, & sanctificandi corpus meum, quod nullus Angelus facere potest. Quinto tractare corpus meum, quod nullus vestrum si iacerem ante vos auderet contingere. Nunc conqueror super eos quinque. Primo, quod infernum aperiunt, & claudunt cœlum ingredientibus. Secundo, de amico faciunt inimicum, & eũ qui accedit ad eos, cum vno vulnere, vulnerant duobus, quia videns vitam confisam sacerdotum cogitat secum. Si ipse facit magis ego faciam. Tertio verba mea adnihilant, & mendacium suum affirmant, veritatem meam negant. Quarto venundant me ore suo quem sanctificare deberent. Quinto, corpus meum amarius crucifigunt quam iudæi. Ecce amici mei quos elegi, & sic dilexi, quomodo mihi rependunt. Ego conjunxi eos mihi cum corpore meo, & ipsi dissoluunt vinculum nostrum. Ideo sicut proditores non sicut sacerdotes iudicabuntur, si se non emendauerint.

NOTAE.

1 EGo certe sum ille Moyses in figura, qui eduxi populum Christianum.

Merito Saluator noster hoc loco Moysi se similem facit, quoniam sicut Moyses iudaicum populum de Egipto eduxit, eumque de manibus Pharaonis liberauit, sic ipse populum suum de inferno educens, per vias rectas deduxit, & illi regnum Dei ostendit psalm. 106. hac etiam eadem ratione comparat Rabbanus Christum Moysi numerorum 7. multiplicem inquit Moyses significationem habet, figuram habet iudaici populi, dum caudam serpentis tenet, significat enim iudeos in fine mundi ad fidem Christi venturos, Christi etiam personam gerit, dum electos suos de spirituali Egipto per aquam Baptismi liberat, silicet dum populum de Egipto per Mare Rubrum educit, eum tabernaculum complet, eruit, & vngit hactenus Rabbanus, cui etiam quam plures alij ex partibus adstipulantur, dicunt etiam Moysem designare Christum, vt ad placandum Deum in confractione Ieiunij psal. 105. & Christus vere per passionem suam sic fecit in confractione, vt nulla pars corporis reliqua fuerit, quæ nõ flagellis verberibusq; confracta non sit, sicque Patrem suum nobis propitium reddit, & sicut Moyses tabernaculum sanctificauit Exod. 40. ita Christus Ecclesiam sanctam efficit, vt autem vitulum igne consumendum tradit Exodi 32. Christum notabat Idolatriam penitus destruentem, postremo sicut Moyses constituta fuerat in populo, eorum minister, quæ ad Deum spectabant, ac etiam iudices distribuebat Exodi 18. optime Saluatorem nostrum præmonstrabat diuina subministrãte, & Ecclesiæ ministros constituentem. hæc, & alia sexcenta, quæ ad hoc comprobandum possemus adducere clare ostendunt Moysem Christi gessisse figuram, quod etiam affirmarunt D. Augustinus libr. 22. contra Faustum cap. 90. Venerabilis Beda super Exodum cap. 2. D. Bernard. serm. 1. de Octaua Paschatis, Gregorius Nissenus de vita Moysis D. Greg. Pont. super primum Regum cap. 2. Basilius de Spiritu sancto cap. 14.

poteſt, hoc loco ſermo ſit de populo Iudaico, qui ex Pharaonis ſeruitute liberato, per mare Rubrũ tranſibat, eorũ duce Moyſe præcedente, qua de re latiſſime agitur Exodi 14. vbi tota hæc hiſtoria narratur his verbis, cum extendiſſet Moyſes manum ſuper mare, abſtulit illud Dominus flante vento vehementi, & tota nocte vrente, & vertit in ſiccum, diuiſaque eſt aqua, & ingreſſi ſunt filij Iſrael per medium maris ſicci, erat enim aqua quaſi murus ad dexteram eorum, & leuam. Ex his ergo poſtremis ſacri textus verbis ſatis aperte declaratur, quid ſibi velint hæc præſentis notæ verba; ibant autem quaſi inter duos muros, aqua enim, vt annotauit Lyranus ibidem ſtetit, atque in altum eſt erecta ad ſimilitudinem muri, ex vtraque parte, ita vt per medium maris ſicco pede Iudei tranſire potuerint, & ideirco legitur ibi: diuiſaque eſt aqua, & ingreſſi ſunt filij Israel per medium maris ſicci, quæ ſane diuiſio non ex flante vento proceſſit, ſed à Domino facta eſt; venti tamen fundum maris diſcooperiuum aquis diſiccauit, vt Iudei commodius, & mundius abirent; ea autem fuerint duodecim diuiſiones aquæ, iuxta numerum duodecim tribus: affirmauit Caſſiodorus in Pſalm. 135. ad ea verba: & diuiſit mare Rubrum in diuiſiones, in diuiſiones inquit duodecim pro numero tribuum, vt ſingulæ tribus vias ſuas eundi haberent, quam opinionem confutauit Lyranus, tanquam communi, & Catholicorum, & Hebræarum ſententiæ pugnantem, quæ habet vnicam tantummodo aquæ diuiſionem factam fuiſſe, & quod in citato Pſalmo accipitur plurale pro ſingulari.

3 Diligunt enim, ſicut prius dixi, vitulum aureum per affectum mundi.

Cum in ſacris Literis per aureum vitulum diuitiæ, ſuperbia, ac Luxuria deſignentur dubitari minime poteſt cum hoc loco Chriſtus Dominus ſacerdotes redarguit, quod vitulum diligant aureũ, inſinuare voluiſſe ſacerdotes illius tẽporis ſuperbos, auaros, ac luxuriæ vitio deditos fuiſſe, quod ſatis aperte ipſemet hoc eodẽ capite, aliquamo poſt declarat, cũ dicit: Nunc autẽ auerterunt ſe poſſime, fuit enim quaſi lupi rapaces, qui in fame, & cupiditate ſua nulli cedunt, ſunt inſtabiles quaſi lapis in muro infirmo, quia de fundamento diffidunt, ideſt de Deo, quod non poſſit eis dare neceſſaria, vel non velit eis dare neceſſaria, vel non velit eos ſuſtentare: tertio ſunt in tenebris quaſi fures ambulantes in tenebris vitiorum; ſunt etiam quaſi aſinus, qui caput inclinat ad terram, ſic ipſi ſtolidi, & inſipientes ſemper terrena meditantur, & præſentia, & nunquam futura, poſtremo impudici ſunt quaſi meretrices. Ex his ergo palam fit, quid ſit aureum diligere vitulum, diximus enim aliud non eſſe quam ſuperbiam, incontinentiam, ac temporales diuitias amare; & ideo Pſal. 49. Dauid affirmat, Dominum non accepiſſe vitulos de domo, vbi D. Hieron. per vitulos ſuperbos, & incontinentes intelligit, idem habet Origen. homil. 9. ſuper Exodum, & ſuper Numeros homil 27. & D. Greg. ſuper primum Reg. c. 14.

Docet hic Saluator noſter ſui corporis adminiſtrationem, & conſecrationem Angelis potuiſſe committere ſi voluiſſet, ex quibus manifeſte deducitur, vt nos probauimus lib. 1. Reuelat. c. 47. nota quarta, quod licet hæc conſecrandi facultas, de facto ſacerdotibus data tantummodo ſit, etiam de poſſibili Angelis concedi potuiſſe: Deus enim ſicut potentiam ſuam minime ſacramentis alligauit, ita nec Eccleſiæ miniſtris, vt non poſſit quibuſcumque eam committere, aut etiam ſine illis, prout ſibi magis placuerit rem totam perficere, quæ de re vide annotationes noſtras lib. 1. cap. 47. nota quarta, & lib. 4. c. 58. nota prima.

5 Ideo cum applicant me ad os ſuum, recedo ab eis cum deitate, & humanitate mea.

Eadem loquendi formula habetur ſupra lib. 1. Reuelat. cap. 47. nota quinta, vbi declarauimus per hæc verba non eſſe intelligendum, quod quotieſcumque malus ſacerdos ſacramentum ſumit, ibi deſinat eſſe Chriſtus, & quo ad deitatem, & humanitatem, ſed dicimus quod Chriſtus deſinit eſſe per gratiam, quatenus indigno effectum eius denegat, qui eſt ſpiritualis refectio, & alia quæ digne ſumentibus huiuſmodi ſacramentum diuinitus concedi ſolent; dicitur autem hic deſinere eſſe Chriſtus cum deitate, & humanitate, quia cum neutro eorũ ipſe ad ſacramentalem effectum indigne conferendum concurrit.

CHRI-

CHRISTVS DICIT QVOD honorauit ſacerdotes præ omnibus Angelis, & hominibus, ſed ipſi præ cęteris eum prouocant, quorum dam natio in anima vnius ſacerdotis ęter naliter damnata manifeſtatur.

CAP. CXXXIV.

MARIA ait. Recordare paſſionem filij mei, ipſe iam venit. Et ecce apparuit ſanctus Ioannes Baptiſta, & ait ad Beatam Virginem Mariam: In mille annis nunquam fuit tanta ira Dei ſuper mundum. Cumque veniſſet Filius, ait ad Sponſam: Vna hora eſt à principio mecum, & quot vobiſcum tempora ſunt, hoc non eſt mecum niſi quaſi vna hora. Dixi tibi prius de ſacerdotibus, quod inter omnes Angelos, & homines ipſos elegi, nunc ipſi mihi præ cæteris ſunt moleſtiores. Et ecce apparuerunt dæmones habentes vnam animam in manibus, dicentes ad inuicem: Ecce pugil. Reſpondit iudex: Quia corporales non audiunt ea quæ ſunt ſpiritus, nec oculus corporalis poteſt videre ſpiritualia, tamen propter iſtam quę aſtat, cuius oculos intelligentiæ aperio, dicite qua iuſtitia habetis illam animam. Reſponderunt, per nouem iura, vel tranſgreſſiones poſſidemus eam. Primo, tribus fuit infra nos, tribus alijs æqualis fuit nobis, tribus aliis fuit ſupra nos. Primum ius eſt, quod fuit extra bonus, & intus malus. Secundum, quia quandoque fuit plenus cupiditate ſua, & gula quandoque abſtinuit propter vtilitatem corporis, vel infirmitatem. Tertio, quandoque fuit ſeuerus in verbis, & operibus, ſed quandoque reſperſa erat ſeueritas, & malitia ſua, aliqua de cauſa ſibipſi vtili. Nos autem non habemus iſta, quia tales ſumus extra quales intus, ſemper ſeueri in malitia, ſemper cupidi ad malum. Tribus erat nobis par, quia tribus cecidimus, ſcilicet, ſuperbia, cupiditate, & inuidia. Hæc tria ipſe habuit. Tribus fuit ſupra nos, & maior in malitia quam nos, quia ſacerdos erat, & corpus tuum tractabat. Primo, quia os ſuum non cuſtodiuit cum quo proferret verba tua, ſed ſicut canis latrat, ſic ipſe protulit verba tua ſicut canis. Cumque proferret verba tua nos timuimus, quaſi ille qui audit aliquem terribilem ſonum, quo protinus territi receſſimus ab eo. Ipſe autem ſine verecundia, & timore ſubſtitit. Secundo non cuſtodiebat manus ſuas cum quibus tractabat mundiſſimum corpus tuum, ſed omni delectabili maculabat. Cumque tractaret manibus corpus tuum, quod dicto verbo hoc idem erat, quod in ventre Virginis fuit, & crucifixum eſt. Nos ſicut homo timore toto corpore percuſſus timuimus, quamuis non ex charitate aliqua, ſed ex timore potentiæ tuæ, & magnitudinis virtutis tuæ. Ipſe autem ſtabat imperterritus, & non curauit. Cumque applicuit te ad os ſuum, quod erat quaſi vas immundiſſimum omni ſpurcitia, nos fuimus quaſi homines diſſoluti viribus, & quaſi ille cui omnis virtus deficit, nec non, & quaſi mortui præ timore, cum tamę immortales ſumus, & ille non timuit, nec contremuit te contingere. Sed quia Dominum maieſtatis non decuit intrare in tam confuſum vas, receſſiſti cum deitate tua, & humanitate, & illo ſolo remanente, qui præ timore ad horam diſceſſimus, reuerebamur cum furore. In omnibus his præcellit nos in malitia, & ideo iuſte poſſidemus eũ. Ergo, quia iuſtus iudex es, fac nobis de eo iudicium. Reſpondit iudex: Audio quid exigitis, ſed tu miſera anima dic iſta audiente, qualem circa finem tuum cum adhuc cum ratione, & robore corporis fruereris, habuiſti voluntatem? Reſpondit illa. Voluntas mea fuit ſine fine peccare, nec vnquam deſiſtere, ſed quia ſciui me non ſemper victurum, ſtatui vſque ad extremum punctum peccare, & in tali intentione ſeparabar a corpore. Tunc ait iudex. Conſcientia tua eſt iudex tuus. Ergo in conſcientia tua dic quale iudicium mereris. Reſpondit anima: Iudicium meum eſt amariſſimum ſupplicium, & peſſimum, ſine fine duraturum abſque omni miſericordia. Tunc dæmones poſt auditum iudicium eius diſceſſerunt cum ea. Tunc Dominus dixit ad illam. Ecce Sponſa, quid ſacerdotes faciunt mihi. Ipſos præ omnibus Angelis, & hominibus elegi, & ſuper omnes honoraui. Ipſi autem præ omnibus iudæis, & gentilibus, & præ omnibus dęmonibus me magis prouocant.

CHRISTVS OSTENDIT qualem charitatem fecerat ſacerdotibus, ſed ipſi ingrati quaſi adultera perſona, Chriſtum contemnunt tres alios amatores, ſcilicet, mundum, carnem, & diabolum diligentes, & hoc oſtendit in anima vnius ſacerdotis nouiter defuncti æternaliter condemnari.

CAP. CXXXV.

EGO ſum quaſi ſponſus qui ſponſam ſuam cum omni charitate ducit in domũ ſuam. Sic ego coniunxi ſacerdotes mihi cũ corpore meo, vt ipſi eſſent in me, & ego in eis. Sed mihi reſpondent ſicut adultera ſponſo. Verba tua non placent mihi, diuitiæ tuæ vanæ ſunt, voluptas tua quaſi venenum. Ego habeo tres quos magis diligere volo, & ſequi, Cui vir manſuetus reſpondit. Sponſa mea audi me expecta magis. Quia verba tua debent eſſe mea. Voluntas mea, voluntas tua, diuitiæ meæ, diuitiæ tuæ, voluptas tua, voluptas mea. Quæ nullo modo vult audire, ſed diſcedit ad illos tres. Cumque diſceſſiſſet longe, vt non videretur ſponſus. Primus illorum, ideſt mundus ait, Hic eſt diuiſio viarum, & ego non poſſum amplius ſequi eam. Ideo ego volo habere omnes diuitias eius. Secundus dicit, ideſt corpus. Ego mortalis ſum, & cibus fiam vermium, ipſa autem immortalis, ideo relinquo eam hic. Tertius ait, ideſt diabolus. Ego ſum immortalis, & ſine fine manſurus, quia noluit eſſe cum viro ſuo, ſine fine ſequetur me. Sic faciunt mihi iſti maledicti ſacerdotes. Ipſi deberent eſſe membrum meum, & ita excellentes præ aliis ſicut digitus in manu, ſed ipſi deteriores ſunt diabolo. Et ideo præ omnibus diabolis profundius ſubmergentur in infernum, niſi ſe emendauerint. Ego voco eos quaſi ſponſus. Omne quod poſſum facio eis, ſed eo longius diſcedunt quo plus voco. Verba mea non placent eis, diuitiæ meæ oneroſæ ſunt, dulcia verba mea quaſi venenum abominantur. Curro poſt eos monendo quaſi pius pater, ſupportando quaſi mitis Dominus, donis attrahendo quaſi bonus ſponſus, ſed ipſi eo magis auertunt ſe quo plus voco. Tres amicos magis quam me diligunt, ideſt mundum, & corpus. Ideo tertius, ideſt diabolus recipiet eos, & nunquam dormitet. Ideo vę eis quod vnquam ſacerdotes, & membra mea facti ſunt. Ille ſacerdos qui nunc moriebatur habuit tria. Primo ſuperbiam, quia veſtiuit ſe ſicut Epiſcopus. Secundo laudatus de ſapientia. Tertio ad quodcumque voluit, & corpori placuit, flexit voluntatem ſuam. Abſtinuit pro ſalute corporis, & quicquid ei placuit fecit, non voluntatem meam. Sed quid nunc profuit ei? Ideo pro ſuperbia eſt ante me quaſi homo ad medietatem corruptus, & fœtidus, & plenus vlceribus, & corrupta carne. Pro laude eſt neglectus ante me, & negligetur ab hominibus. Pro voluntate propria corpus receperunt vermes, animam dæmones ſine fine cruciantes. Ecce miſeri quid diligunt, & quid faciunt. Vbi nunc amici eius, vbi bona, vbi honor & gloria. Pro his omnibus habebit nunc perpetuam confuſionem. Ipſi emunt paruum, ideſt temporalem honorem, & dimittunt magnum, ideſt, æternum gaudium. Vę talibus quod vnquam nati fuerunt. Ipſi enim profundius cadunt in infernum, quam aliquis alius.

REVELATIONES INFRAſcripas habuit in viſione ſpirituali Sancta Brigitta ſtando in oratione, quæ diriguntur ad ſummos Pontifices Innocent. viij. Vrbanum v. Gregorium xi. quę tractant de reducendo Sedem Apoſtolicam, & Romanam curiam ad Romam, & de reformatione Eccleſię ex præcepto Dei omnipotentis. Verba Chriſti ad Sponſam mentionem facientia de Papa Innocentio vi. qui fuit poſt Clementem.

CAP. CXXXVI.

ILIVS loquitur ad Sponſam dicens. Iſte Papa Innocentius eſt de ære meliori quã anteceſſor eius, & materia apta ad recipiẽdum colores optimos, ſed malitia hominum exigit, vt citius tollatur de medio. Cui voluntas lutas sua bona reputabitur in coronam, & gloriæ augmentationem. Veramtamen si verba mea librorum tibi data audiret, fieret melior, & qui differunt ad eum verba, sublimius coronarentur.

REVELATIO TANGENS Papam Vrbanum, quam habuit Sponsa Christi in Roma super confirmatione regulæ Saluatoris, & super indulgentiis sancti Petri ad vincula. A Christo concessis monasterio Beatæ Virginis in Vuatzsteno.

CAP. CXXXVII.

ILIVS Dei loquitur ad Sponsam. Qui habet glomerationem filorum in qua est aurum optimum non desinit filare donec inuenerit aurum. Quo inuento, vtitur eo possessor ad honorem, & commodum suum. Sic iste Papa Vrbanus aurum est ductile ad bona, sed sollicitudinibus mundi vallatus est: Ideo vade, & dic ei ex parte mea. Tempus tuum breue est, surge, & attende quo-
